Wake Forest University is characterized by its devotion to liberal learning and professional preparation for men and women, its strong sense of community and fellowship, and its encouragement of free inquiry and expression.

Wake Forest Institute was founded in 1834 by the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina. The school opened its doors on February 3 with Samuel Wait as principal. Classes were first held in a farmhouse on the Calvin Jones plantation in Wake County, North Carolina, near which the village of Wake Forest later developed.

Rechartered in 1838 as Wake Forest College, Wake Forest is one of the oldest institutions of higher learning in the state. The School of Law was established in 1894, followed by a two-year medical school in 1902. Wake Forest was exclusively a college for men until World War II, when women were admitted for the first time.

In 1941, the medical school moved to Winston-Salem to become affiliated with North Carolina Baptist Hospital and was renamed the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. In 1946, the trustees of Wake Forest and the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina accepted a proposal by the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation to relocate the College to Winston-Salem. The late Charles and Mary Reynolds Babcock donated much of the R.J. Reynolds family estate as the site for the campus and building funds were received from many sources. From 1952 to 1956, the first fourteen buildings were constructed in Georgian style on the new campus. The move to Winston-Salem took place in the summer of 1956; the original, or “old” campus, is now home to Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Following the move, Wake Forest grew considerably in enrollment, programs, and stature and became a University in 1967. The School of Business Administration, first established in 1948, was named the Charles H. Babcock School of Business Administration in 1969 and admitted its first graduate students in 1971. In 1972, the school enrolled only graduate students and the name was changed to the Babcock Graduate School of Management; departments of business and accountancy and economics were established in the College. In 1980, the Department of Business and Accountancy was reconstituted as the School of Business and Accountancy; the name was changed to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy in 1995.

The Division of Graduate Studies, established in 1961, is now organized as the Graduate School and encompasses advanced work in the arts and sciences on both the Reynolda and Bowman Gray campuses. In 1997, the medical school was renamed the Wake Forest University School of Medicine; its campus is now known as the Bowman Gray Campus. The Divinity School was established in 1999.

Although the official governing relationship with the Baptist State Convention ended in the mid 1980s, the University’s Baptist heritage remains important. Wake Forest and the Convention have a fraternal, voluntary relationship under which Wake Forest is autonomous in governance. Governance is now by an independent Board of Trustees; there are advisory boards of visitors for the College and each professional school. A joint board of University trustees and trustees of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital is responsible for Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center, which includes the hospital and the medical school.

The College, Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, Babcock Graduate School of Management, School of Law, the Graduate School, and the Divinity School are located on the Reynolda Campus in northwest Winston-Salem. The Wake Forest School of Medicine is about four miles away, near the city’s downtown. The University also offers instruction regularly at Casa Artom in Venice, at Worrell House in London, at Flow House in Vienna, and in other places around the world.

The College offers courses in more than forty fields of study leading to the baccalaureate degree. The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy offers courses of study leading to baccalaureate degrees in business, finance, information systems, or mathematical business (in cooperation with the Department of Mathematics); and a combination baccalaureate and master of science degree in accountancy through the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences of the University. The Divinity School offers the master of divinity degree. The School of Law offers the juris doctor and master of laws in American law degrees, and the Babcock Graduate School of Management, the master of business administration degree. Both schools also offer a joint JD/MBA degree. In addition to the doctor of medicine degree, the Wake Forest School of Medicine offers, through the Graduate School, programs leading to the master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees in biomedical sciences. The School of Medicine and the Babcock School offer a joint MD/MBA program. The Graduate School confers the master of arts, master of arts in education, master of arts in liberal studies, and master of science degrees in the arts and sciences and the doctor of philosophy degree in biology, chemistry, and physics. The Graduate School also offers MD/PhD and PhD/MBA programs.

Buildings and Grounds

The Reynolda Campus of Wake Forest is situated on approximately 340 acres; its physical facilities consist of over thirty buildings, most of which are of modified Georgian architecture and constructed of Old Virginia brick trimmed in granite and limestone. The Reynolda Gardens annex, consisting of about 150 acres and including Reynolda Woods, Reynolda Village, Reynolda Gardens, and Reynolda House, Museum of American Art, is adjacent to the campus. The Graylyn International Conference Center is nearby.

Wait Chapel, named in memory of the first president of the College, seats 2,300. The Wait Chapel tower contains the Janet Jeffrey Carlisle Harris Carillon, an instrument of forty-eight bells. Wingate Hall, named in honor of President Washington Manly Wingate, houses the Department of Religion, the Divinity School, and the offices of the University chaplain and Wake Forest Baptist Church.

Reynolda Hall, across the upper plaza from Wait Chapel, houses most of the administrative offices for the Reynolda Campus. The Benson University Center is the central hub for student activities and events. The Z. Smith Reynolds Library and its Edwin Graves Wilson Wing house the main collection of books and documents on the Reynolda Campus. Along with eight floors of open stacks, it has reading and reference rooms for study. Carswell Hall houses the Departments of Communication, Economics, and Sociology, and a large multimedia lecture area, the Annenberg Forum.

Winston Hall houses the biology department; Salem Hall, the chemistry department. Both buildings have laboratories as well as classrooms and special research facilities. The Olin Physical Laboratory houses the physics department. Harold W. Tribble Hall accommodates primarily humanities departments and the women’s and gender studies program, and has seminar rooms, a philosophy library, and a multimedia lecture area, DeTamble Auditorium. The Museum of Anthropology houses the anthropology department and North Carolina’s only museum dedicated to the study of world cultures. The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy is located in Kirby Hall, and the Departments of Mathematics and Computer Science are in adjacent West Hall. William B. Greene Jr. Hall houses psychology, German and Russian, and Romance languages.

The James R. Scales Fine Arts Center is of contemporary design appropriate to the functions of studio art, theatre, musical and dance performances, and instruction in art history, drama, and music. Off its lobby is the Charlotte and Philip Hanes Gallery for special exhibitions. In the art wing are spacious studios for drawing, painting, sculpture, and printmaking, along with a smaller gallery and classrooms. In the theatre wing are design and production areas and two technically complete theatres, the larger of traditional proscenium design and the smaller for experimental ring productions. The music wing contains Brendle Recital Hall for concerts and lectures, classrooms, practice rooms for individuals and groups, and the offices of the music department.

The Worrell Professional Center for Law and Management houses the School of Law and the Babcock Graduate School of Management under one roof.

The William N. Reynolds Gymnasium has classrooms for instruction in health and exercise science, courts for indoor sports, a swimming pool, and offices for the Department of Health and Exercise Science and Student Health Service. Adjacent are tennis courts, sports fields, Kentner Stadium, the Manchester Athletic Center, and the Kenneth D. Miller Center.

The Information Systems Building houses the information systems and military science departments, as well as a University Stores annex and a food service area.

The Wake Forest campus has a wide variety of housing options available to students. Babcock Hall, Bostwick Hall, Collins Hall, Davis Hall, Efird Hall, Huffman Hall, Johnson Hall, Kitchin Hall, Luter Hall, Martin Hall, Palmer Hall, Piccolo Hall, Polo Hall, Poteat Hall, the Student Apartments, and Taylor Hall are coeducational by floor, wing, or apartment. Substance-free living environments are available in some residence halls. Student housing is also available in the townhouse apartments and several small houses owned by the University. On the edge of the main campus are apartments for faculty and staff.

Information Systems

Information Systems supports University instruction, research, and administrative needs. The campus computer network offers high-speed connectivity from all residence hall rooms, all offices, and many classrooms and public areas.

Upon enrollment, all undergraduate students receive an IBM ThinkPad computer and color printer. At the beginning of the junior year, students exchange the ThinkPad for a new model. Upon graduation, the ThinkPad and the printer become the property of the student.

These laptop computers contain a standard suite of powerful programs that allow students easy access to research and class materials and offer the ability to interact with faculty, staff, and other students through the campus network. The programs include Microsoft Office, electronic mail, and Internet and library browsing, research, analytical tools, and development tools. A large variety of instructional, classroom, and research resources are available. These include the online catalog, databases, and electronic journals provided by the Z. Smith Reynolds Library.

Information Systems also supports an extensive online information system that includes class schedules and grades, documentation, and a University activity calendar. The Wake Forest Information Network (WIN) provides the University community with faculty, staff, and student directories, an alumni directory, class registration services, an online ride board, used textbook exchange, and an alumni career networking directory to aid students in their job searches.

Students also have access to computing resources outside the University. The University is a member of the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR), located at the University of Michigan. Membership in ICPSR provides faculty and students with access to a large library of data files, including public opinion surveys, cross-cultural data, financial data, and complete census data. The University is also a member of EDUCAUSE, a national consortium of colleges and universities concerned with computing issues.

The University has an extensive collection of computing facilities that serve both academic and business needs. A Hewlett-Packard series 3000/979, a 3000/969, and 34 Windows NT servers provide for business computing needs. Three IBM SP/2s provide messaging, systems management, Intranet, and scientific and other research needs. These SP/2s contain 7, 9, and 12 computing nodes respectively. The 12-node SP/2 complex performs super-computing applications in the sciences. Fifty-nine Windows NT servers provide for file and print services and courseware. A Windows NT server and an IBM pSeries 660 provide library services. Linux servers provide DHCP, virus filtering, and Blackboard services. These systems are available to students, faculty, and staff twenty-four hours a day through network and dial-up connectivity.

Wake Forest has a gigabit Ethernet connection to the Winston-Salem RPOP (regional point of presence). The RPOP connects to NCREN, the Internet service provider for the majority of colleges and universities in North Carolina, through a 622 mbps connection. Through this connection, Wake Forest has access to CRAY and IBM SP2 supercomputers located at the MCNC/North Carolina
Supercomputing Center in Research Triangle and to all the premier research networks in the world, including Internet II, Abilene, and the VBNS (Very high performance Backbone Network Service). Wake Forest is also working closely with the North Carolina Research and Education Network on other advanced networking technologies.

Information Systems also provides telephone and cable television services to the students, faculty, and staff of Wake Forest University. All residence hall rooms are equipped with telephone jacks and cable TV connections. Local dial service for the campus and Winston-Salem area is provided as part of the housing package. Students who reside in campus housing receive personal security codes for dialing long distance calls, which are billed to them each month.

Cable television, while providing a recreational outlet, plays an important role by providing access to campus information and educational offerings. Cable channels 2 and 6 are the Wake Forest University information channels, providing information, a calendar of campus events, and student oriented programming. Channels 20 and 22 carry SCOLA and SCOLA2, nonprofit educational services that feature television programming from more than fifty different countries in their original languages. For the complete CATV lineup, visit http://www.wfu.edu/technology/telecom/cabletv/lineup.html.

Information Systems provides assistance by telephone and supports walk-in customers from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Friday; and 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. on Sunday. A voice mail retrieval system is activated on weekends and during holiday breaks to respond to emergency calls. On-site computing support in the residence halls is available from Resident Technology Advisors (RTAs). In addition, students have 24-hour access to online support resources at http://sos.wfu.edu.

Libraries

The libraries of Wake Forest University support instruction and research at the undergraduate level and in the disciplines awarding graduate degrees. The libraries of the University hold membership in the Association of College and Research Libraries, and in the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries. They rank among the top libraries in the Southeast in expenditures per student.

The Wake Forest University libraries include the Z. Smith Reynolds Library, the Professional Center Library (serving the Law School and the Babcock Graduate School of Management), and the Coy C. Carpenter Library of the Wake Forest University School of Medicine. The three libraries maintain collections totaling over 1.7 million print volumes and subscriptions to more than 16,000 periodicals and serials, largely of scholarly content. The Z. Smith Reynolds Library holds over 1.3 million volumes in the general collection, over 1 million reels of microfilm and pieces of microtext, and expanding media collections. As a congressionally-designated selective federal depository and depository of North Carolina government information, the Z. Smith Reynolds Library holds nearly 170,000 government documents. The Professional Center Library holds nearly 200,000 volumes and is open to undergraduates with research needs for its collection. The Coy C. Carpenter Library holds over 145,000 volumes.

The Wake Forest libraries share an online catalog that also provides entrée to electronic resources, databases and journals, all accessible via the campus network and remotely. The Z. Smith Reynolds Library provides comprehensive reference and research services including assistance with directed and independent research and online searching; discipline-related library instruction; information literacy classes; general library orientation; and tours. Reference tools are available in electronic and print formats. Wake Forest students, faculty, and staff may use interlibrary loan services to borrow materials from other libraries throughout the country at no charge.

Special collections in the Z. Smith Reynolds Library include the Rare Books Collection, greatly enhanced by the donation of rare and fine books of the late Charles H. Babcock, which emphasizes American and British authors of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Among the collections are those of Mark Twain, Gertrude Stein, William Butler Yeats, and T. S. Eliot. There is also an extensive Anglo-Irish literature collection. The Ethel Taylor Crittenden Baptist Historical Collection contains significant books, periodicals, manuscripts, and church records relating to North Carolina Baptists, as well as a collection of the personal papers of prominent ministers, educators and government officials with ties to Wake Forest. The Wake Forest College/University Archive is maintained in this library as well. The Z. Smith Reynolds Library also houses a major collection on the Holocaust.

Facilities in the Z. Smith Reynolds Library include the Information Technology Center (ITC) which is equipped for multimedia viewing, editing, and scanning and has a computer lab for student use. Training in computer and multimedia technologies is available through the ITC. Several small group study rooms are located throughout the library and may be reserved. Two 24-hour study areas, one with a cyber café, are accessible by key-card after regular library hours.

Recognition and Accreditation

Wake Forest University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia; (404) 679-4501) to award bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees.

The Wake Forest University School of Medicine is a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges and is fully accredited by the Liaison Committee on Medical Education, the joint accrediting body of the Association of American Medical Colleges and the American Medical Association. The School of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is listed as an approved school by the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association and by the Board of Law Examiners and the Council of the North Carolina State Bar. The Babcock Graduate School of Management and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy are accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business. The Babcock Graduate School is also accredited by the European Foundation for Management Development. The program in counseling leading to the master of arts in education degree is accredited by the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs. The Divinity School has obtained associate membership in the Association of Theological Schools.
Wake Forest University is a member of many institutional organizations and associations at the national, regional, and statewide levels, including the following: the American Council on Education, the Association of American Colleges, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States, the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Oak Ridge Associated Universities, Southern Universities Conference, the North Carolina Conference of Graduate Schools, the North Carolina Association of Colleges and Universities, the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction, and the North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities. In addition, many offices of the University are members of associations which focus on particular aspects of University administration.

Wake Forest has chapters of the principal national social fraternities and sororities, professional fraternities, and honor societies, including Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. There is an active chapter of the American Association of University Professors on campus.

The Undergraduate Schools

There are two undergraduate schools at Wake Forest University: Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. The undergraduate schools are governed by the Board of Trustees, the University administration, and by their respective faculties. Responsibility for academic administration is delegated by the president and trustees to the provost, who is the chief academic officer of the University. The deans of the schools report to the provost and are responsible for academic planning and administration for their schools.

Wake Forest University is committed to administer all educational and employment activities without discrimination because of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, veteran status, handicapped status, or disability as required by law. The University has adopted a procedure for the purpose of resolving discrimination complaints. Inquiries or concerns should be directed to: Harold Holmes, dean of student services, at (336) 758-5226; the Dean of the College, at (336) 758-5312; or Doris McLaughlin, assistant director of human resources, director of equal employment opportunity, and Title IX coordinator, at (336) 758-4814.

The Higher Education Act requires that institutions of higher education make available by October 15 of each year a copy of the Equity in Athletics Disclosure Act annual report to any student who requests one. Please contact the athletic department to request a copy of this document.

Wake Forest rejects hatred and bigotry in any form and adheres to the principle that no person affiliated with Wake Forest should be judged or harassed on the basis of perceived or actual sexual orientation. In affirming its commitment to this principle, Wake Forest does not limit freedom of religious association or expression, does not presume to control the policies of persons or entities not affiliated with Wake Forest, and does not extend benefits beyond those provided under other policies of Wake Forest.
Wake Forest College is the undergraduate school of arts and sciences of Wake Forest University. It is the center of the University’s academic life; through it, the University carries on the tradition of preparing men and women for personal enrichment, enlightened citizenship, and professional life.

Wake Forest College is a place of meeting. Its teachers and students are of diverse backgrounds and interests, and that diversity is crucial to the distinctive character of the College. Wake Forest continually examines its educational purpose and evaluates its success in fulfilling it. A formal statement of purpose was prepared as part of the school’s decennial reaccreditation process and was adopted by the Board of Trustees.

Statement of Purpose

Wake Forest is a university dedicated to the pursuit of excellence in the liberal arts and in graduate and professional education. Its distinctiveness in its pursuit of its mission derives from its private, coeducational, and residential character; its size and location; and its Baptist heritage. Each of these factors constitutes a significant aspect of the unique character of the institution.

The University is now comprised of seven constituent parts: two undergraduate institutions, Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy; the Graduate School; and four professional schools: the School of Law, the Wake Forest University School of Medicine, the Babcock Graduate School of Management, and the Divinity School. It seeks to honor the ideals of liberal learning, which entail commitment to transmission of cultural heritages; teaching the modes of learning in the basic disciplines of human knowledge; developing critical appreciation of moral, aesthetic, and religious values; advancing the frontiers of knowledge through in-depth study and research; and applying and using knowledge in the service of humanity.

Wake Forest has been dedicated to the liberal arts for over a century and a half; this means education in the fundamental fields of human knowledge and achievement, as distinguished from education that is technical or narrowly vocational. It seeks to encourage habits of mind that ask “why,” that evaluate evidence, that are open to new ideas, that attempt to understand and appreciate the perspectives of others, that accept complexity and grapple with it, that admit error, and that pursue truth. Wake Forest College has by far the largest student body in the University, and its function is central to the University’s larger life. The College and the Graduate School are most singularly focused on learning for its own sake; they therefore serve as exemplars of specific academic values in the life of the University.
Beginning as early as 1894, Wake Forest accepted an obligation to provide professional training in a number of fields, as a complement to its primary mission of liberal arts education. This responsibility is fulfilled in the conviction that the humane values embodied in the liberal arts are also centrally relevant to the professions. Professional education at Wake Forest is characterized by a commitment to ethical and other professional ideals that transcend technical skills. Like the Graduate School, the professional schools are dedicated to the advancement of learning in their fields. In addition, they are specifically committed to the application of knowledge to solving concrete problems of human beings. They are strengthened by values and goals which they share with the College and Graduate School, and the professional schools enhance the work of these schools and the University as a whole by serving as models of service to humanity.

Wake Forest was founded by private initiative, and ultimate decision-making authority lies in a privately appointed Board of Trustees rather than in a public body. Funded to a large extent from private sources of support, Wake Forest is determined to chart its own course in the pursuit of its goals. As a coeducational institution, it seeks to “educate together” persons of both sexes and from a wide range of backgrounds—racial, ethnic, religious, geographical, socio-economic, and cultural. Its residential features are conducive to learning and to the pursuit of a wide range of co-curricular activities. It has made a conscious choice to remain small in overall size; it takes pride in being able to function as a community rather than a conglomerate. Its location in the Piedmont area of North Carolina engenders an ethos that is distinctively Southern, and more specifically North Carolinian.

As it seeks further to broaden its constituency and to receive national recognition, it is also finding ways to maintain the ethos associated with its regional roots. Wake Forest is proud of its Baptist and Christian heritage. For more than a century and a half, it has provided the University an indispensable basis for its mission and purpose, enabling Wake Forest to educate thousands of ministers and lay people for enlightened leadership in their churches and communities. Far from being exclusive and parochial, this religious tradition gives the University roots that ensure its lasting identity and branches that provide a supportive environment for a wide variety of faiths. The Baptist insistence on the separation of church and state and local autonomy has helped to protect the University from interference and domination by outside interests, whether these be commercial, governmental, or ecclesiastical. The Baptist stress upon an uncoerced conscience in matters of religious belief has been translated into a concern for academic freedom. The Baptist emphasis upon revealed truth enables a strong religious critique of human reason, even as the claims of revelation are put under the scrutiny of reason. The character of intellectual life at Wake Forest encourages open and frank dialogue and provides assurance that the University will be ecumenical and not provincial in scope, and that it must encompass perspectives other than the Christian. Wake Forest thus seeks to maintain and invigorate what is noblest in its religious heritage.

Honor System

Wake Forest University upholds the ideals of honor and integrity. The Honor System is central to University life; its essence is a commitment by each person to do what is right and abide by community standards. Each student is pledged to be trustworthy in all matters, and a violation of that trust is an offense against the community as a whole. In the specific terms of the Honor Code, a student pledges in all phases of life not to cheat, plagiarize, engage in other forms of academic misconduct, deceive, or steal. The strength of the Honor System derives from the commitment of each and every student to uphold its ideals.

The Honor System is jointly administered by the Dean of Student Services, the Associate Dean/Judicial Officer, the Honor and Ethics Council, and the Judicial Council (see page 317). Complete details are available at the Office of the Dean of Student Services.

Summary of Computing Rights and Responsibilities

The policy applies to all computer and computer communication facilities owned, leased, operated, or contracted by the University. This includes, but is not limited to, word processing equipment, microcomputers, minicomputers, mainframes, computer networks, computer peripherals, and software, whether used for administration, research, teaching, or other purposes. The policy extends to any use of University facilities to access computers elsewhere.

Basic Principles. The University’s computing resources are for instructional and research use by the students, faculty, and staff of Wake Forest University. Ethical standards that apply to other University activities (Honor and Ethics System, the Social Rules and Responsibilities, and all local, state, and federal laws) apply equally to use of campus computing facilities.

As in all aspects of University life, users of computing facilities should act honorably and in a manner consistent with ordinary ethical obligations. Cheating, stealing, making false or deceiving statements, plagiarism, vandalism, and harassment are just as wrong in the context of computing systems as they are in all other domains.

Use of campus facilities is restricted to authorized users. An “authorized user” is an individual who has been assigned a login ID and password by Information Systems staff (on any relevant system), or by an authorized agent. Individual users are responsible for the proper use of their accounts, including the protection of their login IDs and passwords. Users are also responsible for reporting any activities that they believe to be in violation of this policy, just as students are responsible for reporting Honor and Ethics System violations.

Individuals should use these facilities:

- in a manner consistent with the terms under which they were granted access to them;
- in a way that respects the rights and privacy of other users; so as not to interfere with or violate the normal, appropriate use of these facilities; and
- in a responsible and efficient manner.

Abusive activities which are already covered under other University policies are to be handled in the same way, and by the same authorities, as if a computer had not been involved, following established guidelines.

Systems Monitoring. This statement serves as notice to all users of campus computing systems that regular monitoring of system activities may occur. Only designated staff of Information Systems have authorization to engage in systems monitoring.

Privacy. All individuals, including members of the Information Systems staff, should respect the privacy of other authorized users. Thus they should respect the rights of other users to security of files, confidentiality of data, and the ownership of their own work. Nonetheless, in order to enforce the policies set out here, designated Information Systems staff are permitted to monitor activity on local computing systems.

In the event that staff should investigate a user, a record of the investigation shall be placed in a permanent file to be kept in Information Systems, beyond the standard log of all systems monitoring. This record shall state why the user was investigated, what files were examined, and the results of the investigation. Information Systems staff shall not reveal the contents of users’ files, users’ activities, or the record of investigations except in the following cases (and then only with the approval of the chief information officer or the provost):

- Evidence of Honor and Ethics System or Social Rules and Regulations violations will be referred to the dean of the appropriate school, or to the dean of student services.

- Evidence of improper activities by University employees will be referred to the director of human resources or the appropriate University officers.

- Evidence of violations of law will be referred to the appropriate law enforcement officials.

Disciplinary actions. Substantial evidence of a violation of the principles described in this policy statement may result in disciplinary action. As stated above, in cases where a policy already exists, and the only difference is that a computer was used to perform the activity, such action will be taken through appropriate University channels such as administrative procedures, the Honor and Ethics Council, the Graduate Council, or other supervisory authority to which the individual is subject. Violation of state or federal statutes may result in civil or criminal proceedings. Otherwise, those who engage in computer violations are subject to the authority of Information Systems.

Violation of the policies articulated here may result in one or more of the following, plus any additional actions deemed appropriate by Information Systems:

- Suspension of one’s ability to perform interactive logins on relevant machines on campus.

- Suspension of one’s ability to login to a campus network.

- Suspension of one’s ability to send e-mail.

- Suspension of one’s ability to receive e-mail.

- Increased monitoring of further computer activity (beyond normal systems monitoring).

Any disciplinary action taken by Information Systems may be revoked and/or modified by the provost of the University or anyone the provost designates to deal with such matters.

Locating Computing Policy Information and Policy Updates. The above summary is based on the Policy on Ethical and Responsible Use of Computing Resources and other computing policies. These policies may be updated, shortened, or expanded from time to time. Full policies can be reviewed online at www.wfu.edu/technology/.
Student Complaints

Situations may arise in which a student believes that he or she has not received fair treatment by a representative of the University or has a complaint about the performance, actions or inaction of the staff or faculty affecting a student. The procedure for bringing these issues to the appropriate person or body is outlined below. Students are encouraged to seek assistance from their advisers or another member of the faculty or staff in evaluating the nature of their complaints or deciding on an appropriate course of action.

A complaint should first be directed as soon as possible to the person or persons whose actions or inactions have given rise to the problem—not later than three months after the event. For complaints in the academic setting, the student should talk personally with the instructor. Should the student and instructor be unable to resolve the conflict, the student, if unsatisfied, should then turn to the chair of the involved department (the dean in the Calloway School) for assistance. The chair (or dean) will meet with both parties, seek to understand their individual perspectives, and within a reasonable time, reach a conclusion and share it with both parties. Finally, a student may appeal to the Committee on Academic Affairs which will study the matter, work with the parties, and reach a final resolution.

Students having complaints outside the academic setting, and who have been unable to resolve the matter with the individual directly involved, should process the complaint in a timely manner through the administrative channels of the appropriate unit. Students uncertain about the proper channels are encouraged to seek advice from faculty advisers, deans’ offices, or the Office of the Dean of Student Services. Complaints which rise to the level of a grievance (as determined by the earlier steps in the process) may be heard as a final appeal before a University official designated by the provost after reviewing the nature of the complaint. The committee will include a representative of the faculty and a member of the student body. The grievance must be filed in writing. Grievances not deemed frivolous by the committee will be heard. The student may be assisted during the hearing by a member of the University community.

The complaint/grievance process outlined above is meant to answer and resolve issues arising between individual students and the University and its various offices from practices and procedures affecting that relationship. In many cases, there are mechanisms already in place for the reporting and resolution of specialized complaints (harassment and discrimination, for instance), and these should be fully used where appropriate. Violation of student conduct rules or the honor system should be addressed through the judicial process specifically designed for that purpose.

History and Development

Since 1834, Wake Forest College has developed its distinctive pattern of characteristics: tenacity, independence, a fierce defense of free inquiry and expression, and a concern that knowledge be used responsibly and compassionately. That these characteristics have served the school well is displayed by its growth from a small sectarian school to one of the nation’s significant small private universities.

A brief history of Wake Forest is useful in understanding the University as it is today and appreciating the process through which it developed.

An applicant who presents at least twelve units of differently distributed college preparatory study can be considered. A limited number of applicants may be admitted without the high school diploma, with particular attention given to ability, maturity, and motivation.

Wake Forest University and North Carolina State law require that all new, transfer, readmit, unclassified, or visiting students furnish certification of certain immunizations to the Student Health Service PRIOR TO REGISTRATION. Unless a valid exemption is established, certification is required in accordance with the Student Health Service Immunization Record. (Page four of the Student Health Service “Health Information Summary” form.) Details are also in the Student Handbook.

Admission

Candidates for admission must furnish evidence of maturity and educational achievement. The Committee on Admissions carefully considers the applicant’s academic records, scores on tests, and evidence of character, motivation, goals, and general fitness for study in the College. The applicant’s secondary school program must establish a commitment to the kind of broad liberal education reflected in the academic requirements of the College.

Admission as a first-year student normally requires graduation from an accredited secondary school with a minimum of sixteen units of high school credit. These should include four units in English, three in mathematics, two in history and social studies, two in a single foreign language, and one in the natural sciences.

An applicant who presents at least twelve units of differently distributed college preparatory study can be considered. A limited number of applicants may be admitted without the high school diploma, with particular attention given to ability, maturity, and motivation.

Unless a valid exemption is established, certification is required in accordance with the Student Health Service Immunization Record. (Page four of the Student Health Service “Health Information Summary” form.) Details are also in the Student Handbook.

Documentation should be on or attached to the completed Health Summary form in order to assure correct identification of the student. Acceptable documentation must be signed by the appropriate official(s) having custody of the records of immunization, such as a physician, county health department director, or a certificate from a student’s high school containing the approved dates of immunizations. Dates must include the month, day, and year the immunization was administered. If these dates are unavailable, a copy of the laboratory test results and interpretation values must be submitted to document antibody titers for measles, mumps, or rubella.
The North Carolina Department of Environment, Health and Natural Resources monitors our University immunization records with regular audits.

Application

An application is secured from the Office of Undergraduate Admissions in person or by mail (P.O. Box 7305, Winston-Salem, North Carolina 27109-7305) or online at http://www.wfu.edu/admissions/. It should be completed and returned to that office no later than January 15 for the fall semester. Most admissions decisions for the fall semester are made by April 1, with prompt notification of applicants. For the spring semester, applications should be completed and returned no later than November 15. Except in emergency, the final date for applying for the fall semester is August 1 and for the spring semester, January 1. Application on this last-date basis is primarily for nonresident students.

Wake Forest accepts the Common Application in lieu of its own form and gives equal consideration to both. Students may obtain copies of the Common Application from their high schools.

The admission application requires records and recommendations directly from secondary school officials. It also requires test scores, preferably from the senior year, on the SAT I: Reasoning Test of The College Board. SAT II: Subject Test scores are optional. All test scores should be sent directly to the University by Educational Testing Service. A nonrefundable $40 fee to cover the cost of processing must accompany an application. It cannot be applied to later charges for accepted students or refunded for others. The University reserves the right to reject any application without explanation.

A $300 admission deposit is required of all regularly admitted students and must be sent to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions no later than May 1 following notice of acceptance. It is credited toward first semester fees and is nonrefundable. Students notified of acceptance after May 1 for the fall semester or November 1 for the spring semester should make a nonrefundable admission deposit within two weeks of notification. Failure to make the admission deposit is taken as cancellation of application by the student. No deposit is required for summer session enrollment.

Early Decision

Two early decision deadlines and notification schedules are available to well-qualified high school students who decide, by the close of their junior year, that Wake Forest is either their only choice or first choice college.

Early Decision—Single Choice

Students who have selected Wake Forest as their first choice and have applied to no other college may submit an application at any time after completion of the junior year and no later than November 15. Decisions on these applicants are made on a rolling basis, three to four weeks after the application is completed. Students agree to enroll if accepted and submit a nonrefundable $500 deposit prior to January 1.

Early Decision—First Choice

Students who have selected Wake Forest as a first choice and only early decision choice but who may have submitted or have plans to submit regular decision applications to other institutions, may apply no later than November 15 and are notified by December 15. If accepted, students agree to enroll and to withdraw applications from other colleges. A $500 nonrefundable deposit is due by January 1.

Candidates for early decision are normally expected to have completed, or be enrolled in courses to complete, all secondary school requirements. Decisions are based upon junior year grades and test scores. Applicants not admitted are asked to submit additional SAT I scores and the first semester senior year grade report, or they are advised to apply elsewhere.

Admission of Students with Disabilities

Wake Forest College will consider the application of any qualified student, regardless of disability, on the basis of the selection criteria established by the University which include personal and academic merit. Upon matriculation, all students will be required to meet the same standards for graduation.

The University endeavors to provide facilities which are in compliance with all laws and regulations regarding access for individuals with disabilities. Additionally, special services are available to reasonably accommodate students with disabilities. For more information on assistance for undergraduate students, please contact Van D. Westervelt, director of the Learning Assistance Center, at (336) 758-5929 or refer to Disability Services under Campus Life on the Wake Forest Web site.

Advanced Placement and CLEP

Advanced placement credit for college level work done in high school is available on the basis of the Advanced Placement Examination of The College Board and supplementary information. Especially well-qualified applicants for advanced standing may also be exempt from some basic and divisional courses with credit on the authorization of the department concerned. Credit by advanced standing is treated in the same manner as credit transferred from another college.

Under certain conditions, especially well-prepared applicants may be granted limited college credit through the subject tests of the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) of the Educational Testing Service. Such credit may be assigned with the approval of the department concerned or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Admission of Transfer Students

The number of transfer students who can be admitted each year depends upon the availability of space in the first-year (second semester), sophomore, and junior classes. An applicant for admission who has attended another college must be a graduate of a standard junior college or furnish a certificate of honorable dismissal stating eligibility in all respects to enter the college last attended, and must have an overall average of at least C on all college work attempted. A student who is admitted from another college before fully meeting the prescribed admissions requirements for entering first-year students must remove the entrance conditions during the first year at Wake Forest.

Courses satisfactorily completed in other accredited colleges are accepted subject to faculty approval. In general, no credit is allowed for courses not found in the Wake Forest curriculum. The minimum residence requirement for a baccalaureate degree is two academic years, the senior and one other.

Expenses

Statements concerning expenses are not to be regarded as forming an irrevocable contract between the student and the University. The costs of instruction and other services outlined herein are those in effect on the date of publication of this bulletin, and the University reserves the right to change without notice the cost of instruction and other services at any time.

Charges are due in full on August 1 for the fall semester and December 1 for the spring semester. Faculty regulations require that student accounts be settled in full before the student is entitled to receive a transcript or diploma, or to register for the following semester or term.

If the University deems it necessary to engage the services of a collection agency or attorney to collect or to settle any dispute in connection with an unpaid balance on a student account, the student will be liable for all collection agency and/or attorney’s fees, reasonable expenses, and costs incurred.

Students should expect an increase yearly in tuition. However, admittance to the undergraduate College is not based on financial resources. The University meets the demonstrated financial needs of all qualified students. Students must obtain approval for part-time status prior to the beginning of the semester from the Office of the Dean of the College to be eligible for part-time tuition.

Students enrolled in the College or in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy for full-time residence credit are entitled to full privileges regarding libraries, laboratories, athletic contests, concerts, publications, the Student Union, the University Theatre, and the health service. Part-time students are entitled to the use of the libraries and laboratories but not to the other privileges mentioned above.

Most first-year students will pay either $2,320 or $2,520 per semester depending upon room assignment location. Other room rentals range from $2,320 to $3,070 per semester.

Food Services

A cafeteria and table service dining room are located in Reynolda Hall; there are food courts in the Benson University Center and the Information Systems Building. A debit card system is used in which the student is charged only for the items selected at the time of purchase. A suggested range for food is from $1,500 to $2,000 per semester and is offered depending on the student’s needs. The card may be used at any University food services facility or convenience store. It allows a great deal of flexibility for eating on campus. If a student plans to use the card for other University purchases (such as books, movie tickets, etc.), then the suggested debit card amount noted above should be increased.

First-year students living in residence halls are required to participate in both the fall and spring semesters in one of the plans.

Other Charges

An admission application fee of $40 is required with each application for admission to cover the cost of processing and is nonrefundable.

An admission deposit of $500 is required for students applying to Wake Forest University as a first or single choice. An admission deposit of $300 is required for all regularly admitted students. All admissions deposits must be submitted to the director of admissions and are nonrefundable. The applicable deposit is credited to the student’s charges for the semester for which he or she has been accepted for admission.

Individual instruction music fees are required in addition to tuition for students enrolling for individual study in applied music in the Department of Music and are payable in the Office of Financial and Accounting Services. The fee is $250 for Music 161 courses and $500 for all other individual instruction courses, with a maximum fee of $500 per semester.

Students must have medical insurance. A group plan is available through the University for those not covered by a family plan. The annual rate for 2003-2004 was $796.

Library fees are charged for lost or damaged books and are payable in the library.

A tuition deposit of $500 is required, at a date set by the Office of Financial and Accounting Services, of students enrolled in the spring semester who expect to return for the fall semester. It is credited to the student’s University charges and is nonrefundable.

Returned check fee of $25 is charged for each returned check by the Office of Financial and Accounting Services.

Room change fee of $25 is charged for any unauthorized change.

Improper check-in/out residence hall fee of $50 is charged for any student who does not follow appropriate administrative procedures.

Residence hall lock core change fee: A minimum of $70 per lock is charged to any student who loses his/her room/suite/apartment key(s).

A fee of $750 is required for students studying abroad on a non-Wake Forest program.

Motor vehicle registration is $250 and traffic fines are $20 to $250. All students operating a vehicle on campus (including student apartments, theme, and satellite houses) must register vehicles they are operating day or night, whether or not owned by the operator. All vehicle registrations must be completed within 24 hours from the first time the vehicle is brought to campus or the next business day. Proof of ownership must be presented to verify a license plate when applying for vehicle registration. For a vehicle to be properly registered, both the rear bumper decal and front windshield decal must be displayed. Fines are assessed against students violating parking regulations; copies of the violations are obtainable from the Office of Parking Management. Please inform any visitors of parking rules and regulations. Students, faculty, and staff are responsible for their visitors. Students will be held financially responsible for citations issued to vehicles driven by family members or by friends who use a Wake Forest student’s vehicle. Visitor vehicles must be reported to 758-5592 and/or registered at the Office of Parking Management 758-6123.

Refunds of Charges and Return of Financial Aid Funds

A student who withdraws during (begins, but does not complete) a term may be entitled to a refund of certain charges as outlined in the Refund of Charges Policy. A withdrawal also affects financial aid eligibility, as outlined in the federal Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy and the Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy. A student using scholarships, grants, or loans to help pay educational expenses, whose account was paid-in-full prior to withdrawal, is likely to owe the University after withdrawal. Withdrawal procedures are coordinated by the deans of the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Refund of Charges Policy

A withdrawing student receives a tuition refund according to the following schedule. This schedule applies to a student who drops courses, as well as to a student who withdraws.

Tuition, fees, room rent, and related charges are not refunded for findings of responsibility within the undergraduate student judicial review process. Return of Title IV funds are handled in accordance with federal law.

A withdrawal must be official and students must return the University identification card before claiming a refund. There is no refund of room rent, activity fees, or the parking registration fee if the decal has been placed on the vehicle. Unused meal plan funds are refunded. Fees for individual instruction in the Department of Music are refunded on the following basis: If a student drops the course before the fifth lesson, the fee is one-fourteenth the full semester’s instruction fee times the number of lessons the student has completed; there is no refund after the fifth lesson.

The Office of Financial and Accounting Services calculates the refund of charges, and it has available an example of the application of the University Refund of Charges Policy.

If charges originally paid by financial aid funds are no longer covered after the financial aid funds are returned, the student is responsible for the remaining balance.

Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 (Section 484B), and subsequent regulations issued by the United States Department of Education (34 CFR 668.22), establish a policy for the return of Title IV, HEA Program grant and loan funds for a recipient who withdraws.
Wake Forest University does not have a leave of absence policy that would exempt any student from the requirements of the Return of Title IV Funds Policy.

Title IV Funds include the following aid programs: Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG), Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Work-Study (FWS), Federal Stafford Loan (subsidized and unsubsidized), Federal PLUS Loan, and Leveraging Educational Assistance Partnership Grant (LEAP).

The percentage of the term completed is determined by dividing the total number of calendar days comprising the term (excluding breaks of five or more consecutive days) into the number of calendar days completed. The percentage of Title IV grant and loan funds earned is: (1) up through the 60 percent point in time, the percentage of the term completed, (2) after the 60 percent point in time, 100 percent.

The amount of Title IV grant and loan funds unearned is the complement of the percentage of earned Title IV funds applied to the total amount of Title IV funds disbursed (including funds that were not disbursed but could have been disbursed, i.e., post-withdrawal disbursements).

If the amount earned is less than the amount disbursed, the difference is returned to the Title IV programs. If the amount earned is greater than the amount disbursed, the difference is treated as a late disbursement in accordance with the federal rules for late disbursements.

Unearned funds, up to the amount of total institutional charges multiplied by the unearned percentage of funds, are returned by the University; the student returns any portion of unearned funds not returned by the University.

Institutional charges (costs) include tuition, on-campus room rental (if any), and the required on-campus meal plan selected (first-year students only).

The Federal Return of Title IV Funds policy requires that federal aid be considered as first applied toward institutional charges, regardless of other non-federal aid received.

A student (or parent for PLUS loans) repays the calculated amount attributable to a Title IV loan program according to the loan's terms. If repayment of grant funds by the student is required, only 50 percent of the unearned amount must be repaid. A student repays a Title IV grant program subject to repayment arrangements satisfactory to the University or the Secretary of Education's overpayment collection procedures.

Funds returned are credited in the following order: Unsubsidized FFEL (Stafford) Loans, Subsidized FFEL (Stafford) Loans, Federal Perkins Loans, Federal PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity (FSEOG) Grants, and other Title IV funds for which a return of funds is required.

The Office of Student Financial Aid calculates the amount of unearned Title IV grant and loan funds, and it has available examples of the application of this federal policy and a copy of the relevant Code of Federal Regulations section (CFR 668.22).

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

A student who drops to less-than-full-time enrollment within the timeframe to receive a tuition refund loses eligibility for all institution aid for the entire term. For financial aid purposes, full-time enrollment is defined as twelve or more hours each semester.

The Office of Student Financial Aid calculates the amount of Non-Title IV program funds to be returned to the various programs when a recipient withdraws. The return of Non-Title IV Program funds may be rounded to the nearest dollar for each aid source.

Return of funds to various state and private aid programs is determined by specific program rules. If rules allow, state and private loan funds are returned before gift funds. State and private funds may be retained in amounts necessary to satisfy the student’s remaining University charges or adjusted need, whichever is larger.

Awards from institutional funds for which all disbursement requirements have not been met by the student prior to withdrawal are cancelled, and no disbursements are made.

Upon withdrawal, an adjusted estimated cost of attendance (COA) is established in two parts.

For an on-campus student, the first part equals the adjusted tuition and room rental charges and the standard allowance for books and supplies; the second part equals pro-rated estimates (by weeks) of meal, transportation, and personal living expenses.

For an off-campus student, the first part equals the adjusted tuition charge and the standard allowance for books and supplies; the second part equals pro-rated estimates (by weeks) of room, meal, transportation, and personal living expenses.

If the adjusted COA is greater than the full semester expected family contribution (EFC), the student retains institutional aid (in the same mix of initially-awarded gift and loan), up to the amount required to meet the adjusted need and not exceeding the initial amount(s). The EFC represents a best estimate of a family’s capacity (relative to other families) to absorb, over time, the costs of education. For a withdrawing student, the full EFC is expected to support educational expenses incurred, prior to any support from aid programs. For purposes of this calculation, a student who receives only merit-based institutional gift is considered to have an EFC equal to the full semester COA minus the amount of that gift. The order in which each institutional fund is reduced is determined on a case-by-case basis by the aid office, with the guiding principle being the return of funds to University accounts most likely to be needed by other students.

A student who withdraws after receiving a cash disbursement must repay Wake Forest scholarship funds up to the amount of Title IV funds that the University must return. Fines and other incidental charges not included in the financial aid COA are solely the responsibility of the student.

Required returns of funds to all financial aid programs are made prior to the refund to the student.

Housing

All unmarried first- and second-year students are required to live in the residence halls, except (1) when permission is given by the director of residence life and housing for the student to live with parents or a relative in the Winston-Salem area; (2) by special arrangement when space is not available on campus; (3) the student is admitted as a non-resident student; or (4) if the student has lost residence hall space because of a Residence Halls Agreement violation or disciplinary action. Fifth-year students are ineligible for campus housing except when permitted to do so by the Office of Residence Life and Housing. Married students are not permitted to live within the residence halls. Residence halls are supervised by the director of residence life and housing, associate and assistant directors of residence life and housing, residence life coordinators, and graduate student hall directors.

The charges for residence hall rooms for 2004-2005 will range from approximately $2,320 to $3,070 per semester depending on the location and amenities available.

Off-campus Housing Policy
The University has developed guidelines and policies for those undergraduate students who desire or are required to live off campus. Such policies affect apartment or other multi-family residences as well as single-family residences. All students who desire to live off campus will be required to apply for off-campus housing status on an annual basis.

Guideline information is sent to all undergraduate students each year regarding this policy. Conditions may be placed on students who choose to live in single family areas, or students may be denied the ability to live within such a location. Students who desire to reside off campus must complete an application and obtain approval from the Office of Residence Life and Housing prior to signing off-campus leases.

