Wake Forest University is characterized by its devotion to liberal learning and professional preparation for men and women, its strong sense of community and fellowship, and its encouragement of free inquiry and expression.

Founded in 1834 by the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, the school opened its doors on February 3 as Wake Forest Institute, with Samuel Wait as principal. It was located in Wake County, North Carolina, on the plantation of Calvin Jones, near which the village of Wake Forest later developed.

Rechartered in 1838 as Wake Forest College, it is one of the oldest institutions of higher learning in the state. It was exclusively a college of liberal arts for men until 1894, when the School of Law was established. The School of Medicine, founded in 1902, offered a two-year medical program until 1941. In that year, the school was moved from the town of Wake Forest to Winston-Salem, became associated with the North Carolina Baptist Hospital, and was renamed the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. In 1942, Wake Forest admitted women as regular undergraduate students. In 1997, the medical school was renamed the Wake Forest School of Medicine to reflect its integral association with the University.

A School of Business Administration was established in 1948. In 1969, the undergraduate school was succeeded by the Department of Business and Accountancy and the Department of Economics in Wake Forest College; at the same time the Babcock Graduate School of Management was established. In 1980, the undergraduate program in business and accountancy was reconstituted as the School of Business and Accountancy; in 1995, the name was changed to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

The Division of Graduate Studies, established in 1961, is now organized as the Graduate School and encompasses advanced work in the arts and sciences on both the Reynolda and Bowman Gray campuses in Winston-Salem.

In 1946, the trustees of Wake Forest College and the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina accepted a proposal by the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation to relocate the non-medical divisions of the College to Winston-Salem. The late Charles H. Babcock and his wife, the late Mary Reynolds Babcock, contributed a campus site, and building funds were received from many sources. Between 1952 and 1956, the first fourteen buildings were erected in Georgian style on the new Winston-Salem campus. In 1956, the College moved all operations, leaving the 122-year-old campus in the town of Wake Forest to the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary. The Divinity School was established in 1999.
In 1967, the College’s augmented character was recognized by the change in name to Wake Forest University. Today, enrollment in all schools of the University stands at over 6,000. Governance remains in the hands of the Board of Trustees, and development for each of the seven schools of the University is augmented by advisory boards of visitors. A joint board of University trustees and trustees of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital is responsible for the Medical Center, which includes the hospital and the medical school.

Wake Forest’s relationship with the Baptist State Convention is an important part of the school’s heritage. Wake Forest and the Convention have a fraternal, voluntary relationship under which Wake Forest is autonomous in governance.

Since moving to Winston-Salem, Wake Forest has been home to the Wake Forest Baptist Church, an independent congregation which attracts members from both the University and the community. The congregation meets in Wait Chapel and has office and educational space in Wingate Hall.

The College, Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, Babcock Graduate School of Management, School of Law, the Graduate School, and the Divinity School are located on the Reynolda Campus in northwest Winston-Salem. The Wake Forest School of Medicine is about four miles away, near the city’s downtown, on what is known as the Bowman Gray Campus. The University also offers instruction regularly at Casa Artom in Venice, at Worrell House in London, at Flow House in Vienna, and in other places around the world.

The College offers courses in more than forty fields of study leading to the baccalaureate degree. The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy offers courses of study leading to baccalaureate degrees in business, analytical finance, information systems, or mathematical business (in cooperation with the Department of Mathematics); and a combination baccalaureate and master of science degree in accountancy through the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences of the University. The Divinity School offers the master of divinity degree. The School of Law offers the juris doctor and master of laws in American law degrees, and the Babcock Graduate School of Management, the master of business administration degree. Both schools also offer a joint JD/MBA degree. In addition to the doctor of medicine degree, the Wake Forest School of Medicine offers, through the Graduate School, programs leading to the master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees in biomedical sciences. The School of Medicine and the Babcock School offer a joint MD/MBA program. The Graduate School confers the master of arts, master of arts in education, master of arts in liberal studies, and master of science degrees in the arts and sciences and the doctor of philosophy degree in biology, chemistry, and physics. The Graduate School also offers MD/PhD and PhD/MBA programs.

Buildings and Grounds

The Reynolda Campus of Wake Forest is situated on approximately 340 acres; its physical facilities consist of over thirty buildings, most of which are of modified Georgian architecture and constructed of Old Virginia brick trimmed in granite and limestone. The Reynolda Gardens annex, consisting of about 150 acres and including Reynolda Woods, Reynolda Village, and Reynolda Gardens, is adjacent to the campus. The Graylyn International
The University Conference Center, an educational conference center, is nearby.

Wait Chapel, named in memory of the first president of the College, seats 2,300. The Wait Chapel tower contains the Janet Jeffrey Carlisle Harris Carillon, an instrument of forty-eight bells. Wingate Hall, named in honor of President Washington Manly Wingate, houses the Department of Religion, the office of the University chaplain and the Wake Forest Baptist Church, offices of the Divinity School, and other classrooms and offices.

Reynolda Hall, across the upper plaza from Wait Chapel, houses most of the administrative offices for the Reynolda Campus. The Benson University Center is the central hub for student activities and events. The Z. Smith Reynolds Library and its Edwin Graves Wilson Wing house the main collection of books and documents on the Reynolda Campus. Along with eight floors of open stacks, with a capacity for over 1,000,000 volumes, it has reading and reference rooms for study. Carswell Hall houses the Departments of Communication, Economics, and Sociology, and a large multimedia lecture area, the Annenburg Forum.

Winston Hall houses biology; Salem Hall, the chemistry department. Both buildings have laboratories as well as classrooms and special research facilities. The Olin Physical Laboratory is the facility for the physics department. Harold W. Tribble Hall accommodates primarily humanities departments and the women's studies program, and has seminar rooms, a philosophy library, and a multimedia lecture area, DeTamble Auditorium. The Museum of Anthropology houses the anthropology department and the M. University of M. mathematics and Computer Science are in Calloway Hall. William B. Greene Jr. Hall houses psychology, German and Russian, and Romance languages.

The James R. Scales Fine Arts Center is of contemporary design appropriate to the functions of studio art, theatre, musical and dance performances, and instruction in art history, drama, and music. Off its lobby is a large gallery for special exhibitions. In the art wing are spacious studios for drawing, painting, sculpture, and printmaking, along with a smaller gallery and classrooms. In the theatre wing are design and production areas and two technically complete theatres, the larger of traditional proscenium design and the smaller for experimental ring productions. The music wing contains Brendle Recital Hall for concerts and lectures, classrooms, practice rooms for individuals and groups, and the offices of the music department.

The Worrell Professional Center for Law and Management houses the School of Law and the Babcock Graduate School of Management under one roof.

The William N. Reynolds Gymnasium has classrooms for instruction in health and exercise science, courts for indoor sports, a swimming pool, and offices for the Departments of Health and Exercise Science and Student Health Service. Adjacent are tennis courts, sports fields, the Kentner Stadium, the Athletic Center for intercollegiate athletics, and the Kenneth D. Miller Center.

The Information Systems Building houses the Information Systems and military science departments, and ICCEL, as well as a University Stores annex and a food service area.

The Wake Forest campus has a wide variety of housing options available to students.
Babcock Hall, Bostwick Hall, Collins Hall, Davis Hall, Efird Hall, Huffman Hall, Johnson Hall, Kitchin Hall, Luter Hall, North Hall, Palmer Hall, Piccolo Hall, Polo Hall, Poteat Hall, the Student Apartments and Taylor Hall are coeducational by floor, wing, or apartment. Substance-free living environments are available in some residence halls. First-year students live in Babcock, Bostwick, Collins, Johnson, Luter, Palmer, and Piccolo. Student housing is available in the townhouse apartments and several small houses owned by the University. Upperclass students may choose to live in a variety of theme houses including Fine Arts House, German House, and NIA House, or others that are currently being developed. On the edge of the main campus are apartments for faculty and staff.

Information Systems

Information Systems supports University instruction, research, and administrative needs. The campus computer network offers high-speed connectivity from all residence hall rooms, all offices, and many classrooms and public areas.

Upon enrollment, all undergraduate students receive an IBM ThinkPad computer and color printer. At the beginning of the junior year, students exchange the ThinkPad for a new model. Upon graduation, the ThinkPad and the printer become the property of the student.

These laptop computers contain a standard suite of powerful programs that allow students easy access to research and class materials and offer the ability to interact with faculty, staff, and other students through the campus network. The programs include Microsoft Office, electronic mail, and Internet and library browsing, research, analytical tools, and development tools.

A large variety of instructional, classroom, and research resources are accessible through the campus network. These include the library's CD-ROM network, OCLC FirstSearch, and other digital and data resources.

Information Systems also supports an extensive online information system that includes documentation, class schedules and grades, University-wide activity calendars, the Wake Forest University Libraries information system, and the electronic version of the Old Gold and Black. The Wake Forest Information Network (WIN) provides the University community with faculty, staff, and student databases and directories, an alumni directory, class registration services, an online ride board and used textbook exchange for students, and customizable links to news, weather, and research sites.

Students also have access to computing resources outside the University. The University is a member of the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR), located at the University of Michigan. Membership in ICPSR provides faculty and students with access to a large library of data files, including public opinion surveys, cross-cultural data, financial data, and complete census data. The University is also a member of EDUCAUSE, a national consortium of colleges and universities concerned with computing issues.

The University has an extensive collection of computing facilities that serve both academic and business needs. A Hewlett-Packard series 3000/979, a 3000/969, and 34 Windows NT servers provide for business computing needs. Three IBM SP/2s provide messaging, systems management, Intranet, and scientific and other research needs. These SP/2s contain 7, 9, and 12 computing nodes respectively.
The 12-node SP/2 complex performs supercomputing applications in the sciences. Fifty-nine Windows NT servers provide for file and print services and courseware. A Windows NT server and an IBM H50 provide library services. These systems are available to students, faculty, and staff twenty-four hours a day through network and dial-up connectivity.

Wake Forest has a gigabit Ethernet connection to the Winston-Salem RPOP (regional point of presence). The RPOP connects to NCREN, the Internet service provider for the majority of colleges and universities in North Carolina, through a 622 mbps connection. Through this connection, Wake Forest has access to CRAY and IBM SP2 supercomputers located at the MCNC/North Carolina Supercomputing Center in Research Triangle and to all the premier research networks in the world, including Internet II, Abilene, and the VBN S (Very high performance Backbone Network Service).

Wake Forest is also working closely with the North Carolina Research and Education Network on other advanced networking technologies.

Information Systems also provides telephone and cable television services to the students, faculty, and staff of Wake Forest University. All residence hall rooms are equipped with telephone jacks and cable TV connections. Local dial service for the campus and Winston-Salem area is provided as part of the housing package. Students who reside in campus housing receive personal security codes for dialing long distance calls, which are billed to them each month.

Cable television, while providing a recreational outlet, plays an important role by providing access to campus information and educational offerings. Cable channel 6 is the Wake Forest University information channel, providing information and a calendar of campus events. WAKE Radio, a student-run station, provides background music for this channel. Channels 17 and 22 carry SCOLA and SCOLA 2, nonprofit educational services that feature television programming from more than fifty different countries in their original languages.

Information Systems provides assistance by telephone and supports walk-in customers from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Monday through Thursday; 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Friday; and 1 p.m. until 9 p.m. on Sunday. A voice mail retrieval system is activated on weekends and during holiday breaks to respond to emergency calls. On-site computing support in the residence halls is available from Resident Technology Advisors (RTAs). In addition, students have 24-hour access to online support resources at http://sos.wfu.edu.

Libraries

The libraries of Wake Forest University support instruction and research at the undergraduate level and in the disciplines awarding graduate degrees. The libraries of the University hold membership in the Association of College and Research Libraries, and the Association of South-eastern Research Libraries, and rank among the top libraries in the Southeast in expenditures per student.

Facilities in the Z. Smith Reynolds Library include the Information Technology Center with multimedia viewing, editing, and scanning, and a lab for student use. Twenty-four hour study rooms are available to students with a key-card. Group study rooms are provided for student use.

All Wake Forest libraries share an online catalog which may be consulted at stations in the buildings, from the campus network, and on the internet. The Reference Department of the Z. Smith Reynolds Library provides a complete range of reference services including online searching, tours, first-year student orientation, presentations to individual classes, and assistance with directed and independent research. Wake Forest libraries offer access to a wide array of electronic databases, full text of journals, and other networked resources, as well as assistance in using and evaluating them. Reference tools are available in electronic and print formats. Interlibrary loan service is available for Wake Forest students, faculty, and staff. Books, photocopies, and other materials may be borrowed from other libraries at no charge.

The Wake Forest University libraries hold more than one and a half million volumes in print, 16,000 subscriptions to periodicals and serials, two million microforms, as well as a growing video collection. As a congressionally designated selective federal depository and depository of North Carolina government information, the Z. Smith Reynolds Library holds nearly 170,000 government documents.

Special collections in the Z. Smith Reynolds Library include the Rare Books Collection and the Ethel Taylor Crittenden Baptist Historical Collection. The Rare Books Collection, greatly enhanced by the donation of rare and fine books of the late Charles H. Babcock, emphasizes American and British authors of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Among such collections are those of Mark Twain, Gertrude Stein, William Butler Yeats and T.S. Eliot. There is also an extensive Anglo-Irish literature collection. The Baptist Historical Collection contains significant books, periodicals, manuscripts, and church records relating to North Carolina Baptists as well as a collection of the personal papers of prominent ministers, educators and government officials with ties to Wake Forest. The Wake Forest College/University Archive also is maintained in this area. The library houses a major collection on The Holocaust, as well.

The Professional Center Library in the Worrell Professional Center serves the Law School and the Babcock Graduate School of Management. This library is open to undergraduates with research needs for its collection.

Recognition and Accreditation

Wake Forest University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia; (404) 679-4501) to award bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees.

The Wake Forest University School of Medicine is a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges and is fully accredited by the Liaison Committee on Medical Education, the joint accrediting body of the Association of American Medical Colleges and the American Medical Association. The School of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is listed as an approved school by the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association and by the Board of Law Examiners and the Council of the North Carolina State Bar. The Babcock Graduate School of Management and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy are accredited by the AACSB—The International Association for Management Education.
The program in counseling leading to the master of arts in education degree is accredited by the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs.

Wake Forest University is a member of many institutional organizations and associations at the national, regional, and statewide levels, including the following: the American Council on Education, the Association of American Colleges, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the Southern Universities Conference, the Council of Southern Graduate Schools, the North Carolina Association of Colleges and Universities, and the North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities. In addition, many offices of the University are members of associations which focus on particular aspects of University administration.

Wake Forest has chapters of the principal national social fraternities and sororities, professional fraternities, and honor societies, including Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. There is an active chapter of the American Association of University Professors on campus.

The Undergraduate Schools

There are two undergraduate schools at Wake Forest University: Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. The undergraduate schools are governed by the Board of Trustees, the University administration, and by their respective faculties. Responsibility for academic administration is delegated by the president and trustees to the associate provost, who is the chief academic officer of the University. The deans of the schools report to the associate provost and are responsible for academic planning and administration for their schools.

Wake Forest University is committed to administer all educational and employment activities without discrimination because of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, veteran status, handicapped status or disability as required by law. The University has adopted a procedure for the purpose of resolving discrimination complaints. Inquiries or concerns should be directed to: Harold Holmes, dean of student services, at (336) 758-5226; Paul Escott, dean of the college, at (336) 758-5312; or Doris McLaughlin, the assistant director of human resources, director of equal employment opportunity, and Title IX coordinator, at (336) 758-4814.

The Higher Education Act requires that institutions of higher education make available by October 15 of each year a copy of the Equity in Athletics Disclosure Act annual report to any student who requests one. Please contact the athletic department to request a copy of this document.

In addition, Wake Forest rejects hatred and bigotry in any form and adheres to the principle that no person affiliated with Wake Forest should be judged or harassed on the basis of perceived or actual sexual orientation. In affirming its commitment to this principle, Wake Forest does not limit freedom of religious association or expression, does not presume to control the policies of persons or entities not affiliated with Wake Forest, and does not extend benefits beyond those provided under other policies of Wake Forest.
Wake Forest College is the undergraduate school of arts and sciences of Wake Forest University. It is the center of the University’s academic life; through it, the University carries on the tradition of preparing men and women for personal enrichment, enlightened citizenship, and professional life.

Wake Forest College is a place of meeting. Its teachers and students are of diverse backgrounds and interests, and that diversity is crucial to the distinctive character of the College. Wake Forest continually examines its educational purpose and evaluates its success in fulfilling it. A formal statement of purpose was prepared as part of the school’s decennial reaccreditation process and was adopted by the Board of Trustees.

Statement of Purpose

Wake Forest is a university dedicated to the pursuit of excellence in the liberal arts and in graduate and professional education. Its distinctiveness in its pursuit of its mission derives from its private, coeducational, and residential character; its size and location; and its Baptist affiliation. Each of these factors constitutes a significant aspect of the unique character of the institution.

The University is now comprised of seven constituent parts: two undergraduate institutions, Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy; the Graduate School; and four professional schools: the School of Law, the Wake Forest University School of Medicine, the Babcock Graduate School of Management, and the Divinity School. It seeks to honor the ideals of liberal learning, which entail commitment to transmission of cultural heritages; teaching the modes of learning in the basic disciplines of human knowledge; developing critical appreciation of moral, aesthetic, and religious values; advancing the frontiers of knowledge through in-depth study and research; and applying and using knowledge in the service of humanity.

Wake Forest has been dedicated to the liberal arts for over a century and a half; this means education in the fundamental fields of human knowledge and achievement, as distinguished from education that is technical or narrowly vocational. It seeks to encourage habits of mind that ask “why,” that evaluate evidence, that are open to new ideas, that attempt to understand and appreciate the perspectives of others, that accept complexity and grapple with it, that admit error, and that pursue truth. Wake Forest College has by far the largest student body in the University, and its function is central to the University’s larger life. The College and the Graduate School are most singularly focused on learning for its own sake; they therefore serve as exemplars of specific academic values in the life of the University.
Beginning as early as 1894, Wake Forest accepted an obligation to provide professional training in a number of fields, as a complement to its primary mission of liberal arts education. This responsibility is fulfilled in the conviction that the humane values embodied in the liberal arts are also centrally relevant to the professions. Professional education at Wake Forest is characterized by a commitment to ethical and other professional ideals that transcend technical skills. Like the Graduate School, the professional schools are dedicated to the advancement of learning in their fields. In addition, they are specifically committed to the application of knowledge to solving concrete problems of human beings. They are strengthened by values and goals which they share with the College and Graduate School, and the professional schools enhance the work of these schools and the University as a whole by serving as models of service to humanity.

Wake Forest was founded by private initiative, and ultimate decision-making authority lies in a privately appointed Board of Trustees rather than in a public body. “Funded to a large extent from private sources of support, [Wake Forest] is determined to chart its own course in the pursuit of its goals. As a coeducational institution it seeks to ‘educate together’ persons of both sexes and from a wide range of backgrounds—racial, ethnic, religious, geographical, socio-economic, and cultural... Its residential features are conducive to learning and to the pursuit of a wide range of co-curricular activities. It has made a conscious choice to remain small in overall size; it takes pride in being able to function as a community rather than a conglomerate. Its location in the Piedmont area of North Carolina engenders an ethos that is distinctively Southern, and more specifically North Carolinian... As it seeks further to broaden its constituency and to receive national recognition, it is also finding ways to maintain the ethos associated with its regional roots.”

Wake Forest is proud of its Baptist and Christian heritage. For more than a century and a half, it has provided the University an indispensable basis for its mission and purpose, enabling Wake Forest to educate thousands of ministers and laypeople for enlightened leadership in their churches and communities. Far from being exclusive and parochial, this religious tradition gives the University roots that ensure its lasting identity and branches that provide a supportive environment for a wide variety of faiths. The Baptist insistence on both the separation of church and state and local autonomy has helped to protect the University from interference and domination by outside interests, whether these be commercial, governmental, or ecclesiastical. The Baptist emphasis upon revealed truth enables a strong religious critique of human reason, even as the claims of revelation are put under the scrutiny of reason. The character of intellectual life at Wake Forest encourages open and frank dialogue and provides assurance that the University will be ecumenical and not provincial in scope, and that it must encompass perspectives other than the Christian. Wake Forest thus seeks to maintain and invigorate what is noblest in its religious heritage.

Honor System

Wake Forest University upholds the ideals of honor and integrity. The Honor System is central to University life; its essence is a commitment by each person to do what is right and abide by community standards.
Each student is pledged to be trustworthy in all matters, and a violation of that trust is an offense against the community as a whole. In the specific terms of the Honor Code, a student pledges in all phases of life not to cheat, plagiarize, engage in other forms of academic misconduct, deceive, or steal. The strength of the Honor System derives from the commitment of each and every student to uphold its ideals.

The Honor System is maintained and overseen by the Judicial Council of the undergraduate schools (see p. 304). Complete details are available at the Office of the Dean of Student Services.

Summary of Computing Rights and Responsibilities

The policy applies to all computer and computer communication facilities owned, leased, operated, or contracted by the University. This includes, but is not limited to, word processing equipment, microcomputers, minicomputers, mainframes, computer networks, computer peripherals, and software, whether used for administration, research, teaching, or other purposes. The policy extends to any use of University facilities to access computers elsewhere.

Basic Principles. The University's computing resources are for instructional and research use by the students, faculty, and staff of Wake Forest University. Ethical standards, which apply to other University activities (Honor and Ethics System, the Social Rules and Responsibilities, and all local, state, and federal laws), apply equally to use of campus computing facilities.

As in all aspects of University life, users of computing facilities should act honorably and in a manner consistent with ordinary ethical obligations. Cheating, stealing, making false or deceiving statements, plagiarism, vandalism, and harassment are just as wrong in the context of computing systems as they are in all other domains.

Use of campus facilities is restricted to authorized users. An “authorized user” is an individual who has been assigned a login ID and password by Information Systems staff (on any relevant system), or by an authorized agent. Individual users are responsible for the proper use of their accounts, including the protection of their login IDs and passwords. Users are also responsible for reporting any activities that they believe to be in violation of this policy, just as students are responsible for reporting Honor and Ethics System violations.

Individuals should use these facilities:
in a manner consistent with the terms under which they were granted access to them; in a way that respects the rights and privacy of other users; so as not to interfere with or violate the normal, appropriate use of these facilities; and in a responsible and efficient manner.

Abusive activities which are already covered under other University policies are to be handled in the same way, and by the same authorities, as if a computer had not been involved, following established guidelines.

Systems Monitoring. This statement serves as notice to all users of campus computing systems that regular monitoring of system activities may occur. Only designated staff of Information Systems have authorization to engage in systems monitoring.

Privacy. All individuals, including members of the Information Systems staff, should respect the privacy of other authorized users. Thus they should respect the rights of other users to security of files, confidentiality of data, and the ownership of their own work. Nonetheless, in order to enforce the policies set out here, designated Information Systems staff are permitted to monitor activity on local computing systems.

In the event that staff should investigate a user, a record of the investigation shall be placed in a permanent file to be kept in Information Systems, beyond the standard log of all systems monitoring. This record shall state why the user was investigated, what files were examined, and the results of the investigation. Information Systems staff shall not reveal the contents of users' files, users' activities, or the record of investigations except in the following cases (and then only with the approval of the chief information officer or the provost):

- Evidence of Honor and Ethics System or Social Rules and Regulations violations will be referred to the dean of the appropriate school, or to the dean of student services.
- Evidence of improper activities by University employees will be referred to the director of human resources or the appropriate University officers.
- Evidence of violations of law will be referred to the appropriate law enforcement officials.

Examples of prohibited activities are provided online.

Disciplinary actions. Substantial evidence of a violation of the principles described in this policy statement may result in disciplinary action. As stated above, in cases where a policy already exists, and the only difference is that a computer was used to perform the activity, such action will be taken through appropriate University channels such as administrative procedures, the Honor and Ethics Council, the Graduate Council, or other supervisory authority to which the individual is subject. Violation of state or federal statutes may result in civil or criminal proceedings. Otherwise, those who engage in computer violations are subject to the authority of Information Systems.

Violation of the policies articulated here may result in one or more of the following, plus any additional actions deemed appropriate by Information Systems:

- Suspension of one's ability to perform interactive logins on relevant machines on campus
- Suspension of one's ability to login to a campus network
- Suspension of one's ability to send e-mail
- Suspension of one's ability to receive e-mail
- Increased monitoring of further computer activity (beyond normal systems monitoring)

Any disciplinary action taken by Information Systems may be revoked and/or modified by the provost of the University or anyone the provost designates to deal with such matters.

Locating Computing Policy Information and Policy Updates. The above summary is based on the Policy on Ethical and Responsible Use of Computing Resources and other computing policies. These policies may be updated, shortened, or expanded from time to time. Full policies can be reviewed online at www.wfu.edu/Computer-information/.
Student Complaints

Situations may arise in which a student believes that he or she has not received fair treatment by a representative of the University or has a complaint about the performance, actions or inaction of the staff or faculty affecting a student. The procedure for bringing these issues to the appropriate person or body is outlined below. Students are encouraged to seek assistance from their advisers or another member of the faculty or staff in evaluating the nature of their complaints or deciding on an appropriate course of action.

A complaint should first be directed as soon as possible to the person or persons whose actions or inactions have given rise to the problem—not later than three months after the event. For complaints in the academic setting, the student should talk personally with the instructor. Should the student and instructor be unable to resolve the conflict, the student may then turn to the chair of the involved department (the dean in the Calloway School) for assistance. The chair (or dean) will meet with both parties, seek to understand their individual perspectives, and within a reasonable time, reach a conclusion and share it with both parties. Finally, a student may appeal to the Committee on Academic Affairs which will study the matter, work with the parties, and reach a final resolution.

Students having complaints outside the academic setting, and who have been unable to resolve the matter with the individual directly involved, should process the complaint in a timely manner through the administrative channels of the appropriate unit. Students uncertain about the proper channels are encouraged to seek advice from faculty advisers, deans' offices, or the office of the dean of student services. Complaints which rise to the level of a grievance (as determined by the earlier steps in the process) may be heard as a final appeal before a University official designated by the associate provost after reviewing the nature of the complaint. The committee will include a representative of the faculty and a member of the student body. The grievance must be filed in writing. Grievances not deemed frivolous by the committee will be heard. The student may be assisted during the hearing by a member of the University community.

The complaint/grievance process outlined above is meant to answer and resolve issues arising between individual students and the University and its various offices from practices and procedures affecting that relationship. In many cases, there are mechanisms already in place for the reporting and resolution of specialized complaints (harassment and discrimination for instance) and these should be fully utilized where appropriate. Violation of student conduct rules or the honor system should be addressed through the judicial process specifically designed for that purpose.

History and Development

Since 1834, Wake Forest College has developed its distinctive pattern of characteristics: tenacity, independence, a fierce defense of free inquiry and expression, and a concern that knowledge be used responsibly and compassionately. That these characteristics have served the school well is displayed by its growth from a small sectarian school to one of the nation's significant small private universities.

A brief history of Wake Forest is useful in understanding the University as it is today and appreciating the process through which it developed.

All students are responsible for familiarizing themselves with the portions of this bulletin which pertain to their course of study. Statements concerning courses and expenses are not to be regarded as irrevocable contracts between the student and the institution. The University reserves the right to change the schedule of classes and the cost of instruction at any time within the student’s term of residence.

Admission

Candidates for admission must furnish evidence of maturity and educational achievement. The Committee on Admissions carefully considers the applicant’s academic records, scores on tests, and evidence of character, motivation, goals, and general fitness for study in the College. The applicant’s secondary school program must establish a commitment to the kind of broad liberal education reflected in the academic requirements of the College.

Admission as a first-year student normally requires graduation from an accredited secondary school with a minimum of sixteen units of high school credit. These should include four units in English, three in mathematics, two in history and social studies, two in a single foreign language, and one in the natural sciences.

An applicant who presents at least twelve units of differently distributed college preparatory study can be considered. A limited number of applicants may be admitted without the high school diploma, with particular attention given to ability, maturity, and motivation.

North Carolina law and Wake Forest University require that all new, transfer, readmit, unclassified, or visiting students submit proof of immunization against tetanus and diphtheria (Td), polio, rubella, rubella, and mumps before registration. The Student Handbook has a detailed statement. A certificate from the student’s high school, physician, or county health department director containing the approved dates is acceptable proof of immunization. The Student Health Service will furnish a form for this purpose. North Carolina law requires that students who do not submit proper proof of immunization within thirty days of enrollment cannot attend Wake Forest University until these immunizations have been documented.

Application

An application is secured from the Office of Undergraduate Admissions in person or by mail (P.O. Box 7305 Reynolda Station, Winston-Salem, North Carolina 27109-7305) or online at http://www.wfu.edu/admissions/. It should be completed and returned to that office no later than January 15 for the fall semester. Most admissions decisions for the fall semester are made by April 1, with prompt notification of applicants. For the spring semester, applications should be completed and returned no later than November 15. Except in emergency, the final date for applying for the fall semester is August 1 and for the spring semester, January 1. Application on this last-date basis is primarily for nonresident students.

Wake Forest accepts the Common Application in lieu of its own form and gives equal consideration to both. Students may obtain copies of the Common Application from their high schools.

The admission application requires records and recommendations directly from secondary school officials. It also requires test scores, preferably from the senior year, on the SAT I: Reasoning Test of The College Board. SAT II: Subject Test scores are optional. All test scores should be sent directly to the University by Educational Testing Service. A nonrefundable $40 fee to cover the cost of processing must accompany an application. It cannot be applied to later charges for accepted students or refunded for others. The University reserves the right to reject any application without explanation.

A $300 admission deposit is required of all regularly admitted students and must be sent to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions no later than May 1 following notice of acceptance. It is credited toward first semester fees and is nonrefundable. Students notified of acceptance after May 1 for the fall semester or November 1 for the spring semester should make a nonrefundable admission deposit within two weeks of notification. Failure to make the admission deposit is taken as cancellation of application by the student. No deposit is required for summer session enrollment.

Early Decision

Two early decision deadlines and notification schedules are available to well-qualified high school students who decide, by the close of their junior year, that Wake Forest is either their only choice or first choice college.

Early Decision—Single Choice

Students who have selected Wake Forest as their first choice and have applied to no other college may submit an application at any time after completion of the junior year and no later than November 15. Decisions on these applicants are made on a rolling basis, three to four weeks after the application is completed. Students agree to enroll if accepted and submit a nonrefundable $500 deposit prior to January 1.

Early Decision—First Choice

Students who have selected Wake Forest as a first choice and only early decision choice but who may have submitted or have plans to submit regular decision applications to other institutions, may apply no later than November 15 and are notified by December 15. If accepted, students agree to enroll and to withdraw applications from other colleges. A $500 nonrefundable deposit is due by January 1.

Candidates for early decision are normally expected to have completed, or be enrolled in courses to complete, all secondary school requirements. Decisions are based upon junior year grades and test scores. Applicants not admitted are asked to submit additional SAT I scores and the first semester senior year grade report, or they are advised to apply elsewhere.
Admission of Students with Disabilities

Wake Forest College will consider the application of any qualified student, regardless of disability, on the basis of the selection criteria established by the University which include personal and academic merit. Upon matriculation, all students will be required to meet the same standards for graduation. Programs at Wake Forest are accessible to all of its students.

The University endeavors to provide facilities which are in compliance with all laws and regulations regarding access for individuals with disabilities. Additionally, special services are available to reasonably accommodate students with disabilities. For more information on assistance for undergraduate students, please contact Van D. Westervelt, director of the Learning Assistance Center, at (336) 758-5929 or the assistant director of human resources and director of equal employment opportunity, at (336) 758-4814.

Advanced Placement and CLEP

Advanced placement credit for college level work done in high school is available on the basis of the Advanced Placement Examination of The College Board and supplementary information. Especially well-qualified applicants for advanced standing may also be exempt from some basic and divisional courses with credit on the authorization of the department concerned. Credit by advanced standing is treated in the same manner as credit transferred from another college.

Under certain conditions, especially well-prepared applicants may be granted limited college credit through the subject tests of the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) of the Educational Testing Service. Such credit may be assigned with the approval of the department concerned or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Admission of Transfer Students

The number of transfer students who can be admitted each year depends upon the availability of space in the first-year (second semester), sophomore, and junior classes. An applicant for admission who has attended another college must be a graduate of a standard junior college or furnish a certificate of honorable dismissal stating eligibility in all respects to enter the college last attended, and must have an overall average of at least C on all college work attempted. A student who is admitted from another college before fully meeting the prescribed admissions requirements for entering first-year students must remove the entrance conditions during the first year at Wake Forest.

Courses satisfactorily completed in other accredited colleges are accepted subject to faculty approval. In general, no credit is allowed for courses not found in the Wake Forest curriculum. The minimum residence requirement for a baccalaureate degree is two academic years, the senior and one other.

Expenses

Statements concerning expenses are not to be regarded as forming an irrevocable contract between the student and the University. The costs of instruction and other services outlined herein are those in effect on the date of publication of this bulletin, and the University reserves the right to change without notice the cost of instruction and other services at any time.

Charges are due in full on August 1 for the fall semester and December 15 for the spring semester. Faculty regulations require that student accounts be settled in full before the student is entitled to receive a grade report, transcript, or diploma, or to register for the following semester or term.

Students should expect an increase yearly in tuition. However, admittance to the undergraduate College is not based on financial resources. The University meets the demonstrated financial needs of all qualified students.

Students enrolled in the College or in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy for full-time residence credit are entitled to full privileges regarding libraries, laboratories, athletic contests, concerts, publications, the Student Union, the University Theatre, and the health service. Part-time students are entitled to the use of the libraries and laboratories but not to the other privileges mentioned above.

Most first-year students will pay either $1,930 or $2,130 per semester depending upon room assignment location. Other room rentals range from $1,930 to $2,660 per semester.

Food Services

A cafeteria and table service dining room are located in Reynolda Hall; there are food courts in the Benson University Center and the Information Systems Building. A debit card system is used in which the student is charged only for the items selected at the time of purchase. A suggested range from $1,025 to $5,000 per year is offered depending on the student’s needs. The card may be used at any University food services facility or convenience store, and it allows a great deal of flexibility for eating on campus.

First-year students living in residence halls are required to participate in both the fall and spring semesters in one of the plans.

Other Charges

An admission application fee of $40 is required with each application for admission to cover the cost of processing and is nonrefundable.

An admission deposit of $500 is required for students applying to Wake Forest University as a first or single choice. An admission deposit of $300 is required for all regularly admitted students. All admissions deposits must be submitted to the director of admissions and are nonrefundable. The applicable deposit is credited to the student's charges for the semester for which he or she has been accepted for admission.

Individual instruction music fees are required in addition to tuition for students enrolling for individual study in applied music in the Department of Music and are payable in the Office of Financial and Accounting Services. The fee is $230 for Music 161 courses and $460 for all other individual instruction courses, with a maximum fee of $460 per semester.
Students must have medical insurance. A group plan is available through the University for those not covered by a family plan. The annual rate for 2001-2002 was $655.

Library fees are charged for lost or damaged books and are payable in the library.

A tuition deposit of $500 is required, at a date set by the Office of Financial and Accounting Services, of students enrolled in the spring semester who expect to return for the fall semester. It is credited to the student’s University charges and is nonrefundable.

Returned check fee of $25 is charged for each returned check by the Office of Financial and Accounting Services.

Room change fee of $25 is charged for any unauthorized change.

Improper check-in/out residence hall fee of $50 is charged for any student who does not follow appropriate administrative procedures.

Residence hall lock core change fee of $70 per lock is charged to any student who loses their room/suite/apartment key(s).

A fee of $500 is required for students studying abroad on a non-Wake Forest program.

Motor vehicle registration is $200 and traffic fines are $20 to $250. All students operating a vehicle on campus (including student apartments, theme, and satellite houses) must register vehicles they are operating day or night, whether or not owned by the operator. All vehicle registrations must be completed within twenty-four hours from the first time the vehicle is brought to campus or the next business day. Proof of ownership must be presented to verify a license plate when applying for vehicle registration. For a vehicle to be properly registered, both the rear bumper decal and front windshield decal must be displayed.

Fines are assessed against students violating parking regulations; copies of the violations are obtainable from the Office of Parking Management. Please inform any visitors of parking rules and regulations. Students, faculty, and staff are responsible for their visitors. Students will be held financially responsible for citations issued to vehicles driven by family members or by friends who use a Wake Forest student’s vehicle. Visitor vehicles must be reported to 758-5592 and/or registered at the Office of Parking Management (758-6123).

Refunds of Charges and Return of Financial Aid Funds

A student who withdraws during (begins, but does not complete) a term may be entitled to a refund of certain charges as outlined in the Refund of Charges Policy. A withdrawal also affects financial aid eligibility, as outlined in the Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy and the federal Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy. Withdrawal procedures are coordinated by the deans of the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Refund of Charges Policy

A withdrawing student receives a tuition refund according to the following schedule. This schedule applies to a student who drops courses, as well as to a student who withdraws.

Tuition, fees, room rent, and related charges will not be refunded for findings of responsibility within the undergraduate student judicial review process. Return of Title IV funds will be handled in accordance with federal law.
A withdrawal must be official and students must return the University identification card before claiming a refund. There is no refund of room rent or the parking registration fee if the decal has been placed on the vehicle. Unused meal plan funds are refunded. Fees for individual instruction in the Department of Music are refunded on the following basis: If a student drops the course before the fifth lesson, the fee will be one-fourteenth the full semester’s instruction fee times the number of lessons the student has completed; there is no refund after the fifth lesson.

The Office of Financial and Accounting Services calculates the refund of charges, and it has available an example of the application of the University Refund of Charges Policy.

If charges originally paid by Title IV funds are no longer covered after the federal funds are returned, the student is responsible for the remaining balance.

Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (H EA) of 1965 (Section 484B), and subsequent regulations issued by the United States Department of Education (34 CFR 668.22), establish a policy for the return of Title IV, HEA Program grant and loan funds for a recipient who withdraws.

Wake Forest does not have a leave of absence policy that would exempt any student from the requirements of the Return of Title IV Funds Policy.

Title IV Funds include the following aid programs: Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG), Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Work-Study (FWS), Federal Stafford Loan (subsidized and unsubsidized), Federal PLUS Loan, and Leveraging Educational Assistance Partnership Grant (LEAP).

The percentage of the term completed is determined by dividing the total number of calendar days comprising the term (excluding breaks of five or more consecutive days) into the number of calendar days completed. The percentage of Title IV grant and loan funds earned is: (1) up through the 60 percent point in time, the percentage of the term completed, (2) after the 60 percent point in time, 100 percent.

The amount of Title IV grant and loan funds unearned is the complement of the percentage of earned Title IV funds applied to the total amount of Title IV funds disbursed (including funds that were not disbursed but could have been disbursed, i.e., post-withdrawal disbursements).

If the amount earned is less than the amount disbursed, the difference is returned to the Title IV programs. If the amount earned is greater than the amount disbursed, the difference is treated as a late disbursement in accordance with the federal rules for late disbursements.

Unearned funds, up to the amount of total institutional charges multiplied by the unearned percentage of funds, are returned by the University; the student returns any portion of unearned funds not returned by the University.

A student (or parent for PLUS loans) repays the calculated amount attributable to a Title IV loan program according to the loan’s terms. If repayment of grant... funds by the student is required, only 50 percent of the unearned amount must be repaid. A student repays a Title IV grant program subject to repayment arrangements satisfactory to the University or the Secretary of Education’s overpayment collection procedures.

Funds returned are credited in the following order: Unsubsidized FFEL (Stafford) Loans, Subsidized FFEL (Stafford) Loans, Federal Perkins Loans, Federal PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity (SEOG) Grants, and other Title IV funds for which a return of funds is required.

The Office of Student Financial Aid calculates the amount of unearned Title IV grant and loan funds, and it has available examples of the application of this federal policy and a copy of the relevant Code of Federal Regulations section (CFR 668.22).

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

A student who drops to less-than-full-time enrollment within the timeframe to receive a tuition refund loses eligibility for all institution aid for the entire term.

The Office of Student Financial Aid calculates the amount of Non-Title IV program funds to be returned to the various programs when a recipient withdraws. The return of Non-Title IV Program funds may be rounded to the nearest dollar for each aid source.

Return of funds to various state and private aid programs is determined by specific program rules. If rules allow, state and private loan funds are returned before gift funds. State and private funds may be retained in amounts necessary to satisfy the student’s remaining University charges or adjusted need, whichever is larger.

Awards from institutional funds for which all disbursement requirements have not been met by the student prior to withdrawal are canceled, and no disbursements are made.

Upon withdrawal, an adjusted estimated cost of attendance (COA) is established in two parts.

For an on-campus student, the first part equals the adjusted tuition and room rental charges and the standard allowance for books and supplies; the second part equals pro-rated estimates (by weeks) of meal, transportation, and personal living expenses.

For an off-campus student, the first part equals the adjusted tuition charge and the standard allowance for books and supplies; the second part equals pro-rated estimates (by weeks) of room, meal, transportation, and personal living expenses.

If the adjusted COA is greater than the full semester expected family contribution (EFC), the student retains institutional aid (in the same mix of initially-awarded gift and loan), up to the amount required to meet the adjusted need and not exceeding the initial amount(s). The EFC represents a best estimate of a family’s capacity (relative to other families) to absorb, over time, the costs of education. For a withdrawing student, the full EFC is expected to support educational expenses incurred, prior to any support from aid programs. For purposes of this calculation, a student who receives only merit-based institutional gift is considered to have an EFC equal to the full semester COA minus the amount of that gift. The order in which each institutional fund is reduced is determined on a case-by-case basis by the aid office, with the guiding principle being the return of funds to University accounts most likely to be needed by other students.

