Wake Forest University is characterized by its devotion to liberal learning and professional preparation for men and women, its strong sense of community and fellowship, and its encouragement of free inquiry and expression.

Wake Forest Institute was founded in 1834 by the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina. The school opened its doors on February 3 with Samuel Wait as principal. Classes were first held in a farmhouse on the Calvin Jones plantation in Wake County, North Carolina, near which the village of Wake Forest later developed.

Rechartered in 1838 as Wake Forest College, Wake Forest is one of the oldest institutions of higher learning in the state. The School of Law was established in 1894, followed by a two-year medical school in 1902. Wake Forest was exclusively a college for men until World War II, when women were admitted for the first time.

In 1941 the medical school moved to Winston-Salem to become affiliated with North Carolina Baptist Hospital and was renamed the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. In 1946, the trustees of Wake Forest and the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina accepted a proposal by the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation to relocate the College to Winston-Salem. The late Charles and Mary Reynolds Babcock donated much of the R.J. Reynolds family estate as the site for the campus and building funds were received from many sources. From 1952 to 1956, the first 14 buildings were constructed in Georgian style on the new campus. The move to Winston-Salem took place in the summer of 1956; the original, or “old” campus, is now home to Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Following the move, Wake Forest grew considerably in enrollment, programs, and stature and became a university in 1967. The School of Business Administration, first established in 1948, was named the Charles H. Babcock School of Business Administration in 1969 and admitted its first graduate students in 1971. In 1972, the school enrolled only graduate students and the name was changed to the Charles H. Babcock Graduate School of Management; departments of business and accountancy and economics were established in the College. In 1980, the Department of Business and Accountancy was reconstituted as the School of Business and Accountancy; the name was changed to the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy in 1995. On July 1, 2009, the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy and the Charles H. Babcock Graduate School of Management officially merged under the name Wake Forest University Schools of Business (now named Wake Forest University School of Business).

The Division of Graduate Studies, established in 1961, is now organized as the Graduate School and encompasses advanced work in the arts and sciences on both the Reynolda and Bowman Gray campuses. In 1997, the medical school was renamed the Wake Forest University School of Medicine; its campus is now known as the Bowman Gray Campus. The School of Divinity was established in 1999.

Wake Forest honors its Baptist heritage in word and deed. The University will fulfill the opportunities for service arising out of that heritage. Governance is by an independent Board of Trustees; there are advisory boards of visitors for the College and each professional school. A joint board of University trustees and trustees of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital is responsible for Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center, which includes the hospital and the medical school.

The College, School of Business, School of Law, the Graduate School, and the School of Divinity are located on the Reynolda Campus in northwest Winston-Salem and the Wake Forest University Charlotte Center in Charlotte, NC.
The Wake Forest School of Medicine is about four miles away, near the city’s downtown. The University also offers instruction regularly at Casa Artom in Venice, at Worrell House in London, at Flow House in Vienna, and in other places around the world.

The College offers courses in more than forty fields of study leading to the baccalaureate degree. The School of Divinity offers the master of divinity degree.

The Wake Forest School of Business offers a four-year bachelor of science degree, with majors in accountancy, business and enterprise management, finance, and mathematical business (offered jointly with the Department of Mathematics); and three graduate degree programs, master of science in accountancy (MSA), master of arts in management (MA), and master of business administration (MBA).

The School of Law offers the juris doctor and master of laws in American law degrees. The school also offers a joint JD/MBA degree with the School of Business.

In addition to the doctor of medicine degree, the Wake Forest School of Medicine offers, through the Graduate School, programs leading to the master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees in biomedical sciences. The School of Medicine and the School of Business offer a joint MD/MBA program.

The Graduate School confers the master of arts, master of arts in education, master of arts in liberal studies, and master of science degrees in the arts and sciences and the doctor of philosophy degree in biology, chemistry, and physics. The Graduate School also offers an MFA in documentary film and dual degree programs with the School of Medicine and the School of Business.

Buildings and Grounds

The Reynolda Campus of Wake Forest is situated on approximately 321 acres; its physical facilities consist of over 50 buildings, most of which are of modified Georgian architecture and constructed of Old Virginia brick trimmed in granite and limestone. The main Quadrangle, Hearn Plaza, is named for Wake Forest’s twelfth president, Thomas K. Hearn Jr., who served from 1983 to 2005. Manchester Plaza, named for benefactors and Wake Forest parents Doug and Elizabeth Manchester, is located on south campus. The Reynolda Gardens annex, consisting of about 121 acres and including Reynolda Woods, Reynolda Village, Reynolda Gardens, and Reynolda House & Museum of American Art, is adjacent to the campus. The Graylyn International Conference Center is nearby.

Wait Chapel, named in memory of the first president of the College, seats 2,250. The Wait Chapel tower contains the Janet Jeffrey Carlile Harris Carillon, an instrument of 48 bells. Wingate Hall, named in honor of President Washington Manly Wingate, houses the Department for the Study of Religions, the School of Divinity, and the offices of Wake Forest Baptist Church.

Reynolda Hall, across the upper plaza from Wait Chapel, houses most of the administrative offices including the President’s Office, Provost Office, Office of the Dean of the College, the Center for Global Programs and Studies, the Office of Personal and Career Development, the offices of the University Chaplain, and the main dining facility for the Reynolda Campus.

The Benson University Center is the central hub for student activities and events.

The Z. Smith Reynolds Library and its Edwin Graves Wilson Wing house the main collection of books and documents on the Reynolda Campus. Along with eight floors of open stacks, it has reading and reference rooms for study.

Carswell Hall houses the Department of Communication and a large multimedia lecture area, the Annenberg Forum.

Winston Hall houses the biology department; Salem Hall, the chemistry department. Both buildings have laboratories as well as classrooms and special research facilities. The Olin Physical Laboratory houses the physics department.

Harold W. Tribble Hall accommodates primarily humanities departments and the women’s, gender, and sexuality studies program, and has seminar rooms, a philosophy library, and a multimedia lecture area, DeTamble Auditorium.

The Museum of Anthropology houses the anthropology department and North Carolina’s... only museum dedicated to the study of world cultures.

The Calloway Center for Business, Mathematics and Computer Science was named in honor of former trustee Wayne Calloway. The building houses the Departments of Mathematics and Statistics and Computer Science in Manchester Hall, and the Departments of Politics and International Affairs, Economics and Sociology in Kirby Hall.

Ground was broken for Farrell Hall, housing the School of Business, in April 2011 and officially opened in November 2013.

William B. Greene Jr. Hall houses psychology, German and Russian, and Romance languages.

The James R. Scales Fine Arts Center is of contemporary design appropriate to the functions of studio art, theatre, musical and dance performances, and instruction in art history, drama, and music. Off its main lobby is the Charlotte and Philip Hanes Gallery for special exhibitions. In the art wing are spacious studios for drawing, painting, sculpture, and printmaking, along with a smaller gallery and classrooms. Adjacent to the art wing is a new dance studio for performances and rehearsals. In the theatre wing are design and production areas and two technically complete theatres, the larger of traditional proscenium design and the smaller for experimental ring productions. The music wing contains Brendle Recital Hall for concerts and lectures, classrooms, practice rooms for individuals and groups, and the offices of the music department.

The Worrell Professional Center houses the School of Law.

The William N. Reynolds Gymnasium has classrooms for instruction in health and exercise science, courts for indoor sports, a swimming pool, and offices for the Department of Health and Exercise Science and Student Health Service. Adjacent are tennis courts, sports fields, Kentner Stadium, the Manchester Athletic Center, and the Kenneth D. Miller Center.

Alumni Hall, formerly the University Services Building houses University advancement, residence life and housing, and parking and transportation.

The Porter B. Byrum Welcome Center is at the entrance to Wake Forest. The building allows prospective students and their families an opportunity to learn more about the University and to meet with admissions staff.

A social center, The Barn, is built to resemble a North Carolina farm barn. It offers opportunities for concerts, performances, and student-sponsored events.

The Wake Forest campus has a wide variety of housing options available to students. Babcock Hall, Bostwick Hall, Collins Hall, Davis Hall, Efird Hall, Huffman Hall, Johnson Hall, Kitchin Hall, Luter Hall, Martin Hall, North Campus Apartments, Palmer Hall, Piccolo Hall, Polo Hall, Poteat Hall, Student Apartments, South Hall, Taylor Hall and the new Dogwood Residence Hall and Magnolia Residence Hall, which opened in August 2013, are coeducational by floor, wing, or apartment. In January 2014 the North Dining facilities opened adjacent to the new residence halls.

Information Systems

Information Systems supports the instruction, research, and administrative needs of the Reynolda Campus of Wake Forest University. The campus computer network offers high-speed connectivity from all campus buildings.

Information Systems maintains an extensive array of online information systems that support University admissions, student registration, grade processing, payroll administration, finance and accounting services, and many other administrative and academic applications. In addition, the Wake Forest Information Network (WIN) provides the University community with features like faculty, staff, and student directories; an alumni directory; online class registration; electronic access to view payroll and tax information; and vehicle registration.

Students also have access to computing resources outside the University. The University is a member of the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR), located at the University of Michigan. Membership in ICPSR provides faculty and students with access to a large library of data files, including public opinion surveys, cross-cultural data, financial data, and complete census data. The University is also a member of EDUCAUSE, a national consortium of colleges and universities concerned with computing issues.

The University’s computing resources serve both academic and administrative needs. Wake Forest’s network infrastructure includes a ten Gigabit per second Ethernet backbone, a mixture of 100 Megabit and 1 Gigabit per second switched connectivity to the desktop, and pervasive wireless connectivity in all campus buildings. LINUX and Windows-based servers provide for business computing needs and services. A mix of LINUX systems and Windows-based systems provide for messaging, enterprise resource planning, Internet, intranet, courseware, various research needs, and file and print services. A LINUX supercomputing cluster provides supercomputing services for math, computer science, physics, biology and other scientific research applications. These systems are available to students, faculty, and staff 24 hours a day through the Wake Forest University network or over the Internet. All connections are protected by VPN and firewalls.

Wake Forest has a 10 gigabit Ethernet connection to the Winston-Salem RPOP (regional point of presence) for Internet access. This RPOP connects the University to the North Carolina Research and Education Network (NCREN), the Internet service provider for the majority of North Carolina colleges and universities. Through this connection, Wake Forest has access to additional extensive supercomputing facilities located throughout the state of North Carolina as well as access to all the premiere research networks in the world, including Internet2 and the National Lambda Rail. Wake Forest works closely with NCREN on other advanced network and Internet technologies.

All residence hall rooms are equipped with cable TV programming and the capability for VoIP technology. Students needing local phone service and voicemail in their residence hall room, may request a VoIP phone by contacting Residence Life and Housing after their arrival on campus at 336.758.5185 or housing@wfu.edu.

Cable television, while providing a recreational outlet, plays an important role by providing access to campus information and educational offerings. Cable channel 6 is student-run WAKE-TV, which features various student programming. Information Systems also offers 142 channels of CATV service to include 68 select HDTV channels and 44 music channels to students in residence halls.

Information Systems provides assistance online at http://help.wfu.edu, by telephone at 336.758.HELP (4357), and supports walk-in customers in The Bridge located on the main floor of the Z. Smith Reynolds Library. The Bridge provides assistance with information technology services including multimedia, filming, computer repair, and equipment loans and purchases. For more about The Bridge visit http://zsr.wfu.edu/services/technology/bridge.

Libraries

The libraries of Wake Forest University support instruction and research at the undergraduate level and in the disciplines awarding graduate degrees. The libraries of the University hold membership in the American Library Association and in the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries. They rank among the top libraries in the Southeast in expenditures per student.

The Wake Forest University libraries include the Z. Smith Reynolds Library, which is located on the Reynolda Campus and supports the undergraduate College, the Wake Forest School of Business programs, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and the School of Divinity. The Professional Center Library, housed in the Worrell Professional Center on the Reynolda Campus, serves the School of Law. The Coy C. Carpenter Library serves the Wake Forest School of Medicine and is located on the Bowman Gray Campus.

The three library collections total over 2 million volumes. Subscriptions to more than 50,000 periodicals and serials, largely of scholarly content, are maintained at the libraries. The Z. Smith Reynolds Library holds more than 1.4 million printed volumes, complemented by over 200 research databases, millions of electronic books, and nearly 12,000 DVDs. The library serves as a congressionally designated selective federal depository and depository of North Carolina government information. The Professional Center Library holds nearly 180,000 volumes and the Coy C. Carpenter Library holds nearly 150,000 volumes. The three libraries share an online catalog, which also provides access to electronic resources, journals and databases—all accessible via the campus network and on the Internet.

Through interlibrary loan service, students, faculty and staff may obtain materials from other libraries at no charge. Both faculty and students serve on the Library Planning Committee.

The Z. Smith Reynolds Library provides comprehensive reference and research services in person and online. Subject specialist library faculty work with individual classes across the disciplines on research papers and one-on-one with students at all phases of the research process.
Library faculty also teach very popular elective courses in accessing information in the 21st century and upper-level courses geared towards research in the disciplines.

Special collections in the Z. Smith Reynolds
Library include the Rare Books and Manuscripts
Collection and the Ethel Taylor Crittenden Baptist Historical Collection. The Rare Books and Manuscripts Collection, greatly enhanced by the donation of rare and fine books of the late Charles H. Babcock, emphasizes American and British authors of the 19th and 20th centuries.
Among the collections are works of Mark Twain,
Gertrude Stein, William Butler Yeats, T.S. Eliot and the publications of the Hogarth Press.
The extensive Anglo-Irish literature collection includes the Dolmen Press Archive. The archive of alumnus Harold Hayes, editor of Esquire magazine in the 1960s–70s, and the Maya Ange-lou works for theater, television and screen are maintained in the special collections. The Ethel Taylor Crittenden Baptist Historical Collection contains significant books, periodicals, manuscripts, and church records relating to North Carolina Baptists, as well as the personal papers of prominent ministers, educators, and government officials with ties to Wake Forest College/University. The Wake Forest College/University
Archive is maintained in the library as well.

The library is equipped for wireless Inter-et access. Facilities in the Z. Smith Reynolds Library include “The Bridge,” a collaborative service between Information Systems and the library. Faculty, students, and staff can bring their university issued laptops for repair. An assortment of technology devices is available for checkout. The library has ten group study rooms that are equipped with Smart Board technology.
These rooms can be booked online at zsr.wfu.
dedu/studyrooms. Multimedia computers on the fourth floor of the Reynolds Wing are equipped with audio and video capturing stations as well as image scanners. Media viewing stations are available in Reynolds Wing Room 403.

The Writing Center is conveniently located in the library, and faculty and tutors are accessible to students throughout their writing process. The library has a 118-seat auditorium for use by Wake Forest community groups for programs, lectures, and film screenings.

The library is open continuously during the fall and spring semesters 24 hours a day from Sunday through Thursday. When the library is not on its 24 hour schedule, two 24 hour study rooms are available located near the entrance to the library and may be accessed by keycard. The study room on one side houses a Starbucks. A full description of the Z. Smith Reynolds Library resources and services is found at http://zsr.wfu.edu.

Accreditation

Wake Forest University is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commiss-on Colleges to award baccalaureate, masters, and doctorate degrees. Contact the Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia, 30033–4097 or call 404.679.4500 for questions about the accreditation of Wake Forest University.

The Wake Forest School of Medicine is a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges and is fully accredited by the Liaison Committee on Medical Education, the joint accrediting body of the Association of American Medical Colleges and the American Medical Association.
The Wake Forest University Physician Assistant Program is accredited by the Accreditation Re-

Assistant Inc. (ARC-PA). For more information on the accreditation status of the program, visit the ARC-PA website (www.arc-pa.org/Acc_Programs/acc_programs.html) or the medical school website (www.wfubmc.edu/Academic-Programs/Physician-Assistant-Program/Accreditation.htm).

The School of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools, the American Bar Association, and is listed as an approved school by the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association and by the Board of Law Examiners and the Council of the North Carolina State Bar.

Wake Forest University School of Business is accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business. The program in counseling leading to the master of arts in education degree is accredited by the Council for the Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs. The Divinity School is accredited by the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada (ATS).

Wake Forest University is a member of many of the major institutional organizations and associations at the national, regional, and statewide levels, including the following: The American Council on Education, the Association of American Colleges, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States, the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Oak Ridge Associated Universities, Southern Universities Conference, the North Carolina Conference of Graduate Schools, the North Carolina Association of Colleges and Universities, the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction, and the North Carolina Independent Colleges and Universities. In addition, many offices of the University are members of associations which focus on particular aspects of university administration.

Wake Forest has chapters of the principal national social fraternities and sororities, professional fraternities, and honor societies, including Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. There is an active chapter of the American Association of University Professors on campus.

The Undergraduate Schools

The undergraduate schools, Wake Forest College and the Wake Forest School of Business, are governed by the Board of Trustees, the University administration, and by their respective faculties. Responsibility for academic administration is delegated by the president and trustees to the provost, who is the chief academic officer of the University. The deans of the schools report to the provost and are responsible for academic planning and administration for their schools.

The Higher Education Act requires that institutions of higher education make available by October 15 of each year a copy of the Equity in Athletics Disclosure Act annual report to any student who requests one. Please contact the Athletic Department to request a copy of this document.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Wake Forest University is committed to diversity, inclusion and the spirit of Pro Humanitate. In adherence with applicable laws and as provided by University policies, the University prohibits discrimination in its employment practices and its educational programs and activities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, genetic information, disability and veteran status. Additionally, the University promotes the full realization of equal employment opportunity for women, minorities, persons with disabilities, and veterans through its affirmative action program.

The following persons have been designated to handle inquiries regarding the University’s non-discrimination policies:

Wake Forest College of Wake Forest University is the center of the University's academic life; through it, the University carries on the tradition of preparing men and women for personal enrichment, enlightened citizenship, and professional life.

Wake Forest College is a place of meeting. Its teachers and students are of diverse backgrounds and interests, and that diversity is crucial to the distinctive character of the College. Wake Forest continually examines its educational purpose and evaluates its success in fulfilling it. A formal statement of purpose was prepared as part of the school's decennial reaccreditation process and was adopted by the Board of Trustees.

Statement of Mission and Purpose

Wake Forest is a university dedicated to the pursuit of excellence in the liberal arts and in graduate and professional education. Its distinctiveness in its pursuit of its mission derives from its private, coeducational, and residential character; its size and location; and its Baptist heritage. Each of these factors constitutes a significant aspect of the unique character of the institution.

The University is now comprised of seven constituent parts: two undergraduate institutions, Wake Forest College and the Wake Forest School of Business undergraduate program; the Graduate School; and four professional schools: the School of Law, the Wake Forest University School of Medicine, the Wake Forest University School of Business graduate program, and the School of Divinity. It seeks to honor the ideals of liberal learning, which entail commitment to transmission of cultural heritages; teaching the modes of learning in the basic disciplines of human knowledge; developing critical appreciation of moral, aesthetic, and religious values; advancing the frontiers of knowledge through in-depth study and research; and applying and using knowledge in the service of humanity.

Wake Forest has been dedicated to the liberal arts for over a century and a half; this means education in the fundamental fields of human knowledge and achievement, as distinguished from education that is technical or narrowly vocational. It seeks to encourage habits of mind that ask “why,” that evaluate evidence, that are open to new ideas, that attempt to understand and appreciate the perspectives of others, that accept complexity and grapple with it, that admit error, and that pursue truth. Wake Forest College has by far the largest student body in the University, and its function is central to the University’s larger life. The College and the Graduate School are most singularly focused on learning for its own sake; they therefore serve as exemplars of specific academic values in the life of the University.

Beginning as early as 1894, Wake Forest accepted an obligation to provide professional training in a number of fields, as a complement to its primary mission of liberal arts education. This responsibility is fulfilled in the conviction that the humane values embodied in the liberal arts are also centrally relevant to the professions. Professional education at Wake Forest is characterized by a commitment to ethical and other professional ideals that transcend technical skills. Like the Graduate School, the professional schools are dedicated to the advancement of learning in their fields. In addition, they are specifically committed to the application of knowledge to solving concrete problems of human beings. They are strengthened by values and goals which they share with the College and Graduate School, and the professional schools enhance the work of these schools and the University as a whole by serving as models of service to humanity.
Wake Forest was founded by private initiative, and ultimate decision-making authority lies in a privately appointed Board of Trustees rather than in a public body. Funded to a large extent from private sources of support, Wake Forest is determined to chart its own course in the pursuit of its goals. As a coeducational institution, it seeks to “educate together” persons of both sexes and from a wide range of backgrounds—racial, ethnic, religious, geographical, socioeconomic, and cultural. Its residential features are conducive to learning and to the pursuit of a wide range of cocurricular activities. It has made a conscious choice to remain small in overall size; it takes pride in being able to function as a community rather than a conglomerate. Its location in the Piedmont area of North Carolina engenders an ethos that is distinctively Southern, and more specifically North Carolinian. As it seeks further to broaden its constituency and to receive national recognition, it is also finding ways to maintain the ethos associated with its regional roots.

Wake Forest is proud of its Baptist and Christian heritage. For more than a century and a half, it has provided the University an indispensable basis for its mission and purpose, enabling Wake Forest to educate thousands of ministers and lay people for enlightened leadership in their churches and communities. Far from being exclusive and parochial, this religious tradition gives the University roots that ensure its lasting identity and branches that provide a supportive environment for a wide variety of faiths. The Baptist insistence on both the separation of church and state and local autonomy has helped to protect the University from interference and domination by outside interests, whether these be commercial, governmental, or ecclesiastical. The Baptist stress upon an uncoerced conscience in matters of religious belief has been translated into a concern for academic freedom. The Baptist emphasis upon revealed truth enables a strong religious critique of human reason, even as the claims of revelation are put under the scrutiny of reason. The character of intellectual life at Wake Forest encourages open and frank dialogue and provides assurance that the University will be ecumenical and not provincial in scope, and that it must encompass perspectives other than the Christian. Wake Forest thus seeks to maintain and invigorate what is noblest in its religious heritage.

Honor System

Wake Forest University upholds the ideals of honor and integrity. The Honor System is central to University life; its essence is a commitment by each person to do what is right and abide by community standards. Each student is pledged to be trustworthy in all matters, and a violation of that trust is an offense against the community as a whole. In the specific terms of the Honor Code, a student pledges in all phases of life not to cheat, plagiarize, engage in other forms of academic or social misconduct, deceive, or steal. The strength of the Honor System derives from the commitment of each and every student to uphold its ideals.

The undergraduate student conduct system is jointly administered by the Office of the Dean of the College, the Office of the Dean of Student Services, and the Judicial Council. Complete details are available at the Offices of the Dean of the College and the Dean of Students.

Summary of Computing Rights and Responsibilities

The policy applies to all computer and computer communication facilities owned, leased, operated, or contracted by the University. This includes, but is not limited to, word processing equipment, microcomputers, minicomputers, mainframes, computer networks, computer peripherals, and software, whether used for administration, research, teaching, or other purposes. The policy extends to any use of University facilities to access computers elsewhere.

Wake Forest University provides each of its students and faculty with an email account. Outside of the classroom, email is an important means of communication between faculty, staff, and students. It is the responsibility of the student to regularly monitor his or her Wake Forest email account for University communications.
Basic Principles. The University’s computing resources are for instructional and research use by the students, faculty, and staff of Wake Forest University. Ethical standards that apply to other University activities (Honor and Ethics System, the Social Regulations and Policies, and all local, state, and federal laws) apply equally to use of campus computing facilities.

As in all aspects of University life, users of computing facilities should act honorably and in a manner consistent with ordinary ethical obligations. Cheating, stealing, making false or deceiving statements, plagiarism, vandalism, and harassment are just as wrong in the context of computing systems as they are in all other domains.

Use of campus facilities is restricted to authorized users. An “authorized user” is an individual who has been assigned a login ID and password by Information Systems staff (on any relevant system), or by an authorized agent. Individual users are responsible for the proper use of their accounts, including the protection of their login IDs and passwords. Users are also responsible for reporting any activities that they believe to be in violation of this policy, just as students are responsible for reporting Honor and Ethics System violations.

Individuals should use these facilities:

- In a manner consistent with the terms under which they were granted access to them;
- in a way that respects the rights and privacy of other users; so as not to interfere with or violate the normal, appropriate use of these facilities; and
- In a responsible and efficient manner.

Abusive activities which are already covered under other University policies are to be handled in the same way, and by the same authorities, as if a computer had not been involved, following established guidelines.

Systems Monitoring. This statement serves as notice to all users of campus computing systems that regular monitoring of system activities may occur. Only designated staff of Information Systems have authorization to engage in systems monitoring.

Privacy. All individuals, including members of the Information Systems staff, should respect the privacy of other authorized users. Thus they should respect the rights of other users to security of files, confidentiality of data, and the ownership of their own work. Nonetheless, in order to enforce the policies set out here, designated Information Systems staff are permitted to monitor activity on local computing systems.

In the event that staff should investigate a user, a record of the investigation shall be placed in a permanent file to be kept in Information Systems, beyond the standard log of all systems monitoring. This record shall state why the user was investigated, what files were examined, and the results of the investigation. Information Systems staff shall not reveal the contents of users’ files, users’ activities, or the record of investigations except in the following cases (and then only with the approval of the chief information officer or the provost):

- Evidence of Honor and Ethics System or Social Regulations and Policies violations will be referred to the dean of the appropriate school or to the Dean of Students.
- Evidence of improper activities by University employees will be referred to the director of human resources or the appropriate University officers.
- Evidence of violations of law will be referred to the appropriate law enforcement officials.

Disciplinary Actions. Substantial evidence of a violation of the principles described in this policy statement may result in disciplinary action. As stated above, in cases where a policy already exists, and the only difference is that a computer was used to perform the activity, such action will be taken through appropriate University channels such as administrative procedures, the Honor and Ethics Council, the Graduate Council, or other supervisory authority to which the individual is subject. Violation of state or federal statutes may result in civil or criminal proceedings. Otherwise, those who engage in computer violations are subject to the authority of Information Systems.

Violation of the policies articulated here may result in one or more of the following, plus any additional actions deemed appropriate by Information Systems:

- Suspension of one’s ability to perform interactive logins on relevant machines on campus.
- Suspension of one’s ability to login to a campus network.
- Suspension of one’s ability to send email.
- Suspension of one’s ability to receive email.
- Increased monitoring of further computer activity (beyond normal systems monitoring).

Any disciplinary action taken by Information Systems may be revoked and/or modified by the provost of the University or anyone the provost designates to deal with such matters.

Locating Computing Policy Information and Policy Updates. The above summary is based on the “Policy on Ethical and Responsible Use of Computing Resources” and other computing policies. These policies may be updated, shortened, or expanded from time to time. Full policies can be reviewed online by clicking on “Policies” at http://is.wfu.edu.

Student Complaints

Situations may arise in which a student believes that he or she has not received fair treatment by a representative of the University or has a complaint about the performance, actions, or inaction of the staff or faculty affecting a student. In many cases, there are mechanisms already in place for the reporting and resolution of complaints regarding specific types of concern (student conduct, honor system, bias, grade dispute, harassment and discrimination, for instance), and these should be fully used where appropriate. Students are encouraged to seek assistance from faculty advisers, deans’ offices, or the Office of the Dean of Students when evaluating the nature of their complaints or deciding on an appropriate course of action.

The complaint process outlined below is meant to answer and resolve issues arising between individual students and the University and its various offices from practices and procedures affecting that relationship. A complaint cannot be filed on behalf of another person. A complaint should first be directed as soon as possible to the person or persons whose actions or inactions have given rise to the problem—not later than three months after the event.

For complaints in the academic setting, the student should talk personally with or send a written complaint explaining the concern directly to the instructor. Should the student and instructor be unable to resolve the conflict, the student may then turn to the chair of the involved department (the dean in the Wake Forest School of Business) for assistance. The chair (or dean) will meet or communicate with both parties, seek to understand their individual perspectives, and within a reasonable time, reach a conclusion and share it with both parties. Finally, a student may appeal to the Committee on Academic Affairs which will study the matter, work with the parties, and reach a final resolution.

For complaints outside the academic setting, the student should talk personally with or send a written complaint explaining the concern directly to the individual involved. Should the student and individual be unable to resolve the concern, the student may then turn to the appropriate administrative channel for assistance, which may be an immediate supervisor, department head, or Dean. The immediate supervisor, department head, or dean will meet or communicate with both parties, seek to understand their individual perspectives, and within a reasonable time, reach a conclusion and share it with both parties. Finally, a student may appeal to the vice president with administrative responsibility for the issue that is the subject of the concern. The vice president will study the matter, work with the parties, and reach a final resolution. Students uncertain about the proper channels are encouraged to seek advice from faculty advisers, deans’ offices, or the Office of the Dean of Students.
History and Development

Since 1834, Wake Forest College has developed its distinctive pattern of characteristics: tenacity, independence, a fierce defense of free inquiry and expression, and a concern that knowledge be used responsibly and compassionately. That these characteristics have served the school well is displayed by its growth from a small sectarian school to one of the nation’s significant small private universities.

The brief history of Wake Forest is useful in understanding the University as it is today and appreciating the process through which it developed.

Students are responsible for familiarizing themselves with the portions of this bulletin that pertain to their course of study. Statements concerning courses and expenses are not to be regarded as irrevocable contracts between the student and the institution. The University reserves the right to change the schedule of classes and the cost of instruction at any time within the student’s term of residence.

Admission

Candidates for admission must furnish evidence of maturity and educational achievement. The Committee on Admissions carefully considers the applicant’s academic records, scores on any submitted standardized tests, written portion of the application, and evidence of character, motivation, goals, and general fitness for study in the College. The applicant’s secondary school program must establish a commitment to the kind of broad liberal education reflected in the academic requirements of the College.

Admission as a first-year student normally requires graduation from an accredited secondary school with a minimum of 16 units of high school credit. These should include 4 units in English, 3 in mathematics, 2 in history and social studies, 2 in a single foreign language, and 1 in the natural sciences. An applicant who presents at least 12 units of differently distributed college preparatory study can be considered. A limited number of applicants may be admitted without the high school diploma, with particular attention given to ability, maturity, and motivation.

Application

An application is secured from the Office of Undergraduate Admissions in person, online at www.wfu.edu/admissions or by mail (P.O. Box 7305, Winston-Salem, North Carolina 27109-7305). It should be completed and returned to that office no later than January 1 for the fall semester. Most admissions decisions for the fall semester are made by April 1, with prompt notification of applicants. For the spring semester, applications should be completed and returned no later than November 15.

The admission application requires records and recommendations directly from secondary school officials. Submission of standardized test scores is optional. If submitting scores, they should be sent directly to the University by the official testing service. A nonrefundable $50 fee to cover the cost of processing must accompany an application. It cannot be applied to later charges for accepted students or refunded for others. The University reserves the right to reject any application without explanation.

A $500 nonrefundable admission deposit is required of all regularly admitted students and must be sent to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions no later than May 1 following notice of acceptance. It is credited toward first semester fees and is nonrefundable. Students notified of acceptance after May 1 for the fall semester or November 1 for the spring semester should make a nonrefundable admission deposit within two weeks of notification. Failure to make the admission deposit is taken as cancellation of application by the student. No deposit is required for summer session enrollment.

Early Decision

Wake Forest has a binding early decision plan for students who have decided conclusively that Wake Forest is their first college choice. Students may apply after completion of the junior year but no later than November 15. While early decision applicants may submit regular decision applications to other institutions, Wake Forest must be the applicant’s first choice and only early decision application. Students, parents, and school coun-
Admission of Students with Disabilities

Wake Forest College will consider the application of any qualified student, regardless of disability, on the basis of the selection criteria established by the University which include personal and academic merit. Upon matriculation, all students will be required to meet the same standards for graduation.

The University endeavors to provide facilities which are in compliance with all laws and regulations regarding access for individuals with disabilities. Additionally, special services are available to reasonably accommodate students with disabilities. For more information on assistance for undergraduate students, please contact Van D. Westervelt, director of the Learning Assistance Center, at 336.758.5929 or refer to Disability Services under Campus Life on the Wake Forest website.

Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate, and CLEP

Advanced Placement and International Baccalaureate credit for college level work done in high school is available on the basis of the Advanced Placement Examination of The College Board and International Baccalaureate (IB) subject tests. Students are not allowed to exempt divisional core requirements through the Advanced Placement Examination, the College Level Examination, or the International Baccalaureate subject tests. Although students who successfully complete AP or IB exams earn credit towards the 120 hours needed for graduation, such credit courses do not satisfy the divisional requirements as the student must complete the required divisional courses while enrolled at Wake Forest. Students are permitted to take courses at Wake Forest for which they have received Advanced Placement or International Baccalaureate credit. When this happens, students lose the AP or IB credit but the notation remains on the transcript.

Under certain conditions, especially well-prepared applicants may be granted limited college credit through the subject tests of the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) of the Educational Testing Service. Such credit may be assigned with the approval of the department concerned or the dean of business.

Admission of Transfer Students

The number of transfer students who can be admitted each year depends upon the availability of space in the first-year (second semester), sophomore, and junior classes. Transfer students must be eligible for readmission to the last college attended and must supply a Dean’s Statement(s) from all colleges attended. The Dean’s Statement addresses any disciplinary action that may have been taken against the student for academic or non-academic reasons. The student must have an overall average of at least C on all college work attempted.

Courses satisfactorily completed in other accredited colleges are accepted subject to faculty approval. In general, no credit is allowed for courses not found in the Wake Forest curriculum. To earn a baccalaureate degree from Wake Forest University, a minimum of half of the degree requirements must be completed at Wake Forest, the senior year and one other.

Additionally, all students must reside in on-campus housing for a minimum of three years. All or part of this requirement can be fulfilled by on-campus residency at a previous institution. Housing is guaranteed for admitted transfer students for whom this requirement has not been met. See page 28 “Housing” for more information.

Student Health Information and Immunization Form

All new students are required to complete this form. It must be received by the Student Health Service before June 30 for new students entering fall semester or before January 1 for new students entering spring semester. This form requires information in regards to documentation of immunizations required by the University and the State of North Carolina. This form is located at http://shs.wfu.edu/forms/.

Immunization Policy

NORTH CAROLINA STATE LAW (G.S. 130A-152) requires documentation of certain immunizations for students attending a North Carolina college or university. Wake Forest University adheres to the State Law, also requiring WFU students to provide documentation of immunizations. Students must submit certification of these immunizations PRIOR TO REGISTRATION. Documentation should be on or attached to the completed "Health Information & Immunization form" provided by the Student Health Service in order to assure correct identification of the student. The form is located at shs.wfu.edu/forms/. Acceptable documentation is a statement signed by the appropriate official(s) having custody of the records of immunization, such as a physician, county health department director. The State statute applies to all students except those registered in off-campus courses only, attending night or weekend classes, or taking a course load of four credit hours or less.