Resident undergraduate students are guaranteed campus housing for eight semesters. To protect yourself and to give yourself the most options until you have an opportunity to review this policy fully, do not sign any off-campus leases. Please visit the Office of Residence Life and Housing, on campus at Benson University Center, room 101, or online at www.wfu.edu/housing, for a copy of the full Off-campus Housing Policy and Guidelines.

Academic Calendar
The academic calendar of the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy includes a fall semester beginning in late August and ending in December, a spring semester beginning in January and ending in May, and two five-week summer sessions. Semesters usually last fifteen weeks.

Orientation and Advising
A required orientation program for new students in the College precedes first-time registration. An academic adviser and an upperclass student provide guidance during and between registration periods throughout the student’s first and second years. Advisers meet with students both individually and in small groups. A face-to-face meeting with the adviser is required before all registration periods. Students are encouraged to take the initiative in arranging additional meetings at any time they feel a need for advice or other assistance. The adviser suggests and approves courses of instruction until the student declares a major toward the end of the second year. Then, a new adviser is assigned.

Registration
Registration for continuing students in the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy occurs in April for the fall and summer terms, and in November for the spring term. New students register at the beginning of the term in which they first enroll. Consultation with the academic adviser must be completed before registration. Confirmation of enrollment is required before classes begin each term. All tuition and fees must be paid in full to the Office of Financial and Accounting Services before confirmation.
Classification

Classification of students by class standing and as full-time or part-time is calculated in terms of hours. Most courses in the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy have a value of three hours, but may vary from one-half hour to nine. The normal load for a full-time student is fifteen hours per semester, with a maximum of seventeen permitted during registration. A student wishing to register for more than seventeen hours per semester must seek the permission of the academic adviser and the appropriate dean once drop-add begins. Students wishing to take 19.5 or more hours must petition the Committee on Academic Affairs after consulting the academic adviser and the appropriate dean. Non-business or non-accounting majors wishing to take courses in the Calloway School must have met the specific courses’ prerequisites and have permission of the instructor. Enrollment in the course is subject to space availability.

Nine hours per semester constitute minimum full-time registration at the University. (Recipients of North Carolina Legislative Tuition Grants must be enrolled by the tenth day of classes in spring and by October 1 in the fall for at least twelve hours. Recipients of Wake Forest scholarships and loans, as well as some types of federal aid, must be enrolled for at least twelve hours. Recipients of veterans’ benefits, grants from state government, and other governmental aid must meet the guidelines of the appropriate agencies.) A student who feels that he or she has valid and compelling reasons to register for more than seventeen hours per semester must seek permission of the adviser and the appropriate dean no earlier than the first day of class. Only if both the adviser and the dean agree that the proposed course load is needed and in the best interest of the student will permission be granted.

The requirements for classification after the first year are as follows:

- Sophomore—completion of no fewer than 25 hours toward a degree;
- Junior—completion of no fewer than 55 hours toward a degree;
- Senior—completion of no fewer than 87 hours toward a degree.

Part-time Students

A student may not register for fewer than nine hours without specific permission from the appropriate dean to register as a part-time student. A full-time student in the fall semester of any given year may not be a part-time student in the spring semester immediately following without approval, given before the beginning of the semester, by one of the academic deans. The approval carries with it the permission to pay for such work on a per-hour basis. Any student who petitions for part-time status within the semester in which he or she wishes to gain such status will be required to pay full tuition. Part-time students are ineligible for campus housing except when permitted to do so by the Office of Residence Life and Housing.

Class Attendance

Attendance regulations place the responsibility for class attendance on the student, who is expected to attend classes regularly and punctually. A vital aspect of the residential college experience is attendance in the classroom; its value cannot be measured by testing procedures alone. Students are considered sufficiently mature to appreciate the necessity of regular attendance, to accept this personal responsibility, to demonstrate the self-discipline essential for such performance, and to recognize and accept the consequences of failure to attend. Students who cause their work or that of the class to suffer because of absence or lateness may be referred by the instructor to the dean of the College or to the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy for suitable action. Any student who does not attend classes regularly or who demonstrates other evidence of academic irresponsibility is subject to such disciplinary action as the Committee on Academic Affairs may prescribe, including immediate suspension from the College or from the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Students who miss class, final assignments, or final examinations while acting as duly authorized representatives of the University at events and times approved by the appropriate dean are considered excused. Students will inform their instructors in advance of these excused absences. The disposition of missed assignments will be arranged between instructor and student. Students anticipating numerous excused absences should consult the instructor before enrolling in classes in which attendance and class participation count heavily toward the grade. For policies pertaining to absences resulting from illness, please see the statement on the Student Health Service and class excuses in the Student Handbook.

Auditing Courses

When space is available after the registration of regularly enrolled students, others may request permission of the instructor to enter the course as auditors. No additional charge is made to full-time students in the College or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy; for others the fee is $50 per hour. Permission of the instructor is required. An auditor is subject to attendance regulations and to other conditions imposed by the instructor.

Although an auditor receives no credit, a notation of audit is made on the final grade report and entered on the record of students who have met the instructor’s requirements. An audit may not be changed to a credit course or a credit course changed to an audit after the first official day of classes for each semester or term.

Dropping a Course

The last day in each term for dropping a class without a grade of F is listed in the calendar in the front of this bulletin. A student who wishes to drop any course on or before this date must follow the procedure prescribed by the registrar. After this date, a student who wishes to drop a course must consult his or her academic adviser, the course instructor, and the dean of the College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, as appropriate. If the dean approves the request, he or she authorizes the student to discontinue the course. Except in cases of emergency, the grade in the course will be recorded as F.

If, at any time, a student drops any course without prior written approval of the appropriate dean, the student will be subject to such penalties as the Committee on Academic Affairs of the faculty may impose.

Students enrolling in classes beginning after the opening of the term and lasting for shorter durations, such as four, five or seven and a half weeks, may add those classes any time prior to the beginning of the class as space permits, and up to five days after the class begins, with permission of the instructor. Students needing to drop such classes may do so for up to five days after the class begins, without dean’s permission.

Withdrawal

A student who finds it necessary to withdraw from the College or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy must do so through the office of the appropriate dean. With the approval of the dean of the College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy, no grades are recorded for the student for that semester, but the student’s standing in courses at the time of the withdrawal may be taken into consideration when readmission is sought. If withdrawal is for academic reasons, failing grades may be assigned in all courses in which the student is doing unsatisfactory work. A student who leaves the College or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy without officially withdrawing is assigned failing grades in all current courses, and the unofficial withdrawal is recorded.

Withdrawal from the College or the Calloway School cannot be finalized until ThinkPads, printers, connecting cables, WFU ID cards, residence hall keys (if applicable) and post office box keys, along with any other pertinent University property items, have been turned in to the appropriate offices.

Tuition, fees, room rent, and related charges will not be refunded for findings of responsibility within the undergraduate student judicial review process. Return of Title IV funds will be handled in accordance with federal law.

Examinations

Final examinations are given at regularly scheduled times. All examinations are conducted in accordance with the Honor and Ethics System adopted by the student body and approved by the faculty.

Grading

For most courses carrying undergraduate credit, there are twelve final grades: A (exceptionally high achievement), A-, B+, B (superior), B-, C+, C (satisfactory), C-, D+, D, D- (passing but unsatisfactory), F (failure), and I (incomplete).

Grade of I. The grade of I may be assigned only when a student fails to complete the work of a course because of illness or some other emergency. If the work recorded as I is not completed within thirty days after the student enters for his or her next semester, the grade automatically becomes the grade of F. The instructor must report the final grade to the registrar within forty-five days after the beginning of that semester.

NR. “NR” (Not Reported) is an administrative designation that indicates that a faculty member has not reported a grade. Unless a grade is recorded within forty-five days after the student enters his or her next semester, the NR automatically becomes the grade of F.

Grade Points. Grades are assigned grade points per hour for the computation of academic averages, class standing, and eligibility for continuation, as follows:

<thead>
<tr>

</thead>

FOR EACH GRADE OF D+  1.33 POINTS
FOR EACH GRADE OF F  NO POINTS

Pass/Fail. To encourage students to venture into fields outside their major areas of competence and concentration, the College makes available the option, under certain conditions, of registering in courses on a pass/fail basis rather than for a letter grade. Courses taken under the pass/fail option yield full credit when satisfactorily completed but, whether passed or not, they are not computed in the grade point average. In no case may a student change from grade to pass/fail mode, or from pass/fail to grade mode after the last date to add a course. The last date to add a course is noted in the calendar at the front of this bulletin.

A student may count toward the degree no more than eighteen hours taken on a pass/fail basis. First- and second-year students are not eligible to elect the pass/fail mode, but may enroll for courses offered only on a pass/fail basis. Third- and fourth-year students may elect as many as twelve hours on a pass/fail basis, but no more than four hours in a given semester. Courses used to fulfill core, quantitative reasoning, cultural diversity, major, or minor requirements may not be taken on a pass/fail basis unless they are offered only on that basis. Courses in the major(s) not used for satisfying major requirements may be taken on a pass/fail basis if the department of the major does not specify otherwise.

No courses in the Calloway School can be taken pass/fail unless they are offered only on that basis.

Grade Reports and Transcripts

An electronic midterm report and a final report of grades are available to students by the registrar in the fall and spring semesters. A final report of grades is issued for each summer term.

Transcripts of the permanent educational record will be issued to students upon written request unless there are unpaid financial obligations to the University, or other unresolved issues. Copies of a student’s cumulative record are issued by the registrar.

Under the law, the University has the right to inform parents of dependent students and certain other qualified individuals of the contents of educational records.

Dean’s List

The Dean’s List is issued after the end of the fall and spring semesters. It includes all full-time, degree-seeking students in the College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy who have a grade point average of 3.0 or better for the semester and who have earned no grade below C during the semester.

Graduation Distinctions

Graduation distinctions are determined by the grade-point system and are based entirely on grades earned in Wake Forest courses. A degree candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.8 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction summa cum laude. A candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.6 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction magna cum laude. A candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.4 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction cum laude. Details are available in the Office of the Registrar.

Repetition of Courses

A student may repeat at Wake Forest a Wake Forest course for which he or she has received a grade of C- or lower. In this case, all grades received will be shown on the transcript, but the course may be counted only one time for credit. If a student fails a course previously passed, the hours originally earned will not be lost. For purposes of determining the cumulative grade point average, a course will be considered as attempted only once, and the grade points assigned will reflect the highest grade received. These provisions do not apply to any course for which the student has received the grade of F in consequence of an honor violation. Students seeking to repeat English 105 must petition the English department.

Probation

Any student who is placed on probation because of honor code or conduct code violations may be placed on such special academic probation as the Committee on Academic Affairs imposes. The Committee on Academic Affairs may at any time suspend or place on probation any student who has given evidence of academic irresponsibility, such as failing to attend class regularly or to complete papers, examinations, or other work on time.

If poor academic performance is attributable to circumstances over which the student clearly had no control (e.g., serious injury or illness), the student may, after consultation with one of the academic deans, petition the Committee on Academic Affairs for further consideration of his or her status.

In deciding whether to permit exceptions to the foregoing eligibility requirements, the Committee on Academic Affairs will take into account such factors as convictions for violations of the College honor code or social conduct code, violations of the law, and any other behavior demonstrating disrespect for the rights of others.

Any student convicted of violating the honor code is ineligible to represent the University in any way until the period of suspension or probation is completed and the student is returned to good standing. Students who are on probation for any reason may not be initiated into any fraternity or sorority until the end of their probationary period.

No student on social or academic probation or suspension from Wake Forest may take coursework at another institution and have that work transferred to Wake Forest for credit.

Requirements for Continuation

A student’s academic eligibility to continue is determined by the number of hours passed and the grade point average. The number of hours passed is the sum of the hours transferred from other institutions and the hours earned in the undergraduate schools of the University. The grade point average is computed only on work attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University and excludes both non-credit and pass/fail courses.

Students are expected to make reasonable and systematic progress toward the accomplishment of their degree programs. To be eligible to continue in the College, students must maintain:
Students are responsible for knowing their academic standing at all times. Any student whose GPA falls below the required minimum will have a grace period of one semester to raise the average to the required level. Students also have the option of attending summer school at Wake Forest in an effort to raise the average.

The Committee on Academic Affairs will suspend students who earn six or fewer grade points in any given semester in courses other than Education 353; military science courses; Music 111-121 (ensemble courses); Dance 128; and elective 100-level courses in health and exercise science. In cases where failure was due to circumstances beyond the students’ control, they may appeal to the Committee for an exception.

Any student who is in academic difficulty is urged to seek advice and counsel from his or her academic adviser, from the Office of the Dean of the College, from the Learning Assistance Center, and from the University Counseling Center.

A student who has or develops a health problem which, in the judgment of the director of the Student Health Service, creates a danger to the safety and well-being of the student or others, may be required to withdraw until the problem is resolved.

Requirements for Readmission

The Committee on Academic Affairs oversees the readmission of former students. In making a decision on whether to readmit, the Committee considers both the academic and non-academic records of the student.

To be readmitted, a student must have attended Wake Forest University previously. Students who have been graduated with an undergraduate degree from the College or the Calloway School of Business and Accountancy may apply for readmission as post-graduate, unclassified students.

Students who have been ineligible to continue for academic reasons must present to the Committee a list of steps they plan to take to raise their academic standing to acceptable standards.

Students who were withdrawn from the University for medical or psychological reasons must submit documentation from their physician or therapist to either the director of the Student Health Service or the director of the University Counseling Center attesting to the students’ readiness to resume a full academic program. The physician or therapist should also provide professional guidance to these directors as to the nature of the students’ ongoing care once readmitted.

Students whose withdrawals from the University were as the result of an honor or judicial conviction must satisfy fully any sanctions placed upon them prior to being considered for readmission. In addition to University-imposed sanctions, other, non-academic grounds for denial of readmission may include violations of the law of the land and behaviors that have demonstrated disregard for the rights of others.

Should a student, upon leaving the University, fail to comply with the proper withdrawal procedures, “holds” may be placed upon his/her record that will prevent readmission consideration until such matters are resolved.

Any readmitted student who hopes to receive transfer consideration for work done elsewhere must provide the University... with a properly documented statement attesting to his/her good standing at the institution from which the transfer credit would come. Additionally, an official copy of the student’s transcript must be made available to the Office of the Registrar at Wake Forest University.

No student on social or academic probation or suspension from Wake Forest may take coursework at another institution and have that work transferred to Wake Forest for credit.

Summer Study

In addition to regular courses, a number of special summer programs for credit are described in the bulletin of the summer session.

To be eligible to take summer courses at another college or university, the student must have a cumulative grade point average of no less than 2.0 and must obtain advance approval through the registrar’s office, and in some cases, the Office of the Dean of Wake Forest College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. All transfer work taken after enrollment at Wake Forest must be taken in an approved four-year institution.

Courses taken outside the U.S. require, in addition, prior approval from the Center for International Studies. Students must obtain a course approval form from the Center for International Studies.

Transfer Credit

All work attempted in other colleges and universities must be reported to the registrar of Wake Forest University. Students wishing to receive transfer credit for work to be undertaken elsewhere must have a cumulative grade point average of no less than 2.0, must not be on probation or suspension from Wake Forest, and must obtain departmental approval in advance. For enrolled Wake Forest students, transfer work can be accepted only from approved four-year institutions. For transfer hours to be accepted, the grade in any course must be C or better. Courses completed at other colleges or universities with the grade of C- or lower will not be awarded transfer hours in Wake Forest. No more than thirty-six hours can be counted for non-Wake Forest study abroad and other special programs. A maximum of thirty-six Wake Forest hours can be earned from the Gymnasium, Lyceum, French Baccalaureate, or equivalent programs.

For students transferring courses on a quarter-hour system, semester hours may be assigned on the basis that one quarter hour times 0.67 equals one semester hour. No course may receive a higher conversion value than the value of the Wake Forest course.

Independent Study, Individual Study, Directed Reading and Internship Courses

Such work is ordinarily reserved for junior and senior students in the undergraduate schools. Any student requesting approval for such a course must possess a cumulative grade point average of no less than 2.0 in Wake Forest courses. All such course requests must be approved by the appropriate department. The academic requirements should be completed during the semester in which a student is enrolled.
APPROVAL OF OVERSEAS PROGRAMS

To receive academic credit for courses taken outside the U.S. on a non-Wake Forest University program, students must:
1) not be on probation or suspension from Wake Forest, 2) obtain approval of the program from the Center for International Studies before applying, 3) obtain pre-approval of specific courses from the academic department chairs using the Course Approval Form, 4) fulfill all required steps of the study abroad process during the semester prior to studying abroad, and 5) attend a mandatory pre-departure orientation.

No student possessing less than a 2.0 cumulative grade point average in either of the undergraduate schools will receive credit in a non-Wake Forest study abroad program. The Course Approval Form for Study Outside the United States is available in the Center for International Studies.
Scholarships and Loans

Any student regularly admitted to Wake Forest College who demonstrates financial need will receive assistance commensurate with that need.

By regulation of the Board of Trustees, all financial aid must be approved by the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid. The financial aid program comprises institutional, state, and federal scholarship, loan, and work funds. Aid applicants must be enrolled as undergraduates or accepted for admission. Full-time students are eligible to apply for institutional funds; other degree-seeking students are eligible to apply for federal funds. For financial aid purposes, full-time enrollment is defined as twelve or more hours each semester. A number of scholarships are based upon merit; need is a factor in the awarding of most financial aid. The annual calculation of need, and therefore the amount of an award, may vary from year to year. Additional scholarship assistance not listed herein is offered to student athletes through the Department of Athletics and is governed by NCAA rules. The committee may revoke financial aid for unsatisfactory academic performance, for violation of University regulations including its honor code, or for violations of federal, state, or local laws. Applications should be requested from the Office of Merit-Based Scholarships (P.O. Box 7305) or the Office of Student Financial Aid (P.O. Box 7246), Winston-Salem, NC 27109, as appropriate.

Policy on Satisfactory Academic Progress for Financial Aid Eligibility

Evaluation of students’ satisfactory academic progress for purposes of financial aid eligibility is made annually at the end of the second summer session by the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid, to determine eligibility for the following academic year.

Institutional Financial Aid

The receipt of institutionally-controlled financial aid requires full-time enrollment (twelve or more hours) during the fall and spring semesters and a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.00 on work attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University. Institutional aid generally is not awarded for summer sessions. Institutional aid is not awarded beyond the eighth (fall or spring) semester; this limit is prorated for transfer students. Certain institutional aid programs have higher academic and/or other requirements, which are communicated to recipients.

Federal Financial Aid

The Higher Education Act mandates that institutions of higher education establish minimum standards of satisfactory academic progress for students receiving federal financial aid. Wake Forest University makes these minimum standards applicable to all programs funded by the federal government.
To maintain academic eligibility for federal financial aid, a student must:

Complete the requirements for a bachelor’s degree within the maximum number of hours attempted (including transfer hours, but excluding advanced placement hours) of 168. This limit is the same for all students pursuing a bachelor’s degree, including those students enrolled in joint bachelor’s/master’s degree programs. The maximum number of hours attempted includes those hours attempted as of the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar), during a semester in which a student later drops courses or withdraws.

Pass at least two-thirds of those cumulative hours attempted (including pass/fail courses) in the undergraduate schools of the University, including hours attempted during the summer sessions. Incompletes count as hours attempted, unless from a non-credit course. Audited classes do not count as hours attempted. The cumulative number of hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University includes those hours attempted as of the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar), during a semester in which a student later drops courses or withdraws.

Maintain the following minimum cumulative Wake Forest University grade point average on all graded hours attempted (including incompletes from graded courses, but excluding pass/fail courses) in the undergraduate schools of the University:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Hours attempted</th>
<th>Minimum GPA</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fewer than 28</td>
<td>1.45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>At least 28, Fewer than 56</td>
<td>1.60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>At least 56, Fewer than 84</td>
<td>1.75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>84 and Above</td>
<td>1.90</td>
</tr>

The cumulative number of hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University includes those hours attempted as of the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar) during a semester in which a student later drops courses or withdraws.

Thus, for example, a regular full-time student taking the normal fourteen hours of graded coursework each semester must achieve a minimum cumulative Wake Forest grade point average of 1.45 before the sophomore year, 1.60 before the junior year, and 1.75 before the senior year. Repeated courses will count for GPA according to University policy; when successfully completed they will count as their appropriate hours earned.

The policy of satisfactory academic progress applies only to the general eligibility for financial aid consideration. There are other federally-mandated requirements a student must meet to receive federal financial aid. For instance, certain federal loan programs also require either the passage of a period of time or the advancing of a grade level between annual maximum borrowing, regardless of general eligibility for aid. Other general student eligibility requirements for a student to receive federal financial aid are listed in The Student Guide, a publication of the U.S. Department of Education.

Denial of aid under this policy may be appealed to the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid and mailed to P.O. Box 7246, Winston-Salem, NC 27109-7246, or delivered to the Office of Student Financial Aid, Reynolda Hall Room 4. The committee may grant a probationary reinstatement of one semester (in exceptional cases this period may be for one full academic year) to any student, upon demonstration of extenuating circumstances documented in writing to the satisfaction of the committee.
Examples of extenuating circumstances and appropriate documentation include, but are not necessarily limited to the following: illness of the student or immediate family members–statement from physician that illness interfered with opportunity for satisfactory progress; death in family–statement from student or minister; temporary or permanent disability–statement from physician.

During a probationary period, students are considered to be making satisfactory academic progress under this policy and may continue to receive aid. A determination of satisfactory academic progress for any period of enrollment after the probationary period is made, upon the student’s written request, at the end of the probationary period. Reinstatement after probation can be made only after the student has received credit for the appropriate percentage of work attempted with the required GPA. Any student determined ineligible for any academic year may request a special review at the end of one semester or summer term and may thereby be reinstated for all or part of the academic year. The student must request any such mid-year review in writing; otherwise only one determination of satisfactory academic progress will be made each academic year. Reinstatement cannot be made retroactive.

Federal Financial Aid Programs

The federal government, through the Department of Education, sponsors a number of aid programs for education. Among these programs are Federal Pell Grants, Federal Supplement Educational Opportunity Grants (FSEOG), Federal Work-Study (FWS), Federal Perkins Loans, and Federal Family Education Loans (including Federal Stafford Loans, both subsidized and unsubsidized, and PLUS Loans).

To receive assistance through these programs, a student must complete the necessary applications, meet basic eligibility requirements, and maintain satisfactory academic progress.

Federal aid programs are described more fully in the Wake Forest University brochure Undergraduate Need-Based Aid Information, and in the federal publication The Student Guide, available upon request from the financial aid office.

Exchange Scholarships

The German Exchange Scholarship, established in 1959 with the Free University of Berlin, assists a junior student with at least two years of college German or the equivalent. Application is made through the Department of German and Russian.

The Spanish Exchange Scholarship, established with the University of Burgos in Spain, may assist four students for one semester’s study each or two students for two semesters. Applicants must have completed at least two years of college Spanish or the equivalent. Application is made through the Department of Romance Languages.
The French Exchange Scholarship, established with the University of Burgundy, France, assists a graduating senior who receives a two-semester graduate teaching assistantship at a lycée chosen by the French Ministry of Education. Application is made through the Department of Romance Languages.

LOANS

The James W. Denmark Loan, established in 1875, assists qualified students.

The Hutchins Student Loan assists needy students.

The Grover & Addy Raby Loan gives preference to applicants from the First Baptist Church of Tarboro, NC.

The Sidney G. Wallace Loan gives preference to students studying at a Wake Forest-sponsored or approved overseas program.

OTHER AID PROGRAMS

Children and spouses of pastors of North Carolina Baptist churches receive an annual $800 concession if they are the children or spouses of (1) ministers, (2) missionaries of the International Missions Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, (3) officials of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, or (4) professors in North Carolina Baptist colleges or universities who are ordained ministers. Pastors themselves are also eligible.

Children of other ministers who are not eligible for the above concession receive an annual $150 concession if their parents make a living chiefly by the ministry and they have demonstrated need.

Church Volunteer Scholarships of $200 per semester assist students wishing to mentor with a church near the Wake Forest campus. Application is made through the associate University chaplain.

Ministerial students receive an annual $800 concession if they (1) have a written recommendation or license to preach from their own church body and (2) agree to repay the total amount, plus four percent interest, in the event they do not serve five years in the pastoral ministry within twelve years of attendance in the College.

The North Carolina Legislative Tuition Grant (NCLTG) is provided by the North Carolina General Assembly for students who have been legal residents of North Carolina for at least twelve months prior to enrollment at Wake Forest. Residency determinations are made by the financial aid office. Each year’s grant amount is subject to an annual appropriation. Grants are reduced by twenty-five percent for those students having already completed 157.5 credits or 140 hours. Amounts listed on award letters are estimates only, and are subject to adjustment when the actual authorized grant is determined. Students are responsible for any difference between the estimated and actual amounts.

To be eligible each semester, a student must enroll in a minimum of twelve hours or fourteen credits (through October 1 in the fall and through the tenth day of classes in the spring), and must be working toward a first bachelor’s degree. A student in the five-year BS/MS in accountancy program is not eligible during the last year of that program. Students (including those studying abroad) must submit an NCLTG application to the financial aid office by the end of the first week of classes of their first semester of each academic year.

An NCLTG application (contained in the Financial Information and Billing Statement packet) is sent in the weeks before enrollment to each first-year student, and to continuing students with permanent North Carolina addresses. Students who believe they are eligible for the grant but do not receive an application may obtain one in the financial aid office; such students may include children of military personnel with North Carolina residency status who live out of state, residents who live near the state line, or residents who have recently moved out of state.

Student employment is possible for part-time, on-campus and off-campus work, for a recommended maximum of twenty hours per week for full-time students. Summer employment may also be available. Interested students should contact the financial aid office.

Veterans’ Benefits are administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs in the Federal Building at 251 North Main Street in Winston-Salem. Records of progress are kept by Wake Forest University on veteran and non-veteran students alike. Progress records are furnished to the students, veterans and non-veterans alike, at the end of each scheduled school term.

Outside Assistance

Students must advise the financial aid office if they receive any assistance from outside organizations, including any local, state, and national scholarship and loan programs. Once need is determined and aid is offered to meet that need, additional aid from any source must be considered a resource available to the student. Wake Forest encourages all students to apply for any outside scholarships for which they may be eligible; however, by definition additional resources reduce demonstrated need. The gift portion of an original need-based package is reduced by one-half the value of any new outside scholarship (so that total gift assistance is increased by one-half the value of the outside aid). The loan or work portion of a student’s aid is reduced as required to prevent total financial assistance from exceeding demonstrated need (or, in the case of federal loan and work programs, from exceeding federal aid eligibility). Recipients of Brown, Carswell, Hankins, and Heritage Scholarships, and others whose entire demonstrated need is met with scholarship funds, have their total awards increased by one-half the value of the outside scholarship; the remaining one-half is considered a student resource in subsequent years. In no case may the total aid award exceed the cost of attendance.

Outside scholarship donors should include the name and social security number of the intended recipient, as well as the term(s) for which the scholarship is intended, on the face of the check. Checks should be made payable to Wake Forest University (or co-payable to Wake Forest University and the student) and sent to the Office of Student Financial Aid, P.O. Box 7246, Winston-Salem, NC 27109-7246. Checks delivered by donors directly to the student should be forwarded by the student to the financial aid office.
Students in the College are encouraged to apply to special programs, both on and off campus, which complement their abilities and interests. These include the programs described below and the special degrees, minors, and concentrations described in the courses of instruction.

Honors Study

For highly qualified students, a series of interdisciplinary honors courses is described under Courses of Instruction. Under the supervision of the coordinator of the Honors Program, students may participate in three or more honors seminars during the first, sophomore, and junior years. Those who complete four seminars with a superior record and who are not candidates for departmental honors may complete a final directed study course. With a superior record in that course and a grade point average of at least 3.0 in all work, a student may be graduated with the distinction “Honors in the Arts and Sciences.”

For students especially talented in individual areas of study, most departments in the College offer special studies leading to graduation with honors in a particular discipline. The minimum requirement is a grade point average of 3.0 in all work and 3.3 (or higher in some areas) in the major. Other course, seminar, and research requirements are determined by each department.

Open Curriculum

For students with high motivation and strong academic preparation, the Open Curriculum provides the opportunity to follow a course of study planned within the framework of a liberal arts education but not necessarily fulfilling all core requirements for the degree. Under the Committee on Open Curriculum, a limited number of students are selected by previous record of achievement, high aspirations, ability in one or more areas of study, strength of self-expression, and other special talents. The course of study for the lower division is designed by the student and his or her adviser.

Study at Salem College

For full-time students in the fall and spring semesters, Wake Forest and Salem College share a program of exchange credits for courses taken at one institution because they are not offered in the curriculum of the other. An application for the Salem/Wake Forest Exchange Credit program must be approved by the academic adviser and the dean of the College or the dean of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Except in courses of private instruction, there is no additional cost to the student. Grades and grade points earned at Salem College under the Exchange Credit program are evaluated as if they were earned at Wake Forest.

Courses that are in the Wake Forest curriculum generally cannot be taken at Salem through this program. In very unusual circumstances, a student may wish to seek the deans’ assistance in appealing to the Committee on Academic Affairs.
Center for International Studies

The Center for International Studies provides information on all programs in international studies. Students interested in studying abroad should visit the Center for assistance and program information. Students seeking credit for non-Wake Forest courses taken overseas for either the summer, semester, or year are required to schedule an appointment with the Center for International Studies before they apply to make sure their programs are approved. Once a student is accepted, s/he should obtain a course approval form from the Center. For detailed information on study abroad in a non-Wake Forest program see page 62.

The Center provides various information and services for the international students at Wake Forest. For guidance on INS policies and issues, contact the Center. The Center administers the international studies minor and the global trade and commerce studies minor. The course description section of this bulletin provides full descriptions of both minors.

International Students

International students can obtain information and assistance in the Center for International Studies.

Foreign Area Studies

The Foreign Area Studies program enables students to choose an interdisciplinary concentration in the language and culture of a foreign area. For a full description of these programs, see page 68 and the various listings under Courses of Instruction.

Opportunities for Study Abroad in Wake Forest Programs

Austria (Vienna)

Students have the opportunity to study and live at the Flow House in the 19th District of Vienna (northwest section of the city). Each semester, a faculty director leads a group of fourteen students and offers two courses in his/her respective disciplines. Faculty directors are chosen from a variety of academic departments. In addition, Viennese professors offer courses in the study of the German language (153) or literature (216), Austrian art and architecture, music, or history of Austria and Central Europe. Group excursions to central Europe enhance the learning experience as well as numerous integrative experiences within the city itself. Students selected for the Vienna program are required to have completed Elementary German (111-112 or 113). Further information may be obtained from Larry West, in the Department of German and Russian.

Benin (Cotonou)

Students who wish to study in Africa are invited to apply for the Wake Forest University program in Benin, West Africa. This three-hour course is designed for the study of the problems faced by African countries in the process of economic growth and development. Discussions focus on the examination of solutions to those problems. This is an approximately five-week summer program (occurring... usually during the first summer session), which combines classroom instruction, field trips and homestay. The program is directed by Sylvain H. Boko, professor of economics. Applications and additional information may be obtained from Professor Boko by e-mail at bokosh@wfu.edu.

Cuba (Havana)
Students interested in an unique study opportunity may apply for a six-week summer program in Cuba. Under the direction of Linda Howe (associate professor of Romance languages), students take intensive courses in Spanish at the University of Havana. Students need not major in Spanish, but one course beyond Spanish 213 or proficiency in the language is required. Courses offered include Afro-Cuban Cultural Expression and Cuban Literature (alternate courses offered periodically). Students in Cuba also participate in a community project for internship credit in Spanish. Information may be obtained from Linda Howe by e-mail at howels@wfu.edu.

Mexico (Querétaro)
Students who wish to take either Spanish 113 or Spanish 153 in an immersion setting in Latin America may apply for Wake Forest’s summer program in Mexico. This six-week program offers an eight-hour intensive course in Spanish language and the cultures of the Hispanic world. Students who have already taken Spanish 153 or any more advanced course in the language are ineligible for this program. Applications and additional information may be obtained in the Department of Romance Languages.

England (London)
A program of study is offered each semester at Worrell House, the University’s residential center near Regent’s Park in London. Courses typically encompass aspects of the art, theatre, literature, and history of London and Great Britain. (See, for example, Art 2320, English Art, Hogarth to the Present, and History 2260, History of London, in the course listings of those departments.) Each term a different member of the faculty serves as the director of the program, which accommodates fifteen students. Further information may be obtained from Paul Orser, Office of the Dean of the College.

Italy (Venice)
Students wishing to spend a semester in Italy may apply to study at Casa Artom, the University’s residential center on the Grand Canal in Venice. Under the direction of various members of the faculty, approximately twenty students per semester focus on the heritage and culture of Venice and Italy. (Courses offered usually include Art 2693, Venetian Renaissance Art; Italian 2213, Spoken Italian; Italian 215, Introduction to Italian Literature I; Italian 216, Introduction to Italian Literature II; and other courses offered by the faculty member serving as director.) Students selected for the Venice program are required to have completed elementary training in Italian. Limited scholarship aid is available to one or two students each semester to assist with expenses. Additional information may be obtained from Peter Kairoff, Department of Music.
France (Dijon)
Students wishing to study in France may apply for a semester's instruction at the University of Burgundy. Under the direction of a faculty residential adviser from the Department of Romance Languages, courses are taken at the University of Burgundy by student groups of varying levels of preparation. (A major in French is not required, but French 219 or its equivalent or any French course above the intermediate level is required.) Students who wish to take either French 113 or French 153 in an immersion setting may apply for Wake Forest’s summer program at the University of Burgundy. This six-week program offers an eight-hour intensive course in French language and culture. Applications and additional information may be obtained in the Department of Romance Languages.

Spain (Salamanca)
Students wishing to study in Spain may apply for a year’s or semester’s instruction at the University of Salamanca. Under the direction of a faculty residential adviser from the Department of Romance Languages, courses are taken at the University of Salamanca by student groups of varying language levels. (Students need not major in Spanish, but one course beyond Spanish 213 is required.) Applications and additional information may be obtained in the Department of Romance Languages.

China (Beijing)
Students who wish to study in China may apply to participate in the Wake Forest/SASASAAS Program in Beijing, Peoples Republic of China. Offered in the fall semester, the program includes courses in both Chinese language and culture. It is open to students with no previous knowledge of Chinese or to those wishing to continue their study of the language. Additional information may be obtained in the Center for International Studies.

Japan (Hiratsuka)
For students wishing to study in Japan, Wake Forest offers a fall and/or spring semester at Kansai Gaidai University, which is located near three interesting cities. They are Kyoto, which was the capital of Japan for 1,200 years; Osaka, the largest commercial city; and Nara, the ancient capital of Japan during the 6th century. Numerous courses in a variety of disciplines including business, economics, political science, religion, history, art, and communication are offered in English. Japanese language is offered at all levels. No prior knowledge of Japanese is required. In the fall semester, a Wake Forest faculty member will accompany the Wake Forest University students and will teach one course. Additional information may be obtained in the Center for International Studies.

Russia (Moscow)
One or two students wishing to study individually in Russia can apply to spend a fall or spring semester at Moscow State University each year. The requirements are a good academic record and the ability to attend and pass classes that are taught entirely in Russian. For more information, contact William Hamilton, associate dean of the College.
Study Abroad in Non-Wake Forest Programs

Students wishing to study abroad in a non-Wake Forest program must visit the Center for International Studies (CIS) for assistance. The Center maintains a sizable collection of material on a wide variety of overseas programs. All students planning to study in non-Wake Forest programs in other countries for a summer, a semester, or a year are required to attend a study abroad information session. The CIS staff is available to advise students about particular programs. Before students apply, they must obtain approval of the program from the CIS. If the program is not approved, the student will not receive credit for the study abroad program.

Once a student is accepted, she or he is required to fill out a course approval form with the CIS. In no case may a student undertake study elsewhere without completing this process in advance to the satisfaction of the Center for International Studies, the registrar, and the academic departments which oversee the granting of credit for each course. A process exists so that students who successfully complete a fully approved course load during a semester in a non-Wake Forest program will receive at least twelve hours. For more information, consult with the Center for International Studies.

Students may request to have scholarship and financial aid applied to approved non-Wake Forest programs. Scholarships for study abroad are also available. Additional information is available in the Center for International Studies and the Office of Student Financial Aid.
Requirements for Degrees

Degrees Offered

The College offers undergraduate programs leading to the bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees. The bachelor of arts degree is conferred with a major in anthropology, art history, studio art, biology, chemistry, classical studies, communication, East Asian languages and cultures, economics, English, French, German, Greek, history, Latin, mathematics, music performance, music history/theory/composition, philosophy, physics, political science, psychology, religion, Russian, sociology, Spanish, or theatre. The bachelor of science degree is conferred with a major in biology, chemistry, computer science, health and exercise science, mathematical economics, mathematics, or physics. The bachelor of arts degree is available with a major in elementary education or education with a state teacher’s certificate in social studies. The bachelor of science degree may be conferred in combined curricula in engineering, forestry and environmental studies, and medical technology.

The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy offers undergraduate programs leading to the bachelor of science degree with a major in business, finance, information systems, or mathematical business; and offers a five-year program of study leading to a bachelor of science and a master of science degree with a major in accountancy.

A student may receive only one bachelor’s degree (either the bachelor of arts or the bachelor of science) from Wake Forest.

General Requirements

Students in the College have considerable flexibility in planning their courses of study. There are five basic course requirements: two required health and exercise science courses, the writing seminar, one in a foreign language, and a first-year seminar. To complete preparation for more specialized work in a major field or fields, students select courses in each of five divisions of the undergraduate curriculum: (I) The Humanities: Religion, Philosophy, and History; (II) The Humanities: Literatures; (III) The Humanities: Fine and Performing Arts; (IV) The Social and Behavioral Sciences; and (V) The Natural Sciences and Mathematics and Computer Science. Core requirements (basic and divisional combined) are typically completed in the first and sophomore years and the requirements in the major field or fields are completed in the junior and senior years.

All students must complete (1) the core requirements (unless accepted for the Open Curriculum), (2) a course of study approved by the department or departments of the major, and (3) elective courses, for a total of 120 hours. In general, no more than twelve hours toward graduation may be earned from among all of the following courses: Education 353; all military science courses; Music 111-121 and 128-129 (ensemble courses); Dance 128; and elective 100-level courses in health and exercise science. However, majors in music performance and music history/theory/composition may count up to sixteen hours in these courses.
All students must earn a minimum cumulative 2.0 grade point average in Wake Forest College and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Of the 120 hours required for graduation, at least sixty must be earned in courses counted as Wake Forest credit. These include courses taken abroad in approved, non-Wake Forest programs. The work of the senior year must comprise courses earned as Wake Forest credit (except for combined degree curriculum). No more than thirty-six hours can be counted for non-Wake Forest study abroad and other special programs. All financial obligations to the University must be discharged.

A student has the privilege of graduating under the requirements of the bulletin of the year in which he or she enters, except in the case of major or minor requirements, which are those in effect at the time of the declaration, since the curriculum and the departmental or school requirements may change. Such requirements may not be congruent with those stated in a given Bulletin. If course work is not completed within six years of entrance, the student must fulfill the requirements for the class in which he or she graduates.

All requirements must be completed and certified before a student may participate in the commencement exercises. No further entries or alterations may be made toward the undergraduate degree once a student has graduated.

Seniors must submit an application for graduation for their records to be activated for certification. Information packets are mailed immediately before the fall term to all students classified as seniors. Students who do not receive the packet but intend to graduate within the academic year, may request one from the Office of the Registrar. Application forms are due no later than thirty days before graduation.

Core Requirements

The core requirements are intended to introduce the student to various fields of knowledge and to lay the foundation for concentration in a major subject and related fields during the junior and senior years. For these reasons, as many of the requirements as feasible should be taken in the first two years.

No core requirements may be set aside or replaced by substitutes except through regular procedures already established by the faculty, or through a specific vote of the faculty in regular session. Core requirements include basic and divisional requirements as described below.

Basic Requirements

All students must complete five required basic courses (unless exempted through procedures established by the departments concerned):

- FYS 100 (first-year seminar)
- English 111 (writing seminar)
- Foreign language (literature), one course from among the following:
  - French 213, 213H, 216, or the equivalent
  - Spanish 213, 213H, 217, 218, or the equivalent
  - Italian 215, 216, or the equivalent
  - German 214, 215 or 216
  - Russian 215 or 216
  - Greek 211 or 212
  - Latin 211, 212, 216, or 218
– Near Eastern Languages & Literatures 211 or 212 (Hebrew)
– Japanese 211
– Chinese 211 or 212

*Health and Exercise Science

A note about foreign language placement procedures: all students new to Wake Forest who have studied a foreign language in high school must complete foreign language placement. Students will not receive credit for a class at a lower level than the level of their placement on the placement exam, unless they a) register for the class in which they placed; b) attend a few class meetings; c) consult with their professor; d) successfully appeal their placement to the language placement appeals officers of the department and be reassigned to a lower level course. Students who continue with another foreign language must take a placement test in that one, too; if not during orientation, then before registering for a course in it.

Students whose primary language is other than English are exempt from the Basic Requirement in Foreign Language (Literature) and must fulfill Division II requirements with courses whose readings are in English language: English, classics, humanities (except those courses concentrating on the literature of the student’s primary language).* “Primary language” is here understood as the language of instruction in the student’s prior schooling.

Students whose schooling has been in English but who are fluent in a language not taught at Wake Forest must present college-level credit in the literature of the second language to be exempt from the requirement; the language review committee for international students will decide in such cases. If the second language is taught at Wake Forest, the relevant department will decide whether the student may complete the requirement in that language or may be regarded as having fulfilled the requirement already. Elective courses in the language or literature of a student’s heritage or country of origin are at the discretion of the department offering the course.

Divisional Requirements

All students must complete courses as specified below in each of the five divisions of the undergraduate curriculum (unless exempted through procedures established by the departments concerned or by participation in the open curriculum). Together with the basic requirements these courses form the core of Wake Forest’s undergraduate liberal arts education:

Division I. The Humanities: Religion, Philosophy, and History (three courses; no more than one course from each group)
1. Religion 101, 102, or 103
2. Philosophy 111
3. History 101, 102, 103, or 104

Division II. The Humanities: Literatures (two courses; no more than one course from any one of the three groups)
1. English literature (English 160 or 165)
2. American literature (English 170 or 175)

* For example, Japanese students would not take humanities 219, nor Chinese students humanities 221. All other humanities courses seem to have enough diversity to be allowable. It is possible that Italian students (from classical schools) and Greek students may be excluded from taking classics courses in their national literatures in Division II.
3. Foreign literature (other than the course used for the basic requirement)
   - Classical languages
     Greek 211, 212, 231, 241 or 242
     Latin 211, 212, 216, 218, 221, 225, or 226
   - German 214, 215, 216, or 240
   - Chinese 211 or 212
   - Near Eastern Languages & Literatures 211 or 212 (Hebrew)
   - Japanese 211
   - Romance languages
     (French or Spanish literature above 213; Italian literature above 215.)
   - Russian 215, 216, or 241
   - In English translation:
     Classics 255, 261, 263, or 264
     German 240
     Humanities 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 221, 222 or 223
     Russian 241

Division III. The Humanities: Fine and Performing Arts (one course)
1. Art
   Any 100 level studio art course, or any art history course through 288.
2. Music
   101, 109, 181, 182, 183, or 209
3. Theatre
   110 or 112, 150, 260, 261
4. Dance 202

Division IV. The Social and Behavioral Sciences (three courses, no more than one from any one group)
1. Anthropology
   111, 112, 113, or 114 or 150
2. Economics
   150
3. Political Science
   113, 114, 115, or 116
4. Psychology
   151
5. Sociology
   151, 152, 153, or 154
6. Communication
   100

Division V. The Natural Sciences, Mathematics, and Computer Science (three courses, selected from at least two different departments)
1. Biology
   101 or 111*, 112, 113, 216
   (if one course, 101 or 111 is recommended; if two courses, 101 or 111 is strongly recommended as one of the pair.)
   *A student cannot count both Biology 101 and Biology 111 toward the Division V requirement.
2. Chemistry
   108, 109, 111, 120, 122.
   No credit given for more than one chemistry course numbered below 112.
3. Computer Science
   101, 111, 112
4. Physics
   109, 110, 113, 114, 120
5. Mathematics
   106, 107, 109, 111, 112, 117
   Credit is not allowed for both Chemistry 120 and Physics 120.