A student who withdraws after receiving a cash disbursement must repay Wake Forest scholarship funds up to the amount of Title IV funds that the University must return. Fines and other incidental charges not included in the financial aid COA are solely the responsibility of the student.

Housing

All unmarried first-year students are required to live in the residence halls, except (1) when permission is given by the director of residence life and housing for the student to live with parents or a relative in the Winston-Salem area; (2) by special arrangement when space is not available on campus; (3) the student is admitted as a day student; or (4) if the student has lost residence hall space because of a Residence Halls Agreement violation or disciplinary action. Fifth-year students are ineligible for campus housing except when permitted to do so by the Office of Residence Life and Housing. Married students are not permitted to live within the residence halls. Residence halls are supervised by the director of residence life and housing, associate and assistant directors of residence life and housing, residence life coordinators, and graduate student hall directors.

The charges for residence hall rooms for 2002-2003 will range from approximately $1,930 to $2,660 per semester depending on the location and amenities available.

Off-campus Housing Policy

The University has developed guidelines and policies for those undergraduate students who desire or are required to live off-campus. Such policies affect apartment or other multi-family residences as well as single-family residences. All students who desire to live off-campus will be required to apply for off-campus housing status.

Guideline information is sent to all undergraduate students each year regarding this policy. Conditions may be placed on students who choose to live in single family areas, or students may be denied the ability to live within such a location. Students who desire to reside off-campus must complete an application and obtain approval from the Office of Residence Life and Housing prior to signing off-campus leases.

Resident undergraduate students are guaranteed campus housing for eight semesters. To protect yourself and to give yourself the most options until you have an opportunity to review this policy fully, do not sign any off-campus leases. Please contact the Office of Residence Life and Housing for a copy of the full Off-campus Housing Policy and Guidelines.

Academic Calendar

The academic calendar of the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy includes a fall semester beginning in late August and ending in December, a spring semester beginning in January and ending in May, and two five-week summer sessions. Semesters usually last fifteen weeks.

Orientation and Advising

A five-day orientation period for new students in the College precedes registration for the fall semester. An academic adviser and an upperclass student provide guidance during and between registration periods throughout the student's first and second years. Advisers meet with students both individually and in small groups. A face-to-face meeting with the adviser is required before all registration periods. Students are encouraged to take the initiative in arranging additional meetings at any time they feel a need for advice or other assistance. The adviser suggests and approves courses of instruction until the student declares a major in a field of study toward the end of the second year. Then, a new adviser is assigned.

Registration

Registration for continuing students in the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy occurs in April for the fall and summer terms, and in November for the spring term. New students register at the beginning of the term in which they first enroll. Consultation with the academic adviser must be completed before registration. Confirmation of enrollment is required before classes begin each term. All tuition and fees must be paid in full to the Office of Financial and Accounting Services before confirmation.

Classification

Classification of students by class standing and as full-time or part-time is calculated in terms of hours. Most courses in the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy have a value of three hours, but may vary from one-half hour to nine. The normal load for a full-time student is fourteen hours per semester, with a maximum of fifteen permitted during registration. A student wishing to register for more than fifteen hours per semester must seek the permission of the academic adviser and the appropriate dean once drop-add begins. Students wishing to take eighteen or more hours must petition the Committee on Academic Affairs after consulting the academic adviser and the appropriate dean. Non-business or non-accounting majors wishing to take courses in the Calloway School must have met the specific courses’ prerequisites and have permission of the instructor. Enrollment in the course is subject to space availability. Nine hours per semester constitute minimum full-time registration at the University. (Recipients of North Carolina Legislative Tuition Grants must be enrolled by the tenth day of classes in spring and by October 1 in the fall for at least twelve hours. Recipients of veterans’ benefits, grants from state government, and other governmental aid must meet the guidelines of the appropriate agencies.) A student who feels that he or she has valid and compelling reasons to register for more than fifteen hours per semester must seek permission of the adviser and the appropriate dean no earlier than the first day of class. Only if both the adviser and the dean agree that the proposed course load is needed and in the best interest of the student will permission be granted.

The requirements for classification after the first year are as follows:

- Sophomore—completion of no fewer than 23 hours toward a degree;
- Junior—completion of no fewer than 51 hours toward a degree;
- Senior—completion of no fewer than 81 hours toward a degree.

Part-time Students

A student may not register for fewer than nine hours without specific permission from the appropriate dean to register as a part-time student. A full-time student in the fall semester of any given year may not be a part-time student in the spring semester immediately following without approval, given before the beginning of the semester, by one of the academic deans. The approval carries with it the permission to pay for such work on a per-hour basis. Any student who petitions for part-time status within the semester in which he or she wishes to gain such status will be required to pay full tuition. Part-time students are ineligible for campus housing except when permitted to do so by the Office of Residence Life and Housing.

Class Attendance

Attendance regulations place the responsibility for class attendance on the student, who is expected to attend classes regularly and punctually. A vital aspect of the residential college experience is attendance in the classroom; its value cannot be measured by testing procedures alone. Students are considered sufficiently mature to appreciate the necessity of regular attendance, to accept this personal responsibility, to demonstrate the self-discipline essential for such performance, and to recognize and accept the consequences of failure to attend. Students who cause their work or that of the class to suffer because of absence or lateness may be referred by the instructor to the dean of the College or to the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy for suitable action. Any student who does not attend classes regularly or who demonstrates other evidence of academic irresponsibility is subject to such disciplinary action as the Committee on Academic Affairs may prescribe, including immediate suspension from the College or from the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Students who miss class while acting as duly authorized representatives of the University at events and times approved by the appropriate dean are considered excused. Students will inform their instructors in advance of these excused absences. The disposition of missed assignments will be arranged between instructor and student. Students anticipating numerous excused absences should consult the instructor before enrolling in classes in which attendance and class participation count heavily toward the grade. For policies pertaining to absences resulting from illness, please see the statement on the Student Health Service and class excuses in the Student Handbook.

Auditing Courses

When space is available after the registration of regularly enrolled students, others may request permission of the instructor to enter the course as auditors. No additional charge is made to full-time students in the College or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy; for others the fee is $40 per hour. Permission of the instructor is required. An auditor is subject to attendance regulations and to other conditions imposed by the instructor. Although an auditor receives no credit, a notation of audit is made on the final grade report and entered on the record of students who have met the instructor’s requirements. An audit may not be changed to a credit course or a credit course changed to an audit after the first official day of classes for each semester or term.

Dropping a Course

The last day in each term for dropping a class without a grade of F is listed in the calendar in the front of this bulletin. A student who wishes to drop any course on or before this date must follow the procedure prescribed by the registrar. After this date, a student who wishes to drop a course must consult his or her academic adviser, the course instructor, and the dean of the College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, as appropriate. If the dean approves the request, he or she authorizes the student to discontinue the course. Except in cases of emergency, the grade in the course will be recorded as F.

If, at any time, a student drops any course without prior written approval of the appropriate dean, the student will be subject to such penalties as the Committee on Academic Affairs of the faculty may impose.

Students enrolling in classes beginning after the opening of the term and lasting for shorter durations, such as four, five or seven and a half weeks, may add those classes any time prior to the beginning of the class as space permits, and up to five days after the class begins, with permission of the instructor. Students needing to drop such classes may do so for up to five days after the class begins without dean’s permission.

Withdrawal

A student who finds it necessary to withdraw from the College or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy must do so through the office of the appropriate dean. With the approval of the dean of the College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, no grades are recorded for the student for that semester, but the student’s standing in courses at the time of the withdrawal may be taken into consideration when readmission is sought. If withdrawal is for academic reasons, failing grades may be assigned in all courses in which the student is doing unsatisfactory work. A student who leaves the College or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy without officially withdrawing is assigned failing grades in all current courses, and the unofficial withdrawal is recorded.

Withdrawal from the College or the Calloway School cannot be finalized until ThinkPads, printers, connecting cables, WFU ID cards, residence hall keys (if applicable) and post office box keys, along with any other pertinent University property items, have been turned in to the appropriate offices.

Tuition, fees, room rent, and related charges will not be refunded for findings of responsibility within the undergraduate student judicial review process. Return of Title IV funds will be handled in accordance with federal law.

Examinations

Final examinations are given at regularly scheduled times. All examinations are conducted in accordance with the Honor and Ethics System adopted by the student body and approved by the faculty.

Grading

For most courses carrying undergraduate credit, there are twelve final grades: A (exceptionally high achievement), A-, B+, B (superior), B-, C+, C (satisfactory), C-, D+, D, D- (passing but unsatisfactory), F (failure), and I (incomplete). Grade of I. The grade of I may be assigned only when a student fails to complete the work of a course because of illness or some other emergency. If the work recorded as I is not completed within thirty days after the student enters for his or her next semester, the grade automatically becomes the grade of F. The instructor must report the final grade to the registrar within forty-five days after the beginning of that semester.

NR. “NR” (Not Reported) is an administrative designation that indicates that a faculty member has not reported a grade. Unless a grade is recorded within forty-five days after the student enters his or her next Grade Points. Grades are assigned grade points per hour for the computation of academic averages, class standing, and eligibility for continuation, as follows:

- For each grade of A: 4.00 points
- For each grade of A-: 3.67 points
- For each grade of B+: 3.33 points
- For each grade of B: 3.00 points
- For each grade of B-: 2.67 points
- For each grade of C+: 2.33 points
- For each grade of C: 2.00 points
- For each grade of C-: 1.67 points
- For each grade of D+: 1.33 points
- For each grade of D: 1.00 points
- For each grade of D-: 0.67 points
- For each grade of F: No points

Pass/Fail. To encourage students to venture into fields outside their major areas of competence and concentration, the College makes available the option, under certain conditions, of registering in courses on a pass/fail basis rather than for a letter grade. Courses taken under the pass/fail option yield full credit when satisfactorily completed but, whether passed or not, they are not computed in the grade point average. In no case may a student change from grade to pass/fail mode, or from pass/fail to grade mode, after the last day to add a course, listed in the calendar at the front of this bulletin.

A student may count toward the degree no more than eighteen hours taken on a pass/fail basis. First- and second-year students are not eligible to elect the pass/fail mode, but may enroll for courses offered only on a pass/fail basis. Third- and fourth-year students may elect as many as twelve hours on a pass/fail basis, but no more than four hours in a given semester. Courses used to fulfill core, major, or minor requirements may not be taken on a pass/fail basis unless they are offered only on that basis. Courses in the major(s) not used for satisfying major requirements may be taken on a pass/fail basis if the department of the major does not specify otherwise.

Grade Reports and Transcripts

An electronic midterm report and a final report of grades are issued to students by the registrar in the fall and spring semesters. A final report of grades is issued for each summer term.

Transcripts of the permanent educational record will be issued to students upon written request unless there are unpaid financial obligations to the University, or other unresolved issues. Copies of a student’s cumulative record are issued by the registrar.

Under the law, the University has the right to inform parents of dependent students and certain other qualified individuals of the contents of educational records.

Dean’s List

The Dean’s List is issued after the end of the fall and spring semesters. It includes all full-time degree-seeking students in the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy who have a grade point average of 3.0 or better for the semester and who have earned no grade below C during the semester.

Graduation Distinctions

Graduation distinctions are determined by the grade-point system and are based entirely on grades earned in Wake Forest courses. A degree candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.8 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction summa cum laude. A candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.6 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction magna cum laude. A candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.4 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction cum laude. Details are available in the Office of the Registrar.

Repetition of Courses

A student may repeat at Wake Forest a Wake Forest course for which he or she has received a grade of C- or lower. In this case, all grades received will be shown on the transcript, but the course may be counted only one time for credit. If a student fails a course previously passed, the hours originally earned will not be lost. For purposes of determining the cumulative grade point average, a course will be considered as attempted only once, and the grade points assigned will reflect the highest grade received. These provisions do not apply to any course for which the student has received the grade of F in consequence of an honor violation.

Probation

Any student who is placed on probation because of honor code or conduct code violations may be placed on such special academic probation as the Committee on Academic Affairs imposes. The Committee on Academic Affairs may at any time suspend or place on probation any student who has given evidence of academic irresponsibility, such as failing to attend class regularly or to complete papers, examinations, or other work on time.

If poor academic performance is attributable to circumstances over which the student clearly had no control (e.g., serious injury or illness), the student may, after consultation with one of the academic deans, petition the Committee on Academic Affairs for further consideration of his or her status.

In deciding whether to permit exceptions to the foregoing eligibility requirements, the Committee on Academic Affairs will take into account such factors as convictions for violations of the College honor code or social conduct code, violations of the law, and any other behavior demonstrating disrespect for the rights of others.

Any student convicted of violating the honor code is ineligible to represent the University in any way until the period of suspension or probation is completed and the student is returned to good standing. Students who are on probation for any reason may not be initiated into any fraternity or sorority until the end of their probationary period.

Requirements for Continuation

A student’s academic eligibility to continue is determined by the number of hours passed and the grade point average. The number of hours passed is the sum of the hours transferred from other institutions and the hours earned in the undergraduate schools of the University. The grade point average is computed only on work attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University and excludes both non-credit and pass/fail courses.

Students are expected to make reasonable and systematic progress toward the accomplishment of their degree programs.
To be eligible to continue in the College, students must maintain for hours passed:         a minimum cum. GPA of:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Hours Passed</th>
<th>GPA</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fewer Than 28</td>
<td>1.45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>At Least 28, Fewer Than 56</td>
<td>1.60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>At Least 56, Fewer Than 84</td>
<td>1.75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>84 And Above</td>
<td>1.90</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Students are responsible for knowing their academic standing at all times. Any student whose GPA falls below the required minimum shall have a grace period of one semester to raise the average to the required level. Students also have the option of attending summer school at Wake Forest in an effort to raise the average.

The Committee on Academic Affairs will suspend students who earn six or fewer grade points in any given semester in courses other than Education 353; military science courses; Music 111-121 (ensemble courses); Dance 128; and elective 100-level courses in health and exercise science. In cases where failure was due to circumstances beyond the students’ control, they may appeal to the Committee for an exception.

Any student who is in academic difficulty is urged to seek advice and counsel from his or her academic adviser, from the Office of the Dean of the College, from the Learning Assistance Center, and from the University Counseling Center.

A student who has or develops a health problem which, in the judgment of the director of the Student Health Service, creates a danger to the safety and well-being of the student or others, may be required to withdraw until the problem is resolved.

Requirements for Readmission

The Committee on Academic Affairs oversees the readmission of former students. In making a decision on whether to readmit, the Committee considers both the academic and non-academic records of the student.

To be readmitted a student must have attended Wake Forest University previously. Students who have been graduated with an undergraduate degree from the College or the Calloway School of Business and Accountancy may apply for readmission as post-graduate, unclassified students.

Students who have been ineligible to continue for academic reasons must present to the Committee a list of steps they plan to take to raise their academic standing to acceptable standards.

Students who were withdrawn from the University for medical or psychological reasons must submit documentation from their physician or therapist to either the director of the Student Health Service or the director of the University Counseling Center attesting to the students’ readiness to resume a full academic program. The physician or therapist should also provide professional guidance to these directors as to the nature of the students’ ongoing care once readmitted.

Students whose withdrawals from the University were as the result of an honor or judicial conviction must satisfy fully any sanctions placed upon them prior to being considered for readmission. In addition to University-imposed sanctions, other, non-academic grounds for denial of readmission may include violations of the law of the land and behaviors that have demonstrated disregard for the rights of others.

Should a student, upon leaving the University, have failed to comply with the proper withdrawal procedures, “holds” may be placed upon his/her record which will prevent readmission consideration until such matters are resolved.

Any readmitted student who hopes to receive transfer consideration for work done elsewhere must provide the University with a properly-documented statement attesting to his/her good standing at the institution from which the transfer credit would come. Additionally, an official copy of the student's transcript must be made available to the Office of the Registrar at Wake Forest University.

Summer Study

In addition to regular courses, a number of special summer programs for credit are described in the bulletin of the summer session.

In order to be eligible to take summer courses at another college or university, the student must have a cumulative grade point average of no less than 2.0 and must obtain advance approval through the registrar's office, and in some cases, the Office of the Dean of Wake Forest College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. All transfer work taken after enrollment at Wake Forest must be taken in an approved four-year institution.

Courses taken outside the U.S. require, in addition, prior approval from the Center for International Studies. Students must obtain a course approval form from the Center for International Studies.

Transfer Credit

All work attempted in other colleges and universities must be reported to the registrar of Wake Forest University. Students wishing to receive transfer credit for work to be undertaken elsewhere must have a cumulative grade point average of no less than 2.0 and must obtain departmental approval in advance. For enrolled Wake Forest students, transfer work can be accepted only from approved four-year institutions. For transfer hours to be accepted, the grade in any course must be C or better. Courses completed at other colleges or universities with the grade of C- or lower will not be awarded transfer hours in Wake Forest. No more than thirty-three hours can be counted for non-Wake Forest study abroad and other special programs. A maximum of thirty-three Wake Forest hours can be earned from the Gymnasium, Lyceum, French Baccalaureate, or equivalent programs.

For students transferring courses on a quarter-hour system, semester hours may be assigned on the basis that one quarter hour times 0.67 equals one semester hour. No course may receive a higher conversion value than the value of the Wake Forest course.

Approval of Overseas Programs

In order to receive academic credit for courses taken outside the U.S. on a non-Wake Forest University program, students must: 1) obtain approval of the program from the Center for International Studies before applying, 2) obtain pre-approval of specific courses from the academic department chairs using the Course Approval Form, 3) fulfill all required steps of the study abroad process during the semester prior to studying abroad, and 4) attend a mandatory pre-departure orientation. No student possessing less than a 2.0 cumulative grade point average in either of the undergraduate schools will receive credit in a non-Wake Forest study abroad program. The Course Approval Form for Study Outside the United States is available in the Center for International Studies.
Scholarships and Loans

Any student regularly admitted to Wake Forest College who demonstrates financial need will receive assistance commensurate with that need.

By regulation of the Board of Trustees, all financial aid must be approved by the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid. The financial aid program comprises institutional, state, and federal scholarship, loan, and work funds. Aid applicants must be enrolled as undergraduates or accepted for admission. Full-time students are eligible to apply for institutional funds; other degree-seeking students are eligible to apply for federal funds. For financial aid purposes, full-time enrollment is defined as twelve or more hours each semester. A number of scholarships are based upon merit; need is a factor in the awarding of most financial aid. The annual calculation of need, and therefore the amount of an award, may vary from year to year. Additional scholarship assistance not listed herein is offered to student athletes through the Department of Athletics and is governed by NCAA rules. The committee may revoke financial aid for unsatisfactory academic performance, for violation of University regulations including its honor code, or for violations of federal, state, or local laws. Applications should be requested from the Office of Merit-Based Scholarships (P.O. Box 7305) or the Office of Student Financial Aid (P.O. Box 7246), Winston-Salem, NC 27109, as appropriate.

Policy on Satisfactory Academic Progress for Financial Aid Eligibility

Evaluation of students' satisfactory academic progress for purposes of financial aid eligibility is made annually at the end of the second summer session by the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid, to determine eligibility for the following academic year.

Institutional Financial Aid

The receipt of institutionally-controlled financial aid requires full-time enrollment during the fall and spring semesters and a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.00 on work attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University. Institutional aid generally is not awarded for summer sessions. Institutional aid is not awarded beyond the eighth (fall or spring) semester; this limit is prorated for transfer students. Certain institutional aid programs have higher academic and/or other requirements, which are communicated to recipients.

Federal Financial Aid

The Higher Education Act mandates that institutions of higher education establish minimum standards of satisfactory
To maintain academic eligibility for federal financial aid, a student must:

Complete the requirements for a bachelor's degree within the maximum number of hours attempted (including transfer hours, but excluding advanced placement hours) of 168. This limit is the same for all students pursuing a bachelor's degree, including those students enrolled in joint bachelor's/master's degree programs. The maximum number of hours attempted includes those hours attempted as of the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar), during a semester in which a student later drops courses or withdraws.

Pass at least two-thirds of those cumulative hours attempted (including pass/fail courses) in the undergraduate schools of the University, including hours attempted during the summer sessions. Incompletes count as hours attempted, unless from a non-credit course. Audited classes do not count as hours attempted. The cumulative number of hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University includes those hours attempted as of the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar), during a semester in which a student later drops courses or withdraws.

Maintain the following minimum cumulative Wake Forest University grade point average on all graded hours attempted (including incompletes from graded courses, but excluding pass/fail courses) in the undergraduate schools of the University:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Hours attempted</th>
<th>Minimum GPA</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fewer than 28</td>
<td>1.45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>At least 28, Fewer than 56</td>
<td>1.60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>At least 56, Fewer than 84</td>
<td>1.75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>84 and Above</td>
<td>1.90</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The cumulative number of hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University includes those hours attempted as of the last day to drop a course, during a semester in which a student later drops courses or withdraws.

Thus, for example, a regular full-time student taking the normal fourteen hours of graded coursework each semester must achieve a minimum cumulative Wake Forest grade point average of 1.45 before the sophomore year, 1.60 before the junior year, and 1.75 before the senior year. Repeated courses will count for GPA according to University policy; when successfully completed they will count as their appropriate hours earned.

The policy of satisfactory academic progress applies only to the general eligibility for financial aid consideration. There are other federally-mandated requirements a student must meet to receive federal financial aid. For instance, certain federal loan programs also require either the passage of a period of time or the advancing of a grade level between annual maximum borrowing, regardless of general eligibility for aid. Other general student eligibility requirements for a student to receive federal financial aid are listed in The Student Guide, a publication of the U.S. Department of Education.

Denial of aid under this policy may be appealed to the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid and mailed to P.O. Box 7246, Winston-Salem, NC 27109-7246, or delivered to the Office of Student Financial Aid.
Aid, Reynolda Hall Room 4. The committee may grant a probationary reinstatement of one semester (in exceptional cases this period may be for one full academic year) to any student, upon demonstration of extenuating circumstances documented in writing to the satisfaction of the committee.

Examples of extenuating circumstances and appropriate documentation include, but are not necessarily limited to the following: illness of the student or immediate family members—statement from physician that illness interfered with opportunity for satisfactory progress; death in family—statement from student or minister; temporary or permanent disability—statement from physician.

During a probationary period, students are considered to be making satisfactory academic progress under this policy and may continue to receive aid. A determination of satisfactory academic progress for any period of enrollment after the probationary period is made, upon the student’s written request, at the end of the probationary period. Reinstatement after probation can be made only after the student has received credit for the appropriate percentage of work attempted with the required GPA. Any student determined ineligible for any academic year may request a special review at the end of one semester or summer term and may thereby be reinstated for all or part of the academic year. The student must request any such mid-year review in writing; otherwise only one determination of satisfactory academic progress will be made each academic year. Reinstatement cannot be made retroactive.

Scholarships

The University’s merit-based scholarship programs for entering first-year students are listed first, and require separate application where noted. Other scholarship programs follow, and generally do not require separate application unless noted otherwise. Students wishing to apply for any scholarship listing need as a consideration should complete the PROFILE application of the College Scholarship Service.

The Nancy Susan Reynolds Scholarship is awarded to up to six extraordinarily capable entering first-year students. Made possible through the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation, this scholarship annually covers the costs of tuition, room and board, and includes an allowance for books and personal expenses. Scholars may receive up to $2,000 each summer for approved travel or study projects. The Merit-Based Scholarships Application is due December 1.

The Guy T. Carswell Scholarship, awarded to entering first-year students possessing outstanding qualities of intellect and leadership, ranges in annual value from approximately three-fourths tuition to full demonstrated need. Scholars may receive up to $2,000 at least one summer for approved travel or study projects. The Merit-Based Scholarships Application is due January 1.

The Joseph G. Gordon Scholarship is awarded to up to seven entering first-year students showing exceptional promise and leadership potential who are members of constituencies traditionally underrepresented in the College. Made possible through the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation and the University, this scholarship annually covers the cost of tuition. Additional funding to recipients is provided through the Wake Forest Merit Supplemental Scholarship.
The Merit-Based Scholarships Application is due January 1.

The German Exchange Scholarship, established in 1959 with the Free University of Berlin, assists a junior student with at least two years of college German or the equivalent. Application is made through the Department of German and Russian.

The Spanish Exchange Scholarship, established with the University of Burgos in Spain, may assist four students for one semester's study each or to two students for two semesters. Applicants must have completed at least two years of college Spanish or the equivalent. Application is made through the Department of Romance Languages.

The French Exchange Scholarship, established with the University of Burgundy, France, assists a graduating senior who receives a two-semester graduate teaching assistantship at a lycée chosen by the French Ministry of Education. Application is made through the Department of Romance Languages.
Scholarships and Loans

Loans

The James W. Denmark Loan, established in 1875, assists qualified students.

The Hutchins Student Loan assists needy students.

The Grover & Addy Raby Loan gives preference to applicants from the First Baptist Church of Tarboro, N.C.

The Sidney G. Wallace Loan gives preference to students studying at a Wake Forest-sponsored or approved overseas program.

Other Aid Programs

Children and spouses of pastors of North Carolina Baptist churches receive an annual $800 concession if they are the children or spouses of (1) ministers, (2) missionaries of the International Missions Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, (3) officials of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, or (4) professors in North Carolina Baptist colleges or universities who are ordained ministers. Pastors themselves are also eligible.

Children of other ministers who are not eligible for the above concession receive an annual $150 concession if their parents make a living chiefly by the ministry and they have demonstrated need.

Church Choir Work Grants assist students based on talent, reliability, and interest in the church, and are made on the recommendation of the music committee of Wake Forest Baptist Church and the Department of Music, for the value of $300 per semester.

Church Work Grants of $200 per semester assist students wishing to mentor with a church near the Wake Forest campus. Application is made through the associate university chaplain.

Ministerial students receive an annual $800 concession if they (1) have a written recommendation or license to preach from their own church body and (2) agree to repay the total amount, plus four percent interest, in the event they do not serve five years in the pastoral ministry within twelve years of attendance in the College.

The North Carolina Legislative Tuition Grant (NCLTG) is provided by the North Carolina General Assembly for students who have been legal residents of North Carolina for at least twelve months prior to enrollment at Wake Forest. Residency determinations are made by the financial aid office. The 2001-2002 grant was $1,800; each year’s amount is subject to an annual appropriation. Grants are reduced by twenty-five percent for those students having already completed 157.5 credits or 140 hours. Amounts listed on award letters are estimates only, and are subject to adjustment when the actual authorized grant is determined. Students are responsible for any difference between the estimated and actual amounts.

To be eligible each semester, a student must enroll in a minimum of twelve hours or fourteen credits (through October 1 in the fall and through the tenth day of classes in the spring), and must be working toward a first bachelor’s degree. A student in the five-year BS/M S in accountancy program is not eligible during the last year of that program. Students (including those studying abroad) must submit an NCLTG application to the financial aid office by the end of the first week of classes of their first semester of each academic year.

An NCLTG application (contained in the Financial Information and Billing Statement packet) is sent in the weeks before enrollment to each first-year student, and to continuing students with permanent North Carolina addresses. Students who believe they are eligible for the grant but do not receive an application may obtain one in the financial aid office; such students may include children of military personnel with North Carolina residency status who live out of state, residents who live near the state line, or residents who have recently moved out of state.

Student employment is possible for part-time, on-campus and off-campus work, for a recommended maximum of twenty hours per week for full-time students. Summer employment may also be available. Interested students should contact the financial aid office.

Veterans' Benefits are administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs in the Federal Building at 251 North Main Street in Winston-Salem. Records of progress are kept by Wake Forest University on veteran and non-veteran students alike. Progress records are furnished to the students, veterans and non-veterans alike, at the end of each scheduled school term.

Outside Assistance

Students who apply for financial aid from Wake Forest University must advise the financial aid office if they receive any assistance from outside organizations, including any local, state, and national scholarship and loan programs. Once need is determined and aid is offered to meet that need, additional aid from any source must be considered a resource available to the student. Wake Forest encourages all students to apply for any outside scholarships for which they may be eligible; however, by definition additional resources reduce demonstrated need. The gift portion of an original need-based package is reduced by one-half the value of any new outside scholarship (so that total gift assistance is increased by one-half the value of the outside aid). The loan or work portion of a student's aid is reduced as required to prevent total financial assistance from exceeding demonstrated need (or, in the case of federal loan and work programs, from exceeding federal aid eligibility). Recipients of Brown, Carswell, Hankins, and Heritage Scholarships, and others whose entire demonstrated need is met with scholarship funds, have their total awards increased by one-half the value of the outside scholarship; the remaining one-half is considered a student resource in subsequent years. In no case may the total aid award exceed the cost of attendance.

Outside scholarship donors should include the name and social security number of the intended recipient, as well as the term(s) for which the scholarship is intended, on the face of the check. Checks should be made payable to Wake Forest University (or co-payable to Wake Forest University and the student) and sent to the Office of Student Financial Aid, PO Box 7246, Winston-Salem, NC, 27109-7246. Checks delivered by donors directly to the student should be forwarded by the student to the financial aid office.
Special Programs

Students in the College are encouraged to apply to special programs, both on and off campus, which complement their abilities and interests. These include the programs described below and the special degrees, minors, and concentrations described in the courses of instruction.

Honors Study

For highly qualified students, a series of interdisciplinary honors courses is described under Courses of Instruction. Under the supervision of the coordinator of the Honors Program, students may participate in three or more honors seminars during the first, sophomore, and junior years. Those who complete four seminars with a superior record and who are not candidates for departmental honors may complete a final directed study course. With a superior record in that course and a grade point average of at least 3.0 in all work, a student may be graduated with the distinction “Honors in the Arts and Sciences.”

For students especially talented in individual areas of study, most departments in the College offer special studies leading to graduation with honors in a particular discipline. The minimum requirement is a grade point average of 3.0 in all work and 3.3 (or higher in some areas) in the major. Other course, seminar, and research requirements are determined by each department.

Open Curriculum

For students with high motivation and strong academic preparation, the Open Curriculum provides the opportunity to follow a course of study planned within the framework of a liberal arts education but not necessarily fulfilling all core requirements for the degree. Under the Committee on Open Curriculum, a limited number of students are selected by previous record of achievement, high aspirations, ability in one or more areas of study, strength of self-expression, and other special talents. The course of study for the lower division is designed by the student and his or her adviser.

Study at Salem College

Wake Forest and Salem College share a program of exchange hours for full-time students who wish to study courses that are not available at the student’s home institution. An application must be approved by the academic adviser and the dean of the College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Except in courses of private instruction, there is no additional cost to the student. Grades and grade points earned at Salem College are evaluated as if they were earned at Wake Forest.
Center for International Studies

The Center for International Studies provides information on all programs in international studies. Students interested in studying abroad should visit the center for assistance and program information. Students seeking credit for non-Wake Forest courses taken overseas for either the summer, semester, or year are required to schedule an appointment with the Center for International Studies before they apply to make sure their programs are approved. Once a student is accepted, s/he should obtain a course approval form from the center. For detailed information on study abroad in a non-Wake Forest program see page 58.

The center provides various information and services for the international students at Wake Forest. For guidance on INS policies and issues contact the center. The center also administers the international studies minor. For a full description of the minor see the listing in the course description section of this bulletin.

International Students

International students can obtain information and assistance in the Center for International Studies.

Foreign Area Studies

The Foreign Area Studies program enables students to choose an interdisciplinary concentration in the language and culture of a foreign area. For a full description of these programs, see page 65 and the various listings under Courses of Instruction.

Opportunities for Study Abroad in Wake Forest Programs

Austria (Vienna)
Each semester students have the opportunity to study and live at the Flow House in the 19th District of Vienna (northwest section of the city). Faculty directors from a wide variety of departments lead groups of fourteen students and offer two courses in their respective disciplines. In addition, Viennese professors offer courses in the study of the German language (153) or literature (216), Austrian art and architecture, music, or history of Austria and Central Europe. Group excursions to central Europe enhance the learning experience as well as numerous integrative experiences within the city itself. Students selected for the Vienna program are required to have completed Elementary German (111-112 or 113). Further information may be obtained from Larry West, Department of German and Russian.

Benin (Cotonou)
Students wishing to study in Africa are invited to apply for the Wake Forest University program in Benin, West Africa. This three-hour course is designed for the study of the problems faced by African countries in the process of economic growth and development. Discussions focus on the examination of solutions to those problems. This is an approximately five-week summer program (occurring usually during the first summer session), which combines classroom instruction, field trips and homestay. The program is directed by Professor Sylvain H. Boko of the Department of Economics. Applications and additional information may be obtained from Professor Boko.

Cuba (Havana)
Students interested in an unique study opportunity may apply for a six-week summer program in Cuba. Under the direction of Dr. Linda Howe (Department of Romance Languages), students take intensive courses in Spanish at the University of Havana. (Students need not major in Spanish, but one course beyond Spanish 213 or proficiency in the language is required.) Courses offered include Afro-Cuban Cultural Expression and Cuban Literature (alternate courses offered periodically). Students in Cuba also participate in a community project for internship credit in Spanish. Information may be obtained from Dr. Linda Howe by e-mail at howels@wfu.edu or by contacting the Center for International Studies.

Mexico (Querétaro)
Students who wish to take either Spanish 113 or Spanish 153 in an immersion setting in Latin America may apply for Wake Forest's summer program in Mexico. This six-week program offers an eight-hour intensive course in Spanish language and the cultures of the Hispanic world. Students who have already taken Spanish 153 or any more advanced course in the language are ineligible for this program. Applications and additional information may be obtained in the Department of Romance Languages.

England (London)
A program of study is offered each semester at Worrell House, the University's residential center near Regent's Park in London. Courses typically encompass aspects of the art, theatre, literature, and history of London and Great Britain. (See, for example, Art 2320, English Art, Hogarth to the Present, and History 2260, History of London, in the course listings of those departments.) Each term a different member of the faculty serves as the director of the program, which accommodates fifteen students. Further information may be obtained from Paul Orser, Office of the Dean of the College.

Italy (Venice)
Students wishing to spend a semester in Italy may apply to study at Casa Artom, the University's residential center on the Grand Canal in Venice. Under the direction of various members of the faculty, approximately twenty students per semester focus on the heritage and culture of Venice and Italy. (Courses offered usually include Art 2693, Venetian Renaissance Art; Italian 2213, Spoken Italian; Italian 215, Introduction to Italian Literature I; Italian 216, Introduction to Italian Literature II; and other courses offered by the faculty member serving as director.) Students selected for the Venice program are required to have completed elementary training in Italian. Limited scholarship aid is available to one or two students each semester to assist with expenses. Additional information may be obtained from Peter Kairoff, Department of Music.
France (Dijon)
Students wishing to study in France may apply for a semester’s instruction at the University of Burgundy. Under the direction of a faculty residential adviser from the Department of Romance Languages, courses are taken at the University of Burgundy by student groups of varying levels of preparation. (A major in French is not required, but French 219 or its equivalent or any French course above the intermediate level is required.) Students who wish to take either French 113 or French 153 in an immersion setting may apply for Wake Forest's summer program at the University of Burgundy. This six-week program offers an eight-hour intensive course in French language and culture. Applications and additional information may be obtained in the Department of Romance Languages.

Spain (Salamanca)
Students wishing to study in Spain may apply for a semester’s instruction at the University of Salamanca. Under the direction of a faculty residential adviser from the Department of Romance Languages, courses are taken at the University of Salamanca by student groups of varying levels of preparation. (Students need not major in Spanish, but Spanish 220 or its equivalent is required.) Applications and additional information may be obtained in the Department of Romance Languages.

China (Beijing)
Students who wish to study in China may apply to participate in the Wake Forest/SASASA Program in Beijing, Peoples Republic of China. Offered in the fall semester, the program includes courses in both Chinese language and culture. It is open to students with no previous knowledge of Chinese or to those wishing to continue their study of the language. Additional information may be obtained in the Center for International Studies.

Japan (Hiratsuka)
For students wishing to study in Japan, Wake Forest offers a fall semester at Kansai Gaidai University, which is located near three interesting cities. They are Kyoto, which was the capital of Japan for 1,200 years; Osaka, the largest commercial city; and Nara, the ancient capital of Japan during the 6th century. Numerous courses in a variety of disciplines including business, economics, political science, religion, history, art, and communication are offered in English. Japanese language is offered at all levels. No prior knowledge of Japanese is required. A Wake Forest faculty member will accompany the Wake Forest University students and will teach one course. Additional information may be obtained in the Center for International Studies.

Russia (Moscow)
One or two students wishing to study individually in Russia can apply to spend a fall or spring semester at Moscow State University each year. The requirements are a good academic record and the ability to attend and pass classes that are taught entirely in Russian. For more information, contact William Hamilton, associate dean of the College.
Study Abroad in Non-Wake Forest Programs

Students wishing to study abroad in a non-Wake Forest program must visit the Center for International Studies (CIS) for assistance. The center maintains a sizable collection of material on a wide variety of overseas programs. All students planning to study in non-Wake Forest programs in other countries for a summer, a semester, or a year are required to attend a study abroad information session. The CIS staff is available to advise students about particular programs. Before students apply, they must obtain approval of the program from the CIS. If the program is not approved, the student will not receive credit for the study abroad program.

Once a student is accepted, s/he is required to fill out a course approval form with the CIS. In no case may a student undertake study elsewhere without completing this process in advance to the satisfaction of the Center for International Studies, the registrar, and the academic departments which oversee the granting of credit for each course. A process exists so that students who successfully complete a fully approved course load during a semester in a non-Wake Forest program will receive at least twelve hours. For more information, consult with the Center for International Studies.

Students may request to have scholarship and financial aid applied to approved non-Wake Forest programs. Scholarships for study abroad are also available. Additional information is available in the Center for International Studies and the Office of Student Financial Aid.
The College offers undergraduate programs leading to the bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees. The bachelor of arts degree is conferred with a major in anthropology, art history, studio art, biology, chemistry, classical studies, communication, economics, English, French, German, Greek, history, Latin, mathematics, music, philosophy, physics, political science, psychology, religion, Russian, sociology, Spanish, or theatre. The bachelor of science degree is conferred with a major in biology, chemistry, computer science, health and exercise science, mathematical economics, mathematics, or physics. The bachelor of arts degree is available with a major in elementary education or education with a state teacher’s certificate in social studies. The bachelor of science degree is available with a major in education with a state teacher’s certificate in science. The bachelor of science degree may be conferred in combined curricula in engineering, forestry and environmental studies, and medical technology.

The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy offers undergraduate programs leading to the bachelor of science degree with a major in business, analytical finance, information systems, or mathematical business; and offers a five-year program of study leading to a bachelor of science and a master of science degree with a major in professional accountancy.

A student may receive only one bachelor’s degree (either the bachelor of arts or the bachelor of science) from Wake Forest.

Students in the College have considerable flexibility in planning their courses of study. Except for two required health and exercise science courses, only three specific courses are required: the writing seminar, one in a foreign language, and a first-year seminar. To complete preparation for more specialized work in a major field or fields, students select courses in each of five divisions of the undergraduate curriculum: (1) history, religion, and philosophy; (2) literature; (3) the fine arts; (4) the social and behavioral sciences; and (5) the natural sciences, mathematics, and computer science. Normally the basic and divisional (core) requirements are completed in the first and sophomore years and the requirements in the major field or fields are completed in the junior and senior years.

All students must complete (1) the core requirements (unless accepted for the Open Curriculum), (2) a course of study approved by the department or departments of the major, and (3) elective courses, for a total of 112 hours. No more than twelve hours toward graduation may be earned from among all of the following courses: Education 353; all military science courses; Music 111-121 (ensemble courses); Dance 128; and elective 100-level courses in health and exercise science. A cross-listed course may be taken one time for hours toward graduation, unless otherwise specified by the course description.
All students must earn a minimum cumulative 2.0 grade point average on all work attempted at all colleges and universities and on all work attempted in Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Of the 112 hours required for graduation, at least fifty-six must be earned in courses counted as Wake Forest credit. These include courses taken abroad in approved, non-Wake Forest programs. The work of the senior year must be comprised of courses earned as Wake Forest credit (except for combined degree curricula). No more than thirty-three hours can be counted for non-Wake Forest study abroad and other special programs. All financial obligations to the University must be discharged.

A student has the privilege of graduating under the requirements of the bulletin of the year in which he or she enters, except in the case of major or minor requirements, which are those in effect during the term in which a student begins taking courses after the declaration of a major or minor. If course work is not completed within six years of entrance, the student must fulfill the requirements for the class in which he or she graduates.

All requirements must be completed and certified before a student may participate in the commencement exercises. No further entries or alterations may be made toward the undergraduate degree once a student has graduated.

Seniors must submit an application for graduation for their records to be activated for certification. Information packets are mailed immediately before the fall term to all students classified as seniors. Students who are not enrolled in the fall term, or who do not receive the packet but intend to graduate within the academic year, may request one from the Office of the Registrar. Application forms are due no later than thirty days before graduation.

Core Requirements

The core requirements are intended to introduce the student to various fields of knowledge and to lay the foundation for concentration in a major subject and related fields during the junior and senior years. For these reasons, as many of the requirements as feasible should be taken in the first two years.

No core requirements may be set aside or replaced by substitutes except through regular procedures already established by the faculty, or through a specific vote of the faculty in regular session.