The American College Health Association recommendations and North Carolina State law require certification in accordance with the following.

Required:

1. Tetanus/Diphtheria/Pertussis. Students must document three doses of a combined tetanus diphtheria vaccine (DTaP, Td, or Tdap) of which one must be a Tdap after May 2005.

2. Rubeola (Measles). Students must document two doses of live virus measles vaccine given at least 30 days apart, on or after their first birthday unless (a) they were born prior to January 1, 1957 or (b) they have documentation of a titer indicating they are immune. History of the disease is not acceptable.

3. Rubella (German measles). Students must document that they have had one dose of live virus vaccine on or after their first birthday unless (a) they have documentation of a titer indicating they are immune, or (b) they will be 50 years old before they enroll. History of the disease is not acceptable.

4. Mumps. Students must document two doses of live virus mumps vaccine given at least 30 days apart, on or after their first birthday unless (a) they were born before January 1, 1957 or (b) they have documentation of a titer indicating they are immune. History of the disease is not acceptable.

5. Polio. Students must document that they have had a total of three doses of trivalent polio vaccine if they are less than 18 years of age when they enroll. One of these doses must be after the age of four years.

6. Hepatitis B. Students are required to document three doses of Hepatitis B vaccine if born on or after July 1, 1994. The first and second doses must be at least 28 days apart. The third dose must be at least 56 days (or eight weeks) after the second dose and at least 16 weeks after the first dose; the third dose cannot be given any earlier than 24 weeks of age. Regardless of age Hepatitis B vaccine is recommended for all students.

7. Tuberculosis test (PPD or TB blood test). Required within 12 months of the University registration date for (a) students who may have been exposed to tuberculosis or have signs or symptoms of active tuberculosis disease or (b) students who have lived more than 30 days in a country other than those designated as low risk for tuberculosis by Centers for Disease Control (CDC). If the student’s tuberculosis test is positive, chest x-ray results and record of treatment must be documented.

Recommended:

1. Varicella. The two-dose series is recommended. Discuss with your health care provider.

2. Meningococcal. CDC recommends routine vaccination with quadrivalent meningococcal conjugate vaccine at age 11 or 12 years, with a booster dose at age 16 years. For adolescents who receive their first dose at age 13-15 years, a one-time booster dose should be administered after age 16 years. Persons who receive their first dose at age 16 years do not need a booster dose.

3. Human Papillomavirus Vaccine (HPV/Gardasil). A three-dose series.
4. Pneumovax. A vaccine which prevents illness from a strain of bacteria that can cause pneumonia and death. This vaccine is recommended for individuals 19 and older who have asthma or smoke. It is also recommended for those ages 2-64 with any of the following conditions: diabetes, sickle cell disease, lung disease, cochlear implants, CSF leaks, or conditions or medication which lower resistance to infection.

5. Hepatitis A. A two-dose series.

Immunizations required under North Carolina law must be documented within 30 days following registration. After that time, students with incomplete documentation of immunizations will not be permitted to attend classes. Please note that some series require several months for completion.

Expenses

Statements concerning expenses are not to be regarded as forming an irrevocable contract between the student and the University. The costs of instruction and other services outlined herein are those in effect on the date of publication of this bulletin, and the University reserves the right to change without notice the cost of instruction and other services at any time.

Charges are due in full on August 1 for the fall semester and December 1 for the spring semester. Faculty regulations require that student accounts be settled in full before the student is entitled to receive an official transcript or diploma, or to register for classes.

If the University deems it necessary to engage the services of a collection agency or attorney to collect or to settle any dispute in connection with an unpaid balance on a student account, the student will be liable for all collection agency and/or attorney’s fees, reasonable expenses, and costs incurred.

Dining Plans

All resident students are required to sign up for a dining plan. Off-campus students may purchase a dining plan, but are not required to do so. All students, regardless of class year, can change (increase or decrease) their meal plan for the fall semester through August 1, adhering to area and class year minimums. Plan decreases for the fall semester are not allowed after August 1; however, plan increases will be accepted through the end of the room change period at the beginning of the fall semester adhering to area and class year minimums. Information regarding spring semester meal plan changes will be published by the residence life and housing office prior to the beginning of that semester.

Deacon Dollars

In addition to a dining plan, students may also purchase Deacon Dollars. The Deacon Dollar account is a debit account system on the student ID card that allows purchases throughout campus. An amount of $1,000 per semester is recommended for campus purchases at the Bookstore, Benson Food Court, Subway, convenience stores, and all other dining locations.
Other Charges/Fees

An admission application fee of $50 is required with each application for admission to cover the cost of processing and is nonrefundable.

An admission deposit of $500 is required for students applying to Wake Forest University. All admissions deposits must be submitted to the director of admissions and are nonrefundable. The applicable deposit is credited to the student’s charges for the semester for which he or she has been accepted for admission.

Individual instruction music fees are required in addition to tuition for students enrolling for individual study in applied music in the Department of Music and are payable in the Office of Financial and Accounting Services. The fee is $300 for ½-hour music classes and $600 for 1-hour music classes with a maximum fee of $600 per semester.

Library fees are charged for lost or damaged books and are payable in the library.

A one-time new-student orientation fee of $270 is charged to all students in the fall semester.

A student health fee of $376 per year is charged for all full-time Reynolda Campus students.

A tuition deposit of $500 is required by March 31st of students enrolled in the spring semester who expect to return for the fall semester. It is credited to the student’s fall semester University charges and is nonrefundable.

Returned check fee of $25 is charged for each returned check or returned DEAC payment by the Office of Financial and Accounting Services.

A study abroad enrollment fee is charged to students enrolled in an Affiliate (non-Wake Forest) program. The fee is 12% of tuition for the semester ($2,827 per semester for 2015/2016).

Student Health Insurance

Student Health Insurance Premium. Wake Forest University requires health insurance for all full-time, degree-seeking students. Students who demonstrate coverage that meets our criteria may waive the insurance provided by WFU. Students who only need part-time status to complete their degree are eligible for the student insurance. International students will be allowed to waive enrollment in the student insurance, if they are covered by a plan reviewed and approved by the University. Premiums for student health insurance will be determined each year and published on the Wake Forest University website. Complete details and criteria can be found at www.wfu.edu/sip.

Motor Vehicle Registration and Fees
All students, both resident and commuter (including those students who reside off campus, in student apartments, theme, and satellite houses), who operate a vehicle on Wake Forest property, day or night (including after 5:00 p.m. weekdays and anytime on weekends), must register their vehicle they operate, whether it is in the student’s name or a family member’s name. A student cannot register a vehicle owned or operated by another student and doing so can result in an honor code violation for both parties involved.

Vehicle registration must be completed within 1 business day from the first time the vehicle is brought to campus. To be compliant with the vehicle registration process, permits must be ordered on-line and picked-up from the appropriate location described below. Both the gate pass and parking permit must be adhered to the vehicle it was assigned in accordance with package instructions.

Parking Options
- First-year students are required to register their vehicle and park off campus at the University Corporate Center (UCC) in the designated area, which is adjacent to Bridger Field House.
- Sophomore students are required to register their vehicle and park off campus in Lot Z2, which is located on the north side of Polo Rd. Parking in the sophomore parking lot (Z2) is limited. When lot Z2 is sold out, permits for the overflow lot, adjacent to Bridger Field House, will be the only permits available to sophomores.
- Junior and senior resident students are required to register their vehicle and have the option to park on-campus or the UCC lot.
- Commuting upper-class students are required to register their vehicle and have the options to park on campus (on-campus commuter permits are limited and sold on a first-come first-serve basis), off campus (Winston-Salem First and the designate lot in Reynolda Village) or the UCC lot.
- The UCC parking permit is available to those who ride the shuttle to campus from apartment complexes or students who otherwise reside in off-campus housing and walk or bike to campus between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday-Friday. The permits must be placed on the vehicle to be considered registered to park on campus after 5:00 p.m. on weekdays and on weekends.

Fees for parking options can be found online during the vehicle registration process at https://wfuparking.t2hosted.com/cmn/index.aspx.

Online Registration and Permit Distribution
All permits can be ordered online at https://parking.wfu.edu. WFU IDs are required to pick up permits, if not delivered to a campus P.O. Box.

Fines are assessed against any person visiting Wake Forest University and violating parking regulations and range from $25 to $250. Visitors are subject to the parking rules and regulations found at https://parking.wfu.edu. Students are responsible for their visitors. Students will be held financially responsible for citation fines issued to vehicles driven by family members or by friends who use a Wake Forest student’s vehicle. Visitors who plan to park on campus for more than one day require a visitor parking pass. Visitor parking passes can be obtained from the Parking and Transportation office.

The Parking and Transportation office is located in Alumni Hall, Suite 138. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 8:30 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. on Friday.

Refund of Charges Policy and Return of Financial Aid Funds Policies

A student who officially withdraws or officially is granted continuous enrollment status during a semester may be entitled to a refund of certain charges as outlined in the Tuition and Fees Refund Policy. A withdrawal (official or otherwise) or grant of continuous enrollment status also affects financial aid eligibility, as outlined in the federal Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy and the Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy. A student using scholarships, grants, or loans to pay educational expenses, whose account was paid-in-full prior to withdrawal or grant of continuous enrollment status, is likely to owe the University after withdrawal or grant of continuous enrollment status. Procedures for such changes of status are coordinated by the Office of Academic Advising.

Tuition and Fees Refund Policy

A student who officially withdraws or officially is granted continuous enrollment status during a semester may be entitled to an adjustment to tuition and housing depending on the date of withdrawal or grant of continuous enrollment status. If a tuition adjustment results in a credit balance, the student can elect to receive a refund of the credit balance or leave the balance on the account for future terms. Any adjustment of room rent is based on when the student has checked out of his/her residence hall after withdrawing or beginning continuous enrollment status. Unused meal plan funds are refunded on a weekly pro-rata basis. There is no adjustment for mandatory fees after the first day of class. Fees for individual music instruction courses are refunded on the same basis as tuition. Parking registration fees are not refundable if the decal has been placed on the vehicle. Tuition, fees, room rent, and related charges are not refunded for findings of responsibility within the undergraduate student judicial review process. Return of Title IV funds are handled in accordance with federal law.

Students are responsible for officially dropping courses to be eligible for a refund. Nonpayment for classes for which a student is registered or non-attendance in a registered class does not release the student from financial obligation and will not drop the student from the class. The Office of Financial and Accounting Services calculates the refund of charges, and it has available an example of the application of the University Refund of Charges Policy. If charges originally paid by financial aid funds are no longer covered after financial aid funds are returned to the programs, the student is responsible for the remaining balance.

Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 (Section 484B), and subsequent regulations issued by the United States Department of Education (34 CFR 668.22), establish a policy for the return of Title IV, HEA Program grant and loan funds for a recipient who withdraws. Wake Forest University’s continuous enrollment policy does not exempt any student from the requirements of the Return of Title IV Funds policy; nor does it extend federal student loan deferment benefits. Title IV Funds subject to return include the following aid programs: Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Iraq & Afghanistan Service Grant, Teacher Education Assistance for College & Higher Education Grant, Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Direct Loan (subsidized and unsubsidized), and Federal Direct PLUS Loan.

Title IV aid is awarded and paid on a payment period basis. For students enrolled in a single session or module of a payment period (such as a summer), the single session or module is the payment period. For students who are awarded Title IV aid based on a reported registration in multiple sessions or modules of a payment period, the payment period is the beginning (start date) of the first session or module through the end (last day of exams) of the last session or module.

The percentage of the payment period completed is determined by dividing the total number of calendar days comprising the payment period (excluding breaks of five or more consecutive days) into the number of calendar days completed. The percentage of Title IV grant and loan funds earned is: (1) up through the 60% point in time, the percentage of the payment period completed, (2) after the 60% point in time, 100%. The amount of Title IV grant and loan funds unearned is the complement of the percentage of earned Title IV funds applied to the total amount of Title IV funds disbursed (including funds that were not disbursed but could have been disbursed, i.e., post-withdrawal or post-grant of continuous enrollment status disbursements). If the amount earned is less than the amount disbursed, the difference is returned to the Title IV programs. If the amount earned is greater than the amount disbursed, the difference is treated as a late disbursement in accordance with the federal rules for late disbursements.

Institutional charges (costs) include tuition and required fees, on-campus room rental, and on-campus meal plan. The federal Return of Title IV Funds policy requires that federal aid be considered as first applied toward institutional charges, regardless of other non-federal aid received.

Unearned funds, up to the amount of total institutional charges multiplied by the unearned percentage of funds, are returned by the University; the return of Title IV Program funds may be rounded to the nearest dollar for each aid source. The student returns any portion of unearned funds not returned by the University. A student (or parent for PLUS loans) repays the calculated amount attributable to a Title IV loan program according to the loan’s terms. If repayment of grant funds by the student is required, only 50% of the unearned amount must be repaid. A student repays a Title IV grant program subject to repayment arrangements satisfactory to the University or the Secretary of Education's overpayment collection procedures.

Funds returned are credited in the following order: Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loans, Federal Direct Subsidized Loans, Federal Perkins Loans, Federal PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, Teacher Education Assistance for College & Higher Education Grants, and other Title IV funds for which a return of funds is required.

The Office of Student Financial Aid calculates the amount of unearned Title IV grant and loan funds, and has available examples of the application of this federal policy and a copy of the relevant Code of Federal Regulations section (CFR 668.22).

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

A student who drops to less-than-full-time enrollment within the timeframe to drop courses as published in the academic calendar loses eligibility for all institutional aid for the entire term. For financial aid purposes, full-time enrollment is defined as twelve or more hours each semester.

The Office of Student Financial Aid calculates the amount of non-Title IV program funds to be returned to the various programs when a recipient withdraws or is granted continuous enrollment status. The return of non-Title IV Program funds may be rounded to the nearest dollar for each aid source.

Return of funds to various state and private Aid programs is determined by specific program rules. If rules allow, state and private loan funds are returned before gift funds. State and private funds may be retained in amounts necessary to satisfy the student's remaining University charges or adjusted need, whichever is larger.

Awards from institutional funds for which all disbursement requirements have not been met by the student prior to withdrawal or change to continuous enrollment status are canceled and no disbursements are made.

Upon withdrawal or change to continuous enrollment status, an adjusted estimated cost of attendance (COA) is established in two parts. For an on-campus student, the first part equals the adjusted tuition and room rental charges (not to exceed the standard allowance, and not including charges that result from a student remaining in his/her room after the date of withdrawal) and the standard allowance for books and supplies; the second part equals pro-rated estimates (by weeks) of meal, transportation, and personal living expenses. For an off-campus student, the first part equals the adjusted tuition charge and the standard allowance for books and supplies; the second part equals pro-rated estimates (by weeks) of room, meal, transportation, and personal living expenses.

If the adjusted COA is greater than the full semester expected family contribution (EFC), the student retains institutional aid (in the same mix of initially-awarded gift and loan), up to the amount required to meet the adjusted need and not exceeding the initial amount(s). The EFC represents a best estimate of a family’s capacity (relative to other families) to absorb, over time, the costs of education. For a student withdrawing or changing to continuous enrollment status, the full EFC is expected to support educational expenses incurred, prior to any support from aid programs. For purposes of this calculation, a student who receives only merit-based institutional gift is considered to have an EFC equal to the full semester COA minus the amount of that gift. The order in which each institutional fund is reduced is determined on a case-by-case basis by the aid office, with the guiding principle being the return of funds to University accounts most likely to be needed by other students.

A student who withdraws or changes to continuous enrollment status after receiving a cash disbursement must repay Wake Forest scholarship funds up to the amount of Title IV funds that the University must return. Fines and other incidental charges not included in the financial aid COA are solely the responsibility of the student. Required returns of funds to all financial aid programs are made prior to the refund to the student.

Housing

All unmarried first-, second-, and third-year students with residential admission status are required to live in the residence halls for six semesters, except (1) when permission is given by the dean of residence life and housing for the student to live with parents; (2) by special arrangement when space is not available on campus; (3) the student is admitted as a non-resident student; or (4) if the student has lost residence hall space because of a Residence Halls Agreement violation or disciplinary action.

Fifth-year and part-time students are ineligible for campus housing except when permitted to do so by the Office of Residence Life and Housing. Wake Forest University does not provide married couple or family housing. Resident undergraduate students are guaranteed campus housing for eight semesters dependent upon space availability.

Residence halls are supervised by the director of residence life, residence life coordinators, and graduate student hall directors.

Visit http://rlh.wfu.edu, the residence life and housing website, for more information regarding policies and procedures.

Off-Campus Housing Policy

The University has developed guidelines and policies for those undergraduate students who desire or are required to live off campus. Such policies affect apartment or other multi-family residences as well as single-family residences. All students who desire to live off campus are required to apply for off-campus housing status on an annual basis.
Each year, information is provided for all undergraduate students on the residence life and housing website, http://rlh.wfu.edu/off-campus-living. Conditions may be placed on students who choose to live in single family areas, or students may be denied the ability to live within such a location. Students who desire to reside off campus must obtain approval from the Office of Residence Life and Housing prior to signing off-campus leases.

Please visit the Office of Residence Life and Housing, on campus in Alumni Hall, room 104, or online at http://rlh.wfu.edu.

Student Health Service

The Student Health Service’s goal is to promote a healthy lifestyle through health education and health maintenance and to take away health related barriers to education. A physician-directed medical staff offers primary care services, urgent care, illness care, physical examinations, counseling, limited psychiatric care, allergy injections, immunizations, gynecological services, pharmacy, laboratory, sports medicine clinic, referral to specialists, and medical information and vaccinations related to travel to international destinations.

Student Health Portal. Students now can make most appointments online through the Student Health Portal. The best way to access this portal is through the SHS website http://shs.wfu.edu. This is a secure way to make appointments, view published labs, print off a copy of your immunization history on file, print receipts and securely communicate with our clinic. SHS’s primary way to communicate with students will be through their student email account. We send out appointment reminders 24 hours before your appointment and send messages for you to log into the Student Health Portal to view secure messages from the clinic. Students are encouraged to make appointments to be seen at the clinic. If you choose to walk in without an appointment, you will be seen by one of our staff nurses. The nurse will evaluate you and try to get you in with a medical provider if necessary and if one is available. We cannot guarantee the availability of a medical provider if you choose to come to the clinic without an appointment.

Medical Charges. Most services at SHS are covered by the Student Health Fee. In addition, there are discounted “fee-for-service” charges for medications, laboratory tests, observation care, procedures, and some supplies. Payment can be made by paying cash, check, Deacon One Card, Student Blue Insurance, or the charge can be transferred to the student’s account in Office of Financial and Accounting Services. Each student is given a copy of the medical charges incurred on the date of service which can be used for insurance filing. Student Health Service does not participate nor do we file insurance claims on behalf of the patient.

Health Information & Immunization Form. All new students are required to complete this form. It must be received by the Student Health Service before June 30 for new students entering fall semester or before January 1 for new students entering spring semester. This form requires information in regards to documentation of immunizations required by the University and the State of North Carolina. This form is located at http://shs.wfu.edu/forms/.

Confidentiality. Student medical records are confidential. Medical records and information contained in the records may be shared with therapists and physicians who are involved in the student’s care, and otherwise will not be released without the student’s permission except as allowed by law. Students who wish to have their medical records or information released to other parties should complete a release of information form at the time of each office visit or service.

Class Excuses. The responsibility of excusing students from class rests with the faculty. Consequently the Student Health Service does not issue “excuses” for students. Students who are evaluated at the Health Service are encouraged to discuss their medical situations with their professors. A receipt documenting visits is available to students at checkout. Information concerning hospitalization and prolonged illnesses is sent, with the student’s permission, to the appropriate Dean.
Student Insurance Program. Health insurance is required as a condition of enrollment for all degree-seeking* students at Wake Forest University. Students who demonstrate comparable coverage to WFU’s health insurance plan and meet our criteria may waive the coverage provided by WFU. Information about the policy plan, process instructions and full information regarding eligibility can be found at http://sip.studentlife.wfu.edu/.

*Certain part-time students are not eligible.

Inclement Weather. When the University is closed due to inclement weather, the Student Health Service will have limited staff and will be able to provide care only for injuries and urgent illnesses. Appointments may be rescheduled.

Retention of Medical Records. Student medical records are retained for 10 years after the last treatment, after which time they are destroyed. Immunization records are kept longer.

Academic Calendar

The academic calendar of the College and the School of Business undergraduate program includes a fall semester beginning in August and ending in December, a spring semester beginning in January and ending in early May, and two five-week summer sessions. Semesters are 15 weeks in length, not including the final examination period.

Orientation and Advising

For new students in the College, a required orientation program and a required meeting with the student’s lower division academic adviser precede the beginning of classes and the drop/add period. The lower division academic adviser provides guidance during and between registration periods until the student declares a major.

During orientation, advisers meet with students both individually and in small groups. A face-to-face meeting with the adviser is required before all subsequent registration periods. Students are encouraged to take the initiative in arranging additional meetings at any time to seek advice or other assistance. The lower division adviser works with the student until the student declares a major toward the end of the second year. Then, an adviser in the student’s major department is assigned.

Registration

Registration for continuing students in the College and the School of Business undergraduate program begins in March for the fall and the summer terms, and in October for the spring term. Consultation with the academic adviser must be completed before registration. New students entering in the fall term are registered during the prior summer. Readmitted students and those approved for resumption of full- or part-time status, once officially advised, may work with the Office of the University Registrar staff to enroll in classes. Students currently enrolled at the University may register for the summer sessions classes. All tuition and fees must be paid in full to the Office of Financial and Accounting Services by the announced deadlines.

Classification

Classification of students by class standing and as full-time or part-time is calculated in terms of semester hour earned.

The requirements for classification are as follows:

Sophomore—completion of no fewer than 25 hours toward a degree;
Junior—completion of no fewer than 55 hours toward a degree;
Senior—completion of no fewer than 87 hours toward a degree.

Course Load

Most courses in the College and the School of Business undergraduate program have a value of 3 credit hours, but may vary from one-half hour to five. The normal load for a full-time undergraduate student is 15 credit hours per semester, with a maximum of 17 permitted in the College without special permission. A student who feels that he or she has valid and compelling reasons to register for more than 17 hours in a semester must seek permission of the adviser and the appropriate dean in the Office of Academic Advising, starting each semester after the second round of registration appointments. Only if both the adviser and the dean agree that the proposed course load is needed and in the best interest of the student will permission be granted. Students in the School of Business have a maximum of 18 credit hours. Students wishing to take more than 18 hours must petition the Committee on Academic Affairs after consulting the academic adviser and the appropriate dean in the Office of Academic Advising. Non-business or non-accounting majors wishing to take courses in the School of Business must have met the specific courses’ prerequisites and have permission of the instructor. Enrollment in the course is subject to space availability.

Twelve hours per semester constitute minimum full-time enrollment for undergraduates at the University. Recipients of Wake Forest scholarships and loans, as well as some types of federal aid, must be enrolled for at least 12 hours. Recipients of veterans’ benefits, grants from state government, and other governmental aid must meet the guidelines of the appropriate agencies.

Part-time Students

A student may not register for part-time status, i.e., fewer than 12 hours in a single semester, without specific permission of the Office of Academic Advising by the last day to add a class. Approval for part-time status requires that students pay for such work on a per hour basis. Petitions for part-time status after the last day to add a class will be denied, except in the case of special circumstances, and the student will be required to pay full tuition. Part-time students may be ineligible for campus housing unless an exception is made by the Office of Residence Life and Housing.

Class Attendance

Attendance regulations place the responsibility for class attendance on the student, who is expected to attend classes regularly and punctually. A vital aspect of the residential college experience is attendance in the classroom; its value cannot be measured by testing procedures alone. Students are considered sufficiently mature to appreciate the necessity of regular attendance, to accept this personal responsibility, to demonstrate the self-discipline essential for such performance, and to recognize and accept the consequences of failure to attend. Students who cause their work or that of the class to suffer because of absence or lateness may be referred by the instructor to the appropriate dean in the Office of Academic Advising for suitable action. Any student who does not attend classes regularly or who demonstrates other evidence of academic irresponsibility is subject to such disciplinary action as the Committee on Academic Affairs may prescribe, including immediate suspension from the College or from the School of Business.

Students who miss class, while acting as duly authorized representatives of the University at events and times approved by the appropriate dean, are considered excused. The undergraduate faculties are sensitive to the religious practices of members of the student body. At the beginning of the semester, students who will be absent from class for religious observances should confer with the instructor(s) about the date of the absence. The disposition of missed assignments will be arranged between instructor and student. Students anticipating many excused absences should consult the instructor before enrolling in classes in which attendance and class participation count heavily toward the final grade. For policies pertaining to absences resulting from illness, please see the statement under the Student Health Service in this Undergraduate Bulletin.

Auditing Courses

When space is available after the registration of degree-seeking students, others may request permission of the instructor to enter a class as auditors. No additional charge is made to full-time students in the College or the School of Business; for others the fee is $75 per hour. Permission of the instructor is required. An auditor is subject to attendance regulations and to other conditions imposed by the instructor.
Although an auditor receives no credit, a notation of audit is made on the final grade report and entered on the academic record of students who have met the instructor’s requirements. An audit may not be changed to a credit course or a credit course changed to an audit after the first official day of classes for each semester or term.

Dropping a Course

The last day in each term for dropping a class without being assigned a final grade of F is listed in the Academic Calendar available at http://registrar.wfu.edu/academic-calendar/ and in the front of this bulletin for the current year. A student who wishes to drop any course on or before this date must follow the procedure prescribed by the registrar. After this date, a student who wishes to drop a course must consult his or her academic adviser, the course instructor, and the Office of Academic Advising or the appropriate dean in the School of Business. If the dean approves the request, he or she authorizes the student to discontinue the course. Except in cases of emergency, the grade in the course will still be recorded as F.

If, at any time, a student drops any course without prior written approval of the appropriate dean, the student will be subject to such penalties imposed by the Committee on Academic Affairs.

Drop/Add of Partial-Semester Courses

Students adding or dropping classes lasting for shorter durations than the full semester and/or which begin after the opening of the semester may add or drop those classes any time prior to the first class meeting, but instructor’s permission may be required. The add and drop period for such classes is proportionate to the duration of the course. Consult with the Office of the University Registrar for the enforced add and drop dates.

Continuous Enrollment Status

An undergraduate student who needs to interrupt his/her full- or part-time status for personal or medical reasons may petition for continuous enrollment status with the Office of Academic Advising. This status can be approved for one or two semesters. Students approved for continuous enrollment status will not be required to apply for readmission, but must submit a notification of resumption of full- or part-time status as follows. See Resumption of Full- or Part-time Status on page 35 for more details.

In the case of change to continuous enrollment status granted during an academic term for medical reasons, the student may request that no grades be recorded for that semester. Such requests require the formal support of either the Student Health Service or the University Counseling Center, and the student’s standing in courses at the time of departure may be taken into consideration. The Committee on Academic Affairs has final authority on such requests.

For students whose change to continuous enrollment status is based upon mental health needs, it will be understood that a resumption of full- or part-time status generally can be accomplished no earlier than one semester or 90 days in the future depending upon the time of year in which the student is granted continuous enrollment status. In all such instances, the student’s resumption of full- or part-time status is contingent upon a statement from appropriate medical authorities that the medical condition has been sufficiently addressed so that normal study can be resumed. (See Resumption of Full- or Part-Time Status).

A change to continuous enrollment status cannot be finalized until residence hall keys (if applicable) and mailbox keys, along with any other pertinent University property items, have been returned to the appropriate offices. However, the student retains active enrollment status with the University, and retains email and registration privileges, and all applicable University policies will continue to apply. Wake Forest University’s policy on Continuous Enrollment Status does not exempt any student from the requirements of the Return of Title IV Funds policy; nor does it extend federal student loan deferment benefits.

A continuous enrollment fee will be assessed.
Withdrawal

A student who intends to interrupt full- or part-time status for more than two semesters on a voluntary or medical basis, or any student who is suspended for academic or judicial reasons is deemed to have withdrawn from the University.

A student who initially requests continuous enrollment status, but who has been in that status for more than two semesters (or one year), is reclassified as withdrawn, will no longer have registration privileges and an email account, and must return the laptop computer and any outstanding library materials. In addition, any student who discontinues class attendance or does not properly resume full- or part-time status, but who has not properly requested continuous enrollment status in advance, will also be deemed to have withdrawn.

A student who discontinues class attendance during an academic term from the College or the School of Business without officially applying for continuous enrollment status or withdrawal is assigned failing grades in all current courses, and is deemed to have withdrawn. No withdrawal can be finalized until laptop computers, connecting cables, Wake Forest University ID cards, residence hall keys (if applicable), mailbox keys, and library materials, along with any other pertinent University property items, have been returned to the appropriate offices.

Withdrawn students do not retain email and registration privileges. Tuition, fees, room rent, and related charges will not be refunded for findings of responsibility within the undergraduate student judicial review process. Return of Title IV funds will be handled in accordance with federal law.

Examinations

Final examinations for each class are scheduled at specific periods during the six final examination days at the end of the term. All examinations are conducted in accordance with the Honor and Ethics System adopted by the student body and approved by the faculty.

Grading

For most courses carrying undergraduate credit, there are twelve final grades: A (exceptionally high achievement), A-, B+, B (superior), B-, C+, C (satisfactory), C-, D+, D, D- (passing but unsatisfactory), and F (failure).

Incomplete Grade Designation. “I” (incomplete) may be assigned only when a student fails to complete the work of a course because of illness or some other emergency that is beyond the student’s control. If the work recorded as I is not completed within thirty days after the student begins his or her next semester, the grade is automatically changed to the grade of F.

Not Reported Grade Designation. “NR” (Not Reported) is an administrative designation assigned by the University Registrar indicating that a faculty member has not reported a grade or grades by the reporting deadline. It is expected that the appropriate earned grade will quickly be reported. However, if the NR grade is not replaced within 45 days after the student enters his or her next semester, the NR is automatically changed to a grade of F.

Grade Points. Grades are assigned grade points per hour for the computation of academic averages, class standing, and eligibility for continuation, as follows:

- for each grade of A 4.00 points
- for each grade of A- 3.67 points
- for each grade of B+ 3.33 points
- for each grade of B 3.00 points
- for each grade of B- 2.67 points
- for each grade of C+ 2.33 points
- for each grade of C 2.00 points
- for each grade of C- 1.67 points
- for each grade of D+ 1.33 points
- for each grade of D 1.00 points
- for each grade of D- 0.67 points
- for each grade of F no points

Pass/Fail. To encourage students to venture into fields outside their major areas of competence and concentration, the College makes available the option, under certain conditions, of registering in courses on a pass/fail basis. Courses taken under the pass/fail option yield full credit when satisfactorily completed but, whether passed or not, are not computed in the grade point average. The last day to change from grade mode to pass/fail is the drop date. The last day to change from pass/fail to grade mode is the Friday on the twelfth week of the semester.

A student may count no more than 18 hours taken on a pass/fail basis toward the degree. First-year students are not eligible to elect the pass/fail mode, but may enroll for courses offered only on a pass/fail basis. Second, third and fourth-year students at Wake Forest may elect no more than 4 pass/fail hours in a given semester. Courses used to fulfill core, quantitative reasoning, cultural diversity, major, minor, or certificate program requirements may not be taken on a pass/fail basis unless they are offered only on that basis. Courses in the major(s) not used for satisfying major requirements may be taken on a pass/fail basis if the department of the major does not specify otherwise and if the student obtains the written or electronic permission of his or her academic adviser and the course instructor. Any student who is eligible to enroll for pass/fail credit must follow the prescribed enrollment process overseen by the Office of the University Registrar.

No courses in the School of Business may be taken pass/fail unless they are offered only on that basis.

Dean’s List

The Dean’s List is issued after the end of the fall and spring semesters. It includes all full-time, degree-seeking students in the College and the School of Business who have a grade point average of 3.4 or better for a full-time course load in the semester and who have earned no grade below C during the semester.

Graduation Distinctions

Graduation distinctions are determined by the grade-point average system and are based entirely on grades earned in Wake Forest courses. A degree candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.8 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction summa cum laude. A candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.6 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction magna cum laude. A candidate with a cumulative average of not less than 3.4 for all courses attempted is graduated with the distinction cum laude. Details are available in the Office of the University Registrar.

Repetition of Courses

A Wake Forest course can be repeated at Wake Forest if the grade earned is C- or lower. In this case, all grades received will appear on the transcript, but the course will be counted only one time for credit. If a student fails a course previously passed, the hours originally earned will not be forfeited. For purposes of determining the cumulative grade point average, a course will be considered as attempted only once, and the grade points assigned will reflect the highest grade received. These provisions do not apply to any course for which the student has received the grade of F in consequence of an honor violation. Students seeking to repeat ENG 105 (WRI 105) must petition the English department.

Probation/Suspension

Any student who is placed on probation because of honor code or conduct code violations may be placed on such special academic probation as determined by the Committee on Academic Affairs. The Committee on Academic Affairs may at any time suspend or place on probation any student who has given evidence of academic irresponsibility, such as failing to attend class regularly or to complete papers, examinations, or other work on time.

If poor academic performance is attributable to circumstances over which the student clearly had no control (e.g., serious injury or illness), the student may, after consultation with one of the academic deans, petition the Committee on Academic Affairs for further consideration of his or her status.

In deciding whether to permit exceptions to the foregoing eligibility requirements, the Committee on Academic Affairs will take into account such factors as convictions for violations of the College honor code or social conduct code, violations of the law, and any other behavior demonstrating disrespect for the rights of others.

Any student convicted of violating the honor code and, as a result, suspended from the University or assigned the penalty of “activities suspension” is ineligible to represent the University in any way until the period of suspension is completed and the student is returned to good standing. Such students also may not be initiated into any fraternity or sorority during the time of the sanction.

No student suspended from Wake Forest may take coursework at another institution and have that work transferred to Wake Forest for credit.

Requirements for Continuation

A student’s academic eligibility to continue is determined by the number of hours passed and the grade point average. The number of hours passed is the sum of the hours transferred from other institutions and the hours earned in the undergraduate schools of the University. The grade point average is computed only on work attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University and excludes both non-credit and pass/fail courses.

Students are expected to make reasonable and systematic progress toward the accomplishment of their degree programs. To be eligible to continue in the College, students must maintain:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>for hours passed</th>
<th>a minimum cumulative GPA of</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>fewer than 30</td>
<td>1.60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>at least 30, fewer than 60</td>
<td>1.70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>at least 60, fewer than 90</td>
<td>1.80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>90 and above</td>
<td>1.90</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Students are responsible for knowing their academic standing at all times. Any student whose GPA falls below the required minimum will have a grace period of one semester to raise the average to the required level. Students also have the option of attending summer school at Wake Forest in an effort to raise the average.