Additional Requirements
To prepare students for the demands of technology and globalization, Wake Forest guides undergraduate course selections with two further requirements:

Quantitative Reasoning Requirement:
All students must complete at least one course that requires quantitative reasoning, either as a qualifying course in Division V, as an elective, or as a major/minor course requirement. All courses meeting the requirement are designated (QR) after their descriptions in this bulletin.

Cultural Diversity Requirement:
All students must complete at least one course that educates them regarding cultural diversity. This course may be taken at the basic, divisional, or major/minor level or as an elective. Courses qualified to meet this requirement are designated (CD) after their descriptions in this bulletin.
Requirement in Health and Exercise Science

All students must complete Health and Exercise Science 100 and 101. This requirement must be met before enrollment in additional health and exercise science elective courses, and in any case before the end of the second year.

Proficiency in the Use of English

Proficiency in the use of the English language is recognized by the faculty as a requirement in all departments. A composition condition, indicated by cc with the grade for any course, may be assigned in any department to a student whose writing is unsatisfactory, regardless of previous hours in composition.

A student who has been assigned a cc will receive a grade of “Not Reported” (NR) for the course. The student will have one semester (understood to be the next semester for which she or he is officially enrolled) in which to work in the Writing Center, revising the course work to the instructor’s satisfaction. Should the student fail to work in the Writing Center, or fail to revise the work to the instructor’s satisfaction during the semester of his or her next enrollment, the grade will become an F unless some action is taken by the instructor. (If extenuating circumstances make it impossible for the student to make significant progress in a semester, the student may appeal to the dean’s office for an additional semester of work to remove the NR.) Removal of the deficiency is prerequisite to graduation.

Declaring a Major

Most students declare a major in the spring of their sophomore year, and should earn at least fifty-five hours prior to the following fall term. Students declare a major through a procedure established between the academic departments and the registrar’s office. Information about this process is distributed prior to the designated declaration period. If the student is accepted into the major, the department provides an adviser who will assist the student in planning a course of study for the junior and senior years. A department that rejects a student as a major must notify the registrar’s office and file a written statement indicating the reason(s) for the rejection with the dean of the College.

Students who need to delay the declaration due to insufficient earned hours or other circumstances should consult the registrar’s office.

Students who have earned at least fifty-five hours prior to the designated declaration period and wish to declare a major should consult the registrar’s office.

A student wishing to major in business, finance, information systems, mathematical business, or the five-year accounting program, should apply to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. (See page 250 of this bulletin.)

The undergraduate schools try to provide ample space in the various major fields to accommodate the interests of students. It must be understood, however, that the undergraduate schools cannot guarantee the availability of space in a given major field or a given course, since the preferences of students change and there are limits to both faculty and facilities.

After the initial declaration, a student may not change from one major to another without the written approval of the departments concerned. The student's course of study for the junior and senior years includes the minimum requirements for the departmental major, with other courses selected by the student and approved by the adviser.

At least half of the major must be completed at Wake Forest University.

Please note: for credit in the major, courses taken in many programs of study abroad are not automatically equivalent to courses completed at Wake Forest. If students wish to take more than half of their courses for the major in study abroad programs, they must gain prior approval from the chair of the department. Students should check the Undergraduate Bulletin for additional departmental requirements for the major.

The following majors are recognized: accountancy, finance, anthropology, art history, studio art, biology, business, chemistry, classical studies, communication, computer science, East Asian languages and cultures, economics, education, English, French, German, Greek, health and exercise science, history, information systems, Latin, mathematical business, mathematical economics, mathematics, musical performance, musical history/theory/composition, philosophy, physics, political science, psychology, religion, Russian, sociology, Spanish, and theatre.

Maximum Number of Courses in a Department

Within the College, a maximum of fifty hours in a major is allowed within the 120 hours required for graduation. For a student majoring in a department with two or more majors, six additional hours in the department but outside the student's major are also allowed.

These stipulations exclude required related courses from other departments. For students majoring in English, English 111 is excluded. For students majoring in a foreign language, elementary courses in that language are also excluded. These limits may be exceeded in unusual circumstances only by action of the dean of the College.

Options for Meeting Major Requirements

To satisfy graduation requirements, a student must select one, and only one, of the following options, which will receive official recognition on the student's permanent record: (1) a single major, (2) a joint major, (3) a single major and a minor, (4) a single major and a double minor, (5) a double major. In addition to the options above, a student may complete the requirements of one or more foreign area studies programs and/or any of the Romance languages certificates.

Double Majors and Joint Majors

A student may major in two departments in the College with the written permission of the chair of each of the departments and on condition that the student meet all requirements for the major in both departments. A student may not use the same course to meet requirements in both of the majors. The student must designate one of the two fields as the primary major, which appears first on the student’s record and determines the degree to be awarded. Only one undergraduate degree will be awarded, even if the student completes two majors.

A joint major consisting of fifty-six hours in two fields of study is available in classical studies, mathematical business, and mathematical economics.

MINORS

A minor is not required. Those students, however, who select a single major—not those working toward a double or joint major—may choose a minor field from among the following: anthropology, art history, studio art, astrophysics, biology, chemistry, Chinese, communication, computer science, dance, economics, educational studies, professional education, English, French, German, Greek, history, Italian, Japanese, journalism, Latin, mathematics, music, philosophy, physics, political science, psychology, religion, Russian, sociology, Spanish, statistics, and theatre, or from the interdisciplinary minors listed below.

For details of the various minors, see the appropriate departmental headings in the section of this bulletin that lists course offerings.

INTERDISCIPLINARY MINORS

Interdisciplinary minors are listed alphabetically under Courses of Instruction in this bulletin. The following programs are offered:

- American Ethnic Studies
- Cultural Resource Preservation
- Early Christian Studies
- Environmental Sciences
- Environmental Studies
- Film Studies
- Global Trade and Commerce Studies
- Health Policy and Administration
- Humanities
- International Studies
- Latin American Studies
- Linguistics
- Medieval Studies
- Neuroscience
- Russian and East European Studies
- Urban Studies
- Women’s and Gender Studies

FOREIGN AREA STUDIES

The foreign area studies programs enable students to choose an interdisciplinary concentration in the language and culture of a foreign area. An area studies concentration may include courses in the major and also in the minor field, if a minor is chosen. Foreign area studies programs do not replace majors or minors; they may supplement either or both. A faculty adviser coordinates each foreign area studies program and advises students; students who wish to participate in one of these programs must consult with the program coordinator, preferably in their sophomore year. Questions also may be directed to the Center for International Studies.

Foreign area studies are listed alphabetically under Courses of Instruction in this bulletin. The following programs are offered:

- German Studies
- Italian Studies
- Spanish Studies

Students who have studied abroad may have taken courses not listed in this bulletin. Questions should be addressed to the Office of the Registrar.

SENIOR TESTING

All seniors may be required to participate in a testing program designed to provide objective evidence of educational development. If the Committee on Academic Affairs decides to conduct such a program, its purpose would be to assist the University in assessing the effectiveness of its programs. The program does not supplant the regular administration of the Graduate Record Examination for students applying for admission to graduate school.

Combined Degrees in Medical Technology

Students may qualify for the bachelor of science degree in medical technology by completion of the academic requirements outlined in the following paragraph and by satisfactory completion of the full program in medical technology offered by the Division of Allied Health Programs of the Wake Forest School of Medicine. A grade of at least C is required in all courses taken in the program in medical technology. At least one year (twenty-eight hours) of the required academic work must be completed in the College. (Under current scheduling, successful candidates receive the baccalaureate degree in August rather than in May.)

Students seeking admission to the program must file application in the fall of the junior year with the Division of Allied Health Programs of the medical school. Selection is based upon recommendations of teachers, college academic record, Allied Health Professions Admissions Test score or SAT/ACT scores, impressions made in personal interviews, and work experience (not essential, but important). Students must complete all core course requirements; Biology 111, 112, 113, 214 (three courses or equivalents); Biology 326; Chemistry 109/109L or 111/111L, 122/122L, 223/223L, 230 and 260; mathematics (one course); and electives for a total of eighty-four hours. Desirable electives outside the area of chemistry and biology include physics, computer science, and personnel and management courses. (Interested students should consult a biology department faculty member during the first year for further information.)

Degrees in Engineering

The College cooperates with engineering schools in offering a broad course of study in the arts and sciences combined with specialized training in engineering. A program for outstanding students covers five years of study, including three years in the College and approximately two years in one of the schools of engineering. (Depending upon the field chosen, it may be advisable for a student to attend the summer session in the engineering school after transfer.) Admission to Wake Forest does not guarantee admission to the engineering school. Those decisions are based on the student’s transcript, performance, and status at the time of application. Upon successful completion of the five years of study, the student receives the bachelor of science degree in engineering from the University and the bachelor of science degree in one of the specialized engineering fields from the engineering school.

The curriculum for the first three years must include all the core requirements and additional courses in science and mathematics which will prepare the student for the study of engineering, such as Mathematics 111, 112, 251, 301, 302, and 304; Physics 113, 114, 141, 162, 165, and 166; Chemistry 111, 111L, 116, and 116L; and Economics 150.

These electives are chosen in consultation with the chair of the Department of Physics.
Degrees in Forestry and Environmental Studies

The College cooperates with the Duke University School of Forestry and Environmental Studies to offer students interested in these areas the possibility of earning both bachelor’s and master’s degrees within five years. For details about the program, students should consult a faculty member in the biology department.

Five-Year Cooperative Degree Program in Latin American Studies

Wake Forest and Georgetown universities have instituted a Five-Year Cooperative Degree Program in Latin American Studies. Under this program, undergraduate students who minor in Latin American Studies may apply to have a limited number of hours from their undergraduate work count toward a master’s degree in Latin American Studies at Georgetown University in Washington, DC. The BA is awarded by Wake Forest, while the master’s degree is awarded by Georgetown. Those whose application is accepted may complete both their BA and MA degrees in a five-year period. To apply for the combined BA/MA, students should declare an interest in the five-year cooperative degree program during their junior year. Students must then complete the regular Georgetown graduate application process and seek formal acceptance to the MA program during their senior year. The five-year program is an opportunity for exceptional students to complete degree requirements at an accelerated pace. Interested students should contact the five-year degree program coordinator, Peter Siavelis, associate professor of political science.
Plans of study, course descriptions, and the identification of instructors apply to the academic year 2003-2004 unless otherwise noted, and reflect official faculty action through February 9, 2004.

The University reserves the right to change programs of study, academic requirements, assignment of lecturers, or the announced calendar. The courses listed in this Bulletin are not necessarily taught every year; their availability is a function of both staffing constraints and student demand. While no guarantees about future scheduling can be made, students are encouraged to alert their advisers and department heads to their needs and desires as soon as they can be foreseen. For an exact list of courses offered in each particular semester and summer, students should consult the course schedules issued by the Office of the Registrar during the preceding term.

Number of hours is shown by numerals immediately after the course title—for example, (3h) or (3h, 3h). The symbols P— and C— followed by course numbers or titles are used to show prerequisites and corequisites for a course. Permission of the instructor is abbreviated as POI.

Courses that satisfy the cultural diversity requirement will be indicated by (CD) after the course description. Courses that satisfy the quantitative reasoning requirement will be indicated by (QR) after the course description.

Courses 101-199 are primarily for first-year students and sophomores; courses 200-299 are primarily for juniors and seniors; courses 301-399 are for advanced undergraduate students. Graduate courses are described in the bulletin of the Graduate School.
The interdisciplinary minor in American ethnic studies requires 18 hours. The student must take American Ethnic Studies 151, Race and Ethnic Diversity in America, during the second or third year at Wake Forest, and American Ethnic Studies 234, Ethnicity and Immigration. At least one additional three-hour course must be taken from the behavioral and social sciences, and one from the humanities. This structure gives students an understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of American ethnic studies within the context of the traditional liberal arts curriculum.

151. Race and Ethnic Diversity in America. (3h) Different race and ethnic experiences are examined through an institutional approach that examines religion, work, schooling, marriage patterns, and culture from cross-cultural perspective. Grand theoretical schemes like the “melting pot” are critiqued for their relevance in an age of new cultural expectations among the many American ethnic groups. (CD)

232. The American Jewish Experience. (3h) An interdisciplinary course exploring Jewish immigration to America with a primary focus on the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

234. Ethnicity and Immigration. (3h) An exploration of the socio-historical dynamics of the peopling of America in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. (CD)

240. Asian-American Legacy: A Social History of Community Adaptation. (3h) An introduction to the history, culture, and literature of the Asian-American communities, exploring issues of migration, assimilation, and the process of developing Asian-American identities in the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries. Also listed as Sociology 240. (CD)

310. Race, Class, and Gender in a Colorblind Society. (3) An examination of issues surrounding race, class, and gender in the United States. Topics include income and wealth, theories of discrimination, public education, gender bias, and patterns of occupational and industrial segregation. Also listed as Education 310.

357. Studies in Chicano Literature. (3h) Writings by Americans of Mexican descent in relation to politics and history. Readings in literature, literary criticism, and socio-cultural analysis. Also listed as English 357. (CD)

387. African-American Fiction. (3h) Selected topics in the development of fiction by American writers of African descent. Also listed as English 387. (CD)

389. African-American Poetry. (3h) Readings of works by American poets of African descent in theoretical, critical, and historical contexts. Also listed as English 389. (CD)

Other courses may be chosen from a list on file in the office of the director of the program.
A major in anthropology requires a minimum of thirty-three hours and must include Anthropology 112, 113, 114, 340, 390, and at least one course from each of the following three groups: Methods—307, 342, 353, 354, 378, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 387; Subfield Topics—150, 264, 305, 315, 332, 336, 337, 339, 355, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 368, 370; Area—111, 210, 313, 330, 334, 358, 374, 376, 377; plus the equivalent of two more full semester courses in anthropology.

Students are encouraged but not required to enroll in a course offering intensive field research training.

A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in anthropology courses is required at the time the major is declared. A minimum grade of C in all anthropology courses counted toward the major is required for graduation.

A minor in anthropology requires eighteen hours and must include Anthropology 112, 113, 114. Only one course (excluding Anthropology 112, 113, 114) can be taken under the pass/fail option and used to meet minor requirements. Only three hours from Anthropology 353, 354, 381, 382, 383, and 384 may be used to meet minor requirements and departmental permission must be obtained for minor credit in these courses.

To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Anthropology,” highly qualified majors (3.5 grade point average in anthropology) should apply to the department for admission to the honors program. They must complete a senior research project, document their research, and satisfactorily defend their work in an oral examination. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

111. Peoples and Cultures of the World. (3h) A representative ethnographic survey of world cultures, including hunting-gathering, kin-based, and agricultural societies, as well as ethnic groups in complex societies. (CD)

112. Introduction to Archeology. (3h) An overview of world prehistory, from the earliest stone tools to the appearance of civilization, with an emphasis on the relationship between culture change and the natural environment.

113. Introduction to Biological Anthropology. (3h) Introduction to biological anthropology, including human biology, human variation, human genetics, human evolution, and primatology.

114. Introduction to Cultural Anthropology. (3h) Investigates and interprets the historic cultural diversity of the world’s peoples, through an understanding of economic, social, and political systems; law and order, ritual, symbol, and religion; language and culture; kinship and the family; and modernization and culture change. (CD)

150. Introduction to Linguistics. (3h) The social phenomenon of language: how it originated and developed, how it is learned and used, its relationship to other kinds of behavior; types of language (oral, written, signed) and language families; analysis of linguistic data; social issues of language use. Also listed as Linguistics 150. (CD)

210. Introduction to Latin-American Studies. (3h) Introduction to the historical, economic, cultural, and social issues which shape Latin America. Also listed as Latin-American Studies 210. (CD)

264. Forensic Anthropology. (3h) Introduction to the conduct of forensic anthropology, including basic human identification, the nature of evidence, laboratory analyses, field methods, and modern applications.

305. Museum Anthropology. (3h) Examines the historical, social, and ideological forces shaping the development of museums. Emphasizes the history of anthropology, the formation of anthropological collections, representation, and the intellectual and social challenges facing museums today. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 114, or POI.

307. Collections Management Practicum. (1.5h) The principles of collections management including artifact registration, cataloging, storage, and handling; conservation issues and practices; disaster planning and preparedness; and ethical issues will be covered through lectures, readings, workshops, and hands-on use of the Museum’s collections.

313. Tradition, Continuity, and Struggle: Mexico and Central America. (3h) Acquaints students with the lives and struggles of indigenous and non-indigenous people of Mexico and neighboring countries, with special focus on the Maya. The class will include study of contemporary and prehispanic traditions, including Mayan cosmology, language, art and architecture, issues of contact during Spanish colonization, and current political, economic, health, and social issues affecting these areas today.

315. Material Culture Studies. (3h) Explores the social and cultural roles of objects through the study of materials, technology, economy, context, and meaning. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 114, or POI.

330. Seeing World Cultures. (3h) Focuses on selected cultures throughout the world to better understand these societies through the use of ethnographic literature and assesses the effectiveness of visual communication in conveying ideas about these cultures through the use of ethnographic videos and films. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or POI.

332. Anthropology of Gender. (3h) Focuses on the difference between sex, a biological category, and gender, its cultural counterpart. An anthropological perspective is used to understand both the human life cycle and the status of contemporary women and men worldwide. In section one, topics include evolution and biological development, sexuality and reproduction, parenting, and life cycle changes. The second section takes students to diverse locations, including Africa, South Dakota, China, India, and the Amazon for a cross-cultural comparison examining roles, responsibilities, and expectations, and how these interact with related issues of class and race.
334. Peoples and Cultures of South Asia. (3h) A survey of the peoples and cultures of the Indian subcontinent in the countries of Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Nepal, Pakistan, and Sri Lanka. The course reviews major topics of interest to anthropologists, including prehistory, history and politics, religion, social organization, caste, gender, development, and population.

336. Myth, Ritual, and Symbolism. (3h) Explores how people envision and manipulate the supernatural in cross-cultural perspective. Emphasizes functional aspects of religious beliefs and practices. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or POI.

337. Economic Anthropology. (3h) Examines the relationship between culture and the economy and its implications for applied anthropology. The variable nature and meaning of economic behavior will be examined in societies ranging from non-industrial to post-industrial. Discusses the impact of economic development programs, foreign aid and investment, technology transfer, and a variety of other economic aid programs. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or POI.

339. Culture and Nature. (3h) Exploration of humanity’s “place” in the cosmos, focusing on different worldviews of nature and culture. Case studies from anthropology, archeology, and environmental science examine conceptions of technology, resources, environment, and ownership in the context of environmental change, “natural” disasters, and resource scarcity.

340. Anthropological Theory. (3h) A study and evaluation of the major anthropological theories of humans and society. The relevance and significance of these theories to modern anthropology are discussed. P—ANT 112 and 113 and 114, or POI.

342. Applied Anthropology. (3h) Seminar exploring the ways anthropological concepts and data contribute to understanding and solving contemporary problems facing human populations everywhere. Emphasis will be on change and conflict situations in developing areas, but problems encountered by urban and industrialized cultures also are considered. P—ANT 111 or 114 or POI.

353/354. Field Research. (3h,3h) Issues-based field program providing students with a critical understanding of the historical, social, political-economic, and environmental conditions that have shaped the lives of the people of the Greater Southwest, with special attention to the Native American and Latino/a experience. The program moves from the Mexican border region through New Mexico and Arizona, focusing on border issues, archeology and prehispanic history, and contemporary Native American culture. Students camp, hike, and learn to use digital technology in the field. Specific sites may vary from year to year. P—POI.

355. Language and Culture. (3h) Covers theoretical and methodological approaches to the study of language and culture, including: semiotics, structuralism, ethnoscience, the ethnography of communication, and sociolinguistics. The topics include: linguistic relativity; grammar and worldview; lexicon and thought; language use and social inequality; language and gender; and other areas.

358. Native Peoples of North America. (3h) Ethnology and prehistory of the American Indian. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114.
361. Evolution of Human Behavior. (3h) The application of Darwinian principles to the study of human nature and culture. Considers the existence, origin, and manifestation of human behavioral universals and the theoretical and practical implications of individual variability.

362. Medical Anthropology. (3h) The impact of Western medical practices and theory on non-Western cultures and anthropological contributions to the solving of world health problems. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or POI.

363. Primate Behavior and Biology. (3h) Examines the evolution and adaptations of the order primates. Considers the different ways that ecology and evolution shape social behavior. A special emphasis on the lifeways of monkeys and apes.

364. Primate Evolutionary Biology. (3h) Examines the anatomy, evolution, and paleobiology of members of the order Primates. Emphasis is placed on the fossil evidence for primate evolution. Major topics covered include: primate origins, prosimian and anthropoid adaptations, patterns in primate evolution, and the place of humans within the order Primates.

365. Evolutionary Medicine. (3h) An explicitly evolutionary approach to complex relationships between human evolutionary adaptations and health problems related to modern behavior and culture. P—ANT 111, 113, or 114, or POI.

366. Human Evolution. (3h) The paleontological evidence for early human evolution, with an emphasis on the first five million years of bio-cultural evolution. P—ANT 113 or POI.

368. Human Osteology. (3h) A survey of human skeletal anatomy and analysis, emphasizing archeological and anthropological applications.

370. Old World Prehistory. (3h) Survey of Old World prehistory, with particular attention to geological and climatological events affecting culture change. P—ANT 112 or POI.

374. Prehistory of North America. (3h) The development of culture in North America as outlined by archeological research, with an emphasis on paleoecology and sociocultural processes. P—ANT 112 or POI.

376. Archeology of the Southeastern United States. (1.5h) A study of human adaptation in the Southeast from Pleistocene to the present, emphasizing the role of ecological factors in determining the formal aspects of culture. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114.

377. Ancestors, Indians, Immigrants: A Southwest Cultural Tapestry. (3h) Exploration of factors that shaped the lives of people in the Southwest, with attention to Native American and Hispanic experience. From kivas to casinos, coyotes to cartels, links archeological and prehispanic history to contemporary lifeways in the canyons, deserts, and cities of the U.S./North Mexico. (CD)

378. Conservation Archeology. (1.5h) A study of the laws, regulations, policies, programs, and political processes used to conserve prehistoric and historic cultural resources.

380. Anthropological Statistics. (3h) Basic statistics, emphasizing application in anthropological research. A student who receives credit for this course may not also receive credit for Biology 380, Business 201, Health and Exercise Science 262, or Sociology 371. (QR)
381, 382. Archeological Research. (3h, 3h) The recovery of anthropological data through archeological fieldwork. Students will learn archeological survey, mapping, excavation, recording techniques and artifact and ecofact recovery and analysis. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, and POI.

383, 384. Field Research in Cultural Anthropology. (3h, 3h) Training in techniques for the study of foreign cultures, carried out in the field. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, and POI.

385, 386. Special Problems Seminar. (3h, 3h) Intensive investigation of current scientific research within the discipline. The course concentrates on problems of contemporary interest.

387. Ethnographic Research Methods. (3h) Designed to familiarize students with ethnographic research methods and their application. Considers the epistemological, ethical, political, and psychological aspects of research. Laboratory experience and data analysis. P—ANT 111 or 114.

390. Student-Faculty Seminar. (3h) A review of contemporary problems in the fields of archeology, and biological and cultural anthropology. Senior standing recommended. P—ANT 112, 113 and 114, or POI.

391, 392. Internship in Anthropology. (3h, 3h) An internship course designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a departmental faculty member. P—POI.

398, 399. Individual Study. (1h, 1.5h, 2h, or 3h) A reading or research course designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a departmental faculty member. P—POI.

Wake Forest Professor Margaret S. Smith, Chair
Charlotte C. Weber Professor of Art David M. Lubin
Professors Robert Knott, Wake Forest Professor Margaret S. Smith, Harry B. Titus Jr.
Associate Professors Bernadine Barnes, David L. Faber, Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation Fellow David Finn, Page H. Laughlin, John R. Pickel
Instructors Alix Hitchcock, Jeffrey P. Thompson
Adjunct Assistant Professor Leigh Ann Hallberg
Adjunct Instructors Kimberly Dennis, Jennifer Gentry
Lecturers Brian Allen (London), Maria A. Chiari (Venice), Beatrice Ottersböck (Vienna), Katie Scott (London), Yue-Ling Wong
Gallery Director Victor Faccinto

The department offers courses in the history of art, architecture, printmaking, photography, and film from the ancient through modern periods, and the practice of drawing, painting, printmaking, sculpture, photography, and digital art. Opportunities to supplement the regular academic program of the department include study abroad in Wake Forest residential study centers, changing art exhibitions in the gallery of the Scales Fine Arts Center, a visiting artists program, and internships in local museums and arts organizations.
The department offers two majors, art history and studio art, each requiring thirty hours, with a maximum of thirty-six hours. A minor in either studio art or art history requires fifteen hours. Students may major in one field and minor in another within a limit of forty-two hours.

For the art history major twenty-four hours are to be in art history and six hours in studio art. The required art history courses include one course in Ancient, Classical or Medieval art; one course in Renaissance, Baroque, or Eighteenth Century art; one course in Modern painting, architecture, photography, or film; Art 290; one art history seminar; and electives. Art history majors are encouraged to take Art 103 and a course in non-western art. An art history minor requires twelve hours in art history and three hours in studio art.

For the studio art major twenty-four hours are to be in studio art and six hours in art history. The required studio art courses include four entry level courses—one in three-dimensional art and three selected from the five two-dimensional areas; two second level courses in different areas; a third semester in a studio art concentration; and electives in studio art. A minor in studio art requires twelve hours in studio art and three hours in art history.

Any student interested in majoring or minoring in art should consult the chair of the department.

Students with a special interest in multimedia development may wish to consider a program of study that combines digital art and computer science. Advisers in either the art or computer science departments can provide further information on coordinating an art major with a computer science minor, or vice versa.

Qualified students in both the studio and art history areas may ask to participate in the department’s honors program. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Art,” students must execute a written project or create a body of work; the results of their efforts must be presented and defended before a committee of department faculty. Interested students should consult any member of the department for additional information concerning the requirements for this program.

The department will accept only three courses from a non-Wake Forest program for credit toward the major. Of these three courses, only two may be in the same area of concentration. For instance, an art major may take up to two art history courses and one studio course or two studio art courses and one art history course at a non-Wake Forest program. All studio courses taken abroad will be assigned Art 210.

Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in studio art or art history at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

Art History

103. History of Western Art. (3h) A historical introduction to the arts of various cultures and times with discussions of technique, style, methodology, and terms. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

104. Topics in World Art. (3h) An examination of the visual arts in selected world cultures, with discussions of techniques, styles, broader cultural contexts, and confrontations with varying traditions. Topics may include one or more of the following: the arts of China, Japan, India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Africa, Islamic cultures, or the indigenous cultures of the Americas. Satisfies the Division III requirement. (CD)

105. The History of World Architecture. (3h) Selected topics emphasizing the planning, siting, design, construction, patronage and historical impact of architectural monuments from a variety of cultures. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

231. American Visual Arts. (3h) American art and culture from the Colonial period to 1900 in terms of changing aesthetic standards, social, and historical developments. Includes fine arts, folk arts, material culture, and mass media. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

232. African-American Art. (3h) African-American art from the eighteenth century to the present, with attention to the social and historical context of the works and the artist. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

233. American Architecture. (3h) A discussion-based course examining American architecture from 1650 to the present. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Offered in fall semester, even years.

241. Ancient Art. (3h) A survey of architecture, painting, and sculpture from ca. 3000 BCE through the late Roman period. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

244. Greek Art. (3h) A survey of architecture, painting, and sculpture from ca. 800 BCE through the Hellenistic period. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

245. Roman Art. (3h) A survey of Etruscan and Roman architecture, painting, and sculpture. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

251. Women and Art. (3h) A historical examination of the changing image of women in art and the role of women artists. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

252. Romanesque Art. (3h) Art and architecture from the Carolingian Renaissance through the twelfth century. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

253. The Gothic Cathedral. (3h) The character and evolution of Gothic cathedrals and the sculpture, stained glass, metalworks, and paintings designed for them. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

254. Luxury Arts in the Middle Ages. (3h) Medieval illuminated manuscripts and precious objects made of gold, silver, ivory, enamel, and other luxury materials are the subjects of this course. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

258. The History of Prints. (3h) A survey of the technical and stylistic developments in printmaking from the fifteenth century to the present. Special attention will be given to the function of prints in society. Student research will focus on prints in the University Print Collection. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

259. The History of Photography. (3h) A historical and critical survey of photography from its invention in 1826 to the present. Special attention to the medium’s cultural and artistic reception. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

260. Classics of World Cinema. (3h) Selected masterpieces of world film 1930-1965 (two in-class screenings per week). Emphasis is on developing skills for viewing, discussing, and writing about motion pictures as visual and dramatic art. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

267. Early Italian Renaissance Art. (3h) The development of art and architecture in Italy in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. Special attention will be given to the works of Giotto, Donatello, Botticelli, and Leonardo da Vinci. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

268. High Renaissance and Mannerist Art. (3h) The development of art and architecture in the sixteenth century in Rome, Florence, Venice and other cities. Among the artists studied are Michelangelo, Raphael, and Titian. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

270. Northern Renaissance Art. (3h) A survey of painting, sculpture, and printmaking in Northern Europe from the mid-fourteenth century through the sixteenth century. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

272. Baroque Art. (3h) A discussion-based survey of major art, artists, and cultural issues in seventeenth-century Europe. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

275. History of Landscape Architecture. (3h) A survey of garden and landscape design from the Roman period through the twentieth century. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

281. Nineteenth-Century Art. (3h) A survey of European and American art from the French Revolution to 1900, emphasizing the major movements from Romanticism to Impressionism and Post-Impressionism. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

282. Twentieth-Century Art. (3h) A survey of European and American painting and sculpture from 1900 to the present. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

283. Impressionism. (3h) A study of Impressionism and Post-Impressionism with an emphasis on stylistic innovations and the social and cultural context in which they were produced. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

284. Contemporary American Art. (3h) An intensive study of American painting and sculpture from 1950 to the present. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

288. Modern Architecture. (3h) A survey of European and American architecture from 1900 to the present. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Offered in fall semester, odd years.

294. Issues in Art History. (3h) A discussion-based course focusing on critical theory and methods employed by art historians working today as well as by some of the founding figures of the discipline.

296. Art History Seminar. (1.5h,3h) Offered by members of the faculty or visiting faculty on topics of their choice. A paper is required. P—POI.

a. Ancient Art  b. Medieval Art
c. Renaissance Art  d. Baroque Art
e. Modern Art  f. Contemporary Art
g. American Art  h. Modern Architecture
i. American Architecture  j. Art and Popular Culture
k. Film  l. Architecture and Urbanism
m. Museums  n. Special Topics
297. Management in the Visual Arts. (3h) This course provides to both art and business students the essential skills, pragmatic experiences, and a conceptual framework for understanding the role the visual arts play within the national and international economy. Also listed as Business 282. P—Junior or senior standing and POI.

Studio Art*

110. Topics in Studio Art. (3h) Used to designate studio art courses in Wake Forest summer school. May be repeated. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Studio art courses are determined by individual instructors in the following areas:
   a. Drawing
   b. Painting
   c. Printmaking
   d. Sculpture
   e. Photography
   f. Digital Art
   g. Special Topics

111. Introduction to Studio Art Fundamentals. (3h) Students are introduced to basic elements of two-dimensional and three-dimensional fine art through hands-on experimentation and critical thinking. Six class hours per week. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

112. Introduction to Painting. (3h) An introduction to the fundamentals of the contemporary practice of oil painting. No prior painting experience required, although prior studio art experience is recommended. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

114. Digital Art I. (3h) An introduction to computer-generated art techniques and concepts. Emphasis placed on individual progression through group critique. A working knowledge of the Windows operating system required. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

115. Introduction to Sculpture. (3h) An introduction to basic sculptural styles and multimedia, with emphasis on contemporary concepts. Prior studio experience is recommended. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

117. Introduction to Printmaking. (3h) An introduction to one or more of the following areas of printmaking: lithography, intaglio, and silkscreen. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

118. Introduction to Drawing. (3h) Drawing fundamentals emphasizing composition, value, line, and form. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

119. Photography and Digital Imaging I. (3h) An introduction to photography as a creative medium, including camera and darkroom techniques, with an introduction to digital imaging. Emphasis placed on individual progression through group critique. Student must provide manual 35 mm SLR camera. Please see http://www.wfu.edu/~jrpickel/camerarec/rec.html for information on cameras. Satisfies the Division III requirement.

*Prerequisites may be waived with permission of instructor.
210. Topics in Studio Art. (3h) Used to designate studio art courses taken at other institutions. May be repeated. Studio art courses are determined by individual instructors in the following areas:

- a. Drawing
- b. Painting
- c. Printmaking
- d. Sculpture
- e. Photography
- f. Digital Art
- g. Special Topics

211. Intermediate Drawing. (3h) Emphasis on idea development in realistic and abstract styles in drawing and water color media. P—ART 111, 118, 218 or POI.

212. Painting II. (3h) Continuation of Art 112 with concentrated emphasis on conceptual development and technical exploration. P—ART 112. Offered in the fall semester only.

213. Painting III. (3h) An individualized course of study with emphasis on refining the skills and concepts developed in Painting II. P—ART 212. Offered in fall semester only.

214. Digital Art II. (3h) An intermediate level digital art course as a continuation of Art 114, with emphasis on critical and technical development. P—ART 114. Offered in fall semester only.

215. Public Art. (3h) This course will cover art that is sited in the public realm. Exercises with various sites, materials, and audiences, will culminate in a public project. P—ART 115 or POI. Offered in fall semester, even years.

216. Sculpture Fabrication. (3h) Fabrication of small scale sculpture using wood, fabric, and metal. Projects stress craftsmanship and imagination. P—ART 115 or POI. Offered in spring semester, odd years.

217. Intermediate Printmaking. (3h) Continuation of Art 117, with emphasis on idea development. May be repeated. P—ART 117.

218. Figure Drawing. (3h) An introduction to drawing the nude model using a variety of media and approaches. May be repeated once. P—Any 100 level course or POI.

219. Photography and Digital Imaging II. (3h) An intermediate level photography course as a continuation of Art 119, with emphasis on critical and technical development in both traditional photography and digital imaging. P—ART 119. Offered in spring semester only.

221. Advanced Drawing. (3h) A course of individual study with faculty guidance. May be repeated. P—ART 211.

222. Advanced Painting. (3h) A course of individual study with faculty guidance focused on developing a body of work for exhibition. Will cover various aspects of professional practice including artist statements and proposals, and portfolio development. May be repeated. P—ART 212. Offered in spring semester only.

224. Digital Art III. (3h) An advanced course of individual study with faculty guidance and group critique. P—ART 214.

225. Bodies and Objects. (3h) This course will explore the social and psychological ramifications of making objects based on the body through casting and other techniques. P—ART 115 or POI. Offered in fall semester, odd years.
226. Sculpture Installation. (3h) Exercises to develop an understanding of material, process, and audience as they relate to contemporary sculpture. The major projects for the course are an installation and a design project. P—ART 115 or POI. Offered in spring semester, even years.

227. Advanced Printmaking. (3h) A course of individual study with faculty guidance. May be repeated. P—ART 217.

229. Photography and Digital Imaging III. (3h) An advanced course of individual study with faculty guidance and group critique. P—ART 219. Offered in spring semester only.

290S. Printmaking Workshop. (3h) A workshop course exploring relief, intaglio, lithography, and monotype techniques, open to students at any skill level. Offered in the summer.

295. Studio Seminar. (1.5h,3h) Offered by members of the faculty or visiting faculty on topics of their choice and related studio activities. P—POI.

Other Art Courses

291. Individual Study. (3h) A course of independent study with faculty guidance.

292. Individual Study. (3h) A course of independent study with faculty guidance.

293. Practicum. (3h) Internships in local cultural organizations, to be arranged and approved in advance by the art department. Pass/Fail.

299. International Studies in Art. (3h) Offered by art department faculty in locations outside of the United States, on specific topics in art history or studio art. Offered in the summer.

2320. English Art, Hogarth to the Present. (3h) A survey of English painting, sculpture, and architecture in the Georgian, Victorian, and modern periods. Slide lectures, student reports, museum visits, and lectures. Taught by special lecturer. Offered in London.

2693. Venetian Renaissance Art. (3h) A survey of the art of the Venetian Renaissance, with slide lectures and museum visits. Offered in Venice.

2712. Studies in French Art. (3h) Lectures and field trips in French painting, sculpture, and architecture, concentrating on the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Offered in Dijon.

2767. Austrian Art and Architecture. (3h) A study of the development of Austrian art and architecture and its relationship to European periods and styles. Includes visits to sites and museums. Offered in Vienna.
The department offers programs leading to a bachelor of arts and a bachelor of science degree in biology. Sophomore students electing to major in biology should consult with a major adviser to determine which degree program would be most appropriate for their career objectives. The requirements for completion of each degree program are those in effect at the time of the declaration of the major, since the curriculum and the departmental requirements may change slightly during the student’s period of residence.

Students pursuing the bachelor of arts degree are required to take Biology 112, 113, 213, and 214 and at least two 300 level four-hour biology courses. Co-requirements for the BA degree include the following laboratory courses: Chemistry 109 (or 111) and 122 and one additional course in mathematics or physical science.

Students pursuing the bachelor of science degree are required to take Biology 112, 113, 213, 214, a research experience (such as BIO 391 or an equivalent program approved by the major adviser) and at least two 300 level four-hour biology courses. Co-requirements for the BS degree include the following laboratory courses: Chemistry 109 (or 111), 122 and 120 (or 223), Physics 113, 114 and one additional course in mathematics or physical sciences at the 200 level or above.

The requirements for both the BA and BS degree programs are a minimum of thirty-four hours in biology. A maximum of four hours of research in biology may be applied toward the major, but an additional four hours (BIO 393 and/or 394) may be taken and applied toward graduation as elective hours. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 on biology courses taken at Wake Forest University is required for graduation with a major in biology.

A minor in biology requires sixteen hours. Courses taken pass/fail cannot count toward a minor. A minimum overall grade point average of 2.0 must be earned on all Wake Forest University biology courses taken to complete a minor. The requirements for the minor are those that are in effect at the time of the declaration of the minor, since the curriculum and the departmental requirements may change slightly during the student’s period of residence.
Prospective majors are strongly urged to select either Biology 112 or 113 as their first course in biology. Biology 213 and 214 are more advanced courses and should be taken after Biology 112 and 113. Most prospective majors also should take Chemistry 109 (or 111) and 122 in their first year.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in biology. To be graduated with the distinction “Honors in Biology,” a graduating student must have a minimum grade point average of 3.0 in all courses and a 3.3 in biology courses. In addition, the student must submit an honors paper describing his/her independent research project, written in the form of a scientific paper, which must be submitted to and approved by an advisory committee. Specific details regarding the honors program, including selecting an adviser and an advisory committee, deadlines, and writing of the honors thesis, may be obtained from the chair of the departmental Undergraduate Studies Committee.

Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in biology at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

101. Biology and the Human Condition. (4h) An introductory course that focuses on the relevance to society of recent breakthroughs in biology. Basic principles of biology will be covered, but the course will emphasize recent advances in biology placed in the context of their ethical, social, political, and economic implications. This non-majors course is intended for students with little or no previous experience in biology and does not count toward the major or minor in biology. Lab—three hours.

111. Biological Principles. (4h) A study of the general principles of living systems with focus on the cellular, organismal, and populational levels of biological organization, emphasizing the role of heredity and evolution in these systems. This course is intended for students with little or no previous experience in biology and does not count toward the major or minor in biology. Lab—three hours.

112. Comparative Physiology. (4h) An introduction to the form and function of organisms, with emphasis on physical principles, structural organization, and critical function of plants and animals. Intended as a beginning course in biology for prospective majors and for any students with adequate high school preparation in biology. Lab—three hours.

113. Evolutionary and Ecological Biology. (4h) An introduction to the principles of genetics, ecology, and evolution as they apply to organisms, populations, and communities, with emphasis on evolutionary processes within an ecological context. Intended as a beginning course in biology for prospective majors and for any students with adequate high school preparation in biology. Lab—three hours. (QR)

213. Genetics and Molecular Biology. (4h) An introduction to the principles and processes of heredity, information flow, and gene function. Topics covered include Mendelian genetics, molecular genetics, and the origin of genetic variation. Lab—three hours.

The course will also introduce cancer, immunology, and developmental biology. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and Chemistry 109 or 111, or POI.

216. Biodiversity. (4h) An introductory course that traces the history of life on earth and looks at its diversification in an evolutionary and ecological context. Lectures cover the mechanisms of biological diversification and surveys life on earth. Labs introduce students to the broad diversity of life through exercises with living organisms. Lab—three hours.

237. Plants and People. (3h) A course that explores various associations between plants and people, their interrelationships, medical as well as ethical, and the impact of these interrelationships on various contemporary societies.

301-306. Topics in Biology. (1-4h) Seminar and/or lecture courses in selected topics, some involving laboratory instruction. May be repeated if the course title differs.

307. Biophysics. (3h) An introduction to the structure, dynamic behavior, and function of DNA and proteins, and a survey of membrane biophysics. The physical principles of structure determination by X-ray, NMR, and optical methods will be emphasized. P—BIO 112 or 214, Physics 113, 114, or POI.

311. Genetics. (3h) A lecture course on the use of genetic analytical methods to establish the principles of inheritance and the mechanisms of gene function. Covered topics include mechanisms of genetic change, the genetics of development, and population genetics. Students may not receive credit for both Biology 311 and Biology 312. P—BIO 112, 113, and 214.

312. Genetics. (4h) A lecture and lab course on the use of genetic analytical methods to establish the principles of inheritance and the mechanisms of gene function. Covered topics include mechanisms of genetic change, the genetics of development, and population genetics. The lab will include projects involving classical and current techniques of genetic investigation. Students may not receive credit for both Biology 311 and Biology 312. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112, 113, and 214.

315. Population Genetics. (3h) A study of the amount of distribution of genetic variation in populations of organisms, and of how processes such as mutation, recombination, and selection affect genetic variation. The lecture will present both an introduction to theoretical studies, and discussion of molecular and phenotypic variation in natural populations. P—BIO 113. (QR)

320. Comparative Anatomy. (4h) A study of the vertebrate body from an evolutionary, functional, and developmental perspective. Laboratories emphasize structure and function, primarily through the dissection of representative vertebrates. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

321. Parasitology. (4h) A survey of protozoan, helminth, and arthropod parasites from the standpoint of morphology, taxonomy, life histories, and host/parasite relationships. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

322. Biomechanics. (4h) An analysis of the relationship between organismal form and function using principles from physics and engineering. Solid and fluid mechanics are employed to study design in living systems. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112.

324. Hormones and Behavior. (3h) Introduction to the hormonal regulation of behavior in a broad range of animals, including humans and invertebrates. Topics include reproductive behavior, parental behavior, social behavior, sex differences, aggressive behavior, stress, mood, and the regulation of molting in insects. P—BIO 112.

326. Microbiology. (4h) The structure, function, and taxonomy of microorganisms with emphasis on bacteria. Covered special topics include microbial ecology, industrial microbiology, and medical microbiology. The lab emphasizes microbial diversity through characterizations of isolates from nature. P—BIO 213 and 214; Chemistry 122.

331. Invertebrates. (4h) Systematic study of invertebrates, with emphasis on functional morphology, behavior, ecology, and phylogeny. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

333. Vertebrates. (4h) Systematic study of vertebrates, with emphasis on evolution, physiology, behavior, and ecology. Laboratory devoted to systematic, field, and experimental studies. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

335. Insect Biology. (4h) A study of the diversity, structure, development, physiology, behavior, and ecology of insects. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

335S. Insect Biology. (4h) A five-week course taught during the summer. A study of the diversity, structure, development, physiology, behavior, and ecology of one of the most diverse taxa on earth. Course location and field trip destinations to be announced each summer. P—POI.

338. Plant Systematics. (4h) A study of the diversity and evolution of flowering plants. Lectures emphasize the comparative study of selected plant families, their relationships and the use of new information and techniques to enhance our understanding of plant evolution. Labs emphasize more practical aspects of plant systematics such as the use of identification keys, recognition of common local plants, molecular techniques, and basic phylogenetic analysis.