Basic Requirements

All students must complete five required basic courses (unless exempted through procedures established by the departments concerned):

FYS 100 (first-year seminar)
English 111 (writing seminar)
Foreign language (literature), one course from among the following:
- French 213, 213H, 216, or the equivalent
- Spanish 213, 213H, 217, 218, or the equivalent
- Italian 215, 216, or the equivalent
- German 215 or 216
- Russian 215 or 216
- Greek 211 or 212
- Latin 211, 212, 216, or 218
- Near Eastern Languages & Literature 211 or 212 (Hebrew)
- Japanese 211
- Chinese 211 or 212
- Health and Exercise Science 100 and 101
A note about foreign language placement procedures: all students new to Wake Forest who have studied a foreign language in high school must complete foreign language placement. Students will not receive credit for a class at a lower level than the level of their placement on the placement exam, unless they a) register for the class in which they placed; b) attend a few class meetings; c) consult with their professor; d) successfully appeal their placement to the language placement appeals officers of the department and be reassigned to a lower level course. Students who continue with another foreign language must take a placement test in that one too, if not during orientation then before registering for a course in it.

Divisional Requirements

All students must complete courses as specified below in each of the five divisions of the undergraduate curriculum (unless exempted by completion of advanced placement requirements or by participation in the open curriculum). Together with the basic requirements these courses form the core of Wake Forest's undergraduate liberal arts education:

Division I. History, Religion, and Philosophy (three courses; no more than one course from each group)
1. History 101, 102, 103, or 104
2. Religion 101, 102, or 103
3. Philosophy 111

Division II. Literature (two courses; no more than one course from any one of the three groups)
1. English literature (English 160 or 165)
2. American literature (English 170 or 175)
3. Foreign literature (other than the course used for the basic requirement)
   Classical languages
   - Greek 211, 212, 231, 241, or 242
   - Latin 211, 212, 216, 218, 221, 225, or 226
   - German 215 or 216
   - Chinese 211 or 212
   Near Eastern Languages & Literature 211 or 212 (Hebrew)
   Japanese 211
   Romance languages (French or Spanish literature above 213; Italian literature above 215.)
   Russian 215 or 216
   In English translation:
   - Classics 255, 261, 263, or 264;
   - Humanities 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 221, or 222

Division III. The Fine Arts (one course)
1. Art—Any 100 level studio art course, or any art history course through 288.
2. Music 101, 109, 181, 182, 183, or 209
3. Theatre 110 or 112
4. Dance 202

Division IV. The Social and Behavioral Sciences (three courses, no more than one from any one group)
1. Anthropology 111, 112, 113, or 114
2. Economics 150
4. Psychology 151
5. Sociology 151, 152, 153, or 154
6. Communication 100
Division V. The Natural Sciences, Mathematics, and Computer Science (three courses, selected from at least two different departments).

1. Biology 101 or 111*, 112, 113 (if one course, 101 or 111 is recommended; if two courses, 101 or 111 is strongly recommended as one of the pair.)* A student cannot count both Biology 101 and Biology 111 toward the Division V requirement.
2. Chemistry 108, 109, 111, 120, 122. No credit given for more than one chemistry course numbered below 112.*
3. Computer Science 101, 111
4. Physics 109, 110, 113, 114, 120*
5. Mathematics 106, 107, 109, 111, 112, 117
   * Credit is not allowed for both Chemistry 120 and Physics 120.

Additional Requirements

To prepare students for the demands of technology and globalization, Wake Forest guides undergraduate course selections with two further requirements:

Quantitative Reasoning Requirement: All students must complete at least one course that requires quantitative reasoning, either as a qualifying course in Division V, as an elective, or as a major/minor course requirement. All courses meeting the requirement are designated (QR) after their descriptions.

Cultural Diversity Requirement: All students must complete at least one course that educates them regarding cultural diversity. This course may be taken at the basic, divisional, or major/minor level or as an elective. Courses qualified to meet this requirement are designated (CD) after their descriptions.

Requirement in Health and Exercise Science

All students must complete Health and Exercise Science 100 and 101. This requirement must be met before enrollment in additional health and exercise science elective courses, and in any case before the end of the second year.

Proficiency in the Use of English

Proficiency in the use of the English language is recognized by the faculty as a requirement in all departments. A composition condition, indicated by cc with the grade for any course, may be assigned in any department to a student whose writing is unsatisfactory, regardless of previous hours in composition.

A student who has been assigned a cc will receive a grade of “Not Reported” (NR) for the course. The student will have one semester (understood to be the next semester for which she or he is officially enrolled) in which to work in the Writing Center, revising the course work to the instructor’s satisfaction. Should the student fail to work in the Writing Center, or fail to revise the work to the instructor’s satisfaction during the semester of his or her next enrollment, the grade will become an F unless some action is taken by the instructor. (If extenuating circumstances make it impossible for the student to make significant progress in a semester, the student may appeal to the dean’s office for an additional semester of work to remove the NR.) Removal of the deficiency is prerequisite to graduation.
Declaring a Major

Most students declare a major in the spring of their sophomore year, and should earn at least fifty-one hours prior to the following fall term. Students declare a major through a procedure established between the academic departments and the registrar’s office. Information about this process is distributed prior to the designated declaration period. If the student is accepted into the major, the department provides an adviser who will assist the student in planning a course of study for the junior and senior years. A department that rejects a student as a major must notify the registrar’s office, and file a written statement indicating the reason(s) for the rejection with the dean of the College.

Students who need to delay the declaration due to insufficient earned hours or other circumstances should consult the registrar’s office.

Students who have earned at least fifty-one hours prior to the designated declaration period and wish to declare a major should consult the registrar’s office.

A student wishing to major in business, analytical finance, information systems, mathematical business, or the five-year accounting program, should make application to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. (See page 235 of this bulletin.)

The undergraduate schools try to provide ample space in the various major fields to accommodate the interests of students. It must be understood, however, that the undergraduate schools cannot guarantee the availability of space in a given major field or a given course, since the preferences of students change and there are limits to both faculty and facilities.

After the initial declaration, a student may not change from one major to another without the written approval of the departments concerned. The student’s course of study for the junior and senior years includes the minimum requirements for the departmental major, with other courses selected by the student and approved by the adviser.

At least half of the major must be completed at Wake Forest University.

Please note: for credit in the major, courses taken in many programs of study abroad are not automatically equivalent to courses completed at Wake Forest. If students wish to take more than half of their courses for the major in study abroad programs, they must gain prior approval from the chair of the department. Students should check the Bulletin for additional departmental requirements for the major.

The following fields of study are recognized for the major: accountancy, analytical finance, anthropology, art history, studio art, biology, business, chemistry, classical studies, communication, computer science, economics, education, English, French, German, Greek, health and exercise science, history, information systems, Latin, mathematical business, mathematical economics, mathematics, music, philosophy, physics, political science, psychology, religion, Russian, sociology, Spanish, and theatre.

Maximum Number of Courses in a Department

Within the College, a maximum of forty-two hours in a single field of study is allowed within the 112 hours required for graduation. Forty-eight hours toward graduation are allowed in any department authorized to offer two fields of study or more.

These stipulations exclude required related courses from other departments.
For students majoring in English, English 111 is excluded. For students majoring in a foreign language, elementary courses in that language are also excluded. These limits may be exceeded in unusual circumstances only by action of the dean of the College.

Options for Meeting Major Requirements

To satisfy graduation requirements, a student must select one, and only one, of the following options, which will receive official recognition on the student's permanent record: (1) a single major, (2) a joint major, (3) a single major and a minor, (4) a single major and a double minor, (5) a double major. In addition to the options above, a student may complete the requirements of one or more foreign area studies programs and/or any of the Romance languages certificates.

Double Majors and Joint Majors

A student may major in two departments in the College with the written permission of the chair of each of the departments and on condition that the student meet all requirements for the major in both departments. A student may not use the same course to meet requirements in both of the majors. The student must designate one of the two fields as the primary major, which appears first on the student's record and determines the degree to be awarded. Only one undergraduate degree will be awarded, even if the student completes two majors.

A joint major consisting of forty-eight hours in two fields of study is available in classical studies, mathematical business, and mathematical economics.

Minors

A minor is not required. Those students, however, who select a single major—not those working toward a double or joint major—may choose a minor field from among the following: anthropology, art history, studio art, astrophysics, biology, chemistry, communication, computer science, dance, economics, educational studies, professional education, English, French, German, Greek, history, Italian, journalism, Latin, mathematics, music, philosophy, physics, political science, psychology, religion, Russian, sociology, Spanish, and theatre, or from the interdisciplinary minors listed below.

For details of the various minors, see the appropriate departmental headings in the section of this bulletin that lists course offerings.

Interdisciplinary Minors

Interdisciplinary minors are listed alphabetically under Courses of Instruction in the bulletin. The following programs are offered:

- American Ethnic Studies
- Asian Studies
- Cultural Resource Preservation
- Early Christian Studies
- Environmental Studies
- Health Policy and Administration
- Humanities
- International Studies
- Latin American Studies
- Linguistics
- Medieval Studies
- Neuroscience
- Russian and East European Studies
- Urban Studies
- Women's Studies
Foreign Area Studies

The foreign area studies programs enable students to choose an interdisciplinary concentration in the language and culture of a foreign area. An area studies concentration may include courses in the major and also in the minor field, if a minor is chosen. Foreign area studies programs do not replace majors or minors; they may supplement either or both. A faculty advisor coordinates each foreign area studies program and advises students; students who wish to participate in one of these programs must consult with the program coordinator, preferably in their sophomore year. Questions also may be directed to the Center for International Studies.

Foreign area studies are listed alphabetically under Courses of Instruction in the bulletin. The following programs are offered:

- East Asian Studies
- German Studies
- Italian Studies
- Spanish Studies

Students who have studied abroad may have taken courses not listed in this bulletin. If you have questions, please contact the Office of the Registrar.

Senior Testing

All seniors may be required to participate in a testing program designed to provide objective evidence of educational development. If the Committee on Academic Affairs decides to conduct such a program, its purpose would be to assist the University in assessing the effectiveness of its programs. The program does not supplant the regular administration of the Graduate Record Examination for students applying for admission to graduate school.

Combined Degrees in Medical Technology

Students may qualify for the bachelor of science degree in medical technology by completion of the academic requirements outlined in the following paragraph and by satisfactory completion of the full program in medical technology offered by the Division of Allied Health Programs of the Wake Forest School of Medicine. A grade of at least C is required in all courses taken in the program in medical technology. At least one year (twenty-eight hours) of the required academic work must be completed in the College. (Under current scheduling, successful candidates receive the baccalaureate degree in August rather than in May.)

Students seeking admission to the program must file application in the fall of the junior year with the Division of Allied Health Programs of the medical school. Selection is based upon recommendations of teachers, college academic record, Allied Health Professions Admissions Test score or SAT/ACT scores, impressions made in personal interviews, and work experience (not essential, but important). Students must complete all basic and divisional course requirements: Biology 111, 112, 113, 214 (three courses or equivalents); Biology 326; Chemistry 109/109L or 111/111L, 122/122L, 223/223L, 230 and 260; mathematics (one course); and electives for a total of eighty-four hours. Desirable electives outside the area of chemistry and biology include physics, data processing, and personnel and management.
courses. (Interested students should consult a biology department faculty member during the first year for further information.)

Degrees in Engineering

The College cooperates with North Carolina State University and other engineering schools in offering a broad course of study in the arts and sciences combined with specialized training in engineering. A program for outstanding students covers five years of study, including three years in the College and approximately two years in one of the schools of engineering. (Depending upon the field chosen, it may be advisable for a student to attend the summer session in the engineering school after transfer.) Admission to Wake Forest does not guarantee admission to the engineering school. Those decisions are based on the student's transcript, performance, and status at the time of application. Upon successful completion of the five years of study, the student receives the bachelor of science degree in engineering from the University and the bachelor of science degree in one of the specialized engineering fields from the engineering school.

The curriculum for the first three years must include all the core requirements and additional courses in science and mathematics which will prepare the student for the study of engineering, such as Mathematics 111, 112, 251, 301, 302, and 304; Physics 113, 114, 141, 162, 165, and 166; Chemistry 111, 111L, 116, and 116L; and Economics 150.

These electives are chosen in consultation with the chair of the Department of Physics.

Degrees in Forestry and Environmental Studies

The College cooperates with the Duke University School of Forestry and Environmental Studies to offer students interested in these areas the possibility of earning both bachelor's and master's degrees within five years. For details about the program, students should consult a faculty member in the biology department.

Five-Year Cooperative Degree Program in Latin American Studies

Wake Forest and Georgetown universities have instituted a Five-Year Cooperative Degree Program in Latin American Studies. Under this program, undergraduate students who minor in Latin American Studies may apply to have a limited number of hours from their undergraduate work count toward a master's degree in Latin American Studies at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. The BA is awarded by Wake Forest, while the master's degree is awarded by Georgetown. Those whose application is accepted may complete both their BA and MA degrees in a five-year period. To apply for the combined BA/MA, students should declare an interest in the five-year cooperative degree program during their junior year. Students must then complete the regular Georgetown graduate application process and seek formal acceptance to the MA program during their senior year. The five-year program is an opportunity for exceptional students to complete degree requirements at an accelerated pace. Interested students should contact the five-year degree program coordinator, Peter Siavelis, assistant professor of political science.
Courses of Instruction

Plans of study, course descriptions, and the identification of instructors apply to the academic year 2001-2002 unless otherwise noted, and reflect official faculty action through March 20, 2002.

The University reserves the right to change programs of study, academic requirements, assignment of lecturers, or the announced calendar. The courses listed in this Bulletin are not necessarily taught every year; their availability is a function of both staffing constraints and student demand. While no guarantees about future scheduling can be made, students are encouraged to alert their advisers and department heads to their needs and desires as soon as they can be foreseen. For an exact list of courses offered in each particular semester and summer, students should consult the course schedules issued by the Office of the Registrar during the preceding term.

Odd-numbered courses are normally taught in the fall, even-numbered in the spring. Exceptions are noted after course descriptions. Number of hours is shown by numerals immediately after the course title—for example, (3h) or (3h, 3h). The symbols P— and C— followed by course numbers or titles are used to show prerequisites and corequisites for a course.

Courses that satisfy the cultural diversity requirement will be indicated by (CD) after the course description. Courses that satisfy the quantitative reasoning requirement will be indicated by (QR) after the course description.

Courses 101-199 are primarily for first-year students and sophomores; courses 200-299 are primarily for juniors and seniors; courses 301-399 are for advanced undergraduate students. Graduate courses are described in the bulletin of the Graduate School.
American Ethnic Studies (AES)

(Interdisciplinary Minor)
Rubin Professor of American Ethnic Studies and Professor of Sociology Earl Smith, Director

The interdisciplinary minor in American ethnic studies requires 18 hours. The student must take American Ethnic Studies 151, Race and Ethnic Diversity in America, during the second or third year at Wake Forest, and American Ethnic Studies 234, Ethnicity and Immigration. At least one additional three-hour course must be taken from the behavioral and social sciences, and one from the humanities. This structure gives students an understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of American ethnic studies within the context of the traditional liberal arts curriculum.

151. Race and Ethnic Diversity in America. (3h) Different race and ethnic experiences are examined through an institutional approach that examines religion, work, schooling, marriage patterns, and culture from cross-cultural perspective. Grand theoretical schemes like the “melting pot” are critiqued for their relevance in an age of new cultural expectations among the many American ethnic groups. (CD)

232. The American Jewish Experience. (3h) An interdisciplinary course exploring Jewish immigration to America with a primary focus on the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

234. Ethnicity and Immigration. (3h) An exploration of the sociohistorical dynamics of the peopling of America in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. (CD)

Other courses may be chosen from a list on file in the office of the director of the program.

Anthropology (ANT)

Jeanne M. Simonelli, Chair
Professors Jay Kaplan, Jeanne M. Simonelli, David S. Weaver, J. Ned Woodall
Director/ Curator, Museum of Anthropology/ Associate Professor Mary Jane Berman
Assistant Professor Margaret C. Bender
Visiting Assistant Professor Steven Folmar
Adjunct Associate Professors Thomas A. Arcury, Sara A. Quandt
Adjunct Instructor Beverlye H. Hancock

Students are encouraged but not required to enroll in a course offering intensive field research training. However, only three hours from Anthropology 381, 382 and three hours from Anthropology 353, 354, 383, 384 may be used to meet major requirements.

A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in anthropology courses is required at the time the major is declared. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in all anthropology courses is required for graduation.

A minor in anthropology requires eighteen hours and must include Anthropology 112, 113, 114. Only one course (excluding Anthropology 112, 113, 114) can be taken under the pass/fail option and used to meet minor requirements. Only three hours from Anthropology 398, 399 may be used toward the minor. Only three hours from Anthropology 353, 354, 381, 382, 383, and 384 may be used to meet minor requirements and departmental permission must be obtained for minor credit in these courses.

To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Anthropology,” highly qualified majors (3.5 grade point average in anthropology) should apply to the department for admission to the honors program. They must complete a senior research project, document their research, and satisfactorily defend their work in an oral examination. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

111. Peoples and Cultures of the World. (3h) A representative ethnographic survey of world cultures, including hunting-gathering, kin-based, and agricultural societies, as well as ethnic groups in complex societies. (CD)

112. Introduction to Archeology. (3h) An overview of world prehistory, from the earliest stone tools to the appearance of civilization, with an emphasis on the relationship between culture change and the natural environment.

113. Introduction to Biological Anthropology. (3h) Introduction to biological anthropology, including human biology, human variation, human genetics, human evolution, and primatology.

114. Introduction to Cultural Anthropology. (3h) Investigates and interprets the historic cultural diversity of the world’s peoples, through an understanding of economic, social, and political systems; law and order, ritual, symbol, and religion; language and culture; kinship and the family; and modernization and culture change. (CD)

150. Introduction to Linguistics. (3h) The social phenomenon of language: how it originated and developed, how it is learned and used, its relationship to other kinds of behavior; types of language (oral, written, signed) and language families; analysis of linguistic data; social issues of language use. (CD) Also listed as Linguistics 150.

210. Introduction to Latin-American Studies. (3h) Introduction to the historical, economic, cultural, and social issues which shape Latin America. (Also listed as Latin-American Studies 210.)

264. Forensic Anthropology. (3h) Introduction to the conduct of forensic anthropology, including basic human identification, the nature of evidence, laboratory analyses, field methods, and modern applications.
305. Museum Anthropology. (3h) Examines the historical, social, and ideological forces shaping the development of museums. Emphasizes the history of anthropology, the formation of anthropological collections, representation, and the intellectual and social challenges facing museums today. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 114 or 201 or 203, or permission of instructor.

307. Collections Management Practicum. (1.5h) The principles of collections management including artifact registration, cataloging, storage, and handling; conservation issues and practices; disaster planning and preparedness; and ethical issues will be covered through lectures, readings, workshops, and hands-on use of the Museum’s collections.

313. Tradition, Continuity, and Struggle: Mexico and Central America. (3h) Acquaints students with the lives and struggles of indigenous and non-indigenous people of Mexico and neighboring countries, with special focus on the Maya. The class will include study of contemporary and prehispanic traditions, including Mayan cosmology, language, art and architecture, issues of contact during Spanish colonization, and current political, economic, health, and social issues affecting these areas today.

315. Material Culture Studies. (3h) Explores the social and cultural roles of objects through the study of materials, technology, economy, context, and meaning. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 114 or 201 or 203, or permission of instructor.

330. Seeing World Cultures. (3h) Focuses on selected cultures throughout the world to better understand these societies through the use of ethnographic literature and assesses the effectiveness of visual communication in conveying ideas about these cultures through the use of ethnographic videos and films. P—ANT 101 or 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or permission of instructor.

332. Anthropology of Gender. (3h) Focuses on the difference between sex, a biological category, and gender, its cultural counterpart. An anthropological perspective is used to understand both the human life cycle and the status of contemporary women and men worldwide. In section one, topics include evolution and biological development, sexuality and reproduction, parenting, and life cycle changes. The second section takes students to diverse locations, including Africa, South Dakota, China, India, and the Amazon for a cross-cultural comparison examining roles, responsibilities, and expectations, and how these interact with related issues of class and race.

334. Peoples and Cultures of South Asia. (3h) A survey of the peoples and cultures of the Indian subcontinent in the countries of Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Nepal, Pakistan, and Sri Lanka. The course reviews major topics of interest to anthropologists, including prehistory, history and politics, religion, social organization, caste, gender, development, and population.

336. Myth, Ritual, and Symbolism. (3h) Explores how people envision and manipulate the supernatural in cross-cultural perspective. Emphasizes functional aspects of religious beliefs and practices. P—ANT 101 or 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or permission of instructor.
337. Economic Anthropology. (3h) Examines the relationship between culture and the economy and its implications for applied anthropology. The variable nature and meaning of economic behavior will be examined in societies ranging from non-industrial to post-industrial. Discusses the impact of economic development programs, foreign aid and investment, technology transfer, and a variety of other economic aid programs. P—ANT 101 or 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or permission of instructor.

339. Culture and Nature. (1.5h) A study of the reciprocal effects of the culture and nature relationship, with an emphasis on how different cultures define, use, and value nature.

340. Anthropological Theory. (3h) A study and evaluation of the major anthropological theories of humans and society. The relevance and significance of these theories to modern anthropology are discussed. P—ANT 201 and 202 and 203 or 112 and 113 and 114, or permission of instructor.

342. Applied Anthropology. (3h) Seminar exploring the ways anthropological concepts and data contribute to understanding and solving contemporary problems facing human populations everywhere. Emphasis will be on change and conflict situations in developing areas, but problems encountered by urban and industrialized cultures also are considered. P—ANT 111 or 114 or 203, or permission of instructor.

353/354. Field Research. (3h, 3h) Issues-based field program providing students with a critical understanding of the historical, social, political-economic, and environmental conditions that have shaped the lives of the people of the Greater Southwest, with special attention to the Native American and Latino/a experience. The program moves from the Mexican border region through New Mexico and Arizona, focusing on border issues, archeology and prehispanic history, and contemporary Native American culture. Students camp, hike, and learn to use digital technology in the field. Specific sites may vary from year to year. P—Permission of instructor.

355. Language and Culture. (3h) Covers theoretical and methodological approaches to the study of language and culture, including: semiotics, structuralism, ethnoscience, the ethnography of communication, and sociolinguistics. The topics include: linguistic relativity; grammar and worldview; lexicon and thought; language use and social inequality; language and gender; and other areas.

358. The American Indian. (1.5h) Ethnology and prehistory of the American Indian. P—ANT 101 or 111 or 112 or 113 or 114.

361. Evolution of Human Behavior. (3h) The application of Darwinian principles to the study of human nature and culture. Considers the existence, origin, and manifestation of human behavioral universals and the theoretical and practical implications of individual variability.

362. Medical Anthropology. (3h) The impact of Western medical practices and theory on non-Western cultures and anthropological contributions to the solving of world health problems. P—ANT 101 or 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or permission of instructor.

363. Primate Behavior and Biology. (3h) Examines the evolution and adaptations of the order primates. Considers the different ways that ecology and evolution shape social behavior. A special emphasis on the lifeways of monkeys and apes.
365. Evolutionary Medicine. (3h) An explicitly evolutionary approach to complex relationships between human evolutionary adaptations and health problems related to modern behavior and culture. P—ANT 111, 113, or 114, or permission of instructor.

366. Human Evolution. (3h) The paleontological evidence for early human evolution, with an emphasis on the first 5 million years of bio-cultural evolution. P—ANT 113 or 202, or permission of instructor. (Also listed as Biology 366.)

368. Human Osteology. (3h) A survey of human skeletal anatomy and analysis, emphasizing archeological and anthropological applications.

370. Old World Prehistory. (3h) Survey of Old World prehistory, with particular attention to geological and climatological events affecting culture change. P—ANT 112 or 201, or permission of instructor.

373. Southwestern Archeology. (1.5h) Prehistoric cultural development of the Mogollon, Hohokam, Anasazi, and associated groups. Topics include environment, early peopling of the Southwest, ceramic and architectural traditions, origins of agriculture, rise of social complexity, and abandonment.

374. Prehistory of North America. (3h) The development of culture in North America as outlined by archeological research, with an emphasis on paleoecology and sociocultural processes. P—ANT 112 or 201, or permission of instructor.

376. Archeology of the Southeastern United States. (1.5h) A study of human adaptation in the Southeast from Pleistocene to the present, emphasizing the role of ecological factors in determining the formal aspects of culture. P—ANT 101 or 111 or 112 or 113 or 114.

377. People and Cultures of the Southwest. (1.5h) Survey of the major Native American cultures with emphasis on their history, contemporary ecology, economics, social, political, and religious organizations, artistic expression, and interaction and shared histories with Hispanic, Anglo, and other ethnic groups.

378. Conservation Archeology. (1.5h) A study of the laws, regulations, policies, programs, and political processes used to conserve prehistoric and historic cultural resources.

380. Anthropological Statistics. (3h) Basic statistics, emphasizing application in anthropological research. (A student who receives credit for this course may not also receive credit for Biology 380, Business 201, or Mathematics 109.) (QR)

381, 382. Archeological Research. (3h,3h) The recovery of anthropological data through archeological fieldwork. Students will learn archeological survey, mapping, excavation, recording techniques and artifact and ecofact recovery and analysis. P—ANT 101 or 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, and permission of instructor.

383, 384. Field Research in Cultural Anthropology. (3h,3h) Training in techniques for the study of foreign cultures, carried out in the field. P—ANT 101 or 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, and permission of instructor.

385, 386. Special Problems Seminar. (3h,3h) Intensive investigation of current scientific research within the discipline. The course concentrates on problems of contemporary interest.
387. Ethnographic Research Methods. (3h) Designed to familiarize students with ethnographic research methods and their application. Considers the epistemological, ethical, political, and psychological aspects of research. Laboratory experience and data analysis. P—ANT 111 or 114 or 203.

390. Student-Faculty Seminar. (3h) A review of contemporary problems in the fields of archeology, and biological and cultural anthropology. P—ANT 112, 113 and 114, or permission of instructor. Senior standing recommended.

398, 399. Individual Study. (1h, 1.5h, 2h, or 3h) A reading, research, or internship course designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a departmental faculty member. P—Permission of instructor.

Art (ART)

Wake Forest Professor Margaret S. Smith, Chair
Charlotte C. Weber Professor of Art David M. Lubin
Reynolds Professor Terisio Pignatti (Venice)
Professors Robert Knott, Wake Forest Professor Margaret S. Smith, Harry B. Titus Jr.
Associate Professors McCulloch Family Fellow Bernadine Barnes, David L. Faber, Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation Fellow David Finn, Page H. Laughlin, Assistant Professor John R. Pickel
Instructor Alix Hitchcock
Adjunct Instructor David C. Hart Jr.
Lecturers Brian Allen (London), Maria A. Chiari (Venice),
Beatrice Ottersböck (Vienna), Katie Scott (London)
Gallery Director Victor Faccinto

The department of art offers courses in the history of art, architecture, printmaking, photography, and film from the ancient through modern periods, and the practice of drawing, painting, printmaking, sculpture, photography, and digital art. Opportunities to supplement the regular academic program of the department include study abroad in Wake Forest residential study centers, changing art exhibitions in the gallery of the Scales Fine Arts Center, a visiting artists program, and internships in local museums and arts organizations.

The department offers two majors, art history and studio art, each requiring thirty hours, with a maximum of thirty-six hours. A minor in either studio art or art history requires fifteen hours. Students may major in one field and minor in another within a limit of forty-two hours.

For the art history major twenty-four hours are to be in art history and six hours in studio art. The required art history courses include one course in Ancient, Classical or Medieval art; one course in Renaissance, Baroque, or Eighteenth Century art; one course in Modern painting, architecture, photography, or film; Art 290; one art history seminar; and electives. Art history majors are encouraged to take Art 103 and a course in non-western art. An art history minor requires twelve hours in art history and three hours in studio art.
For the studio art major twenty-four hours are to be in studio art and six hours in art history. The required studio art courses include four entry level courses—one in three-dimensional art and three selected from the five two-dimensional areas; two second level courses in different areas; a third semester in a studio art concentration; and electives in studio art. A minor in studio art requires twelve hours in studio art and three hours in art history.

Any student interested in majoring or minoring in art should consult the chair of the department.

Students with a special interest in multimedia development may wish to consider a program of study that combines digital art and computer science. Advisers in either the art or computer science departments can provide further information on coordinating an art major with a computer science minor, or vice versa.

Qualified students in both the studio and art history areas may ask to participate in the department’s honors program. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Art,” students must execute a written project or create a body of work; the results of their efforts must be presented and defended before a committee of department faculty. Interested students should consult any member of the department for additional information concerning the requirements for this program.

The department will accept only three courses from a non-Wake Forest program for credit toward the major. Of these three courses, only two may be in the same area of concentration. For instance, an art major may take up to two art history courses and one studio course or two studio art courses and one art history course at a non-Wake Forest program. All studio courses taken abroad will be assigned Art 210.

Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in studio art or art history at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

Art History

103. History of Western Art. (3h) A historical introduction to the arts of various cultures and times with discussions of technique, style, methodology, and terms. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

104. Topics in World Art. (3h) An examination of the visual arts in selected world cultures, with discussions of technique, style, methodology, and terms. Topics may include one or more of the following: the arts of China, Japan, India, Africa, Islamic cultures, or the indigenous cultures of the Americas. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

105. The History of World Architecture. (3h) Selected topics emphasizing the planning, siting, design, construction, patronage and historical impact of architectural monuments from a variety of cultures. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

231. American Visual Arts. (3h) American art and culture from the Colonial period to 1900 in terms of changing aesthetic standards, social, and historical developments. Includes fine arts, folk arts, material culture, and mass media. Satisfies the Division III requirement.
232. African American Art. (3h) African-American art from the eighteenth century to the present, with attention to the social and historical context of the works and the artist. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

233. American Architecture. (3h) A discussion-based course examining American architecture from 1650 to the present. Offered in fall semester, odd years. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

241. Ancient Art. (3h) A survey of architecture, painting, and sculpture from ca. 3000 BCE through the late Roman period. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

244. Greek Art. (3h) A survey of architecture, painting, and sculpture from ca. 800 BCE through the Hellenistic period. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

245. Roman Art. (3h) A survey of Etruscan and Roman architecture, painting, and sculpture. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

251. Women and Art. (3h) A historical examination of the changing image of women in art and the role of women artists. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

252. Romanesque Art. (3h) Art and architecture from the Carolingian Renaissance through the twelfth century. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

253. The Gothic Cathedral. (3h) The character and evolution of Gothic cathedrals and the sculpture, stained glass, metalworks, and paintings designed for them. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

254. Luxury Arts in the Middle Ages. (3h) Medieval illuminated manuscripts and precious objects made of gold, silver, ivory, enamel, and other luxury materials are the subjects of this course. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

258. The History of Prints. (3h) A survey of the technical and stylistic developments in printmaking from the fifteenth century to the present. Special attention will be given to the function of prints in society. Student research will focus on prints in the University Print Collection. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

259. The History of Photography. (3h) A historical and critical survey of photography from its invention in 1826 to the present. Special attention to the medium's cultural and artistic reception. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

260. Classics of the Sound Cinema. (3h) Selected masterpieces of world cinema (1930-1960). Particular emphasis is placed on developing skills for viewing films as a form of visual art. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

267. Early Italian Renaissance Art. (3h) The development of art and architecture in Italy in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. Special attention will be given to the works of Giotto, Donatello, Botticelli, and Leonardo da Vinci. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

268. High Renaissance and Mannerist Art. (3h) The development of art and architecture in the sixteenth century in Rome, Florence, Venice and other cities. Among the artists studied are Michelangelo, Raphael, and Titian. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

270. Northern Renaissance Art. (3h) A survey of painting, sculpture, and printmaking in Northern Europe from the mid-fourteenth century through the sixteenth century. Satisfies the Division III requirement.
272. Baroque Art. (3h) A discussion-based survey of major art, artists, and cultural issues in seventeenth-century Europe. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

275. History of Landscape Architecture. (3h) A survey of garden and landscape design from the Roman period through the twentieth century. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

281. Nineteenth Century Art. (3h) A survey of European and American art from the French Revolution to 1900, emphasizing the major movements from Romanticism to Impressionism and Post-Impressionism. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

282. Twentieth Century Art. (3h) A survey of European and American painting and sculpture from 1900 to the present. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

283. Impressionism. (3h) A study of Impressionism and Post-Impressionism with an emphasis on stylistic innovations and the social and cultural context in which they were produced. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

284. Contemporary American Art. (3h) An intensive study of American painting and sculpture from 1950 to the present. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

288. Modern Architecture. (3h) A survey of European and American architecture from 1900 to the present. Offered in fall semester, even years. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

290. Issues in Art History. (3h) A discussion-based course focusing on critical theory and methods employed by art historians working today as well as by some of the founding figures of the discipline.

296. Art History Seminar. (1.5h,3h) Offered by members of the faculty or visiting faculty on topics of their choice. A paper is required. P—Permission of instructor.

a. Ancient Art  b. Medieval Art

b. Renaissance Art  c. Baroque Art
c. Modern Art  d. Contemporary Art
g. American Art  h. Modern Architecture
h. American Architecture  i. Art and Popular Culture
i. Architecture and Urbanism  j. Art and Popular Culture
k. Film  l. Architecture and Urbanism
m. Museums  n. Special Topics

Studio Art***

110. Topics in Studio Art. (3h) Used to designate studio art courses in Wake Forest summer school. May be repeated. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Studio art courses are determined by individual instructors in the following areas:

a. Drawing  b. Painting
c. Printmaking  d. Sculpture
e. Photography  f. Digital Art
g. Special Topics

*Prerequisites may be waived with permission of instructor.
111. Introduction to Studio Art Fundamentals. (3h) Students are introduced to basic elements of two-dimensional and three-dimensional fine art through hands-on experimentation and critical thinking. Six class hours per week. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

112. Introduction to Painting. (3h) An introduction to the fundamentals of the contemporary practice of oil painting. No prior painting experience required, although prior studio art experience is recommended. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

114. Digital Art I. (3h) An introduction to computer generated art techniques and concepts. Emphasis placed on individual progression through group critique. A working knowledge of the Windows operating system required. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

115. Introduction to Sculpture. (3h) An introduction to basic sculptural styles and multimedia, with emphasis on contemporary concepts. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

117. Introduction to Printmaking. (3h) An introduction to one or more of the following areas of printmaking: lithography, intaglio, and silkscreen. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

118. Introduction to Drawing. (3h) Drawing fundamentals emphasizing composition, value, line, and form. Prior studio experience or Art 111 recommended. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

119. Photography and Digital Imaging I. (3h) An introduction to photography as a creative medium, including camera and darkroom techniques, with an introduction to digital imaging. Emphasis placed on individual progression through group critique. Student must provide manual 35 mm SLR camera. Please see http://www.wfu.edu/~jrpickel/camerarec/rec.html for information on cameras. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

210. Topics in Studio Art. (3h) Used to designate studio art courses taken abroad. May be repeated. Studio art courses are determined by individual instructors in the following areas:
   a. Drawing
   b. Painting
   c. Printmaking
   d. Sculpture
   e. Photography
   f. Digital Art
   g. Special Topics

211. Intermediate Drawing. (3h) Continuation of Art 118, with emphasis on idea development in realistic and abstract styles. P—ART 111, 118, 218 or permission of instructor.

212. Painting II. (3h) Continuation of Art 112 with concentrated emphasis on conceptual development and technical exploration. P—ART 112. Offered in the fall semester only.

213. Painting III. (3h) An individualized course of study with emphasis on refining the skills and concepts developed in Painting II. P—ART 212. Offered in fall semester only.

214. Digital Art II. (3h) An intermediate level digital art course as a continuation of Art 114, with emphasis on critical and technical development. P—ART 114. Offered in fall semester only.

215. Public Art. (3h) This course will cover art that is sited in the public realm. Exercises with various sites, materials, and audiences, will culminate in a public project. P—ART 115 or permission of instructor. Offered in fall semester, even years.
216. Sculpture Fabrication. (3h) Fabrication of small scale sculpture using wood, fabric, and metal. Projects stress craftmanship and imagination. P—ART 115 or permission of instructor. Offered in spring semester, odd years.

217. Intermediate Printmaking. (3h) Continuation of Art 117, with emphasis on idea development. P—ART 117. May be repeated.

218. Figure Drawing. (3h) An introduction to drawing the nude model using a variety of media and approaches. May be repeated once. P—Any 100 level course or permission of instructor

219. Photography and Digital Imaging II. (3h) An intermediate level photography course as a continuation of Art 119, with emphasis on critical and technical development in both traditional photography and digital imaging. P—ART 119. Offered in spring semester only.

221. Advanced Drawing. (3) A course of individual study with faculty guidance. May be repeated. P—ART 211.

222. Advanced Painting. (3) A course of individual study with faculty guidance focused on developing a body of work for exhibition. Will cover various aspects of professional practice including artist statements and proposals, and portfolio development. May be repeated. P—ART 212. Offered in spring semester only.

224. Digital Art III. (3h) An advanced course of individual study with faculty guidance and group critique. P—ART 214.

225. Bodies and Objects. (3h) This course will explore the social and psychological ramifications of making objects based on the body through casting and other techniques. P—ART 115 or permission of instructor. Offered in fall semester, odd years.

226. Sculpture Installation. (3h) Exercises to develop an understanding of material, process, and audience as they relate to contemporary sculpture. The major projects for the course are an installation and a design project. P—ART 115 or permission of instructor. Offered in spring semester, even years.

227. Advanced Printmaking. (3h) A course of individual study with faculty guidance. May be repeated. P—ART 217.

229. Photography and Digital Imaging III. (3h) An advanced course of individual study with faculty guidance and group critique. P—ART 219. Offered in spring semester only.

290S. Printmaking Workshop. (3h) A workshop course exploring relief, intaglio, lithography, and monotype techniques, open to students at any skill level. Offered in the summer.

295. Studio Seminar. (1.5h, 3h) Offered by members of the faculty or visiting faculty on topics of their choice and related studio activities. P—Permission of instructor.

Other Art Courses

291. Individual Study. (3h) A course of independent study with faculty guidance.

292. Individual Study. (3h) A course of independent study with faculty guidance.

293. Practicum. (3h) Internships in local cultural organizations, to be arranged and approved in advance by the art department. Pass/fail.
299. International Studies in Art. (3h) Offered by art department faculty in locations outside of the United States, on specific topics in art history or studio art. Offered in the summer.

2320. English Art, Hogarth to the Present. (3h) A survey of English painting, sculpture, and architecture in the Georgian, Victorian, and modern periods. Slide lectures, student reports, museum visits, and lectures. Taught by special lecturer. Offered in London.

2693. Venetian Renaissance Art. (3h) A survey of the art of the Venetian Renaissance, with slide lectures and museum visits. Offered in Venice.

2712. Studies in French Art. (3h) Lectures and field trips in French painting, sculpture, and architecture, concentrating on the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Offered in Dijon.

2767. Austrian Art and Architecture. (3) A study of the development of Austrian art and architecture and its relationship to European periods and styles. Includes visits to sites and museums. Offered in Vienna.

Asian Studies (ASI) (Interdisciplinary Minor)

Professor of Political Science Charles H. Kennedy, Coordinator

The minor in Asian Studies provides an opportunity for students to undertake a multidisciplinary study of the history, politics, and culture of Asia. It consists of a total of eighteen hours. Candidates for the minor are required to take at least one course from three of the four curriculum groupings noted below. (See course descriptions under appropriate course listings.) Nine or more of the hours towards the minor must focus on a geographic area—South Asia, Japan, or China.

Appropriate credit in various fields of Asian Studies also may be obtained by study abroad in programs approved by the coordinator. Interested students are encouraged, preferably in their sophomore year, to consult with the coordinator or an affiliated adviser to discuss their interests and structure a coherent course of study. Courses may be chosen from among the following list.

311. Special Topics in Asian Studies. (1-3h) An intensive survey of one or more important issues in Asian Studies not included in the regular course offerings. P—Permission of instructor.

381. Independent Research in Asian Studies. (1-3h) Supervised independent research project on a topic related to Asia. P—Permission of both instructor and coordinator of Asian Studies. May be repeated for credit.

Group One: Humanities

- 170. Understanding Japan. (3h)
- 219. Introduction to Japanese Literature. (3h)
- 221. Introduction to Chinese Literature. (3h)
- 251. The Asian American Experience: Literature and Narrative. (3h)
- 347. Women Writers in Japanese Culture. (3h)
- 350. Modern Chinese Literature. (3h)
Group Two: Art, Philosophy, and Religion

Art 104. Topics in World Art (when focus is Asia). (3h)
Philosophy 253. Main Streams of Chinese Philosophy and Religion. (3h)
Religion 361. The Buddhist World of Thought and Practice. (3h)
362. Islam. (3h)
363. The Religions of Japan. (3h)
381. Zen Buddhism. (3h)
382. Religion and Culture in China. (3h)

Group Three: Social Sciences

American Ethnic Studies 240. Asian-American Legacy: A Social History of Community Adaptation. (3h)
Communication 351. Comparative Communication. (when focus is Asian state) (1h,3h)
International 210. Japanese and American Culture. (3h)
220. Forms of Orientalism. (3h)
Political Science 246. Politics and Policies in South Asia. (3h)
247. Islam and Politics. (3h)
248. Government and Politics of China. (3h)
249. Government and Politics of Japan. (3h)
260. East Asian International Relations. (3h)

Group Four: History

343. Imperial China. (3h)
344. Modern China. (3h)
346. Japan before 1800. (3h)
347. Japan since World War II. (3h)
348. Japan since 1800. (3h)

Chinese Lang. & Liter. 111, 112. Elementary Chinese. (4h,4h)
153. Intermediate Chinese. (4h)
199. Individual Study. (1-3h)
211. Wen-xue: Introduction to Literature Written in Chinese. (3h)
212. Wen-xue: Advanced Literature Written in Chinese. (3h)

153. Intermediate Japanese. (4h)
199. Individual Study. (1-3h)
211. Bungaku: Introduction to Literature Written in Modern Japanese. (3h)
220. Advanced Conversation. (3h)
230. Advanced Japanese I. (3h)
231. Advanced Japanese II. (3h)
The department offers programs leading to either a bachelor of arts or a bachelor of science degree in biology. Sophomore students electing to major in biology should consult with a major adviser to determine which degree program would be most appropriate for their career objectives. The requirements for completion of each degree program are those in effect at the time of the declaration of the major, since the curriculum and the departmental requirements may change slightly during the student’s period of residence.