The Committee on Academic Affairs will suspend students who earn six or fewer grade points in any given semester in courses other than CNS 353; military science courses; MUS 111-129 (ensemble courses); DCE 128; and elective 100-level courses in health and exercise science. In cases where failure was due to circumstances beyond the student’s control, he or she may appeal to the Committee for an exception.

Any student who is in academic difficulty is urged to seek advice and counsel from his or her academic adviser, from the Office of Academic Advising, from the Learning Assistance Center, and from the University Counseling Center.

A student who has or develops a health problem which, in the judgment of the director of the Student Health Service creates a danger to the safety and well-being of the student or others, may be required to withdraw or convert to continuous enrollment status until the problem is resolved.

Resumption of Full- or Part-Time Status

The Committee on Academic Affairs oversees matters affecting students who have been granted continuous enrollment status. A student who has been granted continuous enrollment status for medical or psychological reasons must submit documentation from his or her physician or therapists to either the director of the Student Affairs Office or the director of the Student Health Service.
Health Service or the director of the University Counseling Center attesting to his or her readiness to resume a full academic program. The physician or therapist should also provide professional guidance to these directors as to the nature of the student’s ongoing care once a resumption of full- or part-time status has been approved.

Any student who has been granted continuous enrollment status and who hopes to receive transfer consideration for work done elsewhere must provide the University with a properly documented statement attesting to his or her good standing at the institution from which the transfer credit would come. (See also Summer Study and Transfer Credit rules.) Additionally, an official copy of the student’s transcript must be made available to the Office of the University Registrar.

Should a student, upon interruption of full- or part-time status, fail to comply with procedures for a change to withdrawn or continuous enrollment status, “holds” may be placed upon his or her record that will prevent consideration of readmission or resumption of full- or part-time status. Although a resumption of full- or part-time status can normally be approved (subject to medical or psychological approvals as described here), any request for resumption of full- or part-time status to the University may be denied if a student has violated any laws or regulations or has engaged in conduct or exhibited behaviors that have demonstrated a disregard for the rights of others. Notification forms required for resumption of full- or part-time status and deadlines for submission are posted on the Office of Academic Advising website at http://advising.wfu.edu.

Readmission

The Committee on Academic Affairs oversees the readmission of students who have withdrawn—voluntarily, for medical or psychological reasons, due to academic or judicial suspension or otherwise. In making a decision on whether to readmit, the Committee considers both the academic and non-academic records of the student. A student who has withdrawn from the University for medical or psychological reasons must submit documentation from his or her physician or therapists to either the director of the Student Health Service or the director of the University Counseling Center attesting to his or her readiness to resume a full academic program. The physician or therapist should also provide professional guidance to these directors as to the nature of the student’s ongoing care once readmission has been approved.

Any student who has withdrawn and who hopes to receive transfer consideration for work done elsewhere must provide the University with a properly documented statement attesting to his or her good standing at the institution from which the transfer credit would come. (See also Summer Study and Transfer Credit rules.) Additionally, an official copy of the student’s transcript must be made available to the Office of the University Registrar.

No student on judicial or academic probation or suspension from the University may take coursework at another institution and have that work transferred to the University for credit. Students whose withdrawals from the University were as the result of an honor or judicial conviction must satisfy fully any sanctions placed upon them prior to being considered for readmission.

Students who have been ineligible to continue for academic reasons must present to the Committee on Academic Affairs an intentional plan to raise their academic standing to acceptable standards. Should a student, upon withdrawal or granting of continuous enrollment status, fail to comply with proper withdrawal or continuous enrollment procedures, “holds” may be placed upon his or her record that will prevent consideration of readmission or resumption of full- or part-time status until such matters are resolved.

Any request for readmission to the University may be denied if a student has violated any laws or regulations or has engaged in conduct or exhibited behaviors that have demonstrated a disregard for the rights of others. Readmission forms and deadlines are posted on the Office of Academic Advising website at http://advising.wfu.edu.
Summer Study

In addition to regular courses, a number of special summer programs for credit are described in the bulletin of the summer session.

To be eligible to take summer courses at another college or university, the student must have a cumulative grade point average of no less than 2.0 and must obtain advance approval through the Office of the University Registrar. All coursework sought for transfer will be evaluated by individual academic department and in some cases, the appropriate dean. All transfer work taken after enrollment at Wake Forest must be taken in an approved four-year institution.

Courses taken outside the U.S. require, in addition, prior approval from the Center for Global Programs and Studies. Students must obtain program approval and course approval through the Center for Global Programs and Studies.

Transfer Credit

All work attempted in other colleges and universities must be reported to the Office of the University Registrar. Students wishing to receive transfer credit for work to be undertaken elsewhere must have a cumulative grade point average of no less than 2.0, must not be on probation or suspension from Wake Forest, and must obtain departmental approval in advance. For entering transfer students, credit may be accepted from accredited colleges and universities, including two-year colleges. For enrolled Wake Forest students and students readmitted to Wake Forest, transfer credit is accepted only from approved four-year institutions. For transfer hours to be accepted, the grade in any course must be C or better. Courses completed at other colleges or universities with the grade of C- or lower are not awarded transfer hours in Wake Forest. Of the 120 credit hours required for the baccalaureate, at least sixty-credits hours must be earned in Wake Forest programs. (Refer to the Requirements for Degrees section of this bulletin for more details.) Courses being considered for transfer that are not based on semester hour credits will not receive a higher conversion value than the value of the Wake Forest course.

Applications for transfer credit from online and distance learning courses are evaluated on an individual basis. Only those courses approved by the appropriate department chair are accepted. No more than 15 credit hours earned through fully online courses may be applied toward graduation; of these, no more than six credit hours may be transferred from another institution. It is the responsibility of the student to disclose to the Office of the University Registrar whether a class is an online or distance learning class. This does not apply to courses taken over the N.C. Interactive Video Network.

Dual enrollment courses, college level courses taken at institutions other than Wake Forest, are treated as transfer credit if the given course meets the University’s standard criteria for transfer credit.

Independent Study, Individual Study, Directed Reading and Internships

Such work is ordinarily reserved for junior and senior students in the undergraduate schools. Any student requesting approval for such a course must possess a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.0 in Wake Forest courses. All such course requests must be approved by the appropriate department. The academic requirements must be completed during the semester in which a student is enrolled.

The number of credit hours the student registers for in an independent study, individual study, directed reading, or internship course may not be changed during the add period unless approved by the sponsoring faculty member.

Undergraduates in Graduate Courses

In exceptional circumstances, undergraduate students may enroll in Wake Forest graduate-level courses. Such students must have junior or senior status and must obtain written permission from the course instructor, the student’s adviser, and the associate dean for academic advising. Typically, undergraduate students will not be allowed to take 600-level classes for credit, if the related 300-level class is available; undergraduate students who wish to take a cross-listed course at the graduate level must follow the procedure... described above. Graduate programs have no obligation to admit undergraduate students to their courses and do so at their own discretion.

Eligibility for Study Abroad

In order to be eligible for study abroad on a Wake Forest or affiliate program (approved non-Wake Forest program) students must:

1. Have completed two semesters of coursework before beginning the program,
2. Have a cumulative grade point average of 2.0 or above,
3. Not be on probation or suspension from Wake Forest,
4. Obtain approval of the program from the Center for Global Programs and Studies before applying to any affiliate program (consult a study abroad advisor for the program approval process),
5. Fulfill all required steps of the study abroad process as outlined by the Center for Global Programs and Studies, and
6. Attend a mandatory pre-departure orientation

Students who do not meet the above criteria will not receive credit for any coursework taken outside the U.S. Students who study abroad on affiliate programs must follow all policies on transfer credit as stated in this Undergraduate Bulletin.

Note that any student possessing less than a 2.0 cumulative grade point average is not eligible to receive transfer credit from an affiliate study abroad program (See the transfer credit section of this Undergraduate Bulletin.)
Financial aid programs include institutional, state, and federal scholarship, loan, and work funds. Full-time students are considered for institutional funds; other degree-seeking students are considered for federal funds only. Full-time enrollment requires 12 or more semester hours. For federal aid purposes, the third and subsequent repetitions of previously-passed courses are excluded in the determination of enrollment level. Financial need is a factor in the awarding of most aid. The annual calculation of need, and therefore award amounts, may vary from year to year.

Additional scholarship assistance not listed herein is recommended by the Department of Athletics and governed by NCAA rules. The Committee may revoke institutional aid for unsatisfactory academic performance, for violation of University regulations including its honor code, or for violation of federal, state, or local laws. IRS Publication 970 describes the possible taxability of scholarship assistance.

Policy on Satisfactory Academic Progress for Financial Aid Eligibility

Institutional Financial Aid

Evaluation of students’ satisfactory academic progress for purposes of institutionally-controlled financial aid eligibility is made annually at the end of the summer term, to determine eligibility for the following academic year. Evaluation is also made upon students’ readmittance and/or return to active status following a period of continuous enrollment status. The receipt of institutionally-controlled aid requires full-time enrollment (12 or more hours) during the fall and spring semesters and a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.00 on work attempted toward a first bachelor’s degree in the undergraduate schools of the University. Certain institutional aid programs have higher academic and/or other requirements, which are communicated to recipients. The receipt of athletic aid is governed by NCAA rules. Institutional aid may be revoked for violations of University regulations, including its honor code, or for violation of federal, state, or local laws. Institutional aid generally is not awarded for summer sessions. Institutional aid is not awarded beyond the eighth (fall or spring) semester; this limit is prorated for students admitted as transfer students. Students with the following transfer hours accepted for credit at Wake Forest University (for coursework completed prior to enrollment at Wake Forest University) have the corresponding remaining semesters of institutional aid eligibility: fewer than 12.5 hours: eight semesters; at least 12.5 hours but fewer than 25 hours: seven semesters; at least 25 hours but fewer than 40 hours: six semesters; at least 40 hours but fewer than 55 hours: five semesters; at least 55 hours but fewer than 71 hours: four semesters; at least 71 hours but fewer than 87 hours: three semesters; at least 87 hours but fewer than 103.5 hours: two semesters; at least 103.5 hours but fewer than 120 hours: one semester; 120 or more hours: 0 semesters.

A student not meeting the minimum standards of satisfactory academic progress for purposes of institutional financial aid eligibility when evaluation is done at the end of the summer term, loses eligibility for the next term of enrollment, unless the student successfully appeals and is placed on financial aid probation, which may include the approval of an academic plan. A student not meeting the minimum standards of satisfactory progress for purposes of institutional financial aid eligibility when evaluation is done at the end of the summer term, may request a mid-year review if his or her academic standing achieves the minimum standards before the next scheduled annual review.
Federal Financial Aid

Evaluation of students’ satisfactory academic progress for purposes of federal financial aid eligibility is made at the end of each term (fall, spring, summer), to determine eligibility for the following term. Evaluation is also made upon students’ readmittance and/or return to active status following a period of continuous enrollment status. The Higher Education Act mandates that institutions of higher education establish minimum standards of satisfactory academic progress for students receiving federal aid. Wake Forest University makes these minimum standards applicable to all aid programs funded by the federal government. Certain federal aid programs have higher academic and/or other requirements, which are communicated to recipients. The minimum standards of satisfactory academic progress for federal aid also apply to certain state aid programs, including the Need Based Scholarship for North Carolina residents. To maintain academic eligibility for federal aid, a student must:

- Complete the requirements for a bachelor’s degree within a maximum number of hours attempted of 180 (including transfer hours, Advanced Placement hours, International Baccalaureate hours, College Level Examination Program hours, etc.). During a semester in which a student drops courses or withdraws or begins continuous enrollment status, the maximum number of hours attempted includes those hours attempted as of the earlier of (1) the withdrawal or continuous enrollment status effective date, or (2) the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar).

- Pass at least two-thirds of those hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University (including transfer hours, pass/fail courses, and hours attempted as a visiting or unclassified student). Incompletes count as hours attempted, unless from a non-credit course. Audited classes do not count as hours attempted. During a semester in which a student drops courses or withdraws, hours attempted includes those hours attempted as of the earlier of (1) the withdrawal or continuous enrollment status effective date, or (2) the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar).

- Maintain the following minimum cumulative Wake Forest University grade point average on all graded hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University (including courses with a grade of incomplete):

<thead>
<tr>
<th>For graded hours attempted</th>
<th>a minimum cumulative GPA of</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>fewer than 30</td>
<td>1.60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>at least 30, fewer than 60</td>
<td>1.70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>at least 60, fewer than 90</td>
<td>1.80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>90 and above</td>
<td>1.90</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The Wake Forest University grade point average calculation excludes pass/fail courses. In cases where a student repeats a course for which he or she received a grade of C- or lower, the cumulative grade point average is calculated by considering the course as attempted only once, with the grade points assigned reflecting the highest grade received. However, this provision does not apply to any course for which the student has received the grade of F in consequence of an honor code violation. During a semester in which a student drops courses or withdraws, all graded hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University includes those graded hours attempted as of the earlier of (1) the withdrawal or continuous enrollment effective date, or (2) the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar).

The policy on satisfactory academic progress applies only to the general eligibility for aid consideration. There are other federally-mandated requirements a student must meet to receive federal aid. For instance, certain federal loan programs also require either the passage of a period of time or the advancing of a grade level between annual maximum borrowing, regardless of general eligibility for aid. Other general student eligibility requirements for a student to receive federal financial aid are listed at www.ed.gov.

A student not meeting the minimum standards of satisfactory academic progress for purposes of federal financial aid eligibility when evaluation is done at the end of each term (fall, calendar). For purposes of this policy, hours attempted also include all instances in which a course is repeated.
spring, summer), is placed in financial aid warning status for the following term of enrollment. The financial aid warning status lasts for one term of enrollment, during which the student may continue to receive federal student aid funds. A student still not meeting the minimum standards after a term in financial aid warning status loses eligibility, unless the student successfully appeals and is placed on financial aid probation, which may include the approval of an academic plan.

Appeal Procedure

Denial of aid under the policies for institutional and federal aid may be appealed in writing to the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid and mailed to P.O. Box 7246, Winston-Salem, NC 27109-7246, or delivered to the Office of Student Financial Aid, Reynolda Hall Room 4. A student's request must include information regarding why the student failed to maintain satisfactory academic progress, and what factors have changed that would allow him/her to demonstrate satisfactory academic progress at the next evaluation.

The Committee may grant a probationary reinstatement to any student, upon demonstration of extenuating circumstances documented in writing to the satisfaction of the Committee. Examples of extenuating circumstances and appropriate documentation include, but are not necessarily limited to the following: injury or illness of the student or immediate family members—statement from physician that injury or illness interfered with opportunity for satisfactory progress; death in family—statement of student or minister; temporary or permanent disability—statement from physician. During a probationary period, students may continue to receive aid. Reinstatement after probation can be made only after the student has received credit for the appropriate percentage of work attempted with the required cumulative grade point average.

Scholarships

The University's merit-based scholarship programs for entering first-year students are listed first and do not require separate application unless noted otherwise. Other scholarship programs follow and do not require separate application unless noted otherwise. Students wishing to apply for any scholarship listing need as a consideration should complete the PROFILE application of the College Scholarship Service and the Free Application for Federal Student Aid of the U.S. Department of Education.

The Dr. George E. & Lila C. Bradford Scholarship covers the costs of tuition and is awarded to an outstanding entering first-year student with an intent and capacity to prepare for a career in medicine. Scholars may receive up to $5,000 at least one summer for approved travel or study projects.

The Guy T. Carswell Scholarship, awarded to entering first-year students possessing outstanding qualities of intellect and leadership, covers the costs of tuition, fees, room and board, and includes an allowance for books and personal expenses. Scholars may receive up to $5,000 at least one summer for approved travel or study projects. The following funds support the Guy T. Carswell Scholarship program:

The Deal Family Scholarship gives preference first to students from Catawba, Caldwell, Burke, and Alexander counties, NC; second to other North Carolinians; and third to other students.

The Gentry Family Scholarship assists needy recipients.

The Joseph G. Gordon Scholarship is awarded to entering first-year students showing exceptional promise and leadership potential who are members of constituencies historically underrepresented in the College. Made possible by the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation and the University, this scholarship covers the costs of tuition, fees, room and board, and includes an allowance for books and personal expenses. Scholars may receive up to $5,000 at least one summer for approved travel or study projects.

Note: On July 1, 2009, the Wayne Calloway School of Business and Accountancy and the Charles H. Babcock Graduate School of Management officially merged under the name Wake Forest University School of Business.
The Graylyn Scholarship, awarded to an entering first-year student to recognize leadership and academic excellence, covers the costs of tuition and fees. Scholars may receive up to $5,000 at least one summer for approved travel or study projects.

The Nancy Susan Reynolds Scholarship is awarded to up to extraordinarily capable entering first-year students. Made possible through the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation, this scholarship covers the costs of tuition, fees, room and board, and includes an allowance for books and personal expenses. Scholars may receive up to $5,000 at least one summer for approved travel or study projects.

The Penelope W. & E. Roe Stamps IV Leadership Scholar Award is awarded to entering first-year students who demonstrate outstanding academic achievement, a high degree of intellectual curiosity and scholarship, exceptional promise in leadership, service and social responsibility, perseverance, character, integrity, and innovation. Made possible through the Stamps Family Charitable Foundation, this scholarship covers the costs of tuition, fees, room and board, and includes an allowance for books and personal expenses. Scholars may receive up to $15,000 total over their four undergraduate years for approved travel or study projects.

The O.W. Wilson Scholarship covers the costs of tuition and is awarded to an entering first-year student with superior records and excellent potential. Scholars may receive up to $5,000 at least one summer for approved travel or study projects.

The Army Reserve Officers’ Training Corps (AROTC) Scholarships are awarded for academic and personal achievement and pay an amount determined by the U.S. Army for tuition; a flat rate for texts, equipment, and supplies; and a subsistence allowance. Interested students should contact the Department of Military Science.

The Junius C. & Eliza P. Brown Scholarships assist needy and worthy residents of North Carolina, with preference to residents of Rockingham County, NC.

The Edward Otis Burroughs Fund for Wake Forest Scholars assists needy students by reducing loan expectations, with preference first to a student who is an organist and intends to major in music performance, second to a student who intends to pursue a career in secondary education with an emphasis in vocal music instruction, and third to a student who intends to major in physics.

The Byrum Fund for Wake Forest Scholars assists needy students by reducing loan expectations.

The Robert P. & Dorothy Caldwell Scholarship is awarded to entering first-year students based on academic achievement, leadership, community service, and a commitment to helping others. A portion of these funds gives preference to needy students from Gaston and Catawba, NC, counties.

The Mark C. Christie Scholarship assists students based on merit, with preference to graduates of public high schools in WV or in VA west of Lynchburg.

The Crawford Fund for Wake Forest Scholars assists needy students by reducing loan expectations.

The Gary Franklin Culler Scholarship is awarded to entering first-year students based on ability and leadership potential, with preference to students from High Point, NC.

Federal Financial Aid Programs

The federal government sponsors a number of aid programs for education, including: Federal Pell Grants; Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants; Teacher Education Assistance for College & Higher Education Grants; Federal Work-Study; Federal Perkins Loans; and William D. Ford Federal Direct Loans (including Federal Stafford Loans, both subsidized and unsubsidized, and PLUS Loans).

To receive assistance through these programs, a student must complete the necessary applications, meet basic eligibility requirements, and maintain satisfactory academic progress.

Federal aid programs are described at the U.S. Department of Education website www.ed.gov.
Loans

The James W. Denmark Loan, established in 1875, assists qualified students.

The Hutchins Student Loan assists needy students.

The Grover & Addy Raby Loan gives preference to applicants from the First Baptist Church of Tarboro, NC.

The Sidney G. Wallace Loan gives preference to students studying at a Wake Forest-sponsored or approved overseas program.

Other Aid Programs

Student employment is possible for part-time, on-campus and off-campus work, for a recommended maximum of 20 hours per week for full-time students. Summer employment may also be available. Interested students should contact the student financial aid office. Federal funding assists Wake Forest in its job location and development activities for students.

Veterans' education benefits are administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs in the Federal Building at 251 North Main Street in Winston-Salem. Records of progress are kept by Wake Forest University on veteran and non-veteran students alike. Progress records are furnished to the students, veterans, and non-veterans alike, at the end of each scheduled school term.

Outside Assistance

Wake Forest encourages students to apply for outside assistance for which they may be eligible. Students must advise the financial aid office if they receive any assistance from outside organizations, including any local, state, and national scholarship and loan programs. Outside scholarships count as student resources, becoming part of the package of financial aid. When need calculated under the federal methodology (FM need) is greater than the offered aid package, outside scholarships are allowed to meet that difference. Once the offered aid package equals FM need, any portion of outside scholarship exceeding FM need results in a reduction of need-based student loans and work-study funds. In no case may aid exceed the estimated cost of attendance.

Outside scholarship donors should include on the check the recipient’s name and the term(s) for which the scholarship is intended. Checks should be payable to Wake Forest University (or co-payable to Wake Forest University and the student) and sent to the Office of Student Financial Aid, P.O. Box 7246, Winston-Salem, NC 27109-7246. Checks delivered by donors to the student should be forwarded to the aid office. By submitting, or allowing donors to submit, checks to Wake Forest, a student gives permission for Wake Forest to write the Wake Forest University student identification number on the face of the check. If funds are not received by Wake Forest in a timely manner from an outside scholarship donor, the student becomes responsible for payment of charges previously deferred by the anticipated receipt of funds from the donor.
Special Programs

Students in the college are encouraged to apply to special programs, both on and off campus, which complement their abilities and interests. These include the programs described below and the special degrees, minors, and concentrations described in the courses of instruction.

Honors Study

For highly qualified students, a series of interdisciplinary honors courses is described under the Courses of Instruction section of this bulletin.

For students especially talented in individual areas of study, most departments in the College offer special studies leading to graduation with honors in a particular discipline. The minimum requirement is a grade point average of 3.0 in all work and 3.3 (or higher in some areas) in the major. Other course, seminar, and research requirements are determined by each department.

Open Curriculum

For students with high motivation and strong academic preparation, the Open Curriculum provides the opportunity to follow a course of study planned within the framework of a liberal arts education, but not necessarily fulfilling all core requirements for the degree. The Committee on Open Curriculum selects a limited number of students based on their previous record of achievement, high aspirations, ability in one or more areas of study, strength of self-expression, and other special talents. The course of study for the core requirements is designed by the student and his or her Open Curriculum adviser.

Study at Salem College

For full-time students in the fall and spring semesters, Wake Forest and Salem College share a program of exchange credits for courses taken at one institution because they are not offered in the curriculum of the other. An application for the Salem/Wake Forest Exchange Credit program must be approved by the academic adviser and the Office of Academic Advising or the dean of the School of Business. Except in courses of private instruction, there is no additional cost to the student. Grades and grade points earned at Salem College under the Exchange Credit program are evaluated as if they were earned at Wake Forest.

Courses that are in the Wake Forest curriculum generally cannot be taken at Salem through this program. In very unusual circumstances, a student may wish to seek assistance in appealing to the Committee on Academic Affairs.

Center for Global Programs and Studies

The Center for Global Programs and Studies (GPS) provides information on study abroad programs, international student and scholar services, the cross-cultural engagement program, and the international studies and global trade and commerce minors. A complete list of services offered by GPS can be found at http://global.wfu.edu.

Study Abroad

Students interested in studying abroad should visit GPS for assistance and program information. All students planning to study abroad on a Wake Forest or an affiliate program (approved non-Wake Forest program) are required first to schedule an appointment with a study abroad advisor. All students must submit an online study abroad application. For more information visit http://studyabroad.wfu.edu and see the eligibility section of this Undergraduate Bulletin on page 38.
International

International Students and Scholars

The Center provides support and resources for international students and scholars (ISS) during their time at Wake Forest. Charged with helping students and scholars acculturate and thrive on campus and in the U.S., ISS advisors organize the "Worldwide Wake" pre-orientation program, assist with visa/immigration issues, sponsor activities and seminars throughout the academic year, manage the Friendship Family program, and address individual questions and situations as they arise. Additionally, the international student/scholar advisors collaborate with other Wake Forest offices and departments to foster a campus culture more global in character.

Study Abroad in Wake Forest Programs

Austria (Vienna)

Students have the opportunity to study and live at the Flow House in the 19th District of Vienna (northwest section of the city). Each semester or summer session, a resident professor leads a group of up to 16 students and offers two courses in his or her respective disciplines. Resident professors are chosen from a wide variety of academic departments. In addition, Viennese professors offer courses in the study of German language or literature, Austrian art and architecture, business, music, or history of Austria and Central Europe. Group excursions to Central Europe enhance the learning experience as well as numerous integrative experiences within the city itself. Prior study of German language is recommended but not required. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor David B. Levy, in the Department of Music and Office of Dean of the College.

Chile (Santiago)

Students have the opportunity to study and live in South America on the Southern Cone Program, which is offered during the spring semester. Students begin the semester in Buenos Aires for three weeks taking a cultural immersion course at Universidad Torcuato di Tella and living in a homestay. Then they travel to Santiago, Chile, to spend the rest of the semester taking courses at Universidad Diego Portales. A resident professor leads the group of students and offers two courses in his or her respective discipline. Resident professors are chosen from a variety of academic departments. Students experience the Chilean culture through homestays and excursions to locations such as Easter Island and San Pedro de Atacam. This program offers courses in English and Spanish. Prior study of Spanish language is recommended but not required. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Peter Siavelis, in the Department of Politics and International Affairs.

Chile (Santiago)

To receive Honors in Latin American and Latino Studies, highly qualified students apply to and are selected to complete the Chile Honors Semester which is offered each fall in Santiago, Chile. The honors designation is a recognition of outstanding scholarship in the area, as evidenced by academic achievement, critical thinking, intellectual initiative and deep familiarity with the culture and peoples of Latin America. Students undertake focused individual research in the country by participating in LAS 380, the Latin-American and Latino Studies Honors Colloquium and pursue other related coursework. Students are required to present research findings from their honors colloquium independent project upon return to campus. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Peter Siavelis, in the Department of Politics and International Affairs.
England (Cambridge)

Wake Forest offers a semester program in Cambridge, England, in partnership with the Institute of Economic and Political Studies (INSTEP). The program emphasizes a close student to faculty teaching relationship with most classes taught in the seminar format with five to 12 students. In addition, intensive courses are offered for qualified students in the supervision format with one to four students (who meet course pre-requisites). Courses are taught by Cambridge University professors and provide a contemporary perspective on economics, business, politics, and international relations. Further information may be obtained from Jessica Francis in the Center for Global Programs and Studies.

England (London)

Students have the opportunity to study and live at the Worrell House in the Hampstead District of London. Each semester or summer session, a resident professor leads a group of up to 14 students and offers two courses in his or her respective discipline. Resident professors are chosen from a wide variety of academic departments. In addition, British professors offer courses in the study of art, history, and theatre of London and Great Britain. Group excursions to museums and theatre performances enhance the learning experience as well as numerous integrative experiences within the city itself. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Kathy Smith, in the Department of Politics and International Affairs.

England (London)

In partnership with the Institute of Economic and Political Studies (INSTEP), Wake Forest offers a semester program in London, England. The program emphasizes a close student-to-faculty teaching relationship common to the English system of higher education. Courses are taught by local faculty members, many of whom hold appointments at the London School of Economics and Political Science. Students may choose courses in business, politics, communication, and sociology. Further information may be obtained from Jessica Francis in the Center for Global Programs and Studies.

France (Dijon)

Students have the opportunity to study and live in France. Each fall semester a resident professor leads a group of students and offers a course in French. In addition, students take courses at the University of Burgundy. Students experience French culture through homestays and excursions to locations throughout France such as Paris, Provence, and Strasbourg. A major in French is not required, but FRH 319 or its equivalent or any French course above the intermediate level is required. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Sally Barbour, in the Department of Romance Languages.

India (Delhi)

This summer abroad program focuses on the ways in which Indian cultural practices have developed into a hybridized format with elements that sustain some of the traditional components of Indian culture that have been synthesized with global cultural trends. This course examines the issues of sustainability of the cultural ecology of a specific ancient cultural system. The program is based in Delhi; however, there are excursions, including a trip to Ladakh in the Himalayan region of India, and to the “Golden Triangle” of India including the Taj Mahal. Further information may be obtained from professor Ananda Mitra in the Department of Communication.

Italy (Venice)

Students have the opportunity to study and live at Casa Artom situated along the Grand Canal in Venice. Each semester or summer session, a resident professor leads a group of up to 20 students and offers two courses in his or her respective discipline. Resident professors are chosen from a wide variety of academic departments. In addition, Venetian professors offer courses in the study of Italian language or literature, Italian art and architecture, history, and another course to help students integrate into the local culture. Group excursions throughout Venice and in surrounding cities enhance the learning experience as well as numerous integrative experiences within the city itself. Prior study of Italian language is not required, but may be determined by the resident professor. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Peter Kairoff, in the Department of Music.

Japan (Hirakata)

For students wishing to study in Japan, Wake Forest offers a fall and/or spring semester at Kansai Gaidai University. Located in Hirakata, Japan, Kansai Gaidai is situated near three of Japan's most interesting cities—Kyoto, the capital of Japan for 1,200 years; Osaka, the largest commercial city; and Nara, the ancient capital of Japan during the 6th century. Courses in a variety of disciplines including economics, political science, religious studies, sociology, history, art, and communication are offered in English. Japanese language is offered at all levels. No prior knowledge of Japanese is required. Further information may be obtained from Jessica Francis in the Center for Global Programs and Studies.

Peru (Cuzco)

This summer program is an in-depth, hands-on field course exposing students to the rich and varied ecosystems of the tropics, from absolute deserts to glaciers to tropical rain forests. Students travel through the spectrum of tropical ecosystems and are exposed to some of the wildest and most pristine areas left on the planet. The course combines lectures on the history, generation, maintenance, and the future of tropical biodiversity with field projects on a variety of plant and animal topics, from conservation to tree diversity to primate behavior. Permission of the instructor is required. Further information may be obtained from professor Miles Silman in the Department of Biology.

Portugal (Rio Maior)

Students have the opportunity to study European prehistory with hands-on training in the methods that archeologists use to learn about the past. This summer course introduces students to archeological survey methods, mapping techniques, excavation procedures, artifact analysis, and laboratory conservation. It combines lectures and demonstrations with participation in ongoing archeological fieldwork. The Portuguese National Archeological Museum and other institutions will host lectures on special topics. The course is taught in English, and students from all disciplines are welcome to apply. Further information may be obtained from professor Paul Thacker in the Department of Anthropology.

Spain (Barcelona)

This semester program is specifically designed for business, economics, entrepreneurship, and global trade and commerce students, but it also appeals to those students interested in political science and international studies in general. Based at the Autonomous University of Barcelona's Sant Pau Campus (UAB), the program places students the heart of this city of 1.6 million inhabitants. A Wake Forest on-site administrator oversees program administration and Wake Forest's academic center. Courses are primarily taught in English, with no prior knowledge of Spanish required. Students are required to enroll in one course taught in Spanish or Catalan. Housing options include apartments, student residence halls or homestays. Further information may be obtained from Jessica Francis in the Center for Global Programs and Studies.

Spain (Salamanca)

Students have the opportunity to study and live in Spain. Each semester a resident professor leads a group of students and offers a course in Spanish. In addition, students take courses at the University of Salamanca. Students experience the Spanish culture through homestays, or dorms at the University of Salamanca and excursions to locations throughout Spain such as Granada, Madrid, and Seville. A major in Spanish is not required, but one course beyond SPA 212 is required. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Candelas Gala, in the Department of Romance Languages.

Spain (Salamanca)—Internships

Students interested in experiencing the Spanish work environment are encouraged to apply for the Salamanca Summer Internship program. Internships are available during both summer sessions in a wide range of fields (medical, business, teaching, translation/interpretation) and may carry 1.5 or 3 hour credits. Students enroll in an internship course and have the option of taking a conversation course or literature course while in Salamanca. Students live with Spanish families or in dorms at the University of Salamanca. Further information may be obtained from professor Candelas Gala in the Department of Romance Languages.

Additional Summer Programs

Each summer, the University offers a variety of summer study abroad courses led by Wake Forest faculty. There are many types of summer programs including language immersion, field research, specialized academic topics and internships. Wake Forest summer programs are offered throughout Europe, Africa, Asia, and Latin America. Detailed information on summer programs is available on the Center for Global Programs and Studies website http://studyabroad.wfu.edu. Further information may be obtained from Michael Tyson in the Center for Global Programs and Studies.

Study Abroad in Affiliate Programs

Students wishing to study abroad on an affiliate program must visit the Center for Global Programs and Studies for assistance and procedures. Affiliate programs are approved study abroad programs offered through program providers or other universities. GPS maintains an online database of approved Affiliate programs at http://studyabroad.wfu.edu. In addition, GPS has a collection of printed materials of approved programs. All students planning to study abroad are required to meet with a study abroad advisor to discuss. The GPS staff advises students regarding their program options. Students will not receive credit for participation on any unapproved study abroad program.

Course Approval Process. Once a student is accepted to a study abroad program, he or she must start the course approval process by scheduling an appointment with a study abroad advisor. In no case may a student undertake study abroad elsewhere without completing this process in advance to the satisfaction of GPS, registrar’s office, and the academic departments which oversee course credit approval. Students may not register for fewer than 12 hours or more than 17 hours on a semester study abroad program without the permission of a dean. Department chairs approve specific courses and the number of credit hours earned for those courses.

Grades for approved courses on affiliate study abroad programs will appear on the Wake Forest University transcript, but will NOT be calculated into the Wake Forest grade point average (see section on transfer credit in this Undergraduate Bulletin). Students must follow the drop/add policies of the host institution. If the program does not have any relevant policies, then the Wake Forest policy is applied. If a student withdraws from a study abroad program, he or she must notify GPS, the registrar’s office, and student financial services; the rules for withdrawal, as stated in this Undergraduate Bulletin, also apply. For more information, consult GPS.

Students may request to have scholarship and financial aid applied toward Affiliate programs. Scholarships for study abroad are also available. Additional information is available in GPS and the Office of Student Financial Aid.

The bachelor of science degree is conferred with a major in biology, biophysics, chemistry, computer science, health and exercise science, mathematical economics, mathematics, mathematical statistics, or physics.

The bachelor of arts degree is available with a major in elementary education or social studies education. The bachelor of science degree may be conferred in combined curricula in engineering and medical technology.

The School of Business offers undergraduate programs leading to the bachelor of science degree with a major in accountancy, business and enterprise management, finance, or mathematical business.