339. Principles of Biosystematics. (4h) An exploration of the current theoretical and practical approaches to the study of macroevolution in plants and animals. Topics include theory and methods of constructing evolutionary trees, sources of data, and cladistic biogeography. Lab—three hours.

340. Ecology. (4h) Interrelationships among living systems and their environments; structure and dynamics of major ecosystem types; contemporary problems in ecology. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113. (QR)

342. Aquatic Ecology. (4h) A course designed to cover the general principles and concepts of limnology and aquatic biology as they apply to lentic and lotic habitats. A major portion of the field study is centered at the Charles M. Allen Biological Station. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 113.

344S. Tropical Marine Ecology. (4h) An intensive field-oriented course focusing on tropical marine ecosystems and their biological communities. Emphasis will be placed on biodiversity, the ecology of dominant taxa, the interactions between physical and biological processes, and the structure and function of representative communities. Includes 2.5 weeks at the Hofstra University Marine Laboratory, Jamaica. P—Minimum of one year of college biology including BIO 113 and POI. Offered in the summer only.

345. Neurobiology. (3h) Introduction to the structure and function of the nervous system including the neural basis of behavior. Anatomical, physiological, and neurochemical approaches will be integrated in the study of the peripheral and central nervous systems. P—BIO 112 and 214.

346. Neurobiology. (4h) Introduction to the structure and function of the nervous system including the neural basis of behavior. Anatomical, physiological, and neurochemical approaches will be integrated in the study of the peripheral and central nervous systems. The laboratory will emphasize electrophysiological techniques with experiments from the cellular to the behavioral level. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 214.

347. Physiological Plant Ecology. (3h) A course designed to provide a fundamental understanding of how plants have adapted to the stresses of their habitats, particularly in harsh or extreme environments such as deserts, the alpine, the arctic tundra, and tropical rainforests. P—BIO 112 and 113.

348. Physiological Plant Ecology. (4h) A course designed to provide a fundamental understanding of how plants have adapted to the stresses of their habitats, particularly in harsh or extreme environments such as deserts, the alpine, the arctic tundra, and tropical rainforests. The laboratory will introduce students to a broad array of field instrumentation. P—BIO 112 and 113.

349S. Tropical Biodiversity. (4h) An intensive field course in tropical biodiversity. Students will travel to major tropical biomes, including deserts, glaciated peaks and rain forests. Lectures emphasize the basic ecological principles important in each ecosystem; laboratories consist of student-designed field projects. Course location varies yearly. P—BIO 112 and 113 and POI. Offered in the summer only.

350. Conservation Biology. (3h) Lectures, readings, and discussions examining biological resources, their limitations and methods for sustainability. Genetic, aquatic, terrestrial, and ecosystem resources will be examined. P—BIO 113.

351. Vertebrate Physiology. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course examining regulatory principles, integration in the nervous system and the physiology of the cardiovascular, respiratory, and renal systems of vertebrates. P—BIO 112 and 214.

352. Developmental Neuroscience. (4h) This course focuses on the development of neural structures and the plasticity of the mature nervous system. Special attention is given to experimental model systems, particularly Drosophila melanogaster. The laboratory will feature molecular, immunocytochemical, and cell culture techniques for the study of neurons. P—BIO 213 and 214.

354. Vertebrate Endocrinology. (3h) A lecture course which considers the evolution of the endocrine glands and hormones and the physiology of the main hormonal pathways of vertebrates. P—BIO 112 and 214.

355. Avian Biology. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course emphasizing ecological and evolutionary influences on the physiology, behavior, and population biology of birds. Includes taxonomy of the world’s major bird groups. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 113.

359. Genomics. (3h) An introduction to the acquisition, analysis, and utility of DNA sequence information. Topics covered will include structural, comparative, and functional genomics, genetic mapping, bioinformatics, and proteomics. P—BIO 213.

360. Development. (4h) A description of the major events and processes of animal development, with an analysis of the causal factors underlying them. Special attention is given to the embryonic development of vertebrates, but consideration is also given to other types of development and other organisms. Topics include fertilization, early development, growth and cell division, cell differentiation, the role of genes in development, cell interaction, morphogenesis, regeneration, birth defects, and cancer. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 214.

361. Microbial Pathogenesis. (3h) This course explores the molecular mechanisms by which microorganisms attack hosts, how hosts defend against pathogens, and how these interactions cause disease. P—BIO 112, 214, and POI.

362. Immunology. (3h) A study of the components and protective mechanisms of the immune system. P—BIO 112 and 214.

363. Sensory Biology. (3h) A lecture course with emphasis on sensory physiology and other aspects of sensory systems, e.g. molecular biology and anatomy. Credit not allowed for both Biology 363 and 364. P—BIO 112 and 214.

364. Sensory Biology. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course with emphasis on sensory physiology and other aspects of sensory systems, e.g. molecular biology and anatomy. Credit not allowed for both Biology 363 and 364. P—BIO 112 and 214.

365. Biology of the Cell. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course on classic experiments and recent advances in cell biology. Lectures emphasize analysis and interpretation of experimental data in the primary literature, focusing on topics such as the targeting of macromolecules, cell-cell communication, and the control of cell division. The text for this course consists of papers that have led to the Nobel Prize in Physiology and Medicine and more current work using biological tools. The laboratory introduces basic techniques in cell biology and leads to an independent project. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 214.

367. Virology. (3h) A course designed to introduce students to viruses, viral/host interactions, pathogenicity, methods of control and their use in molecular biology, including gene therapy. P—BIO 112 and 214.

368. The Cell Biological Basis of Disease. (3h) This course examines some of the defects in basic cellular mechanisms that are responsible for many diseases. P—BIO 112 and 214.
369. The Cell Biological Basis of Disease. (4h) This course examines some of the defects in basic cellular mechanisms that are responsible for many diseases. The laboratory will use advanced microscopic and histological techniques to investigate basic properties of cells. P—BIO 112 and 214.

370. Biochemistry: Macromolecules and Metabolism. (3h) A lecture course introducing the principles of biochemistry, with an emphasis on the experimental approaches that elucidated these principles. Major topics will include structure, function, and biosynthesis of biological molecules, analysis of enzyme function and activity, bioenergetics, and regulation of metabolic pathways. P—BIO 214 and either Chemistry 223 or 230, or POI.

371. Biochemistry: Macromolecules and Metabolism. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course introducing the principles of biochemistry, with an emphasis on the experimental approaches that elucidated these principles. Major topics will include structure, function, and biosynthesis of biological molecules, analysis of enzyme function and activity, bioenergetics, and regulation of metabolic pathways. The laboratory emphasizes approaches for isolation and analysis of proteins and enzymes. P—BIO 214 and either Chemistry 223 or 230, or POI.

372. Molecular Biology. (4h) An analysis of the molecular mechanisms by which stored genetic information directs cellular development. Emphasis is placed on storage and transmission of genetic information, regulation of gene expression, and the role of these processes in development. The laboratory focuses on modern techniques of recombinant DNA analysis. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112 and 214.

377. Community Ecology. (4h) An advanced ecology course covering mechanisms that determine the dynamics and distribution of plant and animal assemblages: life-history, competition, predation, geology, climate, soils, and history. Lectures focus on ecological principles and theory. Lab includes local field trips and discussion of the primary literature. Several weekend field trips. Lab—three hours. P—BIO 112, 113, and 214. (QR)

379. Molecular Techniques in Evolution and Systematics. (4h) A lecture and laboratory course that explores molecular methods that are basic to many disciplines within biology, especially ecology, evolution, and systematics. Laboratories focus on the acquisition of molecular techniques, including allozyme electrophoresis, mitochondrial plastid, and nuclear DNA restriction fragment length polymorphism analyses, gene amplification, PCR (polymerase chain reaction), direct and/or cycle sequencing, and RAPDs (randomly amplified polymorphic DNAs). Lab—three hours. P—BIO 113 and 214.

380. Biostatistics. (3h) An introduction to statistical methods used by biologists, including descriptive statistics, hypothesis-testing, analysis of variance, and regression and correlation. A student who receives credit for this course may not also receive credit for Anthropology 380, Business 201, Health and Exercise Science 262, or Sociology 371. (QR)

381. Biostatistics Laboratory. (1h) Application of computer-based statistical software. This course may not be used to satisfy one of the three 300-level four-hour courses required for the major if paired with Biology 380. (QR if paired with 380)
385. Oceanography. (3h) An introduction to geological, chemical, physical, and biological oceanography taught at the Sea Education Association program at Woods Hole, Mass. P—Admission to the Sea Education Association program and approval of departmental chair and/or his or her designate.

386. Practical Oceanography. (4h) A two-part lecture/laboratory course offered at sea in which students observe and apply in the field the concepts and sampling techniques introduced in the shore component. This course is a part of the Sea Education Association program taught at Woods Hole, Mass. P—Admission to the Sea Education Association program and approval of departmental chair and/or his or her designate.

391, 392. Research in Biology. (2h, 2h) Independent library and laboratory investigation carried out under the supervision of a member of the staff. P—POI. Pass/Fail or for grade at discretion of the instructor.*

393, 394. Research in Biology. (2h, 2h) Courses designed for students who wish to continue research projects beyond Biology 391 and 392. Not to be counted toward major.* P—POI. Pass/Fail option.

396. Biomedical Ethics. (3h) Lectures and seminars examining contemporary issues in biomedical ethics including the proper role of biomedical research and current controversies in health care and medical practice. P—BIO 112 and 214.

397S. Marine Models in Biological Research. (5h) An eight-week course that is taught at the Marine Biology Laboratory (MBL) in Woods Hole, Mass. Students attend lectures and seminars in areas of cell and developmental biology and marine ecology. Each student is guided in a research project selected from the area of expertise of participating faculty and which takes advantage of the special facilities of the MBL, such as confocal microscopy and intracellular Ca++ imaging.

The same numbered course cannot be repeated. Subsequent courses should be taken in consecutive order.
The department offers programs leading to the BA and BS degrees in chemistry. The BS degree is certified by the American Chemical Society.

The bachelor of arts degree in chemistry requires twenty-eight (or 28.5) hours in chemistry and must include the following courses: 111 (or 109), 111L, 122, 122L, 223, 223L, 230, 260, 341, 341L, 342 (or 344), 342L, and 361, 361L; Mathematics 111, 112; and Physics 113, 114.

The bachelor of science degree in chemistry requires 37.5 (or 38) hours in chemistry and must include the following courses: 111 (or 109), 111L, 122, 122L, 223, 223L, 230, 260, 334, 334L, 341, 341L, 344, 342L, either 351 or 356/357, 361, 361L, 381, 382, 383, either 391 or 392; Mathematics 111 and 112 and either 113 or 301; and Physics 113, 114.

A minor in chemistry requires nineteen hours in chemistry and must include at least one of the following: 334; 341 and 341L; 351; 356/357; or 361. The department will not accept courses taken pass/fail to count toward the minor. Unless otherwise stated, all chemistry courses are open to chemistry majors on a letter-grade basis only (even those courses not required for the major). Majors are also required to complete on a letter-grade basis the required physics and mathematics courses.

A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in the first two years of chemistry is required of students who elect to major in the department. Admission to any class is contingent upon satisfactory grades in prerequisite courses, and registration for advanced courses must be approved by the department. Candidates for either the BA or BS degree with a major in chemistry must have a minimum grade point average of 2.0 in their chemistry courses numbered 200 or above.

Qualified BS majors are considered for honors in chemistry. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Chemistry,” a student must have a minimum grade point average in chemistry courses of 3.3 and a minimum overall grade point average of 3.0. In addition, the honors candidate must satisfactorily complete an approved research project, prepare a paper describing the project, and present results at a seminar for departmental approval. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Junior: Chem. 341, 341L, 342, 342L
Senior: Chem. 361, 361L

For the BS major, the following schedule of chemistry and related courses is typical:

First Year:  Chem. 111 (or 109), 111L, 122, 122L, Math. 111, 112
Sophomore:  Chem. 223, 223L, 230, 260, Physics 113, 114, Math. 113 (or 301)
Junior: Chem. 341, 341L, 344, 342L, 381, 382, 383, 391 (or 392), Math. 113 (or 301)
Senior: Chem. 334, 334L, 361, 361L, 381, 382, 300-level elective

For variations in either of the schedules above, the student should consult a member of the faculty in chemistry.

The department will accept transfer courses completed by incoming transfer students provided that those courses were taken only at four-year colleges and universities that offer a major in chemistry. These courses must be equivalent in content and level to courses offered at Wake Forest University (as judged by a departmental curriculum committee). Courses taken in summer school elsewhere, or in Wake Forest University study abroad programs, must meet these same criteria and receive pre-approval. Advanced courses, 300-level and above, are typically not transferable. Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in chemistry at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

108. Everyday Chemistry. (4h) Introduction to chemistry for non-science majors. Laboratory covers experimental aspects of topics discussed in lecture. Satisfies Division V requirement. A student may not receive credit for both Chemistry 108 and either Chemistry 109 or 111. Lab—three hours. (QR)

*109. Tutorial in General Chemistry. (3.5h) Fundamental chemical principles. Intended for students with insufficient background in chemistry. A student may not receive credit for both Chemistry 109 and either Chemistry 108 or 111. Covers same material as Chemistry 111 but meets four times weekly. Admission by placement exam only. C—CHM 111L. (QR)

*111. College Chemistry. (3h) Fundamental chemical principles. C—CHM 111L. (QR)

*111L. College Chemistry Lab. (1h) Laboratory covers experimental aspects of basic concepts. Lab—three hours. C—CHM 109 or 111.

120. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h) The course coheres the basic physical and chemical processes in the earth’s atmosphere, biosphere and the oceans. It consists of two parts: 1) chemical processes in the environment such as element cycles and the chemistry of the pollutants in air and water and, 2) physical aspects of the environment such as solar energy and the atmosphere, and the physics of weather and climate. Lab—three hours. Also listed as Physics 120. (QR)

*122. Introduction to Organic Chemistry. (3h) Principles and reactions of organic chemistry. P—CHM 109 or 111. C—CHM 122L.

*122L. Introduction to Organic Chemistry Lab. (1h) Lab—four hours. P—CHM 109 or 111. C—CHM 122.

*223L. Organic Chemistry II Lab. (1h) Lab—four hours. P—CHM 122. C—CHM 223L.

230. Analytical Biochemistry. (2h) Survey of laboratory methods used to determine the composition of biological samples. 7.5 weeks. Lab—four hours. P—CHM 223.

260. Introduction to Inorganic Chemistry. (2h) Introductory thermodynamics; descriptive inorganic and bio-inorganic chemistry. 7.5 weeks. Lab—four hours. P—CHM 230.

301, 302. Elective Research. (0h,0h) P—POI. Summers only.

334. Chemical Analysis. (4h) Theoretical and practical applications of modern methods of chemical analysis. Lab—four hours (CHM 334L). C—CHM 341, 341L, or POI.

*342L. Physical Chemistry IIA Lab. (1h) Lab—four hours. P—CHM 341, Mathematics 111-112, Physics 113-114. C—CHM 342 or 344.

*344. Physical Chemistry IIB. (3h) Fundamentals of quantum mechanics, statistical thermodynamics, and introductory computational methods. Lab—four hours. P—CHM 341, Mathematics 111-112 and 301 (or 113), Physics 113-114. C—CHM 342L, (Physics 114, with POI).

351. Biochemistry: Protein and Nucleic Acid Structure and Function. (3h) Fundamentals of biochemistry with emphasis on how chemical properties dictate structure and function of proteins and nucleic acids; catalytic mechanisms of enzymes and ribozymes; use of sequence and structure databases; molecular basis of drug and toxin action. P—CHM 223.

356, 357. Chemical Spectroscopy. (1.5h, 1.5h) Fundamental aspects of the theory and application of chemical spectroscopy, as found in the areas of analytical, inorganic, organic, and physical chemistry. Emphasis will vary. Seven-week courses. P—CHM 342 or 344, or POI.

*361. Inorganic Chemistry. (3h) Principles and reactions of inorganic chemistry. P—CHM 342 or 344. C—CHM 361L or POI.

*361L. Inorganic Chemistry Lab. (1h) Lab—four hours. P—CHM 342 or 344. C—CHM 361.

381, 382. Chemistry Seminar. (0h, 0h) Discussions of contemporary research. Attendance required of BS chemistry majors in the junior and senior years.

383. Chemical Literature. (1h) Introduction to the chemical literature and searching techniques for the acquisition of chemical information. P—CHM 222 or 223.

391, 392. Undergraduate Research. (1.5h, 1.5h) Undergraduate research. Lab—eight hours.

John L. Andronica, Chair
Professors John L. Andronica, Robert W. Ulery Jr.
Associate Professors Mary L. B. Pendergraft, James T. Powell
Visiting Assistant Professor Jill Chmielewski
Adjunct Instructor Dorothy M. Westmoreland

The Department of Classical Languages offers majors and minors in three areas: Greek, Latin, and classical studies.

A major in Greek requires twenty-four hours in the department beyond Greek 112. Twenty-one of these hours must be in Greek courses; Greek 225 is required. Also required is History 315.

A minor in Greek requires fifteen hours: Greek 153; two 200-level courses in Greek; Classics 275 or History 315; and one additional course in Greek (200-level), Latin, or classics.

A major in Latin requires twenty-four hours in the department beyond Latin 153. Eighteen of these hours must be in Latin courses; Latin 250 is required. Also required is History 316.

A minor in Latin requires fifteen hours: three 200-level courses in Latin; Classics 276 or History 316; and one additional course in Greek, Latin (200-level), or classics.

* The lecture and corresponding lab are strict co-requisites of each other. A student must register for both during the same semester. (However, either can be repeated independently if the student wishes.)
A major in classical studies requires thirty hours. A minimum of twenty-one hours must be taken in the department. The following are required:

a. One 200-level course in Greek or Latin (prerequisites to this course do not count toward the thirty required hours);
b. Classics 275 and Classics 276;
c. History 315 or History 316;
d. At least one course from the following: Art 241 (Ancient Art); Art 244 (Greek Art); Art 245 (Roman Art); History 308 (Alexander the Great); Philosophy 232 (Ancient and Medieval Philosophy); Philosophy 331 (Plato); Philosophy 332 (Aristotle); Politics 271 (Classical Political Thought); Religion 314 (Ancient Israel and Her Neighbors). Other courses may be substituted by permission of the department.

A minor in classical studies requires a minimum of eighteen hours in the department, of which no more than seven may be in Greek or Latin courses. Classics 275 or 276 is required.

The requirements for certification to teach Latin in high school are the same as the requirements for a major in Latin. A major in classical studies may serve as an appropriate part of the program of studies required for certification to teach Latin in high school. A student wishing to secure this certification should confer with the chair of the department.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in Latin, Greek, or classical studies. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Latin,” “Honors in Greek,” or “Honors in Classical Studies,” a student must complete an honors research project and pass a comprehensive oral examination. For honors in Latin or Greek, at least two of the courses counted toward the major must be seminar courses; for honors in classical studies, at least one seminar course in Latin, Greek, or classics is required. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted. (Refer to pages listing minimum college requirements.)

Greek

111, 112. Elementary Greek. (4h,4h) An introduction to the language; the courses provide a foundation for reading the ancient authors.

153. Intermediate Greek. (3h) Review of grammar; readings in classical authors.
P—Greek 112 or equivalent.

211. Plato. (3h) Selections from the dialogues of Plato. P—Greek 153 or equivalent.

212. Homer. (3h) Selections from the Iliad and the Odyssey. P—Greek 153 or equivalent.

221. Greek Readings. (1.5h or 3h) A course designed to meet individual needs and interests. P—POI.

241. Greek Tragedy. (3h) Close study of a selected tragedy or tragedies. This course includes consideration of the origin and history of Greek tragedy, with collateral reading of other tragedies in English translation. Seminar. P—Greek 211, 212, or equivalent.

242. Greek Comedy. (3h) Close study of a selected comedy or comedies of Aristophanes. This course includes consideration of the origin and history of Greek comedy, with collateral reading of other comedies in English translation. Seminar. P—Greek 211, 212, or equivalent.

291, 292. Honors in Greek. (1.5h, 1.5h) Directed research for honors paper. P—Permission of the department.

Latin

111, 112. Elementary Latin. (3h, 3h) An introduction to the language; the courses provide a foundation for reading in the ancient authors.

113. Intensive Elementary Latin. (4h) An introduction to the language; the course covers the material of Latin 111 and 112 in one semester. Not open to students who have had Latin 111 or 112.

120. Reading Medieval Latin. (1.5h, 3h) Introduction to post-classical Latin with readings in selected works from late antiquity and the middle ages. P—Latin 112 or equivalent.

211. Introduction to Latin Poetry. (3h) Readings from selected poets mainly of the late Republic and early Empire, with an introduction to literary criticism. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

212. Introduction to Latin Prose. (3h) Readings primarily from the works of Cicero, with attention to their artistry and historical context. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

216. Roman Lyric Poetry. (3h) An interpretation and evaluation of lyric poetry through readings from the poems of Catullus and Horace. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

218. Roman Epic Poetry. (3h) Readings in the epics of Virgil and Ovid, with attention to their position in the epic tradition. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

221. Roman Historians. (3h) Readings in the works of Sallust, Livy, or Tacitus, with attention to the historical background and the norms of ancient historiography. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

225. Roman Epistolography. (3h) Selected readings from the correspondence of Cicero and Pliny the Younger and the verse epistles of Horace and Ovid. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

226. Roman Comedy. (3h) Readings of selected comedies of Plautus and Terence, with a study of the traditions of comedy and dramatic techniques. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

231. Roman Elegy. (3h) Readings from the poems of Tibullus, Propertius, and Ovid, with study of the elegiac tradition. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.
241. Roman Satire. (3h) Selected readings from Horace and Juvenal, with attention to the origin and development of hexameter satire. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

243. Latin Readings. (1.5h or 3h) A course designed to meet individual needs and interests. P—POI.

250. Advanced Grammar and Composition. (3h) Intensive work in morphology and syntax, with practice in composition and stylistic analysis of selected readings. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

Seminars

The following seminars are offered by members of the faculty on topics and authors of their choice. A paper is required.

260. Seminar in Latin Poetry. (3h) Advanced study in selected authors and topics. A research paper is required. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

280. Seminar in Latin Prose. (3h) Advanced study in selected authors and topics. A research paper is required. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

291, 292. Honors in Latin. (1.5h, 1.5h) Directed research for honors paper. P—Permission of the department.

Classics

151. Ethics in Greece and Rome. (1.5h) Reading and discussion of Aristotle’s Ethics and Cicero’s On Moral Duties, with attention to our own ethical dilemmas. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

252. Women in Antiquity. (3h) The course explores the place of women in Greek and Roman society through the study of a wide range of primary sources, literary and non-literary. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required. (CD)

255. Classical Epic: Iliad, Odyssey, Aeneid. (3h) A study of the three principal epic poems from ancient Greece and Rome. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

259. Virgil and His English Legacy. (3h) A study of Virgil’s Eclogues, Georgics, and selected passages of the Aeneid, and their influence on English literature, using translations and original works by writers of the sixteenth through the eighteenth centuries, including Spenser, Marlowe, Milton, Dryden, and Pope. Knowledge of Latin is not required. Also listed as English 319.

261. Greek Myth. (3h) A consideration, principally through close study of selected literary works, of Greek myth in its various forms, primary (archaic and classical periods) and secondary (Hellenistic and Roman); the course also will consider Greek myth’s afterlife in the modern period. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required.

263. Greek Tragedy. (3h) A study of the plays of Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required.
264. Greek and Roman Comedy. (3h) Representative works of Aristophanes, Menander, Plautus, and Terence, with attention to the origins and development of comedy. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

275. The Age of Pericles. (3h) A study of Greek culture in all its aspects during the fifth century. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required. (CD)

276. The Age of Augustus. (3h) A study of Roman culture in all its aspects during the early Empire. A knowledge of the Latin language is not required. (CD)

279. Studies in Roman Biography. (1.5h or 3h) A study in depth of a key figure of Roman history using the evidence of history, literature, numismatics, and epigraphy as well as art and archeology when appropriate. A knowledge of the Latin language is not required.

285. Interdisciplinary Seminar in the Greco-Roman World. (3h) This seminar is designed specially to meet the needs of students earning the interdisciplinary minor in early Christian studies, but is not limited to them. It will explore from various points of view the culture of the Mediterranean world from which Christianity was born and grew: literature and art, history and economics, religions and philosophies. Also listed on as Religion 285. Course may be repeated for credit.

288. Individual Study. (1.5h or 3h)

291, 292. Honors in Classical Studies. (1.5h, 1.5h) Directed research for honors paper. P—Permission of the department.

Randall Rogan, Chair
University Distinguished Chair in Communication Ethics and Professor of Communication Michael J. Hyde
Professors Michael David Hazen, Jill Jordan McMillan
Associate Professors John T. Llewellyn, Allan D. Louden, Ananda Mitra, Randall Rogan, Eric K. Watts, Margaret D. Zulick
Assistant Professors Mary M. Dalton, Steven M. Giles, Don Helme
Visiting Assistant Professor Deepa Kumar
Adjunct Assistant Professor Dee Oseroff-Varnell

Instructor Ernest S. Jarrett
Adjunct Instructors Wayne R. Bills, Connie Chesner, Susan L. Faust
Debate Coach Ross K. Smith

A major in communication requires thirty hours, at least twelve of which must be at the 300-level. All majors are required to take courses 100, 110 or 102, 220 and 225 and should begin their study of communication with these courses. An overall minimum grade point average of 2.0 in all communication courses attempted is required for graduation.

A minor in communication requires eighteen hours, at least three of which must be at the 300-level, and shall include courses 100, 110 or 102, and 220 or 225. An overall minimum grade point average of 2.0 in all communication courses attempted is required for graduation.

Students may enroll in up to three hours of practicum in any semester. For three hours of internship credit, students need a minimum of 120 on-site contact hours; applications for three hours of practicum in one semester need to be approved by a faculty supervisor, the internship director, and/or the director of undergraduate studies. Students can earn a maximum of six hours practicum, only three hours of which may be counted toward a major in communication. COM 280 and 281 are open to majors and minors only who satisfy departmental requirements.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in communication. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Communication,” students must pass the departmental honors courses (398 and 399), complete a senior research project, and satisfactorily defend their work in an oral examination. For more details, consult faculty members in the department.

Finally, no student may take more than a total of six hours in Communication 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, and 285 combined, and only three hours may count toward a major in communication.

100. Introduction to Communication and Rhetoric. (3h) An introduction to the theories, research, and analysis of verbal and nonverbal processes by which human beings share meanings and influence one another.

110. Public Speaking. (3h) A study of the theory and practice of public address. Lab experiences in the preparation, delivery, and critique of informative and persuasive speeches.

113. Interpersonal Communication. (3h) An introduction to interpersonal communication theory, research and principles.

114. Group Communication. (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of group interaction and decision-making. The course features lectures and discussions of theory and includes opportunities to participate in formal and informal group processes.

116. On-Camera Performance. (3h) Designed to introduce students to the theory and practice of performing for the camera. This course covers basic method acting, newscasting, and other performance formats. Also listed as Theatre 141.

117. Writing for Public Relations and Advertising. (1.5h, 3h) Principles and techniques of public relations and applied advertising. Students use case studies to develop public relations and advertising strategies. Also listed as Journalism 286. P—POI.

140. Information and Disinformation on the Internet. (1.5h) An examination of information gathering practices on the Internet and World Wide Web. Students will develop and apply standards for evaluating information through analysis of Web sites dealing with important and controversial topics.

212. Introduction to Production and Theory. (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of media production, including critical and aesthetic theories, scriptwriting, producing, directing, photography, sound recording, editing, and standards of operation for the production facilities and equipment. This course is a prerequisite for 213, 214, 215 and 310.

213. Media Production: Documentary. (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of producing non-fiction works in film or video, including conventional documentary forms and autobiographical or experimental works. P—COM 212.

214. Media Production: Narrative. (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of producing narrative works in film and video. P—COM 212

215. Broadcast Journalism (3h) An introduction to the theory and practice of broadcast journalism. Topics will include ethics, technology, and the media as industry, and projects will address writing, producing, and performing for radio and television. P—COM 212.

220. Empirical Research in Communication. (3h) An introduction to methodological design and univariate statistics as used in communication research.

225. Historical/Critical Research in Communication. (3h) Introduces students to the historical and critical analysis of rhetoric. Examines current methods of rhetorical criticism with a view to researching and composing a critical paper in the field.

245. Introduction to Mass Communication. (3h) A historical survey of mass media and an examination of major contemporary media issues. Also listed as Journalism 275.

246. Introduction to Film. (3h) An introduction to the aesthetics of motion pictures through a study of the basic elements of film such as cinematography, editing, sound, lighting, color, etc.

270. Special Seminar. (1-3h) An examination of selected topics in communication.

280. Communication Internship I. (1.5h) Individual communication internships to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

281. Communication Internship II. (1.5h) Individual communication internships to be approved, supervised and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

282. Debate Practicum I. (1.5h) Individual projects in debate to be approved, supervised and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

283. Debate Practicum II. (1.5h) Individual projects in debate to be approved, supervised and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

284. Production Practicum I. (1.5h) Individual projects or collaborations with appropriate professionals in media production to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by a faculty advisor. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

285. Production Practicum II. (1.5h) Individual projects or collaborations with appropriate professionals in media production to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by a faculty advisor. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

286. Individual Study. (1-3h) Directed study in an area of interest to be approved and supervised by a faculty adviser. P—POI.
287. Research Practicum I. (1.5) The department offers credit opportunities for students to collaborate with faculty on research projects. This practicum awards credit to students assisting faculty with research initiatives led by the faculty. Such projects may be short term, culminating in presentation or publication, or longitudinal, where the student participates in an on-going effort. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

288. Research Practicum II. (1.5) This practicum awards credits to students assisting faculty with research initiatives led by the faculty. Such projects may be short term, culminating in presentation or publication, or longitudinal, where the student participates in an on-going effort. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

300. Classical Rhetoric. (3h) A study of major writings in Greek and Roman rhetorical theory from the Sophists to Augustine. Offered in alternate years.

301. Semantics and Language in Communication. (3h) A study of how meaning is created by sign processes. Among the topics studied are language theory, semiotics, speech act theory, and pragmatics. Also listed as Linguistics 301.

302. Argumentation Theory. (3h) An examination of argumentation theory and criticism; examines both theoretical issues and social practices. Offered in alternate years.

303S. Directing the Forensic Program. (1.5h, 3h) A pragmatic study of the methods of directing high school and college forensics with work in the High School Debate Workshop. Offered in the summer.

304. Freedom of Speech. (3h) An examination of the philosophical and historical traditions, significant cases, and contemporary controversies concerning freedom of expression. Offered in alternate years.

305. Communication and Ethics. (3h) A study of the role of communication in ethical controversies.

306. Seminar in Rhetorical Theory: Burke & Bakhtin. (3h) Examines the language theories of Kenneth Burke and Mikhail Bakhtin in relation to contemporary rhetorical theory.

310. Advanced Media Production. (3h) Students produce advanced projects in either film or video over which they assume significant creative control. P—COM 212 and at least one of 213, 214, or 215.

311. Film Theory and Criticism. (3h) A study of film aesthetics through an analysis of the work of selected filmmakers and film critics. P—COM 246 or POI.

312. Film History to 1945. (3h) A survey of the developments of motion pictures to 1945. Includes lectures, readings, reports, and screenings.

313. Film History since 1945. (3h) A survey of the development of motion pictures from 1946 to the present day. Includes lectures, readings, reports, and screenings.

314. Mass Communication Theory. (3h) Theoretical approaches to the role of communication in reaching mass audiences and its relationship to other levels of communication. P—COM 245.

315. Communication and Technology. (3h) An exploration of how communication technologies influence the social, political, and organizational practices of everyday life.
316. Screenwriting. (3h) An introduction to narrative theory as well as examination of the role of the screenwriter in the motion picture industry, the influence of film genre on screenwriting, and the politics of nontraditional narrative structures. Students are expected to complete an original, feature-length screenplay.

317. Communication and Popular Culture. (3h) Explores the relationship between contemporary media and popular culture from a cultural studies perspective using examples from media texts.

330. Communication and Conflict. (3h) A review of the various theoretical perspectives on conflict and negotiation as well as methods for managing relational conflict.

335. Survey of Organizational Communication. (3h) An overview of the role of communication in constituting and maintaining the pattern of activities that sustain the modern organization.

336. Organizational Rhetoric. (3h) Explores the persuasive nature of organizational messages—those exchanged between organizational members and those presented in behalf of the organization as a whole. Offered in alternate years.

337. Rhetoric of Institutions. (3h) A study of the communication practices of institutions as they seek to gain and maintain social legitimacy. Offered in alternate years.

338. African-American Rhetoric. (3h) This course explores how African Americans have invented a public voice in the twentieth century. The course focuses on how artistic cultural expression, in particular, has shaped black public speech. (CD)

343. Presidential Rhetoric. (3h) Examines theory and practice of speechmaking and mediated presidential communication.

340. American Rhetorical Movements to 1900. (3h) Examines the interrelation of American rhetorical movements through the nineteenth century by reading and analyzing original speeches and documents with emphasis on antislavery and women’s rights.

341. American Rhetorical Movements since 1900. (3h) Examines the interrelation of American rhetorical movements in the twentieth century by reading and analyzing original speeches and documents. Among the movements addressed are labor, civil rights, student radicals, and women’s liberation.

342. Political Communication. (3h) Study of electoral communication, including candidate and media influences on campaign speeches, debates, and advertising.

350. Intercultural Communication. (3h) An introduction to the study of communication phenomena between individuals and groups with different cultural backgrounds. Offered in alternate years. (CD)

351. Comparative Communication. (1.5h,3h) A comparison of communicative and linguistic processes in one or more national cultures with those of the United States. Also listed as Linguistics 351 and International Studies 349. Credit not given for both COM 351A and International Studies 349. (CD)

351A Japan (CD) 351D Multiple Countries (CD)
351B Russia (CD) 351E China (CD)
351C Great Britain (CD)
352. Interpersonal Seminar. (3h) Advanced study of theories and research in one or more of the specialized concentrations of interpersonal communications.

353. Persuasion. (3h) An examination of theories and research concerning the process of social influence in contemporary society.

354. International Communication. (3h) An in-depth look at the role of mass media in shaping communication between and about cultures using examples from traditional and emerging media systems.

355. Health Communication. (3h) An examination of theories, research, and processes of health communication in contemporary society.

370. Special Topics. (1-3h) An examination of topics not covered in the regular curriculum.

380. Great Teachers. (1h, 1.5h, 3h) An intensive study of the ideas of three noted scholars and teachers in the field of communication. Students will interact with each teacher during a two- to three-day visit to Wake Forest.

398. Honors in Communication I. (1.5h) Intensive research in an area of special interest for selected seniors who wish to graduate with departmental honors. P—Permission of department. Fall semester only.

399. Honors in Communication II. (1.5h) Intensive research in an area of special interest for selected seniors who wish to graduate with departmental honors. P—Permission of department. Spring semester only.

Jennifer J. Burg, Chair
Reynolds Professor Robert J. Plemmons
Reynolds Professor of Computational Biophysics Jacquelyn Fetrow
Associate Professors Jennifer J. Burg, Daniel Cañas, David J. John, Stan J. Thomas, Todd C. Torgersen
Assistant Professors Errin W. Fulp, Paul Hemler, V. Paúl Pauca
Lecturer in Digital Media Yue-Ling Wong
Adjunct Assistant Professor Timothy E. Miller

A major in computer science requires thirty-seven hours in computer science and four courses in mathematics. The courses in computer science must include 111, 112, 211, 221, 222, 231, and 241. The required courses in mathematics are 111, 112, 117, and 121 or 302. Either Mathematics 256 or 357 is also recommended for students considering graduate work in computer science. All students anticipating a major in computer science are encouraged to take Computer Science 111 and the appropriate mathematics courses during their first year of college. Potential majors should consult a major adviser in the department for assistance in planning an appropriate course of study.

A minor in computer science requires four computer science courses of at least three hours each and numbered higher than 101; Mathematics 117; and an additional three hours in mathematics other than Mathematics 105.
A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in computer science courses taken for a major or minor in the department is required for graduation.

Students with a special interest in multimedia development may wish to consider a program of study that combines computer science and digital art. Advisers in either the computer science or the art department can provide further information on coordinating a computer science major with an art minor, or vice versa.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Computer Science,” students must satisfactorily complete a senior research paper and have a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the major and 3.0 in all college course work. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Students who are enrolled at Wake Forest University may not take courses in computer science at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

101. Overview of Computer Science. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. An introduction to the organization and use of computers. Topics include computer architecture, systems, theory, logic, programming, the Internet, multimedia, and ethical, legal, and social issues. Does not count toward the computer science major or minor. Lab—two hours.

111. Introduction to Computer Science. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. A rigorous introduction to the process of algorithmic problem solving and programming in a modern programming language. Recommended as the first course for most computer science majors. Lab—two hours.

112. Fundamentals of Computer Science. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Problem solving and program construction using top-down design, data abstraction, and object-oriented programming. Linear data structures, recursion, and software development tools are introduced. Lab—two hours. P—CSC 111 or POI.

165. Problem Solving Seminar. (1h, P/F) A weekly seminar designed for students to develop their problem solving skills designing and implementing software. Does not count towards the computer science major or minor. May be taken twice. P—CSC 112. Pass/Fail.

191. Special Topics. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Topics in computer science that are not covered in regular courses or that give special practice in skills used in other courses. Not to be counted toward the major or minor in computer science. May be taken more than once if the topic changes.

193. Independent Study. (1h, 2h, or 3h) A course of independent study directed by a faculty adviser, not to be counted toward the computer science major or minor. By prearrangement.

211. Computer Organization. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Computer organization from the perspective of instructions, including the central processor, busses, input and output units, and memory units. A weekly two-hour laboratory covers combinational logic, loaders and linkers, assembly language, address computation, and other architecture-related functions. Lab—two hours. P—CSC 112 and Mathematics 117.

221. Data Structures and Algorithms I. (3h) Study, analysis, and implementation of abstract data structures such as stacks, queues, trees, and graphs. Complexity analysis of algorithms that operate upon these structures. P—CSC 112. C—Mathematics 117.
222. Data Structures and Algorithms II. (3h) A continuation of the study, analysis, and implementation of abstract data structures. The complexity of algorithms is studied more rigorously than in Computer Science 221, and complexity classes are introduced. P—CSC 221 and Mathematics 111. (QR)

231. Programming Languages. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. A comparative study of programming language paradigms, including imperative languages, functional programming, logic programming, and object-oriented programming. Syntax, semantics, parsing, grammars, and issues in language design are covered. Lab—two hours. P—CSC 112 and Mathematics 117.

241. Computer Systems. (3h) Introduction to concepts of operating systems and networks including processor and memory management, concurrency, and protocol independent data communications. P—CSC 211 and 221.

311. Computer Architecture. (3h) An in-depth study of computer system and architecture design. Topics include processor design, memory hierarchy, external storage devices, interface design, and parallel architectures. P—CSC 211.

321. Database Management Systems. (3h) An introduction to large-scale database management systems. Topics include data independence, database models, query languages, security, integrity, and concurrency. P—CSC 221.

331. Object-Oriented Software Engineering. (3h) A study of software design and implementation from an object-oriented perspective, covering abstraction, encapsulation, data protection, inheritance, composition, polymorphism, and dynamic vs. static binding. Students practice software engineering principles through team projects. P—CSC 221 and 231.

333. Principles of Compiler Design. (3h) A study of techniques for compiling computer languages including scanning, parsing, translating, and generating and optimizing code. P—CSC 211 and 221.

341. Operating Systems. (3h) The study of the different modules that compose a modern operating system. In-depth study of concurrency, processor management, memory management, file management, and security. P—CSC 241.

343. Internet Protocols. (3h) The study of wide area connectivity through interconnection networks. Emphasis will be placed on Internet architecture and protocols. Topics include addressing, routing, multicasting, quality of service, and network security. P—CSC 241.

346. Parallel Computation. (3h) A study of hardware and software issues in parallel computing. Topics include a comparison of parallel architectures and network topologies, and an introduction to parallel algorithms, languages, programming, and applications. P—CSC 222 and 241.

352. Numerical Linear Algebra. (3h) Numerical methods for solving matrix and related problems in science and engineering. Topics will include systems of linear equations, least squares methods, and eigenvalue computations. Special emphasis given to parallel matrix computations. Beginning knowledge of a programming language such as Pascal, FORTRAN, or C is required. Credit is not allowed for both Mathematics 326 and Computer Science 352. P—CSC 111 and Mathematics 112, and Mathematics 121 or 302.
355. Introduction to Numerical Methods. (3h) Numerical computations on modern computer architectures; floating-point arithmetic and round-off error. Programming in a scientific/engineering language such as MATLAB, C, or FORTRAN. Algorithms and computer techniques for the solution of problems such as roots of functions, approximation, integration, systems of linear equations, and least squares methods. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 355 and Computer Science 355. P—CSC 111 and Mathematics 121 or 302.

361. Digital Media. (3h) An introduction to digital media covering multimedia file formats, data encoding and compression, multimedia network issues, streaming data, resolution and color representation, markup languages, and multimedia programming tools. P—CSC 221 and Mathematics 111.

363. Computer Graphics. (3h) A study of software and hardware techniques in computer graphics. Topics include line and polygon drawing, hidden line and surface techniques, transformations, and ray tracing. P—CSC 221 and Mathematics 121 or 302.

365. Image Processing Fundamentals. (3h) A study of the basic theory and algorithms for image enhancement, restoration, segmentation, and analysis. P—CSC 221 and Mathematics 121 or 302.

371. Artificial Intelligence. (3h) An introduction to problems in artificial intelligence. Knowledge representation and heuristic search in areas such as planning, machine learning, pattern recognition, and theorem proving. P—CSC 222.

385. Bioinformatics. (3h) An introduction to bioinformatics and computing techniques essential to current biomedical research. Topics will include genome and protein sequence and protein structure databases, algorithms for bioinformatics research, and computer architecture and environment considerations. Also listed as Physics 327. P—CSC 112 or POI.

391. Selected Topics. (1h-3h) Topics in computer science that are not studied in regular courses or which further examine topics covered in regular courses. P—POI.

393. Individual Study. (1h, 2h, or 3h) A course of independent study directed by a faculty adviser. By prearrangement. No more than 3 hours may be counted towards the computer science major. Not to be counted towards the minor in computer science.
The Department of Counseling offers most courses at the graduate level. The following course is the only course currently offered at the undergraduate level.

102. Career Planning. (3h) Examination of educational/vocational planning as a personal process, based on knowledge of self and the work world.

Cultural Resource Preservation (CRP)
Assistant Professor of Anthropology Paul Thacker, Coordinator

The Departments of Anthropology, Art, History, and Sociology offer an interdisciplinary minor in cultural resource preservation (CRP) which will give students preliminary training in the field of historic preservation and cultural resource management aimed at the protection and enhancement of archeological, historical, and architectural resources.

The minor requires History 366, Studies in Historic Preservation (3h), and four other courses for a total of fifteen hours. These fifteen hours must be distributed among at least three departments. The following courses may be included in the minor. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Anthropology
- 112. Introduction to Archeology. (3h)
- 305. Museum Anthropology. (3h)
- 370. Old World Prehistory. (3h)
- 374. Prehistory of North America. (3h)
- 378. Conservation Archeology. (1.5h)
- 381, 382. Archeological Research. (3h,3h)

Art
- 233. American Architecture. (3h)
- 275. History of Landscape Architecture. (3h)
- 288. Modern Architecture. (3h)
- 293. Practicum. (3h)

History
- 381, 382. Preservation Practicum I, II. (3h,3h)
- 398. Individual Study. (1h,1.5h,2h,3h)
Sociology 151. Principles of Sociology. (3h)
    (May count as a Division IV requirement.)
205. Photography in the Social Sciences. (3h)

Students intending to minor in Cultural Resource Preservation should consult the adviser appointed from one of the participating departments and listed with the registrar.
Students are strongly urged to consult the adviser during the first semester of their junior year. Equivalent courses must be approved by the adviser.

Early Christian Studies

Associate Professor of Classical Languages Mary Pendergraft and Professor of Religion Kenneth G. Hoglund, Coordinators

The interdisciplinary minor in early Christian studies currently requires eighteen hours.