Students pursuing the bachelor of arts degree are required to take Biology 112, 113, and 214 and at least three 300 level four-hour biology courses. Co-requirements for the BA degree include the following laboratory courses: Chemistry 109 or 111, and 122 and one additional course in mathematics or physical science.

Students pursuing the bachelor of science degree are required to take Biology 112, 113, 214, a research experience (such as Bio 391 or an equivalent program approved by the major adviser) and at least three 300 level four-hour biology courses. Co-requirements for the BS degree include the following laboratory courses: Chemistry 109 or 111, 122 and 120 or 223, Physics 113, 114 and one additional course in mathematics or physical sciences at the 200 level or above.

The requirements for both the BA and BS degree programs are a minimum of thirty-three hours in biology. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 on biology courses taken at Wake Forest University is required for graduation with a major in biology.

A minor in biology requires sixteen hours. Courses taken pass/fail cannot count toward a minor. A minimum overall grade point average of 2.0 must be earned on all Wake Forest University biology courses taken to complete a minor.

Prospective majors are strongly urged to select either Biology 112 or 113 as their first course in biology. Biology 214 is a more advanced course and should be taken after Biology 112 and 113. Most prospective majors also should take Chemistry 109 or 111 and 122 in their first year.
Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in biology. To be graduated with the distinction “Honors in Biology,” a graduating student must have a minimum grade point average of 3.0 in all courses and a 3.3 in biology courses. In addition, the student must submit an honors paper describing his/her independent research project, written in the form of a scientific paper, which must be submitted to and approved by an advisory committee. Specific details regarding the honors program, including selecting an adviser and an advisory committee, deadlines, and writing of the honors thesis, may be obtained from the chair of the departmental Undergraduate Studies Committee.

*Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in biology at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

101. Biology and the Human Condition. (4h) An introductory course that focuses on the relevance to society of recent breakthroughs in biology. Basic principles of biology will be covered, but the course will emphasize recent advances in biology placed in the context of their ethical, social, political, and economic implications. This non-majors course is intended for students with little or no previous experience in biology and does not count toward the major or minor in biology. Lab—three hours. No prerequisites.

111. Biological Principles. (4h) A study of the general principles of living systems with focus on the cellular, organismal, and populational levels of biological organization, emphasizing the role of heredity and evolution in these systems. This course is intended for students with little or no previous experience in biology and does not count toward the major or minor in biology. Lab—three hours.

112. Comparative Physiology. (4h) An introduction to the form and function of organisms, with emphasis on physical principles, structural organization, and critical function of plants and animals. Intended as a beginning course in biology for prospective majors and for any students with adequate high school preparation in biology. Lab—three hours. No prerequisites.

113. Evolutionary and Ecological Biology. (4h) An introduction to the principles of genetics, ecology, and evolution as they apply to organisms, populations, and communities, with emphasis on evolutionary processes within an ecological context. Intended as a beginning course in biology for prospective majors and for any students with adequate high school preparation in biology. Lab—three hours. No prerequisites. (QR)

213. Genetics and Molecular Biology. (4h) An introduction to the principles and processes of heredity, information flow and gene function. Topics covered include Mendelian genetics, molecular genetics, and the origin of genetic variation. Lab—three hours. No prerequisites.

214. Cellular Biology. (4h) An introduction to the principles and processes of cellular biology and their impact on organismal function. Topics will include molecular organization of cellular structures, regulations of cellular functions, bioenergetics, and metabolism. The course will also introduce cancer, immunology, and developmental biology. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and Chemistry 109 or 111.
216. Biodiversity. (4h) An introductory course that traces the history of life on earth and looks at its diversification in an evolutionary and ecological context. Lectures cover the mechanisms of biological diversification and surveys life on earth. Labs introduce students to the broad diversity of life through exercises with living organisms. Lab—three hours. No prerequisites.

237. Plants and People. (3h) A course that explores various associations between plants and people, their interrelationships, medical as well as ethical, and the impact of these interrelationships on various contemporary societies.

301-306. Topics in Biology. (1-4h) Seminar and/or lecture courses in selected topics, some involving laboratory instruction. May be repeated if the course title differs.

307. Biophysics. (3h) An introduction to the structure, dynamic behavior, and function of DNA and proteins, and a survey of membrane biophysics. The physical principles of structure determination by X-ray, NMR, and optical methods will be emphasized. P—BIO 112 and 214, Physics 113, 114, or permission of instructor.

311. Genetics. (3h) A lecture course on the use of genetic analytical methods to establish the principles of inheritance and the mechanisms of gene function. Covered topics include mechanisms of genetic change, the genetics of development, and population genetics. Students may not receive credit for both Biology 311 and Biology 312. P—BIO 112, 113, and 214.

312. Genetics. (4h) A lecture and lab course on the use of genetic analytical methods to establish the principles of inheritance and the mechanisms of gene function. Covered topics include mechanisms of genetic change, the genetics of development, and population genetics. The lab will include projects involving classical and current techniques of genetic investigation. Students may not receive credit for both Biology 311 and Biology 312. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112, 113, and 214.

314. Evolution. (3h) Analysis of the theories, evidences, and mechanisms of evolution. P—BIO 113.

315. Population Genetics. (3h) A study of the amount of distribution of genetic variation in populations of organisms, and of how processes such as mutation, recombination, and selection affect genetic variation. The lecture will present both an introduction to theoretical studies, and discussion of molecular and phenotypic variation in natural populations. P—BIO 113. (QR)

320. Comparative Anatomy. (4h) A study of the vertebrate body from an evolutionary, functional, and developmental perspective. Laboratories emphasize structure and function, primarily through the dissection of representative vertebrates. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

321. Parasitology. (4h) A survey of protozoan, helminth, and arthropod parasites from the standpoint of morphology, taxonomy, life histories, and host/parasite relationships. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

322. Biomechanics. (4h) An analysis of the relationship between organismal form and function using principles from physics and engineering. Solid and fluid mechanics are employed to study design in living systems. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112.

326. Microbiology. (4h) The structure, function, and taxonomy of microorganisms with emphasis on bacteria. Covered special topics include microbial ecology, industrial microbiology, and medical microbiology. The lab emphasizes microbial diversity through characterizations of isolates from nature. P—BIO 113 and 214.

331. Invertebrates. (4h) Systematic study of invertebrates, with emphasis on functional morphology, behavior, ecology, and phylogeny. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

333. Vertebrates. (4h) Systematic study of vertebrates, with emphasis on evolution, physiology, behavior, and ecology. Laboratory devoted to systematic, field, and experimental studies. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

335. Insect Biology. (4h) A study of the diversity, structure, development, physiology, behavior, and ecology of insects. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

335S. Insect Biology. (4h) A five-week course taught during the summer at the Archbold Biological Station in Central Florida. A study of the diversity, structure, development, physiology, behavior, and ecology of insects. Fieldtrips include Lake Okeechobee and the Big Cypress Swamp. P—Permission of instructor.

338. Plant Systematics. (4h) A study of the diversity and evolution of flowering plants. Lectures emphasize the comparative study of selected plant families, their relationships and the use of new information and techniques to enhance our understanding of plant evolution. Labs emphasize more practical aspects of plant systematics such as the use of identification keys, recognition of common local plants, molecular techniques, and basic phylogenetic analysis.

339. Principles of Biosystematics. (4h) An exploration of the current theoretical and practical approaches to the study of macroevolution in plants and animals. Topics include theory and methods of constructing evolutionary trees, sources of data, and cladistic biogeography. Lab—three hours.

340. Ecology. (4h) Interrelationships among living systems and their environments; structure and dynamics of major ecosystem types; contemporary problems in ecology. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113. (QR)

342. Aquatic Ecology. (4h) A course designed to cover the general principles and concepts of limnology and aquatic biology as they apply to lentic and lotic habitats. A major portion of the field study is centered at the Charles M. Allen Biological Station. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 113.

345. Neurobiology. (3h) Introduction to the structure and function of the nervous system including the neural basis of behavior. Anatomical, physiological, and neurochemical approaches will be integrated in the study of the peripheral and central nervous systems. P—BIO 112 and 214.

346. Neurobiology. (4h) Introduction to the structure and function of the nervous system including the neural basis of behavior. Anatomical, physiological, and neurochemical approaches will be integrated in the study of the peripheral and central nervous systems. The laboratory will emphasize electrophysiological techniques with experiments from the cellular to the behavioral level. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 214.

347. Physiological Plant Ecology. (3h) A course designed to provide a fundamental understanding of how plants have adapted to the stresses of their habitats, particularly in harsh or extreme environments such as deserts, the alpine, the arctic tundra, and tropical rain forests. P—BIO 112 and 113.

348. Physiological Plant Ecology. (4h) A course designed to provide a fundamental understanding of how plants have adapted to the stresses of their habitats, particularly in harsh or extreme environments such as deserts, the alpine, the arctic tundra, and tropical rainforests. The laboratory will introduce students to a broad array of field instrumentation. P—BIO 112 and 113.

349S. Tropical Biodiversity. (4h) An intensive field course in tropical biodiversity. Students will travel to major tropical biomes, including deserts, glaciated peaks and rain forests. Lectures emphasize the basic ecological principles important in each ecosystem; laboratories consist of student-designed field projects. Course location varies yearly. P—BIO 112 and 113 and permission of instructor. Summer only.

350. Conservation Biology. (3h) Lectures, readings, and discussions examining biological resources, their limitations and methods for sustainability. Genetic, aquatic, terrestrial, and ecosystem resources will be examined. P—BIO 113.

351. Vertebrate Physiology. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course examining regulatory principles, integration in the nervous system and the physiology of the cardiovascular, respiratory, and renal systems of vertebrates. P—BIO 112 and 214.

354. Vertebrate Endocrinology. (3h) A lecture course which considers the evolution of the endocrine glands and hormones and the physiology of the main hormonal pathways of vertebrates. P—BIO 112 and 214.

355. Avian Biology. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course emphasizing ecological and evolutionary influences on the physiology, behavior, and population biology of birds. Includes taxonomy of the world’s major bird groups. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

360. Development. (4h) A description of the major events and processes of animal development, with an analysis of the causal factors underlying them. Special attention is given to the embryonic development of vertebrates, but consideration is also given to other types of development and other organisms. Topics include fertilization, early development, growth and cell division, cell differentiation, the role of genes in development, cell interaction, morphogenesis, regeneration, birth defects, and cancer. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 214.
361. Microbial Pathogenesis. (3h) This course explores the molecular mechanisms by which microorganisms attack hosts, how hosts defend against pathogens, and how these interactions cause disease. P—BIO 112, 214, and permission of instructor.

362. Immunology. (3h) A study of the components and protective mechanisms of the immune system. P—BIO 112 and 214.

363. Sensory Biology. (3h) A lecture course with emphasis on sensory physiology and other aspects of sensory systems, e.g. molecular biology and anatomy. Credit not allowed for both Biology 363 and 364. P—BIO 112 and 214.

364. Sensory Biology. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course with emphasis on sensory physiology and other aspects of sensory systems, e.g. molecular biology and anatomy. Credit not allowed for both Biology 363 and 364. P—BIO 112 and 214.

365. Biology of the Cell. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course on classic experiments and recent advances in cell biology. Lectures emphasize analysis and interpretation of experimental data in the primary literature, focusing on topics such as the targeting of macromolecules, cell-cell communication, and the control of cell division. The text for this course consists of papers that have led to the Nobel Prize in Physiology and Medicine and more current work using biological tools. The laboratory introduces basic techniques in cell biology and leads to an independent project. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 214.

366. Human Evolution. (3h) Investigation of primate and human evolution, both in anatomy and in behavior. P—BIO 112 and 113, or permission of instructor. (Also listed as Anthropology 366.)

367. Virology. (3h) A course designed to introduce students to viruses, viral/host interactions, pathogenicity, methods of control and their use in molecular biology, including gene therapy. P—BIO 112 and 214.

368. The Cell Biological Basis of Disease. (3h) This course examines some of the defects in basic cellular mechanisms that are responsible for many diseases. P—BIO 112 and 214.

369. The Cell Biological Basis of Disease. (4h) This course examines some of the defects in basic cellular mechanisms that are responsible for many diseases. The laboratory will use advanced microscopic and histological techniques to investigate basic properties of cells. P—BIO 112 and 214.

370. Biochemistry. (3h) A lecture course introducing the principles of biochemistry, with an emphasis on the experimental approaches that elucidated these principles. Major topics will include structure, function, and biosynthesis of biological molecules, analysis of enzyme function and activity, and regulation of metabolic pathways. P—BIO 112, 214 and Chemistry 223.

371. Biochemistry Laboratory. (1h) The laboratory emphasizes approaches to isolation and analysis of both proteins and nucleic acids. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112, 214 and Chemistry 223. This course, paired with Biology 370, may be used as one of the three 300-level four-hour courses required for the major.
372. Molecular Biology. (4h) An analysis of the molecular mechanisms by which stored genetic information directs cellular development. Emphasis is placed on storage and transmission of genetic information, regulation of gene expression, and the role of these processes in development. The laboratory focuses on modern techniques of recombinant DNA analysis. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 214.

377. Community Ecology. (4h) An advanced ecology course covering mechanisms that determine the dynamics and distribution of plant and animal assemblages: life-history, competition, predation, geology, climate, soils, and history. Lectures focus on ecological principles and theory. Lab includes local field trips and discussion of the primary literature. Several weekend field trips. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112, 113, and 214. (QR)

379. Molecular Techniques in Evolution and Systematics. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course that explores molecular methods that are basic to many disciplines within biology, especially ecology, evolution, and systematics. Laboratories focus on the acquisition of molecular techniques, including allozyme electrophoresis, mitochondrial plastid, and nuclear DNA restriction fragment length polymorphism analyses, gene amplification, PCR (polymerase chain reaction), direct and/or cycle sequencing, and RAPDs (randomly amplified polymorphic DNAs). Lab—three hours. P—BIO 113 and 214.

380. Biostatistics. (3h) An introduction to statistical methods used by biologists, including descriptive statistics, hypothesis-testing, analysis of variance, and regression and correlation. May count as biology or anthropology but not both; choice to be made at registration. (A student who receives credit for this course may not also receive credit for Anthropology 380, Business 201, or Mathematics 109.) (QR)

381. Biostatistics Laboratory. (1h) Application of computer-based statistical software. This course may not be used to satisfy one of the three 300-level four-hour courses required for the major if paired with Biology 380. (QR if paired with 380)

385. Oceanography. (3h) An introduction to geological, chemical, physical and biological oceanography taught at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Woods Hole, MA. P—Admission to the Sea Semester program.

386. Practical Oceanography. (4h) A two-part lecture/laboratory course offered at sea in which students observe and apply in the field the concepts and sampling techniques introduced in the shore component. This course is a part of the Sea Semester program taught at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Woods Hole, MA. P—Admission to the Sea Semester program.

391, 392. Research in Biology. (2h, 2h) Independent library and laboratory investigation carried out under the supervision of a member of the staff. Pass/fail or for grade at discretion of the instructor.* P—Permission of instructor.

*The same numbered course cannot be repeated. Subsequent courses should be taken in consecutive order.
393, 394. Research in Biology. (2h,2h) Courses designed for students who wish to continue research projects beyond Biology 391 and 392. Pass/fail option. Not to be counted toward major.* P—Permission of instructor.

395S. Marine Models in Biological Research. (5h) An eight-week course that is taught at the Marine Biology Laboratory in Woods Hole, Mass. Students attend lectures and seminars in areas of cell and developmental biology and marine ecology. Each student is guided in a research project selected from the area of expertise of participating faculty and which takes advantage of the special facilities of the MBL, such as confocal microscopy and intracellular Ca++ imaging.

396. Biomedical Ethics. (3h) Lectures and seminars examining contemporary issues in biomedical ethics including the proper role of biomedical research and current controversies in health care and medical practice. P—BIO 112 and 214.

The department offers programs leading to the BA and BS degrees in chemistry. The BS degree is certified by the American Chemical Society.

The bachelor of arts degree in chemistry requires twenty-eight (or 28.5) hours in chemistry and must include the following courses: 111 (or 109), 111L, 122, 122L, 223, 223L, 230, 260, 341, 341L, 342 (or 344), 342L, and 361, 361L; Mathematics 111, 112; and Physics 113, 114.

The bachelor of science degree in chemistry requires 37.5 (or 38) hours in chemistry and must include the following courses: 111 (or 109), 111L, 122, 122L, 223, 223L, 230, 260, 334, 334L, 341, 341L, 344, 342L, either 351 or 356/357, 361, 361L, 381, 382, 383, either 391 or 392; Mathematics 111 and 112 and either 113 or 301; and Physics 113, 114.

A minor in chemistry requires nineteen hours in chemistry and must include at least one of the following: 334; 341 and 341L; 351; 356/357; or 361. The department will not accept courses taken pass/fail to count toward the minor.

*The same numbered course cannot be repeated. Subsequent courses should be taken in consecutive order.

Chemistry 88
Unless otherwise stated, all chemistry courses are open to chemistry majors on a letter-grade basis only (even those courses not required for the major). Majors are also required to complete on a letter-grade basis the required physics and mathematics courses.

A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in the first two years of chemistry is required of students who elect to major in the department. Admission to any class is contingent upon satisfactory grades in prerequisite courses, and registration for advanced courses must be approved by the department. Candidates for either the BA or BS degree with a major in chemistry must have a minimum grade point average of 2.0 in their chemistry courses numbered 200 or above.

Qualified BS majors are considered for honors in chemistry. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Chemistry,” a student must have a minimum grade point average in chemistry courses of 3.3 and a minimum overall grade point average of 3.0. In addition, the honors candidate must satisfactorily complete an approved research project, prepare a paper describing the project, and present results at a seminar for departmental approval. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Junior: Chem. 341, 341L, 342, 342L
Senior: Chem. 361, 361L

For the BS major, the following schedule of chemistry and related courses is typical:

First Year: Chem. 111 (or 109), 111L, 122, 122L, Math. 111, 112
Sophomore: Chem. 223, 223L, 230, 260, Physics 113, 114, Math 113 (or 301)
Junior: Chem. 341, 341L, 344, 342L, 381, 382, 383, 391 (or 392), Math 113 (or 301)
Senior: Chem. 334, 334L, 361, 361L, 381, 382, 300-level elective

For variations in either of the schedules above, the student should consult a member of the faculty in chemistry.

The department will accept transfer courses completed by incoming transfer students provided that those courses were taken only at four-year colleges and universities that offer a major in chemistry. These courses must be equivalent in content and level to courses offered at Wake Forest University (as judged by a departmental curriculum committee). Courses taken in summer school elsewhere, or in Wake Forest University study abroad programs, must meet these same criteria and receive pre-approval. Advanced courses, 300-level and above, are typically not transferable. Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in chemistry at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

108. Everyday Chemistry. (4h) Introduction to chemistry for non-science majors. Laboratory covers experimental aspects of topics discussed in lecture. Satisfies Division V requirement. A student may not receive credit for both Chemistry 108 and either Chemistry 109 or 111. Lab—three hours. (QR)
*109. Tutorial in General Chemistry. (3.5h) Fundamental chemical principles. Intended for students with insufficient background in chemistry. A student may not receive credit for both Chemistry 109 and either Chemistry 108 or 111. Covers same material as Chemistry 111 but meets four times weekly. Admission by placement exam only. C—CHM 111L. (QR)

*111. College Chemistry. (3h) Fundamental chemical principles. Admission by placement exam only. C—CHM 111L. (QR)

*111L. College Chemistry Lab. (1h) Laboratory covers experimental aspects of basic concepts. Lab—three hours. C—CHM 111 or 109.

120. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h) The course coheres the basic physical and chemical processes in the earth’s atmosphere, biosphere and the oceans. It consists of two parts: 1) chemical processes in the environment such as element cycles and the chemistry of the pollutants in air and water and, 2) physical aspects of the environment such as solar energy and the atmosphere, and the physics of weather and climate. Lab—three hours. P—CHM 109, 111 or Physics 113. (Also listed as Environmental Studies 225 and Physics 120.) (QR)

*122. Introduction to Organic Chemistry. (3h) Principles and reactions of organic chemistry. P—CHM 111 or 109. C—CHM 122L.

*122L. Introduction to Organic Chemistry Lab. (1h) Lab—four hours. P—CHM 111 or 109. C—CHM 122.

*223L. Organic Chemistry II Lab. (1h) Lab—four hours. P—CHM 122. C—CHM 223L.

230. Analytical Biochemistry. (2h) Survey of laboratory methods used to determine the composition of biological samples. 7.5 weeks. Lab—four hours. P—CHM 223.

260. Introduction to Inorganic Chemistry. (2h) Introductory thermodynamics; descriptive inorganic and bio-inorganic chemistry. 7.5 weeks. Lab—four hours. P—CHM 230.

334. Chemical Analysis. (4h) Theoretical and practical applications of modern methods of chemical analysis. Lab—four hours (CHM 334L). C—CHM 341, 341L, or permission of instructor.

* The lecture and corresponding lab are strict co-requisites of each other. A student must register for both during the same semester. (However, either can be repeated independently if the student wishes.)
*341L. Physical Chemistry I Lab. (1h) Lab—four hours. P—Either CHM 116 or 260, Mathematics 111, Physics 113-114. C—CHM 341, Mathematics 112.

*342L. Physical Chemistry IIA Lab. (1h) Lab—four hours. P—CHM 341, Mathematics 111-112, Physics 113-114. C—CHM 342 or 344.

*344. Physical Chemistry IIB. (3h) Fundamentals of quantum mechanics, statistical thermodynamics, and introductory computational methods. Lab—four hours. P—CHM 341, Mathematics 111-112 and 301 (or 113), Physics 113-114. C—CHM 342L, (Physics 114, with permission of instructor).

356, 357. Chemical Spectroscopy. (1.5h,1.5h) Fundamental aspects of the theory and application of chemical spectroscopy, as found in the areas of analytical, inorganic, organic, and physical chemistry. Emphasis will vary. Seven-week courses. P—CHM 342 or 344, or permission of instructor.

*361L. Inorganic Chemistry Lab. (1h) Lab—four hours. P—CHM 342 or 344. C—CHM 361.

381, 382. Chemistry Seminar. (0h,0h) Discussions of contemporary research. Attendance required of BS chemistry majors in the junior and senior years.

383. Chemical Literature. (1h) Introduction to the chemical literature and searching techniques for the acquisition of chemical information. P—CHM 222.

391, 392. Undergraduate Research. (1.5h,1.5h) Undergraduate research. Lab—eight hours.

* The lecture and corresponding lab are strict co-requisites of each other. A student must register for both during the same semester. (However, either can be repeated independently if the student wishes.)
Classical Languages (CLA)
John L. Andronica, Chair
Professors John L. Andronica, Robert W. Ulery Jr.
Associate Professors Mary L. B. Pendergraft, James T. Powell

The Department of Classical Languages offers majors and minors in three areas: Greek, Latin, and classical studies.

A major in Greek requires twenty-four hours in the department beyond Greek 112. Twenty-one of these hours must be in Greek courses; Greek 225 is required. Also required is History 315.

A minor in Greek requires fifteen hours: Greek 153; two 200-level courses in Greek; Classics 275 or History 315; and one additional course in Greek (200-level), Latin, or classics.

A major in Latin requires twenty-four hours in the department beyond Latin 153. Eighteen of these hours must be in Latin courses; Latin 250 is required. Also required is History 316.

A minor in Latin requires fifteen hours: three 200-level courses in Latin; Classics 276 or History 316; and one additional course in Greek, Latin (200-level), or classics.

A major in classical studies requires thirty hours. A minimum of twenty-one hours must be taken in the department. The following are required:

a. One 200-level course in Greek or Latin (prerequisites to this course do not count toward the thirty required hours);

b. Classics 275 and Classics 276;

c. History 315 or History 316;

d. At least one course from the following: Art 241 (Ancient Art); Art 244 (Greek Art); Art 245 (Roman Art); History 308 (Alexander the Great); Philosophy 232 (Ancient and Medieval Philosophy); Philosophy 331 (Plato); Philosophy 332 (Aristotle); Religion 314 (Ancient Israel and Her Neighbors). Other courses may be substituted by permission of the department.

A minor in classical studies requires a minimum of eighteen hours in the department, of which no more than seven may be in Greek or Latin courses. Classics 275 or 276 is required.

The requirements for certification to teach Latin in high school are the same as the requirements for a major in Latin. A major in classical studies may serve as an appropriate part of the program of studies required for certification to teach Latin in high school. A student wishing to secure this certification should confer with the chair of the department.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in Latin, Greek, or classical studies. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Latin,” “Honors in Greek,” or “Honors in Classical Studies,” a student must complete an honors research project and pass a comprehensive oral examination. For honors in Latin or Greek, at least two of the courses counted toward the major must be seminar courses; for honors in classical studies, at least one seminar course in Latin,
Greek, or classics is required. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted. (Refer to pages listing minimum college requirements.)

Greek

111, 112. Elementary Greek. (4h,4h) An introduction to the language; the courses provide a foundation for reading in the ancient authors.

153. Intermediate Greek. (3h) Review of grammar; readings in classical authors. P—Greek 112 or equivalent.

211. Plato. (3h) Selections from the dialogues of Plato. P—Greek 153 or equivalent.

212. Homer. (3h) Selections from the Iliad and the Odyssey. P—Greek 153 or equivalent.

221. Greek Readings. (1.5h or 3h) A course designed to meet individual needs and interests. P—Permission of instructor.

241. Greek Tragedy. (3h) Close study of a selected tragedy or tragedies. This course includes consideration of the origin and history of Greek tragedy, with collateral reading of other tragedies in English translation. Seminar. P—Greek 211, 212, or equivalent.

242. Greek Comedy. (3h) Close study of a selected comedy or comedies of Aristophanes. This course includes consideration of the origin and history of Greek comedy, with collateral reading of other comedies in English translation. Seminar. P—Greek 211, 212, or equivalent.

291, 292. Honors in Greek. (1.5h,1.5h) Directed research for honors paper. P—Permission of the department.

Latin

111, 112. Elementary Latin. (3h,3h) An introduction to the language; the courses provide a foundation for reading in the ancient authors.

113. Intensive Elementary Latin. (4h) An introduction to the language; the course covers the material of Latin 111 and 112 in one semester. Not open to students who have had Latin 111 or 112.

120. Reading Medieval Latin. (1.5h,3h) Introduction to post-classical Latin with readings in selected works from late antiquity and the middle ages. P—Latin 112 or equivalent.

211. Introduction to Latin Poetry. (3h) Readings from selected poets mainly of the late Republic and early Empire, with an introduction to literary criticism. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

212. Introduction to Latin Prose. (3h) Readings primarily from the works of Cicero, with attention to their artistry and historical context. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

216. Roman Lyric Poetry. (3h) An interpretation and evaluation of lyric poetry through readings from the poems of Catullus and Horace. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

218. Roman Epic Poetry. (3h) Readings in the epics of Virgil and Ovid, with attention to their position in the epic tradition. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

221. Roman Historians. (3h) Readings in the works of Sallust, Livy, or Tacitus, with attention to the historical background and the norms of ancient historiography. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

225. Roman Epistolography. (3h) Selected readings from the correspondence of Cicero and Pliny the Younger and the verse epistles of Horace and Ovid. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

226. Roman Comedy. (3h) Readings of selected comedies of Plautus and Terence, with a study of the traditions of comedy and dramatic techniques. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

231. Roman Elegy. (3h) Readings from the poems of Tibullus, Propertius, and Ovid, with study of the elegiac tradition. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

241. Roman Satire. (3h) Selected readings from Horace and Juvenal, with attention to the origin and development of hexameter satire. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

243. Latin Readings. (1.5h or 3h) A course designed to meet individual needs and interests. P—Permission of instructor.

250. Advanced Grammar and Composition. (3h) Intensive work in morphology and syntax, with practice in composition and stylistic analysis of selected readings. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

Seminars

The following seminars are offered by members of the faculty on topics and authors of their choice. A paper is required.

260. Seminar in Latin Poetry. (3h) Advanced study in selected authors and topics. A research paper is required. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

280. Seminar in Latin Prose. (3h) Advanced study in selected authors and topics. A research paper is required. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

291, 292. Honors in Latin. (1.5h, 1.5h) Directed research for honors paper. P—Permission of the department.
Classics

151. Ethics in Greece and Rome. (1.5h) Reading and discussion of Aristotle’s Ethics and Cicero’s On Moral Duties, with attention to our own ethical dilemmas. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

252. Women in Antiquity. (3h) The course explores the place of women in Greek and Roman society through the study of a wide range of primary sources, literary and non-literary. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required. (CD)

255. Classical Epic: Iliad, Odyssey, Aeneid. (3h) A study of the three principal epic poems from ancient Greece and Rome. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

259. Virgil and His English Legacy. (3h) A study of Virgil’s Eclogues, Georgics, and selected passages of the Aeneid, and their influence on English literature, using translations and original works by writers of the sixteenth through the eighteenth centuries, including Spenser, Marlowe, Milton, Dryden, and Pope. Knowledge of Latin is not required. (Also listed as English 319.)

261. Greek Myth. (3h) A consideration, principally through close study of selected literary works, of Greek myth in its various forms, primary (archaic and classical periods) and secondary (Hellenistic and Roman); the course also will consider Greek myth’s afterlife in the modern period. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required.

263. Greek Tragedy. (3h) A study of the plays of Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required.

264. Greek and Roman Comedy. (3h) Representative works of Aristophanes, Menander, Plautus, and Terence, with attention to the origins and development of comedy. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

275. The Age of Pericles. (3h) A study of Greek culture in all its aspects during the fifth century. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required. (CD)

276. The Age of Augustus. (3h) A study of Roman culture in all its aspects during the early Empire. A knowledge of the Latin language is not required. (CD)

279. Studies in Roman Biography. (1.5h or 3h) A study in depth of a key figure of Roman history using the evidence of history, literature, numismatics, and epigraphy as well as art and archeology when appropriate. A knowledge of the Latin language is not required.

285. Interdisciplinary Seminar in the Greco-Roman World. (3h) This seminar is designed specially to meet the needs of students earning the interdisciplinary minor in early Christian studies, but is not limited to them. It will explore from various points of view the culture of the Mediterranean world from which Christianity was born and grew: literature and art, history and economics, religions and philosophies. Also offered by the Department of Religion as Religion 285. Course may be repeated for credit.

288. Individual Study. (1.5h or 3h)

291, 292. Honors in Classical Studies. (1.5h, 1.5h) Directed research for honors paper. P—Permission of the department.
Communication (COM)

Randall Gage Rogan, Chair
University Distinguished Chair in Communication Ethics and Professor of Communication Michael J. Hyde
Professors Michael David Hazen, Jill Jordan McMillan
Associate Professors John T. Llewellyn, Allan D. Louden, Ananda Mitra, Randall Gage Rogan, Margaret D. Zulick
Assistant Professors Mary M. Dalton, Eric K. Watts
Visiting Assistant Professors Geoffrey Baym, Deepa Kumar, Claude Miller
Adjunct Assistant Professors Steven M. Giles, Dee Oseroff-Varnell
Instructor Ernest S. Jarrett
Adjunct Instructors Wayne R. Bills, Connie Chesner, Susan L. Faust, Denise Franklin, Karen L. Oxendine
Debate Coach Ross K. Smith

A major in communication requires thirty hours, at least twelve of which must be at the 300-level. All majors are required to take courses 100, 110, 220 and 225 and should begin their study of communication with these courses. An overall minimum grade point average of 2.0 in all communication courses attempted is required for graduation.

A minor in communication requires eighteen hours, at least three of which must be at the 300-level, and shall include courses 100, 110, and 220 or 225. An overall minimum grade point average of 2.0 in all communication courses attempted is required for graduation.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in communication. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Communication,” students must pass the departmental honors courses (398 and 399), complete a senior research project, and satisfactorily defend their work in an oral examination. For more details, consult faculty members in the department.

Finally, no student may take more than a total of six hours in Communication 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, and 285 combined, and only three hours may count toward a major in communication.

100. Introduction to Communication and Rhetoric. (3h) An introduction to the theories, research, and analysis of verbal and nonverbal processes by which human beings share meanings and influence one another.

110. Public Speaking. (3h) A study of the theory and practice of public address. Lab experiences in the preparation, delivery, and critique of informative and persuasive speeches.

113. Interpersonal Communication. (3h) An introduction to interpersonal communication theory, research and principles.

114. Group Communication. (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of group interaction and decision-making. The course features lectures and discussions of theory and includes opportunities to participate in formal and informal group processes.
116. On-Camera Performance. (3h) Designed to introduce students to the theory and practice of performing for the camera. This course covers basic method acting, newscasting, and other performance formats. (Also listed as Theatre 141.)

117. Writing for Public Relations and Advertising. (1.5h, 3h) Principles and techniques of public relations and applied advertising. Students use case studies to develop public relations and advertising strategies. P—Permission of instructor. (Also listed as Journalism 286.)

140. Information and Disinformation on the Internet. (1.5h) An examination of information gathering practices on the Internet and World Wide Web. Students will develop and apply standards for evaluating information through analysis of Web sites dealing with important and controversial topics.

212. Introduction to Production and Theory. (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of media production, including critical and aesthetic theories, scriptwriting, producing, directing, photography, sound recording, editing, and standards of operation for the production facilities and equipment. This course is a prerequisite for 213, 214, 215, and 310.

213. Media Production: Documentary. (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of producing non-fiction works in film or video, including conventional documentary forms and autobiographical or experimental works. P—COM 212.

214. Media Production: Narrative. (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of producing narrative works in film and video. P—COM 212

215. Broadcast Journalism (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of broadcast journalism. Topics will include ethics, technology, and the media as industry, and projects will address writing, producing, and performing for radio and television. P—COM 212.

220. Empirical Research in Communication. (3h) An introduction to methodological design and univariate statistics as used in communication research.

225. Historical/Critical Research in Communication. (3h) Introduces students to the historical and critical analysis of rhetoric. Examines current methods of rhetorical criticism with a view to researching and composing a critical paper in the field.

245. Introduction to Mass Communication. (3h) A historical survey of mass media and an examination of major contemporary media issues.

246. Introduction to Film. (3h) An introduction to the aesthetics of motion pictures through a study of the basic elements of film such as cinematography, editing, sound, lighting, color, etc.

270. Special Seminar. (1-3h) An examination of selected topics in communication.

280. Communication Internship I. (1.5h) Individual communication internships to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. Pass/fail only. P—Permission of instructor.

281. Communication Internship II. (1.5h) Individual communication internships to be approved, supervised and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. Pass/fail only. P—Permission of instructor.
282. Debate Practicum I. (1.5h) Individual projects in debate to be approved, supervised and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. Pass/fail only. P—Permission of instructor.

283. Debate Practicum II. (1.5h) Individual projects in debate to be approved, supervised and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. Pass/fail only. P—Permission of instructor.

284. Production Practicum I. (1.5h) Individual projects in media production to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. Pass/fail only. P—Permission of instructor.

285. Production Practicum II. (1.5h) Individual projects in media production to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. Pass/fail only. P—Permission of instructor.

286. Individual Study. (1-3h) Directed study in an area of interest to be approved and supervised by a faculty adviser. P—Permission of instructor.

300. Classical Rhetoric. (3h) A study of major writings in Greek and Roman rhetorical theory from the Sophists to Augustine. Offered in alternate years.

301. Semantics and Language in Communication. (3h) A study of how meaning is created by sign processes. Among the topics studied are language theory, semiotics, speech act theory, and pragmatics. (Also listed as Linguistics 301.)

302. Argumentation Theory. (3h) An examination of argumentation theory and criticism; examines both theoretical issues and social practices. Offered in alternate years.

303S. Directing the Forensic Program. (1.5h, 3h) A pragmatic study of the methods of directing high school and college forensics with work in the High School Debate Workshop. Offered in the summer.

304. Freedom of Speech. (3h) An examination of the philosophical and historical traditions, significant cases, and contemporary controversies concerning freedom of expression. Offered in alternate years.

305. Communication and Ethics. (3h) A study of the role of communication in ethical controversies.

306. Seminar in Rhetorical Theory: Burke & Bakhtin. (3h) Examines the language theories of Kenneth Burke and Mikhail Bakhtin in relation to contemporary rhetorical theory.

310. Advanced Media Production. (3h) Students produce advanced projects in either film or video over which they assume significant creative control. P—COM 212 and at least one of 213, 214, or 215.

311. Film Theory and Criticism. (3h) A study of film aesthetics through an analysis of the work of selected filmmakers and film critics. P—COM 246 or permission of instructor.

312. Film History to 1945. (3h) A survey of the developments of motion pictures to 1945. Includes lectures, readings, reports, and screenings.

313. Film History since 1945. (3h) A survey of the development of motion pictures from 1946 to the present day. Includes lectures, readings, reports, and screenings.
314. Mass Communication Theory. (3h) Theoretical approaches to the role of communication in reaching mass audiences and its relationship to other levels of communication. P—COM 245.

315. Communication and Technology. (3h) An exploration of how communication technologies influence the social, political, and organizational practices of everyday life.

316. Screenwriting. (3h) An introduction to narrative theory as well as examination of the role of the screenwriter in the motion picture industry, the influence of film genre on screenwriting, and the politics of nontraditional narrative structures. Students are expected to complete an original, feature-length screenplay.

317. Communication and Popular Culture. (3h) Explores the relationship between contemporary media and popular culture from a cultural studies perspective using examples from media texts.

330. Communication and Conflict. (3h) A review of the various theoretical perspectives on conflict and negotiation as well as methods for managing relational conflict.

335. Survey of Organizational Communication. (3h) An overview of the role of communication in constituting and maintaining the pattern of activities that sustain the modern organization.

336. Organizational Rhetoric. (3h) Explores the persuasive nature of organizational messages—those exchanged between organizational members and those presented in behalf of the organization as a whole. Offered in alternate years.

337. Rhetoric of Institutions. (3h) A study of the communication practices of institutions as they seek to gain and maintain social legitimacy. Offered in alternate years.

338. The Art of 20th Century African-American Rhetoric. (3h) This course explores how African-Americans have invented a public voice in the 20th century. The course focuses on how artistic cultural expression, in particular, has shaped black public speech.

343. Presidential Rhetoric. (3h) Examines theory and practice of speechmaking and mediated presidential communication.

340. American Rhetorical Movements to 1900. (3h) Examines the interrelation of American rhetorical movements through the nineteenth century by reading and analyzing original speeches and documents with emphasis on antislavery and women’s rights.

341. American Rhetorical Movements since 1900. (3h) Examines the interrelation of American rhetorical movements in the twentieth century by reading and analyzing original speeches and documents. Among the movements addressed are labor, civil rights, student radicals, and women’s liberation.

342. Political Communication. (3h) Study of electoral communication, including candidate and media influences on campaign speeches, debates, and advertising.

350. Intercultural Communication. (3h) An introduction to the study of communication phenomena between individuals and groups with different cultural backgrounds. Offered in alternate years. (CD)
351. Comparative Communication. (1.5h, 3h) A comparison of communicative and linguistic processes in one or more national cultures with those of the United States. (Also listed as Linguistics 351.) (CD)
   - 351A Japan (CD)
   - 351B Russia (CD)
   - 351C Great Britain (CD)
   - 351D Multiple Countries (CD)
   - 351E China (CD)

352. Interpersonal Seminar. (3h) Advanced study of theories and research in one or more of the specialized concentrations of interpersonal communications.

353. Persuasion. (3h) An examination of theories and research concerning the process of social influence in contemporary society.

354. International Communication. (3h) An in-depth look at the role of mass media in shaping communication between and about cultures using examples from traditional and emerging media systems.

355. Health Communication. (3h) An examination of theories, research, and processes of health communication in contemporary society.

370. Special Topics. (1-3h) An examination of topics not covered in the regular curriculum.

380. Great Teachers. (1h, 1.5h, 3h) An intensive study of the ideas of three noted scholars and teachers in the field of communication. Students will interact with each teacher during a two- to three-day visit to Wake Forest.

398. Honors in Communication I. (1.5h) Intensive research in an area of special interest for selected seniors who wish to graduate with departmental honors. P—Permission of department. Fall semester only.

399. Honors in Communication II. (1.5h) Intensive research in an area of special interest for selected seniors who wish to graduate with departmental honors. P—Permission of department. Spring semester only.
A major in computer science requires thirty-seven hours in computer science and four courses in mathematics. The courses in computer science must include 111, 112, 211, 221, 222, 231, and 241. The required courses in mathematics are 111, 112, 117, and 121 or 302. Either Mathematics 256 or 357 is also recommended for students considering graduate work in computer science. All students anticipating a major in computer science are encouraged to take Computer Science 111 and the appropriate mathematics courses during their first year of college. Potential majors should consult a major adviser in the department for assistance in planning an appropriate course of study.

A minor in computer science requires four computer science courses of at least three hours each and numbered higher than 101; Mathematics 117; and an additional three hours in mathematics other than Mathematics 105.