A student may receive only one bachelor’s degree (either the bachelor of arts or the bachelor of science) from Wake Forest.

General Requirements

The basic and divisional course requirements leave students in the College considerable flexibility in planning their courses of study. Students who entered under the bulletins of previous years may make use of new alternative basic and divisional courses announced in this bulletin while still following their original contract for the required totals thereof. Except for HES 100 and 101, only courses of 3 or more semester hours count towards satisfying basic and divisional requirements.

All students must complete (1) the core requirements (unless accepted for the Open Curriculum), (2) a course of study approved by the department or departments of the major, and (3) elective courses, for a total of 120 hours. In general, no more than 12 hours toward graduation may be earned from among all of the following courses: MUS 111-121 and 128-129 (ensemble courses); DCE 128; and elective 100-level courses in health and exercise science. However, majors in music in liberal arts and music performance may count up to 16 hours in these courses toward graduation. A cross-listed course may be taken one time for hours toward graduation, unless otherwise specified by the course description.

All students must earn a minimum cumulative 2.0 grade point average in Wake Forest College and the School of Business. Of the 120 hours required for graduation, at least 60 must be earned in Wake Forest programs. Once enrolled at Wake Forest, a student may subsequently count, at most, 30 hours of credit from sources other than Wake Forest programs toward the graduation requirement of 120 hours. Except for combined degree curricula, the work of the senior year must consist of courses in Wake Forest programs. Any exceptions must be approved by the Committee on Academic Affairs.

Transfer credits will not be used in calculating a student’s GPA. This includes affiliate study abroad programs (approved non-Wake Forest programs). However, work from other institutions accepted in transfer, along with the grade(s) earned, will be recorded on the transcript. Graduation distinctions will be based solely on the Wake Forest GPA.

A student graduates under the requirements of the bulletin of the year in which he or she enters. However, when a student declares a major or a minor, the requirements for the major or minor that are in effect at the time of declaration will apply. Such requirements may not be congruent.
with those stated in a given bulletin. Newly admitted majors to the School of Business, however, will be assigned a catalog year that will reflect their first full academic year as a major in the School. If coursework is not completed within 6 years of entrance, the student must fulfill the requirements for the class in which he or she graduates.

The University issues degrees in August, December, and May. All requirements must be completed and certified before a student will be issued a degree and/or can participate in the commencement exercises. However, students may petition for permission to participate in the commencement exercises if all three of the following conditions are met:

1. The student will have completed at least 112 hours by the end of the spring semester preceding commencement.
2. The student will have a minimum 2.0 cumulative GPA and a minimum 2.0 GPA in the major(s).
3. The student has no outstanding judicial sanctions (unpaid fines, owed community service hours, etc.).

Commencement is a celebration of graduation, but not required for graduation. Participation in commencement is at the discretion of the appropriate Dean, The University reserves the right to refuse participation in commencement in certain circumstances (e.g., unfulfilled sanctions for judicial or honor violations).

No further entries or alterations may be made toward the undergraduate degree once a student has been graduated.

To become a degree candidate, a student must submit an online application for graduation that will prompt a review of the student's academic record to assure that all degree requirements have been met. The application for graduation is available online in WIN. Students who are not enrolled in the term prior to their desired graduation date must contact the Office of the University before the application deadline. The application deadlines for each graduation date are as follows:

- December graduation: September 1
- May graduation: October 1
- August graduation: May 30

The University conducts one Commencement Ceremony each year in May. Students who have earned their degree the previous August or December are invited to participate in the May ceremony following their graduation.

Core Requirements (Basic and Divisional combined)

The core requirements are intended to introduce the student to various fields of knowledge and to lay the foundation for concentration in a major subject and related fields during the junior and senior years. For these reasons, as many of the requirements as feasible should be taken in the first two years.

Basic Requirements

All students must complete five required basic courses (unless exempted through procedures established by the departments concerned):

- FYS 100 (first-year seminar)
- Writing 111 (writing seminar)
- One 200-level foreign language course
- Health and Exercise Science 100 and 101

Foreign Language Placements

All students new to Wake Forest who have studied a foreign language in high school must complete a foreign language placement test in the language(s) studied. Students will not receive credit for a class at a lower level than the level of their placement on the placement exam, unless they:

- register for the class in which they placed;
- attend a few class meetings;
- consult with their professor; and
- successfully appeal their placement to the language placement appeals officers of the department and be reassigned to a lower level course.

Students may satisfy the requirement with another foreign language, and may start at the beginning level (111, 101, depending on the language) offered at Wake Forest.

Students whose primary language (the language of instruction in the student's prior schooling) is other than English are exempt from the basic requirement in foreign language and must fulfill the Division II requirements with a course whose readings do not concentrate on the literature of the student’s primary language.

Students whose schooling has been in English but who are fluent in a language not taught at Wake Forest must present the equivalent of a 200-level college course in the second language to be exempt from the requirement. Such cases should be referred to the David B. Levy, Associate Dean of the College, who will refer each case to a person qualified to make the appropriate determination. If the second language is taught at Wake Forest, the relevant department decides whether the student may complete the requirement in that language or may be regarded as having fulfilled the requirement already. Elective courses in the language or literature of a student’s heritage or country of origin are at the discretion of the department offering the course.

Divisional Requirements

All students must complete courses in each of the five divisions of the undergraduate curriculum (unless exempted through procedures established by the departments concerned or by participation in the Open Curriculum). Together with the basic requirements these courses form the core of Wake Forest’s undergraduate liberal arts education.

Students are not allowed to exempt divisional core requirements through the Advanced Placement Examination, the College Level Examination Program, or the International Baccalaureate Program. Although students who complete AP courses earn credit towards the 120 hours needed for graduation. Departments choose which courses will satisfy divisional requirements. Courses satisfying a divisional requirement are designated (D) after their descriptions in this bulletin. Courses without the (D) designation do not satisfy a divisional requirement.

Special Restrictions

- In divisions requiring more than one course, students may not choose two courses from within the same department.
- One course cannot satisfy the requirements of two divisions. A cross-listed course satisfies a requirement in one division only.
- Language courses at the 200-level do not fulfill the Division II literature requirement.

Additional Requirements

To prepare students for the demands of technology and globalization, Wake Forest guides undergraduate course selections with two further requirements:

Cultural Diversity Requirement. All students must complete at least one course that educates them regarding cultural diversity. This course may be taken at the basic, divisional, or major/minor level or as an elective. Courses qualified to meet this requirement are designated (CD) after their descriptions in this bulletin.

Quantitative Reasoning Requirement. All students must complete at least one course that requires quantitative reasoning, either as a qualifying course in Division V, as an elective, or as a major or minor course requirement. All courses meeting the requirement are designated (QR) after their descriptions in this bulletin.

Requirement in Health and Exercise Science

Students must complete HES 100 and 101 before beginning additional health and exercise science elective courses, and in any case, before the end of the second year.

Declaring a Major

Students may declare a major after completing 40 hours. Most students declare a major in the spring of their sophomore year. Students declare a major through a procedure established between the academic departments and the registrar’s office. Information about this process is distributed prior to the designated declaration period.

If the student is accepted into the major, the department provides an adviser who assists the student in planning a course of study for the junior and senior years. A department that rejects a student as a major must notify the registrar’s office and file a written statement indicating the reason(s) for the rejection with the dean of the College.

Students who need to delay the declaration due to insufficient earned hours or other circumstances should consult the registrar’s office.

A student wishing to major in accountancy, business and enterprise management, finance, mathematical business, or the master of science in accountancy should apply to the School of Business. (See the School of Business requirements in this bulletin.)

The undergraduate schools try to provide ample space in the various major fields to accommodate the interests of students. It must be understood, however, that the undergraduate schools cannot guarantee the availability of space in a given major field or a given course, since the preferences of students change and there are limits to both faculty and facilities.

After the initial declaration, a student may not change from one major to another without the written approval of the departments concerned. The student’s course of study for the junior and senior years includes the minimum requirements for the departmental major, with other courses selected by the student and approved by the adviser. At least half of the major must be completed at Wake Forest University.

Please Note. For credit in the major, courses taken in many programs of study abroad are not automatically equivalent to courses completed at Wake Forest. If a student wishes to take more than half of his or her courses for the major in study abroad programs, he or she must gain prior approval from the chair of the department. Students should check the Undergraduate Bulletin for additional departmental requirements for the major. Majors are listed alphabetically under Courses of Instruction in this bulletin.

The following majors are recognized:

- accounting • anthropology • art history • biology • biophysics • business and enterprise management • chemistry • Chinese language and culture • classical studies • communication • computer science • economics • education • English • finance • French studies • German • German studies • Greek • health and exercise science • history • the interdisciplinary major • Japanese language and culture • Latin • mathematical business • mathematical economics • mathematical interdisciplinary • mathematical statistics • mathematics • music in liberal arts • music performance • philosophy • physics • politics and international affairs • psychology • religious studies • Russian • sociology • Spanish • studio art • theatre • women’s, gender, and sexuality studies

Maximum Number of Courses in a Department

Within the College, a maximum of 50 hours in a major is allowed within the 120 hours required for graduation. For a student majoring in a department with two or more majors, 6 additional hours in the department but outside the student’s major are also allowed.
These stipulations exclude required related courses from other departments. For students majoring in English, WRI 111 is excluded. For students majoring in a foreign language, elementary courses in that language are also excluded. These limits may be exceeded in unusual circumstances only by action of the dean of the College.

Options for Meeting Major Requirements

To satisfy graduation requirements, a student must select one, and only one, of the following options, which will receive official recognition on the student’s permanent record:

1. A single major
2. A single major and a minor
3. A single major and a double minor
4. A single major and a triple minor
5. A double major
6. A double major and a minor

In order to qualify for options four or six, students must offer a minimum of 135 hours for graduation.

In addition to these options, a student may complete the requirements of one or more foreign area studies programs and/or any of the Romance languages certificates.

Double Majors

A student may major in two departments in the College with the written permission of the chair of each of the departments and on condition that the student meets all requirements for the major in both departments. A student may not use the same course to meet requirements in both of the majors. The student must designate one of the two fields as the primary major, which appears first on the student’s record and determines the degree to be awarded. Only one undergraduate degree will be awarded, even if the student completes two majors.

Minors

A minor is not required. Students may declare a minor only after declaring at least one major. According to the guidelines listed under Options for Meeting Major Requirements, students choosing either a single or a double major may also choose one or more minors from among the following or from the listing of interdisciplinary minors:

- anthropology
- Arabic
- art history
- biology
- chemistry
- Chinese language and culture
- classical studies
- communication
- computer science
- creative writing
- dance
- economics
- education
- English
- French studies
- German
- German studies
- Greek
- health and human services
- history
- Italian language and culture
- Japanese language and culture
- journalism
- Latin
- mathematics
- music
- philosophy
- physics
- politics and international affairs
- psychology
- religious studies
- Russian
- sociology
- Spanish
- statistics
- studio art
- theatre

For details of the various minors, see the appropriate departmental headings in the section of this bulletin that lists course offerings.

Interdisciplinary Major

Highly qualified students may design an interdisciplinary major, focused on a topic not available as a regular major. The interdisciplinary major consists of courses offered by two or more departments, for a minimum of 42 hours. Students submit a proposal outlining the nature of the major, a list of courses to be included, evidence of a comparable major at another university, if available, and letters from at least two relevant faculty members supporting the proposal, one of whom must agree to be the student’s primary adviser. The interdisciplinary major may be declared after the student completes 40 hours, however planning for the major should begin as early as possible. A second major may not be declared. A minor may be declared; however, courses used in the interdisciplinary major may not also meet requirements in the minor. Students are required to complete an independent senior project, approved and reviewed by the adviser and readers from participating departments. Proposals are reviewed by the Open Curriculum Committee. Visit the interdisciplinary major website for more details.
Interdisciplinary Minors

Interdisciplinary minors are listed alphabetically under Courses of Instruction in this bulletin. The following programs are offered:

- African studies
- American ethnic studies
- cultural resource preservation
- East Asian studies
- entrepreneurship and social enterprise
- environmental science
- environmental studies
- film studies
- global trade and commerce studies
- health policy and administration
- interdisciplinary humanities
- international studies
- Jewish studies
- Latin-American and Latino studies
- linguistics
- medieval studies
- Middle East and South Asia studies
- neuroscience
- Russian and East European studies
- urban studies
- women's, gender, and sexuality studies
- writing

Foreign Area Studies

The foreign area studies programs enable students to choose an interdisciplinary concentration in the language and culture of a foreign area. An area studies concentration may include courses in the major and also in the minor field, if a minor is chosen. Foreign area studies programs do not replace majors or minors; they may supplement either or both. A faculty adviser coordinates each foreign area studies program and advises students. Students who wish to participate in one of these programs must consult with the program coordinator, preferably in their sophomore year.

Foreign area studies are listed alphabetically under Courses of Instruction in this bulletin. Italian studies and Spanish studies are offered.

Degrees in Engineering

The College cooperates with engineering schools in offering a broad course of study in the arts and sciences combined with specialized training in engineering. A program for outstanding students covers five years of study, including three years in the College and approximately two years in one of the schools of engineering accredited by ABET Inc., the engineering organization responsible for accrediting engineering degree programs in the United States. (Depending upon the field chosen, it may be advisable for a student to attend the summer session in the engineering school after transfer.) Admission to Wake Forest does not guarantee admission to the engineering school. Those decisions are based on the student’s transcript, performance, and status at the time of application. For most programs, upon successful completion of the five years of study, the student receives the bachelor of science degree in engineering from the University and the bachelor of science degree in a specialized engineering field from the engineering school. For Wake Forest's 3-2 program with Vanderbilt University, the bachelor of science degree from Wake Forest is awarded upon successful completion of the first year of study at Vanderbilt.

The curriculum for the first three years must include all the core requirements and additional courses in science and mathematics which will prepare the student for the study of engineering, such as MTH 111, 112, 205, and 251; PHY 113, 114, 215, 230, 262, 265, and 266; CHM 111, 111L. These electives are chosen in consultation with the chair of the Department of Physics.

Five-year Cooperative Degree Program in Latin-American Studies

Wake Forest and Georgetown universities have instituted a five-year cooperative degree program in Latin-American Studies. Under this program, undergraduate students who minor in Latin-American and Latino Studies at Wake Forest may apply to have a limited number of hours from their undergraduate work count toward a master's degree in Latin-American Studies at Georgetown University in Washington, DC. The BA is awarded by Wake Forest, while the master’s degree is awarded by Georgetown. Those whose applications are accepted may complete both their BS or BA and MA degrees in a five-year period. To apply for the combined BS/MA or BA/MA, students should declare an interest in the five-year cooperative degree program during their junior year. Students must then complete the regular Georgetown graduate application process and seek formal acceptance to the MA program during their senior year.

The five-year program is an opportunity for exceptional students to complete degree requirements at an accelerated pace. Interested students should contact the five-year degree program coordinator, Peter Siavelis, professor of politics and international affairs and director of the Latin-American and Latino Studies Program.
Courses of Instruction

Plans of study, course descriptions, and the identification of instructors apply to the academic year 2015-2016, unless otherwise noted, and reflect official faculty action through February, 2015.

The University reserves the right to change programs of study, academic requirements, assignment of lecturers, or the announced calendar. The courses listed in this bulletin are not necessarily taught every year; their availability is a function of both staffing constraints and student demand. While no guarantees about future scheduling can be made, students are encouraged to alert their advisers and department heads to their needs and desires as soon as they can be foreseen. For an exact list of courses offered in each particular semester and summer, students should consult the course schedules issued by the Office of the Registrar during the preceding term. Course descriptions in this bulletin are brief summaries. Students are encouraged to visit departmental and program websites for more detailed information.

Abbreviations Found in Course Descriptions

- (#h) Indicates the number of hours earned for successful completion of the course. Follows the course title.
- P— A course requires one or more prerequisite courses.
- C— A course requires one or more corequisite courses.
- P—POI Permission of the instructor is required for registration.
- P—POD Permission of the department is required for registration.
- (CD) A course satisfies the cultural diversity requirement.
- (D) A course satisfies a divisional requirement.
- (QR) A course satisfies the quantitative reasoning requirement.

African Studies (AFS)

(Interdisciplinary Minor)

Coordinator Senior Lecturer in Politics and International Affairs and International Studies Yomi Durotoye

The interdisciplinary minor in African studies offers students the opportunity to pursue a multidisciplinary study of Africa. The minor requires a minimum of 15 hours. Candidates for the minor are required to take two core courses, AFS 150 and AFS 250, as well as a 3 hour Wake Forest approved summer study abroad course in Africa. With prior approval, students studying abroad for a semester in Africa on a Wake Forest approved program may be exempted from the required summer study abroad course. Students may select the remaining 9 hours from the list of electives. Students who intend to minor in African Studies are encouraged to consult the coordinator of the program in their sophomore year. It is strongly recommended that AFS 250 be taken in the student’s senior year.
Required African Studies Courses

150: Introduction to African Studies. (1.5h) Introduces the ways in which the perceptions and realities of the African continent have been shaped by the forces of history, economics, culture, and politics.

220. Studies in Africa. (3h) This summer study abroad course is a theoretical and practical study of the history, politics, economy, society, and culture of an African country through formal lectures, field trips, and excursions. Based in Accra, Ghana.

250. Seminar on Contemporary Issues in African Studies. (1.5h) Interdisciplinary investigation of contemporary issues on the African continent. P—AFS 150

Summer Study Abroad Option (fulfill the minor requirement)

HMN 224. Cross-cultural Encounters in Morocco. (3h) Interdisciplinary study of Moroccan culture, both past and present, and an introduction to a country whose history and geopolitical situation are unique within the Arab region. Group excursions to sites of cultural and historic significance. Offered in Fez, Morocco, during the summer session.

Electives for African Studies

The program coordinator maintains a complete list of all elective courses that fulfill the minor, as additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. Students may seek prior approval from the program coordinator, in consultation with the core faculty, for courses which are not listed here but which have a significant African component. No more than 6 hours within a single discipline may count towards the minor. For course descriptions, see the relevant department’s listings in this bulletin.

- ART 104. Topics in World Art. (3h) (when topic is appropriate)
- ECN 258. Economic Growth and Development. (3h)
- HST 105. Africa in World History. (3h)

- 393. Topics in Religions of Africa. (3h)
- SPN 371. Afro-Cuban Cultural Expressions. (3h)
The interdisciplinary minor in American ethnic studies requires 18 hours. The student must take AES 251 (during the second or third year at Wake Forest) and AES 234 or equivalent. At least one additional 3-hour course must be taken from the behavioral and social sciences, and one from the humanities. This structure gives students an understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of American ethnic studies within the context of the traditional liberal arts curriculum.

232. The American Jewish Experience. (3h) Interdisciplinary course exploring Jewish immigration to America with a primary focus on the 19th and 20th centuries.

234. Ethnicity and Immigration. (3h) Exploration of the socio-historical dynamics of the peopling of America in the 19th and 20th centuries. (CD)

236. Multi-Ethnic Dance. (3h) Exploration of the cultural importance of dance in major ethnic groups in American society. Also listed as DCE 236. (CD)

240. Asian-American Legacy: A Social History of Community Adaptation. (3h) Introduces the history, culture, and literature of the Asian-American communities, exploring issues of migration, assimilation, and the process of developing Asian-American identities in the 20th and early 21st centuries. (CD)

251. Race and Ethnic Diversity in America. (3h) Different race and ethnic experiences are examined through an institutional approach that examines religion, work, schooling, marriage patterns, and culture from a cross-cultural perspective. Grand theoretical schemes like the “melting pot” are critiqued for their relevance in an age of new cultural expectations among the many American ethnic groups. Also listed as WGS 251. (CD)

265. Culture and Religion in Contemporary Native America. (3h) Interdisciplinary survey of American-Indian culture, including the arts and literature, religions, and historical changes. Emphasizes the impact of the Conquista, encounters with Northern Atlantic societies, and contemporary developments. Also listed as REL 265 and HMN 285. (CD)

300. American Ethnic Literature and Film. (3h) Through a discussion of cinematic and literary works from the Caribbean, North Africa, and sub-Saharan Africa, this course explores how artists have created a space in which to find their voice and cultural identity within both a global and personal history.

310. Race, Class, and Gender in a Color-blind Society. (3h) Examines issues surrounding race, class, and gender in the U.S. Topics include income and wealth, theories of discrimination, public education, gender bias, and patterns of occupational and industrial segregation. Also listed as EDU 310.

341. Africans in the Atlantic World 1750-1815. (3h) Explores Africans’ experience in the Atlantic world (Africa, Europe, and the Americas) during the era of slave trade by examining their encounters with Indians and Europeans and their adjustment to slave traders in West Africa. Also listed as HST 341. (CD)
357. Studies in Chicano/a Literature. (3h) Writings by Americans of Mexican descent in relation to politics and history. Readings in literature, literary criticism, and socio-cultural analysis. Also listed as ENG 357. (CD)

358. The Italian Experience in America. (3h) Explores issues of ethnicity and identity in the Italian-American experience. A central goal is to understand the inter-relationship of social, economic and political factors that impinge on this large European ethnic group.

370. Immigration Practices in the U.S. and the European Union. (3h) Explores the history and theory of immigration practices in the U.S. (after 1800) and the European Union (after its establishment in 1957) and compares the discourses and public policies in the two regions.

387. African-American Fiction. (3h) Selected topics in the development of fiction by American writers of African descent. Also listed as ENG 387. (CD)

389. African-American Poetry. (3h) Readings of works by American poets of African descent in theoretical, critical, and historical contexts. Also listed as ENG 389. (CD)

390. Special Topics. (1.5h or 3h) American ethnic studies topics of special interest. May be repeated for credit if topic varies.

396. Independent Study. (1h-3h) Independent projects in American ethnic studies which either continue study begun in a regular course or develop new areas of interest. A maximum of 3 hours may apply to the minor. By prearrangement.

Electives for American Ethnic Studies

Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program director maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department's listings in this bulletin.

Anthropology (ANT)

Chair Paul Thacker
Associate Professors Margaret Bender, Steven Folmar, Ellen Miller, Paul Thacker
Assistant Professors Karin Friederic, Mary Good, Eric Jones
Assistant Teaching Professor Sherri Lawson Clark

A major in anthropology requires a minimum of 33 hours and must include ANT 112, 113, 114, 340, 390, and one course from each of the following two groups:

Linguistic Anthropology—150, 333, 350, 353, 354, 355
Methods Courses—315, 354, 368, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 387

Students may also count one course from a related department toward their Anthropology major as approved by the major advisor.

Students are encouraged, but not required, to enroll in a course offering intensive field research training.

A minimum GPA of 2.0 in anthropology courses is required at the time the major is declared. A minimum GPA of 2.0 in anthropology courses counted toward the major is required for graduation. Only one course (excluding ANT 112, 113, 114, 150) can be taken under the pass/fail option and used to meet major requirements. A maximum of four hours of course credit from ANT 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 398, and 399 can be used to meet major requirements. A maximum of 6 hours of anthropology transfer credit can be used to meet major requirements.

A minor in anthropology requires 18 hours and must include:

Two of the following four anthropology (ANT) courses: 112 (archaeology); 113 (biological anthropology); 114 (cultural anthropology); and 150 (linguistics).

A minimum of 12 hours in anthropology (with up to 6 hours credit from relevant course offerings of other departments, as approved by the minor advisor).

A minimum of 6 hours at the 200-level or above.
Only one course (excluding ANT 112, 113, 114, 150) can be taken under the pass/fail option and used to meet minor requirements. Only 3 hours from ANT 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 398, and 399 may be used toward the minor. Only 3 hours from ANT 381, 382, 383, and 384 may be used to meet minor requirements. A minimum GPA of 2.0 in anthropology courses counted toward the minor is required for graduation. Within these guidelines and in consultation with the minor advisor, students may design minor programs with a variety of specific foci. The following are just two examples of how an individual student might design his or her minor. Specific course combinations will vary.

Traditional anthropology minor: ANT 112, 113, 114 plus three additional courses in anthropology

Focus on human and cultural diversity: ANT 113, 114, Human Biological Diversity (ANT 367), Native Peoples of North America (ANT 358), Race and Ethnic Diversity in America (AES 151), African-American History (HST 240)

Honors. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Anthropology,” highly qualified majors (3.5 GPA in anthropology) should apply to the department for admission to the honors program. Honors students must complete a senior research project, document their research, and satisfactorily defend their work in an oral examination. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

111. People and Cultures of the World. (3h) Representative ethnographic survey of world cultures. (CD, D)

111G. People and Cultures of the World. (3h) Same as ANT 111, but includes coverage of the relationship between geography and culture. Meets the geography requirement for teaching licensure candidates. (CD, D)

112. Introduction to Archaeology. (3h) Overview of the field of archaeology and its place within anthropology. Includes coverage of methods, theory, history of the field, and discussions of major developments in world prehistory (CD, D)

113. Introduction to Biological Anthropology. (3h) Introduces biological anthropology, including human biology, human variation, human genetics, human evolution, and primatology. (D)

114. Introduction to Cultural Anthropology. (3h) Investigates and interprets the cultural diversity of the world’s peoples through an understanding of economic, social, and political systems; law, ritual, symbol, and religion; language and culture; gender, kinship and the family; and globalization and culture change. (CD, D)

150. Introduction to Linguistics. (3h) The social phenomenon of language: how it originated and developed, how it is learned and used, its relationship to other kinds of behavior; types of language (oral, written, signed) and language families; analysis of linguistic data; and social issues of language use. Also listed as LIN 150. (CD, D)

301. Free Trade, Fair Trade: Independent Entrepreneurs in the Global Market. (3h) Field-based seminar compares the barriers to market participation experienced by independent entrepreneurs cross-culturally. Free trade policies are contrasted with fair trade practices to determine why so many independent producers have trouble succeeding in a globalizing world. Also listed as ESE 325. (CD)

305. Museum Anthropology. (4h) Examines the historical, social, and ideological forces shaping the development of museums, including the formation of anthropological collections and representation, and the intellectual and social challenges facing museums today. 3 hours. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 114, or POI.
307. Collections Management Practicum. (1.5h) The principles of collections management including artifact registration, cataloging, storage, and handling; conservation issues and practices; disaster planning and preparedness; and ethical issues are covered through lectures, readings, workshops, and hands-on use of the Museum’s collections.

308. Archaeological Theory and Practice. (3h) Examination of a contemporary archaeological topic through participation in the formulation and implementation of an archaeological research design. Building knowledge relevant to contemporary society through understanding the interdependent nature of archaeological theory and method.

313. Tradition, Continuity, and Struggle: Mexico and Central America. (3h) Acquaints students with the lives and struggles of indigenous and non-indigenous people of Mexico and neighboring countries, with special focus on the Maya. Includes the study of contemporary and prehispanic traditions, including Mayan cosmology, language, art and architecture, issues of contact during Spanish colonization, and current political, economic, health, and social issues affecting these areas today. (CD)

315. Artifact Analysis and Laboratory Methods in Archaeology. (4h) Introduces methods for determining the composition, age, manufacture, and use of different prehistoric and historic artifact types. Techniques for reconstruction of past natural environments from geological or ecofact samples. Explores data display tools including computer-based illustration and archaeological photography. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 114, or POI.

329. Feminist Anthropology. (3h) Examines cultural constructions of gender from a cross-cultural perspective and the relationship between feminism and anthropology through time. Emphasizes how varied forms of feminisms are constituted within diverse social, cultural, and economic systems. Students consider how feminist anthropologists have negotiated positions at the intersection of cultural and human rights. Also listed as WGS 329.

332. Anthropology of Gender. (3h) Focuses on the difference between sex, a biological category, and gender, its cultural counterpart. An anthropological perspective is used to understand both the human life cycle and the status of contemporary women and men worldwide. In section one, topics include evolution and biological development, sexuality and reproduction, parenting, and life cycle changes. The second section takes students to diverse locations, including Africa, South Dakota, China, India, and the Amazon for a cross-cultural comparison examining roles, responsibilities, and expectations, and how these interact with related issues of class and race. (CD)

333. Language and Gender. (3h) Uses an anthropological perspective to examine relationships among language structure, language use, persons, and social categories. Also listed as LIN 333.

334. Peoples and Cultures of South Asia. (3h) Surveys the peoples and cultures of the Indian subcontinent in the countries of Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Nepal, Pakistan, and Sri Lanka. Reviews major topics of interest to anthropologists, including prehistory, history and politics, religion, social organization, caste, gender, development, and population. (CD)

335. Anthropology of Space and Place in the U.S. (3h or 4h) Course examines the spatial dimensions of culture by focusing on housing disparities in the U.S. Particular attention is paid to the cultural, gendered, economic, political, and regional contexts of housing policies and the impact policies have on children, families and communities. Course includes an optional Service-Learning community asset mapping assignment of a local Winston-Salem neighborhood.
336. Myth, Ritual, and Symbolism. (3h) Explores how people envision and manipulate the supernatural in cross-cultural perspective. Emphasizes functional aspects of religious beliefs and practices. Also listed as REL 304. P—ANT 111 or 114, or POI. (CD)

337. Economic Anthropology. (3h) Examines the relationship between culture and the economy and its implications for applied anthropology. The variable nature and meaning of economic behavior is examined in societies ranging from non-industrial to post-industrial. Discusses the impact of economic development programs, foreign aid and investment, technology transfer, and a variety of other economic aid programs. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or POI.

339. Culture and Nature. (3h) Explores humanity’s “place” in the cosmos, focusing on different worldviews of nature and culture. Case studies from anthropology, archaeology, and environmental science examine conceptions of technology, resources, environment, and ownership in the context of environmental change, “natural” disasters, and resource scarcity. (CD)

340. Anthropological Theory. (4h) Critical review of the major anthropological theories of humans and society. The relevance and significance of these theories to contemporary anthropology are discussed. P—ANT 112 and 113 and 114, or POI.

342. Development Wars: Applying Anthropology. (3h) Explores the application of anthropological concepts and methods in the understanding of contemporary problems stemming from cultural diversity, including competing social and economic development models and ideologies of terror. Emphasizes conflict and change in developing areas but also considers the urban experience. (CD)

347. Warfare and Violent Conflict. (3h) Seminar focusing on the causes and nature of warfare and violent group interaction across cultures and through time. Compares case studies from around the globe and of varying sociopolitical organization, past and present. Includes explorations of primate behavior, forms of warfare, and competing theoretical explanations for its existence and for particular occurrences.

350. Language, Indigeneity and Globalization. (3h) Taking a global case-study approach, this seminar explores the role language plays in contemporary identity formation and expression, from indigenous to transnational contexts. Addresses relationships among language and: colonialism, postcolonialism, nationalism, cultural revitalization, standardization, social and economic inequality, boundary-formation, and processes of cultural inclusion and exclusion. Also listed as LIN 350. (CD)

353. Language in Education. (3h) This seminar explores the role of language in educational contexts; includes the study of bilingual and bicultural education, second language education, cross-cultural education, and communication in the classroom. Service-learning component. Also listed as EDU 353. (CD)

354. Field Methods in Linguistic Anthropology (4h) Trains students in basic skills of collecting and analyzing linguistic data at the levels of phonetics-phonology, grammar, lexico-semantics, discourse, and sociocultural context. Students will learn about the research questions that drive linguistic fieldwork as well as the relevant methods, tools, and practical and ethical concerns. Also listed as LIN 354. P—ANT/LIN 150 or POI.

355. Language and Culture. (3h) Covers theoretical and methodological approaches to the study of language and culture, including: semiotics, structuralism, ethnoscience, the ethnography of communication, and sociolinguistics. Topics include: linguistic relativity; grammar and worldview; lexicon and thought; language use and social inequality; language and gender; and other areas. (CD)
358. Native Peoples of North America. (3h) Ethnology and ethnohistory of the indigenous peoples and cultures of North America since European contact. Explores historic and modern cultures, social and political relationships with Euro Americans, and social justice. (CD)

360. Anthropology of Global Health. (3h) A critical introduction to the interdisciplinary field of global health, focusing on contributions from medical anthropology. Compares a diversity of health experiences and evaluates interventions across the globe. Explores how biocultural, political, and economic forces shape patterns of illness and disease with special attention to improving the health of the world’s most vulnerable citizens.

361. Evolution of Human Behavior. (3h) The application of Darwinian principles to the study of human nature and culture. Considers the existence, origin, and manifestation of human behavioral universals and the theoretical and practical implications of individual variability.

362. Medical Anthropology. (3h) Examines Western and non-Western conceptions of health, illness, the roles of patient and healer, and the organization of health in Western and non-Western cultures. Service learning. P—ANT 111 or 114, or POI. (CD)

363. Primate Behavior and Biology. (3h) Examines the evolution and adaptations of the order Primates. Considers the different ways that ecology and evolution shape social behavior. Special emphasis on the lifeways of monkeys and apes.

364. Primate Evolutionary Biology. (3h) Examines the anatomy, evolution, and paleobiology of members of the order Primates. Emphasizes the fossil evidence for primate evolution. Major topics include: primate origins, prosimian and anthropoid adaptations, patterns in primate evolution, and the place of humans within the order Primates.

366. Human Evolution. (3h) The paleontological evidence for early human evolution, with an emphasis on the first five million years of bio-cultural evolution.

367. Human Biological Diversity. (3h) Seminar focusing on current issues in human biological diversity. Special emphasis on the nature of human variation, and the relationship between human biological diversity and human behavioral diversity. Students learn what is known about how modern human biological variation is patterned, and investigate how this variation is interpreted culturally.

368. Human Osteology. (4h) Survey and analysis of human skeletal anatomy, emphasizing archaeological, anthropological, and forensic applications and practice. Lab—4 hours.

370. Old World Prehistory. (3h) Survey of Old World prehistory, with particular attention to geological and climatological events affecting culture change. (CD)

374. North American Archaeology. (3h) The development of indigenous cultures in North America from the earliest arrival of people to European contact as outlined by archaeological research, with an emphasis on ecology and sociocultural processes. (CD)

377. Ancestors, Indians, Immigrants: A Southwest Cultural Tapestry. (3h) Explores factors that shaped the lives of people in the Southwest with attention to Native American and Hispanic experience. From kivas to casinos, coyotes to cartels, it links archaeological and pre-Hispanic history to contemporary lifeways in the canyons, deserts, and cities of the U.S./North Mexico. Also listed as HMN 268. (CD)

378. Conservation Archaeology. (1.5h) Study of the laws, regulations, policies, programs, and political processes used to conserve prehistoric and historic cultural resources.