A. The student must take the following courses:

| Religion       | 321. Introduction to the New Testament. (3h) or 324. Early Christian Literature. (3h) |
| Classics       | 276. The Age of Augustus. (3h) |
| Classics/Religion | 285. Interdisciplinary Seminar in the Greco-Roman World. (3h) |

B. The student must take three additional courses (nine additional hours), with no more than one course (three hours) from any one department, from the following list:

| Art            | 241. Ancient Art. (3h)  |
|                | 244. Greek Art. (3h)    |
|                | 245. Roman Art. (3h)    |
|                | 296. Art History Seminar. (1.5h, 3h)  a. Ancient Art / b. Medieval Art |
| Greek          | 231. The Greek New Testament. (3h) |
| History        | 315. Greek History. (3h) |
|                | 316. Rome: Republic & Empire. (3h) |
| Philosophy     | 232. Ancient and Medieval Philosophy. (3h) |
|                | 331. Plato. (3h)         |
|                | 332. Aristotle. (3h)     |
| Religion       | 261. Foundations of Traditional Judaism. (1.5h) |
|                | 319. Visions of the End: Jewish and Christian Apocalyptic. (3h) |
|                | 320. The Search for Jesus. (3h) |
|                | 321. Introduction to the New Testament (3h) |
|                | 322. The General Epistles. (3h) |
|                | 323. The Parables of Jesus. (3h) |
|                | 324. Early Christian Literature. (3h) |
326. Early Christian Theologians: Paul. (3h)
327. The Story of Jesus. (3h)
328. The New Testament and Ethics. (3h)

East Asian Languages and Cultures (EAL)

David P. Phillips, Chair
Associate Professors Patrick Moran, David P. Phillips
Assistant Professor Yaohua Shi
Lecturer Yasuko T. Rollings
Instructor Grace Ku

The major in East Asian languages and cultures requires, in addition to language proficiency at the level of Chinese 211 or Japanese 211, nine three-credit-hour courses in language and culture and related courses. Study abroad in Japan, China, or Taiwan is also required. Under special circumstances, a student may substitute an approved intensive immersion program in the United States for the study abroad requirement, with permission of the department chair. Majors may concentrate in Chinese language, Chinese language and literature, Japanese language, or Japanese language and literature. A minimum “C” average is required for all courses in the major.

The major in East Asian languages and cultures requires five core courses: three advanced language courses (CHI 220, CHI 230, and CHI 299 taken abroad or JPN 220, JPN 230, and JPN 299 taken abroad), an introduction to East Asian history and culture (HST 385), and an independent research project (EAL 300).

Majors concentrating in either Chinese or Japanese language must take, in addition, four elective courses outside their area of concentration; up to two elective courses may be in the other East Asian languages. Majors concentrating in either Chinese or Japanese language and literature must take, in addition, three literature courses (EAL/HMN 219, EAL/HMN 221, CHI 350, or JPN 350) and one elective course outside East Asian languages and cultures.

East Asian languages and cultures offers minors in Chinese language and in Japanese language. The common requirements for these minors are as follows: six hours in the language beyond the 211 level. Three of these hours should be in an advanced conversation class, either as 220, an independent study, or an equivalent course in an approved language program in China or Japan. Minor candidates are also required to participate in a semester educational exchange program in China or Japan, either through the SASASAAS program in Beijing, the Wake Forest University program at Kansai Gaidai in Japan, or in other overseas study programs in China, Taiwan, or Japan approved by East Asian languages and cultures.

Requests for exceptions to the stated curriculum should be made to the department chair. Elective courses should be selected from an approved list in the department chair’s office. More specific descriptions of the four concentrations and possible course sequences are also available there.
East Asian Languages and Cultures (EAL)

219. Introduction to Japanese Literature. (3h) Major works of poetry, drama, and fiction from the classical and modern periods. Satisfies a Division II requirement. Also listed as Humanities 219.

East Asian Studies (EAS)

Associate Professor of East Asian Languages and Cultures David P. Phillips, Coordinator

The minor in East Asian Studies provides an opportunity for students to undertake a multidisciplinary study of the art, history, philosophy, politics, religion, and culture of East Asia. It consists of a total of eighteen hours. Candidates for the minor are required to take at least one course from three of the four curriculum groupings noted below. (See course descriptions under appropriate course listings.) Nine or more of the hours towards the minor must focus on a geographical area—South Asia, Japan, China, or Southeast Asia.

Appropriate credit in various fields of East Asian studies also may be obtained by study abroad in programs approved by the coordinator. Interested students are encouraged, preferably in their sophomore year, to consult with the coordinator or an affiliated adviser to discuss their interests and structure a coherent course of study. Courses may be chosen from among the following list of approved courses.

311. Special Topics in East Asian Studies. (1-3h) An intensive survey of one or more important issues in East Asian studies not included in the regular course offerings. P—POI.

381. Independent Research in East Asian Studies. (1-3h) Supervised independent research project on a topic related to East Asia. P—Permission of both instructor and coordinator of East Asian Studies. May be repeated for credit.

Economics (ECN)
Allin F. Cottrell, Chair
Archie Carroll Professor of Ethical Leadership John C. Moorhouse
Reynolds Professor John H. Wood
Professors Allin F. Cottrell, Donald E. Frey, Claire H. Hammond, J. Daniel Hammond, Michael S. Lawlor, Perry L. Patterson McCulloch Family Fellow and Associate Professor Jac C. Heckelman
Associate Professor Sylvain H. Boko, Robert M. Whaples
Assistant Professor Frederick H. Chen
Instructor Richard DePolt

The objectives of the economics program are to help prepare students for effective participation in the decision-making processes of society, to develop analytical skills in solving economic problems, to promote a better understanding of alternative economic systems, and to provide a balanced curriculum to prepare students for graduate study or positions in industry and government.

The major in economics consists of twenty-seven hours in economics, including Economics 150, 201, 205, 206, 207, and at least one course from Economics 211, 222, 252 or 274. A minimum grade of C is required in Economics 150 and 201, and a minimum of C- in Economics 205 and 207; in addition, students must achieve an overall 2.0 average in economics courses. The student also must make a minimum grade of C in either Mathematics 106 or 111 and Mathematics 109 (or similar course with permission of department chair).

The minor in economics consists of eighteen hours, including Economics 150, 205, and 207. The mathematics and minimum grade requirements for the minor are the same as for the major.
Economics majors are encouraged to take complementary courses in mathematics, the humanities, or other social sciences to sharpen their analytical skills and to acquire a broader understanding of important issues. The faculty adviser will assist each student in determining the particular combination of courses that satisfies his or her needs.

Students may graduate with “Honors in Economics” if they have a grade point average of at least 3.0 and 3.3 in economics, and earn a minimum grade of B- in the research course, Economics 298. It is recommended that Economics 297 be taken as preparation for 298.

The Department of Economics and the Department of Mathematics offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical economics. This interdisciplinary program, consisting of no more than forty-five hours, affords the student an opportunity to apply mathematical methods to the development of economic theory, models, and quantitative analysis. The major consists of the following course requirements: Economics 150, 205, 207, 210, 211, 215, 218; Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 254, 255; and three additional courses chosen with the approval of the program advisers. Students electing the joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Economics and the Department of Mathematics. A minimum grade average of C in all courses attempted for the mathematical economics joint major is required for graduation.

Highly qualified majors are encouraged to apply for admission to the honors program in the joint major. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Mathematical Economics,” a student must satisfy the requirements of Economics 298 or Mathematics 381 by successfully completing a senior research project. Consult the program advisers for additional information.

150. Introduction to Economics. (3h) A survey of micro and macroeconomic principles. Introduction to basic concepts, characteristic data and trends, and some analytic techniques. Preference in enrollment will be given to students with sophomore or upperclass standing.

201. Economic Data Analysis. (1.5h) A computer-oriented introduction to the gathering, presentation, and analysis of economic data. P—ECN 150.

210. Microeconomic Models. (1.5h) Development of formal models of consumer behavior, choice under risk, the firm, and demand and supply. Static and dynamic properties of the models are explored. P—ECN 205 and Mathematics 111.
211. Macroeconomic Models. (1.5h) Development of formal Keynesian, post-Keynesian, monetarist, and new classical macro models. Static and dynamic properties of the models are explored. P—ECN 207 and Mathematics 111.

215. Introduction to Econometrics. (3h) Economic analysis through quantitative methods, with emphasis on model construction and empirical research. P—ECN 150 and Mathematics 109 or 256.

216. Game Theory. (3h) An introduction to mathematical models of social and strategic interactions. P—ECN 205 and Mathematics 109 or 113.

218. Seminar in Mathematical Economics. (3h) Calculus and matrix methods used to develop basic tools of economic analysis. P—ECN 205, 207 and Mathematics 111, 112.

219. Decision Analysis. (3h) The theory and practice of decision making under uncertainty. Applications and examples are drawn from realms of personal, legal, business, medical, and environmental decision making. P—ECN 150 and Mathematics 109.

221. Public Finance. (3h) An examination of the economic behavior of government. Includes principles of taxation, spending, borrowing, and debt-management. P—ECN 205.

222. Monetary Theory and Policy. (3h) An investigation of the nature of money, the macroeconomic significance of money, financial markets, and monetary policy. P—ECN 207.

224. Law and Economics. (3h) An economic analysis of property, contracts, torts, criminal behavior, due process, and law enforcement. P—ECN 205.

225. Public Choice. (3h) Traditional tools of economic analysis are employed to explore such topics in political science as political organization, elections, coalition formation, the optimal provision of public goods, and the scope of government. P—ECN 205 and 207.

231. Economics of Industry. (3h) Analysis of the link between market structure and market performance in United States industries from theoretical and empirical viewpoints. Examines the efficiency of mergers, cartels, and other firm behaviors. Case studies may include automobiles, steel, agriculture, computers, sports, and telecommunications. P—ECN 205.

232. Antitrust Economics. (1.5h, 3h) Analysis of the logic and effectiveness of public policies designed to promote competition in the United States. P—ECN 150 and 205.

235. Labor Economics. (3h) A theoretical and empirical survey of labor markets. Topics include: the demand and supply of labor, compensating wage differentials, education and training, discrimination, unions, public sector employment, earnings inequality, and unemployment. P—ECN 205.

240. Economics of Health and Medicine. (3h) Applications of the methods of economic analysis to the study of the health care industry. P— or C—ECN 205 and (choose one):

246. Urban Economics. (3h) Theoretical and empirical study of the city as an economic entity, with attention to land-use patterns and prices, urban decay and redevelopment, suburbanization, housing, and city finance. P—ECN 150.

251. International Trade. (3h) Development of the theory of international trade patterns and prices and the effects of trade restrictions such as tariffs and quotas. P—ECN 205.

253. Economics in Transition. (3h) A theoretical and institutional examination of historically socialist nations and the dilemmas of transition. Special reference to the former Soviet Union. P—ECN 150.

254. Current Issues in African Development. (3h) A theoretical and practical study of the main economic, political and institutional dilemmas faced by African countries in the course of economic development. Summer study abroad class taught in Benin, West Africa. P—POI.

258. Economic Growth and Development. (3h) A study of the problems of economic growth, with particular attention to the less developed countries of the world. P—ECN 205 or POI.

261. American Economic Development. (3h) The application of economic theory to historical problems and issues in the American economy. P—ECN 150.

262. History of Economic Thought. (3h) A historical survey of the main developments in economic thought from the Biblical period to the twentieth century. P—ECN 205 and 207.

265. Economic Philosophers. (1.5h, 3h) An in-depth study of the doctrines and influence of up to three major figures in economics, such as Smith, Marx, and Keynes. P—ECN 205 and 207.

268. Morals and Markets. (3h) Historical survey of individualistic ethical values that have accompanied the development of market economics in the West. Considers critiques of, and alternatives to, these values. P—ECN 150.

297. Preparing for Economic Research. (1.5h) Designed to assist students in selecting a research topic and beginning the study of the selected topic. P—POI.

Education (EDU)

Joseph O. Milner, Chair
Wake Forest Professor Patricia M. Cunningham
Professor Emeritus John H. Litcher
Professors Robert H. Evans, Joseph O. Milner, Linda N. Nielsen
Associate Professors Leah P. McCoy, Mary Lynn B. Redmond, Loraine M. Stewart
Assistant Professors R. Scott Baker, Ann C. Cunningham, Raymond C. Jones
Adjunct Assistant Professors Karen Hudson, Rebeca Shore
Instructors Jeanie Marklin, Tracy Wilson

Wake Forest University believes that the teaching profession is important to society and that its welfare is significantly affected by the quality of educational leadership. One of the important objectives of the University has been and continues to be the preparation of teachers. The University’s commitment to quality in teacher education is demonstrated by selective admission to the program, a wide range of professional courses, and closely supervised internships appropriate to the professional development of students. The Wake Forest education programs are fully accredited by NCATE (National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education) and by the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

Prospective elementary and secondary social studies teachers earn licensure in those broad areas and major in education. Prospective secondary teachers of English, Latin, mathematics, science, and prospective K-12 teachers of foreign languages major in that discipline and minor in education. A minor in secondary social studies education is also available. In addition to the professional program, the department provides elective courses open to all students.

Teacher Licensure. The state of North Carolina issues the Professional Class A Teacher’s License to graduates who have completed an approved program including the specified courses in their teaching fields and the prescribed courses in education, who have demonstrated specific competencies, and who receive recommendations from the designated officials in their teaching areas and from the licensure officer.

Students who have graduated from an institution of higher education but have not completed an approved licensure program may seek admission to the department in order to complete the Class A License.

Students who wish to prepare for teaching at the secondary level but are unable to devote a semester to student teaching can earn a non-license minor. This minor will ease attainment of a lateral entry teaching position.

Admission Requirements. Admission involves filing an official application with the department’s licensure officer, being interviewed, and being officially approved by the department. In addition, the state of North Carolina requires teacher education program applicants to successfully complete the Praxis I before being formally admitted.

All students are required to have a 2.5 or better grade point average before being formally accepted in the Teacher Education Program. Formal acceptance into the program should take place by June 1 of the junior year for secondary students and by January 1 of the junior year for elementary students.

Program Area Goals. The goals and objectives for each licensure area are available in the office of the Department of Education.

Course Requirements. The approved program of teacher education requires candidates to complete successfully a series of professional education courses. The exact sequence of professional and academic courses varies with a student’s particular program and is determined by the adviser in conference with the candidate. For those seeking secondary licensure, the majority of the professional work is taken during one semester of the senior year. Candidates for the elementary license typically begin course work required for licensure during the sophomore year.

Student Teaching. Prerequisites for registering for student teaching include (1) senior, graduate, or special student classification; (2) completion of Methods and Materials, Educational Technology, Educational Psychology, and the Foundations of Education courses; and (3) formal admission to the teacher education program.

Students are assigned to student-teaching opportunities by public school officials on the basis of available positions and the professional needs of the student and the public school system. One semester of the senior year is reserved for the student-teaching experience. Students may not take courses outside the education department during this semester without the approval of the department chair.

Exit Requirements. Students must maintain at least a 2.5 grade point average while enrolled in the teacher education program and complete the program with a minimum grade point average of 2.5. The state of North Carolina requires candidates for professional licensure in elementary education to successfully complete the appropriate Praxis II Subject Assessment Exam(s).
Teaching Area Requirements

Secondary Licensure

Junior Year: EDU 201 and 311
Senior Year: EDU 354, 307; 364, 374 and 381

English—Thirty hours, including English 287, 323, and 390 or its equivalent. A course in world literature is also required.

French—Licensure in K-12 in French: A minimum of nine three-hour French courses numbered above French 213. French 215, 216, 219, 220, 222, 370, one of the genre courses (363, 364, or 365), and two additional advanced level courses are required.

Spanish—Licensure in K-12 in Spanish: A minimum of nine three-hour Spanish courses numbered above Spanish 213. Spanish 217, 218, 219, 220, 322, plus three advanced courses in literature, of which one must be in Spanish literature and one in Spanish-American literature, are required.

German—Licensure in K-12 in German: A minimum of twenty-eight hours beyond German 112 or 113. These must include German 217; 218, 219, 220, or 221; at least one course from among the sequence 249, 281, 285, and 300.

Latin—The requirements are the same as those for the major in Latin.

Mathematics—Thirty-two hours, including Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 221, 331, 357, (211 or 311), and two other courses beyond 113.

Science—Licensure in the individual fields of science: biology (thirty-five hours), chemistry (forty-four hours for BA), and physics (twenty-eight hours). All courses must be from the same courses required for majors in those fields.

Social Studies—Thirty hours, including eighteen hours in history and twelve hours from four other social sciences. History hours include six hours from European or world history, six hours from U.S. history, and six hours from nonwestern history. The twelve additional hours come from one course each in economics, geography, political science, and anthropology or sociology.

Education courses required for a secondary license include Education 201, 307, 311, 354, 364, 374, and 381.

Elementary Licensure

A major in elementary education requires thirty-six hours including Education 201, 202, 203, 221, 222, 250, 293, 294, 295, 296, 298, 307, 311, and 382. In addition to or as part of lower division requirements, all education majors must have taken at least one course in biology, one course in mathematics, one course in art or music, and Psychology 151.

Sophomore or Junior Year: EDU 201 and 202
Junior Year: EDU 311, 203, 221, 295, 296, 298 and 307
Senior Year: EDU 222, 293, 294, 382 and 350
Education Minors

The minor in professional education requires Education 201, 307, 311, 354, 364, 374, 381, and is awarded only to students who complete student teaching. The non-license minor, which does not include student teaching, requires all of the coursework required for the minor and a major in one of the secondary license areas.

131. Adolescent Literature. (2h) A study of recent fiction centering on the lives of adolescents. Attention is given to interpretation of literature ranging from the reader response approach to critical pluralism. By placement only.

201. Foundations of Education. (3h) Philosophical, historical and sociological foundations of education, including analysis of contemporary issues and problems. Includes twenty hours field experience if not taken concurrently with Education 202. P—POI. (CD)

202. Field Experience One. (1h) Practical experiences in classrooms. Weekly public school experience and seminar. Should be taken concurrently with Education 201. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

203. Field Experience Two. (1h) Teaching experiences in classrooms in a diverse school environment. Weekly school participation and seminar. P—EDU 201 and 202 and POI. Pass/Fail only.

221. Children’s Literature. (1h) A survey of the types and uses of literature appropriate for elementary grades, including multicultural literature.

222. Integrating the Arts and Movement into the Elementary Curriculum. (2h) A survey of the materials, methods, and techniques of integrating the arts and physical development into the elementary curriculum. P—POI.

223. Theater in Education. (3h) Practical experience for theatre and education students to work together with children in the classroom using theatre to teach core curriculum. Emphasis on methods and techniques as well as the development and implementation of creative lesson plans. Weekly public school teaching experience and seminar. Also listed as Theatre 270.

231. Adolescent Literature. (3h) A study of recent fiction centering on the lives of adolescents. Attention is given to interpretation of literature ranging from the reader response approach to critical pluralism.

271. Geography: The Human Environment. (3h) A survey of the geography of human activity as it occurs throughout the world. Emphasis is placed on current problems related to population, resources, regional development, and urbanization. Credit not allowed for both Education 271 and 274.

272. Geography Study Tour. (3h) A guided tour of selected areas to study physical, economic, and cultural environments and their influence on man. Background references for reading are suggested prior to the tour. Offered in the summer.
273. Geography: The Natural Environment. (3h) A systematic study of the major components of physical geography with special emphasis on climate and topography.

274. Environmental Geography. (3h) A systematic study of major environmental issues on a global scale with an exploration of implications and possible solutions. Credit not allowed for both Education 274 and 271.

281. Public Life and the Liberal Arts. (3h) The course will be devoted to topics of abiding significance. Fundamental dilemmas and resolutions associated with each topic will be examined through a consideration of their treatment in the liberal arts tradition. Politics and the Arts, and Theory and Practice in Public Life are representative topics.

293. Elementary School Curriculum. (3h) General principles of curriculum and teaching methods, including adaptations for exceptional learners of all types and integration among all curriculum areas. P—POI.

294. Teaching Elementary Language Arts. (3h) Methods and materials for teaching language arts, including adaptations for diverse and exceptional learners. P—POI.

295. Teaching Elementary Social Studies in a Pluralistic Society. (3h) Methods and materials for teaching social studies, including adaptations for diverse and exceptional learners. P—POI.

296. Teaching Elementary Mathematics. (3h) Methods and materials for teaching mathematics, including adaptations for diverse and exceptional learners. P—POI.

297. Trends and Issues in American Schools. (1h) An exploration of contemporary trends and issues as they affect course content and teaching methods in the schools. The course is intended to help those not entering professional education evaluate their schools as informed citizens and decision-makers.

298. Teaching Elementary Science. (3h) Methods and materials for teaching science, including adaptations for diverse and exceptional learners. P—POI.

303. History of Western Education. (3h) Educational theory and practice from ancient times through the modern period, including American education.

304. Theories of Education. (3h) Contemporary proposals for educational theory and practice studied in the context of social issues.

305. The Sociology of Education. (3h) A study of contemporary educational institutions. This course examines such issues as school desegregation, schooling and social mobility, gender equity, and multiculturalism.

307. Technology in Education. (3h) An introduction to the use of computers in education. Includes use of Internet, software, and hardware, including multimedia, to meet instructional goals. P—EDU 203.

308. School and Society. (3h) A study of continuity and change in educational institutions, including analysis of teachers, students, curriculum, evaluation, contemporary problems, and reform movements. P—EDU 201 or introductory course in history or social science.

354. Methods and Materials. (3h) Methods, materials, and techniques used in teaching particular secondary subjects (English, mathematics, science, second languages, social studies). Includes forty-hour field experience component. P—EDU 201.

358. Studies in Contemporary Leadership. (3h) An examination of contemporary leadership theory and its various applications in society. Students engage in practical leadership exercises, read on a variety of leadership topics, and develop their own philosophy of leadership. A twenty-five contact hour internship is required.

362. Field Experience One. (1h) Practical experiences in elementary or secondary classrooms. Weekly public school participation and seminar. Pass/Fail only.

364. Secondary Student Teaching. (9h) Supervised teaching experience in grades 9-12 (K-12 for foreign language). Full-time, fifteen-week field experience. P—POI.

374. Student Teaching Seminar. (1.5h) Analysis and discussion of problems and issues in the teaching of particular secondary subjects (English, mathematics, science, second languages, social studies). Emphasis on the application of effective instructional methods and materials.

381. Special Needs Seminar. (1.5h) Analysis and discussion of practical problems and issues in the teaching of special needs students in the secondary classroom. Topics include classroom management, reading and writing in the content area, inclusion, diversity, and evaluation.

382. Teaching Elementary Reading. (3h) Methods and materials for teaching reading, including adaptations for diverse and exceptional learners. P—POI.

387. Tutoring Writing. (1.5h) Introduction to composition theory and rhetoric with a special emphasis on one-to-one tutoring techniques. Students will analyze their own writing process and experiences, study modern composition theory, and practice tutoring techniques in keeping with these theories. Strongly recommended for those interested in working in the Writing Center as peer tutors. A student may not receive credit for both Education 387 and English 287.

390. Methods and Materials for Teaching Foreign Languages (K-6). (3h) A survey of the basic materials, methods, and techniques of teaching foreign languages in the elementary and middle grades. Emphasis is placed on issues and problems involved in planning and implementing effective second language programs in grades K-6.

391. Teaching the Gifted. (3h) An investigation of theory and practice pertinent to teachers of the gifted.

392. The Psychology of the Gifted Child. (3h) A discussion of giftedness and creativity in children and the relationship of those characteristics to adult superior performance. Topics to be covered include a history of the study of precocity, methods and problems of identification, the relationship of giftedness and creativity, personality characteristics and social-emotional problems of gifted children, and the social implications of studying giftedness.

393. Individual Study. (1h,3h) A project in an area of study not otherwise available in the Department of Education. Permitted upon departmental approval of petition presented by a qualified student.

394. Internship in Education of the Gifted. (3h) An intensive period of observation and instruction of gifted students. Readings and directed reflection upon the classroom experience will be used to develop a richer understanding of such a special school setting.

395. Teaching Exceptional Students. (2h) An introduction to understanding exceptional students and effective teaching strategies for their inclusion in the regular classroom.

396. Education in Business and Industry. (3h) Educational concepts applied to programs in education and training in business/industrial settings.

397. Research and Trends in the Teaching of Foreign Languages. (3h) A study of current trends and issues in foreign language education. Research topics include language and linguistics, culture, and technology.
The major in English requires a minimum of thirty hours, at least twenty-four hours of which must be in advanced language and literature courses numbered 300 to 399. The remaining six hours may consist of English 160/165 and 170/175 or of one of those plus an additional 300-level language and literature course. Majors are not required to take both 160/165 and 170/175, but one of these courses must be taken as a prerequisite for any 300-level course. English 111, the basic writing requirement, cannot be counted for credit toward the major or minor in English; likewise, it cannot be counted as a substitute for the 160/170 English literature divisional requirement. No 200-level courses can count toward the major without special permission of the department. The advanced courses for the major must include Shakespeare, two additional courses in British literature before 1800, one course in American literature, and a major seminar, English 300, which must be taken no later than the spring semester of the junior year. All English majors, except late declarees, must pre-register in the spring of their sophomore year for the major seminar. No more than two advanced writing courses (383/384, 398, and 399) may be counted toward the major. Majors and their advisers plan individual programs to meet these requirements and to include work in the major literary genres. No more than two courses (6 hours) taken elsewhere may be counted toward the twenty-four hours of 300-level English courses required for the major, with individual petitions to be made for possible exceptions. This limitation applies to courses taught in approved non-Wake Forest programs, not to courses in programs offered or sponsored by Wake Forest.

A minimum grade-point average of 2.0 in courses which comprise a major or minor in the department is required for graduation with any major or minor this department offers.
A minor in English requires English 160 or 165 and English 170 or 175, plus fifteen hours in advanced language and literature courses. Each minor will be assigned an adviser in the English department who will plan a program of study with the student. No more than one course (3 hours) taken elsewhere may be counted toward the fifteen hours of 300-level English courses required for the minor, with individual petitions to be made for possible exceptions. This limitation applies to courses taught in approved non-Wake Forest programs, not to courses in programs offered or sponsored by Wake Forest.

Highly qualified majors recommended by the English faculty are invited to apply to the honors program in English during the second semester of their junior year. To graduate with “Honors in English,” students must have a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the major and 3.2 in all course work and must satisfy the requirements of the program by completing English 388 during their senior year. Interested students may consult the director of the English honors program for further information.

The prerequisite for all 300-level courses in English is any one of the courses in British and American literature numbered 160, 165, 170, and 175, all of which are offered each semester. Additional courses in journalism and writing are offered by the department as related subjects but do not count toward an English major or minor; they may be taken as electives regardless of the field of study in which a student majors. English 111, AP score of 4 or 5, or exemption by the department is a prerequisite for any English course above 111. Students enrolled at Wake Forest may take no more than one of the Division II, Category 1 and 2 courses elsewhere (either British or American literature but not both). This limitation applies to courses taught in approved non-Wake Forest programs, not to courses in programs offered or sponsored by Wake Forest.

Lower Division Courses

Environmental Program (ENV)

Professor of Biology Robert A. Browne, Director

Interdisciplinary Minor in Environmental Science

The Wake Forest environmental program offers an environmental science or an environmental studies minor. The environmental program provides an interdisciplinary approach to the study of human-environmental interaction. The program seeks to identify and apply perspectives from biology, chemistry, physics, geography, English, government, economics, history, law, ethics, and anthropology to the human impact on the natural environment. The environmental science or the environmental studies minor, coupled with a liberal arts major, is designed to prepare students for careers in the environmental sciences, law, public health, public policy, and public administration, and to develop attitudes and values consistent with a sustainable environmental future.

The following courses are required for the environmental science minor: (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Environmental Program 201. Environmental Issues. (3h)
Chemistry/Physics 120. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h)
Economics 241. Natural Resource Economics. (3h)

A total of eighteen hours (including eight hours of elective courses) is required for the minor. The following courses can serve as electives for the environmental science minor:
(See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Biology 340. Ecology. (4h)
341. Marine Biology. (4h)
342. Aquatic Ecology. (4h)
343. Tropical Ecology. (3h)
347. Physiological Plant Ecology. (3h)
349S. Tropical Biodiversity. (4h)
350. Conservation Biology. (3h)
377. Community Ecology. (4h)
385. Oceanography. (3h)
386. Practical Oceanography. (4h)

Chemistry 334. Chemical Analysis. (4h)

Environmental 250. Nautical Sciences. (3h)
391. Independent Study. (1.5h)

Interdisciplinary Minor in Environmental Studies

The following courses are required for the environmental studies minor: (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Environmental Program 201. Environmental Issues. (3h)
Anthropology 339. Culture and Nature. (3h)
Economics 241. Natural Resource Economics. (3h)

A total of eighteen hours (including nine hours of elective courses) is required for the minor. The following courses can serve as electives for the environmental studies minor:
(See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Biology 237. Plants and People. (3h)
340. Ecology. (4h)
341. Marine Biology. (4h)
342. Aquatic Ecology. (4h)
343. Tropical Ecology. (3h)
Biology (cont.)
- 347. Physiological Plant Ecology. (3h)
- 349S. Tropical Biodiversity. (4h)
- 350. Conservation Biology. (3h)
- 377. Community Ecology. (4h)
- 385. Oceanography. (3h)

Philosophy
- 120. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h)

Religion
- 304. Religion, Ecology, and Global Health. (3h)

201. Environmental Issues. (3h)
Topics include environmental literature, environmental history, human populations, resource management, pollution, global change, and environmental ethics.

250. Nautical Sciences (3h)
Provides the theoretical background necessary for operating vessels at sea. In lectures, lab sessions, field trips, and student projects, Sea Education Association captains introduce the principles fundamental to sailing vessel operations. Students learn and apply essential concepts in general physics, astronomy, and meteorology. Offered only in conjunction with the Sea Education Association program.

391, 392. Individual Study. (1.5h, 1.5h)
A field study, internship, project or research investigation carried out under the supervision of a member of the environmental program faculty. Pass/fail or for a grade at the discretion of the instructor. Pass/fail is not an option if used as an elective for the environmental science or environmental studies minor.

Film Studies

Assistant Professor of Communication Mary Dalton, Interim Coordinator

Film Studies offers an interdisciplinary approach to the study of film through a body of courses that expose students to the cultural, political, and social implications of this art form. Courses in the minor provide students with the critical tools necessary for both evaluating and producing film texts, and it prepares qualified students to choose critical and/or creative paths for further study or in a profession.

A minor in film studies requires a minimum of eighteen hours of approved courses. Candidates for the minor must complete Introduction to Film (Communication 246) and Film Theory and Criticism (Communication 311) and an additional twelve hours of courses from a list approved by the Film Studies Steering Committee: at least three hours from each of the designated fields of International Cinema and Production, and six hours of electives.

Required Course:

Communication 246. Introduction to Film. (3h)
311. Film Theory and Criticism. (3h)

International Cinema:

French 360. Cinema and Society. (3h)
Humanities 382. Italian Cinema and Society. (3h)
383. Italian Fascism in Novels and Films. (3h)
Italian 325. Italian Neorealism in Films and Novels. (3h)
326. Comedy in Italian Cinema. (3h)
327. Modern Italian Cinema. (3h)
330. Cinematic Adaptation and Literary Inspiration. (3h)
Spanish 361. Latin-American Cinema and Ideology. (3h)
370. Film Adaptations of Literary Works. (3h)

Production:

Art 114. Digital Art I. (3h)
214. Digital Art II. (3h)
Communication 212. Introduction to Production and Theory. (3h)
213. Media Production: Documentary. (3h)
214. Media Production: Narrative. (3h)
310. Advanced Media Production. (3h)
316. Screenwriting. (3h)
Theater 141. On-Camera Performance. (3h)

General:

Global Trade and Commerce Studies (GTCS)

Associate Professor of Political Science Pia Christina Wood, Coordinator

The minor in Global Trade and Commerce Studies consists of a total of fifteen hours. Candidates for the minor will be required to take INS 160 (Introduction to Global Trade and Commerce Studies) and twelve additional hours in global trade and commerce studies, which must include a study abroad experience for credit. No more than six of the fifteen hours for the minor may be taken in a single discipline. The following list contains courses within Wake Forest University that qualify as a GTCS course. Additional Wake Forest University courses may be developed and added to the list upon approval of the director of international studies, who will serve as coordinator of the GTCS minor. Courses taken during the study abroad experience which may qualify as a GTCS course also will be reviewed and approved by the director of international studies.
Required Course:

INS 160. Introduction to Global Trade and Commerce Studies. (3h) Provides foundational knowledge in global trade and commerce. Focuses on understanding the global environment and the variety of issues associated with global trade and commerce.

Elective Courses:

- Anthropology 337. Economic Anthropology. (3h)
- Accounting 290. International Business Study Tour. (3h)
- Business 215. Seminar in Comparative Management. (3h)

The purpose of the health and exercise science department is to advance knowledge through research and to disseminate the knowledge in this field of study through education of and service to humanity. The primary focus of the department is promoting health and preventing and treating disease through healthful behaviors, emphasizing physical activity and nutrition.

Health and Exercise Science Requirement

All students must complete Health and Exercise Science 100 and 101. This requirement must be met before enrollment in additional health and exercise science elective courses, and in any case by the end of the second year.

Courses for the Major

The department offers a program leading to the bachelor of science degree in health and exercise science. A major requires thirty-one hours and must include Health and Exercise Science 262, 312, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 360, and 370. Majors are not allowed to apply any Health and Exercise Science 100-level courses or Health and Exercise Science 206 toward the twenty-eight hours required for graduation. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 is required for graduation in courses that comprise a major in the department. Students interested in majoring in health and exercise science should consult the coordinator of the department’s undergraduate program as soon as possible after entering the University.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in health and exercise science by the second semester of the junior year. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Health and Exercise Science,” a student must have a minimum grade point average of 3.3 in the major, a minimum overall grade point average of 3.0, and complete an honors research project which includes a written and an oral report. Interested students should consult the coordinator of the department’s honors program. For more information, please consult the department’s Web site at www.wfu.edu/Academic-departments/Health-and-Exercise-Science/.

201. Health Issues on College Campuses - I. (1.5h) Introduction to concepts and methods of peer health education; development of teaching and group facilitation skills. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.
202. Health Issues on College Campuses - II. (1.5h) Development and delivery of educational programs on a variety of health issues relevant to college students. P—HES 201. Pass/Fail only.

206. Lifeguard Training. (1.5h) A lifeguard training course that offers American Red Cross certifications in CPR for the professional rescuer, community first aid, lifeguard training, and waterfront lifeguarding.

232. Emergency Medical Training. (1.5h) Lectures and practical experiences in preparation for responding to medical emergencies, including: patient assessment; airway management; cardiopulmonary resuscitation; O₂ therapy; management of shock; trauma and environmental emergencies; and head/spine/musculoskeletal injuries. North Carolina state exam for EMT certification is offered.

262. Statistics in the Health Sciences. (3h) Basic statistics with an emphasis on application to research in the health sciences. Students are introduced to graphics and statistical software for statistical analysis. A student who receives credit for this course may not also receive credit for Anthropology 380, Biology 380, Business 201, or Sociology 371. (QR)

310. Applied Field Study. (1.5h) A course involving application of theory and methods of solving problems in a specialized area according to the student’s immediate career goals. (Open only to majors.) P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

311. Internship in Rehabilitation. (1.5h) A semester experience in the campus rehabilitation programs. This experience includes written case study analyses of selected patients with a focus upon risk factor assessment and review of multiple intervention strategies, in conjunction with participation in physiologic monitoring of patients during therapeutic sessions. Open only to majors. P—POI. Pass/fail only.

312. Exercise and Health Psychology. (3h) A survey of the psychological antecedents of exercise and selected topics in health psychology with particular attention to wellness, stress, the biobehavioral basis of coronary heart disease, and the psychodynamics of rehabilitative medicine. P—HES 262 or POI.

350. Human Physiology. (3h) A lecture course which presents the basic principles and concepts of the function of selected systems of the human body, with emphasis on the muscular, cardiovascular, pulmonary, and nervous systems. P—Biology 111, 112, or 214, or POI.

351. Nutrition in Health and Disease. (3h) A lecture/laboratory course which presents the principles of proper nutrition including an understanding of the basic foodstuffs and nutrients as well as the influence of genetics, eating behavior, and activity patterns on energy balance and weight control. Laboratory experiences examine intervention in obesity and coronary heart disease through diet analysis, methods of diet prescription, and behavior modification. P—HES 350 or POI.

352. Human Gross Anatomy. (4h) A lecture/laboratory course in which the structure and function of the musculoskeletal, neuromuscular, pulmonary, and cardiovascular systems are studied using dissected human cadavers.

353. Physiology of Exercise. (3h) A lecture course which presents the concepts and applications of the physiological response of the human body to physical activity. The acute and chronic responses of the muscular and cardiorespiratory systems to exercise are examined. Other topics include exercise and coronary disease, nutrition and performance, strength and endurance training, body composition, sex-related differences, and environmental influences. P—HES 350 or POI.

354. Assessment Techniques in Health Sciences. (3h) A lecture/laboratory course to develop clinical skills and knowledge in the assessment of health in areas of exercise physiology, nutrition/metabolism, biomechanics/neuromuscular function, and health psychology. The laboratory will emphasize use of instrumentation and analysis/interpretation of data collected on human subjects. P—HES 262, 350, and 352 or POI. (QR)

355. Exercise Programming. (1.5h) A lecture/laboratory course which presents the scientific principles of safe and effective exercise prescription for fitness programs. P—HES 353 and 354, or POI.

360. Epidemiology. (3h) An introduction to basic determinants of the incidence of chronic disease in the population and development of an understanding of individual, community, and environmental approaches to promoting healthful lifestyles in youth, adults, and elderly populations. Issues will be analyzed by formal statistical modeling. P—An applied statistical methods course, such as Anthropology 380, Biology 380, Business 202, HES 262, Mathematics 256 or 358, Psychology 211, Sociology 380. (QR)

370. Biomechanics of Human Movement. (3h) Study of the mechanical principles which influence human movement, sport technique, and equipment design. P—HES 352 or POI.

372. Anatomy Dissection Laboratory. (2h) A laboratory course that involves human cadaver dissection of the musculoskeletal, neuromuscular, pulmonary, and cardiovascular systems. Open only to majors. P—POI.

375. Advanced Physiology of Exercise. (3h) A lecture course which provides an in-depth examination of the physiological mechanisms responsible for both the acute and chronic changes which occur with exercise. Included are cellular changes in response to exercise, the ventilatory response to exercise, and metabolic consequences of exercise. P—HES 353 or POI.

382. Individual Study. (1h, 1.5h, 2h) Independent study directed by a faculty adviser. The student must consult the adviser before registering for this course. Open only to majors. P—POI.

384. Special Topics in Health and Exercise Science. (1.5h, 2h, 3h) Intensive investigation of a current scientific research topic in health or exercise science with focus on a specific topic. May be repeated for credit if topic differs.

386. Honors Research. (1.5h) Directed study and research in preparation for a major paper on a subject of mutual interest to the student and faculty honors adviser. Taken only by candidates for departmental honors. P—POI, approval of departmental honors committee, and prior completion of a 1.5-hour Individual Study.
Courses in Basic Instruction and Elective Health and Exercise Science

All the 100-level courses listed below are for one hour each, and they can only be taken once for credit except Health and Exercise Science 180 and 183 which may be repeated once.

100. Lifestyle and Health. A lecture course that deals with the effect of lifestyle behaviors on various health outcomes, including cardiovascular disease, cancer, and sexually-transmitted diseases.

101. Exercise for Health. A laboratory course on physical fitness that covers weight control, cardiovascular endurance, muscular strength, and flexibility.

112. Sports Proficiency.
116. Weight Training.
150. Beginning Tennis.
151. Intermediate Tennis.
156. Racquetball.
160. Beginning Golf.
163. Bowling.
170. Volleyball.
179. Beginning Horseback Riding. Pass/Fail only.
180. Intermediate/Advanced Horseback Riding. May be repeated once for credit. Pass/Fail only
181. Snow Skiing. Pass/Fail only.
182. Beginning Ice Figure Skating.
183. Intermediate/Advanced Ice Figure Skating. May be repeated once for credit.
194. T’ai Chi.

Health Policy and Administration (HPA)

Professor of Economics Michael S. Lawlor, Director

The health policy and administration minor is designed to give students a concentration in the area of public health policy and the study of health care delivery. It is open to all majors and places an emphasis on providing students with the analytical methods and knowledge of institutional complexity necessary to an understanding of the rapidly evolving medical industry. Students interested in either public policy or administrative roles in health care could benefit from the minor. The course work requires the following five courses (three hours each), for a total of fifteen hours, plus some notable prerequisites (see individual course descriptions for details):

Required Courses:

Economics  240. Economics of Health and Medicine. (3h) (Fall)
Health Policy and Administration  150. Introduction to Public Health. (3h) (Fall)
                            250. Internship in Health Policy and Admin. (3h) (Spring)
Health and Exercise Science  360. Epidemiology. (3h) (Spring)

Elective Courses:

Choose one course from the following electives*:

Anthropology  362. Medical Anthropology. (3h)
Biology  396. Biomedical Ethics. (3h)
Health and Exercise Science  312. Exercise and Health Psychology. (3h)
History  310. Seminar: Controversies in American Medical History. (3h)
                             339. The History of American Medicine. (3h)
Humanities  390. Interdisciplinary Seminar on Aging. (3h)
Philosophy  161. Medical Ethics. (3h)
Political Science  216. U.S. Social Welfare Policy. (3h)
Psychology  322. Psychopharmacology. (3h)
Sociology  335. Sociology of Health and Illness. (3h)
                             336. Sociology of Health Care. (3h)
                             337. Aging in Modern Society. (3h)
Women’s and Gender Studies  321. Interdisciplinary Seminar on Women’s Health Issues. (3h)

Since many of the required courses involve prerequisites students should plan ahead to ensure they can meet all of the requirements in four years. The following schedule suggestions may be helpful:

*Other electives may be added as the curriculum evolves. Check with the director of the program for a complete list.
Introduction to Public Health. (3h) Survey of the basic structure of the health care system in the United States. Includes discussion of current issues of public policy toward health, organization of health care delivery, and health system reform. Serves as the introduction to the interdisciplinary minor in health policy and administration. Offered every fall.

Internship in Health Policy and Administration. (3h) A semester experience in a health care policy or health care administration organization. Students will work in conjunction with a director who is a researcher on a public health science research project or with an administrator in health care delivery. Students gain relevant practical experience that builds on prior coursework and provides insight into public health policy issues. Open only to senior health policy and administration students. P—HPA 150 and POI. Offered every spring.

The major in history consists of a minimum of twenty-seven hours and must include History 288 or 310, one course in premodern history, and a minimum of 5.5 hours in each of the following three fields: European history; Latin American, Asian, or African history; and United States history. Courses at the 100-level count toward the major but do not count toward the field distribution.

Majors may include within the required twenty-seven hours up to six hours of advanced placement or comparable work and up to six hours of any combination of independent study and directed reading other than the hours earned in History 397.

A minor in history requires eighteen hours. Courses that the student elects to take pass/fail do not meet the requirements for the major or minor.

Highly qualified majors should apply for admission to the honors program in history. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in History,” the student must complete History 287, present an honors-quality research paper, successfully defend the paper in an oral examination, and earn an overall grade point average of 3.0 with an average of 3.3 on work in history. For additional information, students should consult members of the department.
Students contemplating graduate study should acquire a reading knowledge of one modern foreign language for the master of arts degree and two for the Ph.D.

100. Colloquium in Historical Diversity. (3h) A broadly based examination of the historical roots of contemporary cultural issues through various themes such as race, ethnicity, class, gender, sexuality, religion, and nationality. Focus will vary with professor. (CD)

101. Western Civilization to 1700. (3h) A survey of ancient, medieval, and early modern history to 1700. Focus varies with instructor. Credit cannot be received for both 101 and 103, or 102 and 104.

102. Europe and the World in the Modern Era. (3h) A survey of modern Europe from 1700 to the present. Focus varies with instructor. Credit cannot be received for both 101 and 103, or 102 and 104.

1027. Formation of Europe: Habsburg Empire and its Successor States. (3h) The development of Central and East-Central Europe as a multiethnic unity under the Habsburgs, 1526-1918, and its dissolution into successor states and subsequent interactions, 1918-1989. Meets Division I history requirement. Offered in Vienna.