A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in courses that comprise a major or minor in the department is required for graduation.

Students with a special interest in multimedia development may wish to consider a program of study that combines computer science and digital art. Advisers in either the computer science or the art department can provide further information on coordinating a computer science major with an art minor, or vice versa.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Computer Science,” students must satisfactorily complete a senior research paper and have a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the major and 3.0 in all college course work. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Students who are enrolled at Wake Forest University may not take courses in computer science at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

101. Overview of Computer Science. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. An introduction to the organization and use of computers. Topics include computer architecture, systems, theory, logic, programming, the Internet, multimedia, and ethical, legal, and social issues. Does not count toward the computer science major or minor. Lab—two hours.

111. Introduction to Computer Science. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. A rigorous introduction to the process of algorithmic problem solving and programming in a modern programming language. Recommended as the first course for most computer science majors. Lab—two hours.
112. Fundamentals of Computer Science. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Problem solving and program construction using top-down design, data abstraction, and object-oriented programming. Linear data structures, recursion, and software development tools are introduced. Lab—two hours. P—CSC 111 or permission of instructor.

165. Problem Solving Seminar. (1h, P/F) A weekly seminar designed for students to develop their problem solving skills designing and implementing software. Does not count towards the computer science major or minor. May be taken twice. P—CSC 112. Pass/Fail.

191. Special Topics. (1, 2 or 3h) Topics in computer science that are not covered in regular courses or that give special practice in skills used in other courses. Not to be counted toward the major or minor in computer science. May be taken more than once if the topic changes.

211. Computer Organization. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Computer organization from the perspective of instructions, including the central processor, busses, input and output units, and memory units. A weekly two-hour laboratory covers combinational logic, loaders and linkers, assembly language, address computation, and other architecture related functions. Lab—two hours. P—CSC 112 and Mathematics 117.

221. Data Structures. (3h) Study, analysis, and implementation of abstract data structures such as stacks, queues, trees, and graphs. Complexity analysis of algorithms that operate upon these structures. P—CSC 112. C—Mathematics 117.

222. Data Structures and Algorithms II. (3h) A continuation of the study, analysis, and implementation of abstract data structures. The complexity of algorithms is studied more rigorously than in Computer Science 221 and complexity classes are introduced. P—CSC 221 and Mathematics 111. (QR)

231. Programming Languages. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. A comparative study of programming language paradigms, including imperative languages, functional programming, logic programming, and object-oriented programming. Syntax, semantics, parsing, grammars, and issues in language design are covered. Lab—two hours. P—CSC 112 and Mathematics 117.

241. Computer Systems. (3h) Introduction to concepts of operating systems and networks including processor and memory management, concurrency, and protocol independent data communications. P—CSC 211 and 221.

311. Computer Architecture. (3h) An in-depth study of computer system and architecture design. Topics include processor design, memory hierarchy, external storage devices, interface design, and parallel architectures. P—CSC 211.

321. Database Management Systems. (3h) An introduction to large-scale database management systems. Topics include data independence, database models, query languages, security, integrity, and concurrency. P—CSC 221.

331. Object-Oriented Software Engineering. (3h) A study of software design and implementation from an object-oriented perspective, covering abstraction, encapsulation, data protection, inheritance, composition, polymorphism, and dynamic vs. static binding. Students practice software engineering principles through team projects. P—CSC 221 and 231.
333. Principles of Compiler Design. (3h) A study of techniques for compiling computer languages including scanning, parsing, translating, and generating and optimizing code. P—CSC 211 and 221.

343. Internet Protocols. (3h) The study of wide area connectivity through interconnection networks. Emphasis will be placed on Internet architecture and protocols. Topics include addressing, routing, multicasting, quality of service, and network security. P—CSC 241.

352. Numerical Linear Algebra. (3h) Numerical methods for solving matrix and related problems in science and engineering. Topics will include systems of linear equations, least squares methods, and eigenvalue computations. Special emphasis given to parallel matrix computations. Beginning knowledge of a programming language such as Pascal, FORTRAN, or C is required. Credit is not allowed for both Mathematics 326 and Computer Science 352. P—CSC 111 and Mathematics 112, 121 or 302.

355. Introduction to Numerical Methods. (3h) Numerical computations on modern computer architectures; floating-point arithmetic and round-off error. Programming in a scientific/engineering language such as MATLAB, C, or FORTRAN. Algorithms and computer techniques for the solution of problems such as roots of functions, approximation, integration, systems of linear equations, and least squares methods. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 355 and Computer Science 355. P—CSC 111 and Mathematics 112, Mathematics 121 or 302.

361. Digital Media. (3h) An introduction to digital media covering multimedia file formats, data encoding and compression, multimedia network issues, streaming data, resolution and color representation, markup languages, and multimedia programming tools. P—CSC 221 and Mathematics 111.

363. Computer Graphics. (3h) A study of software and hardware techniques in computer graphics. Topics include line and polygon drawing, hidden line and surface techniques, transformations, and ray tracing. P—CSC 221 and Mathematics 121 or 302.

365. Image Processing Fundamentals. (3h) A study of the basic theory and algorithms for image enhancement, restoration, segmentation, and analysis. P—CSC 221 and Mathematics 121 or 302.

371. Artificial Intelligence. (3h) An introduction to problems in artificial intelligence. Knowledge representation and heuristic search in areas such as planning, machine learning, pattern recognition, and theorem proving. P—CSC 222.

391. Selected Topics. (1h-3h) Topics in computer science that are not studied in regular courses or which further examine topics covered in regular courses. P—Permission of instructor.

393. Individual Study. (1h, 2h, or 3h) A course of independent study directed by a faculty adviser. By prearrangement. No more than 3 hours may be counted towards the computer science major. Not to be counted towards the minor in computer science.
Cultural Resource Preservation (CRP)

Professor of Anthropology Ned Woodall, Coordinator

The Departments of Anthropology, Art, History, and Sociology offer an interdisciplinary minor in cultural resource preservation (CRP) which will give students preliminary training in the field of historic preservation and cultural resource management aimed at the protection and enhancement of archeological, historical, and architectural resources.

The minor requires History 366, Studies in Historic Preservation (3h), and four other courses for a total of fifteen hours. These fifteen hours must be distributed among at least three departments. The following courses may be included in the minor. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Anthropology
- 112. Introduction to Archeology. (3h)
  (May count as a Division IV requirement.)
- 305. Museum Anthropology. (3h)
- 370. Old World Prehistory. (3h)
- 374. Prehistory of North America. (3h)
- 378. Conservation Archeology. (1.5h)
- 381, 382. Archeological Research. (3h, 3h)

Art
- 233. American Architecture. (3h)
- 275. History of Landscape Architecture. (3h)
- 288. Modern Architecture. (3h)
- 293. Practicum. (3h)

History
- 381, 382. Preservation Practicum I, II. (3h, 3h)
- 398. Individual Study. (1h, 1.5h, 2h, 3h)

Sociology
- 151. Principles of Sociology. (3h)
  (May count as a Division IV requirement.)
- 205. Photography in the Social Sciences. (3h)

Students intending to minor in Cultural Resource Preservation should consult the adviser appointed from one of the participating departments and listed with the registrar. Students are strongly urged to consult the adviser during the first semester of their junior year. Equivalent courses must be approved by the adviser.
Early Christian Studies

Associate Professor of Classical Languages Mary Pendergraft and Professor of Religion Kenneth G. Hoglund, Coordinators

The interdisciplinary minor in early Christian studies currently requires eighteen hours.

A. The student must take the following courses:

Religion
321. Introduction to the New Testament. (3h)

Classics
276. The Age of Augustus. (3h)

Classics/Religion
285. Interdisciplinary Seminar in the Greco-Roman World. (3h)

B. The student must take three additional courses (nine additional hours), with no more than one course (three hours) from any one department, from the following list:

Art
241. Ancient Art. (3h)
244. Greek Art. (3h)
245. Roman Art. (3h)
296. Art History Seminar. (1.5h, 3h)  a. Ancient Art / b. Medieval Art

Greek
231. Greek New Testament. (3h)

History
315, 316. The Ancient World. (3h, 3h)

Philosophy
232. Ancient and Medieval Philosophy. (3h)
331. Plato. (3h)
332. Aristotle. (3h)

Religion
261. Foundations of Traditional Judaism. (1.5h)
319. Visions of the End: Jewish and Christian Apocalyptic. (3h)
320. Jesus and the Synoptic Gospels. (3h)
322. The General Epistles. (3h)
323. Parables of Jesus. (3h)
324. Early Christian Literature. (3h)
326. Early Christian Theologians: Paul. (3h)
327. Early Christian Theologians: the Fourth Evangelist. (3h)
328. The New Testament and Ethics. (3h)
372. (a) Patristic Thought. (1.5h)
East Asian Languages and Literatures

Patrick Moran, Coordinator
Associate Professor Patrick Moran, David P. Phillips
Assistant Professor Yaohua Shi
Lecturer Yasuko Takata

East Asian Languages and Literatures offers minors in Chinese language and in Japanese language. The common requirements for these minors are as follows: six hours in the language beyond the 211 level. Three of these hours should be in an advanced conversation class, either as 220, an independent study, or an equivalent course in an approved language program in China or Japan. Minor candidates are also required to participate in a semester educational exchange program in China or Japan, either through the SASASAAS program in Beijing, the Wake Forest University program at Kansai Gaidai in Japan, or in other overseas study programs in China, Taiwan, or Japan approved by the program in East Asian Languages and Literatures.

American Ethnic Studies (AES)

Chinese (CHI)

CHI 111, 112. Elementary Chinese. (4h,4h) Emphasis on the development of listening and speaking skills in Mandarin. Introduction to the writing system and to basic sentence patterns. Lab required.

CHI 199. Individual Study. (1-3h) P—Permission of instructor.

CHI 211. Wen-xue: Introduction to Literature Written in Chinese. (4h) Readings in Chinese in prose and poetry. P—CHI 153 or permission of instructor. Satisfies a Division II requirement.

CHI 212. Wen-xue: Introduction to Literature Written in Chinese. (3h) Readings in contemporary Taiwan and mainland Chinese literature. P—CHI 153 or permission of instructor. Satisfies a Division II requirement.

CHI 220. Advanced Conversation. (3h) Concentration on advanced conversational and interactional skills using a body of reading materials and audiovisual materials as the basis for class discussion. P—CHI 211, 212 or permission of instructor.
CHI 230. Advanced Chinese I. (3h) Integration of speaking, reading, and writing skills with emphasis on written and audiovisual sources including newspapers, literature and film. P—CHI 220 or permission of instructor.

CHI 231. Advanced Chinese II. (3h) Integration of speaking, reading, and writing skills with emphasis on written and audiovisual sources including newspapers, literature and film. P—CHI 230 or permission of instructor.

CHI 251. Business Hanyu. (3h) Communicating in Mandarin Chinese for business purposes. Addresses cultural differences in communication and spoken and written linguistic forms. P—CHI 153 or permission of instructor.

*Humanities 221. Introduction to Chinese Literature. (3h)
*Humanities 350. Modern Chinese Literature. (3h)

*Religion 380. Main Streams of Chinese Philosophy and Religion. (3h)

Humanities (HMN)

HMN 221. Introduction to Chinese Literature. (3h) Readings and discussions in fiction, drama, and poetry from the traditional and modern periods. Satisfies a Division II requirement.

HMN 251. The Asian American Experience: Literature and Personal Narratives. (3h) An introduction to the writings and narratives of Asian Americans of South and Southeast Asian descent, including Asian Americans of Chinese, Japanese, Korean, and Indian descent. The course explores the process of assimilation, including the effects of immigration and cultural conflict on literary forms of expression, as well as the formation of new cultural identities.

Japanese (JPN)

JPN 111, 112. Elementary Japanese. (4h,4h) Emphasis on the development of listening and speaking skills. Introduction to the writing systems. Basic sentence patterns covered. Lab required.

JPN 153. Intermediate Japanese. (4h) Further study in grammar, reading, conversation, and composition. Lab required. P—JPN 112 or equivalent.

JPN 199. Individual Study. (1-3h) P—Permission of instructor.

JPN 211. Bungaku: Introduction to Literature Written in Modern Japanese. (4h) Readings in Japanese in prose and poetry. P—JPN 153 or permission of instructor. Satisfies a Division II requirement.

JPN 220. Advanced Conversation. (3h) Study of conversational and interactional skills using reading materials and audiovisual materials as basis for class discussion. P—JPN 211.

* See appropriate listings for descriptions and prerequisites of courses given in English.
JPN 230. Advanced Japanese I. (3h) Integration of speaking, reading, and writing skills with emphasis on written and audiovisual sources including newspapers, literature, and film. P—JPN 220.

JPN 231. Advanced Japanese II. (3h) Continuation of Japanese 230, with emphasis on oral presentation and compositional skills. P—JPN 230.

Humanities 170. Understanding Japan. (3h) Understanding Japanese culture and behavior from the structure of social units such as family, educational institutions, and sports, artistic, and professional organizations.

*Humanities 219. Introduction to Japanese Literature. (3h) Major works of poetry, drama, and fiction from the classical and modern periods. Satisfies a Division II requirement.

*Humanities 347. Women Writers in Japanese Culture. (3h)

International Studies 210. Japanese and American Culture: A Cross-Cultural Comparison. (3h) An exploration and comparison of values, behavior, and beliefs in Japanese and American culture, with special attention to such topics as education, gender differences, and social hierarchy.

Linguistics 231. Language and Gender in Japanese Culture. (3h) Analyses of social and psychological factors related to gender differences in Japanese language usage. (Also listed as Women’s Studies 231.)

East Asian Studies

(Foreign Area Study)
Professor of Political Science Charles H. Kennedy, Coordinator

East Asian studies requires eighteen hours, which must be taken from at least three different departments and/or programs. One of these must be either Chinese 211 or Japanese 211. Although Asian Studies 381, Independent Research in Asian Studies, may be repeated for credit, only three of these hours can apply toward East Asian studies. Appropriate credit in East Asian studies also may be obtained by study in China through the SASASAAS/Wake Forest program or in Japan through the Wake Forest/Tokai University program, or through other Wake Forest-approved courses of study in Asia. Study abroad is strongly encouraged but not required. Courses may be chosen from among the following list. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Art 104. Topics in World Art (when focus is on Asia). (3h)
Asian Studies 311. Special Topics in Asian Studies. (1-3h)
381. Independent Research in Asian Studies. (1-3h)
Chinese Lang. & Literature 111,112. Elementary Chinese. (4h,4h)
199. Individual Study. (1-3h)
211. Wen-xue: Introduction to Literature Written in Chinese. (3h)

* See appropriate listings for descriptions and prerequisites of courses given in English.
Communication 351. Comparative Communication. (1h,3h)
   a. Japan

History 343. Imperial China. (3h)
344. Modern China. (3h)
346. Japan before 1800. (3h)
347. Japan since World War II. (3h)
348. Japan since 1800. (3h)

The objectives of the economics program are to help prepare students for effective participation in the decision-making processes of society, to develop analytical skills in solving economic problems, to promote a better understanding of alternative economic systems, and to provide a balanced curriculum to prepare students for graduate study or positions in industry and government.

The major in economics consists of twenty-seven hours in economics, including Economics 150, 201, 205, 206, 207, and at least one course from Economics 211, 222, 252 or 274. A minimum grade of C is required in Economics 150, 201, 205, and 207, and an overall 2.0 average in economics courses. The student also must make a minimum grade of C in either Mathematics 106 or 111 and Mathematics 109 (or similar course with permission of department chair).

The minor in economics consists of eighteen hours, including Economics 150, 205, and 207. The mathematics and minimum grade requirements for the minor are the same as for the major.

Economics majors are encouraged to take complementary courses in mathematics, the humanities, or other social sciences to sharpen their analytical skills and to acquire a broader understanding of important issues. The faculty adviser will assist each student in determining the particular combination of courses that satisfies his or her needs.

Students may graduate with “Honors in Economics” if they have a grade point average of at least 3.0 and 3.3 in economics, and earn a minimum grade of B- in the research course, Economics 298. It is recommended that Economics 297 be taken as preparation for 298.

The Department of Economics and the Department of Mathematics offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical economics. This interdisciplinary program, consisting of no more than forty-five hours, affords the student an opportunity to apply mathematical methods to the development of economic theory, models, and quantitative analysis. The major consists of the following course requirements: Economics 150, 205, 207, 210, 211, 215, 218; Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 254, 255; and three additional courses chosen with the approval of the program advisers. Students electing the joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Economics and the Department of Mathematics. A minimum grade average of C in all courses attempted for the mathematical economics joint major is required for graduation.

Highly qualified majors are encouraged to apply for admission to the honors program in the joint major. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Mathematical Economics,” a student must satisfy the requirements of Economics 298 or Mathematics 381 by successfully completing a senior research project. Consult the program advisers for additional information.

150. Introduction to Economics. (3h) A survey of micro and macroeconomic principles. Introduction to basic concepts, characteristic data and trends, and some analytic techniques. Preference in enrollment will be given to students with sophomore or upperclass standing.

168. The Political Economy of Environmental Policy. (1.5h) Develops a set of core economic principles essential for understanding and evaluating environmental policy issues. (Required for environmental studies minor. Does not count toward economics major and minor requirements unless Economics 248 also is successfully completed.)

201. Economic Data Analysis. (1.5h) A computer-oriented introduction to the gathering, presentation, and analysis of economic data. P—ECN 150.

208. Intermediate Macroeconomics II. (3h) Considers extensions of Keynesian theory, such as the post-Keynesians, and alternatives to Keynesian theory, such as monetarism, traditional classical, and new classical theories. More advanced tools of macroeconomic analysis may be introduced, for instance large forecasting models or dynamics. P—ECN 207.

210. Microeconomic Models. (1.5h) Development of formal models of consumer behavior, choice under risk, the firm, and demand and supply. Static and dynamic properties of the models are explored. P—ECN 205 and Mathematics 111.

211. Macroeconomic Models. (1.5h) Development of formal Keynesian, post-Keynesian, monetarist, and new classical macro models. Static and dynamic properties of the models are explored. P—ECN 207 and Mathematics 111.

215. Introduction to Econometrics. (3h) Economic analysis through quantitative methods, with emphasis on model construction and empirical research. P—ECN 150 and Mathematics 109 or 256.

216. Game Theory. (3h) An introduction to mathematical models of social and strategic interactions. P—ECN 205 and Mathematics 109 or 113.
218. Seminar in Mathematical Economics. (3h) Calculus and matrix methods used to develop basic tools of economic analysis. P—ECN 205, 207 and Mathematics 111, 112.

219. Decision Analysis. (3h) The theory and practice of decision making under uncertainty. Applications and examples are drawn from realms of personal, legal, business, medical, and environmental decision making. P—ECN 150 and Mathematics 109.

221. Public Finance. (3h) An examination of the economic behavior of government. Includes principles of taxation, spending, borrowing, and debt-management. P—ECN 205.

222.  Monetary Theory and Policy. (3h) An investigation of the nature of money, the macroeconomic significance of money, financial markets, and monetary policy. P—ECN 207.

224. Law and Economics. (3h) An economic analysis of property, contracts, torts, criminal behavior, due process, and law enforcement. P—ECN 205.

225. Public Choice. (3h) Traditional tools of economic analysis are employed to explore such topics in political science as political organization, elections, coalition formation, the optimal provision of public goods, and the scope of government. P—ECN 205 and 207.

231. Economics of Industry. (3h) Analysis of the link between market structure and market performance in United States industries from theoretical and empirical viewpoints. Examines the efficiency of mergers, cartels, and other firm behaviors. Case studies may include automobiles, steel, agriculture, computers, sports, and telecommunications. P—ECN 205.

232. Antitrust Economics. (1.5h,3h) Analysis of the logic and effectiveness of public policies designed to promote competition in the United States. P—ECN 150 and 205.

235. Labor Economics. (3h) A theoretical and empirical survey of labor markets. Topics include: the demand and supply of labor, compensating wage differentials, education and training, discrimination, unions, public sector employment, earnings inequality, and unemployment. P—ECN 205.

246. Urban Economics. (3h) Theoretical and empirical study of the city as an economic entity, with attention to land-use patterns and prices, urban decay and redevelopment, suburbanization, housing, and city finance. P—ECN 150.

251. International Trade. (3h) Development of the theory of international trade patterns and prices and the effects of trade restrictions such as tariffs and quotas. P—ECN 205.

252. International Finance. (3h) A study of foreign exchange and Eurocurrency markets, balance of payments, and macroeconomic policy in open economies. P—ECN 205, 207.
253. Economies in Transition. (3h) A theoretical and institutional examination of historically socialist nations and the dilemmas of transition. Special reference to the former Soviet Union. P—ECN 150.

254. Current Issues in African Development. (3h) A theoretical and practical study of the main economic, political and institutional dilemmas faced by African countries in the course of economic development. Summer study abroad class taught in Benin, West Africa. P—Permission of instructor.

258. Economic Growth and Development. (3h) A study of the problems of economic growth, with particular attention to the less developed countries of the world. P—ECN 205 or permission of instructor.

261. American Economic Development. (3h) The application of economic theory to historical problems and issues in the American economy. P—ECN 150.

262. History of Economic Thought. (3h) A historical survey of the main developments in economic thought from the Biblical period to the twentieth century. P—ECN 205, 207.

265. Economic Philosophers. (1.5h,3h) An in-depth study of the doctrines and influence of up to three major figures in economics, such as Smith, Marx, and Keynes. P—ECN 205, 207.

268. Morals and Markets. (3h) Historical survey of individualistic ethical values that have accompanied the development of market economics in the West. Considers critiques of, and alternatives to, these values. P—ECN 150.

270. Current Economic Issues. (1.5h,3h) Examines current economic issues using economic theory and empirical evidence. Topics may include recent macroeconomic trends, the distribution of income, minimum wages, immigration, social security, global warming, trade, regulation and deregulation, antitrust policy, health care, labor unions, tax reform, educational reform, and others. P—ECN 150.

271, 272. Selected Areas in Economics. (1h,1.5h,3h;1h,1.5h,3h) A survey of an important area in economics not included in the regular course offerings. The economics of housing, education, technology, and health services are examples. Students should consult the instructor to ascertain topic before enrolling. P—ECN 205, 207.

273. Economics for a Multicultural Future. (3h) Examines the challenges and promise of the increasingly diverse U.S. economy. P—ECN 150. (CD)

274. Topics in Macroeconomics. (3h) Considers significant issues and debates in macroeconomic theory and policy. Examples might include a New Classical-New Keynesian debate, the East Asian currency crisis of 1997-1998, conversion of federal deficit to surplus, competing models of economic growth, alternative monetary and fiscal policy targets. P—ECN 207.

290. Individual Study. (1.5h,3h) Directed readings in a specialized area of economics. P—Permission of instructor.

297. Preparing for Economic Research. (1.5h) Designed to assist students in selecting a research topic and beginning the study of the selected topic. P—Permission of instructor.

298. Economic Research. (3h) Development and presentation of a senior research project. Required of candidates for departmental honors. P—Permission of department.
Wake Forest University believes that the teaching profession is important to society and that its welfare is significantly affected by the quality of educational leadership. One of the important objectives of the University has been and continues to be the preparation of teachers. The University's commitment to quality in teacher education is demonstrated by selective admission to the program, a wide range of professional courses, and closely supervised internships appropriate to the professional development of students.

Prospective elementary and secondary social studies teachers earn licensure in those broad areas and major in education. Prospective secondary teachers of English, Latin, mathematics, science, and prospective K-12 teachers of foreign languages major in that discipline and minor in education. A minor in secondary social studies education is also available. In addition to the professional program, the department provides elective courses open to all students.

Teacher Licensure. The state of North Carolina issues the Professional Class A Teacher’s License to graduates who have completed an approved program, including the specified courses in their teaching fields and the prescribed courses in education, who have demonstrated specific competencies, and who receive recommendations from the designated officials in their teaching areas and from the licensure officer.

Students who have graduated from an institution of higher education but have not completed an approved licensure program may seek admission to the department in order to complete the Class A License.

Students who wish to prepare for teaching but are unable to devote a semester to student teaching can earn a non-licensure minor. This minor will ease attainment of a lateral entry teaching position.

Admission Requirements. Admission involves filing an official application with the department’s licensure officer, being interviewed, and being officially approved by the department. In addition, the state of North Carolina requires teacher education program applicants to successfully complete the Praxis I before being formally admitted.

All students are required to have a 2.5 or better grade point average before being formally accepted in the Teacher Education Program. Formal acceptance into the program should take place by June 1 of the junior year for secondary students and by February 1 of the junior year for elementary students.
Program Area Goals. The goals and objectives for each licensure area are available in the office of the Department of Education.

Course Requirements. The approved program of teacher education requires candidates to complete successfully a series of professional education courses. The exact sequence of professional and academic courses varies with a student’s particular program and is determined by the adviser in conference with the candidate. For those seeking secondary licensure, the majority of the professional work is taken during one semester of the senior year. Candidates for the elementary license typically begin course work required for licensure during the sophomore year.

Student Teaching. Prerequisites for registering for student teaching include (1) senior, graduate, or special student classification; (2) completion of Methods and Materials, Educational Technology, Educational Psychology, and the Foundations of Education courses; (3) formal admission to the teacher education program.

Students are assigned to student-teaching opportunities by public school officials on the basis of available positions and the professional needs of the student and the public school system. One semester of the senior year is reserved for the student-teaching experience. Students may not take courses outside the education department during this semester without the approval of the department chair.

Exit Requirements. Students must maintain at least a 2.5 grade point average while enrolled in the teacher education program and complete the program with a minimum grade point average of 2.5. The state of North Carolina requires candidates for professional licensure to successfully complete the appropriate Praxis II Subject Assessment Exam(s).

Teaching Area Requirements

Secondary Licensure

English—Thirty hours, including 287, 323, and 390 or its equivalent. A course in world literature is also required.

French—Licensure in K-12 in French: A minimum of nine three-hour French courses numbered above French 213. French 215, 216, 219, 220, 222, 370, one of the genre courses (363, 364, or 365), and two additional advanced level courses are required.

Spanish—Licensure in K-12 in Spanish: A minimum of nine three-hour Spanish courses numbered above Spanish 213. Spanish 217, 218, 219, 220, 322, plus four advanced courses in literature, of which one must be in Spanish literature and one in Spanish-American literature, are required.

German—Licensure in K-12 in German: A minimum of twenty-eight hours beyond German 112 or 113. These must include German 217; 218, 219, 220, or 221; at least one course from among the sequence 249, 281, 285, and 300.

Latin—The requirements are the same as those for the major in Latin.
Mathematics—Thirty-two hours, including Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 221, 331, 357, (211 or 311), and two other courses beyond 112.

Science—Licensure in the individual fields of science: biology (thirty-five hours), chemistry (forty-four hours for BA), and physics (twenty-eight hours). All courses must be from the same courses required for majors in those fields.

Social Studies—Thirty hours, including eighteen hours in history and twelve hours from four other social sciences. History hours include six hours from European or world history, six hours from U.S. history, and six hours from nonwestern history. The twelve additional hours come from one course each in economics, geography, political science, and anthropology or sociology.

Education courses required for a secondary license include Education 201, 307, 311, 354, 364, 374, and 381.

Elementary Licensure

A major in elementary education requires thirty-six hours including Education 201, 202, 203, 221, 222, 250, 293, 294, 295, 296, 298, 307, 311, 382. The major in English requires a minimum of thirty hours, at least twenty-four hours of which must be in advanced language and literature courses numbered 300 to 399. English 111, the Basic Writing Requirement, cannot be counted for credit toward the major or minor in English; likewise, it cannot be counted as a substitute for the 160/170 English literature divisional requirement. No 200-level courses can count toward the major. The required courses for the major must include Shakespeare, two additional courses in British literature before 1800, one course in American literature, and a major seminar, which must be taken no later than the spring semester of the junior year. Majors and their advisers plan individual programs to meet these requirements and to include work in the major literary genres. No more than two courses (6 hours) taken elsewhere may be counted toward the twenty-four hours of 300-level English courses required for the major, with individual petitions to be made for possible exceptions. This limitation applies to courses taught in approved non-Wake Forest programs, not to courses in programs offered or sponsored by Wake Forest.

A minor in English requires English 160 or 165 and English 170 or 175, plus fifteen hours in advanced language and literature courses. Each minor will be assigned an adviser in the English department who will plan a program of study with the student. No more than one course (3 hours) taken elsewhere may be counted toward the fifteen hours of 300-level English courses required for the minor, with individual petitions to be made for possible exceptions. This limitation applies to courses taught in approved non-Wake Forest programs, not to courses in programs offered or sponsored by Wake Forest.

The prerequisite for all 300-level courses in English is any one of the courses in British and American literature numbered 160, 165, 170, and 175, all of which are offered each semester. Additional courses in journalism and writing are offered by the department as related subjects but do not count toward an English major; they may be taken as electives regardless of the field of study in which a student majors.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply in the second semester of their junior year for admission to the honors program in English. To graduate with “Honors in English,” students must have a minimum grade-point average of 3.5 in the major and 3.2 in all course work and must satisfy the requirements for English 388 during their senior year. Interested students may consult departmental faculty members for further information.

Lower Division Courses

105. Introduction to Critical Reading and Writing. (3h) Training in the fundamentals of written English and introduction to the activities basic to undergraduate study: critical reading and writing, interpretation, report, and discussion. Admission by placement only; does not satisfy the basic composition requirement.

*111. Writing Seminar. (3h) Training in expository writing; frequent essays based on readings in a selected topic. (CD)

*English 111 is a prerequisite for all other courses in English unless the requirement is waived. The topic “Issues of Race and Gender in Modern America” is the only topic that satisfies the cultural diversity requirement.
160. Introduction to British Literature. (3h) Eight to ten writers representing different periods and genres.

165. Studies in British Literature. (3h) Three to five writers representing different periods; primarily discussion, with frequent short papers. Limited enrollment. P—Permission of department.

170. Introduction to American Literature. (3h) Emphasis on a minimum of seven writers of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, including both prose and poetry.

175. Studies in American Literature. (3h) Three to five writers representing different periods; primarily discussion, with frequent short papers. Limited enrollment. P—Permission of department.

224. Exploring Shakespeare. (3h) Six to eight works by Shakespeare in different genres, studied through printed texts, films, and videos. Emphasis will be placed on developing abilities to understand and appreciate Shakespeare's works in performance through attention to language and stagecraft. This course may not be counted toward the major or minor in English.

299. Individual Study. (1.5h-3h) A course of independent study with faculty guidance. By prearrangement.

Journalism Courses

See section on Journalism, page 156.

Writing Courses

285. Poetry Workshop. (1.5h, 3h) A laboratory course in the writing of verse. Study of poetic techniques and forms as well as works of contemporary poets. Frequent individual conferences.

286. Short Story Workshop. (1.5h, 3h) A study of the fundamental principles of short fiction writing; practice in writing; extensive study of short story form. P—Permission of instructor.

287. Tutoring Writing. (1.5h) Introduction to composition theory and rhetoric, with a special emphasis on one-to-one tutoring techniques. Students will analyze their own writing process and experiences, study modern composition theory, and practice tutoring techniques in keeping with these theories. Strongly recommended for those interested in Environmental Studies (EN V)

Professor of Biology Robert Browne, Coordinator

The environmental studies minor provides an interdisciplinary approach to the study of human-environmental interaction. The program seeks to identify and apply perspectives from biology, chemistry, physics, geography, English, government, economics, history, law, ethics, and anthropology to the human impact on the natural environment. The environmental studies minor, coupled with a liberal arts major, is designed to prepare students for careers in the environmental sciences, law, public health, public policy, and public administration, and to develop attitudes and values consistent with a sustainable environmental future.

The minor requires Environmental Studies 201, which is considered a prerequisite to all other courses in the minor. It is suggested that a prospective minor take this course and any other necessary prerequisites in the freshman and sophomore years. A minimum of nineteen and one-half hours are required for this minor. The following courses are required (except Environmental Studies 391-392):

Anthropology 260. Culture and Nature. (3h) A study of the reciprocal effects of the culture and nature relationship, with an emphasis on how different cultures define, use, and value nature.

Biology 113. Evolutionary and Ecological Biology. (4h) An introduction to the principles of genetics, ecology, and evolution as they apply to organisms, populations, and communities, with emphasis on evolutionary processes within an ecological context. Intended as a beginning course in biology for prospective majors and for any students with adequate high school preparation in biology. Lab—three hours. No prerequisites.

Economics 168. The Political Economy of Environmental Policy. (1.5h) Develops a set of core economic principles for understanding and evaluating environmental policy issues. (Does not count toward economics major and minor requirements unless Economics 248 also is successfully completed.)

Education 274. Environmental Geography. (3h) A systematic study of major environmental issues on a global scale with an exploration of implications and possible solutions.

Environmental Studies 201. Introduction to Environmental Studies. (3h) An interdisciplinary course taught by faculty representing a number of fields. Topics include scientific principles, human populations, resource management, pollution, and environmental ethics.

Environmental Studies 225. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h) The course coheres the basic physical and chemical processes in the earth's atmosphere, biosphere, and the oceans. It consists of two parts: 1) chemical processes in the environment such as element cycles and the chemistry of the pollutants in the air and water; 2) physical aspects of the environment such as solar energy and the atmosphere and the physics of weather and climate. Lab—three hours. P—Chemistry 111 or Physics 113.
Environmental Studies 250. (3h) Provides the theoretical background necessary for operating vessels at sea. In lectures, lab sessions, field trips, and student projects, Sea Education Association captains introduce the principles fundamental to sailing vessel operations. Students learn and apply essential concepts in general physics, astronomy, and meteorology. Offered only in conjunction with the Sea Education Association program.

Environmental Studies 391, 392. Individual Study. (1.5h, 1.5h) A field study, internship, project or research investigation carried out under the supervision of a member of the environmental studies minor faculty. Pass/fail or for a grade at the discretion of the instructor. Pass/fail is not optional for an individual study that will be used as an elective course in the environmental studies minor. P—Permission of instructor. (The same numbered course cannot be repeated. Courses can be taken during the same semester or, if not, in consecutive order.)

German (GER)

A major in German requires twenty-eight hours beyond German 112 or 113. These must include German 217; at least one course from among the sequence 249, 281, 285; and the seminar for majors. A minor in German requires five courses beyond German 153, including German 217 and at least one course from among the sequence 249, 281, 285.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in German. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in German,” students must complete a senior research project. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Students of German are invited to apply for the exchange scholarship at the Free University of Berlin, the W. D. Sanders Scholarships, and program of study at Freiburg, Berlin, and Vienna, administered by the Institute for the International Education of Students (IES).

111, 112. Elementary German. (3h, 3h) This course covers the principles of grammar and pronunciation and includes the reading of simple texts. Lab—one hour.

113. Intensive Elementary German. (4h) A one-semester course covering the material of German 111 and 112. For students whose preparation for German 153 is inadequate or who have demonstrated proficiency in another language. Not open to students who have had German 111 or 112.
153. Intermediate German. (4h) The principles of grammar are reviewed; reading of selected prose and poetry. Lab—one hour. P—GER 112 or 113.

153x. Intermediate German. (3h) The principles of grammar are reviewed; reading of selected prose and poetry. Lab—one hour. P—Three years of high school German.

160. German Language and Customs. (3h) Students spend one month in four different regions of Germany and Austria in a program designed to provide constant exposure to the language, customs, geography, and art of these countries. Students attend daily language classes as well as lectures and cultural events. They are required to keep a journal in German. Pass/fail. Offered in summer. P—GER 112 or 113.

215, 216. Introduction to German Literature. (3h,3h) The object of this course is to acquaint students with masterpieces of German literature. Parallel reading and reports. P—GER 153 or equivalent.

217. Composition and Grammar Review. (3h) A review of the fundamentals of German grammar with intensive practice in translation and composition. Required for majors. P—GER 153 or equivalent. Fall.

218. Basic Conversation. (3h) Practice in speaking German, stressing correctness of structure, phonetics, pronunciation, fluency, and vocabulary for everyday situations. P—GER 153 or equivalent. Spring.

219. Advanced Conversation. (3h) Practice in speaking German at a more advanced level, stressing discussion of various topics of current importance in the German-speaking countries. Considerable attention is devoted to achieving fluency. P—GER 218 or permission of instructor. Offered fall semester of even years.

220. German Civilization I. (3h) Survey of German culture and civilization from prehistoric times to 1918. Conducted in German. P—GER 153 or equivalent. Offered fall semester of odd years. (CD)

221. German Civilization II. (3h) Survey of German culture and civilization from the Weimar Republic to the present, with particular emphasis on contemporary Germany. Conducted in German. P—GER 153 or equivalent. Offered spring semester of even years. (CD)

229. German for Business and Economics. (3h) Introduction to the spoken and written language of the German business world. Emphasis on business correspondence and oral proficiency skills for banking, import/export and commercial transactions. P—GER 217 and 218 or permission of instructor. Offered spring semester of odd years.

231. Weimar Germany. (3h) Art, literature, music, and film of Weimar Germany, 1919-33, in historical context. (Also listed as History 318.)

240. Masterworks in Translation. (3h) Examination and interpretation of selected texts in English translation. Literary periods, genres, and authors will vary according to instructor.

249. German Literature before 1700. (3h) A survey of German literature of the Middle Ages, Reformation, and Baroque eras; emphasizes the chivalric period, medieval drama, Martin Luther, and the Baroque period. P—GER 215, 216, or equivalent. Fall.

270. Individual Study. (1-3h) Readings on selected topics in literature or current events not ordinarily covered in other courses. P—GER 215, 216, and permission of instructor.
281. German Literature from the Enlightenment through Romanticism. (3h) Selected works from the Enlightenment, the Storm and Stress period, the poetry and major dramas of Goethe and Schiller, and German Romanticism. P—GER 215, 216, or equivalent. Fall.

285. German Literature from Poetic Realism to the Modern Age. (3h) Intensive study of representative works of major German writers from 1848 to the present, including literature of the post-war era. P—GER 215, 216, or equivalent. Fall. (CD)

287, 288. Honors in German. (2.5h, 2.5h) A conference course in German literature. A major research paper is required. Designed for candidates for departmental honors.

300. Seminar in the Major. (3h) Selected genre topics in German literature. Intensive practice in critical discourse, including discussion and an oral presentation (Referat). Introduction to literary scholarship and research methodology leading to a documented paper. Required for all majors. P—GER 249, 281, 285, or equivalent. May be repeated. Spring.

Russian (RUS)

A major requires twenty-four hours beyond Russian 153 and must include Russian 215, 216, 221, and either 217 or 218. A minor in Russian requires fifteen hours beyond 153, three of which must be earned in Russian 221. Students of Russian are invited to apply for study at Moscow State University.

111, 112. Elementary Russian. (3h, 3h) The essentials of Russian grammar, conversation, drill, and reading of elementary texts. Lab required.

153. Intermediate Russian. (4h) Principles of Russian grammar are reviewed and expanded upon; reading of short prose pieces and materials from the Russian press. Lab required. P—RUS 112 or equivalent.

215. Introduction to Nineteenth-Century Russian Literature. (3h) Readings of selected short stories and excerpts from longer works from the nineteenth century. P—RUS 153 or equivalent.

216. Introduction to Twentieth-Century Russian Literature. (3h) Readings of selected short stories and excerpts from longer works from the twentieth century. P—RUS 153 or equivalent.

217. Seminar in Nineteenth-Century Russian Literature. (3h) A study of the foremost writers, with reading of representative works. P—RUS 215 or 216.

218. Seminar in Twentieth-Century Russian Literature. (3h) A study of the foremost writers, with reading of representative works. P—RUS 215 or 216.

221. Advanced Conversation and Composition. (3h) Study of grammar at the advanced level. Intensive practice in composition and conversation based on contemporary Russian materials.

228. Advanced Grammar. (3h) Mastery of Russian declension and conjugation, with special attention to the correct use of reference materials. Syntax of complex and problematic sentences. P—RUS 221.
230. The Structure of Russian. (3h) The linguistic tools of phonetics, phonemics, and morphophonemics are explained and applied to modern Russian. Emphasis is given to the study of roots and word formation. P—Permission of instructor.

232. The History of the Russian Language. (3h) The evolution of Russian from Common Slavic to the modern language; theory of linguistic reconstruction and the Indo-European family; readings from selected Old East Slavic texts. P—RUS 221 and permission of instructor.

240. Seminar in Translation. (3h) Advanced work in English-to-Russian and Russian-to-English translation. P—RUS 221 and permission of instructor.

241. Masterworks in Translation. (3h) Reading and discussion of selected works from Russian literature in English translation.

242. Research on Language and Culture in Russia. (1.5h) An investigation designed by the student is carried out in Russia during spring break. An evaluative paper follows the class trip. Credit given for the minor when the project is done in Russian. P—RUS 111 and permission of instructor. Limited enrollment.

250. Russian Culture and Civilization. (3h) Survey of Russian contributions to art, architecture, music, and religious thought from Russia's beginnings to the present. Taught in Russian. P—RUS 215 or 216.

252. Russian Poetry. (3h) Survey of Russian poetry from Slovo o polku Igoreve to the present, with particular emphasis on the works of major nineteenth and twentieth century poets. P—RUS 215 or 216.

270. Individual Study. (1.5-3h) Study in language or literature beyond the 215-216 level. P—RUS 215 or higher.

275. Studies in Russian Literature. (3h) Selected special topics in Russian literature. P—RUS 215 or 216.

280. Russian Women Writers. (3h) Readings of selected prose works by such writers as Teffi, Forsh, Inber, Baranskaya, Grekova, Tokareva, Petrushevskaya, Vaneeva and Tolstaya. P—RUS 215 or 216.