380. Anthropological Statistics. (3h) Basic statistics, emphasizing application in anthropological research. (QR)
381, 382. Field Program in Anthropological Archaeology. (3h, 3h) Integrated training in archaeological field methods and analytical techniques for researching human prehistory. Students learn archaeological survey, mapping, excavation, recording techniques, and artifact and ecofact recovery and analysis. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or POI. (D)

383, 384. Field Program in Cultural Anthropology. (3h, 3h) Comparative study of culture and training in ethnographic and cultural analysis carried out in the field. P—ANT 111 or 112 or 113 or 114, or POI. (CD, D)

385, 386. Special Problems Seminar. (3h, 3h) Intensive investigation of current scientific research within the discipline. Concentrates on problems of contemporary interest.

387. Ethnographic Research Methods. (4h) Designed to familiarize students with ethnographic research methods and their application. Considers the epistemological, ethical, political, and psychological aspects of research. Field experience and data analysis. P—ANT 111 or 114, or POI.

390. Student-Faculty Seminar. (4h) Review of contemporary problems in the fields of archaeology, linguistics, and biological and cultural anthropology. Senior standing recommended. P—ANT 112, 113 and 114, or POI.

391, 392. Internship in Anthropology. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a departmental faculty member. P—POI.

393. Community-Based Research or Service-Learning in Anthropology. (1h) Semester experience to be taken in conjunction with another anthropology course. Involves the application of anthropological methods and theory within a community-based research project or service-learning framework.

394. Mentored Research in Anthropology. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Undergraduate research mentored by faculty and involving intensive investigation of an anthropological problem. P—POI.

395. Honors Thesis in Anthropology. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Research, analysis, and writing of an Honors Thesis required for graduation with departmental honors to be carried out under the supervision of a departmental faculty member. Senior standing required. P—POI.

398, 399. Individual Study. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Reading or research course designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a departmental faculty member. P—POI.

Lecturers Maria A. Chiari (Venice), Beatrice Ottersböck (Vienna), Rachel Barnes, (London)
Adjunct Assistant Professors Bryan Ellis, William Willner

The department offers courses in the history of art, architecture, printmaking, photography, and film from the ancient through modern periods, and the practice of studio art in six areas: drawing, painting, printmaking, sculpture, photography, and video art. Opportunities to supplement the regular academic program of the department include study abroad in Wake Forest residential study centers, changing art exhibitions in the gallery of the Scales Fine Arts Center, a visiting artists program, and internships in local museums and arts organizations. The art department requires a minimum GPA of 2.0 in the major for graduation.

The department offers two majors, art history and studio art, each requiring a minimum of 30 hours. Any student interested in majoring or minoring in art should contact the art department. Students may major in one field and minor in the other by successfully completing a minimum of 13 courses in art, of which at least 8 courses must be in the major field and at least 4 courses in the minor field.

For the art history major. Eight courses are to be in art history and 2 courses in studio art. The required art history courses include ART 103 or 105, ART 394, one art history seminar, two studio art courses, and one art history course in each of the following three areas: one course with a primary focus before 1400, one course with a primary focus between 1400 and 1800, and one course with a primary focus after 1800. One course must focus on a non-western artistic tradition. In addition, majors must submit a portfolio of written work. For precise instructions, contact the art department.

For the studio art major. Eight courses are to be in studio art and 2 courses in art history. The required studio art courses include one introductory course in: ART 111 or drawing; painting or printmaking; photography or video art and sculpture. For concentration the studio major requires a three-course sequence and a two-course sequence, each within a different area of study. The remainder of the courses for the major may be fulfilled by courses in any studio area. Studio courses at the 200 level may be repeated once. Studio art majors who are serious about pursuing a career in art are encouraged to take as many art courses as possible in consultation with their advisor. In addition, majors must submit a portfolio of visual work. For precise instructions, contact the art department.

Minors. A minor in either studio art or art history requires a minimum of 15 hours. An art history minor requires 4 courses in art history and 1 course in studio art. A minor in studio art requires 4 courses in studio art and 1 course in art history. Students may double minor in art history and studio art, but must complete the minor requirements of each for a minimum of 30 hours.

Honors. Qualified students in both the studio and art history areas may ask to participate in the department's honors program. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Art," students must execute a written project or create a body of work; the results of their efforts must be presented and defended before a committee of department faculty. Interested students should consult any member of the department for additional information concerning the requirements for this program.

The department accepts only three courses from a non-Wake Forest program for credit toward the major or minor. Of these three courses, only two may be in the same area of concentration as the major or minor. That is, an art history major or minor may take up to two art history courses and one studio course; a studio major or minor may take up to two studio art courses and one art history course at a non-Wake Forest program. All studio courses taken abroad are assigned ART 210.

Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in studio art or art history at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.
Art History Courses

103. History of Western Art. (3h) Introduces the history of the visual arts, focusing on Europe and the U.S. (D)

Studio Art

All studio art courses 200 and above and 110A-H may be repeated. Prerequisites may be waived with permission of instructor.

110. Topics in Studio Art. (4h) Studio art courses are determined by individual instructors in the following areas: (D)

- a. Drawing
- b. Painting
- c. Printmaking
- d. Sculpture
- e. Photography
- f. Digital Art
- g. Special Topics
- h. Video Art

111. Introduction to Studio Art Fundamentals. (4h) Introduces elements and principles of visual language through hands-on experimentation and critical thinking. (D)

112. Introduction to Painting. (4h) Introduces the fundamentals of the contemporary practice of oil painting. No prior painting experience required, although prior studio art experience is recommended. (D)

113. Drawing with Digital Integration. (4h) Introduces principles of art and drawing with integration of digital media. Broadens the scope of studio exploration and critical thinking. Introduces raster and vector graphics software. (D)

114. Introduction to Video Art. (4h) Introduces historical, aesthetic, and technical principles of contemporary video art production. Students will work in groups to produce an experimental film and work individually to create a video that focuses on identity. (D)

115. Introduction to Sculpture. (4h) Introduces basic sculptural styles and multimedia with emphasis on contemporary concepts. Prior studio experience is recommended. (D)

117. Introduction to Printmaking. (4h) Introduces one or more of the following areas of printmaking: lithography, intaglio, and silkscreen. (D)
118. Introduction to Drawing. (4h) Drawing fundamentals emphasizing composition, value, line, and form. (D)

119. Introduction to Photography. (4h) An Introduction to designing, processing and critiquing black and white photographs, including 35mm camera techniques and lighting. (D)

210. Topics in Studio Art. (3h-4h) Used to designate studio art courses taken at other institutions. Studio art courses are determined by individual instructors in the following areas:

   a. Drawing
   b. Painting
   c. Printmaking
   d. Sculpture
   e. Photography
   f. Digital Art
   g. Special Topics
   h. Video Art

211. Intermediate Drawing. (3h) Practice and refinement of drawing skills. Emphasis on concept development. P—118 or POI.

212. Painting II. (3h) Continuation of ART 112 with concentrated emphasis on conceptual development and technical exploration. Offered in the fall semester only. P—ART 112.

213. Painting III. (3h) Individualized course of study with emphasis on refining the skills and concepts developed in Painting II. May be repeated. Offered in fall semester only. P—ART 212.

214. Video Art: Site Specific. (3h) Continues the historical, aesthetic, and technical exploration of contemporary video art production. Students produce multi-channel video projects that interact with a physical space. P—ART 114 or POI.

215. Public Art. (3h) Covers art that is sited in the public realm. Exercises with various sites, materials, and audiences culminate in a public project. Offered in spring semester, odd years. P—ART 115 or POI.

216. Sculpture Fabrication. (3h) Fabrication of small scale sculpture using wood, fabric, and metal. Projects stress craftsmanship and imagination. Offered in fall semester, even years. P—ART 115 or POI.

217. Intermediate Printmaking. (3h) Continuation of ART 117, with emphasis on idea development. May be repeated. P—ART 117.

218. Life Drawing. (3h) Introduction to drawing the human figure. May be repeated once. P—ART 118 or POI.

219. Darkroom Photography. (3h) Further exploration of traditional black and white photography, camera techniques, aesthetic, and critical issues to increase the understanding of the contemporary photographic image. Not offered every semester. P—ART 119.

221. Advanced Drawing. (3h) Development of a project or series of art works with attention to methodology and material selection. P—ART 211.

222. Advanced Painting. (3h) Individual study with faculty guidance focusing on developing a body of work for exhibition. Covers various aspects of professional practice including artist statements and proposals, and portfolio development. May be repeated. Offered in spring semester only. P—ART 212.
224. Video Art: Cyberspace. (3h) Continues the historical, aesthetic, and technical exploration of contemporary video art production. Students will produce multi-channel video projects that interact with cyberspace. P—ART 114 or POI.

225. Bodies and Objects. (3h) Explores the social and psychological ramifications of making objects based on the body through casting and other techniques. P—ART 115 or POI.

226. Installation Art. (3h) Exercises to develop an understanding of material, process, and audience as they relate to contemporary art. Major projects for the course are an installation and a design project. P—ART 115 or POI.

228. Video Art: Theatre Works. (3h) Continues the historical, aesthetic, and technical exploration of contemporary video art production. Students will produce single-channel video projects for theater viewing. P—Art 114 or POI.

290. Printmaking Workshop. (3h) Workshop exploring relief, intaglio, lithography, and monotype techniques. Open to students at any skill level. Offered in the summer.

295. Studio Seminar. (1.5h, 3h) Offered by members of the faculty or visiting faculty on topics of their choice and related studio activities. P—POI.

296. Design Studio: Products and Environments. (3h) Addresses diverse social, environmental, and economic problems through the design of specific objects and environments in a collaborative studio. A variety of approaches to design development are covered, along with prototyping, testing, and presentation. P—ART 111 or POI.

397. Advanced Topics in Studio Art. (3h) Focus on selected studio projects, critical readings, and discussions on topics selected by members of department faculty. (POI)
   a. Drawing       d. Sculpture       g. Digital Art
   b. Painting      e. Photography     h. Special Topics
   c. Printmaking   f. Video Art

Other Art Courses

287S. Honors in Studio Art (3h)

287H. Honors in Art History (3h)

291. Individual Study. (1.5h, 3h) Independent study with faculty guidance. P—POI.

293. Practicum. (3h) Internships in local cultural organizations, to be arranged and approved in advance by the art department. Pass/Fail. P—POI.

297. Management in the Visual Arts. (3h) Provides to both art and business school students the essential skills, pragmatic experiences, and a conceptual framework for understanding the role the visual arts play within the national and international economy. Also listed as BEM 382. P—Junior or senior standing and POI. General elective credit, but does not count toward the majors or minors in Art.

The department offers programs leading to a bachelor of arts and a bachelor of science degree in biology. Sophomore students electing to major in biology should consult with a major adviser to determine which degree program would be most appropriate for their career objectives. The requirements for completion of each degree program are those in effect at the time of the declaration of the major, since the curriculum and the departmental requirements may change slightly during the student’s period of residence.

The requirements for both the BA and BS degree programs are a minimum of 34 hours in biology. A maximum of 4 hours of research in biology may be applied toward the major, but an additional 4 hours (BIO 393 and/or 394) may be taken and applied toward graduation as elective hours. A minimum GPA of 2.0 on biology courses taken at Wake Forest is required for graduation with a major in biology. The Biology Department also requires participation in assessment activities as a part of program evaluation. Prospective majors are strongly urged to select either BIO 113 or BIO 114 as their first course in biology. BIO 213 and 214 are more advanced courses and should be taken after BIO 113 and 114. Most prospective majors also should take CHM 111 and 122 in their first year.

Students pursuing the bachelor of arts (BA) degree are required to take BIO 113, 114, 213, and 214 and at least two 300-level 4-hour biology courses. Co-requirements for the BA degree are the following laboratory courses: CHM 111 and 122 and an additional 3 hours in the mathematics or physical sciences at the 200 level or above. These additional 3 hours cannot be satisfied with courses that are cross-listed between biology and another department.

Students pursuing the bachelor of science (BS) degree are required to take BIO 113, 114, 213, 214, a research experience (such as BIO 391 or an equivalent program approved by the major adviser) and at least two 300-level 4-hour biology courses. Co-requirements for the BS degree are the following laboratory courses: CHM 111, 111L, 122, 122L, 223, 223L, PHY 113, 114, and an additional 3 hours in the mathematics or physical sciences at the 200 level or above. These additional 3 hours cannot be satisfied with courses that are cross-listed between biology and another department.
A minor in Biology requires 16 hours. Courses taken pass/fail cannot count toward a Biology minor. A minimum overall GPA of 2.0 must be earned on all Wake Forest biology courses taken to complete a minor. The requirements for the minor are those that are in effect at the time of the declaration of the minor, since the curriculum and the departmental requirements may change slightly during the student’s period of residence. A minimum of 8 hours must be taken at Wake Forest.

Honors. Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in biology. To be graduated with the distinction “Honors in Biology,” a graduating student must have a minimum GPA of 3.0 in all courses and a 3.3 in biology courses. In addition, the student must submit an honors paper describing his or her independent research project, written in the form of a scientific paper, which must be submitted to and approved by an advisory committee. Specific details regarding the honors program, including selecting an adviser and an advisory committee, deadlines, and writing of the honors thesis, may be obtained from the chair of the departmental Undergraduate Studies Committee.

Special Note. Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in biology at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

101. Biology and the Human Condition. (4h) Basic principles in biology, emphasizing recent advances in biology in the context of their ethical, social, political, and economic considerations. Intended for students with little or no previous experience in biology. BIO 101 is recommended for those who are not pursuing a career in the health professions or planning to continue on in biology. Does not count toward the major or minor in biology. Credit not given for both BIO 101 and BIO 111. Lab—3 hours. (D)

105. Plants and People. (4h) Explores various association between plants and people, their interrelationships, medical as well as ethical, and the impact of these interrelationships on various societies. Lab—3 hours. (D)

111. Biological Principles. (4h) Study of the general principles of living things with focus on the cellular, organismal, and populational levels of biological organization, emphasizing the role of heredity and evolution in these systems. Recommended for students who want to pursue a health career but do not want to major in biology. Does not count towards the major or minor in biology. Credit not given for both BIO 101 and BIO 111. Lab—3 hours. (D)

113. Evolutionary and Ecological Biology. (4h) Introduces the principles of genetics, ecology, and evolution as they apply to organisms, populations, and communities, with emphasis on evolutionary processes within an ecological context. Intended as a beginning course in biology for prospective majors and for any students with adequate high school preparation in biology. Lab—3 hours. (D, QR)

114. Comparative Physiology. (4h) Introduces the form and function of organisms, with emphasis on physical principles, structural organization, and critical function of plants and animals. Intended as a beginning course in biology for prospective majors and for any students with adequate high school preparation in biology. Lab—3 hours. (D)

210. Doing the Right Thing: Ethical Decision-making in Biology and Medicine. (3h) This course examines contemporary issues in bioethics, including responsible conduct in research, implications of technological advances in biology, environmental issues, and controversies in health care and medical practice. P—BIO 114 or POI.
213. Genetics and Molecular Biology. (4h) Introduces the principles and processes of heredity, information flow, and gene function. Topics covered include Mendelian genetics, molecular genetics, and the origin of genetic variation. Lab—3 hours.

214. Cellular Biology. (4h) Introduces the principles and processes of cellular biology and their impact on organismal function. Topics include molecular organization of cellular structures, regulations of cellular functions, bioenergetics, and metabolism. Introduces cancer, immunology, and developmental biology. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 114 and CHM 111, or POI.

301-306. Topics in Biology. (1-4h) Seminar and/or lecture courses in selected topics, some involving laboratory instruction. May be repeated if the course title differs.

307. Biophysics. (3h) Introduces the structure, dynamic behavior, and function of DNA and proteins, and surveys membrane biophysics. The physical principles of structure determination by X-ray, NMR, and optical methods are emphasized. Also listed as PHY 307. P—BIO 114 or 214, PHY 113, 114, or POI.

311. Ecology and Conservation Biology of Coral Reefs. (3h) In-depth study of the various biotic and abiotic components that come together to structure ecosystem function and biodiversity at all spatial scales in one of Earth’s most productive and diverse environments, yet one most threatened by human use and climate change. P—BIO 113.

312. Ecology and Conservation Biology of Coral Reefs. (4h) In-depth study of the various biotic and abiotic components that come together to structure ecosystem function and biodiversity at all spatial scales in one of Earth’s most productive and diverse environments, yet one most threatened by human use and climate change. Lab component is a one-week field trip over spring break. P—BIO 113.

313. Herpetology. (4h) The biology of reptiles and amphibians, emphasizing the unique morphological, physiological, behavioral and life-history adaptations of both groups, and their evolutionary relationships. The lab consists mostly of field trips, supplemented with lab and field projects. P—BIO 113, BIO 114, and BIO 213.

315. Population Genetics. (4h) Study of the amount and distribution of genetic variation in populations of organisms, and of how processes such as mutation, recombination, and selection affect genetic variation. Lectures introduce theoretical studies, and include discussion of molecular and phenotypic variation in natural populations. Labs make use of computer modeling and simulation, and experiments using populations of fruit flies and other model organisms as appropriate. P—BIO 113 and 213. (QR)

317. Plant Physiology and Development. (3h) Lecture course examines the growth, development, and physiological processes of plants. Control of these processes is examined on genetic, biochemical, and whole plant levels. P—BIO 114, 213, and 214.

318. Plant Physiology and Development. (4h) Lecture and laboratory course examines the growth, development, and physiological processes of plants. Control of these processes is examined on genetic, biochemical, and whole plant levels. Labs consist of structured experiments and an independently designed research project. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 114, 213, and 214.

320. Comparative Anatomy. (4h) Study of the vertebrate body from an evolutionary, functional, and developmental perspective. Labs emphasize structure and function, primarily through the dissection of representative vertebrates. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 113 and 114.
321. Parasitology. (4h) Survey of protozoan, helminth, and arthropod parasites from the standpoint of morphology, taxonomy, life histories, and host/parasite relationships. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 113 and 114.

322. Biomechanics. (4h) Analyses the relationship between organismal form and function using principles from physics and engineering. Solid and fluid mechanics are employed to study design in living systems. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 114.

324. Hormones and Behavior. (3h) Introduces the hormonal regulation of behavior in a broad range of animals, including humans and invertebrates. Topics include reproductive behavior, parental behavior, social behavior, sex differences, aggressive behavior, stress, mood, and the regulation of molting in insects. P—BIO 114.

325. Chronobiology. (3h) Introduces the field of biological rhythms, covering different types of rhythms, their evolution, and the mechanisms by which such rhythms are generated and regulated at the molecular, cellular, and system levels. P—BIO 213, 214, or POI.

326. Microbiology. (4h) Structure, function, and taxonomy of microorganisms with emphasis on bacteria. Topics include microbial ecology, industrial microbiology, and medical microbiology. Lab emphasizes microbial diversity through characterizations of isolates from nature. Credit will not be granted for both BIO 226 and BIO 326. P—BIO 213 and 214, CHM 122.

327. Epigenetics. (3h) An introduction to the concepts and methods of epigenetics. This course involves the study of molecular level of how chromatin structure affects DNA template processes including transcription, DNA replication and DNA repair. Topics will cover the mechanisms of chromatin modifications, the role of non-coding RNA in epigenetics, how epigenetic modifications affect phenotypic expression, the environmental impact on the epigenome, heritability of epigenetic modifications, and the role of epigenetics in health and diseases. P—BIO 114 and 213.

328. Biology of Aging. (3h) Explores mechanisms of aging, and effects of aging on cellular and physiological processes in a range of organisms. P—BIO 113, 114 and 214; or POI.

330. Land and Natural-Resource Management. (3h) Provides a fundamental understanding of land and resource management. The major focus is on federal oversight and policies but state, local, nonprofit, and international aspects are included. P—BIO 113.

331. Invertebrates. (4h) Systematic study of invertebrates, with emphasis on functional morphology, behavior, ecology, and phylogeny. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 113 and 114.

333. Vertebrates. (4h) Systematic study of vertebrates with emphasis on evolution, physiology, behavior, and ecology. Lab devoted to systematic, field, and experimental studies. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 113 and 114.

335. Insect Biology. (4h) Study of the diversity, structure, development, physiology, behavior, and ecology of insects. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 113 and 114.

336. Development. (3h) A study of the molecular, cellular, and anatomical aspects of embryonic development of invertebrate and vertebrate organisms. P—BIO 114, 213, 214 or POI.

337. Development. (4h) Lecture and laboratory study of the molecular, cellular, and anatomical aspects of embryonic development of invertebrate and vertebrate organisms. P—BIO 114, 213, 214 or POI.

339. Principles of Biosystematics. (4h) Explores the current theoretical and practical approaches to the study of macroevolution in plants and animals. Topics include theory and methods of constructing evolutionary trees, sources of data, and cladistic biogeography. Lab—3 hours.

340. Ecology. (4h) Interrelationships among living systems and their environments; structure and dynamics of major ecosystem types; contemporary problems in ecology. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 113 and 114. (QR)

341. Marine Biology. (4h) Introduces the physical, chemical, and biological parameters affecting the distribution of marine organisms. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 113 and 114.

345. Neurobiology. (3h) Introduces the structure and function of the nervous system including the neural basis of behavior. Anatomical, physiological, and neurochemical approaches are integrated in the study of the peripheral and central nervous systems. P—BIO 114 and 214.

346. Neurobiology. (4h) Introduces the structure and function of the nervous system including the neural basis of behavior. Anatomical, physiological, and neurochemical approaches are integrated in the study of the peripheral and central nervous systems. Labs emphasize electrophysiological techniques with experiments from the cellular to the behavioral level. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 114 and BIO 214.

347. Physiological Plant Ecology. (3h) Provides a fundamental understanding of how plants have adapted to the stresses of their habitats, particularly in harsh or extreme environments such as deserts, the alpine, the arctic tundra, and tropical rain forests. P—BIO 113 and 114.

348. Physiological Plant Ecology. (4h) Provides a fundamental understanding of how plants have adapted to the stresses of their habitats, particularly in harsh or extreme environments such as deserts, the alpine, the arctic tundra, and tropical rainforests. Labs introduce students to a broad array of field instrumentation. P—BIO 113 and 114. (QR)

349. Tropical Biodiversity. (4h) Intensive field course in tropical biodiversity. Students travel to major tropical biomes, including deserts, glaciated peaks, and rain forests. Lectures emphasize the basic ecological principles important in each ecosystem; laboratories consist of student-designed field projects. Course location varies yearly. Offered in the summer only. P—BIO 113 and 114 and POI.

350. Conservation Biology. (3h) Lectures, readings, and discussions examining biological resources, their limitations and methods for sustainability. Genetic, aquatic, terrestrial, and ecosystem resources are examined. P—BIO 113.

350L. Conservation Biology Lab. (1h) Taught using the case study approach with an in-depth field study of the ecology and conservation of a particular ecosystem. Includes an extended field trip. P—BIO 113 and POI.
351. Vertebrate Physiology. (4h) Lecture and laboratory course that examines the functional systems that sustain life in vertebrate animals. P—BIO 114 and 214.

352. Developmental Neuroscience. (4h) Focuses on the development of neural structures and the plasticity of the mature nervous system. Attention is given to experimental model systems, particularly Drosophila melanogaster. The laboratory features molecular, immunocytochemical, and cell culture techniques for the study of neurons. P—BIO 213 and 214.

353. Functional Neuroanatomy. (3h) An introduction to the gross and cellular anatomical organization of the vertebrate central nervous system. Attention is given to relating structure to function, the anatomical basis of neuropathologies, and modern approaches in neuroanatomy and imaging. P—BIO 114 and 214.

354. Vertebrate Endocrinology. (3h) Lecture course on the evolution of the endocrine glands and hormones, and the physiology of the main hormonal pathways of vertebrates. P—BIO 114 and 214.

355. Avian Biology. (4h) Lecture and laboratory course emphasizing ecological and evolutionary influences on the physiology, behavior, and population biology of birds. Includes taxonomy of the world’s major bird groups. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 113 and 114.

356. Ecology and Resource Management of Southeast Australia. (4h) Intensive field-oriented course focusing on ecosystems, natural resource management and environmental conservation of southeastern Australia. Students travel to major biomes including sub-tropical rainforests, coral reefs and the Australian urban environment. Laboratories are field-based, with some consisting of student-designed field projects. Lab—3 hours. Taught only in summers in Australia. P—BIO 113 or POI.

357. Bioinspiration and Biomimetics. (3h) Explores the ways in which biological mechanisms can inspire new technologies, products, and businesses. The course combines basic biological and entrepreneurial principles. Also listed as ESE 357.

359. Genomics. (3h) Introduces the concepts and methods of genomics. Biology of genomes: functions of genes and their products on a global scale using high throughput approaches. The course will cover standard molecular biology topics with emphasis from a genomic perspective. Topics will include DNA transactions such as DNA replication, repair, and recombination; transcription and gene regulatory networks; translation and protein interaction networks. P—BIO 114 and 213.

362. Immunology. (3h) Study of the components and protective mechanisms of the immune system. P—BIO 114 and 214.

363. Sensory Biology. (3h) Lecture course emphasizing sensory physiology and other aspects of sensory systems, e.g. molecular biology and anatomy. Credit not allowed for BIO 363, 363S, and 364. P—BIO 114 and 214.

364. Sensory Biology. (4h) Lecture and laboratory course emphasizing sensory physiology and other aspects of sensory systems, e.g. molecular biology and anatomy. Credit not allowed for BIO 363, 363S, and 364. P—BIO 114 and 214.

365. Biology of the Cell. (3h) Lecture course on classic and recent experiments in cell biology. Analysis and interpretation of experimental data from the primary literature is emphasized. P—BIO 213 and 214.

365L. Biology of the Cell. (1h) Laboratory course introducing basic techniques in cell biology, leading to an independent project. P—BIO 213 and 214.

368. The Cell Biological Basis of Disease. (3h) Examines some of the defects in basic cellular mechanisms that are responsible for many diseases. P—BIO 114 and 214.

369. The Cell Biological Basis of Disease. (4h) Examines some of the defects in basic cellular mechanisms that are responsible for many diseases. The labs use advanced microscopic and histological techniques to investigate basic properties of cells. P—BIO 114 and 214.

370. Biochemistry: Macromolecules and Metabolism. (3h) Lecture course introducing the principles of biochemistry with emphasis on the experimental approaches that elucidated these principles. Topics include structure, function, and biosynthesis of biological molecules, analysis of enzyme function and activity, bioenergetics, and regulation of metabolic pathways. Also listed as CHM 370. Also offered in Salamanca. P—BIO 214 or CHM 223 or CHM 280.

370L. Biochemistry Lab. (1h) Overview of biochemical approaches to study structure and function of macromolecules. Does not count towards the chemistry major with concentration in biochemistry. This course is recommended for pre-health students. Also listed as CHM 370L. Credit allowed for CHM/BIO 370L or CHM/BIO 371L, but not both. Lab—3 hours. P—CHM 223 or CHM 280 or BIO 214. P or C—CHM/BIO 370.

371L. Advanced Biochemistry Lab. (1.5h) Emphasizes approaches for isolation and analysis of enzymes. Required for the chemistry major with concentration in biochemistry and recommended for research focused students. Also listed as CHM 371L. Credit allowed for CHM/BIO 371L or CHM/BIO 370L, but not both. Lab—4 hours. P—CHM 223 or CHM 280 or BIO 214. P or C—CHM/BIO 370.

372. Molecular Biology. (3h) Lecture course on the analysis of the molecular mechanisms by which stored genetic information is expressed in the organism. Analysis and interpretation of experimental data from the primary literature is emphasized. P—BIO 214.

374. Neuropharmacology. (3h) An introduction to how pharmacological agents affect cellular and molecular functions in the nervous system of normal and disease states. Lecture and case studies will be used to examine topics including drugs targeting mood and emotion, memory and dementia, and movement disorders. Drugs of abuse and the neurological basis of addiction will also be evaluated. P—BIO 214.

375. Great Threatening and/or Neglected Diseases of Mankind. (3h) This course will examine various diseases and, particularly, those found in developing countries. Students will research these diseases, prepare a Power Point presentation on them, and write a comprehensive paper of each disease that will include clinical aspects of the diseases, treatments (if any), social and political aspects of the diseases, and evaluate why these diseases remain threats to mankind. P—BIO 213 and 214 and POI.

377. Community Ecology. (4h) Advanced course covering mechanisms that determine the dynamics and distribution of plant and animal assemblages: life-history, competition, predation, geology, climate, soils, and history. Lectures focus on ecological principles and theory. Labs include local field trips and discussion of the primary literature. Several weekend field trips. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 113, 114, and 214. (QR)
379. Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (GIS). (4h) Lecture and laboratory course that introduces the concepts and uses of GIS as a mapping and analytical tool. Lectures cover the history of GIS, GIS data structures and sources of data, map projections, GIS tools, applications, and resources. Exercises include examples of GIS applications in environmental modeling, socio-demographic change and site suitability analyses. P—BIO 113.

380. Biostatistics. (3h) Introduces statistical methods used by biologists, including descriptive statistics, hypothesis-testing, analysis of variance, and regression and correlation. (QR)

381. Biostatistics Laboratory. (1h) Application of computer-based statistical software. May not be used to satisfy one of the three 300-level 4-hour courses required for the major if paired with BIO 380. (QR if paired with BIO 380)

382. Biology of the Cell. (3h) Analysis and interpretation of experimental data in the primary literature, focusing on topics such as the targeting of macromolecules, cell-cell communication, and the control of cell division. P—BIO 114, 213 and 214.

383. Biology of the Cell. (4h) Analysis and interpretation of experimental data in the primary literature, focusing on topics such as the targeting of macromolecules, cell-cell communication, and the control of cell division. The lab introduces basic techniques in cell biology and leads to an independent project. Lab—3 hours. P—BIO 114, 213 and 214.

*391, 392. Research in Biology. (2h, 2h) Independent library and laboratory investigation carried out under the supervision of a member of the staff. P—POI. Pass/Fail or for grade at discretion of the instructor.

*393, 394. Research in Biology. (2h, 2h) For students who wish to continue research projects beyond BIO 391 and 392. Not to be counted toward major. P—POI. Pass/Fail option.

The department offers programs leading to the BA and BS degrees in chemistry. The BS degrees are certified by the American Chemical Society. A minimum GPA of 2.0 in the first two years of chemistry is required of students who elect to major in the department. Admission to any class is contingent upon satisfactory grades in prerequisite courses, and registration for advanced courses must be approved by the department. Candidates for either the BA or BS degree with a major in chemistry must have a minimum GPA of 2.0 in their chemistry courses numbered 200 or above. Unless otherwise stated, all chemistry courses are open to chemistry majors and minors on a letter-grade basis only (even those courses not required for the major or minor). Majors are required to complete on a letter-grade basis the required physics, biology, and mathematics courses. The BS programs are designed for those students who plan a career in chemistry at the bachelor or advanced degree level. The BA program is designed for those students who do not plan to do graduate work in the physical sciences but desire a stronger background in chemistry than is provided by the chemistry minor program.

The department will accept transfer courses completed at four-year colleges and universities but will not award transfer credit towards the chemistry major and minor except from schools offering a major in chemistry. These courses must be equivalent in content and level to courses offered at Wake Forest (as judged by the department). Transfer credit will not be awarded for online lab classes nor for online lecture courses that have co-requisite labs on our campus. Courses taken in summer school elsewhere, or in study abroad programs, must meet these same criteria and receive pre-approval. Advanced courses, 300-level and above, are typically not transferable. Students enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in chemistry at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

The bachelor of science degree in chemistry requires 43-45 hours in chemistry and must include the following courses: 111, 111L, 122 or 123, 122L or 123L, 223, 223L, 280, 280L, 334, 334L, 341, 341L, 342, 342L, 361, 361L, 370, 370L or 371L, 381, 382; also 390 or no fewer than 1.5h for 391 and/or 392; two of the following courses: 351, 364, 366, 373, or any chemistry graduate class (POI); also PHY 111 or 113, and 114; MTH 111, 112, 205 (or MTH 113 and 121 in place of MTH 205).

For the BS major, the following schedule of chemistry and related courses is typical:

| First Year | CHM 111, 111L, 122, 122L (or 123, 123L); MTH 111, 112 |
| Sophomore | CHM 223, 223L, 280, 280L; PHY 111 or 113, 114; MTH 205 |
| Junior   | CHM 341, 341L, 342, 342L, 381, 382, 391 (or 392 or 390), upper-level CHM elective |
| Senior   | CHM 334, 334L, 361, 361L, 370, 370L or 371L, upper-level CHM elective |

The bachelor of science degree in chemistry with concentration in biochemistry requires 39.5-41 hours in chemistry and must include the following courses: 111, 111L, 122 or 123, 122L or 123L, 223, 223L, 280, 280L, 334, 334L, 341, 341L, 342, 342L, 361, 361L, 370, 370L, 373, 381, 382; also 390 or no fewer than 1.5h for 391 and/or 392; one of the following courses: 342, 351, 364, 366, or any chemistry graduate class (POI); also BIO 213, 214; MTH 111, 112; and PHY 111 or 113, and 114.

For the BS major with concentration in biochemistry, the following schedule of chemistry and related courses is typical:

| First Year | BIO 114; CHM 111, 111L, 122, 122L (or 123, 123L); MTH 111, 112 |
| Sophomore | BIO 213, 214; CHM 223, 223L, 280, 280L; PHY 111 or 113, 114 |
| Junior   | CHM 341, 341L, 370, 371L, 381, 382, 391 (or 392 or 390) |
| Senior   | CHM 334, 334L, 361, 361L, 373, upper-level CHM elective |
The bachelor of science degree in chemistry with concentration in materials chemistry requires 40-45 hours in chemistry and must include the following courses: 111, 111L, 122 or 123, 122L or 123L, 280, 280L, 334, 334L, 341, 341L, 342, 342L, 361, 361L, 364, 364L, 370, 370L or 371L, 381, 382; also 390 or no fewer than 1.5h for 391 and/or 392; two of the following courses: 223, 351, 366, PHY 354; also PHY 111 or 113, and 114; MTH 111, 112, 205 (or MTH 113 and 121 in place of MTH 205).

For the BS major with concentration in materials chemistry, the following schedule of chemistry and related courses is typical:

Variations in the schedules above are possible to accommodate study abroad and other special circumstances, in which case, the student should consult a member of the faculty in chemistry.

A minor in chemistry requires at least 19 hours in chemistry and must include at least one of: 334, 341, 342, 351, 361, 364, 366, 370, or 373. No more than 9 hours of chemistry courses completed elsewhere can be counted toward the minor, and a minimum grade point average of 2.0 in Wake Forest chemistry courses is required to complete the minor.

Honors. Qualified majors are considered for honors in chemistry. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Chemistry," a student must have a minimum GPA in chemistry courses of 3.3 and a minimum overall GPA of 3.0. In addition, the honors candidate must satisfactorily complete an approved research project, prepare a paper describing the project, and present results at a seminar for departmental approval. Honors thesis research must be conducted on the Wake Forest University campus with a WFU Chemistry faculty member as research adviser or co-adviser. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

The Health Professions Program at Wake Forest recommends that students take the following chemistry courses and their associated labs before the end of the third year: 111, 122 or 123, 223, 280. Students interested in this track should see the Health Professions Program adviser for more information.