Humanities (HMN)
William S. Hamilton, Coordinator
W. R. Kenan Jr. Professor of Humanities Allen Mandelbaum
Reynolds Professor of American Studies Maya Angelou
Professor Ulrike Wiethaus
Associate Professors Candyce Leonard, Robert L. Utley Jr.

In order to offer capable students a forum which encourages the pursuit of ideas across the disciplinary lines of such fields as history, philosophy, literature, politics, religion, and the arts, the minor is offered in humanities. It requires a total of fifteen hours. Candidates for the minor are required to take Humanities 280, Reason and Revelation, and 290, Innovation and Inclusivity. When these have been passed, the student is assigned a minor adviser who assists in planning the rest of the student’s curriculum. In accordance with the plan, six more hours are selected from courses in the humanities or related disciplines other than those being used by the student to fulfill divisional requirements of the College or the requirements of the major. The minor concludes with a three-hour project in Humanities 396 supervised by a member of the humanities faculty and reviewed by a committee of relevant faculty appointed by the coordinator of humanities; the project must represent the further pursuit of an idea or topic studied in one of the courses of the minor, and must successfully reflect the synthesis of views from at least two traditional disciplines.

A series of seminar courses of an interdisciplinary nature is open to qualified undergraduates. Students interested in admission to any one of these seminars, supervised by the Committee on Honors, should consult the coordinator or a member of the committee.

Students who choose to participate in as many as four interdisciplinary seminars and who have a superior record may elect Honors 281, directed study culminating in an honors paper and an oral examination. Those whose work has been superior in this course and who have achieved an overall grade point average of at least 3.0 in all college work may be graduated with the distinction “Honors in the Arts and Sciences.” Students who choose to be candidates for departmental honors may not also be candidates for “Honors in the Arts and Sciences.”

Able students are normally encouraged to choose a departmental honors program rather than “Honors in the Arts and Sciences.” As a result, most students elect to participate in only one or two interdisciplinary seminars in which they are particularly interested. The faculty participants for these seminars represent diverse academic disciplines.

131, 132. Approaches to Human Experience I. (3h, 3h) An inquiry into the nature and interrelationships of several approaches to man’s experience, represented by the work of three such minds as Leonardo da Vinci, Dante, Klee, Lorenz, Confucius, Dostoevsky, Descartes, Goya, Mozart, Jefferson, and Bohr. Seminar discussion based on primary and secondary sources, including musical works and paintings. Written reports and a term paper required. Offered in alternate years.
133, 134. Approaches to Human Experience II. (3h,3h) A parallel course to Honors 131, 132, concentrating on the work of a different set of figures such as Einstein, Galileo, Keynes, Pascal, Camus, Picasso, Ibsen, Stravinsky, Sophocles, and Bach. Offered in alternate years.

236. The Force of Impressionism. (3h) Impressionism and its impact on modern painting and literature, with attention to origins and theories of style. Painters to include Manet, Monet, Renoir, Degas, and Cezanne. Writers to include Baudelaire, Flaubert, Mallarmé, James, Pound, Joyce, and Woolf.

237. The Scientific Outlook. (3h) An exploration of the origins and development of the scientific method and some of its contemporary applications in the natural and social sciences and the humanities.

238. Romanticism. (3h) Romanticism as a recurrent characteristic of mind and art and as a specific historical movement in Europe and America in the late eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Emphasis on primary materials in philosophy, literature, music, and painting.

240. Adventures in Self-Understanding. (3h) Examination and discussion of significant accounts of the quest for understanding of the self, in differing historical periods, cultural contexts, and genres. Among figures who may be discussed are Augustine, Dante, Gandhi, Montaigne, Descartes, Pascal, and selected modern writers.

241. The Tragic View. (3h) The theory of tragedy in ancient and modern times; the expression of the tragic in literature, art, music, theatre, and film.

242. The Comic View. (3h) The theory of comedy in ancient and modern times; the expression of the comic in literature, art, music, theatre, and film.

244. Man and the Structure of the Universe. (3h) An investigation of various conceptions of the universe and their implications for man. Study not necessarily limited to the cosmologies of Ptolemy, Copernicus, and their modern successors, but may also include theories such as the Babylonian, Mayan, and Taoist.

246. Man and the Environment. (3h) An interdisciplinary examination of man and society in relation to the environment.

247. The Mythic View. (3h) The nature of myth through creation and hero myths; the uses to which myths have been put in different historical periods; various modern explanations of myth (literary, religious, anthropological, psychoanalytic, social, and historical).

248. The Ironic View. (3h) An investigation of the ironic view of life in literature, art, history, theater, and film.

249. Forms and Expressions of Love. (3h) Philosophical, religious, and psychological delineations of the forms of love; literary, dramatic, musical, and visual portrayals of love in selected works of art. Also listed as Humanities 355.

257. Images of Aging in the Humanities. (3h) A multidisciplinary presentation and discussion of portrayals of aging in selected materials from several of the liberal arts: philosophical and religious perspectives; selections from literature and the visual arts; historical development of perceptions of aging; imaging of aging in contemporary culture. Also listed as Humanities 357.

258. Venice in Art and Literature. (3h) An exploration of what Venice has meant to non-native artists and writers, and what they have made of it. Artists and writers include Byron, Turner, Ruskin, Henry James, Sargent, Whistler, Proust, Mann, and others.

265. Humanity and Nature. (3h) A multidisciplinary exploration of relations of human beings to nature, and of scientific, economic, and political factors in current environmental concerns. Selected religious, classical, and philosophical texts; works of visual art; selected discussions of ecology and human responsibility. Also listed as Humanities 365.

281. Directed Study. (3h) Readings on an interdisciplinary topic approved by the Committee on Honors; presentation of a major research or interpretive paper based on these readings, under the direction of a faculty member; an oral examination on the topic, administered by the faculty supervisor and the Committee on Honors. Eligible students who wish to take this course must submit a written request to the Committee on Honors by the end of the junior year. Not open to candidates for departmental honors.

International Studies (INS)

Associate Professor of Political Science Pia Christina Wood, Coordinator

The minor in international studies consists of a total of fifteen hours and must include International Studies 250 and twelve other hours from approved international courses. (A list of approved courses is available in the Center for International Studies.) These may include any International Studies course other than International Studies 100 or 101. No more than six of the fifteen hours for the minor can be taken in a single department. Study of a foreign language beyond the basic requirements is strongly recommended, as is study abroad. Students should consult with the director of international studies as soon as they declare the minor. Courses taken on overseas programs may be approved for the international studies minor by the director of the Center for International Studies. For more information contact the Center for International Studies or the registrar’s office.

140. United Nations/Model United Nations. (1.5h) Exploration of the history, structure, and functions of the United Nations including current economic, social, and political issues. An in-depth analysis of one country in the UN and attendance at the Model UN Conference. May be taken twice for credit. Pass/Fail only.

160. Introduction to Global Trade and Commerce Studies. (3h) Provides foundational knowledge in global trade and commerce. Focuses on understanding the global environment and the variety of issues associated with global trade and commerce.

220. Forms of Orientalism. (3h) The history of the representational practices of Orientalism, the problem of cultural representation, and the relationship between Western intellectual constructions of the Orient and Western colonialism. Case studies, particularly of the Middle East and the Indian subcontinent. Also listed as Political Science 281.
228. Individual Study. (1h, 2h, 3h) Intensive research leading to the completion of an individual project conducted under the supervision of a faculty member. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing permission of an appropriate faculty member. P—POI.

229. Internship in International Studies. (1h, 2h, 3h) Field work directly related to international issues in a public or private setting under the supervision of a faculty member. Related readings and an analytical paper are minimum requirements. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing the permission of an appropriate instructor. P—POI.

250. Seminar in International Studies. (3h) Applies theoretical assumptions and methods to the analysis of selected global issues. (CD)

349. Japanese and American Culture: Cross-Cultural Communication. (3h) An exploration of communication differences between the Japanese and the Americans. Japanese and American values, behavior, and beliefs will be compared in determining effective methods for cross-cultural communication. Special emphasis will be placed on examining factors leading to miscommunication and the development of techniques for overcoming cultural barriers. Credit not given for both INS 349 and Communication 351A. Also listed as Communication 351A. (CD)

363. Global Capitalism. (3h) An analysis of changing patterns of industrial organization, market, and labor relations, and institutional frameworks that have resulted from the growth of an integrated global capitalist economy. Also listed as Sociology 363.

The following courses do not count for the minor but are designed to ensure that students who study overseas receive sufficient credit to make satisfactory progress toward graduation: International Studies 100 and 101.

100. Study Abroad. (1-3h) Hour(s) awarded to ensure that students participating in a full-time overseas program, as verified by the Center for International Studies, receive credit equal to a full semester’s work on campus. (A full semester’s work at Wake Forest is defined, for this purpose, as twelve hours.) Pass/Fail only.

101. Overseas Study. (1-3h) Directed reading and/or field work as part of an approved overseas program under the supervision of the program director or the Center for International Studies. The keeping of a journal and submission of an end of program evaluation are required. P—POI.
A semester in Venice or another approved course of study in Italy (or summer program at Middlebury, Vermont) is required. Students must take Italian through the 215 level, plus three courses from the following groups, at least one each from Groups II and III. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Students may also take appropriate courses in anthropology, economics, political science, psychology, religion, and sociology in the Venice program, and appropriate individual study topics in these departments. To graduate with a Certificate in Italian studies, students must contact the registrar’s office during the spring semester of the senior year to request that a transcript copy be sent to the Department of Romance Languages for approval.
Journalism (JOU)

(Minor)

Associate Professor of Journalism Wayne King, Coordinator
Instructor Mary Martin Niepold
Lecturer Justin Catanoso
Adjunct Lecturer Michael Horn

The minor in journalism consists of fifteen hours, including Journalism 270, 276, and either 272 or 280. In addition to the required fifteen hours, minors in journalism are strongly advised to take Economics 150 and 221. The remaining courses must be selected from among the following:

Accounting 111. Introductory Financial Accounting. (3h)
Communication 245. Introduction to Mass Communication. (3h)
Economics 150. Introduction to Economics. (3h)
221. Public Finance. (3h)
Journalism 272 or 280. Editing. (3h) or Journalism, Ethics, and Law. (3h)
(whichever was not chosen as a required course)
278. History of Journalism. (3h)
282. Investigative Reporting. (3h)
284. Writing for Publication. (3h)
286. Writing for Public Relations and Advertising. (3h)

Political Science 217. Politics and the Mass Media. (3h)

Journalism Courses

270. Introduction to Journalism. (3h) Fundamentals of news writing, news judgment, and news gathering, including computer-assisted reporting and research. Intensive in-class writing.

272. Editing. (3h) A laboratory course in copyediting, headline writing, typography, and make-up; practice on video display terminal. P—English 270.

273. Writing for Radio-TV-Film. (3h) An introduction to writing for radio, television, and film. Emphasis will be on informational and persuasive writing (news, features, public service announcements, commercials, political announcements, news analyses, commentaries, and editorials).

274. Media Production: Studio. (3h) An introduction to the production of audio and video media projects. Multiple camera studio production emphasized. Lecture/laboratory.

275. Introduction to Mass Communication. (3h) A historical survey of mass media and an examination of major contemporary media issues. Also listed as Communication 245.

276. Advanced Journalism. (3h) Intensive practice in writing various types of newspaper stories, including the feature article. Limited to students planning careers in journalism. P—English 270 or POI.
277. Politics and the Mass Media. (3h) Exploration of the relationship between the political system and the mass media. Two broad concerns will be the regulation of the mass media and the impact of media on political processes and events. Also listed as Political Science 217.

278. History of Journalism. (3h) A study of the development of American journalism and its English origins, with attention to broad principles of mass communication from its beginnings through the Internet.

280. Journalism, Ethics, and Law. (3h) Explores ethical problems confronting journalists, including such things as the public’s right to know, invasion of privacy, censorship, coverage of politics and elections, objectivity, and race, gender, and bias in news reporting, against a background of laws pertaining to areas such as libel and national security.

282. Investigative Reporting. (3h) Explores the methods and resources used in investigative journalism—tracing individuals through public records, Freedom of Information Act requests, and specialized interview techniques. P—POI.

284. Writing for Publication. (3h) Training and practice in writing expository prose at a level appropriate for publication in various print media, primarily magazines. Also listed as English 399. P—JOU 270 or POI.

286. Writing for Public Relations and Advertising. (1.5h,3h) Principles and techniques of public relations and applied advertising. Students use case studies to develop public relations and advertising strategies. Also listed as Communication 117. P—POI.

298. Internship. (1.5h) A course designed to assist students in gaining practical experience in news-related enterprises, under faculty supervision.

299. Individual Study. (1.5h-3h) A course of independent study with faculty guidance. By prearrangement.

Languages Across the Curriculum (LAC)

Wake Forest Professor of Romance Languages Candelas Gala, Coordinator

Languages Across the Curriculum (LAC) is a strategy to integrate foreign language use throughout the curriculum. It facilitates the collaboration of faculty by bridging disciplinary boundaries, and it promotes the internationalization of course offerings. LAC encourages multicultural understanding and an appreciation of the place of different disciplines in a global context. It recognizes the importance of multilingualism in today’s society. Faculty and students learn how a discipline they have first studied in their native English is approached by different cultures and different linguistic codes.

Faculty members will determine the most appropriate LAC model and level for their courses. For information about the various models for LAC implementation, visit the following homepage:
http://www.wfu.edu/Academic-departments/Romance-Languages/lac/lac.htm
Latin American Studies (LAS)

Associate Professor of Romance Languages (Spanish) Linda Howe, Director
Reynolds Professor Luis Roniger

The minor in Latin American studies provides an opportunity for students to undertake a multidisciplinary study of the history, geography, economics, politics, and culture of Latin America and the Caribbean. It consists of a total of fifteen hours, only three of which may count toward the student’s major. Candidates for the minor are required to take Latin American Studies 210, Introduction to Latin American Studies. In addition, candidates must elect at least twelve hours of coursework on Latin America. No more than six of these twelve hours may be in a single discipline.

Candidates should demonstrate proficiency in Spanish or Portuguese either by completing Spanish courses through the 213 level or by undergoing an oral proficiency interview with a member of the faculty of the Department of Romance Languages.

210. Introduction to Latin-American Studies. (3h) Introduction to the historical, economic, cultural, and social issues which shape Latin America. Also listed as Anthropology 210. (CD)

310. Special Topics in Latin American Studies. (3h) Selected topics in Latin American Studies; topics vary from year to year.

398. Individual Study. (3h) A reading, research, or internship course designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a faculty member in the Latin American Studies minor. P—POI.

Students may choose from the following list of electives in designing their minor:

- Anthropology
  - 383, 384. Field Research in Cultural Anthropology. (3h,3h)
  - 385, 386. Special Problems Seminar. (3h,3h)

- Economics
  - 251. International Trade. (3h)
  - 252. International Finance. (3h)
  - 258. Economic Growth and Development. (3h)

- History
  - 373. History of Mexico. (3h)
  - 374. Protest and Rebellion in Latin America. (3h)
  - 375. Modern Latin America. (3h)

- Music
  - 210. Survey of Latin American Music. (3h)

- Political Science
  - 236. Government and Politics in Latin America. (3h)
  - 242. Topics in Comparative Politics. (3h)
  - 257. Interamerican Relations. (3h)
Spanish

218. Literary and Cultural Studies of Spanish America. (3h)
219. Grammar and Composition. (3h)
319. Advanced Grammar and Composition. (3h)
329. Introduction to Spanish for Business. (3h)
348. Transatlantic Renaissance. (3h)
351. Transgressing Borders: Identity in Latin American and U.S. Latino Cultures. (3h)
353. Indigenous Myth in Spanish-American Literary Art. (3h)
354. The Social Canvas of Gabriel García Márquez and Pablo Neruda. (3h)
360. Cultural and Literary Identity in Latin America: From Colonial to Postcolonial Voices. (3h)
361. Latin-American Cinema and Ideology. (3h)
362. Romantic Nationalism: Avant-Garde Nihilism and the Deconstruction of Utopia. (3h)
363. Contemporary Spanish-American Theater. (3h)
364. Spanish-American Short Story. (3h)
365. Spanish-American Novel. (3h)
367. Colonial Spanish America. (3h)
368C. Cuban Literature. Offered in Havana. (3h)
369. Imagined “White” Nations: Race and Color in Latin America. (3h)

Five-Year BA/MA Degree Program Option. Students who choose to minor in Latin American studies have the opportunity to pursue a joint BA/MA program in conjunction with the Center for Latin American Studies at Georgetown University in Washington, DC. This program allows outstanding students interested in Latin America to begin work toward an interdisciplinary master’s degree in Latin American Studies while still undergraduates at Wake Forest, and to complete both degrees within a five-year period. The bachelor of arts degree is awarded by Wake Forest, while the master’s degree is awarded by Georgetown. Interested students should contact the five-year degree program coordinator, Peter Siavelis, associate professor of political science.

Linguistics (LIN)

Professor of Romance Languages (Spanish) M. Stanley Whitley, Coordinator

The interdisciplinary minor in linguistics requires Linguistics 150, Introduction to Linguistics, and twelve additional hours. Students minoring in linguistics are strongly encouraged to study foreign languages, achieving proficiency in at least one, and social and behavioral sciences. The minor may be usefully combined with a major in a foreign language, English, anthropology (or other social science), philosophy, or communication.

The twelve hours in addition to Linguistics 150 may be chosen from the following three groups: linguistics courses, historical linguistics, and related topics. It is strongly recommended that at least one course be from historical linguistics.
Linguistics Courses

150. Introduction to Linguistics. (3h) The social phenomenon of language: how it originated and developed, how it is learned and used, its relationship to other kinds of behavior; types of language (oral, written, signed) and language families; analysis of linguistic data; social issues of language use. Also listed as Anthropology 150. (CD)

301. Semantics and Language in Communication. (3h) A study of how meaning is created by sign processes. Among the topics studied are language theory, semiotics, speech act theory, and pragmatics. Also listed as Communication 301.

310. Sociolinguistics and Dialectology. (3h) Study of variation in language: effects of regional background, social class, ethnic group, gender, and setting; social attitudes toward language; outcomes of linguistic conflicts in the community; evolution of research methods for investigating language differences and the diffusion of change. P—LIN 150 or POI.

330. Introduction to Psycholinguistics and Language Acquisition. (3h) A psychological and linguistic study of the mental processes underlying the acquisition and use of language; how children acquire the structure of language and how adults make use of linguistic systems.

340. Topics in Linguistics. (3h) An interdisciplinary study of selected topics, such as morphology, phonology/phonetics, syntax, historical linguistics, history of linguistic theory, semiotics, and ethnolinguistics, issues in Asian linguistics, language and gender.
P—LIN 150 or POI.

351. Comparative Communication. (1.5h,3h) A comparison of communicative and linguistic processes in one or more national cultures with those of the United States. Also listed as Communication 351.

351A Japan 351D Multiple Countries
351C Great Britain

375. Philosophy of Language. (3h) A study of such philosophical issues about language as truth and meaning, reference and description, proper names, indexicals, modality, tense, the semantic paradoxes, and the differences between languages and other sorts of sign systems. Also listed as Philosophy 375. P—POI.

383. Language Engineering: Localization & Terminology. (3h) Introduction to the process of making a product linguistically and culturally appropriate to the target locale, and to computer-assisted terminology management. Surveys applications in translation technology. Taught in English. P—POI.

398, 399. Individual Study. (1-3h,1-3h) A reading and research course designed to meet the needs of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a faculty member in the linguistics minor program. P—LIN 150 and POI.

SIL 101, 102. Self Instructional Language. (3h,3h) A course in which students wishing to learn a language not offered at Wake Forest may arrange to study the language in consultation with a native speaker. This course does not count toward the linguistics minor without approval from the coordinator. P—POI.

Students intending to minor in linguistics should consult the coordinator of linguistics in the Department of Romance Languages, preferably during their sophomore year.

Mathematics (MTH)

Richard D. Carmichael, Chair
Reynolds Professor Robert J. Plemmons
Wake Forest Professor John V. Baxley
Professors Richard D. Carmichael, Elmer K. Hayashi, Fredric T. Howard, Ellen E. Kirkman, James Kuzmanovich, J. Gaylord May, James L. Norris III
Sterge Faculty Fellow and Associate Professor Hugh N. Howards
Associate Professors Edward E. Allen, Stephen B. Robinson
Sterge Faculty Fellow and Assistant Professor Kenneth S. Berenhaut Assistant Professors Miaohua Jiang, Sarah Raynor, Marielba Rojas, Gregory Warrington
Visiting Assistant Professor Christopher E. Dometrius
Instructors Janice Blackburn, Jule M. Connolly, Mary Kathryn McKinnon, David C. Wilson

A major in mathematics can be achieved by satisfying the requirements listed for either the bachelor of arts or bachelor of science. Lower division students are urged to consult a member of the departmental faculty before enrolling in courses other than those satisfying Division V requirements.

The bachelor of arts in mathematics requires Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 211 or 311, and 221 with at least four additional three-hour courses numbered higher than 113 (excluding 381), at least two of which must be numbered above 300.
The bachelor of arts in mathematics with a concentration in statistics requires Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 211 or 311, 221, 357, 358, 359, and either 256 or both 109 and another three-hour course numbered 200 or above (excluding 381).

The bachelor of science in mathematics requires Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 221, 311, 391, and 392 with at least five additional three-hour courses numbered higher than 113 (excluding 381), at least three of which must be numbered above 300.

The bachelor of science in mathematics with a concentration in statistics requires Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 221, 311, 357, 358, 359, 391, 392; one additional three-hour course numbered 300 or above (excluding 381); and 256 or both 109 and another three-hour course numbered 200 or above (excluding 381). Additionally, the research and paper prepared for 391 and 392 must be on a topic related to statistics.

A minor in mathematics requires Mathematics 111, 112, either 113 or 121, and three other courses of at least three hours each numbered higher than Mathematics 106, two of which must be numbered above 200. Neither Mathematics 301, 302, 303, or 304 can count as a course for this minor, but any pair may be so counted. Credit is not allowed for both Mathematics 113 and 301; for both Mathematics 121 and 302; or for both Mathematics 303 and 317.

A minor in statistics requires five courses chosen from Mathematics 357, 358, 359, 256, 109, 117, 121, 211 or 311; Anthropology 380; Biology 380; Business 201, 202; Economics 215; Health and Exercise Science 262, 360; Psychology 211, 212; Sociology 371, 372; at least two of which must be chosen from Mathematics 357, 358, 359. Additionally, no more than one course can be chosen from Anthropology 380; Biology 380; Business 201; Health and Exercise Science 262; Mathematics 109; Psychology 211; or Sociology 371 to satisfy this minor.

A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in courses which comprise a major or minor in the department is required for graduation with any major or minor which the department offers.

The department regularly schedules activities in mathematics for students that enhance the course offerings. Examples are participation in the annual Putnam examination and the COMAP contest in mathematical modeling; meetings of the mathematics club; seminars and courses which build upon the regularly scheduled course offerings; and student research with faculty.

The Department of Mathematics and the Department of Economics offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical economics. This interdisciplinary program, consisting of no more than forty-eight hours, offers the student an opportunity to apply mathematical methods to the development of economic theory, models, and quantitative analysis. The major has the following course requirements: Mathematics 111, 112, 113, 121, 254, 255; Economics 150, 205, 207, 210, 211, 215, 218; and three additional courses chosen with the approval of the program advisers. Students selecting the joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Mathematics and the Department of Economics.

The Department of Mathematics and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical business. This interdisciplinary program, consisting of no more than forty-eight hours, prepares students for careers in business with a strong background in mathematics. The major has the following course requirements: Mathematics 253, 256, 301 (or 113), 302 (or 121), 353; Business 211, 221, 231, 241, 251, 261, 292; and a minimum of two additional three-hour courses chosen from among mathematics and business, not both courses chosen from business, with the mathematics courses being chosen from three-hour courses at the 300 level or higher, excluding 381. The following courses are prerequisites for admission into this major: Mathematics 111, 112, Accounting 111, 112, Business 100, Economics 150, and Communication 110. Computer Science 111, 112, and Mathematics 251 are strongly recommended electives. Students electing this joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Mathematics and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. To graduate from Wake Forest University with a major in mathematical business, the student must satisfy the requirements for graduation of both the Department of Mathematics and the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Refer to the description in this bulletin for the admission, continuation, and graduation requirements of the Calloway School.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in mathematics or the joint majors. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Mathematics,” “Honors in Mathematical Business,” or “Honors in Mathematical Economics,” students must satisfactorily complete a senior research paper. To graduate with “Honors in Mathematics” or “Honors in Mathematical Business,” majors must have a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the major and 3.0 in all college course work. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Students who are enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in mathematics at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

105. Fundamentals of Algebra and Trigonometry. (1.5h,2.5h, or 3h) A review of the essentials of algebra and trigonometry. Admission by permission only (generally, a student must have taken fewer than three years of high school mathematics to be eligible for admission). Not to be counted toward the major or minor in mathematics.

106. Calculus Foundations. (4h) Functions, the trigonometric functions, limits, continuity, derivatives, differentials, anti-derivatives, the fundamental theorem of calculus. Intended for students with no previous calculus experience; all others should take Mathematics 111 or higher, as appropriate. In particular, credit is not allowed to students who have taken the AB, BC, or IB advanced placement calculus test. Course includes evaluation of pre-calculus skills. (QR)

107. Explorations in Mathematics. (4h) An introduction to mathematical reasoning and problem solving. Topics vary by instructor and may include one or more of the following: knot theory, Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometry, set theory, cryptography, discrete models, number theory, discrete mathematics, chaos theory, probability, and MAPLE programming. (QR)

109. Elementary Probability and Statistics. (4h or 3h) Probability and distribution functions, means and variances, and sampling distributions. Lab—two hours. (QR)

111. Calculus with Analytic Geometry I. (4h) A review of differential calculus, followed by a complete treatment of integral calculus, including applications, the transcendental functions, techniques of integration, indeterminate forms, improper integrals, and polar coordinates. Intended for students with previous calculus experience. (QR)

112. Calculus with Analytic Geometry II. (4h) Sequences, Taylor’s formula, and infinite series, including power series. Basic multivariable calculus, including parametric equations, partial derivatives with applications to optimization problems, and double integrals. (QR)

113. Multivariable Calculus. (3h) The calculus of vector functions, including geometry of Euclidean space, differentiation, extrema, line integrals, multiple integrals, and Green’s, Stokes’, and divergence theorems. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 113 and 301. (QR)

117. Discrete Mathematics. (3h) An introduction to various topics in discrete mathematics applicable to computer science including sets, relations, Boolean algebra, propositional logic, functions, computability, proof techniques, graph theory, and elementary combinatorics. (QR)

121. Linear Algebra I. (3h) Vectors and vector spaces, linear transformations and matrices, determinants, eigenvalues, and eigenvectors. Credit not allowed for both 121 and 302. (QR)

165. Problem-Solving Seminar. (1h or 1.5h, P/F) A weekly seminar designed for students who wish to participate in mathematical competition such as the annual Putnam examination. Not to be counted toward any major or minor offered by the department. May be repeated for credit.

211. Advanced Calculus. (3h) A rigorous proof-oriented development of important ideas in calculus. Limits and continuity, sequences and series, pointwise and uniform convergence, derivatives and integrals. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 211 and 311.

221. Modern Algebra I. (3h) An introduction to modern abstract algebra through the study of groups, rings, integral domains, and fields. P—MTH 121.

243. Codes and Cryptography. (3h) Essential concepts in coding theory and cryptography. Congruences, cryptosystems, public key, Huffman codes, information theory, and other coding methods.

251. Ordinary Differential Equations. (3h) Linear equations with constant coefficients, linear equations with variable coefficients, and existence and uniqueness theorems for first order equations. P—MTH 112. (QR)

254. Optimization Theory. (1.5h) Unconstrained and constrained optimization problems; Lagrange multiplier methods; sufficient conditions involving bordered Hessians; inequality constraints; Kuhn-Tucker conditions; applications primarily to problems in economics. P—MTH 113 and 121.

255. Dynamical Systems. (1.5h) An introduction to optimal control, including the Pontryagin maximum principle, and systems of nonlinear differential equations, particularly phase space methods. Applications to problems in economics, including optimal management of renewable resources. P—MTH 113 and 121.
256. Statistical Methods. (3h) A study of statistical methods that have proved useful in many different disciplines. These methods include tests of model assumptions, regression, general linear models, nonparametric alternatives, and analysis of data collected over time. Knowledge of matrix algebra is desirable but not necessary. (QR)

301. Vector Analysis. (1.5h) Vector functions, partial derivatives, line and multiple integrals, Green’s theorem, Stokes’ theorem, divergence theorem. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department except for the major in mathematical business. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 113 and 301. P—MTH 112.

302. Matrix Algebra. (1.5h) Matrices, determinants, solutions of linear equations, special matrices, eigenvalues and eigenvectors of matrices. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department except for the major in mathematical business. Credit not allowed for both 121 and 302.

303. Complex Variables. (1.5h) Topics in analytic function theory, Cauchy’s theorem, Taylor and Laurent series, residues. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department. Credit not allowed for both 303 and 317. P—MTH 112.

304. Applied Partial Differential Equations. (1.5h) The separation of variables technique for the solution of the wave, heat, Laplace, and other partial differential equations with the related study of special functions and Fourier series. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department. P—MTH 251.

311, 312. Introductory Real Analysis I, II. (3h,3h) Limits and continuity in metric spaces, sequences and series, differentiation and Riemann-Stieltjes integration, uniform convergence, power series and Fourier series, differentiation of vector functions, implicit and inverse function theorems. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 211 and 311.

317. Complex Analysis I. (3h) Analytic functions, Cauchy’s theorem and its consequences, power series, and residue calculus. Credit not allowed for both 303 and 317. P—MTH 113.

322. Modern Algebra II. (3h) A continuation of modern abstract algebra through the study of additional properties of groups, rings, and fields. P—MTH 221.

324. Linear Algebra II. (3h) A thorough treatment of vector spaces and linear transformations over an arbitrary field, canonical forms, inner product spaces, and linear groups. P—MTH 121 and 221.

326. Numerical Linear Algebra. (3h) Numerical methods for solving matrix and related problems in science and engineering. Topics will include systems of linear equations, least squares methods, and eigenvalue computations. Special emphasis given to parallel matrix computations. Beginning knowledge of a programming language, such as Pascal, FORTRAN, or C, is required. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 326 and Computer Science 352. P—MTH 112 and MTH 121 or 302.

331. Geometry. (3h) An introduction to axiomatic geometry including a comparison of Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometries.

334. Differential Geometry. (3h) Introduction to the theory of curves and surfaces in two and three dimensional space, including such topics as curvature, geodesics, and minimal surfaces. P—MTH 113.
345, 346. Elementary Theory of Numbers I, II. (3h,3h) Properties of integers, including congruences, primitive roots, quadratic residues, perfect numbers, Pythagorean triples, sums of squares, continued fractions, Fermat’s Last Theorem, and the Prime Number Theorem.

347. Graph Theory. (3h) Paths, circuits, trees, planar graphs, spanning trees, graph coloring, perfect graphs, Ramsey theory, directed graphs, enumeration of graphs, and graph theoretic algorithms.

348, 349. Combinatorial Analysis I, II. (3h,3h) Enumeration techniques, generating functions, recurrence formulas, the principle of inclusion and exclusion, Polya theory, graph theory, combinatorial algorithms, partially ordered sets, designs, Ramsey theory, symmetric functions, and Schur functions.

352. Partial Differential Equations. (3h) A detailed study of partial differential equations, including the heat, wave, and Laplace equations, using methods such as separation of variables, characteristics, Green’s functions, and the maximum principle. P—MTH 113 and 251.

353. Mathematical Models. (3h) Development and application of probabilistic and deterministic models. Emphasis given to constructing models which represent systems in the social, behavioral, and management sciences.

355. Introduction to Numerical Methods. (3h) Numerical computations on modern computer architectures; floating point arithmetic and round-off error. Programming in a scientific/engineering language such as MATLAB, C, or FORTRAN. Algorithms and computer techniques for the solution of problems such as roots of functions, approximation, integration, systems of linear equations and least squares methods. Credit not allowed for both Mathematics 355 and Computer Science 355. P—MTH 112, MTH 121 or 302, and Computer Science 111.

357, 358. Mathematical Statistics I, II. (3h,3h) Probability distributions, mathematical expectation, sampling distributions, estimation and testing of hypotheses, regression, correlation, and analysis of variance. C—MTH 112 or P—POI.

361. Selected Topics. (1.5h, 2.5h, or 3h) Topics in mathematics which are not considered in regular courses or which continue study begun in regular courses. Content varies.

381. Individual Study. (1.5h, 2.5h, or 3h) A course of independent study directed by a faculty adviser. By prearrangement.

391. Senior Seminar Preparation. (1h) Independent study or research directed by a faculty advisor by prearrangement with the adviser.

392. Senior Seminar Presentation. (1h) Preparation of a paper, followed by a one-hour oral presentation based upon work in Mathematics 391.
The interdisciplinary minor in medieval studies requires eighteen hours, chosen from at least three different departments. Courses from the student’s major may count in the minor. Students are encouraged, but not required, to attend the six-week Summer Medieval Program at Oxford University in England, for which they receive 4.5 hours (two courses) which count toward the minor. (For details about application to the Oxford program, and possible financial aid, consult Gale Sigal in the English department.) Courses may be chosen from the following list. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

Art
- 252. Romanesque Art. (3h)
- 253. The Gothic Cathedral. (3h)
- 254. Luxury Arts in the Middle Ages. (3h)
- 267. Early Italian Renaissance Art. (3h)
- 296. Art History Seminar: b. Medieval Art. (1.5h,3h)

English
- 305. Old English Language and Literature. (3h)
- 310. The Medieval World. (3h)
- 311. The Legend of Arthur. (3h)
- 312. Medieval Poetry. (3h)
- 315. Chaucer. (3h)
- 320. British Drama to 1642. (3h)

French
- 370. Seminar in French Studies. (3h)

Periodically offered in Medieval Studies

German
- 249. German Literature before 1700. (3h)

History
- 306. The Early Middle Ages. (3h)
- 307. The High Middle Ages Through the Renaissance. (3h)
- 310. Seminar: Jerusalem. (3h)
- 342. The Middle East before 1500. (3h)

Humanities
- 320. Perspectives on the Middle Ages. (3h)
- 361. Dante I. (1.5h)
- 362. Dante II. (1.5h)

Philosophy
- 232. Ancient and Medieval Philosophy. (3h)

Political Science
- 274. Religion and Politics in Medieval Thought. (3h)

Religion
- 367. The Mystics of the Church. (3h)
- 372. History of Christian Thought: b. Medieval and Reformation Thought. (1.5h,3h)

Spanish
- 331. Medieval Spain: A Cultural and Literary Perspective. (3h)

Theatre
- 260. History of Western Theatre I (Beginnings to 1642). (3h)

Students intending to minor in medieval studies should consult one of the coordinators, preferably during the sophomore year.
Middle East and South Asia Studies

Professor of Political Science Charles H. Kennedy, Coordinator

The Middle East and South Asia Studies minor provides students with an opportunity to engage in a multidisciplinary study of the history, politics, literature, peoples, and cultures of the Middle East and South Asia. To fulfill the minor, students must complete eighteen hours from an approved list of courses on file with the coordinator and listed below. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.) No more than nine of these eighteen hours may be taken in a single discipline.

- Middle East and South Asia Studies
Completion of Army Reserve Officers’ Training Corps (AROTC) requirements and recommendation for appointment by the professor of military science may result in commissioning as a second lieutenant in the active or reserve force components of the Army of the United States, as determined by the Secretary of the Army. The AROTC program is composed of the Basic Course and the Advanced Course. The Basic Course is composed of four courses (121, 122, 123, and 124), sometimes with either 117 or 118 taken each semester as a co-requisite. No military obligation is incurred by enrollment in the Basic Course, except by Army ROTC Scholarship cadets. The Basic Course may be completed, partially or fully, by various alternative methods (i.e., through credit for specific types of Junior ROTC or other military training, as determined by the professor of military science, or through completion of a six-week summer Leader’s Training Course). The Advanced Course is composed of four courses (225, 226, 227, and 228), with either 117 or 118 taken each semester as a co-requisite, and a five-week Leader Development and Assessment Course, usually attended during the summer between the junior and senior years. Army ROTC scholarships are available to qualified applicants (both those already enrolled in the AROTC program and those not yet enrolled) through annual competition.

114. Leadership. (1.5h) An examination of the fundamentals contributing to the development of a personal style of leadership with emphasis on the dimensions of junior executive management.

117, 118. Leadership Laboratory. (0.0h) Basic military skills instruction designed to technically and tactically qualify the student for assumption of an officer leadership position at the small-unit level. Either Military Science 117 (fall) or 118 (spring) is required each semester for contracted AROTC cadets (including those conditionally contracted), advance designee scholarship winners, and non-contracted AROTC cadets taking their third and fourth military science courses. Pass/Fail only. C—Any other military science core course. P—POI of military science, except when required as explained above.

121. Introduction to Army ROTC and the U.S. Army. (1.5h) An introduction to the Army Reserve Officers’ Training Corps and to the United States Army, exploring roles, organization, customs and traditions. C—MIL 117.

122. Introduction to Problem Solving, Decision Making, and Leadership. (1.5h) This course is an introduction to the “life skills” of problem solving, decision making, and leadership. The course is designed to help students in the near-term as leaders on campus. The class will also help students be more effective leaders and managers in the long-term, whether they serve in the military or be leaders in civilian life. Topics addressed include problem solving, critical thinking, problem solving methods, leadership theory, followership, group cohesion, goal setting, and feedback mechanisms. Lessons are taught in a seminar format, emphasizing student discussions and practical exercises. P—MIL 121 or POI of military science. C—MIL 118.
123. Land Navigation and Terrain Analysis. (1.5h) A study of the methods of land navigation and terrain analysis for military operations. P—MIL 121 and 122, or POI of military science. C—MIL 117 or 118, as appropriate.

124. Leadership in the U.S. Army. (1.5h) This course delves into theoretical and practical leadership instruction. Specifically, students examine several aspects of communication and leadership concepts such as written and oral communication, effective listening, assertiveness, personality, adult development, motivation, and organizational culture and change. Each lesson maximizes student participation, inspires intellectual curiosity, and clarifies practical application. The course concludes with a major leadership and problem-solving case study. Upon completion, students will be well-grounded in fundamental leadership principles and will be better prepared to apply such principles to a wide variety of life experiences. P—MIL 121, 122 and 123, or POI of military science. C—MIL 118.

225. Military Operations. (1.5h) Instruction and case studies which build leadership competencies and military skills in preparation for future responsibilities as Army officers. Specific instruction in the principles of war, decision-making processes, planning models, and risk assessment. Advanced leadership instruction focuses on motivational theory, the role and actions of leaders, and organizational communications. P—MIL 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science). C—MIL 117.

226. Advanced Military Operations. (1.5h) Instruction and case studies which builds upon the leadership competencies and military skills attained in Military Science 225 in preparation for future responsibilities as Army officers. Specific instruction is given in individual leader development, planning and execution of small unit operations, individual and team development, and the Army as a career choice. P—MIL 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science) and MIL 225. C—MIL 118.

227. Leadership and Management in the U.S. Army I. (1.5h) The theory and practice of military leadership. Emphasis on the Uniform Code of Military Justice, the Manual for Courts-Martial, the Law of Land Warfare and the Army’s personnel, training, and logistical management systems. P—MIL 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science) and MIL 225 and 226. C—MIL 117.

228. Leadership and Management in the U.S. Army II. (1.5h) A continuation of Military Science 227 with emphasis on the transition from cadet to officer. P—MIL 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science) and MIL 225 through 227. C—MIL 118.

229. American Military History. (3h) The American military experience with emphasis on the ideas and activities contributing to the development of the United States’ unique military establishment. Particular emphasis on civilian control of the military. Credit not allowed for this course if credit has been earned for History 369. P—POI of military science.
The Department of Music offers two majors, in music performance and music history/theory/composition, each requiring thirty-eight hours. Students who choose one of these majors may not choose the other as a second major. Both majors include a basic curriculum of music theory (Music 171, 172, 173, 174, sixteen hours) and music history (Music 181, 182, 183, nine hours), and four semesters of Music 100.

In addition to this basic curriculum, the major in music performance requires six hours of individual instruction above the 100 level (Music 262 and either 362 or 363), which requires as a prerequisite the successful completion of an audition; four hours of ensembles (excluding Music 119, 128, and 129), taken in four semesters; and three hours of elective courses in music, excluding ensembles and Music 161-162, 165-168, 175, 177, 262, 362-363. The major in music performance must present a senior recital.

In addition to the basic curriculum, the major in music history/theory/composition requires three hours of individual instruction (Music 161 or 162), three hours of ensembles (excluding Music 128 and 129), taken in three semesters; four semesters of Music 100; seven hours of elective courses in music, excluding ensembles and Music 161-162, 165-169, 175-179, 261-262, 362-363, and a performance proficiency examination. The major in music history/theory/composition must complete a senior thesis (Music 397 or 398) appropriate to one or more of these areas.

Students considering a major in music performance or music history/theory/composition are urged to begin their musical studies during the first year and should consult the chair of the department as soon as possible after entering the University. Those wishing to major in music performance are required to audition, typically during their sophomore year, before officially being admitted to the major. Successful completion of Music 171 is required in order to audition.

Highly qualified majors in music performance or music history/theory/composition may be invited by the music faculty to apply for admission to honors in music. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Music,” a candidate must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.0, and a grade point average of at least 3.5 in courses in the major, be selected for this honor by the music faculty, and successfully complete either Music 363 or 398. More information is available from the music department.
A minor in music requires nineteen hours: Music 171, 172; one course from Music 181, 182, 183; two hours of ensemble (excluding Music 117), taken in two semesters; two hours of individual instruction; three semesters of Music 100; and four hours of elective courses in music, three of which must be in music history/theory/composition. Each minor will be assigned an adviser in the music department and is encouraged to begin individual lessons, Music 171, and Music 100 as early as possible.

Regarding ensemble requirements for the majors and minor in music, students who are singers must fulfill the ensemble requirement by enrolling in Music 114, 115 and/or 116. Students who play a band or orchestral instrument must fulfill the ensemble requirement by performing on their primary instrument in Music 112, 113, 118, and/or 121. Performers on keyboard instruments are strongly encouraged to enroll in one of the above ensembles, but may also fulfill the ensemble requirement through participation in chamber music (120).

Music in Liberal Arts

100. Recitals. (0h) Recitals, concerts, and guest lectures sponsored by the Department of Music and the Secrest Artists Series. (Specific attendance requirements will be established at the beginning of each semester.) Four semesters are required of music majors; three semesters are required of music minors. Pass/Fail only.

101. Introduction to Western Music. (3h) Basic theoretical concepts and musical terminology. Survey of musical styles, composers, and selected works from the Middle Ages through the present day. Satisfies the Division III requirement. May not count toward the majors or minor in music.

109. Introduction to the Music of World Cultures. (3h) A survey of music in selected societies around the world. Topics will be selected from the following areas of concentration: India, East Asia, sub-Saharan Africa, western Europe, Latin America, and vernacular music of the United States (including jazz). Satisfies the Division III requirement. May not count toward the majors or minor in music. (CD)

110. Writing about the Arts. (3h) Training in expository writing; frequent essays based on music and other arts experiences on campus and in the community, and on readings in music and the arts. Fulfills the basic compositional requirement in English. P—POI and the Department of English. May not count toward the majors or minor in music.

Music History, Theory, and Composition

104. Basic Music Reading and Skills. (1.5h) A study of the fundamentals of music theory including key signatures, scales, intervals, chords, and basic sight-singing and ear-training skills. Designed for students wishing to participate in University ensembles and those wishing to pursue vocal, instrumental, and compositional instruction. May not count toward the majors or minor in music.

106. Electronic Music Lab. (1.5h) Foundations of MIDI protocol, with particular attention to the study and application of sequencers, notational programs, and synthesizers.
Development of skills in written notation through use of computerized programs. Taught in the Music Computer Lab. P—MUS 101, 104, or POI.

130. African-American Art Song. (3h) A survey of the art songs of African-American composers of the nineteenth and twentieth century. The emphasis in the course will be on song for solo voice and piano, with some discussion of works for voice and orchestra or chamber ensemble. P—POI. (CD)

171. Music Theory I. (4h) Music fundamentals (key signatures, scales, modes, intervals, chords), simple part-writing, sight-singing, rhythmic skills, and keyboard harmony. Prerequisite for audition in music performance. Designed for music majors and minors. Fall.