285. Recent Russian Fiction. (3h) Readings of selected prose works from the 1970s to the present by such writers as Iksander, Voinovich, Bitov, Tolstaya, Petrushevskaya and Viktor Erofeev. P—RUS 215 or 216.

290. The Language of Russian Commerce and Politics. (3h) Readings in the contemporary Russian press. Intensive written and oral practice, emphasizing specialized vocabulary of business and government. P—RUS 221 or permission of instructor.
Nine or ten hours from German 153, 215, 216, 217, 220, 221, or 229 are required. In addition, the student must take at least one course from three of the following four groups. Selected courses taken overseas in German-speaking countries may count toward this concentration with the approval of the coordinator. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Group 1

History
- 318. Weimar Germany. (3h)
- 319. Germany to 1871. (3h)
- 320. Germany: Unification to Unification, 1871-1990. (3h)
- 333. European Diplomacy, 1848-1914. (3h)

Global Trade and Commerce Studies (GTCS)

Associate Professor of Political Science Pia Wood, Coordinator

The minor in Global Trade and Commerce Studies consists of a total of fifteen hours. Candidates for the minor will be required to take INS 160 (Introduction to Global Trade and Commerce Studies) and twelve additional hours in global trade and commerce studies, which must include a study abroad experience for credit. No more than six of the fifteen hours for the minor may be taken in a single discipline. Listed below are courses within Wake Forest University that qualify as a GTCS course. Additional WFU courses may be developed and added to the list upon approval of the director of international studies, who will serve as coordinator of the GTCS minor. Courses taken during the study abroad experience which may qualify as a GTS course also will be reviewed and approved by the director of international studies.

Required course:

INS 160. Introduction to Global Trade and Commerce Studies. (3h) Provides foundational knowledge in global trade and commerce. Focuses on understanding the global environment and the variety of issues associated with global trade and commerce.

Elective Courses:

Anthropology 337. Economic Anthropology. (3h) P—Anthropology 101, 111, 112, 113 or 114

Accounting 290. International Accounting Study Tour. (3h) P—Accounting 211

Business 215. Seminar in Comparative Management. (3h) P—Business 211
223. International Marketing. (3h) P—Business 221
234. Multinational Financial Management. (3h) P—Business 231
290. International Business Study Tour. (3h) P—Permission of instructor
291. Global Business Studies. (3h)
550. Business Elective. (3h)

Communication 350. Intercultural Communication. (3h)
351. Comparative Communication. (3h)

Economics 251. International Trade. (3h) P—Economics 205
252. International Finance. (3h) P—Economics 205, 207
253. Economics in Transition. (3h) P—Economics 150
258. Economic Growth & Development. (3h) P—Economics 205 or P—permission of instructor
271. Issues in African Development. (Study Tour) (3h) P—Permission of instructor
French 329. Introduction to Business French. (3h)
330. Advanced Business French. (3h)
German 229. German for Business and Economics. (3h)
History 313, 314. European Economic and Social History, 1300-1990. (3h,3h)
350. Global Economic History. (3h)
Political Science 238. Comparative Economic Development and Political Change. (3h)
239. State, Economy and International Competitiveness. (3h)
253. International Political Economy. (3h)
Psychology 357. Cross-Cultural Psychology (3h) P—Psychology 151
Sociology 363. Global Capitalism. (3h)

Health and Exercise Science (HES)

Paul M. Ribisl, Chair
Wake Forest Professor W. Jack Rejeski
Professors Michael J. Berry, Stephen P. Messier, Paul M. Ribisl
Associate Professors Peter H. Brubaker, Anthony P. Marsh,
Gary D. Miller, Patricia A. Nixon
Assistant Professor Shannon L. Mihalko
Instructors Donald Bergey, Johnnie O. Foye, David H. Stroupe, Sharon K. Woodard

The purpose of the health and exercise science department is to advance knowledge through research and to disseminate the knowledge in this field of study through education and service to humanity. The primary focus of the department is promoting health and preventing and treating disease through healthful behaviors, emphasizing physical activity and nutrition.

Health and Exercise Science Requirement

All students must complete Health and Exercise Science 100 and 101. This requirement must be met before enrollment in additional health and exercise science elective courses, and in any case by the end of the second year.

Courses in Basic Instruction and Elective Health and Exercise Science

All the 100-level courses listed below are for one hour each, and they can only be taken once for credit except Health and Exercise Science 180 and 183 which may be repeated once.
100. Lifestyle and Health. A lecture course that deals with the effect of lifestyle behaviors on various health outcomes, including cardiovascular disease, cancer, and sexually-transmitted diseases.

101. Exercise for Health. A laboratory course on physical fitness that covers weight control, cardiovascular endurance, muscular strength, and flexibility.

112. Sports Proficiency. (May be taken only one time.)

116. Weight Training.

150. Beginning Tennis.

151. Intermediate Tennis.

156. Racquetball.

160. Beginning Golf.

161. Intermediate Golf.

163. Bowling.

170. Volleyball.

179. Beginning Horseback Riding. (Pass/fail only)

180. Intermediate/Advanced Horseback Riding. (Pass/fail only)

   (May be repeated once for credit.)

181. Snow Skiing. (Pass/fail only)

182. Beginning Ice Figure Skating.

183 Intermediate/Advanced Ice Figure Skating. May be repeated once for credit

190. Karate.

194. T’ai Chi (1h)

Courses for the Major

The department offers a program leading to the bachelor of science degree in health and exercise science. A major requires twenty-eight hours and must include Health and Exercise Science 262, 312, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, and 370. Majors are not allowed to apply any Health and Exercise Science 100-level courses or Health and Exercise Science 206 toward the twenty-eight hours required for graduation. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 is required for graduation in courses that comprise a major in the department. Students interested in majoring in health and exercise science should consult the coordinator of the department's undergraduate program as soon as possible after entering the University.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in health and exercise science by the second semester of the junior year. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Health and Exercise Science,” a student must have a minimum grade point average of 3.3 in the major, a minimum overall grade point average of 3.0, and complete an honors research project which includes a written and an oral report. Interested students should consult the coordinator of the department’s honors program. For more information, please consult the department’s Web site at www.wfu.edu/Academic-departments/Health-and-Exercise-Science/.

201. Health Issues on College Campuses - I. (1.5h) Introduction to concepts and methods of peer health education; development of teaching and group facilitation skills. Pass/fail only. P—Permission of instructor.

202. Health Issues on College Campuses - II. (1.5h) Development and delivery of educational programs on a variety of health issues relevant to college students. Pass/fail only. P—HES 201.

206. Lifeguard Training. (1.5h) A lifeguard training course that offers American Red Cross certifications in CPR for the professional rescuer, community first aid, lifeguard training, and waterfront lifeguarding.

232. Emergency Medical Training. (1.5h) Lectures and practical experiences in preparation for responding to medical emergencies, including: patient assessment; airway management; cardiopulmonary resuscitation; O2 therapy; management of shock; trauma and environmental emergencies; and head/spine/musculoskeletal injuries. North Carolina state exam for EMT certification is offered.

262. Statistics in the Health Sciences. (3h) Basic statistics with an emphasis on application to research in the health sciences. Students are introduced to graphics and statistical software for statistical analysis. (A student receiving credit for this course may not also receive credit for Anthropology 380, Biology 380, Business 201, or Sociology 380.) (QR)

310. Applied Field Study. (1.5h) A course involving application of theory and methods of solving problems in a specialized area according to the student’s immediate career goals. Pass/fail only. (Open only to majors.) P—Permission of instructor.

311. Internship in Rehabilitation. (1.5h) A semester experience in the campus rehabilitation programs. This experience includes written case study analyses of selected patients with a focus upon risk factor assessment and review of multiple intervention strategies, in conjunction with participation in physiologic monitoring of patients during therapeutic sessions. Pass/fail only. (Open only to majors.) P—Permission of instructor.

312. Exercise and Health Psychology. (3h) A survey of the psychological antecedents of exercise and selected topics in health psychology with particular attention to wellness, stress, the biobehavioral basis of coronary heart disease, and the psychodynamics of rehabilitative medicine. P—HES 262 or permission of instructor.

350. Human Physiology. (3h) A lecture course which presents the basic principles and concepts of the function of selected systems of the human body, with emphasis on the muscular, cardiovascular, pulmonary, and nervous systems. P—Biology 111, 112, or 214, or permission of instructor.

351. Nutrition in Health and Disease. (3h) A lecture/laboratory course which presents the principles of proper nutrition including an understanding of the basic foodstuffs and nutrients as well as the influence of genetics, eating behavior, and activity patterns on energy balance and weight control. Laboratory experiences examine intervention in obesity and coronary heart disease through diet analysis, methods of diet prescription, and behavior modification. P—HES 350 or permission of instructor.

352. Human Gross Anatomy. (3h) A lecture/laboratory course in which the structure and function of the musculoskeletal, neuromuscular, pulmonary, and cardiovascular systems are studied using dissected human cadavers.

353. Physiology of Exercise. (3h) A lecture course which presents the concepts and applications of the physiological response of the human body to physical activity. The acute and chronic responses of the muscular and cardiorespiratory systems to exercise are examined. Other topics include exercise and coronary disease, nutrition and performance, strength and endurance training, body composition, sex-related differences, and environmental influences. P—HES 350 or permission of instructor.

354. Assessment Techniques in Health Sciences. (3h) A lecture/laboratory course to develop clinical skills and knowledge in the assessment of health in areas of exercise physiology, nutrition/metabolism, biomechanics/neuromuscular function, and health psychology. The laboratory will emphasize use of instrumentation and analysis/interpretation of data collected on human subjects. P—HES 262, 350, and 352 or permission of instructor. (QR)

355. Exercise Programming. (1.5h) A lecture/laboratory course which presents the scientific principles of safe and effective exercise prescription for fitness programs. P—HES 353 and 354, or permission of instructor.

360. Epidemiology. (3h) An introduction to basic determinants of the incidence of chronic disease in the population and development of an understanding of individual, community, and environmental approaches to promoting healthful lifestyles in youth, adults, and elderly populations. Issues will be analyzed by formal statistical modeling. P—An applied statistical methods course, such as Anthropology 380, Business 202, Biology 380, HES 262, Psychology 211, Sociology 380, Mathematics 358, or Mathematics 256. (QR)

370. Biomechanics of Human Movement. (3h) Study of the mechanical principles which influence human movement, sport technique, and equipment design. P—HES 352 or permission of instructor.

372. Anatomy Dissection Laboratory. (2h) A laboratory course that involves human cadaver dissection of the musculoskeletal, neuromuscular, pulmonary, and cardiovascular systems. P—Majors only and permission of instructor.

375. Advanced Physiology of Exercise. (3h) A lecture course which provides an in-depth examination of the physiological mechanisms responsible for both the acute and chronic changes which occur with exercise. Included are cellular changes in response to exercise, the ventilatory response to exercise, and metabolic consequences of exercise. P—HES 353 or permission of instructor.

380. Physical Activity and Aging. (3h) A lecture course which examines both normal/abnormal aging from a physiological perspective and explores how aging and chronic disease affect performance of activities of daily living, including vocational and recreational activities. The potential of regular physical activity to delay or reverse the deleterious effects of aging and degenerative disease is investigated. P—Permission of instructor.
382. Individual Study. (1h,1.5h,2h) Independent study directed by a faculty adviser. The student must consult the adviser before registering for this course. P—Majors only and permission of instructor.

384. Special Topics in Health and Exercise Science. (1.5h,2h,3h) Intensive investigation of a current scientific research topic in health or exercise science with focus on a specific topic. May be repeated for credit if topic differs.

386. Honors Research. (1.5h) Directed study and research in preparation for a major paper on a subject of mutual interest to the student and faculty honors adviser. Taken only by candidates for departmental honors. P—Permission of instructor, approval of departmental honors committee, and prior completion of a 1.5-hour Individual Study.

Health Policy and Administration (HPA)
(Interdisciplinary Minor)

Professor of Economics Michael S. Lawlor, Director

The health policy and administration minor is designed to give students a concentration in the area of public health policy and the study of health care delivery. It is open to all majors and places an emphasis on providing students with the analytical methods and knowledge of institutional complexity necessary to an understanding of the rapidly evolving medical industry. Students interested in either public policy or administrative roles in health care could benefit from the minor. The course work requires the following five courses (three hours each), for a total of fifteen hours, plus some notable prerequisites (see individual course descriptions for details):

Required Courses:

Health Policy and Administration 150. Introduction to Public Health. (3h) (fall)

250. Internship in Health Policy and Admin. (3h) (spring)

Health and Exercise Science 360. Epidemiology of Physical Activity. (3h) (spring)

Economics 240. The Economics of Health and Medicine. (3h) (fall)

Elective Courses:

Choose one course from the following electives:

Anthropology 362. Medical Anthropology. (3h)

Biology 396. Biomedical Ethics. (3h)

*Other electives may be added as the curriculum evolves. Check with the director of the program for a complete list.

150. Introduction to Public Health. (3h) Survey of the basic structure of the health care system in the United States. Includes discussion of current issues of public policy toward health, organization of health care delivery, and health system reform. Serves as the introduction to the interdisciplinary minor in health policy and administration. Taught every fall.

250. Internship in Health Policy and Administration. (3h) A semester experience in a health care policy or health care administration organization. Students will work in conjunction with a director who is a researcher on a public health science research project or with an administrator in health care delivery. Students gain relevant practical experience that builds on prior coursework and provides insight into public health policy issues. P—HPA 150 and permission of instructor. Open only to senior health policy and administration students. Offered every spring.

The major in history consists of a minimum of twenty-seven hours and must include History 288 or 310, one course in premodern history, and a minimum of 5.5 hours in each of the following three fields: European history; Latin American, Asian, or African history; and United States history. Courses at the 100-level count toward the major but do not count toward the field distribution.

Majors may include within the required twenty-seven hours up to six hours of advanced placement or comparable work and up to six hours of any combination of independent study and directed reading other than the hours earned in History 397.

A minor in history requires eighteen hours. Courses that the student elects to take pass/fail do not meet the requirements for the major or minor.

Highly qualified majors should apply for admission to the honors program in history. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in History,” the student must complete History 287, present an honors-quality research paper, successfully defend the paper in an oral examination, and earn an overall grade point average of 3.0 with an average of 3.3 on work in history. For additional information, students should consult members of the department.

Students contemplating graduate study should acquire a reading knowledge of one modern foreign language for the master of arts degree and two for the Ph.D.

100. Colloquium in Historical Diversity. (3h) A broadly based examination of the historical roots of contemporary cultural issues through various themes such as race, ethnicity, class, gender, sexuality, religion, and nationality. Focus will vary with professor. (CD)

101. Western Civilization to 1700. (3h) A survey of ancient, medieval, and early modern history to 1700. Focus varies with instructor. (Credit cannot be received for both 101 and 103, or 102 and 104.)

Interdisciplinary Honors (HON)

Wake Forest Professor of History James P. Barefield, Coordinator

A series of seminar courses of an interdisciplinary nature is open to qualified undergraduates. Students interested in admission to any one of these seminars, supervised by the Committee on Honors, should consult the coordinator or a member of the committee.

Students who choose to participate in as many as four interdisciplinary seminars and who have a superior record may elect Honors 281, directed study culminating in an honors paper and an oral examination. Those whose work has been superior in this course and who have achieved an overall grade point average of at least 3.0 in all college work may be graduated with the distinction “Honors in the Arts and Sciences.” Students who choose to be candidates for departmental honors may not also be candidates for “Honors in the Arts and Sciences.”

Able students are normally encouraged to choose a departmental honors program rather than “Honors in the Arts and Sciences.” As a result, most students elect to participate in only one or two interdisciplinary seminars in which they are particularly interested. The faculty participants for these seminars represent diverse academic disciplines.

Among figures who may be discussed are Augustine, Dante, Gandhi, Montaigne, Descartes, Pascal, and selected modern writers.

241. The Tragic View. (3h) The theory of tragedy in ancient and modern times; the expression of the tragic in literature, art, music, theatre, and film.

242. The Comic View. (3h) The theory of comedy in ancient and modern times; the expression of the comic in literature, art, music, theatre, and film.

244. Man and the Structure of the Universe. (3h) An investigation of various conceptions of the universe and their implications for man. Study not necessarily limited to the cosmologies of Ptolemy, Copernicus, and their modern successors, but may also include theories such as the Babylonian, Mayan, and Taoist.

246. Man and the Environment. (3h) An interdisciplinary examination of man and society in relation to the environment.

247. The Mythic View. (3h) The nature of myth through creation and hero myths; the uses to which myths have been put in different historical periods; various modern explanations of myth (literary, religious, anthropological, psychoanalytic, social, and historical).

248. The Ironic View. (3h) An investigation of the ironic view of life in literature, art, history, theater, and film.

249. Forms and Expressions of Love. (3h) Philosophical, religious, and psychological delineations of the forms of love; literary, dramatic, musical, and visual portrayals of love in selected works of art. (Also listed as Humanities 355.)

257. Images of Aging in the Humanities. (3h) A multidisciplinary presentation and discussion of portrayals of aging in selected materials from several of the liberal arts: philosophical and religious perspectives; selections from literature and the visual arts; historical development of perceptions of aging; imaging of aging in contemporary culture. (Also listed as Humanities 357.)

258. Venice in Art and Literature. (3h) An exploration of what Venice has meant to non-native artists and writers, and what they have made of it. Artists and writers include Byron, Turner, Ruskin, Henry James, Sargent, Whistler, Proust, Mann, and others.

265. Humanity and Nature. (3h) A multidisciplinary exploration of relations of human beings to nature, and of scientific, economic, and political factors in current environmental concerns. Selected religious, classical, and philosophical texts; works of visual art; selected discussions of ecology and human responsibility. (Also listed as Humanities 365.)
International Studies (INS)

Associate Professor of Political Science Pia Christina Wood, Coordinator
Professor of Sociology Ian M. Taplin

The minor in international studies consists of a total of fifteen hours and must include International Studies 250 and twelve other hours from approved international courses. (A list of approved courses is available in the Center for International Studies.) These may include any International Studies course other than International Studies 100 or 101. No more than six of the fifteen hours for the minor can be taken in a single department. Study of a foreign language beyond the basic requirements is strongly recommended, as is study abroad. Students should consult with the director of international studies as soon as they declare the minor. Courses taken on overseas programs may be approved for the international studies minor by the director of the Center for International Studies. For more information contact the Center for International Studies or the registrar’s office.

INS 140. United Nations/Model United Nations. (1.5h) Exploration of the history, structure, and functions of the United Nations including current economic, social, and political issues. An in-depth analysis of one country in the UN and attendance at the Model UN Conference. Pass/fail only. May be taken twice for credit.

INS 160. Introduction to Global Trade and Commerce Studies. (3h) Provides foundational knowledge in global trade and commerce. Focuses on understanding the global environment and the variety of issues associated with global trade and commerce.

INS 210. Japanese and American Culture: A Cross-Cultural Comparison. (3h) An exploration and comparison of values, behavior, and beliefs in Japanese and American culture, with special attention to such topics as education, gender differences, and social hierarchy.

INS 220. Forms of Orientalism. (3h) The history of the representational practices of Orientalism, the problem of cultural representation, and the relationship between Western intellectual constructions of the Orient and Western colonialism. Case studies, particularly of the Middle East and the Indian subcontinent.

INS 221. The Causes of War and the Conditions of Peace. (3h) An interdisciplinary examination of the causes of violent international conflict and of the conditions for maintaining or restoring peace. Key concepts and issues will be explored through an extensive use of case studies of actual conflicts.
INS 228. Individual Study. (1h,2h,3h) Intensive research leading to the completion of an individual project conducted under the supervision of a faculty member. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing permission of an appropriate faculty member. P—Permission of instructor.

INS 229. Internship in International Studies. (1h,2h,3h) Field work directly related to international issues in a public or private setting under the supervision of a faculty member. Related readings and an analytical paper are minimum requirements. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing the permission of an appropriate instructor. P—Permission of instructor.

INS 250. Seminar in International Studies. (3h) Applies theoretical assumptions and methods to the analysis of selected global issues. (CD)

INS 363/SOC 363. Global Capitalism. (3h) An analysis of changing patterns of industrial organization, market, and labor relations, and institutional frameworks that have resulted from the growth of an integrated global capitalist economy.

The following courses do not count for the minor but are designed to ensure that students who study overseas receive sufficient credit to make satisfactory progress toward graduation: International Studies 100 and 101.

100. Study Abroad. (1-3h) Hour(s) awarded to ensure that students participating in a full-time overseas program, as verified by the Center for International Studies, receive credit equal to a full semester’s work on campus. (A full semester’s work at Wake Forest is defined, for this purpose, as twelve hours.) Pass/fail grade only.

101. Overseas Study. (1-3h) Directed reading and/or field work as part of an approved overseas program under the supervision of the program director or the Center for International Studies. The keeping of a journal and submission of an end of program evaluation are required. P—Permission of the instructor.

Italian Studies

(Dana Faculty Fellow and Professor of Romance Languages Antonio Vitti, Coordinator)

A semester in Venice or another approved course of study in Italy (or summer program at Middlebury, Vermont) is required. Students must take Italian through the 215 level, plus three courses from the following groups, at least one each from Groups II and III. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

I. Literature
- Classics 264. Greek and Roman Comedy. (3h)
- Humanities 213. Studies in European Literature. (3h)
  (appropriate topics and approval)
- 214. Contemporary Fiction. (3h)
  (appropriate topics and approval)
216. Romance Literature. (3h)
217. European Drama. (3h) (appropriate topics and approval)
230. Women Writers in Contemporary Italy. (3h)
361, 362. Dante I and II. (1.5h, 1.5h)

Italian
216. Introduction to Italian Literature II. (3h)
(or any Italian course above 215)
First Year Seminar

II. Fine Arts

Art
245. Roman Art. (3h)
268. Italian Renaissance Art. (3h)
2693. Venetian Renaissance Art. (3h) (offered in Venice)

Humanities
382. Italian Cinema and Society. (3h)
383. Italian Fascism in Novels and Films. (3h)

Music
181. Music History I. (3h)
182. Music History II. (3h)
220. Seminar in Music History. (3h)

III. History and the Social Sciences

History
222. The Renaissance and Reformation. (3h)
2253. History of Venice. (3h) (offered in Venice)
2263. Venetian Society and Culture. (3h) (offered in Venice)
398. Individual Study. (1-3h) (if directed toward Italy)

Sociology
357. The Italian Experience in America. (3h)

Students may also take appropriate courses in anthropology, economics, political science, psychology, religion, and sociology in the Venice program, and appropriate individual study topics in these departments. To graduate with a Certificate in Italian studies, students must contact the registrar’s office during the spring semester of the senior year to request that a transcript copy be sent to the Department of Romance Languages for approval.

Journalism (JOU)
(Minor)
Associate Professor of Journalism Wayne King, Coordinator
Adjunct Lecturers Justin Catanoso, Michael Horn

The minor in journalism consists of fifteen hours, including Journalism 270, 276, and either 272 or 280. In addition to the required fifteen hours, minors in journalism are strongly advised to take Economics 150 and 221. The remaining courses must be selected from among the following:

Accounting
111. Introductory Financial Accounting. (3h)

Communication
115. Writing for Radio-TV Film. (3h)
211. Media Production: Studio. (3h)
245. Introduction to Mass Communication. (3h)
Economics
150. Introduction to Economics. (3h)
221. Public Finance. (3h)
Journalism
272 or 280. Editing (3h) or Journalism, Ethics, and Law. (3h)
  (whichever was not chosen as a required course)
278. History of Journalism. (3h)
282. Investigative Reporting. (3h)
Political Science
217. Politics and the Mass Media. (3h)

Journalism Courses

270. Introduction to Journalism. (3h) Fundamentals of news writing, news judgment, and news gathering, including computer-assisted reporting and research. Intensive in-class writing.

272. Editing. (3h) A laboratory course in copyediting, headline writing, typography, and make-up; practice on video display terminal. P—English 270.

273. Writing for Radio-TV-Film. (3h) An introduction to writing for radio, television, and film. Emphasis will be on informational and persuasive writing (news, features, public service announcements, commercials, political announcements, news analyses, commentaries, and editorials). (Also listed as Communication 115.)

274. Media Production: Studio. (3h) An introduction to the production of audio and video media projects. Multiple camera studio production emphasized. Lecture/laboratory. (Also listed as Communication 211.)

275. Introduction to Mass Communication. (3h) A historical survey of mass media and an examination of major contemporary media issues. (Also listed as Communication 245.)

276. Advanced Journalism. (3h) Intensive practice in writing various types of newspaper stories, including the feature article. Limited to students planning careers in journalism. P—English 270 or permission of instructor.

277. Politics and the Mass Media. (3h) Exploration of the relationship between the political system and the mass media. Two broad concerns will be the regulation of the mass media and the impact of media on political processes and events. (Also listed as Political Science 217.)

278. History of Journalism. (3h) A study of the development of American journalism and its English origins, with attention to broad principles of mass communication from its beginnings through the Internet.

280. Journalism, Ethics, and Law. (3h) Explores ethical problems confronting journalists, including such things as the public's right to know, invasion of privacy, censorship, coverage of politics and elections, objectivity, and race, gender, and bias in news reporting, against a background of laws pertaining to areas such as libel and national security.

282. Investigative Reporting. (3h) Explores the methods and resources used in investigative journalism—tracing individuals through public records, Freedom of Information Act requests, and specialized interview techniques. P—Permission of instructor.
286. Writing for Public Relations and Advertising. (1.5h,3h) Principles and techniques of public relations and applied advertising. Students use case studies to develop public relations and advertising strategies. P—Permission of instructor. (Also listed as Communication 117.)

298. Internship. (1.5h) A course designed to assist students in gaining practical experience in news-related enterprises, under faculty supervision.

299. Individual Study. (1.5h-3h) A course of independent study with faculty guidance. By prearrangement.

Latin American Studies (LAS)

(Interdisciplinary Minor)

Associate Professor of Romance Languages (Spanish) Linda Howe, Director

The minor in Latin American studies provides an opportunity for students to undertake a multidisciplinary study of the history, geography, economics, politics, and culture of Latin America and the Caribbean. It consists of a total of fifteen hours, only three of which may count toward the student's major. Candidates for the minor are required to take Latin American Studies 210, Introduction to Latin American Studies. In addition, candidates must elect at least twelve hours of coursework on Latin America. No more than six of these twelve hours may be in a single discipline.

Candidates should demonstrate proficiency in Spanish or Portuguese either by completing Spanish courses through the 213 level or by undergoing an oral proficiency interview with a member of the faculty of the Department of Romance Languages.

210. Introduction to Latin American Studies. (3h) Introduction to the historical, economic, cultural, and social issues which shape Latin America. (CD)

220C. Afro-Cuban Cultural Expressions. (3h) A comprehensive study of Cuban culture with a concentration on the artistic manifestations of Afro-Cuban religions. Students study literature, art, film, music, and popular culture to analyze how Afro-Cuban culture constitutes national culture. Offered in Havana. Also listed as Spanish 376C. (CD)

310. Special Topics in Latin American Studies. (3h) Selected topics in Latin American Studies; topics vary from year to year.

398. Individual Study. (3h) A reading, research, or internship course designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a faculty member in the Latin American Studies minor. P—Permission of instructor.

Students may choose from the following list of electives in designing their minor:

Anthropology 383, 384. Field Research in Cultural Anthropology. (3h,3h)

385, 386. Special Problems Seminar. (3h,3h)

Economics 251. International Trade. (3h)

252. International Finance. (3h)

258. Economic Growth and Development. (3h)
History

373. History of Mexico. (3h)
374. Protest and Rebellion in Latin America. (3h)
375. Modern Latin America. (3h)

Music

210. Survey of Latin American Music. (3h)

Political Science

236. Government and Politics in Latin America. (3h)
242. Topics in Comparative Politics. (3h)
257. Interamerican Relations (3h)
292. Seminar in Comparative Politics. (3h)

Spanish

218. Literary and Cultural Studies of Spanish America. (3h)
219. Grammar and Composition. (3h)
319. Advanced Grammar and Composition. (3h)
329. Introduction to Spanish for Business. (3h)
348. Transatlantic Renaissance. (3h)
351. Transgressing Borders: Identity in Latin American and U.S. Latino Cultures. (3h)
353. Indigenous Myth in Spanish American Literary Art. (3h)
354. The Social Canvas of Gabriel García Márquez and Pablo Neruda. (3h)
360. Cultural and Literary Identity in Latin America: From Colonial to Postcolonial Voices (3h)
361. Latin American Cinema and Ideology. (3h)
362. Romantic Nationalism: Avant-Garde Nihilism and the Deconstruction of Utopia. (3h)
363. Contemporary Spanish American Theatre. (3h)
364. Spanish American Short Story. (3h)
365. Spanish American Novel. (3h)
367. Colonial Spanish America. (3h)
368C. Cuban Literature from the Nineteenth Century to Present. Offered in Havana (3h)
369. Imagined “White” Nations: Race and Color in Latin America. (3h)

Five-Year BA/MA Degree Program Option. Students who choose to minor in Latin American studies have the opportunity to pursue a joint BA/MA program in conjunction with the Center for Latin American Studies at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. This program allows outstanding students interested in Latin America to begin work toward an interdisciplinary master’s degree in Latin American Studies while still undergraduates at Wake Forest, and to complete both degrees within a five-year period. The bachelor of arts degree is awarded by Wake Forest, while the master’s degree is awarded by Georgetown. See pages 66 and 187 of the bulletin for complete details. Interested students should contact the five-year degree program coordinator, Peter Siavelis, assistant professor of political science.
Linguistics (LIN)
Professor of Romance Languages (Spanish) M. Stanley Whitley, Coordinator

The interdisciplinary minor in linguistics requires Linguistics 150, Introduction to Linguistics, and twelve additional hours. Students minoring in linguistics are strongly encouraged to study foreign languages, achieving proficiency in at least one, and social and behavioral sciences. The minor may be usefully combined with a major in a foreign language, English, anthropology (or other social science), philosophy, or communication.

The twelve hours in addition to Linguistics 150 may be chosen from the following three groups: linguistics courses, historical linguistics, and related topics. It is strongly recommended that at least one course be from historical linguistics.

Linguistics Courses

150. Introduction to Linguistics. (3h) The social phenomenon of language: how it originated and developed, how it is learned and used, its relationship to other kinds of behavior; types of language (oral, written, signed) and language families; analysis of linguistic data; social issues of language use. (Also listed as Anthropology 150.) (CD)

301. Semantics and Language in Communication. (3h) A study of how meaning is created by sign processes. Among the topics studied are language theory, semiotics, speech act theory, and pragmatics. (Also listed as Communication 301.)

310. Sociolinguistics and Dialectology. (3h) Study of variation in language: effects of regional background, social class, ethnic group, gender, and setting; social attitudes toward language; outcomes of linguistic conflicts in the community; evolution of research methods for investigating language differences and the diffusion of change. P—LIN 150 or permission of instructor.

330. Introduction to Psycholinguistics and Language Acquisition. (3h) A psychological and linguistic study of the mental processes underlying the acquisition and use of language; how children acquire the structure of language and how adults make use of linguistic systems.

340. Topics in Linguistics. (3h) An interdisciplinary study of selected topics, such as morphology, phonology/phonetics, syntax, historical linguistics, history of linguistic theory, semiotics, and ethnolinguistics, issues in Asian linguistics, language and gender. P—LIN 150 or permission of instructor.

351. Comparative Communication. (1.5h,3h) A comparison of communicative and linguistic processes in one or more national cultures with those of the United States. (Also listed as Communication 351.)

351A Japan
351B Russia
351C Great Britain
351D Multiple Countries
351E China
375. Philosophy of Language. (3h) A study of such philosophical issues about language as truth and meaning, reference and description, proper names, indexicals, modality, tense, the semantic paradoxes, and the differences between languages and other sorts of sign systems. P—Permission of instructor. (Also listed as Philosophy 375.)

383. Language Engineering: Localization & Terminology. (3h) Introduction to the process of making a product linguistically and culturally appropriate to the target locale, and to computer-assisted terminology management. Surveys applications in translation technology. Taught in English. P—Permission of instructor.

398, 399. Individual Study. (1-3h,1-3h) A reading and research course designed to meet the needs of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a faculty member in the linguistics minor program. P—LIN 150 and permission of instructor.

SIL 101, 102. Self Instructional Language. (3h,3h) A course in which students wishing to learn a language not offered at Wake Forest may arrange to study the language in consultation with a native speaker. This course does not count toward the linguistics minor without approval from the coordinator. P—Permission of instructor.

Historical Linguistics
(See course descriptions under appropriate department listings.)

English 304. History of the English Language. (3h)
Russian 232. The History of the Russian Language. (3h)
Spanish 321. History and Structure of the Spanish Language. (3h)

Related Topics
(See course descriptions under appropriate department listings.)

Anthropology 355. Language and Culture. (3h)
English 390. The Structure of English. (3h)
French 222. French Phonetics. (3h)
Russian 230. The Structure of Russian. (3h)
Spanish 322. Spanish Phonology. (3h)

Students intending to minor in linguistics should consult the coordinator of linguistics in the Department of Romance Languages, preferably during their sophomore year.
A major in mathematics can be achieved by satisfying the requirements listed below for either the bachelor of arts or bachelor of science. Lower division students are urged to consult a member of the departmental faculty before enrolling in courses other than those satisfying Division V requirements.

The bachelor of arts in mathematics requires Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 211 or 311, and 221 with at least four additional three-hour courses numbered higher than 113 (excluding 381), at least two of which must be numbered above 300.

The bachelor of arts in mathematics with a concentration in statistics requires Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 211 or 311, 221, 357, 358, 359, and either 256 or both 109 and another three-hour course numbered 200 or above (excluding 381).

The bachelor of science in mathematics requires Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 221, 311, 391, and 392 with at least five additional three-hour courses numbered higher than 113 (excluding 381), at least three of which must be numbered above 300.

The bachelor of science in mathematics with a concentration in statistics requires Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 221, 311, 357, 358, 359, 391, 392; one additional three-hour course numbered 300 or above (excluding 381); and 256 or both 109 and another three-hour course numbered 200 or above (excluding 381). Additionally, the research and paper prepared for 391 and 392 must be on a topic related to statistics.

A minor in mathematics requires Mathematics 111, 112, either 113 or 121, and three other courses of at least three hours each numbered higher than Mathematics 106, two of which must be numbered above 200. Neither Mathematics 301, 302, 303, or 304 can count as a course for this minor, but any pair may be so counted. Credit is not allowed for both Mathematics 113 and 301; for both Mathematics 121 and 302; or for both Mathematics 303 and 317.

A minor in statistics requires five courses chosen from Mathematics 357, 358, 359, 256, 109, 117, 121, 211 or 311; Anthropology 380; Biology 380; Business 201, 202; Economics 215; Health and Exercise Science 262, 360; Psychology 211, 212; Sociology 371, 372; at least two of which must be chosen from Mathematics 357, 358, 359. Additionally, no more than one course can be chosen from Anthropology 380; Biology 380; Business 201; Health and Exercise Science 262; Mathematics 109; Psychology 211; Sociology 371 to satisfy this minor.
A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in courses which comprise a major or minor in the department is required for graduation with any major or minor which the department offers.

The department regularly schedules activities in mathematics for students that enhance the course offerings. Examples are participation in the annual Putnam examination and the COMAP contest in mathematical modeling; meetings of the mathematics club; seminars and courses which build upon the regularly scheduled course offerings; and student research with faculty.

The Department of Mathematics and the Department of Economics offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical economics. This interdisciplinary program, consisting of no more than forty-eight hours, offers the student an opportunity to apply mathematical methods to the development of economic theory, models, and quantitative analysis. The major has the following course requirements: Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 254, 255; Economics 150, 205, 207, 210, 211, 215, 218; and three additional courses chosen with the approval of the program advisers. Students selecting the joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Mathematics and the Department of Economics.

The Department of Mathematics and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical business. This interdisciplinary program, consisting of no more than forty-eight hours, prepares students for careers in business with a strong background in mathematics. The major has the following course requirements: Mathematics 253, 256, 301 (or 113), 302 (or 121), 353; Business 211, 221, 231, 241, 251, 261, 292; and a minimum of two additional three-hour courses chosen from among mathematics and business, not both courses chosen from business, with the mathematics courses being chosen from three-hour courses at the 300 level or higher, excluding 381. The following courses are prerequisites for admission into this major: Mathematics 111, 112, Accounting 111, 112, Business 100, Economics 150, and Communication 110. Computer Science 111, 112, and Mathematics 251 are strongly recommended electives. Students electing this joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Mathematics and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. To graduate from Wake Forest University with a major in mathematical business, the student must satisfy the requirements for graduation of both the Department of Mathematics and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Refer to the description in this bulletin for the admission, continuation, and graduation requirements of the Calloway School.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in mathematics or the joint majors. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Mathematics,” “Honors in M athematical Business,” or “Honors in M athematical Economics,” students must satisfactorily complete a senior research paper. To graduate with “Honors in Mathematics” or “Honors in M athematical Business,” majors must have a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the major and 3.0 in all college course work. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Students who are enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in mathematics at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.
105. Fundamentals of Algebra and Trigonometry. (1.5h, 2.5h, or 3h) A review of the essentials of algebra and trigonometry. Admission by permission only (generally, a student must have taken fewer than three years of high school mathematics to be eligible for admission). Not to be counted toward the major or minor in mathematics.

106. Calculus Foundations. (4h) Functions, the trigonometric functions, limits, continuity, derivatives, differentials, anti-derivatives, the fundamental theorem of calculus. Intended for students with no previous calculus experience; all others should take Mathematics 111 or higher, as appropriate. In particular, credit is not allowed to students who have taken the AB, BC, or IB advanced placement calculus test. Course includes evaluation of pre-calculus skills. (QR)

107. Explorations in Mathematics. (4h) An introduction to mathematical reasoning and problem solving. Topics vary by instructor and may include one or more of the following: knot theory, Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometry, set theory, cryptography, discrete models, number theory, discrete mathematics, chaos theory, probability, and Maple programming. (QR)

109. Elementary Probability and Statistics. (4h or 3h) Probability and distribution functions, means and variances, and sampling distributions. Lab—two hours. (QR)

111. Calculus with Analytic Geometry I. (4h) A review of differential calculus, followed by a complete treatment of integral calculus, including applications, the transcendental functions, techniques of integration, indeterminate forms, improper integrals, and polar coordinates. Intended for students with previous calculus experience. (QR)

112. Calculus with Analytic Geometry II. (4h) Sequences, Taylor's formula, and infinite series, including power series. Basic multivariable calculus, including parametric equations, partial derivatives with applications to optimization problems, and double integrals. (QR)

113. Multivariable Calculus. (3h) The calculus of vector functions, including geometry of Euclidean space, differentiation, extrema, line integrals, multiple integrals, and Green's, Stokes', and divergence theorems. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 113 and 301. (QR)

117. Discrete Mathematics. (3h) An introduction to various topics in discrete mathematics applicable to computer science including sets, relations, Boolean algebra, propositional logic, functions, computability, proof techniques, graph theory, and elementary combinatorics. (QR)

121. Linear Algebra I. (3h) Vectors and vector spaces, linear transformations and matrices, determinants, eigenvalues, and eigenvectors. Credit not allowed for both 121 and 302. (QR)

165. Problem Solving Seminar. (1h or 1.5h, P/F) A weekly seminar designed for students who wish to participate in mathematical competition such as the annual Putnam examination. Not to be counted toward any major or minor offered by the department. May be repeated for credit.

211. Advanced Calculus. (3h) A rigorous proof-oriented development of important ideas in calculus. Limits and continuity, sequences and series, pointwise and uniform convergence, derivatives and integrals. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 211 and 311.
221. Modern Algebra I. (3h) An introduction to modern abstract algebra through the study of groups, rings, integral domains, and fields. P—M TH 121.

243. Codes and Cryptography. (3h) Essential concepts in coding theory and cryptography. Congruences, cryptosystems, public key, Huffman codes, information theory, and other coding methods.

251. Ordinary Differential Equations. (3h) Linear equations with constant coefficients, linear equations with variable coefficients, and existence and uniqueness theorems for first order equations. P—M TH 112. (Q R)

254. Optimization Theory. (1.5h) Unconstrained and constrained optimization problems; Lagrange multiplier methods; sufficient conditions involving bordered Hessians; inequality constraints; Kuhn-Tucker conditions; applications primarily to problems in economics. P—M TH 113 and 121.

255. Dynamical Systems. (1.5h) An introduction to optimal control, including the Pontryagin maximum principle, and systems of nonlinear differential equations, particularly phase space methods. Applications to problems in economics, including optimal management of renewable resources. P—M TH 113 and 121.

256. Statistical Methods. (3h) A study of statistical methods that have proved useful in many different disciplines. These methods include tests of model assumptions, regression, general linear models, nonparametric alternatives, and analysis of data collected over time. Knowledge of matrix algebra is desirable but not necessary. (Q R)

301. Vector Analysis. (1.5h) Vector functions, partial derivatives, line and multiple integrals, Green’s theorem, Stokes’ theorem, divergence theorem. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department except for the major in mathematical business. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 113 and 301. P—M TH 112.

302. Matrix Algebra. (1.5h) Matrices, determinants, solutions of linear equations, special matrices, eigenvalues and eigenvectors of matrices. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department except for the major in mathematical business. Credit not allowed for both 121 and 302.