Course listings specify prerequisites and corequisites, although admission by permission of instructor, POI, may be granted under special circumstances.
108. Everyday Chemistry. (4h) Introduces chemistry to non-science majors. Lab covers experimental aspects of topics discussed in lecture. Does not count towards the major or minor in chemistry. Lab—2 hours. (D, QR)

*111. College Chemistry I. (3h) Fundamental chemical principles. Also offered in Salamanca. C—CHM 111L. (D, QR)

*111L. College Chemistry I Lab. (1h) Covers experimental aspects of basic concepts. Lab—3 hours. C—CHM 111.

120. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h) Covers the basic physical and chemical processes in the earth’s atmosphere, biosphere and the oceans. Consists of two parts: 1) chemical processes in the environment such as element cycles and the chemistry of the pollutants in air and water and, 2) physical aspects of the environment such as solar energy and the atmosphere, and the physics of weather and climate. Lab—3 hours. Also listed as PHY 120. (D, QR)

*122. Organic Chemistry I. (3h) Principles and reactions of organic chemistry. Students may not receive credit for both CHM 122 and CHM 123. P—CHM 111. C—CHM 122L. (D)

*122L. Organic Chemistry I Lab. (1h) Lab—4 hours. P—CHM 111. C—CHM 122.

*123L. Organic Chemistry I Honors Lab. (1h) Lab—4 hours. P—CHM 111. C—CHM 123.

223. Organic Chemistry II. (3h) Principles and reactions of organic chemistry and introductory biochemistry. P—CHM 122 or 123.

223L. Organic Chemistry II Lab. (1h) Lab—4 hours. P—CHM 122 or 123. P or C—CHM 223.

280. College Chemistry II. (3h) Advanced study of fundamental chemical principles. P—CHM 111.

280L. Theory and Methods of Quantitative Analysis Lab. (1h) Emphasizes technique development for accuracy and precision. Lab—4 hours. C or P—CHM 280.

301, 302. Elective Research. (0h, 0h) P—POI.

311. Current Topics. (1-4h) Course exploring current topics in chemistry. May be repeated for credit if course content differs. Does not count toward the major or minor in chemistry. P—POI.

334. Chemical Analysis. (4h) Theoretical and practical applications of modern methods of chemical analysis. Lab—4 hours (CHM 334L). P—CHM 280L.

*341L. Physical Chemistry I Lab. (1h) Lab—4 hours. P—CHM 280L, PHY 114. P or C—CHM 341, MTH 112.

342. Physical Chemistry II. (3h) Fundamentals of quantum mechanics, statistical thermodynamics, and introductory computational methods. P—CHM 341, MTH 112, and PHY 114. P or C—MTH 205 (or MTH 113 and 121 in place of 205).
342L. Physical Chemistry II Lab. (1h) Lab—4 hours. P—CHM 280L, CHM 341, MTH 112, and PHY 114. P or C—CHM 342.

351. Special Topics in Chemistry. (3h) Courses in selected special topics in chemistry. May be repeated for credit if course content differs. P—POI.

*361. Inorganic Chemistry. (3h) Principles and reactions of inorganic chemistry. P—CHM 341. C—CHM 361L.

370. Biochemistry: Macromolecules and Metabolism. (3h) Lecture course introducing the principles of biochemistry including structure, function, and biosynthesis of biological molecules, analysis of enzyme function and activity, bioenergetics, and regulation of metabolic pathways. Also listed as BIO 370. Also offered in Salamanca. P—CHM 223 or CHM 280 or BIO 214.

370L. Biochemistry Lab. (1h) Overview of biochemical approaches to study structure and function of macromolecules. Does not count towards the chemistry major with concentration in biochemistry. This course is recommended for pre-health students. Also listed as BIO 370L. Credit allowed for CHM/BIO 370L or CHM/BIO 371L, but not both. Lab—3 hours. P—CHM 223 or CHM 280 or BIO 214. P or C—CHM/BIO 370.

371L. Advanced Biochemistry Lab. (1.5h) Emphasizes approaches for isolation and analysis of enzymes. Required for the chemistry major with concentration in biochemistry and recommended for research focused students. Also listed as BIO 371L. Credit allowed for CHM/BIO 371L or CHM/BIO 370L, but not both. Lab—4 hours. P—CHM 223 or CHM 280 or BIO 214. P or C—CHM/BIO 370.

373. Biochemistry: Protein and Nucleic Acid Structure and Function. (3h) Special topics in biochemistry, including catalytic mechanisms of enzymes and ribozymes, use of sequence and structure databases, and molecular basis of disease and drug action. P—CHM 223 and 370 (or BIO 370).

381, 382. Chemistry Seminar and Literature. (.5h, .5h) Discussions of contemporary research and introduction to the chemical literature and acquisition of chemical information. Can be taken in any order. Pass/Fail only. P—CHM 122 or 123.

390. Chemical Research Experience. (0 or 1.5h) Research experience and written report. Requires pre-approval of research project conducted off the Reynolda campus, by prearrangement. Pass/Fail only. May be repeated for credit.

391, 392. Undergraduate Research. (0.5-3h) Undergraduate research and written report. Lab—3-16 hours. May be repeated for credit. P—POI.

* The lecture and corresponding lab are strict corequisites of each other. A student must register for both during the same semester. (However, either can be repeated independently if warranted.)
Classical Languages (CLA)

Chair  James T. Powell
Professor  Mary L.B. Pendergraft
Associate Professor  James T. Powell
Assistant Professors  T.H.M. Gellar-Goad, John M. Oksanish, Michael C. Sloan
Assistant Teaching Professor  Brian M. Warren
Teacher-Scholar Postdoctoral Fellow  Julia Scarborough
Visiting Assistant Professor  Rebecca A. Sears

The Department of Classical Languages offers majors and minors in three areas: Greek, Latin, and classical studies. An overall minimum GPA of 2.0 is required for graduation in courses that comprise a major in the department.

A major in Greek requires 27 hours in the department beyond Greek 112. Twenty-one of these hours must be in Greek courses; Greek 325 and CLA 375 are required.

A minor in Greek requires 15 hours: Greek 153; two 200- or 300-level courses in Greek; CLA 375; and one additional course in Greek (300-level), Latin, or classics.

A major in Latin requires 27 hours in the department beyond Latin 153. Eighteen of these hours must be in Latin courses; Latin 350 and CLA 376 are required.

A minor in Latin requires 15 hours: three 200- or 300-level courses in Latin; CLA 376; and one additional course in Greek, Latin (300-level), or classics.

A major in classical studies requires 30 hours. A minimum of 24 hours must be taken in the department. The following are required:

a. One 200-level course in Greek or Latin (prerequisites to this course do not count toward the 30 required hours);
b. CLA 375 and CLA 376;
c. CLA 381;
d. At least one course from the following: ART 241. (Ancient Art); ART 244. (Greek Art); ART 245. (Roman Art); HST 308. (Alexander the Great); HMN 280. (Reason and Revelation); PHI 232. (Ancient Greek Philosophy); PHI 331. (Plato); PHI 332. (Aristotle); POL 271. (Classical Political Thought). Other courses may be substituted by permission of the department.

A minor in classical studies requires a minimum of 18 hours in the department, of which no more than 7 may be in Greek or Latin courses. CLA 375 or 376 and CLA 381 are required.

Major/minor combinations. Within the department no more than 6 hours of major credit may also count toward a minor.

Honors. Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to participate in the honors program in Latin, Greek, or classical studies. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Latin," "Honors in Greek," or "Honors in Classical Studies," a student must complete an honors research project and pass a comprehensive oral examination. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted. (Refer to the section “Honors Study” in this bulletin for minimum college requirements.)

Greek
111, 112. Elementary Greek. (4h, 4h) Introduction to the language; provides a foundation for reading the ancient authors.
153. Intermediate Greek. (3h) Review of grammar; readings in classical authors. P—Greek 112 or equivalent.

211. Plato. (3h) Selections from the dialogues of Plato. P—Greek 153 or equivalent.

212. Homer. (3h) Selections from the Iliad and the Odyssey. P—Greek 153 or equivalent.

321. Greek Readings. (1.5h or 3h) Designed to meet individual needs and interests. Course may be repeated for a total of 6 credit hours. P—POI.

325. Advanced Grammar and Composition. (3h) Intensive work in morphology and syntax, with practice in composition and stylistic analysis of selected readings. P—Greek 200-level or equivalent.

341. Greek Tragedy. (3h) Close study of a selected tragedy or tragedies. Includes consideration of the origin and history of Greek tragedy, with collateral reading of other tragedies in English translation. Seminar. P—Greek 200-level or equivalent.

342. Greek Comedy. (3h) Close study of a selected comedy or comedies of Aristophanes. Includes consideration of the origin and history of Greek comedy, with collateral reading of other comedies in English translation. Seminar. P—Greek 200-level or equivalent.

391, 392. Honors in Greek. (1.5h, 1.5h) Directed research for honors paper. P—POD.

Latin

111, 112. Elementary Latin. (3h, 3h) Introduction to the language; provides a foundation for reading in the ancient authors.

113. Intensive Elementary Latin. (4h) Introduction to the language; covers the material of Latin 111 and 112 in one semester. Not open to students who have had Latin 111 or 112.

120. Reading Medieval Latin. (1.5h, 3h) Introduction to post-classical Latin with readings in selected works from late antiquity and the Middle Ages. P—Latin 112 or equivalent.

211. Introduction to Latin Poetry. (3h) Readings from selected poets mainly of the late Republic and early Empire, with an introduction to literary criticism. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

212. Introduction to Latin Prose. (3h) Readings primarily from the works of Cicero, with attention to their artistry and historical context. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

216. Roman Lyric Poetry. (3h) Interpretation and evaluation of lyric poetry through readings from the poems of Catullus and Horace. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

218. Roman Epic Poetry. (3h) Readings in the epics of Virgil and Ovid, with attention to their position in the epic tradition. P—Latin 153 or equivalent.

321. Roman Historians. (3h) Readings in the works of Sallust, Livy, or Tacitus, with attention to the historical background and the norms of ancient historiography. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.
325. Roman Epistolography. (3h) Selected readings from the correspondence of Cicero and Pliny the Younger and the verse epistles of Horace and Ovid. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

326. Roman Comedy. (3h) Readings of selected comedies of Plautus and Terence, with a study of the traditions of comedy and dramatic techniques. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

331. Roman Elegy. (3h) Readings from the poems of Tibullus, Propertius, and Ovid, with study of the elegiac tradition. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

341. Roman Satire. (3h) Selected readings from Horace and Juvenal, with attention to the origin and development of hexameter satire. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

343. Latin Readings. (1.5h or 3h) Designed to meet individual needs and interests. Course may be repeated for a total of 6 credit hours. P—POI.

350. Advanced Grammar and Composition. (3h) Intensive work in morphology and syntax, with practice in composition and stylistic analysis of selected readings. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

360. Seminar in Latin Poetry. (3h) Advanced study in selected authors and topics. A research paper is required. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

380. Seminar in Latin Prose. (3h) Advanced study in selected authors and topics. A research paper is required. P—Latin 200-level or equivalent.

391, 392. Honors in Latin. (1.5h, 1.5h) Directed research for the honors paper. P—POD.

Classics

151. Ethics in Greece and Rome. (1.5h) Reading and discussion of Aristotle's Ethics and Cicero's On Moral Duties, with attention to our own ethical dilemmas. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required.

252. Women in Antiquity. (3h) Explores the place of women in Greek and Roman society through the study of a wide range of primary sources, literary and non-literary. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required. (CD)

255. Classical Epic: Iliad, Odyssey, Aeneid. (3h) Study of the three principal epic poems from ancient Greece and Rome. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required. (D)

259. Virgil and His English Legacy. (3h) Study of Virgil's Eclogues, Georgics, and selected passages of the Aeneid, and their influence on English literature, using translations and original works by writers of the 16th through the 18th centuries, including Spenser, Marlowe, Milton, Dryden, and Pope. Knowledge of Latin is not required. Also listed as ENG 319. (D)

261. Greek Myth. (3h) Consideration, principally through close study of selected literary works, of Greek myth in its various forms, primary (archaic and classical periods) and secondary (Hellenistic and Roman); the course also considers Greek myth's afterlife in the modern period. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required. (D)

263. Greek Tragedy. (3h) Study of the plays of Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required. (D)

264. Greek and Roman Comedy. (3h) Representative works of Aristophanes, Menander, Plautus, and Terence, with attention to the origins and development of comedy. A knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages is not required. (D)
272. A Survey of Latin Literature in Translation. (3h) A study of selections from Latin literature in English translation. A knowledge of the Latin language is not required. (D)

374. Special Topics. (1.5-3h) Special topics in classical literature and culture. May be repeated for credit.

375. The Age of Pericles. (3h) Study of Greek culture in all its aspects during the 5th century. A knowledge of the Greek language is not required. (CD)

376. The Age of Augustus. (3h) Study of Roman culture in all its aspects during the early Empire. A knowledge of the Latin language is not required. (CD)

381. Seminar in Classical Studies. (3h) Offered by members of the faculty on topics of their choice. A knowledge of Greek and Latin languages is not required. May be repeated for credit. P—Any CLA 200-level course.

388. Individual Study. (1.5h or 3h) Course may be repeated for a total of 6 hours. P—POI.

391, 392. Honors in Classical Studies. (1.5h, 1.5h) Directed research for the honors paper. P—POD.

Chair Allan D. Louden

Professors Mary M. Dalton, Sandra Dickson, Michael David Hazen, Woodrow Hood, Marina Krcmar, Allan D. Louden, Ananda Mitra, Randall G. Rogan

Associate Professors Steven M. Giles, John T. Llewellyn, Alessandra Von Burg, Margaret D. Zulick

Assistant Professors Jarrod Atchison, Jennifer Priem, Ron Von Burg

Associate Teaching Professors Cindy Hill, Cara Pilson (Documentary Film)

Associate Professor of Practice Justin Green (Debate Coach)

Assistant Professor of Practice Leonard Neighbors, (Associate Debate Coach)

Senior Lecturer Dee Oseroff-Varnell

Manager of Communication/Media Laboratory Ernest S. Jarrett

Adjunct Professor of Practice (Bioethics) Richard Robeson

A major in communication requires 30 hours, at least 12 of which must be at the 300-level. All majors are required to take courses 102 or 110, 220 and 225 and should begin their study of communication with these courses. An overall minimum GPA of 2.0 in all communication courses attempted is required for graduation.

The Department of Communication offers its majors the opportunity to concentrate in special areas of study. Communication majors may choose to concentrate in communication science, media studies, or rhetorical studies. Students may also opt to choose courses across the concentrations as a general communication major.

In addition to the major course requirements, COM 102 or 110, 220, and 225, students who want to declare a concentration must successfully complete five courses within a particular concentration. Students may declare two concentrations within the department. The major course requirements remain in effect for those students, and they must take a minimum of 18 hours at the 300-level. Students may not count courses used to meet the required five courses within a particular concentration to fulfill requirements for a second concentration. A list of courses approved to fulfill the concentrations in communication science, media studies, and rhetorical studies is maintained by the communication department. Students declaring a concentration must do so prior to the beginning of their final semester.

A minor in communication requires 18 hours, at least three of which must be at the 300-level, and shall include courses 102 or 110, and 220 or 225. An overall minimum GPA of 2.0 in all communication courses attempted is required for graduation.

COM 280 is open to majors and minors only who satisfy departmental requirements. For 3 hours of internship credit, students need a minimum of 120 on-site contact hours; applications for internship hours need to be approved by a faculty supervisor and the internship director, or the director of undergraduate studies. Only 3 hours can count toward a major or minor. Students may enroll in up to 3 hours of practicum in any semester. Practicum hours need to be approved by supervising faculty. Students can earn a maximum of 6 hours practicum, only 3 hours of which may be counted toward a major or minor in communication.

Honors. Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in communication. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Communication,” students must have a major GPA of 3.8 or above prior to entering their final semester, declare for honors by the week before the last add/drop date, select a paper or creative work and faculty member to work with, submit the final version of paper or creative work to the Undergraduate Committee for acceptance by the Committee and, if accepted, present the work at the award ceremony of the Department of Communication.

100. Introduction to Communication and Rhetoric. (3h) Introduction to the theories, research, and analysis of verbal and nonverbal processes by which human beings share meanings and influence one another. (D)

102. Debate and Advocacy. (3h) The use of argumentative techniques in oral advocacy: research, speeches, and debate. (D)

110. Public Speaking. (3h) Study of the theory and practice of public address. Lab experiences in the preparation, delivery, and critique of informative and persuasive speeches. (D)

113. Relational Communication. (3h) Introduction to relational communication theory, research, and principles. (D)

116. On-Camera Performance. (3h) Introduces the theory and practice of performing for the camera. Covers basic method acting, newscasting, and other performance formats. Also listed as THE 141.

117. Writing for Public Relations and Advertising. (1.5h, 3h) Principles and techniques of public relations and applied advertising. Students use case studies to develop public relations and advertising strategies. Also listed as JOU 286.

140. Information and Disinformation on the Internet. (1.5h) Examination of information gathering practices on the Internet and World Wide Web. Students develop and apply standards for evaluating information through analysis of websites dealing with important and controversial topics.
215. Broadcast Journalism. (3h) Introduction to the theory and practice of broadcast journalism. Topics include ethics, technology, and the media as industry, and projects address writing, producing, and performing for radio and television.

220. Empirical Research in Communication. (3h) Introduction to methodological design and univariate statistics as used in communication research. (QR)

225. Rhetorical Theory and Criticism. (3h) Introduces students to the historical and critical analysis of rhetoric. Examines current methods of rhetorical criticism with a view to researching and composing a critical paper in the field.

245. Introduction to Mass Communication. (3h) Historical survey of mass media and an examination of major contemporary media issues. (D)

246. Introduction to Film and Media Aesthetics. (3h) Introduction to the major theories and aesthetics of motion pictures and other media forms through a study of styles related to writing, directing, cinematography, editing, and sound. (D)

247. Foundations of Digital Media. (3h) Students produce a variety of short-form media projects. P—COM 246.

250. Communication in Entrepreneurial Settings. (3h) Using a fictitious start-up company, students will discover and apply business communication strategies to build new businesses. Also listed as ESE 250.

270. Special Seminar. (1h-3h) Examination of selected topics in communication.

280. Communication Internship I. (1.5h, 3h) Individual communication internships to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

282. Debate Practicum I. (1.5h) Individual projects in debate to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

283. Debate Practicum II. (1.5h) Individual projects in debate to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by an appropriate faculty adviser. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

284. Production Practicum I. (1.5h) Individual projects or collaborations with appropriate professionals in media production to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by a faculty adviser. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

285. Production Practicum II. (1.5h) Individual projects or collaborations with appropriate professionals in media production to be approved, supervised, and evaluated by a faculty adviser. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

286. Individual Study. (1h-3h) Directed study in an area of interest to be approved and supervised by a faculty adviser. P—POI.

287. Research Practicum I. (1.5h) Credit opportunities for students to collaborate with faculty on research projects. Awards credit to students assisting faculty with research initiatives led by the faculty. Projects may be short term, culminating in presentation or publication, or longitudinal, where the student participates in an on-going effort. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

288. Research Practicum II. (1.5h) Awards credits to students assisting faculty with research initiatives led by the faculty. Projects may be short term, culminating in presentation or publication, or longitudinal, where the student participates in an on-going effort. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.
300. Classical Rhetoric. (3h) Study of major writings in Greek and Roman rhetorical theory from the Sophists to Augustine. Offered in alternate years.

302. Argumentation Theory. (3h) Examination of argumentation theory and criticism; examines both theoretical issues and social practices. Offered in alternate years.

303. Directing the Forensic Program. (1.5h, 3h) Pragmatic study of the methods of directing high school and college forensics with work in the High School Debate Workshop.

304. Freedom of Speech. (3h) Examination of the philosophical and historical traditions, significant cases, and contemporary controversies concerning freedom of expression.

305. Communication and Ethics. (3h) Study of the role of communication in ethical controversies.

307. The Prophetic Mode in American Public Discourse. (3h) Investigates prophetism as a rhetorical act by examining Biblical forms of prophetic speech and investigating how these forms influence American public discourse.

308. Speechwriting. (3h) Examines representative historic and contemporary speechwriting, including composition and delivery of ceremonial, legal, and political speeches. Builds practical knowledge through delivery, discussion and interviews with professional speechwriters.

309. Visual Storytelling. (3h) The course overviews digital media as well as studying the meaning of how visual images are used in our society. The course is designed to look at the changing landscape of visual storytelling.

310. Advanced Digital Media. (3h) Students produce advanced media projects over which they assume significant creative control. P—COM 247.

312. Film History to 1945. (3h) Survey of the developments of motion pictures to 1945. Includes lectures, readings, reports, and screenings.

313. Film History since 1945. (3h) Survey of the development of motion pictures from 1946 to the present day. Includes lectures, readings, reports, and screenings.

314. Media Effects. (3h) Theory and research on the influences and effects of mass media on audiences. These include reception, cognitive processing, and attitudinal and behavioral influences.

315. Communication and Technology. (3h) Exploration of how communication technologies influence the social, political, and organizational practices of everyday life.

316. Screenwriting. (3h) Introduction to narrative theory as well as examination of the role of the screenwriter in the motion picture industry, the influence of genre on screenwriting, and exploration of nontraditional narrative structures. Students complete an original, feature-length screenplay.

317. Communication and Popular Culture. (3h) Explores the relationship between contemporary media and popular culture from a cultural studies perspective using examples from media texts.

318. Culture and the Sitcom. (3h) Explores the intersection of American culture and the television situation comedy, one of the oldest and most ubiquitous forms of television programming.

319. Media Ethics. (3h) Examines historical and contemporary ethical issues in the media professions within the context of selected major ethical theories while covering, among other areas, issues relevant to: journalism, advertising, public relations, filmmaking, and media management.

321. Communication Technology and Entrepreneurship. (3h) Explores how an e-commerce business plan development and marketing e-commerce ventures including social networking applications. Also listed as ESE 340.

330. Communication and Conflict. (3h) Review of the various theoretical perspectives on conflict and negotiation as well as methods for managing relational conflict.

331. Communication, Terrorism, and Hostage Negotiation. (3h) Examines domestic and international terrorism as grounded in extant communication theory, with emphasis on explicating the role that communication plays in current conceptualizations and responses to terrorism.

335. Survey of Organizational Communication. (3h) Overview of the role of communication in constituting and maintaining the pattern of activities that sustain the modern organization.

336. Organizational Rhetoric. (3h) Explores the persuasive nature of organizational messages—dealing with risk, reputation, image, legitimacy and strategic communication—including those exchanged between organizational members and those presented on behalf of the organization as a whole.

338. African-American Rhetoric. (3h) Explores how African Americans have invented a public voice in the 20th century. Focuses on how artistic cultural expression, in particular, has shaped black public speech. (CD)

339. Practices of Citizenship. (3h) Explores the history and theory of citizenship as a deliberative practice linked to the rhetorical tradition of communication with an emphasis on participatory and deliberative skills as part of the process in which communities are formed and citizens emerge as members.

340. American Public Discourse I. (3h) Examines the influence of emancipation movements on American public discourse by reading and analyzing original speeches and documents with emphasis on abolition of slavery and woman’s rights.

341. American Public Discourse II. (3h) Examines the influence of emancipation movements on American public discourse by reading and analyzing original speeches and documents. Among the movements addressed are labor, civil rights, student protest, and women’s liberation.

342. Political Communication. (3h) Study of electoral communication, including candidate and media influences on campaign speeches, debates, and advertising.

343. Presidential Rhetoric. (3h) Examines theory and practice of speechmaking and mediated presidential communication.

344. Conspiracy Theories in American Public Discourse. (3h) Study of the role of conspiracy discourse in American public discourse from the nation’s founding through modern events.

345. Rhetoric of Science and Technology. (3h) Examination of how scientific and technological discourses function rhetorically in public arenas to affect non-scientific publics’ understanding.

346. Sport, Media, and Communication. (3h) Examines the role of sport in society, cultural, and institutional practice. Surveys the values represented by interpersonal and mediated messages regarding key dimensions of sport including competition, ethics, gender, and race.
347. Rhetoric of the Law. (3h) Examination of legal discourses including trial and appeal processes through motions to closing arguments.

348. Legal Theory, Practice, and Communication. (3h) Introduces students to legal education, the legal system and legal analysis. (Co-taught by law and communication faculty). Summer.

349. Advocacy, Debate and the Law. (3h) Students develop and critique speeches, debates, trial practice and moot court across a variety of legal speaking venues. (Co-taught by law and communication faculty). Summer.

350. Intercultural Communication. (3h) Introduction to the study of communication phenomena between individuals and groups with different cultural backgrounds. (CD)

351. Comparative Communication. (1.5h, 3h) Comparison of communicative and linguistic processes in one or more national cultures with those of the U.S. Also listed as LIN 351 and INS 349. Credit not given for both COM 351A and INS 349. (CD)

   - 351A. Japan (CD)
   - 351B. Russia (CD)
   - 351C. Great Britain (CD)
   - 351D. Multiple Countries (CD)
   - 351E. China (CD)

352. Interpersonal Seminar. (3h) Advanced study of theories and research in one or more of the specialized concentrations of interpersonal communication.

353. Persuasion. (3h) Examination of theories and research concerning the process of social influence in contemporary society.

354. International Communication. (3h) In-depth look at the role of mass media in shaping communication between and about cultures using examples from traditional and emerging media systems. (CD)

355. Survey of Health Communication. (3h) Examination of theories, research, and processes of health communication in contemporary society.

356. Health Communication: Patient-Provider. (3h) Explores contemporary issues related to communication in health care contexts, notably theories and research on patient-provider communication.

357. Health Communication Campaigns. (3h) Examination of the principles behind designing, implementing, and evaluating a health campaign, including message design and application of media theories for behavior change.

358. Health Communication and Bioethics. (3h) Examination of the problems of justice in health care and the meaning of human dignity in the face of illness and the technologies of treatment.

370. Special Topics. (1h-3h) Examination of topics not covered in the regular curriculum.

380. Great Teachers. (1h, 1.5h, 3h) Intensive study of the ideas of three noted scholars and teachers in the field of communication. Students interact with each teacher during a two- to three-day visit to Wake Forest.
A bachelor of science in computer science requires a minimum of 38 hours in computer science and three courses in mathematics. The courses in computer science must include 111, 112, 211, 221, 222, 231, 241, 399, and at least 12 hours in computer science fulfilled with courses at the 300-level or higher. The required courses in mathematics are MTH 112, MTH 117, and one of the following: MTH 121, 205, or 206. MTH 113 and either MTH 256 or 357 are recommended for students considering graduate work in computer science.

A bachelor of arts in computer science requires a minimum of 27 hours in computer science and three courses in mathematics or statistics. The courses in computer science must include 111, 112, 221, 241, and 399. The required computer science courses also include 3 hours at the 191-level or higher, 3 hours at the 200-level or higher, and 6 hours at the 300-level or higher. The required courses in mathematics are MTH 117; either MTH 121, 205, or 206; and one course selected from MTH 109, 112, or 256, or any statistics course approved by the Computer Science Department.

A minor in computer science requires a minimum of 17 hours in computer science and MTH 117. The courses in computer science must include CSC 111, 112, and 221, 3 hours at the 191-level or higher, and 3 hours at the 300-level or higher.

A minimum GPA of 2.0 in the computer science courses that compose a major or minor in the department is required for graduation.

Students with a special interest in multidisciplinary work should consider a program of study that combines computer science with another discipline through either a double major or a minor.

Students do not need prior computer science experience to major in computer science. While not required, students interested in the major are encouraged to:

- take CSC 111 and MTH 117 in their freshman year. Students with appropriate experience or AP scores may skip CSC 111 and go straight to CSC 112. Credit is given for CSC 111 with an AP score of 5. With an AP score of 4, students may skip CSC 111 but will not receive credit.
- take CSC 112 and CSC 221 as early as feasible. Completing these courses in the sophomore year provides the most flexibility in scheduling other required courses and electives. While not necessary, completing CSC 111, 112, 221, and MTH 117 by the end of the fall semester of the sophomore year provides the best flexibility, especially for the BS.
- consider taking another 200-level course in the sophomore year. Reviewing prerequisites for the 300-level electives may help in the decision regarding which 200-level courses to take early. For example, CSC 241 is a prerequisite for CSC 348 Computer Security.
Honors. Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Computer Science,” students must satisfactorily complete a senior research paper and have a minimum GPA of 3.5 in the major and 3.0 in all college course work. Interested students should consult the computer science honors program director with questions and computer science faculty members for research ideas.

Students who are enrolled at Wake Forest University may not take courses in computer science at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

101. Overview of Computer Science. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Overview of computer science. Students are introduced to the core areas of computer science. Topics include data representation, logic, computer organization, pseudo-code, machine/assembly code, higher-level language, algorithms, abstract data types, operating systems, and networks. Algorithms and programming are introduced through analysis of existing code. Lab—2 hours. (D, QR)

111. Introduction to Computer Science. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Introduction to the basic concepts of computer programming and algorithmic problem solving for students with little or no programming experience. Recommended as the first course for students considering a major or minor in computer science, also appropriate for students who want computing experience applicable to other disciplines. The programming language used and the focus will vary, as listed below. May not be repeated for credit. Lab—2 hours. (D)
   a. General Purpose Computing  d. Mobile Computing
   b. Multimedia and Game Computing  e. Business Applications of Computing
   c. Scientific and Mathematical Computing

112. Fundamentals of Computer Science. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Problem solving and program construction using top-down design, data abstraction, and object-oriented programming. Linear data structures, recursion, and software development tools are introduced. Lab—2 hours. P—CSC 111 or POI. (D)

165. Problem Solving Seminar. (1h) Weekly seminar designed for students to develop their problem solving skills designing and implementing software. Does not count toward the computer science major or minor. May be taken twice. Pass/Fail. P—CSC 112 or POI.

191. Special Topics. (1h-3h) Topics in computer science that are not covered in regular courses or that give special practice in skills used in other courses. Not to be counted toward the bachelor of science in computer science. May be repeated for up to 6 hours if the topic changes.

192. STEM Incubator. (1h) An engaging and relevant introduction to STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) through creative exploration, collaboration, and computational problem-solving. Pass/Fail. May be repeated once.

192h. Honors STEM Incubator. (1h) Leadership role in developing STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) ideas and applications through scientific exploration, creative collaboration, and computational problem-solving. For students with some programming experience. Pass/Fail. May be repeated once. P—POI.

193. Independent Study. (1h-3h) Independent study directed by a faculty adviser, not to be counted toward the bachelor of science in computer science. May be repeated for up to 3 hours. Enrollment requires prearrangement with a computer science faculty member and departmental approval. P—POI.

211. Computer Organization. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Computer organization from the perspective of instructions, including the central processor, busses, input and output units, and memory units. Weekly 2-hour laboratory covers combinational logic, loaders and linkers, assembly language, address computation, and other architecture-related functions. Lab—2 hours. P—CSC 111 and MTH 117. (D)
221. Data Structures and Algorithms I. (3h) Study, analysis, and implementation of abstract data structures such as stacks, queues, trees, and graphs. Complexity analysis of algorithms that operate upon these structures. P—CSC 112. P or C—MTH 117. (D)

222. Data Structures and Algorithms II. (3h) Study of algorithms, algorithm design strategies, and the derivation of time complexity bounds. Case studies illustrate greedy algorithms, divide and conquer, backtracking, and dynamic programming techniques. An introduction to the classes P, NP, NP-complete, and Turing decidability is included. P—CSC 221 and MTH 111 or 112. (QR)

231. Programming Languages. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Comparative study of programming language paradigms, including imperative languages, functional programming, logic programming, and object-oriented programming. Syntax, semantics, parsing, grammars, and issues in language design are covered. Lab—2 hours. P—CSC 112 and MTH 117.

241. Computer Systems. (4h) Lecture and laboratory. Introduction to concepts of operating systems and networks including processor and memory management, concurrency, and protocol-independent data communications. Lab—2 hours. P—CSC 112 and MTH 117.

331. Software Engineering. (3h) A study of fundamental topics in software engineering including software processes, agile software development and project management, requirements engineering, system modeling, design patterns and implementation, and software testing. Students practice software engineering principles through team projects. P—CSC 221.

311. Computer Architecture. (3h) In-depth study of computer system and architecture design. Topics include processor design, memory hierarchy, external storage devices, interface design, and parallel architectures. P—CSC 211.

321. Database Management Systems. (3h) Introduction to database management systems. Topics include data independence, database models, query languages, security, integrity, and transactions. P—CSC 221.

322. Data Management and Analytics. (3h) Management, analysis, and visualization of large-scale data sets. Topics include key-value databases, distributed file systems, map-reduce techniques, similarity measures, link analysis, and clustering. P—CSC 321.

331. Software Engineering. (3h) Study of fundamental topics in software engineering including software processes, agile software development and project management, requirements engineering, system modeling, design patterns and implementation, and software testing. Students practice software engineering principles through team projects. P—CSC 221.

332. Mobile and Pervasive Computing. (3h) Study of the fundamental design concepts and software principles underlying mobile and pervasive computing, including mobile interface design, data management, mobile networks, location aware computing, and mobile security. Involves significant programming on modern mobile platforms. P—CSC 221.

333. Principles of Translators for Compilers and Interpreters. (3h) Study of techniques for translating high-level programming languages to a target language. Typical target languages include Java bytecode and assembly language. Topics include lexical analysis, parsing, intermediate representations, language semantics, code generation, and optimization P—CSC 211 and 231.

341. Operating Systems. (3h) Study of the different modules that compose a modern operating system. In-depth study of concurrency, processor management, memory management, file management, and security. P—CSC 241.
343. Internet Protocols. (3h) Study of wide area connectivity through interconnection networks. Emphasis is on Internet architecture and protocols. Topics include addressing, routing, multicasting, quality of service, and network security. P—CSC 241.

346. Parallel Computation. (3h) Study of techniques for parallel and high performance computing. Topics include an overview of modern high-performance computer design, pipelining, concurrency, data dependency, shared memory, message passing, and graphics processors. Select parallel algorithms and methods for asymptotic scalability analysis are also presented. Assignments may include coding with OpenMP, MPI, and the CUDA library. P—CSC 221.