172. Music Theory II. (4h) Seventh chords, secondary chords, mutated chords, part-writing, basic counterpoint, basic musical forms, ear training, sight-singing, rhythmic skills, keyboard harmony. P—MUS 171. Spring.

181. Music History I. (3h) History of western art music from the ancient Greeks to 1750. Satisfies the Division III requirement. P—MUS 171 or POI. Fall.

182. Music History II. (3h) History of western art music from 1750 to World War I. Satisfies the Division III requirement. P—MUS 171, 181, or POI. Spring.

183. Music History III. (3h) History of western art music from the beginning of the twentieth century to the present day and its associations with other cultures and disciplines. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Fall. P—MUS 171, 181, 182 or POI.

203. History of Jazz. (3h) A survey of American jazz from its origin to the present. Open to majors and non-majors. P—MUS 101 or POI.

207. American Music. (3h) A study of the musical sources of American culture and the six streams of music in the United States: folk and ethnic musics, offsprings of the rural South (country music, blues, rock), jazz and its forerunners, popular sacred music, popular secular music, and art music. (CD)

208. Women and Music. (3h) A historical overview of women musicians in society. Counts toward a minor in women's and gender studies. (CD)

209. Music of World Cultures. (3h) A survey of music in selected societies around the world. Topics will be selected from the following areas of concentration: India, East Asia, sub-Saharan Africa, western Europe, Latin America, and vernacular music of the United States (including jazz). Students will complete a project or projects on the technical or theoretical aspects of the music of world cultures. Satisfies the Division III requirement. Designed for music majors and minors. P—MUS 172 or POI. (CD)
210. Survey of Latin American Music. (3h) A survey of art, folk, and popular musical styles in Latin America and their impact on music of other cultures. Divided into three areas of study: the Caribbean, Central America, and South America. May count as a requirement toward the Latin American studies minor. (CD)

212. Music in the Church. (3h) Function of church musicians and the relationship of their work to the church program. Offers to musician and non-musician alike historical overview, hymnody survey and other church music-related topics through class and guest lectures and practical seminars. P—POI. Offered fall semester of odd years.

213. Beethoven. (3h) Compositional process, analysis, criticism, and performance practices in selected works by Ludwig van Beethoven. P—MUS 101 or POI.

220. Seminar in Music History. (3h) Intensive study of a selected topic in music history. P—MUS 174, 181, 182, 183, or POI.

230. History of Musical Instruments. (3h) Historical overview of the form and function of musical instruments from the Middle Ages to the present. Emphasis on instruments in art music of Western Europe and the United States. P—MUS 101, 181, 182, 183, or POI.

272. Analysis Seminar. (1.5h) A study of analytical writings of theorists and composers and the development of practical skills as they can be used in research and performance preparation. P—MUS 174 or POI.

273. Composition. (1h or 1.5h) Individual instruction in the craft of musical composition. May be repeated for credit. P—POI.

280. Orchestration. (3h) A study of the orchestral and wind band instruments, how composers have used them throughout history, and the development of practical scoring and manuscript skills. P—MUS 174, 182, 183, or POI. Spring.

282. Conducting. (3h) A study of choral and instrumental conducting techniques. P—MUS 174 or POI.

284. Music Literature Seminar. (3h) A survey of repertoire, including an examination of teaching materials in the student’s special area of interest. P—MUS 101 or POI.

  a. Orchestral Literature  d. Guitar Literature
  b. Choral Literature   e. Vocal Literature
  c. Piano Literature   f. Opera

INDEPENDENT STUDY AND HONORS THESIS

298. Independent Study. (1.5h,3h) A project in an area of study not otherwise available in the department. By pre-arrangement with department chair.

397. Senior Thesis in History/Theory/Composition. (1h) Writing of a major historical, theoretical, or compositional work, as determined by the student’s area of concentration. A student may not receive credit for both Music 397 and 398. By prearrangement.
398. Senior Honors Thesis in History/Theory/Composition. (1h) Writing of a major historical, theoretical, or compositional work, as determined by the student’s area of concentration. A student may not receive credit for both Music 397 and 398. P—Faculty selection for honors in music history/theory/composition.

Ensemble

Departmental ensembles are open to all students on the basis of one hour per semester of participation in each ensemble, except as noted. Neither Music 128 nor Music 129 may count for the music majors or minor. All classes in this section may be repeated for credit.

111. Opera Workshop. Study, staging, and performance of standard and contemporary operatic works. P—POI.

112. Collegium Musicum Instrumental. An ensemble stressing the performance practices and the performance of music of the medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque eras.

113. Orchestra. Study and performance of orchestral works from the classical and contemporary repertoire. P—Audition.

115. Concert Choir. A select touring choir of forty-five voices which performs a variety of choral literature from all periods. P—Audition.

116. Choral Union. A large, mixed chorus which performs a variety of choral literature from all periods. P—Audition.

120. Small Chamber Ensemble. Study and performance of music for small ensemble. Performers are strongly urged to participate in a larger ensemble as well. P—POI.

128. Athletic Band I. Performs at most football games, as well as men’s and women’s home basketball games. Meets twice weekly. Regular performances on and off campus. P—POI. Fall.

129. Athletic Band II. (0.5h) Performs at men’s and women’s home basketball games, and at the spring football game. Class held once weekly. Meets from the beginning of the semester to spring break. P—MUS 128 or POI.
Performance Study

Courses in individual instruction are open to students with the permission of the instructor on a space available-basis. Students in individual instruction who do not have basic knowledge of notation and rhythm are advised to enroll in Music 104 either prior to or in conjunction with individual instruction. (See page 23 of this bulletin for specific information regarding the fee.) All classes in this section may be repeated for credit unless noted.

108. Alexander Technique for Musical Performers. (0.5h) An educational process that uses verbal and tactile feedback to teach improved use of the student’s body by identifying and changing poor and inefficient habits that cause stress, fatigue, and pain in the musical performer. This is a course designed to teach the performer to minimize physical effort and maximize expression. Meets two hours per week. Pass/Fail only.

122. Music Theater Practicum. (1h) For musicians who perform in a departmentally-sponsored theatrical production (when their performance is not as a member of a departmental ensemble). May not be counted toward the majors or minor in music. Credit may be earned in a given semester for either Music 122 or Theatre 283, but not both. Course may be repeated for no more than four hours. P—POI. Pass/Fail only.

123. Woodwind Doubling. (1h) Practical skills for woodwind instrumentalists who participate in musical theatre productions for which expertise on more than one instrument is required.

161. Individual Instruction. (0.5h) Technical studies and repertoire of progressive difficulty selected to meet the needs and abilities of the student. One half-hour lesson per week. Does not fulfill the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. May be repeated for credit. P—POI.

162. Individual Instruction. (1h) One one-hour lesson per week. Does not fulfill the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. May be repeated for credit. P—POI.

165p. Class Piano. (0.5h) Scales, chords, inversions, and appropriate repertoire, with emphasis on sight-reading, harmonization, and simple transposition. Designed for the beginning piano student.

165q. Class Percussion. (0.5h) Introduction to the fundamentals of playing percussion instruments. Includes an introduction to reading music as well as basic techniques on instruments of the percussion family. P—POI.
165r. Class Guitar I. (0.5h) Introduction to guitar techniques: strumming, plucking, arpeggios, and damping. Reading and playing from musical notation and guitar tablature. For beginning students.

166r. Class Guitar II. (0.5h) Continuation of guitar techniques. Emphasis on chordal progressions, scales, accompanying patterns, and sight-reading. P—MUS 165r.

166v. Class Voice II. (0.5h) Continuation of fundamental vocal techniques. P—MUS 165v or POI.

168v. Theatrical Singing II: Class Voice. (0.5h) Continuation of theatrical singing techniques with increased study and performance of musical theater repertoire. P—MUS 167v or POI. (One hour per week.)

175v. Advanced Voice Class. (1h) Development of advanced vocal technique and repertoire. Limited to eight students. (Two hours per week; may be repeated.) P—MUS 166v or POI.

177v. Advanced Theatrical Singing. (1h) Development of advanced theatrical singing technique and performance of musical theater repertoire. Limited to eight students. (Two hours per week; may be repeated.) P—MUS 168v or POI.

190. Diction for Singers. (1.5h) Study of articulation in singing, with emphasis on modification of English; pronunciation of Italian, German, and French. Development of articulatory and aural skills with use of the international phonetic alphabet. Individual performance and coaching in class. (Two hours per week.) May not be repeated for credit.

262. Individual Instruction. (1.5h) One one-hour lesson per week. Fulfills the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. May be repeated for credit. P—Two hours of MUS 161 and/or 162, plus successful completion of the audition for the major in musical performance, and POI.

362. Senior Recital. (3h) Preparation and public performance of a recital. Fulfills the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. To be taken only during the senior year. A student may not receive credit for both Music 362 and 363. A student may not enroll in Music 262 and 362 in the same semester. May not be repeated for credit. P—Two semesters of MUS 262 and POI.

363. Senior Honors Recital. (3h) Preparation and public performance of a recital at the honors level. Fulfills the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. To be taken only during the senior year. A student may not receive credit for both Music 362 and 363. A student may not enroll in Music 262 and 363 in the same semester. May not be repeated for credit. P—Two semesters of MUS 262, POI, and faculty selection for honors in music performance.
Neuroscience (NEU)
Professor of Biology Wayne L. Silver, Coordinator

The neuroscience minor provides an interdisciplinary approach to the study of the nervous system. Neuroscientists study how we learn, process and remember information from the molecular to the philosophical level and examine subjects ranging from the molecular pharmacology of brain function to the mind-body problem.

The minor requires a minimum of seventeen hours, nine of which must include the neuroscience courses (200, 201, 300, 391) described below. At least one semester of research in neuroscience is required for the minor (NEU 391). The research can be conducted on the Reynolda Campus or with investigators at the Wake Forest University School of Medicine. The research project must be approved by a member of the neuroscience minor faculty. Eight hours must come from the elective courses listed below. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.) One of the elective courses must come from outside the student's major department.

200. Introduction to Neuroscience. (3h) An interdisciplinary course taught by faculty representing several fields. Topics include neurophysiology, sensory biology, motor mechanisms, neuropharmacology, cognitive neuroscience, perception, neural networks, and the philosophy of mind.

201. Neuroscience Laboratory. (1h) A laboratory course that examines principles of neuroscience ranging from the molecular and cellular to the behavioral and cognitive. Lab—three hours. C—NEU 200.

300. Neuroscience Seminar. (3h) Consideration of current neuroscience topics. Presentations by faculty on the Reynolda Campus or the Wake Forest University School of Medicine of current research are followed by student-led discussions. Readings from the primary literature will accompany the presentations. P—NEU 200.

391. Research in Neuroscience. (2h) Supervised independent laboratory investigation in neuroscience.

Biology 323. Animal Behavior. (4h)
346. Neurobiology. (4h)
351. Vertebrate Physiology. (4h)
354. Vertebrate Endocrinology. (3h)
364. Sensory Biology. (4h)

Computer Science 371. Artificial Intelligence. (3h)

Health and Exercise Science 312. Exercise and Health Psychology. (3h)
350. Human Physiology. (3h)

Philosophy 274. Philosophy of Mind. (3h)

Physics 304. Physics of Medical Imaging. (3h)
307. Biophysics. (3h)
Psychology

Psychology 320. Physiological Psychology. (3h)
322. Psychopharmacology. (3h)
323. Animal Behavior. (3h)
326. Learning Theory and Research. (3h)
329. Perception. (3h)
331. Cognition. (3h)
333. Motivation of Behavior. (3h)

(Note that many of these courses have prerequisites, in some cases including introductory biology, psychology, or chemistry.)

The objective of the program in philosophy is to lead the student to an understanding of philosophical thinking—past and present—about such fundamental questions as what it is to exist, to know, to be good, right, true, beautiful, or sacred. In examining such matters, philosophy may be said to investigate the presuppositions that inform all human action and inquiry and thus to be an essentially interdisciplinary kind of subject. The study of philosophy can, therefore, play a useful role in preparing the student for a career in almost any field, including law, politics, religion, medicine, business, the arts, and the natural and social sciences.

The twenty-seven hours in philosophy required for graduation with a major in the subject must include a general introduction to philosophy (Philosophy 111), one course in logic (selected from Group II), three courses in the history of philosophy (one from each of Groups III, IV and V) and two 200-level or higher topics courses (Group VI), the total to include at least three courses at the 300-level.

A minor in philosophy requires fifteen hours in philosophy, which must include at least two 200-level or higher courses and one 300-level course. Philosophy being an intrinsically interdisciplinary subject, a minor in philosophy can be designed to complement any major subject. Students interested in minoring in philosophy should consult with the department about choosing an appropriate sequence of courses.

Highly qualified majors are invited to apply in the spring semester of their junior year to the honors program in philosophy. Candidates must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.0 and a grade point average in philosophy courses of at least 3.3. Graduation with honors in philosophy requires successful completion of Honors I and II.
in the fall and spring semesters, respectively, of their senior year. The hours earned in these two courses do not count toward the twenty-seven hours required of all majors.

Group I — Introduction to Philosophy

111. Basic Problems of Philosophy. (3h) An examination of the basic concepts of several representative philosophers, including their accounts of the nature of knowledge, persons, God, mind, and matter.

Group II — Logic

121. Logic. (3h) An elementary study of the laws of valid inference, recognition of fallacies, and logical analysis.

221. Symbolic Logic. (3h) Basic concepts and techniques of first-order logic; applications of first-order logic to arguments expressed in English; some discussion of such topics as the unsolvability of the decision problem for first-order logic, the completeness of first-order logic, and Gödel’s incompleteness theorem.

Group III — Classical Ancient Philosophy

232. Ancient and Medieval Philosophy. (3h) A study of philosophical problems such as the nature of faith, reason, universals, and God in the thought of Plato, Aristotle, Augustine, Abelard, Anselm, Aquinas, and Ockham. P—PHI 111.

331. Plato. (3h) A detailed analysis of selected dialogues, covering Plato’s most important contributions to moral and political philosophy, theory of knowledge, metaphysics, and theology. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

332. Aristotle. (3h) A study of the major texts, with emphasis on metaphysics, ethics, and theory of knowledge. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

Group IV — Classical Modern Philosophy

241. Modern Philosophy. (3h) A survey of major philosophers from Descartes to Kant. P—PHI 111.

242. The Mechanistic View of Nature. (3h) An examination of the philosophical and scientific roots, in Descartes, Newton, and Leibniz, of the belief that the universe and human beings are “machines” subject to deterministic natural laws, and the relevance to this issue of modern scientific ideas.

341. Kant. (3h) A detailed study of selected works covering Kant’s most important contributions to theory of knowledge, metaphysics, ethics, religion, and aesthetics. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

342. Studies in Modern Philosophy. (3h) Treatment of selected figures and/or themes in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century European philosophy. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.
Group V — Other History

251. American Philosophy. (3h) A study exploring the philosophies of Jonathan Edwards, Ralph Waldo Emerson, C. S. Peirce, William James, John Dewey, and others, examining their views on logic, experience, science, reality, nature, art, education, and God. P—PHI 111.

253. Main Streams of Chinese Philosophy and Religion. (3h) An introduction to the most important traditions in Chinese philosophy and religion: Confucianism, Daoism (Taoism), and Chinese Buddhism or Chinese Chan (Zen) Buddhism. Also offered as Religion 380.

254. Existentialism. (3h) A study of existentialist treatment of such topics as the self, meaning, identity, nihilism, freedom, and commitment. Authors studied may include Kierkegaard, Dostoyevsky, Nietzsche, Kafka, Heidegger, Beckett, and Sartre. P—PHI 111.

351. Early German Idealism. (3h) An examination of the development of post-Kantian idealism through the works of Fichte, Schelling, and Schleiermacher, with particular emphasis on their efforts to address the challenge of critical philosophy. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

352. Hegel, Kierkegaard, and Nietzsche. (3h) An examination of selected sources embodying the basic concepts of Hegel, Kierkegaard, and Nietzsche, especially as they relate to each other in terms of influence, development, and opposition. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

353. Heidegger. (3h) An examination of the structure and development of Heidegger’s philosophy from the ontological analysis in Being and Time to his later work in the philosophy of language and poetry. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

354. Wittgenstein. (3h) The work of Ludwig Wittgenstein on several central philosophical problems studied and compared with that of Frege, James, and Russell. Topics include the picture theory of meaning, truth, skepticism, private languages, thinking, feeling, the mystical, and the ethical. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

Group VI — Topics in Philosophy

161. Medical Ethics. (3h) A study of moral problems in the practice of medicine, including informed consent, experimentation on human subjects, truth telling, confidentiality, abortion, and the allocation of scarce medical resources.

162. Ethics and Public Policy. (3h) A critical examination of the ethical foundations of public policy issues. Topics may include: euthanasia, censorship, racial and gender equality, drugs, sexual conduct, and crime.

163. Environmental Ethics. (3h) An examination of ethical issues concerning the environment as they arise in individual lives and public policy. These issues are discussed in the context of fundamental questions regarding the adequacy of traditional philosophical frameworks for thinking about the relationship between humans and the nonhuman world and the value and moral status of the nonhuman world.
171. Space and Time in Fact and Fiction. (3h) Are space and time fundamentally different? Are they properties of the physical world or of minds only? Are they finite or infinite in extension and duration? Other questions cover problems and paradoxes in the concept of space and in the concept of time travel.

261. Ethics. (3h) A critical study of selected problems and representative works in ethical theory. P—PHI 111.

262. Philosophy of Law. (3h) A philosophical inquiry into the nature of law and its relation to morality. Classroom discussions of readings from the works of classical and modern authors focus on issues of contemporary concern involving questions of legal principle, personal liberty, human rights, responsibility, justice, and punishment. P—PHI 111.

271. Philosophy of Biology. (3h) A study of the philosophical presuppositions and implications of contemporary biology, covering topics such as evolution by natural selection, the nature of biological classification, reductionism, and biological explanations of moral and social phenomena. P—PHI 111.

273. Philosophy, Mental Health, and Disorder. (3h) A philosophical inquiry into the nature of mental illness and mental health. Issues to be examined include a selection from among the following topics: autism and knowledge of other minds, despair and the meaning of life, schizophrenia and the nature of rationality, and dissociative identity disorder and personal identity. Topics are discussed in the context of readings about clinical cases and in philosophy.

274. Philosophy of Mind. (3h) A selection from the following topics: the mind-body problem; personal identity; the unity of consciousness; minds and machines; the nature of experience; action, intention, and the will.

361. Topics in Ethics. (1.5h,3h) P—one 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

362. Social and Political Philosophy. (3h) A systematic examination of selected social and political philosophers of different traditions, with concentration on Plato, Marx, Rawls, and Nozick. Topics include rights, justice, equality, private property, the state, the common good, and the relation of individuals to society. P—one 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

371. Philosophy of Art. (3h) A critical examination of several philosophies of art, with emphasis upon the application of these theories to particular works of art. P—one 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

372. Philosophy of Religion. (3h) An analysis of the logic of religious language and belief, including an examination of religious experience, mysticism, revelation, and arguments for the nature and existence of God. P—one 200-level course in philosophy or POI.
373. Philosophy of Science. (3h) A systematic and critical examination of major views concerning the methods of scientific inquiry, and the bases, goals, and implications of the scientific conclusions which result from such inquiry. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

375. Philosophy of Language. (3h) A study of such philosophical issues about language as truth and meaning, reference and description, proper names, indexicals, modality, tense, the semantical paradoxes, and the differences between languages and other sorts of sign-systems. Also listed as Linguistics 375. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

381. Topics in Epistemology. (3h) The sources, scope and structure of human knowledge. Topics include: skepticism; perception, memory, and reason; the definition of knowledge; the nature of justification; theories of truth. P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

382. Topics in Metaphysics. (3h) P—One 200-level course in philosophy or POI.

Group VII—Honors and Independent Study

385. Seminar. (1.5h,3h) Offered by members of the faculty on specialized topics of their choice. With permission, may be repeated for credit. P—POI.

391. Honors I. (1.5h) Directed study and research in preparation for writing a major paper. Must be taken in the fall semester of the senior year. P—Admission to the honors program in philosophy.

392. Honors II. (1.5h) Completion of the project begun in Philosophy 391. Requires defense of the paper in an oral examination conducted by at least two members of the department. Taken in the spring semester of the senior year. P—PHI 391.

395. Independent Study. (1.5h,3h)

The program for each student majoring in physics is developed through consultation with the student’s major adviser and may lead to either a bachelor of arts or a bachelor of science degree. The bachelor of arts degree requires a minimum of basic physics courses and allows a wide selection of electives related to the student’s interests in other disciplines, such as medicine, law, and business. The bachelor of science degree is designed for students planning careers in physics.

The bachelor of arts degree in physics requires twenty-five hours in physics and must include the following courses: 113, 114, 141, 162, 165, 166, and 230. The remaining six hours may be satisfied with any other 300-level courses in the department except 381 and 382. Mathematics 251 also is required. Depending on what other physics courses the student takes, additional mathematics courses may be required; e.g., Mathematics 301 is a prerequisite for Physics 339. The bachelor of science degree in physics requires thirty-eight hours in physics and must include the following courses: 113, 114, 141, 162, 165, 166, 230, 301, 302, 337, 339, 340, 343, 344, 346, and 351. The remaining hours may be satisfied with any other 300-level course in the department. In addition, Mathematics 251, 301, 302, and 304 are required; Mathematics 303 and Computer Science 111 are strongly recommended.

If this sequence is followed, the physics major may be completed with considerable flexibility in exercising various options, such as the five-year BS/MS program. This saves time, and the outstanding student may qualify for a tuition scholarship in the senior year of the five-year program. A candidate for the 3-2 engineering program would also complete three years of the bachelor of science physics major program prior to transfer. (Consult the chair of the department for additional information on these five-year programs.)

A minor in physics requires seventeen hours, which must include the courses 113, 114, 141, and 162. A minor in astrophysics requires seventeen hours and consists of the courses 113, 114, 141, 310, and 312. Students interested in either minor should so advise the faculty member responsible for advising physics majors (inquire in Olin Physical Laboratory Room 100).

If physics is not taken in the first year, the degree requirements in physics may still be completed by the end of the senior year if a beginning course is taken in the sophomore year. No student may be a candidate for a degree with a major in physics with a grade less than C in General Physics without special permission of the department.

Physics courses satisfying Division V requirements must be taken at Wake Forest.

Satisfactory completion of the laboratory work is required for a passing grade in all courses with a laboratory.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in physics through the major adviser. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Physics,” students must pass Physics 381, write a paper on the results of the research in that course, pass an oral exam on the research and related topics given by a committee of three physics faculty members, and obtain a grade point average of at least 3.5 in physics and 3.0 overall.

105. Descriptive Astronomy. (3h) An introductory study of the universe, from the solar system to the galaxies. No lab. Does not satisfy Division V requirements.

109. Astronomy. (4h) An introductory study of the universe consisting of descriptive astronomy, the historical development of astronomical theories, and astrophysics. Knowledge of basic algebra and trigonometry is required. Lab—two hours.

110. Introductory Physics. (4h) A conceptual, non-calculus one-semester survey of the essentials of physics, including mechanics, wave motion, heat, sound, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics. Not recommended for premedical, mathematics, or science students. Credit not allowed for both 110 and 113. Lab—two hours. (QR)

113, 114. General Physics. (4h,4h) Essentials of mechanics, wave motion, heat, sound, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics treated with some use of calculus. Recommended for science, mathematics, and premedical students. C—Mathematics 111, 106, or equivalent. P—PHY 113 is prerequisite for 114. Lab—two hours. (QR)

120. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h) The course covers the basic physical and chemical processes in the earth’s atmosphere, biosphere, and the oceans. It consists of two parts: 1) chemical processes in the environment such as element cycles and the chemistry of pollutants in air and water and, 2) physical aspects of the environment such as solar energy and the atmosphere, and the physics of weather and climate. Lab—three hours. Also listed as Chemistry 120. (QR)

141. Elementary Modern Physics. (3h) The development of twentieth century physics and an introduction to quantum ideas. P—PHY 114 and Mathematics 111. C—PHY 165. (QR)

162. Mechanics. (3h) A study of the equations of motion describing several kinds of physical systems: velocity-dependent forces; damped and forced simple harmonic motion; orbital motion; inertial and non-inertial reference frames; and relativistic mechanics. The course includes extensive use of computers. P—PHY 113 and Mathematics 111 or equivalent. (QR)
165, 166. Intermediate Laboratory. (1h, 1h) Experiments on mechanics, modern physics, electronics, and computer simulations. C—PHY 141 (for Physics 165); PHY 162 (for Physics 166). P—PHY 165 (for Physics 166).

230. Electronics. (3h) Introduction to the theory and application of transistors and electronic circuits. Lab—three hours. P—PHY 114. (QR)

301, 302. Physics Seminar. (0h, 0h) Discussion of contemporary research, usually with visiting scientists. Attendance required of junior and senior physics majors.

304. Physics of Medical Imaging. (3h) Physical principles of x-ray computed tomography (CT), positron emission tomography (PET), single-photon emission computed tomography (SPECT), magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), and ultrasonic imaging. P—PHY 113, 114 as well as Mathematics 111, 112 or POI.

307. Biophysics. (3h) An introduction to the structure, dynamic behavior, and function of DNA and proteins, and a survey of membrane biophysics. The physical principles of structure determination by X-ray, NMR, and optical methods will be emphasized. P—PHY 113, 114 as well as Biology 112 or 214 or POI.

310. Extragalactic Astronomy and Cosmology. (3h) Topics covered include galactic structure, models for galaxies and galaxy formation, the large scale structure of the universe, the big bang model of the universe, physical processes such as nucleosynthesis in the early universe, and observational cosmology. P—PHY 114, 141.

312. Introduction to Stellar Astronomy. (3h) The physics of stellar atmospheres and interiors. Topics covered include radiation transfer, absorption and emission of radiation, formation of spectra, models for stellar interiors, nuclear fusion reactions, and stellar evolution. Methods of measuring distances to stars and interpretation of stellar spectra also will be included. P—PHY 114, 141, Mathematics 301.

320. The Physics of Macromolecules. (3h) The physics of large biologically important molecules, especially proteins and nucleic acids. Topics covered include the physical basis of biomolecular structure, the energetics and statistical mechanics of biomolecular dynamics, and the electrostatics and solvation of biomolecules. Designed for students with biochemistry, chemistry, or physics backgrounds. P—PHY 351 or Biology 214 or Chemistry 341, PHY 113, 114, or POI.

323. Computational Biophysics Laboratory. (1h) Application of techniques in molecular modeling, including energy minimization, molecular dynamics simulation, and conformational analysis. C—PHY 320 or POI.

325. Biophysical Methods Laboratory. (1h) Experiments using various biophysical techniques such as electron paramagnetic resonance, atomic force microscopy, stopped-flow absorption spectroscopy, X-ray diffraction, and gel electrophoresis. C—PHY 307.

327. Bioinformatics. (3h) An introduction to bioinformatics and the language of computer programming and algorithm development in the field of biomedical research. Also listed as Computer Science 385. P—Introductory courses in biology, chemistry, and molecular biology or biochemistry or POI.

337. Analytical Mechanics. (1.5h) The Lagrangian and Hamiltonian formulations of mechanics with applications. This course is taught in the first half of the fall semester. P—PHY 162, Mathematics 251.

346. Advanced Physics Laboratory. (1h) Lab—three hours. P—PHY 166 and PHY 343.

351. Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics. (3h) Introduction to classical and statistical thermodynamics and distribution functions.

352. Physical Optics and Optical Design. (4h) Interaction of light with materials; diffraction and coherent optics; ray trace methods of optical design. Lab—three hours.

361. Biophysics Seminar. (1h) Seminal and current publications in biophysics will be studied. Each week a member of the class will make an oral presentation on a chosen publication and will lead the ensuing discussion.

381, 382. Research. (1.5h/3h, 1.5h/3h) Library, conference, computation, and laboratory work performed on an individual basis.

391, 392. Special Topics in Physics. (1h-4h) Courses in selected topics in physics. May be repeated if course content differs.
Political Science (POL)

In its broadest conception, the aim of the study of political science is to understand the way in which policy for a society is formulated and executed and to understand the moral standards by which policy is or ought to be set. This center of interest is often described alternatively as the study of power, of government, of the state, or of human relations in their political context. For teaching purposes, the study of political science has been divided by the department into the following fields: (1) American politics, (2) comparative politics, (3) political theory, and (4) international politics. Introductory courses in these fields provide broad and flexible approaches to studying political life.

The major in political science consists of thirty-one hours, of which, in all but exceptional cases, at least twenty-one hours must be completed at Wake Forest University. Where students take political science courses abroad, they have to be in Wake Forest approved programs and/or must have been certified by the department chair. The required courses for the major include the following: (a) at least one non-seminar course in each of the four fields of political science listed above; (b) a course in political science methods (POL 280); and (c) one political science seminar course (POL 290) normally taken in the senior year.

No more than six hours may be taken toward the major from introductory courses (100-level courses). Majors may not take the introductory courses during their senior year. No more than three hours for any one or any combination of the following courses may be counted toward the major: Political Science 287, 288, or 289. Transfer hours toward the major will be awarded on an individual case-by-case basis at the discretion of the department chair. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in all courses completed in political science at Wake Forest is required for graduation with the major.

The senior seminar provides an opportunity for majors to experience something comparable to a graduate seminar. As such, it is conducted more by discussion than by lecture and enables students to read and reflect upon advanced scholarly material. The seminar also offers students the opportunity in their final year to create a research paper of greater length and sophistication than is customary and to develop the research and writing skills appropriate to the task.
Students who write an outstanding seminar paper may be nominated for “Honors in Political Science” if they have a 3.3 overall grade point average and a 3.6 political science grade point average. In addition, the candidate’s seminar paper must be defended before the departmental honors committee. For additional information department faculty members should be consulted.

Political science majors who minor in Latin American studies also have the opportunity to pursue a five-year cooperative BA/MA degree program at Georgetown University in Washington, DC.

The minor in political science consists of eighteen hours. Fifteen of the hours must be taken at Wake Forest. No more than six hours may be taken toward the minor from introductory courses (100-level courses). No more than three hours for any one or any combination of the following courses may be counted toward the minor: Political Science 287, 288, or 289. Twelve of the hours must be taken at Wake Forest. Transfer hours toward the minor will be awarded on an individual case-by-case basis at the discretion of the chair. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in all courses completed in political science at Wake Forest is required for graduation with the minor.

A student who selects political science to fulfill the Division IV requirement must take one of the following courses: Political Science 113, 114, 115, or 116. Students who are not majors in political science may take upper-level courses as electives without having had lower-level courses, unless a prerequisite is specified.

American Politics

113. American Government and Politics. (3h) The nature of politics, political principles, and political institutions, with emphasis on their application to the United States.

210. Topics in United States Politics and Policy. (1h or 3h) An intensive study of one or more major problems in contemporary United States politics and policy.

211. Political Parties, Voters, and Elections. (3h) An examination of party competition, party organizations, the electorate and electoral activities of parties, and the responsibilities of parties for governing.

212. U.S. Policymaking in the Twenty-first Century. (3h) Examines the contemporary United States policymaking process. Special attention to ways issues become important and contributions of different political actors, institutions, and ideologies in the passage or rejection of policy proposals. Considers a range of social, economic, and regulatory policies.

214. Business and Government in the United States. (3h) Examination of the evolution of the relationship between business and government. Emphasis on contemporary public policies affecting and affected by business in some or all of the areas of labor relations, health care, economics, trade, telecommunications, campaign finance, and the environment.

215. Citizen and Community. (3h) An examination of the role and responsibilities of citizens in democratic policymaking. Includes discussion of democratic theory, emphasis on a policy issue of national importance (i.e. poverty, crime, environment), and involvement of students in projects that examine the dimension of the issue in their community.

P—POI.
216. U.S. Social Welfare Policy. (3h) An analysis of U.S. social policymaking and policy outcomes on issues such as welfare, education, health care, and Social Security, with an emphasis on historical development and cross-national comparison.

217. Politics and the Mass Media. (3h) Exploration of the relationship between the political system and the mass media. Two broad concerns will be the regulation of the mass media and the impact of media on political processes and events. Also listed as Journalism 277.

218. Congress and Policymaking. (3h) An examination of the composition, authority structures, external influences, and procedures of Congress with emphasis on their implications for policymaking in the United States.

219. Political Participation. (3h) An examination of political participation in the United States, with emphasis on electoral and non-electoral avenues through which individuals and groups wield influence in politics and government, including voting, interest groups, and social movements.

220. The American Presidency. (3h) Emphasis on the office and the role; contributions by contemporary presidents considered in perspective.

221. State Politics. (3h) An examination of institutions, processes, and policies at the state level, with emphasis on the different patterns of governance in the various states and the consequences of the recent revitalization of state governments.

222. Urban Politics. (3h) Political structures and processes in American cities and suburbs as they relate to the social, economic, and political problems of the metropolis. (CD)

223. Blacks in American Politics. (3h) A survey of selected topics, including black political participation, political organizations, political leadership, and political issues. It will also show the relationship of these phenomena to American political institutions and processes as a whole.

227. Politics, Law, and Courts. (3h) Analysis of the nature and role of law in American society and the structure and procedure of American courts. Questions of judicial organization, personnel, and decision-making, as well as the impact of law and court decisions on the social order, are explored at local, state, and national levels.

229. Women and Politics. (3h) The course examines classical and contemporary arguments regarding the participation of women in politics, as well as current policy issues and changes in women’s political participation.
Comparative Politics

114. Comparative Government and Politics. (3h) An analysis of political institutions, processes, and policy issues in selected countries. Case studies will be drawn from Africa, Asia, Europe, and Latin America. (CD)

231. Western European Politics. (3h) Comparative analysis of political institutions, processes, and policy issues in selected West European countries. Special attention will be given to case studies involving Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and to the process of European integration.

232. Politics in Russia and Eastern Europe. (3h) Analysis of the political, economic, and social patterns of the region, emphasizing the internal dynamics of the political and economic transition processes currently underway.

233. The Politics of Modern Germany. (3h) A study of the historical legacy, political behavior, and governmental institutions of contemporary Germany (newly unified Germany).

234. United Kingdom Politics in a Global Age. (3h) The purpose of this course is to introduce the nature and content of contemporary United Kingdom politics by placing those politics in a wider analysis of United Kingdom history, society, and international positions. (CD)

235. European Integration. (3h) Combines different approaches to the study of Europe by examining European integration—as highlighted by the development of the European Union—through the lenses of history, politics, culture, and economics.

236. Government and Politics in Latin America. (3h) Comparative analysis of the institutions and processes of politics in the Latin American region. (CD)

237. Comparative Public Policy in Selected Industrialized Democracies. (3h) An analysis of public policy choices involving such matters as health care, education, environment, and immigration in Western Europe and the United States.

238. Comparative Economic Development and Political Change. (3h) An overview of the relationship between economic development, socio-structural change, and politics since the creation of the international capitalist system in the sixteenth century. The course is organized around case studies of industrialized democracies, evolving Communist systems and command economies, and “Third World” countries.

239. State, Economy, and International Competitiveness. (3h) The purpose of this course is to introduce a range of important case studies of national economic performance, and to do so in such a manner as to illustrate the role of public policy in economic performance in a number of leading industrial economies (the United States, United Kingdom, Germany, Sweden, and Japan).

242. Topics in Comparative Politics. (1h or 3h) An intensive study of one or more major problems in contemporary comparative politics.

244. Politics and Literature. (3h) An examination of how literature can extend knowledge of politics and political systems. The course considers the insights of selected novelists.

245. Ethnonationalism. (3h) This course is concerned with the role of ethnicity in world politics. It focuses on both theoretical and substantive issues relating to: (a) the nature of ethnicity and ethnic group identity; (b) the sources of ethnic conflict; (c) the politics of ethnic conflict; (d) the policy management of ethnic conflict; and (e) international intervention in ethnic conflict.

246. Politics and Policies in South Asia. (3h) A survey of major issues relevant to politics and policy in India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, and Sri Lanka. (CD)

247. Islam and Politics. (3h) The course explores the interrelationship of Islam and politics in the contemporary world. The course has two main focuses. The first deals with Islam as a political ideology which shapes the structure of political institutions and behavior. The second looks at Islam in practice by examining the interaction between Islam and the political systems of Iran, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and others. (CD)

248. Chinese Politics. (3h) A survey of the political institutions and processes in China (People’s Republic of China and Republic of China). Emphasis on group conflict, elites, ideology, as well as current policy changes in the process of modernization.

International Politics

116. International Politics. (3h) A survey of the forces which shape relations among states and some of the major problems of contemporary international politics. (CD)

252. Topics in International Politics. (1h or 3h) An intensive study of one or more major problems of contemporary international politics.

253. International Political Economy. (3h) Analyzes major issues in the global political economy including theoretical approaches to understanding the tension between politics and economics, monetary and trade policy, North-South relations, environmentalism, human rights and democratization.

254. American Foreign Policy: Contemporary Issues. (3h) An examination of the most pressing issues in United States foreign policy today, with attention to the historical and institutional context in which U.S. foreign policy is determined.

255. Group Identity in International Relations. (3h) Examines the impact on international politics of nationalism, supranationalism, and globalism, with attention to the origins of group identities and to contemporary trends.

256. International Security. (3h) Explores various theoretical approaches to security studies and contemporary security issues, with special attention to domestic variables, the use of force, strategic culture, weapons of mass destruction, the political economy of national security, and terrorism.

257. Interamerican Relations. (3h) Examines the history and contemporary challenges of relations among the nations of the Americas, including intervention and sovereignty, migration, drugs, economic relations, and contemporary foreign policy.

259. The Arab-Israeli Conflict. (3h) An analysis of factors influencing the relationship between Israel and its neighbors relative to fundamental aspects of United States, Israeli, Palestinian, and Arab states policies.
260. United States and East Asia. (3h) An analytical survey of United States interaction with East Asia, with special emphasis on the strategic security and the political economy of the region. (CD)

261. International Law. (3h) Analyzes major issues in public international law including sources of international law, state sovereignty, territorial jurisdiction, treaties, peaceful settlement of disputes, human rights, and the relationship between international law and domestic law.

262. International Organizations. (3h) A survey of the philosophy, principles, organizational structure, and decision-making procedures of international organizations. In addition to the United Nations system, this course will analyze various international organizations in issues such as collective security, trade, economic development, human rights protection, and the environment.

263. U.S. Foreign Policy in the Middle East. (3h) A critical analysis of U.S. foreign policy with respect to the Middle East since the Second World War. This course utilizes a case study method of instruction.

Political Theory

115. Political Theory. (3h) Introduction to the central concepts (democracy, liberty, equality, and power) and ideologies (liberalism, conservatism, and socialism) as they have been formulated within some of the main schools of political thought.

269. Topics in Political Theory. (1h or 3h) An intensive study of one or more major topics in political theory.

270. Ethics and Politics. (3h) An investigation of the relationship between ethical reasoning and political theory. Representative philosophers include Hume, Kant, Nietzsche, Mill, Sidgwick, Green, Ayer, Hare, and McIntyre.

271. Classical Political Thought. (3h) Examination of the nature and goals of classical political theorizing, with attention to its origins in ancient Athens and its diffusion through Rome. Representative writers include Plato, Aristotle, and Cicero.

272. Democratic Theory. (3h) Examination of the theoretical underpinnings of democracy and some of the critiques of those foundations. Focus will be on understanding some of the major theories of democracy and on how key democratic concepts are defined differently within these various traditions.

273. Marx, Marxism and the Aftermath of Marxism. (3h) An examination of Marx’s indebtedness to Hegel, his early humanistic writings, and the vicissitudes of twentieth century vulgar Marxism and neo-Marxism in the works of Lenin, Lukacs, Korsch, Horkeimer, Marcuse, and Sartre.

274. Religion and Politics in Medieval Thought. (3h) Investigation of the medieval encounter between philosophy and revealed religion (Islam, Judaism, and Christianity).
Topics include the nature of political community and its role in cultivating virtue; relations between knowledge and power, and between politics and salvation; and the origins of modern ideas of law and freedom. Also listed as Religion 337.

275. American Political Thought. (3h) An examination of the republican, civic humanistic tradition vs. the liberal, juridical tradition in American political thought from the Founding to the present. Readings from Locke, Sidney, the Federalists and anti-Federalists, Spencer, Dewey, Rawls, and Sandel.

276. Modern Political Thought. (3h) Political thought from Machiavelli to the present, including such topics as moral and natural rights, positive and negative freedom, social contract theory, alienation and citizenship. Selected writings from, for example, Machiavelli, Locke, Rousseau, Mill, Marx, and Rawls.

277. Feminist Political Thought. (3h) Introduction to feminist thought and its implications for the study and practice of political theory. Topics include feminist critiques of the Western political tradition and schools of feminist political theory. (CD)

279. Varieties of Philosophical Liberalism. (3h) A study of twentieth century philosophical liberalism such as libertarianism, utilitarianism, liberal utilitarianism, Kantian liberalism and communitarianism with special focus on rival conceptions of freedom and on utilitarianism and its critics.

Seminars and Additional Courses

280. Political Science Methods. (3h) An overview of the methods currently prominent in studying politics. Special attention is given to the relationships between theory, method, and findings by focusing on the need to make empirical observation systematic. (QR)

281. Forms of Orientalism. (3h) The politics of the representational practices of Orientalism, the problem of cultural representation, and the relationship between Western intellectual constructions of the Orient and Western colonialism. Also listed as International Studies 220.

287. Individual Study. (2h or 3h) Intensive research leading to the completion of an analytical paper conducted under the direction of a faculty member. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing the permission of an appropriate instructor. P—POI.

288. Directed Reading. (2h or 3h) Concentrated reading in an area of study not otherwise available. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing the permission of an appropriate instructor. P—POI.

289. Internship in Politics. (2h or 3h) Field work in a public or private setting with related readings and an analytical paper under the direction of a faculty member. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing the permission of an appropriate instructor. Normally one course in an appropriate subfield will have been taken prior to the internship. P—POI.

290. Senior Seminar in Political Science. (4h) Readings and research on selected topics. P—POI.
Psychology 151 is a prerequisite to all courses of a higher number. Courses numbered below 151 do not count toward Division IV requirements or toward the major in psychology. Psychology 210, 211, 212, or special permission of the instructor is prerequisite for some 300-level courses. See individual course descriptions for specific information.

It is recommended that students who are considering psychology as a major take Psychology 151 in their first year and Psychology 211 no later than their junior year. An average of C or higher in psychology courses is required at the time the major is elected. The major in psychology requires the completion of a minimum of thirty-five hours in psychology, including 151, 211, 212, 313, and 392. Students who have successfully completed 383 are not required to complete 392. In addition, the major student must complete at least one course from each of the following groups: Group A: 326, 331, 338 and 374; Group B: 320, 323, 329, and 333; and Group C: 341, 351, 355, 357, and 362. No more than forty-two hours in psychology may be counted toward the graduation requirements of 112 hours. No more than three hours of directed study (280) or independent research (282) may be counted toward the thirty-five hours required for the major; up to a maximum of five hours may be counted with more than thirty-five hours in the major.

No more than nine hours will be accepted for courses taken at other schools to be counted toward the major. Courses taken at community colleges or college courses taught on high school campuses will not be accepted for transfer credit. With the exception of Psychology 151, specific courses required for the major must be taken at Wake Forest University. The guidelines regarding transfer and credit approval may be modified in rare and special circumstances at the discretion of the psychology department chair.

The minor in psychology requires fifteen hours in psychology including: 151; 210 or 211; at least two of the following courses, at least one of which must be at the 300-level—241, 245, 255, 260, 268, 320, 323, 326, 329, 331, 333, 338, 362 and 374.

A minimum grade average of C on all courses attempted in psychology is required for graduation with either a major or minor in psychology.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to participate in the honors program in psychology. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Psychology,” the student must complete satisfactorily a special sequence of courses (381, 383), pass an oral or written examination, and earn an overall GPA of 3.2 with an average of 3.5 on work in psychology. In addition, the honors student normally has a non-credit research apprenticeship with a faculty member. For more detailed information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted. (Students satisfactorily completing Psychology 383 are not required to complete Psychology 392.)