303. Complex Variables. (1.5h) Topics in analytic function theory, Cauchy’s theorem, Taylor and Laurent series, residues. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department. Credit not allowed for both 303 and 317. P—M TH 112.

304. Applied Partial Differential Equations. (1.5h) The separation of variables technique for the solution of the wave, heat, Laplace, and other partial differential equations with the related study of special functions and Fourier series. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department. P—M TH 251.

311, 312. Introductory Real Analysis I, II. (3h,3h) Limits and continuity in metric spaces, sequences and series, differentiation and Riemann-Stieltjes integration, uniform convergence, power series and Fourier series, differentiation of vector functions, implicit and inverse function theorems. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 211 and 311.
317. Complex Analysis I. (3h) Analytic functions, Cauchy's theorem and its consequences, power series, and residue calculus. Credit not allowed for both 303 and 317. P—MTH 113.

322. Modern Algebra II. (3h) A continuation of modern abstract algebra through the study of additional properties of groups, rings, and fields. P—MTH 221.

324. Linear Algebra II. (3h) A thorough treatment of vector spaces and linear transformations over an arbitrary field, canonical forms, inner product spaces, and linear groups. P—MTH 121 and 221.

326. Numerical Linear Algebra. (3h) Numerical methods for solving matrix and related problems in science and engineering. Topics will include systems of linear equations, least squares methods, and eigenvalue computations. Special emphasis given to parallel matrix computations. Beginning knowledge of a programming language, such as Pascal, FORTRAN, or C, is required. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 326 and Computer Science 352. P—MTH 112 and 121.

331. Geometry. (3h) An introduction to axiomatic geometry including a comparison of Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometries.

334. Differential Geometry. (3h) Introduction to the theory of curves and surfaces in two and three dimensional space, including such topics as curvature, geodesics, and minimal surfaces. P—MTH 113.

347. Graph Theory. (3h) Paths, circuits, trees, planar graphs, spanning trees, graph coloring, perfect graphs, Ramsey theory, directed graphs, enumeration of graphs, and graph theoretic algorithms.

348, 349. Combinatorial Analysis I, II. (3h,3h) Enumeration techniques, generating functions, recurrence formulas, the principle of inclusion and exclusion, Polya theory, graph theory, combinatorial algorithms, partially ordered sets, designs, Ramsey theory, symmetric functions, and Schur functions.

352. Partial Differential Equations. (3h) A detailed study of partial differential equations, including the heat, wave, and Laplace equations, using methods such as separation of variables, characteristics, Green's functions, and the maximum principle. P—MTH 113 and 251.

353. Mathematical Models. (3h) Development and application of probabilistic and deterministic models. Emphasis given to constructing models which represent systems in the social, behavioral, and management sciences.

355. Introduction to Numerical Methods. (3h) Numerical computations on modern computer architectures; floating point arithmetic and round-off error. Programming in a scientific/engineering language such as MATLAB, C, or FORTRAN. Algorithms and computer techniques for the solution of problems such as roots of functions, approximation, integration, systems of linear equations and least squares methods. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 355 and Computer Science 355. P—MTH 112, MTH 121 or 302, and Computer Science 111.
357, 358. Mathematical Statistics I, II. (3h,3h) Probability distributions, mathematical expectation, sampling distributions, estimation and testing of hypotheses, regression, correlation, and analysis of variance. C—MTH 112 or P—Permission of instructor.

361. Selected Topics. (1.5h, 2.5h, or 3h) Topics in mathematics which are not considered in regular courses or which continue study begun in regular courses. Content varies.

381. Individual Study. (1.5h, 2.5h, or 3h) A course of independent study directed by a faculty adviser. By prearrangement.

391. Senior Seminar Preparation. (1h) Independent study or research directed by a faculty advisor by prearrangement with the adviser.

392. Senior Seminar Presentation. (1h) Preparation of a paper, followed by a one-hour oral presentation based upon work in Mathematics 391.

Medieval Studies
Professors of English Gillian Overing and Gale Sigal, Coordinators

The interdisciplinary minor in medieval studies requires eighteen hours, chosen from at least three different departments. Courses from the student’s major may count in the minor. Students are encouraged, but not required, to attend the six-week Summer Medieval Program at Oxford University in England, for which they receive 4.5 hours (two courses) which count toward the minor. (For details about application to the Oxford program, and possible financial aid, consult Gale Sigal in the English department.) Courses may be chosen from the following list. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Art 252. Romanesque Art. (3h)
253. The Gothic Cathedral. (3h)
254. Luxury Arts in the Middle Ages. (3h)
267. Early Italian Renaissance Art. (3h)
296. Art History Seminar: b. Medieval Art. (1.5h, 3h)

English 305. Old English Language and Literature. (3h)
310. The Medieval World. (3h)
311. The Legend of Arthur. (3h)
312. Medieval Poetry. (3h)
315. Chaucer. (3h)
320. British Drama to 1642. (3h)

French 370. Seminar in French Studies. (3h)

German 249. German Literature before 1700. (3h)
History
306. The Early Middle Ages. (3h)
307. The High Middle Ages Through the Renaissance. (3h)
310. Seminar: Jerusalem. (3h)
342. The Middle East Before 1500. (3h)

Humanities
320. Perspectives on the Middle Ages. (3h)
361. Dante I. (1.5h)
362. Dante II. (1.5h)

Philosophy
232. Ancient and Medieval Philosophy. (3h)

Political Science
115Q. Medieval Political Thought (3h)

Religion
367. The Mystics of the Church. (3h)
372. History of Christian Thought: b. Medieval and Reformation Thought. (1.5h, 3h)

Spanish
331. Medieval Spain: A Cultural and Literary Perspective. (3h)

Theatre
260. History of Western Theatre I (Beginnings to 1642). (3h)

Students intending to minor in medieval studies should consult one of the coordinators, preferably during the sophomore year.

Professor Lieutenant Colonel James R. Page II
Assistant Professors Tina M. Colston, Capt. Edward C. Jackman, William J. Ryan
Instructor Master Sergeant Gregory Campbell

Completion of Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (AROTC) requirements and recommendation for appointment by the professor of military science may result in commissioning as a second lieutenant in the active or reserve forces components of the Army of the United States, as determined by the Secretary of the Army. The AROTC program is composed of the Basic Course and the Advanced Course. The Basic Course is composed of four courses (121, 122, 123, and 124), sometimes with either 117 or 118 taken each semester as a co-requisite. No military obligation is incurred by enrollment in the Basic Course, except by Army ROTC Scholarship cadets, and then only when beginning their sophomore year. The Basic Course may be completed, partially or fully, by various alternative methods (i.e., through credit for specific types of Junior ROTC or other military training, as determined by the professor of military science, or through completion of a six-week summer Basic Camp). The Advanced Course is composed of four courses (225, 226, 227, and 228), with either 117 or 118 taken each semester as a co-requisite, and a five-week Advanced Camp, usually attended during the summer between the junior and senior years. Army ROTC scholarships are available to qualified applicants (both those already enrolled in the AROTC program and those not yet enrolled) through annual competition.

114. Leadership. (1.5h) An examination of the fundamentals contributing to the development of a personal style of leadership with emphasis on the dimensions of junior executive management.
117, 118. Leadership Laboratory. (0.0h) Basic military skills instruction designed to technically and tactically qualify the student for assumption of an officer leadership position at the small-unit level. Either Military Science 117 (fall) or 118 (spring) is required each semester for contracted AROTC cadets (including those conditionally contracted), advance designee scholarship winners, and non-contracted AROTC cadets taking their third and fourth military science courses. Pass/fail only. C—Any other military science core course. P—Permission of the professor of military science, except when required as explained above.

121. Introduction to Army ROTC and the U.S. Army. (1.5h) An introduction to the Army Reserve Officers’ Training Corps and to the United States Army, exploring roles, organization, customs and traditions. C—MIL 117 or 118, as appropriate.

122. Introduction to Problem Solving, Decision Making, and Leadership. (1.5h) This course is an introduction to the “life skills” of problem solving, decision making, and leadership. The course is designed to help students in the near-term as leaders on campus. The class will also help students be more effective leaders and managers in the long-term, whether they serve in the military or be leaders in civilian life. Topics addressed include problem solving, critical thinking, problem solving methods, leadership theory, followership, group cohesion, goal setting, and feedback mechanisms. Lessons are taught in a seminar format, emphasizing student discussions and practical exercises. Open to all students.

124. Tactics and Land Navigation in the U.S. Army. (1.5h) A study of the methods of land navigation and terrain analysis for military operations. P—MIL 121 and 122, or permission of the professor of military science. C—MIL 117 or 118, as appropriate.

123. Leadership in the U.S. Army. (1.5h) This course delves into theoretical and practical leadership instruction. Specifically, students examine several aspects of communication and leadership concepts such as written and oral communication, effective listening, assertiveness, personality, adult development, motivation, and organizational culture and change. Each lesson maximizes student participation, inspires intellectual curiosity, and clarifies practical application. The course concludes with a major leadership and problem solving case study. Upon completion, students will be well-grounded in fundamental leadership principles and will be better prepared to apply such principles to a wide variety of life experiences.

225. Fundamentals of Military Leadership and Training. (1.5h) Instruction and case studies which build leadership competencies and military skills in preparation for future responsibilities as Army officers. Specific instruction in the principles of war, decision-making processes, planning models, and risk assessment. Advanced leadership instruction focuses on motivational theory, the role and actions of leaders, and organizational communications.

226. Fundamentals of Military Leadership and Training. (1.5h) Instruction and case studies which builds upon the leadership competencies and military skills attained in Military Science 225 in preparation for future responsibilities as Army officers. Specific instruction is given in individual leader development, planning and execution of small unit operations, individual and team development, and the Army as a career choice.
227. Leadership and Management in the U.S. Army I. (1.5h) The theory and practice of military leadership. Emphasis on the Uniform Code of Military Justice, the Manual for Courts-Martial, the Law of Land Warfare and the Army's personnel, training, and logistical management systems. P—MIL 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science) and MIL 225 and 226. C—MIL 117.

228. Leadership and Management in the U.S. Army II. (1.5h) A continuation of Military Science 227 with emphasis on the transition from cadet to officer. P—MIL 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science) and MIL 225 through 227. C—MIL 118.

229. American Military History. (3h) The American military experience with emphasis on the ideas and activities contributing to the development of the United States' unique military establishment. Particular emphasis on civilian control of the military. P—Permission of the professor of military science. Credit not allowed for this course if credit has been earned for History 369.

Music (MUS)

David B. Levy, Chair
Professors Susan Harden Borwick, Stewart Carter, Louis Goldstein, Peter Kairoff
David B. Levy, Dan Locklair (Composer-in-Residence), Teresa Radomski
Associate Professor and Director of Choral Ensembles Brian Gorelick
Assistant Professors Jacqui Carrasco, Richard E. Heard
Director of Bands C. Kevin Bowen
Director of Orchestra David Hagy
Lecturers Patricia Dixon, Kathryn Levy, Morten Solvik (Vienna)

The Department of Music offers two majors, in music performance and music history/theory/composition, each requiring thirty-eight hours. Students who choose one of these majors may not choose the other as a second major. Both majors include a basic curriculum of music theory (M usic 171, 172, 173, 174, sixteen hours) and music history (M usic 181, 182, 183, nine hours), and four semesters of M usic 100.

In addition to this basic curriculum, the major in music performance requires six hours of individual instruction above the 100 level (M usic 262 and either 362 or 363), which requires as a prerequisite the successful completion of an audition; four hours of ensembles (excluding M usic 117 and 119), taken in four semesters; and three hours of elective courses in music, excluding ensembles and M usic 161-162, 165-168, 175, 177, 262, 362-363. The major in music performance must present a senior recital.

In addition to the basic curriculum, the major in music history/theory/composition requires three hours of individual instruction, three hours of ensembles (excluding M usic 117), taken in three semesters; seven hours of elective courses in music, excluding ensembles and M usic 161-162, 165-168, 175, 177, 262, 362-363, and a performance proficiency examination. The major in music history/theory/composition must complete a senior thesis (M usic 297 or 398) appropriate to one or more of these areas.
Students considering a major in music performance or music history/theory/composition are urged to begin their musical studies during the first year and should consult the chair of the department as soon as possible after entering the University. Those wishing to major in music performance are required to audition, typically during their sophomore year, before officially being admitted to the major. Successful completion of Music 171 is required in order to audition.

Highly qualified majors in music performance or music history/theory/composition may be invited by the music faculty to apply for admission to honors in music. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Music,” a candidate must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.0, and a grade point average of at least 3.5 in courses in the major, be selected for this honor by the music faculty, and successfully complete either Music 363 or 398. More information is available from the music department.

A minor in music requires nineteen hours: Music 171, 172; one course from Music 181, 182, 183; two hours of ensemble (excluding Music 117), taken in two semesters; two hours of individual instruction; three semesters of Music 100; and four hours of elective courses in music, three of which must be in music history/theory/composition. Each minor will be assigned an adviser in the music department and is encouraged to begin individual lessons, Music 171, and Music 100 as early as possible.

Regarding ensemble requirements for the majors and minor in music, students who are singers must fulfill the ensemble requirement by enrolling in Music 112A, 115 and/or 116. Students who play a band or orchestral instrument must fulfill the ensemble requirement by performing on their primary instrument in Music 112B, 113, 118, and/or 121. Performers on keyboard instruments are strongly encouraged to enroll in one of the above ensembles, but may also fulfill the ensemble requirement through participation in chamber music (120).

Music in Liberal Arts

100. Recitals. (0h) Recitals, concerts, and guest lectures sponsored by the Department of Music and the Secrest Artists Series. (Specific attendance requirements will be established at the beginning of each semester.) Four semesters are required of music majors; three semesters are required of music minors. Pass/fail only.

101. Introduction to Western Music. (3h) Basic theoretical concepts and musical terminology. Survey of musical styles, composers, and selected works from the Middle Ages through the present day. Satisfies the Division III requirement. May not count toward the majors or minor in music.

109. Introduction to the Music of World Cultures. (3h) A survey of music in selected societies around the world. Topics will be selected from the following areas of concentration: India, East Asia, sub-Saharan Africa, western Europe, Latin America, and vernacular music of the United States (including jazz). Satisfies the Division III requirement. May not count toward the majors or minor in music. (CD)
110. Writing about the Arts. (3h) Training in expository writing; frequent essays based on music and other arts experiences on campus and in the community, and on readings in music and the arts. Fulfills the basic compositional requirement in English. P—Permission of instructor and the Department of English. May not count toward the majors or minor in music.

Music History, Theory, and Composition

104. Basic Music Reading and Skills. (1.5h) A study of the fundamentals of music theory including key signatures, scales, intervals, chords, and basic sight-singing and ear-training skills. Designed for students wishing to participate in University ensembles and those wishing to pursue vocal, instrumental, and compositional instruction. May not count toward the majors or minor in music.

106. Electronic Music Lab. (1.5h) Foundations of MIDI protocol, with particular attention to the study and application of sequencers, notational programs, and synthesizers. Development of skills in written notation through use of computerized programs. Taught in Music Computer Lab. P—MUS 101, 104, or permission of instructor.

130. African-American Art Song. (3h) A survey of the art songs of African-American composers of the nineteenth and twentieth century. The emphasis in the course will be on song for solo voice and piano, with some discussion of works for voice and orchestra or chamber ensemble. P—Permission of instructor. (CD)

171. Music Theory I. (4h) Music fundamentals (key signatures, scales, modes, intervals, chords), simple part-writing, sight-singing, rhythmic skills, and keyboard harmony. Prerequisite for audition in music performance. Fall. Designed for music majors and minors.

181. Music History I. (3h) History of western art music from the ancient Greeks to 1750. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Fall. P—M US 171 or permission of instructor.

182. Music History II. (3h) History of western art music from 1750 to World War I. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Spring. P—M US 171, 181, or permission of instructor.

183. Music History III. (3h) History of western art music from the beginning of the twentieth century to the present day and its associations with other cultures and disciplines. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Fall. P—M US 171, 181, 182 or permission of instructor.
203. History of Jazz. (3h) A survey of American jazz from its origin to the present. Open to majors and non-majors. P—MUS 101 or permission of instructor.

207. American Music. (3h) A study of the musical sources of American culture and the six streams of music in the United States: folk and ethnic musics, offsprings of the rural South (country music, blues, rock), jazz and its forerunners, popular sacred music, popular secular music, and art music. (CD)

208. Women and Music. (3h) A historical overview of women musicians in society. Counts toward a minor in women’s studies. (CD)

209. Music of World Cultures. (3h) A survey of music in selected societies around the world. Topics will be selected from the following areas of concentration: India, East Asia, sub-Saharan Africa, western Europe, Latin America, and vernacular music of the United States (including jazz). Students will complete a project or projects on the technical or theoretical aspects of the music of world cultures. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Designed for music majors and minors. P—MUS 172 or permission of instructor. (CD)

210. Survey of Latin American Music. (3h) A survey of art, folk, and popular musical styles in Latin America and their impact on music of other cultures. Divided into three areas of study: the Caribbean, Central America, and South America. May count as a requirement toward the Latin American studies minor. (CD)

212. Music in the Church. (3h) Function of church musicians and the relationship of their work to the church program. Offers to musician and non-musician alike historical overview, hymnody survey and other church music-related topics through class and guest lectures and practical seminars. Offered fall semester of odd years. P—Permission of instructor.

213. Beethoven. (3h) Compositional process, analysis, criticism, and performance practices in selected works by Ludwig van Beethoven. P—MUS 101 or permission of instructor.

220. Seminar in Music History. (3h) Intensive study of a selected topic in music history. P—MUS 174, 181, 182, 183, or permission of instructor.

230. History of Musical Instruments. (3h) Historical overview of the form and function of musical instruments from the Middle Ages to the present. Emphasis on instruments in art music of Western Europe and the United States. P—MUS 101, 181, 182, 183, or permission of instructor.

272. Analysis Seminar. (1.5h) A study of analytical writings of theorists and composers and the development of practical skills as they can be used in research and performance preparation. P—MUS 174 or permission of instructor.

273. Composition. (1h or 1.5h) Individual instruction in the craft of musical composition. May be repeated for credit. P—Permission of instructor.

280. Orchestration. (3h) A study of the orchestral and wind band instruments, how composers have used them throughout history, and the development of practical scoring and manuscript skills. Spring. P—MUS 174, 182, 183, or permission of instructor.
282. Conducting. (3h) A study of choral and instrumental conducting techniques. P—MUS 174 or permission of instructor.

284. Music Literature Seminar. (3h) A survey of repertoire, including an examination of teaching materials in the student’s special area of interest. P—MUS 101 or permission of instructor.

- Orchestral Literature
- Choral Literature
- Piano Literature
- Guitar Literature
- Vocal Literature
- Opera

Independent Study and Honors Thesis

298. Independent Study. (1.5h,3h) A project in an area of study not otherwise available in the department. By pre-arrangement with department chair.

397. Senior Thesis in History/Theory/Composition. (1h) Writing of a major historical, theoretical, or compositional work, as determined by the student’s area of concentration. A student may not receive credit for both Music 397 and 398. By prearrangement.

398. Senior Honors Thesis in History/Theory/Composition. (1h) Writing of a major historical, theoretical, or compositional work, as determined by the student’s area of concentration. A student may not receive credit for both Music 397 and 398. P—Faculty selection for honors in music history/theory/composition.

Ensemble

Departmental ensembles are open to all students on the basis of one hour per semester of participation in each ensemble. Music 117 may not count for the music majors or minor.

111. Opera Workshop. Study, staging, and performance of standard and contemporary operatic works. P—Permission of instructor.

112. Collegium Musicum Instrumental. An ensemble stressing the performance practices and the performance of music of the medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque eras.

113. Orchestra. Study and performance of orchestral works from the classical and contemporary repertoire. P—Audition.

115. Concert Choir. A select touring choir of forty-five voices which performs a variety of choral literature from all periods. P—Audition.

116. Choral Union. A large, mixed chorus which performs a variety of choral literature from all periods. P—Audition.

119. Symphonic Band. Study and performance of music for symphonic band. Regular performances on and off campus. Spring. P—Permission of instructor.

120. Small Chamber Ensemble. Study and performance of music for small ensemble. Performers are strongly urged to participate in a larger ensemble as well. P—Permission of instructor.

- a. percussion ensemble
- b. flute choir
- c. string
- d. saxophone
- e. brass
- f. woodwind
- g. guitar
- h. mixed

121. Jazz Ensemble. Study and performance of written and improvised jazz for a twenty-member ensemble. P—Audition.

Performance Study

Courses in individual instruction are open to students with the permission of the instructor on a space available basis. Students in individual instruction who do not have basic knowledge of notation and rhythm are advised to enroll in Music 104 either prior to or in conjunction with individual instruction. (See page 22 of this bulletin for specific information regarding the fee.) All classes in this section may be repeated for credit unless noted.

108. Alexander Technique for Musical Performers. (0.5h) An educational process that uses verbal and tactile feedback to teach improved use of the student's body by identifying and changing poor and inefficient habits that cause stress, fatigue, and pain in the musical performer. This is a course designed to teach the performer to minimize physical effort and maximize expression. Meets two hours per week. Pass/fail only.

122. Music Theatre Practicum. (1h) For musicians who perform in a departmentally sponsored theatrical production (when their performance is not as a member of a departmental ensemble). May not be counted toward the majors or minor in music. Credit may be earned in a given semester for either Music 122 or Theatre 283, but not both. Course may be repeated for no more than four hours. Pass/fail only. P—Permission of instructor.

123. Woodwind Doubling (1h) Practical skills for woodwind instrumentalists who participate in musical theatre productions for which expertise on more than one instrument is required.

161. Individual Instruction. (0.5h) Technical studies and repertoire of progressive difficulty selected to meet the needs and abilities of the student. One half-hour lesson per week. Does not fulfill the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. May be repeated for credit.

- a. violin
- b. viola
- c. cello
- d. bass
- e. flute
- f. oboe
- g. clarinet
- h. bassoon
- i. saxophone
- j. trumpet
- k. French horn
- l. trombone
- m. baritone
- n. tuba
- o. organ
- p. piano
- q. percussion
- r. guitar
- s. harp
- t. electric bass
- u. voice
- w. recorder
- x. viola da gamba
- y. harpsichord
- z. jazz improvisation
162. Individual Instruction. (1h) One one-hour lesson per week. Does not fulfill the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. May be repeated for credit. P—Permission of instructor.

165j. Brass Rudiments. (0.5h) Introduction to the fundamentals of playing brass instruments. Designed for students with musical experience as well as beginners with no prior musical training. Spring. P—Permission of instructor.

165v. Class Voice II. (0.5h) Continuation of fundamental vocal techniques. P—MUS 165v or permission of instructor.

168v. Theatrical Singing II: Class Voice. (0.5h) Continuation of theatrical singing techniques with increased study and performance of musical theater repertoire. P—MUS 167v or permission of instructor. (One hour per week.)

175v. Advanced Voice Class. (1h) Development of advanced vocal technique and repertoire. Limited to eight students. (Two hours per week; may be repeated.) P—MUS 166v or permission of instructor.

177v. Advanced Theatrical Singing. (1h) Development of advanced theatrical singing technique and performance of musical theater repertoire. Limited to eight students. (Two hours per week; may be repeated.) P—MUS 168v or permission of instructor.

190. Diction for Singers. (1.5h) Study of articulation in singing, with emphasis on modification of English; pronunciation of Italian, German, and French. Development of articulatory and aural skills with use of the international phonetic alphabet. Individual performance and coaching in class. (Two hours per week.) May not be repeated for credit.

262. Individual Instruction. (1.5h) One one-hour lesson per week. Fulfills the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. May be repeated for credit. P—Two hours of MUS 161 and/or 162, plus successful completion of the audition for the major in musical performance, and permission of instructor.
362. Senior Recital. (3h) Preparation and public performance of a recital. Fulfills the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. To be taken only during the senior year. A student may not receive credit for both Music 362 and 363. A student may not enroll in Music 262 and 362 in the same semester. May not be repeated for credit. P—Two semesters of Music 262.

363. Senior Honors Recital. (3h) Preparation and public performance of a recital at the honors level. Fulfills the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. To be taken only during the senior year. A student may not receive credit for both Music 362 and 363. A student may not enroll in Music 262 and 363 in the same semester. May not be repeated for credit. P—Two semesters of Music 262 and faculty selection for honors in music performance.

Neuroscience (NEU)
Professor of Biology Wayne L. Silver, Coordinator

The neuroscience minor provides an interdisciplinary approach to the study of the nervous system. Neuroscientists study how we learn, process and remember information from the molecular to the philosophical level and examine subjects ranging from the molecular pharmacology of brain function to the mind-body problem.

The minor requires a minimum of seventeen hours, nine of which must include the neuroscience courses (200, 201, 300, 391) described below. At least one semester of research in neuroscience is required for the minor (NEU 391). The research can be conducted on the Reynolda Campus or with investigators at the Wake Forest University School of Medicine. The research project must be approved by a member of the neuroscience minor faculty. Eight hours must come from the elective courses listed below. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.) One of the elective courses must come from outside the student’s major department.

200. Introduction to Neuroscience. (3h) An interdisciplinary course taught by faculty representing several fields. Topics include neurophysiology, sensory biology, motor mechanisms, neuropharmacology, cognitive neuroscience, perception, neural networks, and the philosophy of mind.

201. Neuroscience Laboratory. (1h) A laboratory course that examines principles of neuroscience ranging from the molecular and cellular to the behavioral and cognitive. Lab—three hours. C—NEU 200.

300. Neuroscience Seminar. (3h) Consideration of current neuroscience topics. Presentations by faculty on the Reynolda Campus or the Wake Forest University School of Medicine of current research are followed by student-led discussions. Readings from the primary literature will accompany the presentations. P—NEU 200.

391. Research in Neuroscience. (2h) Supervised independent laboratory investigation in neuroscience.

The objective of the program in philosophy is to lead the student to an understanding of philosophical thinking—past and present—about such fundamental questions as what it is to exist, to know, to be good, right, true, beautiful, or sacred. In examining such matters, philosophy may be said to investigate the presuppositions that inform all human action and inquiry and thus to be an essentially interdisciplinary kind of subject. The study of philosophy can, therefore, play a useful role in preparing the student for a career in almost any field, including law, politics, religion, medicine, business, the arts, and the natural and social sciences.

The twenty-seven hours in philosophy required for graduation with a major in the subject must include a general introduction to philosophy (Philosophy 111), one course in logic (selected from Group II), three courses in the history of philosophy (one from each of Groups III, IV and V) and two 200-level or higher topics courses (Group VI), the total to include at least three courses at the 300-level.

A minor in philosophy requires fifteen hours in philosophy, which must include at least two 200-level or higher courses and one 300-level course. Philosophy being an intrinsically interdisciplinary subject, a minor in philosophy can be designed to complement any major subject. Students interested in minoring in philosophy should consult with the department about choosing an appropriate sequence of courses.

Highly qualified majors are invited to apply in the spring semester of their junior year to the honors program in philosophy. Candidates must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.0 and a grade point average in philosophy courses of at least 3.3. Graduation with honors in philosophy requires successful completion of Honors I and II in the fall and spring semesters, respectively, of their senior year. The hours earned in these two courses do not count toward the twenty-seven hours required of all majors.

Group I—Introduction to Philosophy

111. Basic Problems of Philosophy. (3h) An examination of the basic concepts of several representative philosophers, including their accounts of the nature of knowledge, persons, God, mind, and matter.

Group II—Logic

121. Logic. (3h) An elementary study of the laws of valid inference, recognition of fallacies, and logical analysis.

221. Symbolic Logic. (3h) Basic concepts and techniques of first-order logic; applications of first-order logic to arguments expressed in English; some discussion of such topics as the unsolvability of the decision problem for first-order logic, the completeness of first-order logic, and Gödel’s incompleteness theorem.

Group III—Classical Ancient Philosophy

232. Ancient and Medieval Philosophy. (3h) A study of philosophical problems such as the nature of faith, reason, universals, and God in the thought of Plato, Aristotle, Augustine, Abelard, Anselm, Aquinas, and Ockham. P—PHI 111.

331. Plato. (3h) A detailed analysis of selected dialogues, covering Plato’s most important contributions to moral and political philosophy, theory of knowledge, metaphysics, and theology. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

332. Aristotle. (3h) A study of the major texts, with emphasis on metaphysics, ethics, and theory of knowledge. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

Group IV—Classical Modern Philosophy

242. The Mechanistic View of Nature. (3h) An examination of the philosophical and scientific roots, in Descartes, Newton, and Leibniz, of the belief that the universe and human beings are “machines” subject to deterministic natural laws, and the relevance to this issue of modern scientific ideas. (Also offered as History 302, Interdisciplinary Honors 252, and Natural Sciences 302.)

341. Kant. (3h) A detailed study of selected works covering Kant’s most important contributions to theory of knowledge, metaphysics, ethics, religion, and aesthetics. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

342. Studies in Modern Philosophy. (3h) Treatment of selected figures and/or themes in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century European philosophy. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

Group V—Other History

251. American Philosophy. (3h) A study exploring the philosophies of Jonathan Edwards, Ralph Waldo Emerson, C.S. Peirce, William James, John Dewey, and others, examining their views on logic, experience, science, reality, nature, art, education, and God. P—PHI 111.

253. Main Streams of Chinese Philosophy and Religion. (3h) An introduction to the most important traditions in Chinese philosophy and religion: Confucianism, Daoism (Taoism), and Chinese Buddhism or Chinese Chan (Zen) Buddhism. (Also offered as Religion 380.)

254. Existentialism. (3h) A study of existentialist treatment of such topics as the self, meaning, identity, nihilism, freedom, and commitment. Authors studied may include Kierkegaard, Dostoyevsky, Nietzsche, Kafka, Heidegger, Beckett, and Sartre. P—PHI 111.

351. Early German Idealism. (3h) An examination of the development of post-Kantian idealism through the works of Fichte, Schelling, and Schleiermacher, with particular emphasis on their efforts to address the challenge of critical philosophy. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

352. Hegel, Kierkegaard, and Nietzsche. (3h) An examination of selected sources embodying the basic concepts of Hegel, Kierkegaard, and Nietzsche, especially as they relate to each other in terms of influence, development, and opposition. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

353. Heidegger. (3h) An examination of the structure and development of Heidegger’s philosophy from the ontological analysis in Being and Time to his later work in the philosophy of language and poetry. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

354. Wittgenstein. (3h) The work of Ludwig Wittgenstein on several central philosophical problems studied and compared with that of Frege, James, and Russell. Topics include the picture theory of meaning, truth, skepticism, private languages, thinking, feeling, the mystical, and the ethical. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.
Group VI—Topics in Philosophy

161. Medical Ethics. (3h) A study of moral problems in the practice of medicine, including informed consent, experimentation on human subjects, truth-telling, confidentiality, abortion, and the allocation of scarce medical resources.

162. Ethics and Public Policy. (3h) A critical examination of the ethical foundations of public policy issues. Topics may include: euthanasia, censorship, racial and gender equality, drugs, sexual conduct, and crime.

163. Environmental Ethics. (3h) An examination of ethical issues concerning the environment as they arise in individual lives and public policy. These issues are discussed in the context of fundamental questions regarding the adequacy of traditional philosophical frameworks for thinking about the relationship between humans and the nonhuman world and the value and moral status of the nonhuman world.

171. Space and Time in Fact and Fiction. (3h) Are space and time fundamentally different? Are they properties of the physical world or of minds only? Are they finite or infinite in extension and duration? Other questions cover problems and paradoxes in the concept of space and in the concept of time travel.

261. Ethics. (3h) A critical study of selected problems and representative works in ethical theory. P—PHI 111.

262. Philosophy of Law. (3h) A philosophical inquiry into the nature of law and its relation to morality. Classroom discussions of readings from the works of classical and modern authors focus on issues of contemporary concern involving questions of legal principle, personal liberty, human rights, responsibility, justice, and punishment. P—PHI 111.

271. Philosophy of Biology. (3h) A study of the philosophical presuppositions and implications of contemporary biology, covering topics such as evolution by natural selection, the nature of biological classification, reductionism, and biological explanations of moral and social phenomena. P—PHI 111.

274. Philosophy of Mind. (3h) A selection from the following topics: the mind-body problem; personal identity; the unity of consciousness; minds and machines; the nature of experience; action, intention, and the will.

361. Topics in Ethics. (1.5h,3h) P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

362. Social and Political Philosophy. (3h) A systematic examination of selected social and political philosophers of different traditions, with concentration on Plato, Marx, Rawls, and Nozick. Topics include rights, justice, equality, private property, the state, the common good, and the relation of individuals to society. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.
371. Philosophy of Art. (3h) A critical examination of several philosophies of art, with emphasis upon the application of these theories to particular works of art. P—one 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

372. Philosophy of Religion. (3h) An analysis of the logic of religious language and belief, including an examination of religious experience, mysticism, revelation, and arguments for the nature and existence of God. P—one 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

373. Philosophy of Science. (3h) A systematic and critical examination of major views concerning the methods of scientific inquiry, and the bases, goals, and implications of the scientific conclusions which result from such inquiry. P—one 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

375. Philosophy of Language. (3h) A study of such philosophical issues about language as truth and meaning, reference and description, proper names, indexicals, modality, tense, the semantical paradoxes, and the differences between languages and other sorts of sign-systems. P—one 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor. (Also listed as Linguistics 375.)

381. Topics in Epistemology. (3h) The sources, scope and structure of human knowledge. Topics include: skepticism; perception, memory, and reason; the definition of knowledge; the nature of justification; theories of truth. P—one 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

382. Topics in Metaphysics. (3h) P—one 200-level course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

Group VII—Honors and Independent Study

385. Seminar. (1.5h,3h) Offered by members of the faculty on specialized topics of their choice. With permission, may be repeated for credit. P—Permission of instructor.

391. Honors I. (1.5h) Directed study and research in preparation for writing a major paper. Must be taken in the fall semester of the senior year. P—Admission to the honors program in philosophy.

392. Honors II. (1.5h) Completion of the project begun in Philosophy 391. Requires defense of the paper in an oral examination conducted by at least two members of the department. Taken in the spring semester of the senior year. P—PHI 391.

395. Independent Study. (1.5h,3h)

The program for each student majoring in physics is developed through consultation with the student's major adviser and may lead to either a bachelor of arts or a bachelor of science degree. The bachelor of arts degree requires a minimum of basic physics courses and allows a wide selection of electives related to the student's interests in other disciplines, such as medicine, law, and business. The bachelor of science degree is designed for students planning careers in physics.

The bachelor of arts degree in physics requires twenty-five hours in physics and must include the following courses: 113, 114, 141, 162, 165, 166, and 230. The remaining six hours may be satisfied with any other 300-level courses in the department. Mathematics 251 also is required. Depending on what other physics courses the student takes, additional mathematics courses may be required; e.g., Mathematics 301 is a prerequisite for Physics 339. The BS degree in physics requires thirty-eight hours in physics and must include the following courses: 113, 114, 141, 162, 165, 166, 230, 301, 302, 343, 344, 346, 337, 339, 340, and 351. The remaining hours may be satisfied with any other 300-level course in the department. In addition, Mathematics 251, 301, 302, and 304 are required; Mathematics 303 and Computer Science 111 are strongly recommended. A typical schedule for the first two years:

If this sequence is followed, the physics major may be completed with considerable flexibility in exercising various options, such as the five-year BS/MS program. This saves time, and the outstanding student may qualify for a tuition scholarship in the senior year of the five-year program. A candidate for the 3-2 engineering program would also complete three years of the bachelor of science physics major program prior to transfer. (Consult the chair of the department for additional information on these five-year programs.)

A minor in physics requires seventeen hours, which must include the courses 113, 114, 141, and 162. A minor in astrophysics requires seventeen hours and consists of the courses 113, 114, 141, 310, and 312. Students interested in either minor should so advise the faculty member responsible for advising physics majors (inquire in Olin Physical Laboratory Room 100).

If physics is not taken in the first year, the degree requirements in physics may still be completed by the end of the senior year if a beginning course is taken in the sophomore year. No student may be a candidate for a degree with a major in physics with a grade less than C in General Physics without special permission of the department.

Physics courses satisfying Division V requirements must be taken at Wake Forest. Satisfactory completion of the laboratory work is required for a passing grade in all courses with a laboratory.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in physics through the major adviser. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Physics,” students must pass Physics 381, write a paper on the results of the research in that course, pass an oral exam on the research and related topics given by a committee of three physics faculty members, and obtain a grade point average of at least 3.5 in physics and 3.0 overall.

105. Descriptive Astronomy. (3h) An introductory study of the universe, from the solar system to the galaxies. No lab. Does not satisfy Division V requirements.

109. Astronomy. (4h) An introductory study of the universe consisting of descriptive astronomy, the historical development of astronomical theories, and astrophysics. Knowledge of basic algebra and trigonometry is required. Lab—two hours.

110. Introductory Physics. (4h) A conceptual, non-calculus one-semester survey of the essentials of physics, including mechanics, wave motion, heat, sound, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics. Not recommended for premedical, mathematics, or science students. Credit not allowed for both 110 and 113. Lab—two hours. (QR)

113, 114. General Physics. (4h,4h) Essentials of mechanics, wave motion, heat, sound, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics treated with some use of calculus. Recommended for science, mathematics, and premedical students. C—Mathematics 111, 106, or equivalent. P—PHY 113 is prerequisite for 114. Lab—two hours. (QR)

120. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h) The course covers the basic physical and chemical processes in the earth's atmosphere, biosphere, and the oceans. It consists of two parts: 1) chemical processes in the environment such as element cycles and the chemistry of the pollutants in air and water and, 2) physical aspects of the environment such as solar energy and the atmosphere, and the physics of weather and climate. Lab—three hours. P—PHY 113 or Chemistry 111. (Also listed as Environmental Studies 225.) (QR)

141. Elementary Modern Physics. (3h) The development of twentieth century physics and an introduction to quantum ideas. P—PHY 114 and Mathematics 111. C—PHY 165. (QR)

162. Mechanics. (3h) A study of the equations of motion describing several kinds of physical systems: velocity-dependent forces; damped and forced simple harmonic motion; orbital motion; inertial and non-inertial reference frames; and relativistic mechanics. The course includes extensive use of computers. P—PHY 113 and Mathematics 111 or equivalent. (QR)
165, 166. Intermediate Laboratory. (1h,1h) Experiments on mechanics, modern physics, electronics, and computer simulations. C—PHY 141 (for Physics 165); PHY 162 (for Physics 166). P—PHY 165 (for Physics 166).

230. Electronics. (3h) Introduction to the theory and application of transistors and electronic circuits. Lab—three hours. P—PHY 114. (Q R)

301, 302. Physics Seminar. (0h,0h) Discussion of contemporary research, usually with visiting scientists. Attendance required of junior and senior physics majors.

307. Biophysics. (3h) An introduction to the structure, dynamic behavior, and function of DNA and proteins, and a survey of membrane biophysics. The physical principles of structure determination by X-ray, N M R, and optical methods will be emphasized. P—PHY 113, 114 as well as Biology 112 or 214 or permission of instructor.

304. Physics of Medical Imaging. (3h) Physical principles of x-ray computed tomography (CT), positron emission tomography (PET), single-photon emission computed tomography (SPECT), magnetic resonance imaging (M R I), and ultrasonic imaging. P—PHY 113, 114 as well as Mathematics 111-112 or permission of instructor.

310. Extragalactic Astronomy and Cosmology. (3h) Topics covered include galactic structure, models for galaxies and galaxy formation, the large scale structure of the universe, the big bang model of the universe, physical processes such as nucleosynthesis in the early universe, and observational cosmology. P—PHY 114, 141.

312. Introduction to Stellar Astronomy. (3h) The physics of stellar atmospheres and interiors. Topics covered include radiation transfer, absorption and emission of radiation, formation of spectra, models for stellar interiors, nuclear fusion reactions, and stellar evolution. Methods of measuring distances to stars and interpretation of stellar spectra also will be included. P—PHY 114, 141, Mathematics 301.

320. The Physics of Macromolecules. (3h) The physics of polymers, especially proteins and nucleic acids, including the molecular basis for their secondary and tertiary structure. P—PHY 351 or Biology 371 or Chemistry 341.

337. Analytical Mechanics. (1.5h) The Lagrangian and Hamiltonian formulations of mechanics with applications. This course is taught in the first half of the fall semester. P—PHY 162, Mathematics 251.

339, 340. Electricity and Magnetism. (1.5h,3h) Electrostatics, magnetostatics, dielectric and magnetic materials, M axwell’s equations and applications to radiation, relativistic formulation. Physics 339 is taught in the second half of the fall semester, following Physics 337. Physics 340 is taught in the spring semester. These should be taken in sequence. P—PHY 114, Mathematics 251 and 301.

346. Advanced Physics Laboratory. (1h) Lab—three hours. P—PHY 166 and PHY 343.
351. Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics. (3h) Introduction to classical and statistical thermodynamics and distribution functions.
352. Physical Optics and Optical Design. (4h) Interaction of light with materials; diffraction and coherent optics; ray trace methods of optical design. Lab—three hours.
381, 382. Research. (1.5h/3h, 1.5h/3h) Library, conference, computation, and laboratory work performed on an individual basis.