348. Computer Security. (3h) Introduction to computer security concepts and associated theory. Detailed coverage of the core concepts of access control, cryptography, trusted computing bases, digital signatures, authentication, network security, and secure architectures. Legal issues, security policies, risk management, certification and accreditation are covered in their supporting roles. Students will learn to analyze, design, and build secure systems of moderate complexity. P—CSC 241.

352. Numerical Linear Algebra. (3h) Numerical methods for solving matrix and related problems in science and engineering using a high-level matrix-oriented language such as MATLAB. Topics include systems of linear equations, least squares methods, and eigenvalue computations. Special emphasis given to applications. Also listed as MTH 326. P—MTH 112; and MTH 121, 205, or 206. (D)

355. Introduction to Numerical Methods. (3h) Numerical computations on modern computer architectures; floating-point arithmetic and round-off error. Programming in a scientific/engineering language such as MATLAB, C, or FORTRAN. Algorithms and computer techniques for the solution of problems such as roots of functions, approximation, integration, systems of linear equations, and least squares methods. Also listed as MTH 355. P—MTH 112; and MTH 121, 205, or 206. (D)

361. Digital Media. (3h) Study of the mathematics and algorithms underlying digital sound, image, and video manipulation. Topics may include sampling and quantization, resolution, filters, transforms, data encoding and compression, multimedia file types and transmission, 3D printing, and digital media in multimedia and web programming. P—CSC 112 and MTH 111 or 112.

363. Computer Graphics. (3h) Study of software and hardware techniques in computer graphics. Topics include line and polygon drawing, hidden line and surface techniques, transformations, and ray tracing. P—CSC 221; and MTH 121, 205, or 206.

365. Image Processing Fundamentals. (3h) Study of the basic theory and algorithms for image enhancement, restoration, segmentation, and analysis. P—CSC 112; and MTH 121, 205, or 206.

371. Artificial Intelligence. (3h) Introduction to problems in artificial intelligence. Topics may include knowledge representation, heuristic search, formal logic, planning, robotics, machine learning, intelligent agents, and pattern recognition. P—CSC 221.

385. Bioinformatics. (3h) Introduction to bioinformatics and computing techniques essential to current biomedical research. Primary focus is gene and protein sequence and structure databases and algorithms for sequence and structure analysis. Emphasizes interdisciplinary interaction and communication. Also listed as PHY 385. P—CSC 221 or POI.

387. Computational Systems Biology. (3h) Introduction of concepts and development of skills for comprehension of systems biology problems, including both biological and computational aspects. Topics may include microarrays, protein interaction networks, large-scale proteomics experiments, and computational approaches for modeling, storing, and analyzing the resulting data sets. Emphasizes interdisciplinary interaction and communication. P—CSC 221 or POI.
391. Selected Topics. (1h-3h) Topics in computer science that are not studied in regular courses or which further examine topics covered in regular courses. May be repeated if the topic changes. P—POI.

393. Individual Study. (1h-3h) Independent study directed by a faculty adviser. No more than 3 hours may be counted toward a computer science major or minor. Enrollment requires prearrangement with a computer science faculty member and departmental approval. P—POI.

399. Computer Science Mastery Exam. (0h) Evaluation of student mastery of core topics in the computer science discipline through standardized testing. Taken during the senior year. Pass/Fail.

Counseling (CNS)

- Chair Donna A. Henderson
- Professors Samuel T. Gladding, Donna A. Henderson, Edward Shaw
- Associate Professors Debbie W. Newsome, Mark Scholl, José Villalba
- Assistant Professors Erin Binkley, Philip Clarke, Seth Hayden, Nathaniel Ivers, Jennifer Rogers, Katherine Ziff
- Assistant Teaching Professors Cheyenne Carter, Tammy Cashwell, Allison Forti, Bob Nations, Shannon Warden
- Clinical Program Manager Carla Emerson
- Assistant Professors of the Practice Brian Calhoun, Heidi Robinson
- Visiting Assistant Professor Jamie Crockett

The Department of Counseling offers courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

The Health and Human Services minor allows students to learn basic concepts and skills applicable to allied helping fields that are identified as health and human service. The goal of health and human services work is to improve the quality of life for those who are served and facilitate positive changes for individuals and communities. Therefore this minor focuses on knowledge and abilities for the service professions such as counseling, social work, medicine, dentistry, health policy, allied medical sciences, athletic training, physical therapy, and health promotion. Students supplement their major field of study by learning skills related to health and human services.

The minor in health and human services requires a minimum of 15 hours. Each course must be completed with a grade of C or better. Courses taken as pass/fail do not count toward the minor. Students intending to complete this minor should consult with the health and human services minor coordinator early in their sophomore year.

- Required CNS courses include:
  334. Ethics in Health and Human Services. (3h)
  335. Health and Human Services in a Diverse Society. (3h)
  337. Skills in Health and Human Services. (3h)
  340. Professional Orientation to Health and Human Services. (3h)
  342. Group Procedures. (3h)

College to Career Courses. CNS 120, 220, 320, and 360 compose the four-course “College-to-Career” strand of courses. CNS 120 and 220 are recommended for first-year students in their second semester and sophomores. CNS 320 is recommended for juniors and seniors. CNS 360 is open only to seniors. CNS 299 is a survey course containing elements of 120, 220, and 320. It is reserved for juniors and seniors who have not had an opportunity to take the recommended four-course strand.

120. Personal Framework for Career Exploration. (1.5h) First course in the College to Career series. Focuses on student self-assessment including personal attributes such as values, interests, personality/temperament, strengths, and beliefs. Begins the process of connecting student attributes with the exploration of options in the world of work. Open to all students, but designed especially for first- and second-year students. Half semester.

220. Options in the World of Work. (1.5h) Second course in the College to Career series. Explores structure of the world of work, job functions and roles. Focus on nature and expectations of the world of work, including exploration of opportunities aligned with interests of students, and correlation between careers and education, career trajectories, graduate school, employment trends and the unique role work plays in creating meaning in the life of the individual. Open to all students, but designed for first and second year students. Half semester. P/C – CNS 120 or POI.

299. Career Planning. (1.5h) Covers all of the three components of the career-planning process: (1) personal assessment of work-related values, interests and skills; (2) exploration of career options; and (3) resume writing, interviewing, and job-search skills. Junior or senior standing only. Students may not receive credit for both CNS 320 and CNS 299. Students may not enroll in CNS 120 and CNS 299 in the same semester. Students may not enroll in CNS 220 and CNS 299 in the same semester. Half semester.

320. Strategic Job Search Processes. (1.5h) Third course in the College to Career series. Provides students with the fundamental knowledge, strategies, and skills required to conduct an effective job search including professional written and verbal communication; interviewing techniques; networking and other job search strategies; the branding and marketing of oneself; and evaluating offers and negotiation. P—CNS 120 and 220 or POI. Half semester.

334. Ethics in Health and Human Services. (3h) Investigation of the ethical parameters of health and human services work. Topics include least restrictive interventions, privacy, human dignity, integrity and compassionate service. NOHS standards will be studied.

335. Health and Human Services in a Diverse Society. (3h) Covers the range and characteristics of health and human services systems and organization, the populations served and their needs and the models for prevention, maintenance, intervention, rehabilitation and healthy functioning. (CD)

337. Skills in Human Services. (3h) Introduction to communication skills of listening, reflecting, questioning, and problem-solving. These skills will be examined and practiced using role play and simulations.

340. Professional Orientation to Health and Human Services. (3h) Provides an overview of health and human services including history, roles, organizational structures, ethics, standards, specializations, and credentialing. Public policy processes and contemporary issues are also considered.

342. Group Procedures. (3h) A conceptual exploration of the psychological dynamics and interpersonal communication of groups, teams, and systems including structure, leadership models, process and practice, stages of development, techniques, and ethical principles. P—CNS 337.
353. College Student Development. (2h) A course of study for resident advisers that provides the skills and knowledge necessary to work successfully with college students in a residence environment. Includes student development theory, coping with behavioral problems, crisis management, making connections, mediating conflict, and other issues.

360. Professional and Life Skills. (1.5h) Fourth course in the College to Career series. Transition to life and work after college. Discusses work ethics and etiquette, work relationships, and ongoing career management. Also covers personal skills such as budgeting and financial management, stress management, and avocations. Course applies liberal arts education to successful, meaningful life after college, including creation of an e-portfolio demonstrating professional competencies gained through the course of their Wake Forest experience Senior standing only. Half semester.

364. Creative Arts in Counseling. (3h) Examines the history, theories, processes, and techniques of using the creative arts in counseling with clients throughout the lifespan. Attention is given to the visual and performing arts such as drawing, imagery, photography, cartooning, cinema, movement, dance, literature, drama, and music. Juniors and seniors only.

396. Independent Study. (1h-3h) Independent study with faculty guidance. May be repeated for up to 6 credit hours. By prearrangement.

Cultural Resource Preservation (CRP)

Coordinator Associate Professor of Anthropology Paul Thacker

The Departments of Anthropology, Art, History, and Sociology offer an interdisciplinary minor in cultural resource preservation which gives students preliminary training in the field of historic preservation and cultural resource management aimed at the protection and enhancement of archaeological, historical, and architectural resources.

The minor requires 15 hours distributed among at least three departments. The following courses may be included in the minor. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program coordinator maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department's listings in this bulletin.

Electives for Cultural Resource Preservation

ANT 112. Introduction to Archaeology. (3h)
305. Museum Anthropology. (4h)
370. Old World Prehistory. (3h)
374. Prehistory of North America. (3h)
378. Conservation Archaeology. (1.5h)
381, 382. Field Program in Anthropological Archaeology. (3h, 3h)
ART 105. The History of World Architecture. (3h)
233. American Architecture. (3h)
275. History of Landscape Architecture. (3h)
288. Modern Architecture. (3h)
293. Practicum. (3h)
HST 210. Colloquium in Historical Diversity. (3h)
240. African-American History. (3h)
363. The American South to Reconstruction. (3h)
Historic Preservation. (3h)
Individual Study. (1h-3h)
SOC 151. Principles of Sociology. (3h)

Students intending to minor in cultural resource preservation should consult the program coordinator during the first semester of their junior year. Equivalent courses must be approved by the program coordinator.

East Asian Languages and Cultures (EAL)

Chair Yaohua Shi
Associate Professor Yaohua Shi
Assistant Professors Andrew Rodekohr, Nicholas Albertson
Associate Professor of the Practice Yasuko T. Rallings
Assistant Professors of the Practice Fengyan Hu, Fangfang Li

The department offers courses of study leading to majors and minors in Chinese Language and Culture and Japanese Language and Culture respectively. Because of the number of prerequisite courses (CHI or JPN 101, 102, 153, and 201) and the study abroad requirement for the majors, students are encouraged to start the major as early as possible. Elective courses should be selected from approved lists on the department's website. Requests for substitutions and exceptions to the stated curriculum should be made to the department chair. The requirements for completion of each degree program are those in effect in the bulletin year when the students declare the major or minor.

The major in Chinese Language and Culture requires 31 hours including five advanced language courses beyond 201 (CHI 220, 230, 231, 290, and 296), EAL 275, EAL 375, a course in Chinese history (HST 244, 245, 344), religion (REL 382) or politics (POL 248), and three electives in Chinese literature, film and/or culture. Study abroad in China or Taiwan is also required. Under special circumstances, a student may substitute an approved intensive immersion program in the U.S. for the study abroad requirement. A minimum C average is required for all courses in the major.

The major in Japanese Language and Culture requires 31 hours including four advanced language courses beyond 201 (JPN 220, 230, 290, and 296), EAL 275, EAL 375, five elective courses—three in Japanese literature, film and/or culture and two courses in Japanese history (HST 246, 247, 347, 348) and/or Japanese religion (REL 363, 381). JPN 231 may substitute as an elective course. Study abroad in Japan is also required. Under special circumstances, a student may substitute an approved intensive immersion program in the U.S. for the study abroad requirement. A minimum C average is required for all courses in the major.

Minors in Chinese/Japanese Language and Culture require 6 hours of advanced study in the language beyond 201 plus 6 elective credit hours of courses in the literature, film and/or culture of China or Japan. Study abroad is highly recommended but not required. A minimum C average is required for all courses in the minor.

Study abroad credit transfer. Non-equivalent courses approved as 500 will count toward the major or minor. Courses approved as 520 will count as elective hours toward graduation only.

Honors. Highly qualified majors should apply for admission to the honors program in East Asian languages and cultures. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Chinese Language and Culture” or “Honors in Japanese Language and Culture” following completion of EAL 375, the student... must enroll in EAL 376, present an honors-quality research paper, successfully defend the paper in an oral examination, and earn an overall GPA of 3.0 with an average of 3.3 on work in courses taken as part of the major in Chinese or Japanese. For additional information, students should consult members of the department.

East Asian Languages and Cultures (EAL; taught in English)

219. Major Works of Japanese Literature. (3h) A study of major works of Japanese literature from the eighth century to the present, this course examines epic and lyric poetry, novels, drama, travelogues, and satirical pieces chosen both for their central place in the canon and for their insights into Japanese history and culture. (CD, D)

221. Themes in Chinese Literature. (3h) Examines selected themes in Chinese fiction and poetry with an emphasis on the modern and early modern periods. Also listed as HMN 221. (CD, D)

222. Traditional Chinese Literature. (3h) Surveys the history of the traditional Chinese narrative across a variety of genres and forms such as the classical anecdote, folktale, vernacular story, drama, and novel. Also listed as HMN 222. (CD, D)

231. Early 20th-century Chinese Modernist Practices. (3h) Explores various Chinese modernist experiments in literature and the arts in the first half of the 20th century. Also listed as HMN 257. (CD)

241. Gender in Japanese Literature. (3h) A study of how femininity, masculinity, and sexuality are represented in Japanese literature. This course explores changing ideologies of gender, and the literary and political potential of alternative gender and sexual identities, with a focus on modern fiction and poetry. (CD)

251. The Asian-American Experience: Literature and Personal Narratives. (3h) Introduction to the writings and narratives of Asian Americans of South and Southeast Asian descent, including Asian Americans of Chinese, Japanese, Korean, and Indian descent. Explores the process of assimilation, including the effects of immigration and cultural conflict on literary forms of expression, as well as the formation of new cultural identities. Also listed as HMN 251. (CD)

252. Chinese Cinemas. (3h) Provides a thorough examination of Chinese cinemas from mainland China, Hong Kong, and Taiwan, paying special attention to film's aesthetic responses to historical catastrophe, political upheaval, and social transformation. Examining film's concerns with the narration of history raises further questions regarding national and cultural identity, popular culture and cinematic form, gender and sexuality, exile and diaspora, and revolutionary aesthetics. Also listed as HMN 252. (CD)

253. Japanese Film: Themes and Methods. (3h) Explores themes, artistic visions, and techniques in a variety of film genres, from historical dramas to contemporary comedies and from realism to fantasy and science fiction. Special focus is given to the films' historical and political context. Directors include Mizoguchi, Ozu, Kurosawa, and Miyazaki. Also listed as HMN 253. (CD)

270. Contemporary Japanese Culture. (3h) Selected topics in Japanese literature, pop culture, film, animation, and other forms. May be repeated for credit when topic differs. P—POI. Also listed as HMN 270. (CD)

271. Mass Culture in Modern China. (3h) Begins with an inquiry into the critical concept of mass and popular culture by looking at newspapers, posters, literature, film, and music, and tracing their sociopolitical, aesthetic, and affective impact on modern China. Also listed as HMN 271. (CD)
272. Literature and Film from Taiwan, Hong Kong, and Beyond. (3h) Explores the specific cultural, political, historical, and aesthetic contexts that contributed to the development of Chinese-language writings and film outside the mainland. Also listed as HMN 273. (CD)

275. Survey of East Asian Cultures. (3h) Explores the cultural and historical connections among China, Japan, and Korea. (CD)

285. Contemporary East Asian Cinema. (3h) Examines the depiction of the cultural landscape of contemporary East Asia and the development of a transnational imaginary in recent works of Chinese, Japanese, and South Korean film. Directors include Wong Kar-Wai, Kore-eda Hirokazu, Park Chan-Wook and many others. (CD)

290. Special Topics. (3h) Selected themes and approaches to East Asian literature, drama, culture, and film. Topics to be chosen by staff prior to the term the course is offered. May be repeated for credit. P—POI.

299. Individual Study. (1h-3h) P—POI.

303. Field Research Preparation. (1h) Development of target language (Chinese or Japanese) field research materials and preparation for field research practicum in China, Japan, or Taiwan. P—POI.

304. Field Research Practicum. (2h) Use of target language research materials in a field research project in China, Japan, or Taiwan to investigate aspects of culture and belief systems and to apply specific disciplinary frameworks. Not offered on the Wake Forest campus. P—POI.

375. Senior Research Seminar. (3h) Capstone research project required of graduating majors. P— CHI 296 or JPN 296 and EAL 275.

376. Honors Thesis. (3h) Directed research for the honors thesis. P—EAL 375 and POI.

American Ethnic Studies (AES)

240. Asian-American Legacy: A Social History of Community Adaptation. (3h) Introduces the history, culture, and literature of the Asian-American communities, exploring issues of migration, assimilation, and the process of developing Asian-American identities in the 20th and early 21st centuries. (CD)

Chinese (CHI)

101, 102. First-year Chinese I & II. (5h, 5h) Emphasizes the development of listening and speaking skills in Mandarin. Introduces the writing system and basic sentence patterns. P—for CHI 102 is CHI 101 or equivalent.

201. Second-year Chinese II. (5h) Further study in grammar, reading, conversation, and composition. P—CHI 153 or equivalent.

220. Third-year Chinese I. (3h) Integrates speaking, reading, and writing skills with emphasis on written and audiovisual sources. P—CHI 201 or POI.

230. Third-year Chinese II. (3h) Continuation of CHI 220, with emphasis on oral presentation and compositional skills. P—CHI 220 or POI.
231. Fourth-year Chinese I. (3h) Continuation of CHI 230, with emphasis on advanced reading and writing. P—CHI 230 or POI.

255. Business Chinese. (3h) Communicating in Mandarin Chinese for business purposes. Addresses cultural differences in communication and spoken and written linguistic forms. P—CHI 230 or POI.

290. Reading and Writing Chinese. (3h) Teaches reading and writing skills in Chinese language at the beginning and intermediate levels. Designed to accompany concurrent courses taken abroad in conversational Chinese and to provide a rigorous framework for the study and memorization of Chinese characters. Not offered at the Wake Forest campus. May be repeated for credit with POI.

296. Chinese across the Curriculum. (1h) Coursework in Chinese done as an adjunct to specially-designated courses throughout the college curriculum. P—POI.

299. Individual Study. (1h-3h) P—POI.

351. Classical Chinese. (3h) Vocabulary and syntax of the written Chinese language prior to the 20th century, including readings from the 4th century BC authors such as Mencius, along with writings from later centuries. P—CHI 250, 252 or POI.

Communication (COM)

351A. Japanese and American Culture: Cross-Cultural Communication. (3h) Explores communication differences between the Japanese and the Americans. Japanese and American values, behavior, and beliefs are compared in determining effective methods for cross-cultural communication. Emphasis is on examining factors leading to miscommunication and the development of techniques for overcoming cultural barriers. Credit not given for both INS 349 and COM 351A. Also listed as INS 349. (CD)

Humanities (HMN)

221. Themes in Chinese Literature. (3h) Examines selected themes in Chinese fiction and poetry with an emphasis on the modern and early modern periods. Also listed as EAL 221. (CD, D)

222. Traditional Chinese Literature. (3h) Surveys the history of the traditional Chinese narrative across a variety of genres and forms such as the classical anecdote, folktale, vernacular story, drama, and novel. Also listed as EAL 222. (CD, D)

299. Individual Study. (1h-3h) P—POI.

East Asian Studies (EAS)

Coordinator Robert Hellyer

The minor in East Asian studies provides an opportunity for students to undertake a multidisciplinary study of the art, history, philosophy, politics, religion, and culture of East Asia. It consists of a total of 18 hours. Candidates for the minor are required to take at least one course from three of the four curriculum groupings noted. (See course descriptions under appropriate course listings.) Nine or more of the hours towards the minor must focus on a geographical area—Japan, China, or Korea.

Appropriate credit in various fields of East Asian studies also may be obtained by study abroad in programs approved by the coordinator. Interested students are encouraged, preferably in their sophomore year, to consult with the coordinator or an affiliated adviser to discuss their interests and structure a coherent course of study.

Courses may be chosen from among the list of approved courses. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program coordinator maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department's listings in this bulletin.

311. Special Topics in East Asian Studies. (1h-3h) Intensive survey of one or more important issues in East Asian studies not included in the regular course offerings. P—POI.

381. Independent Research in East Asian Studies. (1h-3h) Supervised independent research project on a topic related to East Asia. P—Permission of both instructor and coordinator of East Asian Studies. May be repeated for credit.

Economics (ECN)

Chair J. Daniel Hammond
Hultquist Family Professor of Economics J. Daniel Hammond
Reynolds Professor John H. Wood
Professors Allin F. Cottrell, Jac C. Heckelman, Robert M. Whaples
Associate Professor Frederick H. Chen
Assistant Professors Justin Burkett, E. Mark Curtis, Christina M. Dalton, John T. Dalton, Francis X. Flanagan, Amanda Griffith, Sandeep Mazumder, Veronica Sovero
Assistant Teaching Professor John MacDonald
Visiting Assistant Professor Todd McFall
Adjunct Instructor Richard DePolt

The objectives of the economics program are to help prepare students for effective participation in the decision-making processes of society, to develop analytical skills in solving economic problems, to promote a better understanding of alternative economic systems, and to provide a balanced curriculum to prepare students for graduate study or positions in industry and government. Any (3h) economics course satisfies a divisional requirement.
The major in economics consists of 30 hours in economics, including ECN 150, 205, 206, 207, 209, and at least one course from ECN 211, 222, 252 or 274. A minimum grade of C is required in ECN 150. A minimum grade of C- is required in ECN 205, 207, and 209. In addition, students must achieve an overall 2.0 average in economics courses. The student also must make a minimum grade of C- in MTH 111 and MTH 109 or 256 (or similar course, including ANT 380; BIO 380; BEM 201; HES 262; MTH 358; or SOC 271). Students must receive a grade of C or higher in ECN 150 to enroll in ECN 205, 207 and/or 209.

Economics majors are encouraged to take complementary courses in mathematics, the humanities, or other social sciences to sharpen their analytical skills and to acquire a broader understanding of important issues. The faculty adviser will assist each student in determining the particular combination of courses that satisfies his or her needs.

The minor in economics consists of 18 hours, including ECN 150, 205, and 207. The mathematics and minimum grade requirements for the minor are the same as for the major.

Honors. Students who have a GPA of at least 3.0 overall and 3.3 in economics, and who complete the research course, ECN 298, will be considered by the department faculty for the graduation distinction “Honors in Economics.”

Students who have a GPA of at least 3.0 overall and 3.3 in courses for the mathematical economics major and who complete the research course, ECN 298 or MTH 391 and 392 with a minimum grade of B- will be considered by the faculty for the graduation distinction, “Honors in Mathematical Economics.”

Bachelor of Science in Mathematical Economics. The Department of Economics and the Department of Mathematics offer a major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical economics. This interdisciplinary program affords the student an opportunity to apply mathematical methods to the development of economic theory, models, and quantitative analysis. The major consists of the following course requirements: ECN 150, 205, 207, 210, 211, 215, 218; MTH 112, 113, 121, 254, 255; and three additional (3h) courses chosen with the approval of the program advisers. Students electing the major must receive permission from both the Department of Economics and the Department of Mathematics. A minimum grade average of C in all courses attempted for the mathematical economics major is required for graduation.

Students who have a GPA of at least 3.0 overall and 3.3 in courses for the mathematical economics major, and who complete the research course, ECN 298, or MTH 391 and 392 with a minimum grade of B- will be considered by the faculty for the graduation distinction, “Honors in Mathematical Economics.”

150. Introduction to Economics. (3h) Surveys micro and macroeconomic principles. Introduces basic concepts, characteristic data and trends, and some analytic techniques. (D)

205. Intermediate Microeconomics I. (3h) Development of demand and supply analysis, neoclassical theory of household and firm behavior, and alternative market structures. P—ECN 150 and MTH 111 or 112. (D)

207. Intermediate Macroeconomics. (3h) Development of macroeconomic concepts of national income, circular flow, income determination, causes of unemployment, IS-LM analysis, inflation, and growth models. Emphasizes contributions of Keynes and the Keynesian tradition. P—ECN 150 and MTH 111 or 112. (D)
209. Applied Econometrics. (3h) An introduction to regression analysis methods used to estimate and test relationships among economic variables. Selected applications from microeconomics and macroeconomics are studied. Emphasis is on examining economic data, identifying when particular methods are appropriate, and interpreting statistical results. P—ECN 150 and MTH 109, (or similar course, including ANT 380; BIO 380; BEM 201; HES 262; MTH 358; or SOC 271) (D, QR)

210. Optimization Techniques in Economics. (1.5h) Development of formal models of consumer behavior, choice under risk, the firm, and demand and supply. Static and dynamic properties of the models are explored. P—ECN 205. C—MTH 113 and 121; or POI.

211. Macroeconomic Dynamics. (1.5h) Development of formal Keynesian, post-Keynesian, monetarist, and new classical macro models. Static and dynamic properties of the models are explored. P—ECN 207. C—MTH 113 and 121.

215. Econometric Theory and Methods. (3h) Estimation and inference in relation to quantitative economic models. Methods covered include Ordinary Least Squares, Generalized Least Squares and Maximum Likelihood. P—ECN 150, MTH 109 or 357, MTH 113 and MTH 121. (D, QR)

216. Game Theory. (3h) Introduction to mathematical models of social and strategic interactions. P—ECN 205 and MTH 109. (D)

218. Advanced Topics in Mathematical Economics. (3h) Advanced mathematical techniques such as dynamic programming or lattice theory, and the applications of these techniques to optimization and equilibrium problems in various fields of economics such as growth theory, search theory, and auction theory. P—ECN 205, 207 and MTH 111, 112. (D)

221. Public Finance. (3h) Examines the economic behavior of government. Includes principles of taxation, spending, borrowing, and debt management. P—ECN 209 or 215; and ECN 205. (D)

222. Monetary Theory and Policy. (3h) Investigates the nature of money, the macroeconomic significance of money, financial markets, and monetary policy. P—ECN 207. (D)

223. Financial Markets. (3h) Studies the functions, structure, and performance of financial markets. P—ECN 205 and 207. (D)

224. Law and Economics. (3h) Economic analysis of property, contracts, torts, criminal behavior, due process, and law enforcement. P—ECN 205. (D)

225. Public Choice. (3h) Traditional tools of economic analysis are employed to explore such topics in political science as political organization, elections, coalition formation, the optimal provision of public goods, and the scope of government. P—ECN 209 or 215; and ECN 205. (D)

226. Theory of Social Choice. (3h) Development of Constitutional Economics in establishing rules for governmental and group decision-making by democratic means. Implications for various voting rules are considered in terms of both positive and normative criteria. P—ECN 205. (D)

231. Economics of Industry. (3h) Analysis of the link between market structure and market performance in U.S. industries from theoretical and empirical viewpoints. Examines the efficiency of mergers, cartels, and other firm behaviors. Case studies may include automobiles, steel, agriculture, computers, sports, and telecommunications. P—ECN 205. (D)

232. Antitrust Economics. (1.5h, 3h) Analysis of the logic and effectiveness of public policies designed to promote competition in the U.S. P—ECN 205. (D)
235. Economics of Labor Markets. (3h) Theoretical and empirical survey of labor markets. Topics include: the demand and supply of labor, compensating wage differentials, education and training, discrimination, unions, public sector employment, earnings inequality, and unemployment. P—ECN 205. (D)

236. Economics of Higher Education. (3h) Applies economic theory and data analysis in an investigation of important current issues in higher education. Issues of prestige, admissions, financial aid, access, student and faculty quality, alumni giving and endowments, and externalities will be addressed. P—ECN 209 or 215; and ECN 205. (D)

240. Economics of Health and Medicine. (3h) Applications of the methods of economic analysis to the study of the health care industry. P—ECN 150. P— or C—An applied statistics class such as (choose one): ANT 380, BIO 380, BEM 201, ECN 209, ECN 215, HES 262, MTH 256, MTH 358, or SOC 271, or POI. (D)

241. Natural Resource and Environmental Economics. (3h) Develops the economic theory of natural resource markets and explores public policy issues in natural resources and the environment. P—ECN 150. (D)

Wake Forest University believes that the teaching profession is important to society and that its welfare is significantly affected by the quality of educational leadership. One of the important objectives of the University has been and continues to be the preparation of teachers. The University’s commitment to quality in teacher education is demonstrated by selective admission to the program, a wide range of professional courses, and closely supervised internships appropriate to the professional development of students. The Wake Forest education programs are fully accredited by NCATE (National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education) and by the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

Prospective elementary teachers earn a major in education. Prospective secondary teachers of English, mathematics, biology, chemistry, physics, and prospective K-12 teachers of French, German, and Spanish major in that discipline and minor in education. Prospective secondary social studies teachers major in a social studies-related discipline (such as history, political science, economics, sociology, or anthropology), complete content requirements, and minor in education. In addition to the professional program, the department provides elective courses open to all students.

Teacher Licensure. The state of North Carolina issues the Standard Professional I Class A Teacher’s License to graduates who have completed an approved program including the specified courses in their teaching fields and the prescribed courses in education, who meet licensure requirements, and who receive recommendations from the designated officials in their teaching areas and from the licensure officer.

Admission Requirements. Admission involves filing an official application with the department’s licensure officer, being interviewed, and being officially approved by the department. In addition, the state of North Carolina requires Teacher Education Program applicants to submit SAT scores (verbal and math) of 1100 or an ACT composite score of 24 or the minimum score requirements for Praxis I before being formally admitted.

All students are required to have a 2.5 or better GPA before being formally accepted to the Teacher Education Program. Formal acceptance into the program should take place by April 1 of the junior year for secondary students and by January 1 of the junior year for elementary students.

Program Area Goals. The goals and objectives for each licensure area are available in the office of the Department of Education.

Course Requirements. The approved program of teacher education requires candidates to complete successfully a series of professional education courses. The exact sequence of professional and academic courses varies with a student’s particular program and is determined by the adviser in conference with the candidate.

Student Teaching. Prerequisites for registering for student teaching include (1) senior, graduate, or special student classification; (2) completion of prerequisite courses; and (3) formal admission to the Teacher Education Program.

Students are assigned to student-teaching opportunities by public school officials on the basis of available positions and the professional needs of the student and the public school system. One semester of the senior year is reserved for the student-teaching experience. Students may not take courses outside the education department during this semester without the approval of the department chair.

Secondary Education Minors. The Licensure minor in secondary professional education requires 30 hours (EDU 201, 201L, 307, 311, 311L, 354, 354L, 364L, and 365), and requires a major in one of the secondary license areas below.

Schools, Education, and Society. The minor in Schools, Education, and Society requires 17 hours (EDU 201, EDU 201L, EDU 311, EDU 368, and two of the following: EDU 304, EDU 307, EDU 354, EDU 388, EDU 395, or EDU 377). This minor is intended for students who have an interest in education but who are not pursuing a teaching license. However, any student who wishes to major in elementary education or pursue the licensure minor in secondary education and also undertake the minor in Schools, Education, and Society must complete at least nine additional, unique hours of coursework, including EDU 368 and two designated education electives. Some courses are not offered every semester; students should plan ahead in order to fulfill all requirements.

Exit Requirements. Students must maintain at least a 2.5 GPA while enrolled in the Teacher Education Program. Candidates for professional licensure must pass all appropriate state required standardized tests.

English. 33 hours, including ENG 265; ENG 266 or 275; two pre-1800 British literature courses; the senior seminar ENG 399; and one 300-level English course from each of four groups (I: Genre and Aesthetics; II: History and Literary History; III: Culture; IV: Single Author). Within these four groups and/or additional electives, English education minors are also required to complete at least one 200-300 level writing or creative writing course and at least one 300 level course matching the following criteria: (1) American literature; (2) Shakespeare; (3) multicultural or world literature; (4) linguistics or grammar; (5) poetry, theatre/drama, or film.

French. Licensure in K-12 in French requires the major in French which consists of a minimum of 27 hours of French courses numbered above FRH 214 including FRH 216, 315 or 350, 319, 320, 322, 370, one of the genre courses: 363, 364, or 365, and two additional courses.
Spanish. Licensure in K-12 in Spanish requires the major in Spanish which consists of a minimum of 28 hours in Spanish courses numbered 280 and above. It must include SPA 280, SPA 309 or 309L, 324, one genre course (SPA 310-314), one regions course (SPA 315-319), 6 credit hours from SPA 330-395, and 9 additional hours of elective credit from Spanish classes numbered above 280. No more than 10 hours may be counted from courses numbered 280-309. Students must achieve at least a C grade in 309 or 309L and a GPA of 2.0 in the major. 309 or 309L must be taken on the Reynolda or Salamanca campuses.

German. Licensure in K-12 in German requires the major in German which consists of a minimum of nine courses beyond GER 153 to include one course from the sequence 210, 212, or 214 (Vienna); 317, 320 or 321, 399; at least one course from the sequence 349, 381, 383, 385.

Mathematics. 32 hours, including MTH 112, 113, 121, 321, 331, 357, either 211 or 311, and three other courses beyond 113.

Science. Licensure in the individual fields of science: biology (34 hours), chemistry (34.5-35.5 hours for BA), and physics (25 hours). All courses must be from the same courses required for majors in those fields.

Social Studies. 30 hours, including 18 hours in history and 12 hours from four other social sciences. History hours include 6 hours from European or world history, 6 hours from U.S. history, and 6 hours from nonwestern history. The 12 additional hours come from one course each in economics, geography, political science, and anthropology or sociology.

The Elementary Education Major: The elementary education major requires the following courses: EDU 201, 201L, 203, 205a, 205b, 206, 250, 293, 295, 296, 298, 300, 307, 311, 312. A minimum grade of C in each course attempted in education is required for graduation with a major.

The English department offers courses in four programs: Creative Writing (CRW), English Literature and Language (ENG), Journalism (JOU), and Writing (WRI). Information on the Journalism minor and the Writing minor (Interdisciplinary) is listed alphabetically elsewhere in the bulletin.

The major in English requires a minimum of 33 hours in courses ENG 150 and above. (WRI 105 and 111, basic writing requirements, do not count toward the major or minor nor count as a divisional requirement.) The courses for the major must include the gateway course ENG 265; either of the two gateway courses ENG 266 or ENG 275; one 300-level English course from each of four groups as described below (I: Genre and Aesthetics; II: History and Literary History; III: Culture; IV: Single Author); the senior seminar ENG 399; and 9 hours of electives at the 300 level, which may include up to two 300-level Creative Writing or Writing courses (CRW 383, CRW 397, CRW 398, WRI 392, WRI 399). The remaining 3 hours for the major may be fulfilled with any ENG course at the 100 level or above, or with a 3-hour 200-level course in either Creative Writing or Writing. All English majors must pre-register in the spring of their junior year for the senior seminar ENG 399.