100. Learning to Learn. (3h) A workshop designed primarily for first- and second-year students who wish to improve their academic skills through the application of basic principles of learning, memory, organization, etc. Third- and fourth-year students by permission of the instructor only. Pass/Fail only.

151. Introductory Psychology. (3h) A systematic survey of psychology as the scientific study of behavior. Prerequisite to all courses of a higher number.

210. Methods in Psychological Research. (4h) An introduction to statistics and research design for students minoring in psychology. P—PSY 151 (QR)

211, 212. Research Methods in Psychology. (4h,4h) Introduction to the design and statistical analysis of psychological research. Lab—twice weekly. P—PSY 151 (QR)

239. Altered States of Consciousness. (3h) Examination of altered states of consciousness with special reference to sleep and dreams, meditation, hypnosis, and drugs. P—PSY 151.

241. Developmental Psychology. (3h) Survey of physical, emotional, cognitive, and social development in humans from conception to death. P—PSY 151.

245. Survey of Abnormal Behavior. (3h) Study of problem behaviors such as depression, alcoholism, antisocial personality, the schizophrenias, and pathogenic personality patterns, with emphasis on causes, prevention, and the relationships of these disorders to normal lifestyles. P—PSY 151.

250. Psychology Abroad. (3h) The study of psychology in foreign countries. Content and travel plans vary from year to year depending upon interests of faculty and students. Usually offered in summer. P—PSY 151.

255. Personality. (3h) Survey of theory and research on the structure and function of human personality, with attention to the relationship to cognition, emotion, motivation, and behavior. P—PSY 151.

260. Social Psychology. (3h) A survey of the field, including theories of social behavior, interpersonal attraction, attitudes and attitude change, and group behavior. P—PSY 151.

265. Human Sexuality. (3h) An exploration of the psychological and physiological aspects of human sexuality, with attention to sexual mores, sexual deviances, sexual dysfunction, and sex-related roles. P—PSY 151.

268. Industrial/Organization Psychology. (3h) Psychological principles and methods applied to problems commonly encountered in business and industry. P—PSY 151.
270. Topics in Psychology. (1h) The student selects from among a group of short one-hour courses dealing with topics of special interest. The courses meet sequentially, not concurrently, and options are offered in each portion of the semester. P— PSY 151.

280. Directed Study. (1-3h) Student research performed under faculty supervision. P— PSY 151 and approval of faculty member prior to registration.

282. Independent Research. (1-3h) Independent reading or research conducted under faculty supervision. P— PSY 151 and approval of faculty member prior to registration. Pass/Fail only.

313. History and Systems of Psychology. (3h) The development of psychological thought and research from ancient Greece to the present. P— Two psychology courses beyond 151 or POI.

315. Vienna Psychologists. (3h) This course examines the roots of psychological theory in Vienna in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century. Focus is on how the thinking and practice of influential Viennese psychologists were affected by historical, political, and social contexts. Psychologists studied will include Sigmund Freud, Alfred Adler, Victor Fankl, Anna Freud, and Erik Erikson.

320. Physiological Psychology. (3h) Neurophysiological and neuroanatomical explanations of behavior. P— PSY 210 or 211 or POI.

322. Psychopharmacology. (3h) A survey of the influences of a wide range of psychoactive drugs, both legal and illegal, on human physiology, cognition, and behavior. P— PSY 151.

323. Animal Behavior. (3h) A survey of laboratory and field research on animal behavior. P— PSY 210 or 211 or POI.

326. Learning Theory and Research. (3h) Theory and current research in learning, with emphasis on applications of learning principles for behavior modification and comparisons across species. P— PSY 210 or 212. C— PSY 212.

329. Perception. (3h) Survey of theory and research findings on various sensory systems (vision, hearing, touch, taste). P— PSY 210 or 211.

333. Motivation of Behavior. (3h) Survey of basic motivational concepts and related evidence. P—Psychology 210 or 212. C—PSY 212

335. Fundamentals of Human Motivation. (3h) Description and analysis of some fundamental motivational phenomena, with special reference to human problems; includes reward and punishment, conflict anxiety, affection, needs for achievement and power, aggression, creativity, and curiosity. P—PSY 151.

338. Emotion. (3h) Survey of theory methods and research in the area of emotion. Developmental, cultural, social-psychological, physiological, personality, and clinical perspectives on emotions are given. P—PSY 210 or 211.

341. Research in Developmental Psychology. (3h) Methodological issues and selected research in developmental psychology. Research projects required. P—PSY 210 or 212. C—PSY 212.

344. Abnormal Psychology. (3h) Descriptive analysis of the major types of abnormal behavior with attention to organic, psychological, and cultural causes and major modes of therapy. P—PSY 151. Offered in the summer.

346. Psychological Disorders of Childhood. (3h) Survey of problems including conduct disorders, attention deficits disorders, depression, and autism. Emphasis on causes, prevention, treatment, and the relationships of disorders to normal child development and family life. P—PSY 245 or 344 or POI.

351. Personality Research. (3h) The application of a variety of research procedures to the study of human personality. Research projects required. P—PSY 210 or 211.

355. Research in Social Psychology. (3h) Methodological issues and selected research in the study of the human as a social animal. Research projects required. P—PSY 210 or 211.

The study of religion is a way of organizing academic inquiry into how human beings and human cultures express and experience their religious needs, beliefs, and values. It involves the study of both specific religious traditions and the general nature of religion as a phenomenon of human life. Using cross-cultural and interdisciplinary approaches, religious studies investigate and interpret systems of religious belief, the history of religious traditions, the function of religion in society, and forms of religious expression such as ritual, symbols, sacred narrative, scripture, practices, theological and philosophical reflection. Students of religion, whether adherents of a religion or of no religion, gain tools to understand, compare, and engage the phenomenon of religion and its role in human life and culture.

A major in religion requires a minimum of twenty-four hours, of which eighteen must be in courses above the 100-level. Students must take at least one upper level course in a non-Western tradition. A variety of courses in comparative religion, African religious traditions, Asian religious traditions and Islam will satisfy this requirement. Introduction to Religion (REL 101) does not fulfill this requirement.

“Open Curriculum” Alternative: Majors may request an “open curriculum” alternative to the normal requirements. A student with a particular thematic and/or research interest may propose a program of study to his or her adviser. The proposed curriculum under this option must be approved by the department’s Undergraduate Committee.

A minor in religion requires fifteen hours, nine of which must be above the 100-level. As with majors, students for the minor also must take at least one course in a non-Western tradition as noted above. The department provides advisers for students pursuing a minor.

Highly qualified majors are encouraged to apply for admission to the honors program. Students who wish to pursue this option must apply to the department chair for admission to the honors program, normally by February of the junior year. Upon completion of all requirements, the candidate may graduate with “Honors in Religion.” For additional information, consult any member of the department faculty.

The department offers programs leading to majors in French and Spanish, minors in French, Italian, and Spanish, and certificates in Spanish and French for Business, and in Spanish translation and Spanish interpreting. The requirements for completion of each degree program are those in effect in the bulletin year when the declaration of the major, minor, and certificate occurs.

The major in French Studies requires a minimum of nine three-hour French courses numbered above 213. French 215, 216, 219, 370, one of the genre courses (363, 364, or 365), and four other courses are required. Students are advised and encouraged to take related courses in other areas of the University curriculum, such as History 317, 321, and 322, and Humanities 222. Students must achieve at least a C grade in each course in
In order to count for the major, 219 must be taken at Wake Forest. Credit towards the major cannot be received for both 220 and 2202.

The minor in French Studies requires a minimum of six three-hour French courses numbered above 213. French 215, 216, 219, and three other courses are required. With departmental approval, equivalent courses may be selected from the Dijon program, and certain other substitutions may be made. In order to count for the minor, 219 must be taken at Wake Forest. Credit towards the major cannot be received for both 220 and 2202.

The major in Spanish requires a minimum of nine three-hour Spanish courses numbered above 213. Spanish 217, 218, 219 or 2199, plus three advanced courses in literature, of which one must be in Spanish literature and one in Spanish-American literature, and three electives are required. Students must achieve at least a C grade in each course in the major. In order to count for the major, 219 must be taken at Wake Forest or as 2199 in Salamanca.

The minor in Spanish requires a minimum of six three-hour courses in Spanish numbered above 213. Spanish 217, 218, 219 and one advanced course in literature are required. With departmental approval, equivalent courses may be selected from the programs in Salamanca, Burgos, or Havana, and certain other substitutions may be made.

The minor in Italian language and culture requires fifteen hours in Italian above Italian 153. It includes Italian 215, 216, 219, 220, and 224 or their equivalents. Students must achieve at least a C grade in each course in the minor.

Certificate in Spanish for Business requires twelve hours above Spanish 219. It includes Spanish 329, 330, 381, and any course above Spanish 213 (excluding 219) in any area of Hispanic literature or culture.

Certificate in Spanish Translation/Localization (STL) teaches strategies of Spanish into English translation and introduces students to various software language applications; includes an internship in a professional translation environment (384). Hours: 13-15. Requirements include Spanish 380 and 381, Linguistics 383, and either Spanish 329 or 382.

Certificate in Spanish Interpreting (SI) teaches strategies for different types of Spanish/English interpreting; includes an internship (384). Hours: 10-12. Requirements include one literature course above Spanish 213, 382, 384, and any one of the following: Spanish 329 or 380 or 381, or Linguistics 383.

All majors, minors, and certificate students are strongly urged to take advantage of the department’s study abroad programs.

The honors designation in Romance languages is a recognition of outstanding scholarship in the field, as evidenced by academic achievement, critical thinking, and intellectual initiative. Highly qualified majors selected by the Romance language faculty are invited to participate in the honors program.

The honors program requires completion of 390 (Directed Reading, 1 hour) and 391 (Directed Research, 3 hours). Coursework in 390 during the fall semester includes reading and discussion of a number of texts on the selected topic, and a written exam covering these texts. At the end of fall semester, the student submits an annotated bibliography and an abstract of the honors thesis. Coursework for 391 during the spring semester consists of writing the thesis following a schedule established by the director and the student. At the end of spring semester, the honors student defends the thesis orally to appropriate faculty for final approval.

Intensive Summer Language Institute (ISLI)

Purpose: ISLI is a language immersion program. It offers a curriculum that enables students to achieve the necessary proficiencies in the Spanish language at the beginning-intermediate level and be better prepared to perform in subsequent courses in which they may enroll.

Intensive Summer Language Institute (ISLI) on the Wake Forest Campus. ISLI on campus offers Spanish 153S. Intensive Beginning and Intermediate Spanish in an Immersion Setting. (8h). This is an accelerated five-week course in an immersion setting that is offered in the first and second summer terms. Class size is reduced for individualized instruction. Women’s and Gender Studies (WGS)

(Interdisciplinary Minor)
Professor of English Anne M. Boyle, Director

The interdisciplinary minor in women’s and gender studies must include Women’s and Gender Studies 221 and a minimum of fifteen additional hours, for a total of eighteen hours. It is recommended that the upper division seminar, Women’s and Gender Studies 321, be included. If courses not designated WGS are taken, they must be from an approved list on file with the director; examples of these courses are listed. Such courses should be balanced between a) the humanities and b) the sciences. This structure gives students an understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of women’s and gender studies within the context of the traditional liberal arts curriculum.

A student minoring in women’s and gender studies might take Women’s and Gender Studies 221 as a sophomore, six to nine hours as a junior, and the remaining six to nine hours, including the Interdisciplinary Seminar, as a senior.

111. Writing and Women’s Issues. (3h) This writing-intensive seminar explores special topics that include women, such as: women and creativity; women, work, and family; Womanist literature; reproductive rights; violence against women; women and the arts; the emergence of feminist thought. Emphasis on expository writing, critical thinking, and exchange of ideas in a discussion and workshop setting; frequent essays based on readings. Satisfies the basic composition but not the minor requirement.

221. Issues in Women’s and Gender Studies. (3h) An interdisciplinary course, taught by women’s and gender studies faculty representing at least two fields, that integrates materials from the humanities and the sciences. Topics include critical methods and practical solutions, gender issues in the twenty-first century, women in culture and society, and cross-cultural issues of gender, ethnicity, social class, disability, and sexual orientation.

310. Gender, Power, and Violence. (3h) A research-centered study of various issues related to violence, power, and gender in American society. Emphasis will be placed on sociological analysis of competing theoretical explanations of violence with respect to race, class, gender, religion, and sexual orientation.

321. Interdisciplinary Seminar. (3h) A research-centered study of questions raised by women’s studies on an interdisciplinary topic, such as women’s health issues, war and peace, international women’s issues, perspectives on women and aging, lesbian and gay culture and theory, and women and the arts.

350. Biocultural Perspectives on Women and Aging. (3h) A course that examines biological, sociopsychological, and cultural issues affecting older women.

358. Mothers and Daughters. (3h) A course that examines literature, psychology, and feminist theories on motherhood and the mother-daughter relationship.

359. Fathers and Daughters. (3h) The ways in which fathers influence their daughters’ emotional, psychological, and intellectual development. Selected materials from psychology, mythology, film, and contemporary literature.

377. Special Topics. (1.5h, 2.5h, 3h) Includes such women’s and gender studies topics as gender issues in the twenty-first century, Jewish-American women writers, African-American women writers, women and aging, critical approaches to women’s issues, and the emergence of feminist thought.

377A. Race, Class and Gender in America. (3h).

377B. Colloquium: The History of Women and Development in Africa During the Twentieth Century. (3h). Also listed as History 211.

396. Independent Study. (1-3h) Independent projects in women’s studies which either continue study begun in regular courses or develop new areas of interest. By prearrangement.

397. Internships in Women’s Studies. (1.5h-3h) Practicum opportunities for work and for research in conjunction with a local women’s or justice organizations: Winston-Salem Family Services, NOW, Council on the Status of Women, the North Carolina Center for Laws Affecting Women, the AIDS Care Service, etc. Pass/Fail only.

In addition to the women’s and gender studies courses, the following courses may be included in the minor. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

100. R.A.D.: Rape Aggression Defense. (1h) Develops and enhances the options of self-defense, including basic physical self-defense tactics and risk reduction and avoidance, so they may become viable considerations for any woman who is attacked. Required readings include social science research on violence against women. Pass/Fail only.

Core Purpose

We are a community of teacher-scholars committed to providing an intimate educational environment and an intellectually challenging educational experience in which our students prepare for successful leadership roles in business and society.

Shared Values

We are committed to:

- excellence in teaching and learning;
- the growth and development of each of our students;
- intellectual curiosity and the pursuit of knowledge; and
- personal and professional integrity.

Programs

Four four-year programs of study leading to the bachelor of science degree are offered. Students may choose a major in either business, finance, information systems, or mathematical business (in cooperation with the Department of Mathematics). A five-year program of study is offered which combines a master of science in accountancy with a bachelor of science in accounting, a bachelor of science in finance, or a bachelor of science in information systems.

The five-year program is an integrated BS/MS program. Interested students will declare an accountancy or finance major during their sophomore year and will apply to the master’s program during their third year. Students will receive both the bachelor of science and the master of science degrees upon completion of the program.

Objectives

The business program of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy prepares students for success in today’s business world with a challenging and high quality curriculum. The program is intentionally general and facilitates the integration of the various business disciplines with the liberal arts core. It also emphasizes flexibility by allowing the opportunity for specialized career paths and for minors outside the Calloway School.

The finance program in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy prepares students for success in careers in financial services, including portfolio management, investment and commercial banking, and financial consulting. The program emphasizes a strong concentration in finance, supported by accounting concepts beyond the introductory level, which is critical in a global environment.

The mathematical business program, offered by the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy jointly with the Department of Mathematics, prepares students for careers in business and government that require model-based, advanced quantitative approaches to problem solving. The program responds to today’s complex global environment, where problems in business administration and public policy making are becoming more intricate, requiring the use of such an approach.

The information systems program in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy prepares students for challenging careers in information systems and technology management. The program emphasizes the leveraging effects of information technology toward competitive advantage, while also developing the requisite technical skill base to effectively serve leadership roles in information systems organizations.

The integrated five-year accountancy program prepares students for a variety of careers in accounting and financial management, including auditing and assurance, taxation, business advisory services, forensic accounting, and investment and commercial banking. Students in the program acquire the necessary professional competence through courses, seminars, and case-based research in finance, accounting, auditing, and taxation. This academic preparation is combined with a professional internship during the student’s fourth year. The internship provides an important union of classroom knowledge and professional experience. The program also qualifies students to take the CPA examination upon completion of coursework.

All programs in the Calloway School are accredited by the AACSB International—The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business.

Admission

Admission to the Calloway School is by formal application, and applicants will be screened by the Committee on Admissions, Continuation, and Scholarships of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy. Before being considered for admission to the Calloway School, the applicant first must have been admitted to Wake Forest College. Minimum requirements for admission to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy are completion of forty-nine hours with an overall grade point average of 2.2, completion of Economics 150, Mathematics 106 or 111 (Mathematics 111 for the mathematical business major), Accounting 111 and 112, and a 2.0 average in these four courses. In addition, students should have completed Business 100 and Communication 110. Students who have not met fully the above requirements may request a one-semester provisional acceptance.

The number of students who can be accommodated is limited. Meeting the minimum requirements is not a guarantee of admission. Therefore, the Calloway School reserves the right to grant or deny admission or readmission to any student even though he or she meets the minimum requirements. Readmission to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy first requires readmission to Wake Forest College, requirements for which are discussed on page 33.

Transfer of Credit from Other Schools

It is expected that most work toward degrees offered by the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy will be taken in the Calloway School. For students wishing to transfer credit from other schools, the following general guidelines apply:
(a) Courses at another school passed with the minimum passing grade at that school may not be transferred.

(b) Courses transferred in business and accountancy may be subject to validating examinations.

(c) No work in courses numbered 200 and above will be accepted from two-year schools.

(d) Courses taken elsewhere in subjects not offered at the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy will not necessarily count toward the hours required in the Calloway School.

(e) Only one course so transferred may be an elective unless such course is from an international program approved by the Calloway School, in which case two such electives may be so transferred (including any approved economics course counting toward the major).

(f) Business 271 cannot be transferred from another institution; it must be taken in the Calloway School.

For the bachelor of science in business, a minimum of thirty hours must be earned in the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy at Wake Forest University; for the bachelor of science in finance, the minimum hours earned in the Calloway School must total thirty-eight; for the bachelor of science in information systems, the minimum hours earned in the Calloway School must total thirty-six; for the BS/MS in professional accountancy, a minimum of forty-one undergraduate hours and thirty graduate hours must be earned in the Calloway School; and for the bachelor of science in mathematical business, a minimum of thirty hours must be earned in the Calloway School and/or the mathematics department at Wake Forest University.

Requirements for Continuation

In addition to the requirements stated on page 32, a student must be academically responsible and must show satisfactory progress toward completing the requirements for the degree. The administration of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy will notify the student if satisfactory progress is not being made and, after consultation with the Committee on Admission, Continuation, and Scholarships, will decide if the student may continue as a major in the Calloway School.

Requirements for Graduation

The Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy confers the bachelor of science degree with a major in either business, finance, information systems, or mathematical business. The Calloway School also confers the master of science in accountancy concurrently with the bachelor of science in accountancy or the bachelor of science in finance. (Within the bachelor of science in accountancy, a student may pursue an accounting information systems track.) The requirements for completion of the degrees are those in effect at the time the student enters the Calloway School.
The business major requires the following courses: Accounting 111 and 112; Business 100, 201, 202, 211, 221, 231, 241, 251, 261, and 271 or 272; Economics 150; Mathematics 106 or 111; Communication 110; and a minimum of nine hours from Business 209, 212, 213, 215, 216, 217, 222, 223, 224, 225, 227, 228, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 243, 253, 254, 256, 257, 258, 262, 265, 281, 282, 290, 291, 293, 294, 338 or accounting courses numbered 200 or above. One elective may be taken from economics courses numbered 200 or above.

The finance major requires the following courses: Accounting 111, 112, 211, and 212; Business 100, 201, 211, 221, 231, 232, 238, 241, 251, 261, and 271 or 272; Economics 150; Mathematics 106 or 111; Communication 110 and a minimum of six hours from Business 233, 234, 235, 236. A student may substitute an upper level (3h) Calloway elective for one finance elective.

The information systems major requires the following courses: Accounting 111 and 112; Computer Science 111 and 111L; Business 100, 201, 202, 211, 221, 231, 241, 251, 254, 256, 257, 258, 261, and 271 or 272; Economics 150; Mathematics 106 or 111; and one course from the following list: Business 217, 243, 253, 259, Computer Science 112 and 112L, or another approved course.

Prerequisites for the mathematical business major include the following courses: Accounting 111 and 112; Mathematics 111 and 112; Economics 150; Communication 110, and Business 100. Computer Science 111 and 112 are strongly recommended. Requirements for the mathematical business major are: Mathematics 253, 256, 301 (or 113), 302 (or 121), 353; Business 211, 221, 231, 241, 251, 261, 292; and a minimum of six additional hours—only three of which can be in business. Mathematics electives must be at the 300 level or above, excluding 381.

For the combined bachelor of science in accountancy/master of science in accountancy, the following course work must be completed: Accounting 111, 112, 211, 212, 351, 352, 414, 710, 721, 730, 731, 732 or 754, 780 and 790. Business 100, 201, 202, 211, 221, 231, 237, 241, 251, 261, 671, 762, a three-hour undergraduate international course, and six hours of approved graduate electives; Economics 150; Mathematics 106 or 111; and Communication 110. Students electing the accounting information systems track also must complete Business 256, 257 and 258. (See the Graduate School Bulletin for course descriptions of 600 and 700 level courses.)

For the combined bachelor of science in finance/master of science in accountancy, the following course work must be completed: Accounting 111, 112, 211, 212, 351, 352, 414, 710, 721, 730, 731, 732 or 754, 780, and 790; Business 100, 201, 202, 211, 221, 231, 232, 233 or 234 or 235 or 236, 237, 238, 241, 251, 261, 671, 762, an approved international course; and six hours of approved graduate electives; Economics 150; Mathematics 106 or 111; and Communication 110. (See the Graduate School Bulletin for course descriptions of 600 and 700 level courses.)

In addition to the courses stipulated on the previous page, the student in business and accountancy also must meet the following requirements for graduation:

(a) a minimum of 120 hours for the four-year programs and 120 hours plus 30 graduate hours for the five-year program, including the basic and divisional requirements established by Wake Forest College;
(b) a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on all work attempted at Wake Forest;
(c) a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on all work attempted at other institutions; and
(d) an overall 2.0 grade point average on all business and accountancy courses.

Senior Honors Program

Calloway School students (exclusive of mathematical business majors) with a grade point average of at least 3.0 on all college work and who are eligible for membership in Beta Gamma Sigma are invited to apply for admission to the honors program in business and accountancy. A project, paper, or readings, and an oral presentation or examination are required. Those who successfully complete the requirements specified by the school are graduated with the designation “Honors in Business,” “Honors in Accountancy,” “Honors in Finance,” or “Honors in Information Systems.” For additional information, interested students should consult a member of the faculty of the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Mathematical business majors with a grade point average of at least 3.0 on all college work and a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the major are invited to apply for admission to the honors program in mathematical business. A project, paper, or readings, and an oral presentation or examination are required. Those who successfully complete the requirements specified by the school and the mathematics department are graduated with the designation “Honors in Mathematical Business.” For additional information, interested students should consult a member of the faculty of the mathematics department or the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy.

Beta Gamma Sigma, National Honor Society

Membership in Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest national recognition a student can receive in an undergraduate program in accounting or business. To be eligible for membership, a student must rank in the upper five percent of the junior class or the upper ten percent of the senior class.

Courses of Instruction

Business

100. Calloway Requisite Integrated Study Program. (1.5) Provides students with an awareness of the fundamental objectives of business organizations and the environments in which they operate, in order to provide a common foundation for an integrated study of business disciplines. In addition, students develop knowledge and basic skills of business software applications including spreadsheets, business presentation graphics, and databases. Closed to freshmen and seniors. P or C—Accounting 111.

101S. Introduction to Business Software. (1.5h) This experiential course provides students with basic skills in business software. The class will focus on software for presentations, spreadsheets, and databases. In addition, students are familiarized with databases provided through the library and through the Internet that facilitate their ability to do research. This course does not count towards a Calloway major. _Summer only._
181. Field Study. (1h) Directed field study in specialized areas of business. P—Business 100 and Accounting 111. POI.

201. Quantitative Analysis I. (3h) This course emphasizes the understanding and application of quantitative tools used in the business decision-making process. Specific issues covered include collection and presentation of data, sampling, and inferences. P—Business 100.

202. Quantitative Analysis II. (3h) This course emphasizes the understanding and application of quantitative tools for data analysis and managerial decision-making. Specific topics include such statistical tools as Chi-Square methods, analysis of variance and regression. Management science tools include statistical decision theory and some deterministic optimization models such as linear programming and its various extensions. Application of these methods to the analysis of decisions from various functional areas of business is an important component of the course. P—Business 201.

209. Seminar: Contemporary Issues in Business. (3h) The course examines current business issues using the theory and practices covered in the core courses. Topics may include recent global business events and policies, corporate takeovers and restructurings, business aspects of health care, workplace issues, the relationship of government and business decisions, among others. The topics discussed will change each semester reflecting the important issues at that time. P—Senior status and POI.

211. Organizational Theory and Behavior. (3h) This course focuses on the behavior, structure, and processes within organizations. Emphasis is on developing knowledge and skills regarding the role of individuals and groups within organizations, as well as organizational dynamics.

212. Human Resource Management. (3h) This course focuses on important human resources management (HRM) skills that are frequently used by general managers. Upon completion of the course, students should be literate in basic HRM concepts, knowledgeable of general managers’ HRM responsibilities, and skilled in HRM applications as prospective managers. P—Business 211.

213. Entrepreneurship. (3h) This course exposes students to multiple facets of entrepreneurship and teaches about creating new ventures in a very hands-on fashion. A broad range of ideas, readings, and cases will enable students to understand characteristics of successful new business startups and will convey the essence of working in ambiguous and highly-charged environments. The course will focus on three areas that define successful entrepreneurial pursuit: opportunities, management, and the deal. Guest speakers will present views of entrepreneurial organizations from real experiences—startup, financing, legal, transition, failure, etc. The highlight of the course will be the completion of a team-developed business plan for a new venture. P—Business 211, 221, and 231, or POI.

215. Seminar in Comparative Management. (1.5h,3h) This course deals with the global issues in management. Particular emphasis is placed on the different management philosophies and styles practiced by managers in an international context. The course is conducted in a seminar format and focuses on the complexities involved in operating in different cultures and the implications which these cultural differences have on managing organizations and their employees’ behavior. P—Business 211.
216. Management in the Nonprofit and Public Sectors. (1.5h) This seminar focuses on the comparisons and contrasts of management across the nonprofit, public, and private sectors. The course uses a seminar format and a “real-world” approach. P—Senior standing. (One-half of enrollment spaces are available for non-Calloway School students.)

217. Change Management. (3h) This course focuses on the processes of change and reorganization in organizations. The overall course objective is to help students develop skills and knowledge that will allow them to assess the necessity for organizational change, identify factors that facilitate or impede successful change, and initiate and implement change in organizations. P—Business 211.

221. Principles of Marketing. (3h) Investigates the means by which firms create, maintain, and improve relationships with customers through the development of strong brands and effective marketing programs. Emphasizes the application, rather than the acquisition, of marketing knowledge. Explores how the four Ps—product, price, place, and promotion—can be used to solve problems, exploit opportunities and meet challenges in the global marketplace. Discussions, cases, objective tests, in-class exercises and a marketing campaign project are among the instructional methods used. P—Economics 150, Business 100, and Accounting 111, or POI.

222. Marketing Strategy. (3h) Builds on 221 to explore strategic issues in greater depth through intensive examination of cases from consumer, industrial, and technological markets; product and service businesses; and for-profit and nonprofit organizations. Focuses on building analytical and decision-making skills. Objective is to ensure students understand the key role of marketing strategy in achieving and maintaining competitive advantage in an ever-changing, increasingly complex business environment. P—Business 221.

223. International Marketing. (3h) Examines problems, challenges and opportunities associated with global marketing in a world in which borders are changing and/or disappearing, competition is increasing, and consumers are choosing among a growing array of product and service options. Analyzes social, cultural, economic, legal, and political factors present in the international marketplace and their impact on planning and implementing marketing strategy. P—Business 221.

224. Marketing Research. (3h) Introduction to fundamentals of research methodology and use of research information in marketing decision-making. Topics include research design, data collection methods, scaling, sampling, and alternate methods of statistical data analysis. Students design and execute their own research projects. P—Business 201 and 221.

225. Consumer Behavior. (3h) Focuses on understanding the customers/consumers/buyers/clients/patients/patrons without whom marketing and business cannot survive. Examines consumer motivations, influences, decision-making processes and behaviors as they relate to the development of competitive marketing strategy. Discussions, mini-cases, in-class exercises, and a project are among the instructional methods used in the course. P—Business 221 or POI.

227. Marketing Communications. (3h) Designed for students whose career plans involve making strategic marketing decisions. Emphasizes ways to foster relationships with consumers by establishing a dialogue through advertising, consumer and trade promotions, the Internet, direct mail, publicity, packaging, point of sale material and event sponsorship. Discussions, cases, in-class exercises, oral presentations, and a marketing communications campaign project are among the instructional methods used in the course. P—Business 221.

228. Sports Marketing. (3h) This course focuses on the application of the strategic marketing process to the rapidly growing sports industry. Varied elements of the industry are examined: understanding the sports consumer; marketing and media; advertising and communication; promotion and special events; licensing; and corporate sponsorships. Current research, including gender-specific marketing, using athletes as endorsers, segmenting the sports market, measuring value of sponsorship, and the impact of technology on sports are covered. P—Economics 150 or equivalent.

231. Principles of Finance. (3h) A survey course examining the fundamentals of financial decision-making and including topics such as the time value of money, security valuation (corporate debt and equity pricing), risk and return, financial statement analysis, capital budgeting, and the cost of capital. Financial decision-making is developed within the context of domestic and international institutions and markets. P—Accounting 111, P or C—Economics 150.

232. Advanced Financial Management. (3h) The course provides an in-depth examination of the complexities of valuation and stresses practical applications of financial decision making. Topics include: strategic capital budgeting with managerial flexibility (real options), cost of capital determination, firm valuation, working capital management, financial statement forecasting (pro forma analysis), risk analysis, and financial restructuring. The class incorporates electronic spreadsheet applications in problem solving and financial modeling. P—Business 231.

233. Investment Analysis. (3h) Equity market analysis course where students are exposed to portfolio development and analysis, valuation of equity securities, and selection of equity securities for portfolio construction. P or C—Business 232 or POI.

234. International Finance. (3h) The course examines the impact of international financial economics on markets and the management of both domestic and multinational firms. Emphasis is placed upon institutional and environmental factors influencing trade, foreign exchange, and capital acquisition and allocation. P—Business 232 or POI.

235. Fixed-Income Securities and Financial Institutions. (3h) A thorough examination of fixed-income securities, their sensitivity to changes in interest rates, and the impact of imbedded options and credit risk. This course also explores the role of financial intermediaries in a free market economy and the functions of financial institutions within money and capital markets. Special topics may include interest rate risk management techniques, fixed-income portfolio management, and hedging financial risks. P—Business 232 or POI.

236. Financial Derivatives. (3h) Futures, options, and swaps are the three most important types of financial derivatives, and they are linked by a common pricing framework. This course emphasizes the use of these derivatives in risk management but includes speculative strategies that can be implemented with derivatives. P—Business 232 or POI.

237. Taxes and Their Role in Business and Personal Decisions. (3h) Study of basic concepts of federal and state income taxation with an introduction to sales, property, and
238. Integrative Financial Decision Making. (2h) As the capstone course for finance majors, this class applies the skills learned in prior courses to develop a chief financial officer’s view of business. Students analyze cases and grapple with problems and issues in the business media. P—Business 232 and at least one of the following: Business 233, 234, 235, 236.

241. Production and Operations Management. (3h) This course introduces the basic concepts of operations strategy and operations planning in support of the business strategy of the firm. Topics include: operations strategy, quality management, project planning and control, capacity planning, location, layout, demand forecasting, supply chain management, aggregate planning, production scheduling, and inventory systems. P—Business 201.

243. Management of Technology and Innovation. (3h) This course explores the management challenges and opportunities created by emerging new technologies including both product and process technologies. Major themes of the course include (1) how pioneering firms manage the initial exploitation of new technologies to create business value and establish a competitive advantage through new product development or new process development and (2) how established firms cope with an emerging technology that threatens to diminish their competitive advantage or displace demand for products and services. This course deals with managerial rather than technical choices. P—Business 211, 221, 231 and 251, or POI.

251. Management Information Systems. (3h) An introduction to the business issues associated with information systems, designed to provide a broad perspective for utilizing and managing an organization’s information resources. Frameworks are presented for understanding the placement and relationship of different types of information systems within an organization. The course includes an overview of computing technology currently used in business organizations, techniques for developing and implementing information systems, advanced applications of information technology, and the strategic implications of information systems and technology for business. P—Business 100.

253. Selected Topics in Information Systems. (3h) An in-depth study of contemporary issues in the field of information systems that are not covered in other information systems courses. Content varies. P—Business 251 or POI.

254. Project Management in Information Systems. (3h) The course addresses the management of information systems (IS) projects within an organizational context, including the processes related to initiating, planning, executing, controlling, reporting, and closing a project. Project integration, scope, time, cost, quality control, and risk management are addressed. Also considered are the challenges of managing the changes in organizations resulting from introducing or revising information systems. Identifying project champions, working with user teams, training, and documentation are explored as determinants of project success. P or C—Business 251 or POI.

256. Systems Analysis and Design. (3h) The course addresses structured approaches to the development of computer-based information systems in business. Specifically, structured methodologies are addressed, as are approaches to representing information and data flows. and requirements. The fundamentals of design are also addressed. Structured software engineering and documentation techniques are explored as approaches to implementing quality systems. P—Business 251, P or C—Computer Science 111 and Business 257, or POI.

257. Database Management. (3h) Explores the fundamental concepts, features, and capabilities of relational database management in a business environment. The course is organized around the steps in the Systems Development Life Cycle of a relational database. Primary emphasis is placed on three topics: data modeling, relational database design, and Structured Query Language (SQL). Students will gain experience with relational database software such as Oracle. P—Business 251, P or C—Computer Science 111 or POI.

258. The Management of Telecommunications. (3h) Driven by increasingly global and mobile computing environments, the course addresses the technical underpinnings of telecommunications, but does so within a business context. Several telecommunications models and networks are examined in detail. Special attention is paid to Internet-based communications. Emphasis is placed upon management of the telecommunications infrastructure and associated projects. The impact of legislation and regulation in a global environment also is addressed. P—Business 256 or POI.

259. Managing the IT Resource. (3h) The course develops in students the ability to critically evaluate the technological and competitive landscape and to identify opportunities to leverage information technology toward competitive advantage. Special emphasis is placed upon developing the ability to identify emerging and emergent technologies, to evaluate their strategic value to the firm and to then communicate the results of this analysis in a rigorous, professional and understandable fashion to business units and senior management. P—Business 258 or POI.

261. Legal Environment of Business. (3h) A study of the legal environment in which business decisions are made in profit and nonprofit organizations. Emphasis is put upon how the law develops and how economic, political, social, international, and ethical considerations influence this development. Includes substantive areas such as torts and government regulation of the employment relationship, the competitive marketplace and the environment. P—Accounting 111.

262. Business Law. (3h) A study of substantive law topics applicable to business transactions including contracts, agency, property, the UCC and business organizations with an emphasis on how these subjects intersect with the functional areas of business and affect managerial decision-making. P—Business 261.

265. Ethics and Business Leadership. (3h) An interdisciplinary exploration of ethics applied to business. The lecture, readings, and case-based approach introduces the necessary background information and then utilizes examples of ethical and unethical situations to develop an understanding of how an efficient and effective business can also be ethical. (One-half of enrollment spaces are available for non-Calloway School students.) P—Junior or senior standing.

271. Strategic Management. (3h) This course focuses on the derivation of competitive advantage by organizations. The course emphasizes the activities of general managers who are responsible for the shape, character, and overall direction of the total enterprise. Course content includes analyzing the effects of industry and competitive environments on the firm, determining the strategic basis upon which the firm should compete, formulating and implementing integrative action plans which enhance performance, and strategic leadership. Emphasis is placed on applying principles of competitive analysis and strategic planning to case studies of domestic situations, diversification, globalization, and corporate turnaround. P—Business 211, 221, and 231. P or C—Business 241.

272. Strategic Management in Entrepreneurial Firms. (3h) This course focuses on the creation and management of strategy in entrepreneurial firms. Core foundational concepts in strategic management are critically examined in the context of entrepreneurial firm settings. Emphasis is placed on applying principles of competitive analysis and strategic planning using case studies of startups, fast-growth firms, young firms in rapidly-changing industries, and firms confronting early organizational life cycle problems. Unique strategy issues confronted by firms in electronic commerce, technology, and other fast-paced industries will be considered. P—Business 211, 221, and 231. P or C—Business 241.

281. Individualized Reading and Research. (1h, 2h, 3h) Directed study in specialized areas of business. P—POI.

282. Management in the Visual Arts. (3h) This course is taught by faculty from the Calloway School and the art department. It provides both art and business students with the essential skills, pragmatic experiences, and a conceptual framework for understanding the role the visual arts play within the national and international economies. Students receive preparation for involvement in art galleries, auction houses, museums, and publishing, as well as for contributions to various boards and organizations that commission or purchase works of art. The marketing, financial, legal, and strategic aspects of art management are explored. Emphasis is placed on dialogue between art majors and business majors enrolled in the course. The course includes field study in at least one major metropolitan area for the purpose of gaining intensive exposure to professional arts management. The field study is required, but the majority of travel costs are covered by the University. Also listed as Art 297. (One half of enrollment spaces are available for students who have been accepted into the Calloway School; the remaining half of the spaces are available to declared art majors with junior standing or higher.) P—Junior or senior standing and POI.

290. International Business Study Tour. (3h) An experiential learning course which provides students with an exposure to and understanding of global operations in foreign settings. Each of the functional areas of business (marketing, operations, finance, human resources management, information systems, and strategic management) are covered through various site visits and presentations in selected foreign countries. Background readings and assignments appropriate to business or finance majors are required. P—POI. Taught overseas in the summer.

292. Seminar in Mathematical Business Analysis. (3h) This seminar provides mathematical business majors with a forum where they can actually see how the mathematical, statistical and computer techniques can be brought to bear on many business problems in a variety of business functions. Emphasis will be more on studying the process of modeling and implementation issues of the solutions and less on the algorithmic details. Critical and reflective thinking about models and translation of their results into management action that will add value to a process or a system will be a major objective. Another objective of the seminar will be to foster group work and the sharpening of presentation skills. P—Business 211, 221, 231, 241, and Mathematics 256, 353.

293. Principles of Risk Management. (1.5h) Risk management continues to evolve as an important area of study within the field of finance. This course is intended to assist the student in identifying and analyzing risk and in managing it through a variety of mechanisms. Techniques such as loss control, risk retention, and risk transfer are discussed. This course is a prerequisite to Business 294. P—Junior or senior standing.

294. Applied Risk Management. (1.5h) Professional risk management field work, under the direction of a faculty member. Students gain relevant practical experience that is integrated with casework and risk management theory. Emphasis is placed upon analysis, decision-making in a global environment, teamwork, written and verbal skills, presentation skills, and using technology to solve problems. P—Business 293, POI, and senior standing.

295. Summer Management Program. (6h) A study of the various functions of business including accounting, finance, information systems, management, marketing, production, and strategic planning. Special application and admission procedures. Offered only in the summer and open only to junior and senior liberal arts majors.

296. Seminar in Fundamentals of Business. (4.5h) A study of the various functional areas of business, including finance, information systems, management, marketing, production, and strategic planning. P—Admission to master of science in accountancy program. Offered only in the summer.

297S. Summer Sports Management Program. (6h) A study of the various functions of business associated with the sports industry. Students will be introduced to such areas as the foundation of sports management, sociology of sports, sports marketing, psychology of coaching, sports economics and finance, ethics in management of sports organizations, legal issues in sports management, athletics administration, facilities management, and the strategic management of sports organizations. Students may not receive credit for both Business 295 and Business 297S. Special application and admission procedures. Offered only in the summer with preference to rising seniors. Enrollment is not limited to Calloway students. One-half of enrollment spaces are available for student athletes and one-half for non-student athletes with sport experience.

338. Financial Statement Analysis. (1.5h) A study of the techniques used to analyze and interpret the information in corporate financial statements. Emphasis is placed on (1) accounting methods used in the preparation of financial statements, (2) implications of management’s accounting choices for evaluation of corporate performance by creditors and investors, and (3) linkages among financial statement items. P—Business 231 and Accounting 212.
111. Introductory Financial Accounting. (3h) An introduction to financial accounting and reporting, including the role of financial information in business decisions, the basic financial statements, and the processes used to prepare these financial statements. Students are introduced to the accounting and reporting issues associated with an organization’s financing, investing, and operating activities. Sophomore standing.

112. Introductory Management Accounting. (3h) A study of the concepts fundamental to management accounting which aid in decision-making, performance evaluation, and planning and control. The topics covered in the course include product costing systems, budgeting, differential and breakeven analysis, responsibility accounting, cost allocation, and management accounting reports. P—Minimum of C in Accounting 111.

211. Financial Accounting Theory and Problems I. (4h) A study of the conceptual framework underlying financial accounting in the United States as well as the financial accounting standards setting process and the basic corporate financial statements. Financial accounting and reporting issues associated with receivables, inventories, property, plant, and equipment, and intangible assets are also examined. P—Business 100 and minimum of C in Accounting 111.

290. International Accounting. (3h) An experiential learning course that provides students with an opportunity to learn about international and transnational accounting standards, policies, and practices. Students will participate in a study tour of several selected countries and will gain an international accounting and business perspective through meetings with individuals in government, professional accounting firms, financial institutions, and manufacturing companies. Background readings and assignments appropriate to accounting or finance majors are required. P—Accounting 211 and POI. Taught overseas in the summer.

351. Accounting Information Systems. (3h) A study of the design and operation of accounting systems including the revenue, expenditure, and administrative transaction cycles. Emphasis is placed upon the necessary controls for reliable data. P—Admission to MSA program, minimum of C in Accounting 211 and Business 251.

352. Introduction to Auditing. (4h) An examination of basic auditing concepts and practices, and the auditor’s professional responsibilities. Emphasis is placed upon auditing standards and the auditing procedures commonly used in public accounting. P—Admission to the MSA program, minimum of C in Accounting 211; C—Accounting 351 or POI.

378. Individualized Reading and Research. (1h, 2h, 3h) Directed study in specialized areas of accountancy. P—POI.
390. Professional Accounting Internship. (6h) Professional accounting field work, under the direction of a faculty member, in a public accounting firm, corporate enterprise, or not-for-profit organization. Students gain relevant practical experience which builds on prior coursework and provides an experiential knowledge base for coursework in the fifth year. P—Admission to MSA program and POI. Pass/Fail.

414. Seminar in Financial Reporting. (3h) An examination of a variety of financial reporting topics, including revenue recognition, income taxes, accounting changes and error analysis, interim and segment reporting, business combinations, foreign currency transactions and translations, and accounting for partnerships. P—Admission to the MSA program, minimum of C in Accounting 212.

The information in this bulletin applies to the academic year 2003-2004 and is accurate and current, to the extent possible, as of March 20, 2004. The University reserves the right to change programs of study, academic requirements, teaching staff, the calendar, and other matters described herein without prior notice, in accordance with established procedures.

Wake Forest University is committed to administer all educational and employment activities without discrimination because of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, veteran status, handicapped status or disability as required by law. The University has adopted a procedure for the purpose of resolving discrimination complaints. Inquiries or concerns should be directed to Harold Holmes, dean of student services, at (336) 758-5226; dean of the College, at (336) 758-5312; or Doris McLaughlin, assistant director of human resources, director of equal employment opportunity, and Title IX coordinator, at (336) 758-4814. In addition, Wake Forest rejects hatred and bigotry in any form and adheres to the principle that no person affiliated with Wake Forest should be judged or harassed on the basis of perceived or actual sexual orientation. In affirming its commitment to this principle, Wake Forest does not limit freedom of religious association or expression, does not presume to control the policies of persons or entities not affiliated with Wake Forest, and does not extend benefits beyond those provided under other policies of Wake Forest.