Political Science (POL)

Kathy B. Smith, Chair
Worrell Professor of Anglo-American Studies David Coates
Professors Jack D. Fleer, Charles H. Kennedy, Richard D. Sears, Kathy B. Smith
Associate Professors Katy J. Harriger, Wei-chin Lee, David P. Weinstein, Zachary T. Smith Associate Professor Helga A. Welsh
Assistant Professors Michaele L. Browers, John J. Dinan, Andrew Rich, Peter M. Siavelis
Visiting Professor Jerry Pubantz
Senior Lecturer Yomi Durotoye
Adjunct Instructor Johnny Goldfinger

In its broadest conception, the aim of the study of political science is to understand the way in which policy for a society is formulated and executed and to understand the moral standards by which policy is or ought to be set. This center of interest is often described alternatively as the study of power, of government, of the state, or of human relations in their political context. For teaching purposes, the study of political science has been divided by the department into the following fields: (1) American politics, (2) comparative politics, (3) political theory, and (4) international politics. Introductory courses in these fields provide broad and flexible approaches to studying political life.

The major in political science consists of twenty-eight hours, at least nineteen hours of which must be completed at Wake Forest University. Where students take political science courses abroad in Wake Forest approved programs, as accepted by the department, at least sixteen hours of their major must be completed at Wake Forest. The courses must include the following: (a) at least one non-seminar course in each of the four fields of political science listed above; (b) at least one political science seminar course (290).

The senior seminar provides an opportunity for majors to experience something comparable to a graduate seminar. As such it is conducted more by discussion than by lecture and enables students to read and reflect upon advanced scholarly material. The seminar also offers students the opportunity in their final year to create a research paper of greater length and sophistication than is customary and to develop the research and writing skills appropriate to the task. Students who write outstanding papers may be nominated for “Honors in Political Science” (Political Science 285).
No more than six hours may be taken toward the major from introductory courses (100-level courses). Majors may not take the introductory courses during their senior year. No more than three hours for any one or any combination of the following courses may be counted toward the major: Political Science 287, 288, or 289. Transfer hours toward the major will be awarded on an individual case-by-case basis at the discretion of the department chair. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in all courses completed in political science at Wake Forest is required for graduation with the major.

To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Political Science,” a candidate must have a 3.2 overall grade point average and a 3.5 political science grade point average. In addition, the candidate’s seminar paper, upon the completion of Politics 290, must be accepted by the department honors committee. The candidate is required to take Politics 285, which may not be counted toward the twenty-eight-hour requirement for the major. For additional information, department faculty members should be consulted.

Political science majors who minor in Latin American studies also have the opportunity to pursue a five-year cooperative BA/MA degree program at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. See pages 66 and 159 for details.

The minor in political science consists of fifteen hours. No more than six hours may be taken toward the minor from introductory courses (100-level courses). No more than three hours for any one or any combination of the following courses may be counted toward the minor: Political Science 287, 288, or 289. Twelve of the hours must be taken at Wake Forest. Transfer hours toward the minor will be awarded on an individual case-by-case basis at the discretion of the chair. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in all courses completed in political science at Wake Forest is required for graduation with the minor.

A student who selects political science to fulfill the Division IV requirement must take one of the following courses: Political Science 113, 114, 115P, 115Q, 115R, or 116. Students who are not majors in political science may take upper-level courses as electives without having had lower-level courses, unless a prerequisite is specified.

American Politics

113. American Government and Politics. (3h) The nature of politics, political principles, and political institutions, with emphasis on their application to the United States.

210. Topics in United States Politics and Policy. (1h or 3h) An intensive study of one or more major problems in contemporary United States politics and policy.

211. Political Parties, Voters, and Elections. (3h) An examination of party competition, party organizations, the electorate and electoral activities of parties, and the responsibilities of parties for governing.

212. U.S. Policymaking in the Twenty-first Century. (3h) Examines the contemporary United States policymaking process. Special attention to ways issues become important and contributions of different political actors, institutions, and ideologies in the passage or rejection of policy proposals. Considers a range of social, economic, and regulatory policies.

213. Public Administration. (3h) Introduction to the study of public administration emphasizing policymaking in government agencies.
214. Business and Government in the United States. (3h) Examination of the evolution of the relationship between business and government. Emphasis on contemporary public policies affecting and affected by business in some or all of the areas of labor relations, health care, economics, trade, telecommunications, campaign finance, and the environment.

215. Citizen and Community. (3h) An examination of the role and responsibilities of citizens in democratic policymaking. Includes discussion of democratic theory, emphasis on a policy issue of national importance (i.e. poverty, crime, environment), and involvement of students in projects that examine the dimension of the issue in their community.

P—Permission of instructor.

216. U.S. Social Welfare Policy. (3h) An analysis of U.S. social policymaking and policy outcomes on issues such as welfare, education, health care, and Social Security, with an emphasis on historical development and cross-national comparison.

217. Politics and the Mass Media. (3h) Exploration of the relationship between the political system and the mass media. Two broad concerns will be the regulation of the mass media and the impact of media on political processes and events.

218. Congress and Policymaking. (3h) An examination of the composition, authority structures, external influences, and procedures of Congress with emphasis on their implications for policymaking in the United States.

219. Political Participation. (3h) An examination of political participation in the United States, with emphasis on electoral and non-electoral avenues through which individuals and groups wield influence in politics and government, including voting, interest groups, and social movements.

220. The American Presidency. (3h) Emphasis on the office and the role; contributions by contemporary presidents considered in perspective.

221. State Politics. (3h) An examination of institutions, processes, and policies at the state level, with emphasis on the different patterns of governance in the various states and the consequences of the recent revitalization of state governments.

222. Urban Politics. (3h) Political structures and processes in American cities and suburbs as they relate to the social, economic, and political problems of the metropolis. (CD)

223. Blacks in American Politics. (3h) A survey of selected topics, including black political participation, political organizations, political leadership, and political issues. It will also show the relationship of these phenomena to American political institutions and processes as a whole.

227. Politics, Law, and Courts. (3h) Analysis of the nature and role of law in American society and the structure and procedure of American courts. Questions of judicial organization, personnel, and decision-making, as well as the impact of law and court decisions on the social order, are explored at local, state, and national levels.

Karen L. Roper, Julie H. Wayne
Visiting Instructor Donna R. Carroll
Adjunct Professors Jay R. Kaplan, W. Jack Rejeski Jr., Frank B. Wood
Adjunct Associate Professor C. Drew Edwards
Adjunct Assistant Professors Phillip G. Batten, Julia Jackson-Newsom, William W. Sloan Jr.
Adjunct Instructor Stephen W. Davis

Psychology 151 is a prerequisite to all courses of a higher number. Courses numbered below 151 do not count toward Division IV requirements or toward the major in psychology. Psychology 210, 211, 212, or special permission of the instructor is prerequisite for some 300-level courses. See individual course descriptions for specific information.

It is recommended that students who are considering psychology as a major take Psychology 151 in their first year and Psychology 211 no later than their junior year. An average of C or higher in psychology courses is required at the time the major is elected. The major in psychology requires the completion of a minimum of thirty-five hours in psychology, including 151, 211, 212, 313, and 392. Students who have successfully completed 383 are not required to complete 392. In addition, the major student must complete at least one course from each of the following groups: Group A: 326, 331, 338 and 374; Group B: 320, 323, 329, and 333; and Group C: 341, 351, 355, 357, and 362. No more than forty-two hours in psychology may be counted toward the graduation requirements of 112 hours. No more than three hours of directed study (280) or independent research (282) may be counted toward the thirty-five hours required for the major; up to a maximum of five hours may be counted with more than thirty-five hours in the major.

No more than nine hours will be accepted for courses taken at other schools to be counted toward the major. Courses taken at community colleges or college courses taught on high school campuses will not be accepted for transfer credit. With the exception of Psychology 151, specific courses required for the major must be taken at Wake Forest University. The guidelines regarding transfer and credit approval may be modified in rare and special circumstances at the discretion of the psychology department chair.

The minor in psychology requires fifteen hours in psychology including: 151; 210 or 211; at least two of the following courses, at least one of which must be at the 300-level—241, 245, 255, 260, 268, 320, 323, 326, 329, 331, 333, 338, 362 and 374.

A minimum grade average of C on all courses attempted in psychology is required for graduation with either a major or minor in psychology.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to participate in the honors program in psychology. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Psychology,” the student must complete satisfactorily a special sequence of courses (381, 383), pass an oral or written examination, and earn an overall GPA of 3.2 with an average of 3.5 on work in psychology. In addition, the honors student normally has a non-credit research apprenticeship with a faculty member. For more detailed information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted. (Students satisfactorily completing Psychology 383 are not required to complete Psychology 392.)

100. Learning to Learn. (3h) A workshop designed primarily for first- and second-year students who wish to improve their academic skills through the application of basic principles of learning, memory, organization, etc. Third- and fourth-year students by permission of the instructor only. Religion (REL)

Charles A. Kimball, Chair
Albritton Professor of the Bible Fred L. Horton Jr.
Easley Professor of Religion Stephen B. Boyd
University Professor James A. Martin Jr.
Professors John E. Collins, Kenneth G. Hoglund, Charles A. Kimball
Adjunct Professor Bill J. Leonard

Visiting Associate Professor Carol Lahurd
Assistant Professors James Ford, Mary F. Foskett, Elaine Swartzentruber
Instructor Valerie C. Cooper

The study of religion is a way of organizing academic inquiry into how human beings and human cultures express and experience their religious needs, beliefs, and values. It involves the study of both specific religious traditions and the general nature of religion as a phenomenon of human life. Using cross-cultural and interdisciplinary approaches, religious studies investigate and interpret systems of religious belief, the history of religious traditions, the function of religion in society, and forms of religious expression such as ritual, symbols, sacred narrative, scripture, practices, theological and philosophical reflection. Students of religion, whether adherents of a religion or of no religion, gain tools to understand, compare, and engage the phenomenon of religion and its role in human life and culture.

A major in religion requires a minimum of twenty-four hours, of which eighteen must be in courses above the 100-level. Students must also take at least one course in a non-Western tradition. A variety of courses in comparative religion, African religious traditions, Asian religious traditions and Islam will satisfy this requirement. Introduction to Religion (REL 101) does not fulfill this requirement.

“Open Curriculum” Alternative: Majors may request an “open curriculum” alternative to the normal requirements. A student with a particular thematic and/or research interest may propose a program of study to his or her adviser. The proposed curriculum under this option must be approved by the department’s Undergraduate Committee.

A minor in religion requires fifteen hours, nine of which must be above the 100-level. As with majors, students for the minor also must take at least one course in a non-Western tradition as noted above. The department provides advisers for students pursuing a minor.

Highly qualified majors are encouraged to apply for admission to the honors program. Students who wish to pursue this option must apply to the department chair for admission to the honors program, normally by February of the junior year. Upon completion of all requirements, the candidate may graduate with “Honors in Religion.” For additional information, consult any member of the department faculty.

The honors designation in Romance languages is a recognition of outstanding scholarship in the field, as evidenced by academic achievement, critical thinking, and intellectual initiative. Highly qualified majors selected by the Romance language faculty are invited to participate in the honors program.

The honors program requires completion of 390 (Directed Reading, 1 hour) and 391 (Directed Research, 3 hours). Coursework in 390 during the fall semester includes reading and discussion of a number of texts on the selected topic, and a written exam covering these texts. At the end of fall semester, the student submits an annotated bibliography and an abstract of the honors thesis. Coursework for 391 during the spring semester consists of writing the thesis following a schedule established by the director and the student. At the end of spring semester, the honors student defends the thesis orally to appropriate faculty for final approval.

Intensive Summer Language Institute (ISLI)

Theatre and Dance (THE)

Mary Wayne-Thomas, Chair
Associate Professors Nina Lucas (Director of Dance), Mary Wayne-Thomas
Assistant Professors Sharon Andrews, Jonathan H. Christman, Jane Kathleen Curry, Brook M. Davis, Cynthia M. Gendrich, Francis P. Ludwig
Visiting Assistant Professor Mark Cohen
Lecturers Zanna Beswick (London), John E. R. Friedenberg (Director of Theatre)
Adjunct Instructors Fanchon Cordell, Brantly Shapiro, Robert Simpson

A major in theatre consists of a minimum of thirty-three hours, including Theatre 110 or 112, 130, 140, 150, 250, 260, 261, 340, 381, and 385. (Students interested in a theatre major should elect Theatre 112.) Four semesters of Theatre 100 (0 hours) also are required. Majors may choose their remaining courses from offerings at the 200 level or higher listed under the Department of Theatre. A minimum grade of 2.0 in all theatre courses attempted is required for graduation. Majors should consult with their advisers about additional regulations. Theatre majors are required to take two courses in dramatic literature from the Departments of English, Classical Languages or from Humanities.

Those who plan to be theatre majors are urged to begin their studies during their first year.

Highly qualified majors (departmental grade point average of 3.3, overall grade point average of 3.0) are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in theatre. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Theatre,” a student must successfully complete Theatre 292 (3h). Honors projects may consist of a) a research paper of exceptional quality; b) a creative project in playwriting or design; or c) a directing or acting project. The theatre honors project must be presented and defended before the departmental Honors Committee. The department can furnish honors candidates with complete information on preparation and completion of projects.
A minor in theatre requires eighteen hours: Theatre 110 or 112, 140, 150, 260 or 261, two theatre electives (at the 200 level or higher) and two semesters of Theatre 100 participation. Theatre minors are required to take one course in dramatic literature from the Departments of English, Classical Languages or from Humanities.

Any person who is interested in a theatre major or minor should contact the chair of the department soon after arrival on the campus.

100. Participation. (0h) Attendance/participation in M ainstage and Studio performances and other events as established by the department. (Specific attendance/participation requirements will be established at the beginning of each semester.) Four semesters, or a minimum of eight University Theatre productions, are required of theatre majors. Participation in at least two of the eight productions must be in technical production. Two semesters, or a minimum of four University Theatre productions, are required of theatre minors. Participation in one of the four productions must be in technical production. Assignments for technical production are made through consultation with the technical and design faculty.

110. Introduction to the Theatre. (3h) For the theatre novice. A survey of the theory and practice of the major disciplines of theatre art: acting, directing, playwriting, and design. Participation in Studio and M ainstage productions. Students planning to major in theatre are encouraged to take Theatre 112. Credit will not be given for both Theatre 110 and 112. May be used to satisfy a requirement in Division III.

112. Introduction to the Theatre. (3h) For the experienced theatre student. A survey of the theory and practice of the major disciplines of theatre art: acting, directing, playwriting, and design. Students planning to major in theatre are encouraged to take Theatre 112. Credit will not be given for both Theatre 110 and 112. Experience in Studio and M ainstage productions. May be used to satisfy a requirement in Division III.

Women’s Studies (WST)

Associate Professor of Sociology Cheryl B. Leggon, Director

The interdisciplinary minor in women’s studies must include women’s studies 221 and a minimum of fifteen additional hours, for a total of eighteen hours. It is recommended that the upper division seminar, women’s studies 321, be included. If courses not designated women’s studies are taken, they must be from an approved list on file with the director and stated below. Such courses must be balanced between a) the humanities and b) the sciences. This structure gives students an understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of women’s studies within the context of the traditional liberal arts curriculum.

A student minoring in women’s studies might take women’s studies 221 as a sophomore, six to nine hours as a junior, and the remaining six to nine hours, including the Interdisciplinary Seminar, as a senior.

100. R.A.D.: Rape Aggression Defense. (1h) Develops and enhances the options of self-defense, including basic physical self-defense tactics and risk reduction and avoidance, so they may become viable considerations for any woman who is attacked. (3h) This writing-intensive seminar explores special topics that include women, such as: women and creativity; women, work, and family; Womanist literature; reproductive rights; violence against women; women and the arts; the emergence of feminist thought. Emphasis on expository writing, critical thinking, and exchange of ideas in a discussion and workshop setting. Satisfies the basic composition but not the minor requirement.

221. Women’s Issues. (3h) An interdisciplinary course, taught by women’s studies faculty representing at least two fields, that integrates materials from the humanities and the sciences. Topics include critical methods and practical solutions, gender issues in the twenty-first century, women in culture and society, and cross-cultural issues of gender, ethnicity, social class, disability, and sexual orientation.
321. Interdisciplinary Seminar. (3h) A research-centered study of questions raised by women's studies on an interdisciplinary topic, such as women's health issues, war and peace, international women's issues, perspectives on women and aging, lesbian and gay culture and theory, and women and the arts.

350. Biocultural Perspectives on Women and Aging. (3h) A course that examines biological, sociopsychological, and cultural issues affecting older women.

358. Mothers and Daughters. (3h) A course that examines literature, psychology, and feminist theories on motherhood and the mother-daughter relationship.

359. Fathers and Daughters. (3h) The ways in which fathers influence their daughters' emotional, psychological, and intellectual development. Selected materials from psychology, mythology, film, and contemporary literature.

377. Special Topics. (1.5h, 2.5h, 3h) Includes such women's studies topics as gender issues in the twenty-first century, Jewish-American women writers, African-American women writers, women and aging, critical approaches to women's issues, and the emergence of feminist thought.

396. Independent Study. (1-3h) Independent projects in women's studies which either continue study begun in regular courses or develop new areas of interest. By prearrangement.

397. Internships in Women's Studies. (1.5h-3h) Practicum opportunities for work and for research in conjunction with a local women's or justice organization: Winston-Salem Family Services, NOW, Council on the Status of Women, the North Carolina Center for Laws Affecting Women, the AIDS Care Service, etc. Pass/fail only.

In addition to the women's studies courses, the following courses may be included in the minor. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Core Purpose

We are a community of teacher-scholars committed to providing an intimate educational environment and an intellectually challenging educational experience in which our students prepare for successful leadership roles in business and society.

Shared Values

We are committed to:
- excellence in teaching and learning;
- the growth and development of each of our students;
- intellectual curiosity and the pursuit of knowledge; and
- personal and professional integrity.

Programs

Four four-year programs of study leading to the bachelor of science degree are offered. Students may choose a major in either business, analytical finance, information systems, or mathematical business (in cooperation with the Department of Mathematics). A five-year program of study is offered which combines a master of science in accountancy with a bachelor of science in accounting, a bachelor of science in analytical finance, or a bachelor of science in information systems.

The five-year program is an integrated BS/MS program. Interested students will declare an accountancy, analytical finance, or information systems major during their sophomore year and will apply to the master's program during their third year. Students will receive both the bachelor of science and the master of science degrees upon completion of the program.

Objectives

The business program of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy prepares students for success in today's business world with a challenging and high quality curriculum. The program is intentionally general and facilitates the integration of the various business disciplines with the liberal arts core. It also emphasizes flexibility by allowing the opportunity for specialized career paths and for minors outside the Calloway School.

The analytical finance program in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy prepares students for success in careers in financial services, including investment and commercial banking and financial consulting. The program emphasizes a strong concentration in finance, supported by accounting concepts beyond the introductory level, which is critical in a global environment.

The mathematical business program, offered by the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy jointly with the Department of Mathematics, prepares students for careers in business and government that require model-based, advanced quantitative approaches to problem solving. The program responds to today’s complex global environment, where problems in business administration and public policy making are becoming more intricate, requiring the use of such an approach.

The information systems program in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy prepares students for challenging careers in information systems and technology management. The program emphasizes the leveraging effects of information technology toward competitive advantage, while also developing the requisite technical skill base to effectively serve leadership roles in information systems organizations.

The bachelor of science in accountancy (BSA) degree program of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, which is only offered in conjunction with the MSA program, is geared to provide a foundation for the MSA degree. The program includes the opportunity for broad exposure to undergraduate concepts to prepare students to successfully complete the MSA degree.

The master of science in accountancy (MSA) degree program of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy prepares students to make sustained contributions to the discipline and practice of accounting. The program can be tailored to meet the needs of students with a variety of undergraduate majors, including liberal arts and sciences, business, and accounting. All students participate in intensive course work to prepare for a career in auditing, tax consulting, investment banking, or financial consulting.

All programs in the Calloway School are accredited by the AACSB International—The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business.

Admission

Admission to the Calloway School is by formal application, and applicants will be screened by the Committee on Admissions, Continuation, and Scholarships of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Before being considered for admission to the Calloway School, the applicant first must have been admitted to Wake Forest College. Minimum requirements for admission to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy are completion of forty-nine hours with an overall grade point average of 2.2, completion of Economics 150, Mathematics 106 or 111 (Mathematics 111 for the mathematical business major), Accounting 111 and 112, and a 2.0 average in these four courses. In addition, students should have completed Business 100 and Communication 110. Students who have not met fully the above requirements may request a one-semester provisional acceptance.

The number of students who can be accommodated is limited. Meeting the minimum requirements is not a guarantee of admission. Therefore, the Calloway School reserves the right to grant or deny admission or readmission to any student even though he or she meets the minimum requirements. Readmission to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy first requires readmission to Wake Forest College, requirements for which are discussed on page 32.
Transfer of Credit from Other Schools

It is expected that most work toward degrees offered by the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy will be taken in the Calloway School. For students wishing to transfer credit from other schools, the following general guidelines apply:

(a) Courses at another school passed with the minimum passing grade at that school may not be transferred.
(b) Courses transferred in business and accountancy may be subject to validating examinations.
(c) No work in courses numbered 200 and above will be accepted from two-year schools.
(d) Courses taken elsewhere in subjects not offered at the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy will not necessarily count toward the hours required in the Calloway School.
(e) Only one course so transferred may be an elective unless such course is from an international program approved by the Calloway School, in which case two such electives may be so transferred (including any approved economics course counting toward the major).
(f) Business 371 cannot be transferred from another institution; it must be taken in the Calloway School.

For the bachelor of science in business, a minimum of thirty hours must be earned in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy at Wake Forest University; for the bachelor of science in analytical finance, the minimum hours earned in the Calloway School must total forty-one; for the bachelor of science in information systems, the minimum hours earned in the Calloway School must total thirty-six; for the BS/MS in professional accountancy, a minimum of forty-one hours and thirty graduate semester hours must be earned in the Calloway School; and for the bachelor of science in mathematical business, a minimum of thirty hours must be earned in the Calloway School and/or the mathematics department at Wake Forest University.

Requirements for Continuation

In addition to the requirements stated on page 31, a student must be academically responsible and must show satisfactory progress toward completing the requirements for the degree. The administration of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy will notify the student if satisfactory progress is not being made and, after consultation with the Committee on Admission, Continuation, and Scholarships, will decide if the student may continue as a major in the Calloway School.

Requirements for Graduation

The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy confers the bachelor of science degree with a major in either business, analytical finance, information systems, or mathematical business. The Calloway School also confers the master of science in professional accountancy concurrently with the bachelor of science in accountancy, the bachelor of science in analytical finance, or the bachelor of science in information systems. The requirements for completion of the degrees are those in effect at the time the student enters the Calloway School. For the major in business, a student must complete the following course work: Accounting 111 and 112; Business 100, 201, 202, 211, 221, 231, 241, 251, 261, and 272 or 371; Economics 150; Mathematics 106 or 111; Communication 110; and a minimum of nine hours from Business 209, 212, 213, 215, 216, 217, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 243, 252, 253, 262, 265, 281, 290, 294, 338 or accounting courses numbered 200 or above. One elective may be taken from economics courses numbered 200 or above.

For the combined bachelor of science in analytical finance/master of science in professional accountancy, the following course work must be completed: Accounting 111, 112, 211, 212, 331, 351, 352, 621, 714, 730, 780, 791 and either 632 or 754; Business 100, 201, 202, 211, 221, 231, 232, 236, 237, 241, 251, 671, 762, and an approved international course; Economics 150; Mathematics 106 or 111; and Communication 110.

For the combined bachelor of science in information systems/master of science degree in professional accountancy the following coursework must be completed: Accounting 111, 112, 211, 212, 351, 352, 621, 714, 780, 791 and either 632 or 754; Computer Science 111 and 111L; Business 100, 201, 211, 221, 231, 237, 241, 251, 255, 256, 257, 658, 659, 671, 762; Economics 150; Mathematics 106 or 111; and Communication 110.
In addition to the courses stipulated on the previous page, the student in business and accountancy also must meet the following requirements for graduation:

(a) a minimum of 112 hours for the four-year programs and 112 hours plus 30 graduate semester hours for the five-year program, including the basic and divisional requirements established by Wake Forest College;
(b) a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on all work attempted at Wake Forest;
(c) a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on all work attempted at other institutions; and
(d) an overall 2.0 grade point average on all business and accountancy courses.

Senior Honors Program

Calloway School students (exclusive of mathematical business majors) with a grade point average of at least 3.0 on all college work and who are eligible for membership in Beta Gamma Sigma are invited to apply for admission to the honors program in business and accountancy. A project, paper, or readings, and an oral presentation or examination are required. Those who successfully complete the requirements specified by the school are graduated with the designation “Honors in Business,” “Honors in Accountancy,” “Honors in Analytical Finance,” or “Honors in Information Systems.” For additional information, interested students should consult a member of the faculty of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Mathematical business majors with a grade point average of at least 3.0 on all college work and a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the major are invited to apply for admission to the honors program in mathematical business. A project, paper, or readings, and an oral presentation or examination are required. Those who successfully complete the requirements specified by the school and the mathematics department are graduated with the designation “Honors in Mathematical Business.” For additional information, interested students should consult a member of the faculty of the mathematics department or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Beta Gamma Sigma, National Honor Society

Membership in Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest national recognition a student can receive in an undergraduate program in accounting or business. To be eligible for membership, a student must rank in the upper seven percent of the junior class or the upper ten percent of the senior class.
Courses of Instruction

Business

100. Calloway Requisite Integrated Study Program. (1.5h) Provides students with an awareness of the fundamental objectives of business organizations and the environments in which they operate, in order to provide a common foundation for an integrated study of business disciplines. In addition, students develop knowledge and basic skills of business software applications including the operating system and windows, spreadsheets, business presentation graphics, and databases. C—Accounting 111 or P—Accounting 111. Closed to freshmen and seniors.

181. Field Study. (1h) Directed field study in specialized areas of business. P—Business 100 and Accounting 111. Permission of instructor.

201. Quantitative Analysis I. (3h) This course emphasizes the understanding and application of quantitative tools used in the business decision-making process. Specific issues covered include collection and presentation of data, sampling, and inferences. P—Business 100.

202. Quantitative Analysis II. (3h) This course is a continuation of Business 201. Additional statistical analysis tools are covered including linear programming. P—Business 201.

209. Seminar: Contemporary Issues in Business. (1.5h, 3h) The course examines current business issues using the theory and practices covered in the core courses. Topics may include recent global business events and policies, corporate takeovers and restructurings, business aspects of health care, workplace issues, the relationship of government and business decisions, among others. The topics discussed will change each semester reflecting the important issues at that time. P—Senior status and permission of instructor.

211. Organizational Theory and Behavior. (3h) This course focuses on the behavior, structure, and processes within organizations. Emphasis is on developing knowledge and skills regarding the role of individuals and groups within organizations, as well as the functions of organizational systems and dynamics.

212. Human Resource Management. (3h) This course focuses on important human resources management (H R M ) skills that are frequently used by line managers. Upon completion of the course, students should be literate in basic H R M concepts, knowledgeable of line managers’ H R M responsibilities, and skilled in H R M applications as prospective line managers. P—Business 211.

213. Entrepreneurship. (3h) The course is designed to acquaint students with entrepreneurship in practice, and to help students assess whether an entrepreneurial path makes sense for them. Students will define their own new business opportunities and will design a business plan for a new business start-up. Topics covered will include marketing research and screening new venture ideas, the qualities which successful entrepreneurs and their management teams possess, growth and transition issues for new ventures, legal and financial issues in start-ups, and raising capital. P—Business 211, 221, and 231, or permission of the instructor.
215. Seminar in Comparative Management. (1.5h, 3h) This course deals with the global issues in management. Particular emphasis is placed on the different management philosophies and styles employed by managers in an international context. The course is conducted in a seminar format and focuses on the complexities involved in operating in different cultures and the implications which these cultural differences have on managing organizations and their employees' behavior. P—Business 211.

216. Management in the Nonprofit and Public Sectors. (1.5h) This seminar focuses on the comparisons and contrasts of management across the nonprofit, public, and private sectors. The course uses a seminar format and a “real-world” approach. P—Senior standing. (One-half of enrollment spaces are available for non-Calloway School students.)

217. Change Management. (3h) This course focuses on the processes of change and reorganization in organizations. The overall course objective is to help students develop skills and knowledge that will allow them to assess the necessity for organizational change, identify factors that facilitate or impede successful change, and initiate and implement change in organizations. P—Business 211.

220. Marketing Strategy. (3h) This course focuses on marketing strategy development through intensive analysis of a diverse selection of cases from consumer, industrial, and technological markets; product and service businesses; and for-profit and nonprofit sections. Building upon tools, frameworks, and concepts of Business 221, this course pursues key strategic issues in depth. Topics covered include product development, promotional strategy, physical distribution, and pricing in planning and controlling marketing operation. P—Business 221.

221. International Marketing. (3h) Study of problems and opportunities in marketing overseas, analysis of cultural, economic, and political environment of foreign marketing operations, organization, and control of the multinational company. P—Business 221.

222. Marketing Research. (3h) Introduction to fundamentals of research methodology and use of research information in marketing decision-making. Topics include research design, data collection methods, scaling, sampling, and alternate methods of statistical data analysis. Students design and execute their own research projects. P—Business 201 and 221.

223. Consumer Behavior. (3h) Study of interdisciplinary behavioral science findings in buying decision processes and application of this knowledge to the design of marketing strategies and to the development of creative communication programs. P—Business 221.

224. Retail Management. (3h) This course is designed to acquaint the student with the scope, current trends, and elements of retail management. Topics covered include market structure of retailing, consumer behavior and retail strategy, changing retail institution types, merchandising strategies, basic financial tools essential to retail profitability, and current research in retailing. P—Business 221.
227. Marketing Communications. (3h) Marketing communications—the “promotion” part of the four Ps—is designed for students who want to pursue careers in marketing. The overall course objective is to improve students’ ability to communicate with consumers by helping them determine whom to talk to, what to say, and how to say it. In addition to advertising, the course addresses such elements of a marketing communications program as consumer and trade promotions, direct mail, publicity, packaging, point of sale material, and event sponsorship. Discussions, cases, in-class exercises, short oral presentations, and a marketing communications campaign project are among the instructional methods used in the course. P—Business 221.

228. Sports Marketing. (3h) This course focuses on the application of the strategic marketing process to the rapidly growing sports industry. Varied elements of the industry are examined: understanding the sports consumer; marketing and media; advertising and communication; promotion and special events; licensing; and corporate sponsorships. Current research, including gender-specific marketing, using athletes as endorsers, segmenting the sports market, measuring value of sponsorship, and globalization of sports products are covered. P—Economics 150 or equivalent.

231. Principles of Finance. (3h) An introduction to the field of finance including financial management, investment analysis, and financial institutions and markets. Emphasis is placed on financial management at the level of the business entity or nonprofit organization. P—Business 100, Accounting 112, and Economics 150.

232. Advanced Financial Management. (3h) Management decision-making applied to the financial function, including investment, financing, dividend, and working capital decisions and their impact on the value of the firm. P—Business 231.

233. Investment Analysis. (3h) Study of investment alternatives, expected returns, and corresponding risks; valuation of stocks applying fundamental analysis; survey of past and current methods of stock selection, including portfolio considerations. P—Business 231, and either Accounting 212 or Business 232, or permission of instructor.

235. Financial Institutions & Markets. (3h) A thorough examination of the role of financial intermediaries in a free market economy and the functions of financial institutions within money and capital institutions. Topics include asset, liability, and capital management, the regulatory environment, and special topics. Special topics may include risk management techniques utilizing proprietary insurance to neutralize the effects of risk inherent in daily life: termination or suspension of earnings, liability exposures, and potential losses of real and personal property values. P—Business 231.

236. Financial Derivatives. (3h) Futures, options, and swaps are the three most important types of financial derivatives and they are linked by a common pricing framework. This course emphasizes the use of these derivatives in risk management but includes speculative strategies that can be implemented with them. P—Business 231.
23.7. Taxes and Their Role in Business and Personal Decisions. (3h) Study of basic concepts of federal and state income taxation with an introduction to sales, property, and payroll taxes. Emphasis on the impact of taxation on business and personal tax planning and on the importance of compliance. P or C—Accounting 211 or permission of instructor.

241. Production and Operations Management. (3h) A study of the problems of the operations function in organizations, their interfaces with other functional areas, and the methods of their solutions. Topics include process selection, forecasting, aggregate planning, job shop scheduling, project management, MRP inventory management, facilities location and design, quality planning and control. P—Business 201.

243. Management of Technology and Innovation. (3h) This course explores the management challenges and opportunities created by emerging new technologies including both product and process technologies. Major themes of the course include (1) how pioneering firms manage the initial exploitation of new technologies to create business value and establish a competitive advantage through new product development or new process development and (2) how established firms cope with an emerging technology that threatens to diminish their competitive advantage or displace demand for products and services. This course deals with managerial rather than technical choices. P—Business 211, 221, 231 and 251.

251. Management Information Systems. (3h) An introduction to the business issues associated with information technology, designed to provide a broad perspective for managing an organization's information resources. The course begins with an overview of computing technology currently used in business organizations, including hardware, software, telecommunications and networking technology and database management systems. Techniques for developing and implementing corporate information systems are addressed, as are advanced applications of information technology. Frameworks are developed for contemplating when the use of such technologies is appropriate. Finally, the strategic, ethical and international implications of information systems are examined. P—Business 100.

253. Advanced Topics in Information Technology. (1.5h) At any point in time, contemporary organizations face several imposing information technology-based management challenges. This course provides an in-depth analysis of these issues, with an emphasis on considering the alignment between information technology and the goals and strategies of the firm. A high degree of currency is maintained with regard to the topics addressed. P—Business 251.

255. Electronic Commerce. (3h) Explores the benefits, capabilities, and related information technologies that comprise the current state of electronic commerce. Examines how to design and develop electronic commerce transaction processing based applications. The primary emphasis of the course will be on web based e-commerce systems, however Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) technology will also be discussed. Students will develop an electronic commerce business application that utilizes a virtual shopping cart. For IS majors only. P—Business 257 or permission of instructor.
256. Systems Analysis and Design. (3h) The course addresses structured approaches to the development of computer-based information systems in business. Specifically, structured methodologies are addressed, as are approaches to representing information and data flows and requirements. The fundamentals of design are also addressed. Structured software engineering and documentation techniques are explored as approaches to implementing quality systems. P—Business 251 and P or C—Computer Science 111.

257. Database Management. (3h) Explores the theories, features, and capabilities of relational database management systems in a business environment. Examines relational database design techniques using entity-relationship (ER) modeling and how to create, maintain and query database tables with structured query language (SQL). Emphasizes the use of database management systems in real-world business settings and how this technology can be applied effectively to solve business problems. Extensive hands-on exposure in producing ER design documents and SQL queries and reports from a relational database such as Oracle. For IS majors only. P—Business 251, P or C—Computer Science 111.

258. Business Data Communication Systems. (3h) Driven by increasingly global and mobile computing environments, the course addresses the technical underpinnings of data communications, but does so within a business context. Several telecommunications models and networks are examined in detail. Special attention is paid to Internet-based communications. Emphasis is placed upon management of the telecommunications infrastructure and associated projects. The impact of legislation and regulation in a global environment also is addressed. For IS majors only. P—Business 251, P or C—Computer Science 111.

259. Managing the IT Resource. (3h) As the capstone course in the information systems major, this course develops in students the ability to critically evaluate the technological and competitive landscape and to identify opportunities to leverage information technology toward competitive advantage. The process of conducting a management audit to examine current uses of information technology and to gauge its effectiveness is employed. Special emphasis is placed upon developing the ability to identify emerging and emergent technologies, to evaluate their strategic value to the firm and to then communicate the results of this analysis in a rigorous, professional and understandable fashion to business units and senior management. For IS majors only. P—Business 255, 256, 257, 258.

261. Legal Environment of Business. (3h) A study of the legal environment in which business decisions are made in profit and nonprofit organizations. Emphasis is put upon how the law develops and how economic, political, social, international, and ethical considerations influence this development. Includes substantive areas such as torts and government regulation of the employment relationship, the competitive marketplace and the environment. P—Accounting 111.

262. Business Law. (3h) A study of substantive law topics applicable to business transactions including contracts, agency, property, the UCC and business organizations with an emphasis on how these subjects intersect with the functional areas of business and affect managerial decision-making. P—Business 261.
265. Ethics and Business Leadership. (3h) An interdisciplinary exploration of ethics applied to business. The lecture, readings, and case-based approach introduces the necessary background information and then utilizes examples of ethical and unethical situations to develop an understanding of how an efficient and effective business can also be ethical. P—Junior or senior standing. (One-half of enrollment spaces are available for non-Calloway School students.)

272. Strategy in Entrepreneurial Firms. (3h) This course focuses on the creation and management of strategy in entrepreneurial firms. Core foundational concepts in strategic management are critically examined in the context of entrepreneurial firm settings. Emphasis is placed on applying principles of competitive analysis and strategic planning using case studies of startups, fast-growth firms, young firms in rapidly-changing industries, and firms confronting early organizational life cycle problems. Unique strategy issues confronted by firms in electronic commerce, technology, and other fast-paced industries will be considered. P or C—Business 211, 221, 231, and permission of instructor.

281. Individualized Reading and Research. (1h,2h,3h) Directed study in specialized areas of business. P—Permission of instructor.

290. International Business Study Tour. (3h) An experiential learning course which provides students with an exposure to and understanding of the distinctive characteristics of global versus domestic operations in foreign settings. Each of the functional areas of business (marketing, operations, finance, human resources management, information systems, and strategic management) are covered through various site visits and presentations in selected foreign countries. Background readings and assignments appropriate to business or analytical finance majors are required. P—Permission of instructor. Taught overseas in the summer.

292. Seminar in Mathematical Business Analysis. (3h) This seminar provides mathematical business majors with a forum where they can actually see how the mathematical, statistical and computer techniques can be brought to bear on many business problems from a variety of business functions. Emphasis will be more on studying the process of modeling and implementation issues of the solutions and less on the algorithmic details devised for effective model solution. Critical and reflective thinking about models and translation of their results into management action that will add value to a process system will be a major objective. Another objective of the seminar will be to foster group work and the sharpening of presentation skills. P—Business 211, 221, 231, 241, and Mathematics 256, 353.

293. Principles of Risk Management and Insurance. (3h) Risk management continues to evolve as an important area of study within the field of finance. This course is intended to assist the student in identifying and analyzing risk and in managing it through insurance and alternative tools. Techniques such as loss control, risk retention, and risk transfer are discussed. Insurance is discussed as one of many tools used to manage the risks of individuals and firms. P—Junior or senior standing.

294. Applied Risk Management. (1.5h) Professional risk management field work, under the direction of a faculty member. Students gain relevant practical experience that is integrated with casework and risk management theory. Emphasis is placed upon analysis,
295. Summer Management Program. (6h) A study of the various functions of business including accounting, finance, information systems, management, marketing, production, and strategic planning. Offered only in the summer and open only to junior and senior liberal arts majors. Special application and admission procedures.

296. Seminar in Fundamentals of Business. (4.5h) A study of the various functional areas of business, including finance, information systems, management, marketing, production, and strategic planning. Offered only in the summer. P—Admission to master of science in accountancy program.

338. Financial Statement Analysis. (1.5h) A study of the techniques used to analyze and interpret the information in corporate financial statements. Emphasis is placed on (1) accounting methods used in the preparation of financial statements, (2) implications of management's accounting choices for evaluation of corporate performance by creditors and investors, and (3) linkages among financial statement items. P—Business 231 and Accounting 212.

371. Strategic Management. (3h) This course focuses on the derivation of competitive advantage by organizations. The course emphasizes the activities of general managers who are responsible for the shape, character, and overall direction of the total enterprise. Course content includes analyzing the effects of industry and competitive environments on the firm, determining the strategic basis upon which the firm should compete, formulating and implementing integrative action plans which enhance performance, and strategic leadership. Emphasis is placed on applying principles of competitive analysis and strategic planning to case studies of domestic situations, diversification, globalization, corporate turnaround, and in the use of computerized business simulations. P—Business 211, 221, 231, and 241.

671. Strategic Management. (4h) This course focuses on the intersection between fundamental concepts in strategic management and contemporary issues in accounting. A foundation is built in strategic management theory relating to the various ways in which firms plan and organize value—adding activities, derive competitive advantage, and achieve superior performance. The relation between fundamental strategy issues and related accounting treatments are then examined. P—Business 211, 221, 231, 241 and Accounting 414, 454, 480.

762. Business Law for Accountants. (3h) An introduction to the process of law and study of the substantive law applicable to contracts, the Uniform Commercial Code, and debt/creditor relations. P—Admission to MS program.

The information in this bulletin applies to the academic year 2001-2002 and is accurate and current, to the extent possible, as of March 20, 2002. The University reserves the right to change programs of study, academic requirements, teaching staff, the calendar, and other matters described herein without prior notice, in accordance with established procedures.

Wake Forest University is committed to administer all educational and employment activities without discrimination because of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, veteran status, handicapped status or disability as required by law. The University has adopted a procedure for the purpose of resolving discrimination complaints. Inquiries or concerns should be directed to Harold Holmes, dean of student services, at (336) 758-5226; Paul Escott, dean of the College, at (336) 758-5312; or Doris McLaughlin, assistant director of human resources, director of equal employment opportunity, and Title IX coordinator, at (336) 758-4814. In addition, Wake Forest rejects hatred and bigotry in any form and adheres to the principle that no person affiliated with Wake Forest should be judged or harassed on the basis of perceived or actual sexual orientation. In affirming its commitment to this principle, Wake Forest does not limit freedom of religious association or expression, does not presume to control the policies of persons or entities not affiliated with Wake Forest, and does not extend benefits beyond those provided under other policies of Wake Forest.

The Undergraduate Bulletin is printed in Canada.