Two of the 300-level ENG courses taken for the major must be in pre-1800 British literature. Designated courses fulfill both a Group requirement and the pre-1800 British requirement. Selected 300-level courses are offered in different versions that fulfill different major Group requirements. Full numbering for these individual offerings (ENG 302, 310, 311, 341, 358, 359, 363, 387 and 389) includes a letter that clarifies the Group designation for that particular version: “g” for Group I: Genre and Aesthetics, “h” for Group II: History and Intellectual History, and “c” for Group 3: Culture. Students may take only one version of each of these courses for credit, with the exception of English 302 (g, h, and c), which may be repeated when offered on different subjects.

Majors and their advisers plan individual programs to meet these requirements; majors are urged to take their gateway requirements as early as possible in their college careers. No more than two courses (6 hours) taken elsewhere may be counted toward the 24 hours of 300-level English courses required for the major. This limitation applies to courses taught in approved non-Wake Forest programs, not to courses in programs offered or sponsored by Wake Forest.

Honors. Highly qualified majors recommended by the English faculty are invited to apply to the honors program in English during the second semester of their junior year. To graduate with “Honors in English,” students must have a minimum GPA of 3.5 in the major and 3.2 in all course work. Students must also fulfill the 10-page writing requirement in the fall semester that allows them to enroll in ENG 388 the spring semester of their senior year. Finally, they must satisfy the requirements of the program by completing and successfully defending their honors thesis as part of ENG 388. Interested students may consult the director of the English honors program for further information.

A minor in English requires 21 hours in courses ENG 150 and above, at least 15 of which must be in advanced ENG courses numbered 301-396. No more than two advanced Creative Writing or Writing courses (CRW 383, CRW 397, CRW 398, WRI 392, WRI 399) may be counted toward the minor. Each minor will be assigned an adviser in the English department who will plan a program of study with the student. No more than one course (3 hours) taken elsewhere may be counted toward the 15 hours of 300-level English courses required for the minor. This limitation applies to courses taught in approved non-Wake Forest programs, not to courses in programs offered or sponsored by Wake Forest.

The minor in Creative Writing offers students the opportunity to hone their creative writing skills. The creative writing minor requires 15 hours, including one 300-level literature course (ENG). The remaining 4 courses will consist of Creative Writing (CRW) courses offered by the English department or cross-listed with the English department; at least two of these must be at the 300 level. 300-level courses may be repeated one time for credit in the minor. Students may receive credit in the minor for ENG 386 Directed Reading at the discretion of the minor advisor. No more than one course (3 hours) taken elsewhere may be counted toward the 15 hours of 300-level English courses required for the minor. This limitation applies to courses taught in approved non-Wake Forest programs, not to courses in programs offered or sponsored by Wake Forest.

English majors may earn a Creative Writing minor by taking 12 hours of Creative Writing courses (at least two at the 300 level) exclusive of courses used to complete their major.

Creative Writing (CRW) Courses that fulfill the minor:

- 285. Poetry Workshop. (3h)
- 286. Short Story Writing. (3h)
- 383. Theory and Practice of Poetry Writing. (3h)
- 384. Playwriting. (3h)
- 397. Creative Nonfiction Writing. (3h)
- 398. Advanced Fiction Writing. (3h)

Electives that fulfill the minor:

- COM 316. Screenwriting. (3h)

A minimum grade-point average of 2.0 in courses which comprise a major or minor in the department is required for graduation with any major or minor this department offers.

Journalism courses are offered by the department as related subjects but do not count toward an English major or minor; they may be taken as electives regardless of the field of study in which a student majors. (See section on Journalism.)

CREATIVE WRITING COURSES (CRW)

WRI 111 or exemption therefrom is a prerequisite for any creative writing course.

- 285. Poetry Workshop. (1.5h, 3h) Laboratory course in the writing of verse. Study of poetic techniques and forms as well as works of contemporary poets. Frequent individual conferences.

- 286. Short Story Workshop. (1.5h, 3h) Study of the fundamental principles of short fiction writing; practice in writing; extensive study of short story form.

- 383. Theory and Practice of Poetry Writing. (1.5h, 3h) Emphasis on reading and discussing student poems in terms of craftsmanship and general principles. May be repeated once. P—CRW 285 or POI.

- 384. Playwriting. (3h) Examines the elements of dramatic structure and their representations in a variety of dramatic writings. Explores the fundamentals of playwriting through a series of writing exercises. Also listed as THE 360.
397. Creative Nonfiction. (3h) A writing-intensive course exploring the practice and theory of creative nonfiction, a genre that encompasses memoir, the personal essay, travel writing, and science writing. May be repeated once.

398. Advanced Fiction Writing. (3h) Primarily a short-story workshop, with class discussion on issues of craft, revision, and selected published stories. May be repeated once. P—CRW 286 or POI.

ENGLISH COURSES (ENG)

Division II Core Literature Courses

*WRI 111 or exemption therefrom is a prerequisite for any English course 150 or above. Any ENG course numbered 150-190, 265, 266, 275, or 301-396, except 306, 307, 386, “388, and 390 satisfies the Division II literature requirement. The Wake Forest Program in Innovation, Creativity, and Entrepreneurship offers an interdisciplinary minor in entrepreneurship and social enterprise. Through this minor students are encouraged to take advantage of their knowledge, creative skills, and resources to identify and pursue opportunities, initiate change, and create sustainable value in their lives and the lives of others. A minor in entrepreneurship and social enterprise coupled with any major within the College or in the School of Business is designed to encourage entrepreneurial thinking in a student’s specific discipline or area of interest.

A total of 18 hours is required for the minor. All non-business majors in the undergraduate college are required to take 9 hours of entry-level courses (ESE 100, ESE 101 and ESE 205) and 9 elective hours selected from the relevant courses across the curriculum listed as options for fulfilling the minor. Business majors wishing to minor in entrepreneurship and social enterprise should take ESE 100, BEM 377 (or ESE 101 if taken as freshman or sophomore), and at least 3 hours of credit at the ESE 300-level in place of ESE 205. BEM 372 is strongly recommended as the strategic management requirement. All students may fulfill 6 of their 9 elective hours by taking the Summer Management Program (BUS 295). No more than 6 of the elective hours may be counted from a student’s major. No more than 6 hours can be taken under the pass/fail option and used to meet the minor requirements. Course plans will be made in consultation with the director of the minor.

Required Courses for Entrepreneurship and Social Enterprise

For Non-Business Majors

ESE 100. Creativity and Innovation. (3h) Interactive seminar introduces students to readings and processes from various disciplines that elucidate the interdisciplinary nature of creativity and enable students to create conditions that stimulate it. Projects and assignments are designed to encourage a “critical creativity” that challenges participants through inquiry, multi-faceted exploration and strategic development. Topics examined through writing and design assignments, group projects, and discussions include consciousness, receptivity, risk, ethics, self-agency, and social engagement with the express objective of fostering creative potential and its application in all areas of experience.

ESE 101. Foundations of Entrepreneurship. (3h) Addresses the challenges of creating and sustaining organizations in today’s global environment. Provides an overview of the role and importance of entrepreneurship in the global economy and in society. Examines how individuals use entrepreneurial skills to craft innovative responses to societal needs.

ESE 205. Managing the Entrepreneurial Venture: Startups to Early Growth. (3h) Explores the process of managing and growing the entrepreneurial venture. The course is designed to provide exposure to topics critical to the success of the venture in startup and early growth: business planning; growth management and strategic planning; marketing and financial strategies; exit strategies; and different modes of venturing, such as franchising, venture acquisition, and technology licensing. P—ESE 101.
For Business Majors

ESE 100. Creativity and Innovation. (3h) Interactive seminar introduces students to readings and processes from various disciplines that elucidate the interdisciplinary nature of creativity and enable students to create conditions that stimulate it. Projects and assignments are designed to encourage a “critical creativity” that challenges participants through inquiry, multi-faceted exploration and strategic development. Topics examined through writing and design assignments, group projects, and discussions include consciousness, receptivity, risk, ethics, self-agency, and social engagement with the express objective of fostering creative potential and its application in all areas of experience.

BEM 377. Entrepreneurship. (3h) Exposes students to multiple facets of entrepreneurship and teaches about creating new ventures in a hands-on fashion. A broad range of ideas, readings, and cases enable students to understand the ambiguous and highly-charged environment of entrepreneurship, the contribution of entrepreneurial endeavors to business and society, and the characteristics of successful new venture startups. Focuses on three areas that define successful entrepreneurial pursuit of new for-profit, nonprofit, and social enterprise initiatives: recognizing opportunity, management, and assembling resources. The completion of a team-based business plan for a new venture is usually required. Guest speakers present their views of entrepreneurial organizations based on real-world experiences—startup, financing, legal, transition, failure, etc. P—BEM 211, 221, and FIN 231; or POI.

• And one ESE 300-level course selected from the electives listed.

Electives for Entrepreneurship and Social Enterprise

(3h) Explores entrepreneurship in promoting Latin-American and U.S. Latino cultures through educational and artistic events and fundraisers on campuses and in the community. Students gain hands-on experience by assisting in the production of Wake Forest exhibitions, events promoting Latin-American and U.S. Latino heritage and culture, related community fundraisers, and nonprofit organizations.
ESE 320. Social Entrepreneurship. (3h) Interdisciplinary seminar that introduces the concepts of entrepreneurship with a focus on entrepreneurial activities that further the public good through the integration of core concepts of social and cultural values and ecological sustainability.

ESE 321. Social Entrepreneurship and the Humanities: Innovation, Public Engagement, and Social Change. (3h) Introduction to the role played by the humanities in social entrepreneurship, exploring the premise that norms can be developed for the application of the humanities, and that the knowledge derived in this process can empower and be a tool in community-based engagement and social change. Course includes a social entrepreneurial project in the local community. Also listed as HMN 295.

ESE 322. Religion, Poverty, and Social Entrepreneurship. (3h) Interdisciplinary study of major themes in religion, poverty reduction, and social entrepreneurship. Focus and community emphasis may vary with instructor. Also listed as REL 245.

ESE 323. Social Entrepreneurship Summer Program. (6h) This trans-disciplinary, 4-week program explores the role of social entrepreneurship in society today and challenges students, through a rigorous and integrated curriculum to master the entrepreneurial process involved in furthering the public good through community based engagement and social change. P—POI.

ESE 325. Free Trade, Fair Trade: Independent Entrepreneurs in the Global Market. (3h) Field-based seminar compares the barriers to market participation experienced by independent entrepreneurs cross-culturally. Free trade policies are contrasted with fair trade practices to determine why so many independent producers have trouble succeeding in a globalizing world. Also listed as ANT 301. (CD)

ESE 330. Entrepreneurship for Scientists. (3h) Introduces the routes by which scientific discoveries and new technologies find their way to the marketplace. Covers ideation, determining market potential, business planning, intellectual property, entrepreneurship ethics, venture capital, and venture incubation.

ESE 335. Renewable Energy Entrepreneurship: Science, Policy and Economics. (4h) This team-taught course provides overviews of the most important renewable energy sources. Explores the science, policy and economic issues related to renewable energy and investigates the potential for new markets, new products, and new entrepreneurial opportunities in the marketplace. P—Junior standing and Division V requirements, or POI.

ESE 340. Communication Technology and Entrepreneurship. (3h) Explores how an e-commerce business plan can be developed and the specific ways of marketing e-commerce ventures including the options provided by new tools such as social networking applications. May be cross-listed as COM 370 if and when the topic is the same.

ESE 350. Internships in Entrepreneurial Studies. (3h) Offers the opportunity to apply knowledge in an entrepreneurial for-profit or not-for-profit environment. Requirements include a course journal and a comprehensive report that showcase the student’s specific achievements and analyze the quality of his or her experience. P—POI.

ESE 351. Green Technologies: Science and Entrepreneurship. (2h or 3h) Introduces the science and entrepreneurship opportunities of select green technologies. Students learn the fundamental science associated with energy use, renewable energy and selected green technologies. Students also learn the basics of starting a new business and develop a business plan to bring a “green product” to the market. P—CHM 341 or ESE 101 or POI.

ESE 357. Bioinspiration and Biomimetics. (3h) Explores the ways in which biological mechanisms can inspire new technologies, products, and businesses. The course combines basic biological and entrepreneurial principles. Also listed as BIO 357.
ESE 371. Economics of Entrepreneurship. (3h) An examination of the economic constraints and opportunities facing entrepreneurs and their impacts on the economy. The course will blend economic theories with an empirical investigation of the lives and actions of entrepreneurs in the past and the present. Also listed as ECN 266.

ESE 380. America at Work. (3h) Examines the American entrepreneurial spirit within the broader context of industrial, social, and economic change from the colonial period to the present and explores the social and cultural meanings attached to work and workers, owners and innovators, businesses and technologies, management and leadership. Also listed as HST 380. (CD)

ESE 384. Design-Thinking and High-Performance Teams. (3h) In this experiential class, we study the evolution of high-performance teams in design-thinking environments. At its core, design thinking is an approach to innovative problem solving that balances art, science, and business perspectives in realistic and highly impactful ways. In this course we develop the ability to participate in and lead high-performance teams within a design-thinking environment. The course involves an action-learning project that applies the perspectives of anthropology, history, political science, communication, and psychology, among others, in solving a real-world problem. Also listed as BEM 384.

ESE 391. Independent Study in Entrepreneurship. (3h) An independent project involving entrepreneurship or social enterprise carried out under the supervision of a faculty member. P—POI.

ESE 394 A/B. Student Entrepreneurs in Action. (1.5h, 1.5h) This course is built around the real-time challenges and learning that occur as the students in the class launch, run, build, and sell or transition their venture. Promotes intense rigorous intellectual exchange in a seminar setting in which all will not only participate in critical thinking and analysis, but also in problem solving and leadership. Course may be repeated for credit. P—POI.

Environmental Program (ENV)

Director Abdessadek Lachgar

Interdisciplinary Minor in Environmental Science

The Wake Forest environmental program offers an environmental science or an environmental studies minor. The environmental program provides an interdisciplinary approach to the study of human-environment interaction. The program seeks to identify and apply perspectives from biology, chemistry, physics, geography, English, government, economics, history, law, ethics, and anthropology to the human impact on the natural environment. The environmental science or the environmental studies minor, coupled with a liberal arts major, is designed to prepare students for careers in the environmental sciences, law, public health, public policy, and public administration, and to develop attitudes and values consistent with a sustainable environmental future.

201. Environmental Issues. (3h) Topics include environmental literature, environmental history, human populations, resource management, pollution, global change, and environmental ethics.

301-306. Topics in Environmental Studies. (1-4h) Seminar and/or lecture courses in selected topics, some involving laboratory instruction. May be repeated if the course title differs.

330. Land and Natural Resource Management. (3h) Provides a fundamental understanding of land and resource management. The major focus is on federal oversight and policies but state, local, nonprofit and international aspects are included.

391, 392. Individual Study. (1.5h, 1.5h) Field study, internship, project or research investigation carried out under the supervision of a member of the environmental program faculty. Pass/Fail or for a grade at the discretion of the instructor. Pass/Fail is not an option if used as an elective for the environmental science or environmental studies minor.

394. Environmental Internship. (1-4h) Supervised internships with governmental agencies, non-profit organizations and businesses.

ENV 201. Environmental Issues. (3h)

CHM/PHY 120. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h)

A total of 18 hours, including 11 hours of elective courses, is required for the minor. The following courses can serve as electives for the environmental science minor. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program director maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department's listings in this bulletin.

Film Studies (FLM)

Director Associate Professor of Communication and Theatre and Dance Woody Hood

Film studies offers an interdisciplinary approach to the study of film through a body of courses that exposes students to the cultural, political, and social implications of this art form. Courses in the minor provide students with the critical tools necessary for both evaluating and producing film texts, and they prepare qualified students to choose critical and/or creative paths for further study or toward a profession. More information on the film studies program is available at www.wfu.edu/film.
A minor in film studies requires a minimum of 18 hours of approved courses. Candidates for the minor must complete Introduction to Film and Media Aesthetics (COM 246), Media Theory and Criticism (COM 320), and an additional 12 hours of courses: at least 3 hours from each of the designated fields of international cinema and production, and 6 hours of electives. A maximum of 3 hours of internship credit may be counted towards the minor.

Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program director maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department’s listings in this publication.

387, 388. Honors in German. (2.5h, 2.5h) Conference course in German literature. A major research paper is required. Designed for candidates for departmental honors.

399. Seminar in the Major. (3h) Intensive examination of a selected genre or special topic to be determined by the instructor. Intensive practice in critical discourse, including discussion and an oral presentation in German. Introduction to literary scholarship and research methodology leading to a documented paper. Required for all majors. May be repeated. Spring. P—GER 349, 381, 383, 385, or POI.

German Studies (GES): All GES courses are taught in English

In addition to the courses listed under the German major, the German Studies major also offers the following courses. No courses completed elsewhere may satisfy Division II credit.

331. Weimar Germany. (3h) Art, literature, music, and film of Weimar Germany, 1919-1933, in historical context. Also listed as HST 318.

335. German Film. (3h) Survey of German cinema from the silent era to the present. Also listed as HMN 235.

337. Myth and National Identity Formation. (3h) Explores the philosophical, social, religious, and political background of Germany and Austria in the context of the Nibelung cycle. Students read selected works of Tacitus, medieval epics, medieval poetry, Herder, Wagner, Nietzsche, and Adorno. Includes an optional week-long excursion to Worms, Germany. Also listed as HMN 392. (D)

338. Representations of Jewish Voices in German Culture and Discourse. (3h) Explores the history of relations, cross-cultural influences, and prejudices between German Jews and Christians in literature from the Middle Ages to the present. Texts and discussions will also draw attention to pertinent contemporary issues, such as various forms of intolerance and the complexity and malleability of religious identity. (D)

340. German Masterworks in Translation. (3h) Examines selected works of German, Austrian, and Swiss fiction in English translation by such writers as Goethe, Schiller, Kafka, Mann, and Schnitzler. Literary periods, genres, and authors vary according to instructor. Also listed as HMN 340. (D)

345. History of the German Language. (3h) Survey of the development of the German language from prehistoric times to modern day German. Topics include: From Indo-European to Germanic, phonetic and lexical changes of the German language, Old High German, Middle High German, Early New High German and Modern Standard German. No prior knowledge of linguistics necessary.

390. German Women Writers. (3h) Examines selected works by women authors. Literary periods, genres, and authors vary according to instructor. Also listed as HMN 391. (D)
391. Germanic Myths and Monsters. (3h) Examines myths and monsters in medieval and modern discourse of the German-speaking countries. Students read selected works such as the Edda, medieval epics and romances, as well as nineteenth- and twentieth-century authors. P—GER 212 or equivalent.

393. Luther. (3h) Examines the social, political, and religious background of Germany on the eve of the Reformation, traces the formative (sometimes legendary) events of Luther’s life, and explores several of his most important tracts, his translation of the Bible, and his more notorious confrontations and opponents.

394. German Myths, Legends, and Fairy Tales. (3h) Study of German myths, legends, and fairy tales since the Middle Ages and their role in the formation of German national identity. Also listed as HMN 394. (D)

395. Special Topics in German Studies. (3h)

396. The German Novel. (3h) Introduces novels by German, Swiss, and Austrian authors. Also listed as HMN 395. (D)

397. Intellectual History of Weimar. (3h) Examines the philosophical, political, and literary works that gave rise to the mythical status of Weimar as the intellectual heart of Germany. Students read selected works by Luther, Goethe, Schiller, Fichte, and the Jena Romantics. Includes an optional week-long excursion to Weimar, Germany. Also listed as HMN 397. (D)

Semester in Vienna

GER 110. Intensive Elementary German. (4h) One-semester course covering the material of GER 111 and 112. For students whose preparation for GER 153 is inadequate or who have demonstrated proficiency in another language. Not open to students who have had GER 111 or 112. Offered only at the Flow House in Vienna.

GER 150. Intermediate German. (4h) The principles of grammar are reviewed; reading of selected prose and poetry. P—GER 110, 112 or 113. Offered only at the Flow House in Vienna.

GER 214. Masterpieces of Austrian Literature. (3h) Study of masterpieces of Austrian literature of the 19th, 20th, and 21st centuries. Lecture and discussion in German. Offered only at the Flow House in Vienna. P—153 or equivalent.

GES 341. Special topics in German and Austrian Literature and Culture. (3h) Credit towards the German major or minor. Taught in English. Offered only at the Flow House in Vienna. (D)

GES 350. Fin de Siècle Vienna. (3h) Survey of major developments in Viennese art, music, literature, and society from roughly 1889 to 1918. Important figures to be discussed are Mahler, Schoenberg, Klimt, Schiele, Schnitzler, Musil, Freud, and Herzl. Offered only at the Flow House in Vienna. (D)

HMN 215. Germanic and Slavic Literature. Taught in English. Offered only at the Flow House in Vienna. (D)

Internships

322. Internship in German Language. (.5-3h) May be repeated for a total of 6 hours, only 3 hours of which may count towards the major or minor. Pass/Fail only. P—GER 317 or POI.
Winston-Salem, Forsyth County Schools. Under faculty direction, a student mentors local German students at the middle or high school level. The intern may tutor students directly or assist in structuring and coordinating German language activities or events as the head classroom teacher requests. Course requirements include but are not limited to (1) a journal including a general description of the student’s responsibilities, (2) a supporting portfolio of teaching materials along with summaries of activities and events, (3) regular consultation with Wake Forest faculty adviser in German, (4) a reflective overview composed at the end of the internship, and (5) an evaluation supplied by the head teacher at the end of the internship.

Graz, Austria. Under faculty direction, a student serves as German Language Intern for the American Institute for Musical Studies (AIMS), Graz, Austria during July and August. The student translates public and private documents, and performs clerical and administrative tasks for which knowledge of German is essential. Course requirements include but are not limited to: (1) a journal including a general overview of the student’s responsibilities as well as weekly entries on new words, phrases and cultural literacy insights, (2) a portfolio including copies of all translations and other documents created by the student in German. The portfolio should include the original English in addition to the student’s translation, (3) regular consultation with a Wake Forest faculty mentor in German, (4) a reflective overview composed at the end of the internship, and (5) an evaluation supplied by an AIMS administrator at the end of the internship.

Vienna, Austria. Under faculty direction, the student tutors English at a local elementary school in Vienna, Austria. Course requirements include but are not limited to: (1) a journal including a general description of the student’s responsibilities along with weekly entries that include new words, phrases and cultural literacy insights, (2) supporting portfolio of teaching materials along with summaries of activities and events conducted by the student, (3) regular consultation with Wake Forest faculty mentor in German, (4) a reflective overview composed at the end of the internship, and (5) an evaluation supplied by the head teacher at the end of the internship.

Old Salem, North Carolina. Under faculty direction, the student serves in the Old Salem Archive as a German language specialist, translating documents from German into English. Course requirements include but are not limited to: (1) faculty evaluation of work completed, (2) a portfolio of copies of translated work, (3) regular consultation with a Wake Forest faculty mentor in German, (4) an evaluation by an administrator of the Old Salem Archive.

Russian (RUS)

111. Elementary Russian I. (4h) Essentials of Russian grammar, conversation, drill, and reading of elementary texts.

153. Intermediate Russian. (4h) Principles of Russian grammar are reviewed and expanded upon; reading of short prose pieces and materials from the Russian press. P—RUS 112 or equivalent.

210. The Russians and Their World. (3h) Introduces Russian culture and society, with topics ranging from history, religion, art, and literature to contemporary Russian popular music, TV, and film. Taught in Russian. P—153 or equivalent.

212. Introduction to Russian Literature. (3h) Reading of selected short stories and excerpts from longer works by Russian authors from the 19th century to the present. P—RUS 153 or equivalent.
317. Seminar in Russian Literature. (3h) In-depth reading and discussion of shorter novels and occasional short stories by the foremost Russian authors from the 19th century to the present. P—RUS 212.

330. The Structure of Russian. (3h) The linguistic tools of phonetics, phonemics, and morphophonemics are explained and applied to modern Russian. Emphasis on the study of roots and word formation. P—POI.

332. The History of the Russian Language. (3h) The evolution of Russian from Common Slavic to the modern language; theory of linguistic reconstruction and the Indo-European family; readings from selected Old East Slavic texts. P—RUS 321 and POI.

335. Russian Culture and Civilization. (3h) Survey of Russian culture and civilization with emphasis on contemporary events, politics, and music and art. Conducted in Russian. Offered spring semester. P—RUS 321 or POI.

340. Seminar in Translation. (3h) Advanced work in English-to-Russian and Russian-to-English translation. P—RUS 321 and POI.

341. Russian Masterworks in Translation. (3h) Reading and discussion of selected works from Russian literature in English translation by such writers as Gogol, Dostoevsky, Tolstoy, Bulgakov, and Solzhenitsyn. Also listed as HMN 341. (D)

345. Special Topics in Russian. (3h) P—RUS 321 and POI.

354. Language of the Russian Press and Mass Media. (3h) Readings from Russian newspapers, magazines and the Internet, as well as exposure to Russian television and radio broadcasts. Emphasis is on improving reading and listening skills and vocabulary acquisition. P—212 or POI.

370. Individual Study. (1.5-3h) Study in language or literature beyond the 210-212 level. May be repeated for credit. P—RUS 212.

Global Trade and Commerce Studies (GTCS)

Coordinator Associate Provost for Global Affairs J. Kline Harrison

The minor in global trade and commerce studies consists of a total of 15 hours. Candidates for the minor will be required to take INS 260 (Seminar in Global Trade and Commerce Studies), preferably during their senior year, and 12 additional hours in global trade and commerce studies, which must include a study abroad experience for credit. (International students residing in the US in a non-immigrant visa status are exempt from the study abroad requirement.) No more than 6 of the 15 hours for the minor may be taken in a single discipline or within the School of Business.
The following list contains courses within Wake Forest University that qualify as a global trade and commerce studies course. Courses taken during the study abroad experience which may qualify as a GTCS course also will be reviewed and approved by the coordinator of the minor.

Required Course for Global Trade and Commerce Studies

INS 260. Seminar in Global Trade and Commerce Studies. (3h) Provides integrative knowledge in global trade and commerce. Focuses on understanding the global environment and the variety of issues associated with global trade and commerce.

Elective Courses for Global Trade and Commerce Studies

Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program coordinator maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department’s listings in this publication.

Health and Exercise Science (HES)

Chair Michael J. Berry
Thurman D. Kitchin Professor of Health and Exercise Science W. Jack Rejeski
Professors Michael J. Berry, Peter H. Brubaker, Anthony P. Marsh, Stephen P. Messier, Patricia A. Nixon
Associate Professors Jeffrey A. Katula, Shannon L. Mihalko, Gary D. Miller
Assistant Professor Kristen M. Beavers
Associate Professors of the Practice David H. Stroupe, Sharon K. Woodard
Assistant Professors of the Practice James H. Ross, Johnnie O. Talley

The purpose of the Health and Exercise Science Department is to advance knowledge through research and to disseminate the knowledge in this field of study through education of and service to humanity. The primary focus of the department is promoting health and preventing and treating disease through healthful behaviors, emphasizing physical activity and nutrition.

Health and Exercise Science Requirement

All students must complete HES 100 and 101. This requirement must be met before enrollment in additional health and exercise science 100 level HES courses, and in any case by the end of the second year.

Courses for the Major

The department offers a program leading to the bachelor of science degree in health and exercise science. A major requires 31 hours in health and exercise science and must include HES 262, 312, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 360, and 370; and 3 hours of electives from the following HES courses: 201, 202, 230, 310, 311, 320, 355, 372, 375, 376, 382, 384, 386, and 388; or from ANT 360 or 362; BIO 345, 353, 359, 361, 362, 363, 365, 366, 367, 370 or 372; CHM 370 or 373; CNS 334, 335, 337 or 340; COM 356, 357, 358 or 370 (Special Topics: Communicating for Health Behavior Change); ECN 240; HPA 150; HMN 390; MTH 256 or 257; PHI 161, 368 or 373; PSY 241, 243 or 322; SOC 335 or 336; WGS 321 (Research Seminar: Women's Health Issues), or SPM 302. Additionally, CHM 111 is a co-requirement for the degree. MTH 109 may be substituted for HES 262 with permission of the HES department chair. Students substituting MTH 109 for HES 262 are not allowed to receive credit for HES 262. Majors are not allowed to apply any HES 100-level courses toward the 31 hours required for graduation. A minimum grade point average of 2.0 is required for graduation in courses that comprise a major in the department.

Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in health and exercise science during the second semester of the junior year. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Health and Exercise Science,” a student must have a minimum grade point average of 3.4 in the major, a minimum overall grade point average of 3.2, and complete an honors research project which includes a written and an oral report. Interested students should consult the coordinator of the department's honors program. For more information, please consult the department's website at www.wfu.edu/hes.

201. Health Issues on College Campuses I. (1.5h) Introduction to concepts and methods of peer health education; development of teaching and group facilitation skills. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

202. Health Issues on College Campuses II. (1.5h) Development and delivery of educational programs on a variety of health issues relevant to college students. Pass/Fail only. P—HES 201.

232. Emergency Medical Training. (3h) Lectures and practical experiences in preparation for responding to medical emergencies, including: patient assessment; airway management; cardiopulmonary resuscitation; O₂ therapy; management of shock; trauma and environmental emergencies; and head/spine/musculoskeletal injuries. North Carolina state exam for EMT certification is offered. Pass/Fail only.

262. Statistics in the Health Sciences. (3h) Basic statistics with emphasis on application to research in the health sciences. Students are introduced to graphics and statistical software for statistical analysis. (QR)

310. Clinical Externship. (2h) Application of theory and methods of solving problems in a specialized area according to the student's immediate career goals. Open only to majors. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

311. Clinical Internship. (2h) A semester experience in the campus rehabilitation or clinical research programs. Work includes active participation with individuals and groups with clinical conditions such as heart disease, pulmonary disease, osteoarthritis, and obesity. Focus is on multiple intervention strategies, in conjunction with participation in physiologic monitoring of patients during therapeutic sessions. Open only to majors. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

312. Exercise and Health Psychology. (3h) Survey of the psychological antecedents of exercise and selected topics in health psychology with particular attention to wellness, stress, the biobehavioral basis of coronary heart disease, and the psychodynamics of rehabilitative medicine. P—HES 262 or MTH 109 or POI.

320. Mindfulness Meditation in Behavioral Medicine. (2h) Study of contemplative science in the realm of behavioral medicine. Content includes recent evidence from neuroscience and outcome research on both mindfulness-based stress reduction and mindfulness-based cognitive therapy. Taught in a seminar format with laboratory experience. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.
350. Human Physiology. (3h) Lecture course which presents the basic principles and concepts of the function of selected systems of the human body, with emphasis on the muscular, cardiovascular, pulmonary, and nervous systems. P—BIO 111, 114, or 214, or POI.

351. Nutrition in Health and Disease. (3h) Lecture/laboratory course which presents the principles of proper nutrition including an understanding of the basic foodstuffs and nutrients as well as the influence of genetics, eating behavior, and activity patterns on energy balance and weight control. Laboratory experiences examine intervention in obesity and coronary heart disease through diet analysis, methods of diet prescription, and behavior modification. P—HES 350 or POI.

352. Human Gross Anatomy. (4h) Lecture/laboratory course in which the structure and function of the musculoskeletal, neuromuscular, pulmonary, and cardiovascular systems are studied using dissected human cadavers. HES majors or POI.

353. Physiology of Exercise. (3h) Lecture course which presents the concepts and applications of the physiological response of the human body to physical activity. Acute and chronic responses of the muscular and cardiorespiratory systems to exercise are examined. Topics include exercise and coronary disease, nutrition and performance, strength and endurance training, body composition, sex-related differences, and environmental influences. P—HES 350 or POI.

354. Assessment Techniques in Health Sciences. (3h) Lecture/laboratory course to develop clinical skills and knowledge in the assessment of health in areas of exercise physiology, nutrition/metabolism, biomechanics/neuromuscular function, and health psychology. Labs emphasize use of instrumentation and analysis/interpretation of data collected on human subjects. P—HES 262 or MTH 109, HES 350 and 352; or POI. (QR)

355. Exercise Programming. (1.5h) Lecture/laboratory course which presents the scientific principles of safe and effective exercise prescription for fitness programs. P—HES 350 or POI.

360. Epidemiology. (3h) Introduction to basic epidemiologic principles and methods used to assess disease occurrence and associations between risk factors and health outcomes in human populations. Emphasis is placed on modifiable exposures (e.g. diet and physical activity) and chronic disease outcomes. National health databases are utilized to study prevalence and trends in the US population, and empirical evidence for public health recommendations is critically reviewed. P—An applied statistical methods course, such as ANT 380, BIO 380, BEM 202, HES 262, MTH 109, PSY 311, or SOC 371; or POI. (QR)

370. Biomechanics of Human Movement. (3h) Study of the mechanical principles which influence human movement, sport technique, and equipment design. P—HES 352 or POI.

372. Anatomy Dissection Laboratory. (2h) Laboratory course that involves human cadaver dissection of the musculoskeletal, neuromuscular, pulmonary, and cardiovascular systems. Open only to majors. P—POI.

375. Advanced Physiology of Exercise. (3h) Lecture course which provides an in-depth examination of the physiological mechanisms responsible for both the acute and chronic changes which occur with exercise. Included are cellular changes in response to exercise, the ventilatory response to exercise, and metabolic consequences of exercise. P—HES 353 or POI.
376. Interventions in Behavioral Medicine. (3h) Seminar course providing an overview of the development, implementation, and evaluation of interventions within the context of behavioral medicine. Attention is on behavior change theories that have served as the framework for physical activity and weight loss interventions. Hands-on experience is included with current interventions through peer counseling and case study analysis.

382. Individual Study. (1h, 1.5h, 2h) Independent study directed by a faculty adviser. Students must consult the adviser before registering for this course. Open only to majors. P—POI.

384. Special Topics in Health and Exercise Science. (1.5h, 2h, 3h) Intensive investigation of a current scientific research topic in health or exercise science with focus on a specific topic. May be repeated for credit if topic differs. P—Contingent on topic offered and POI.

386. Honors Research. (2h) Directed study and research in preparation for a major paper on a subject of mutual interest to the student and faculty honors adviser. Taken only by candidates for departmental honors. P—POI, approval of departmental honors committee, and prior completion of a 2h Individual Study.

388. Field Internship in Health Sciences. (3h) An extensive hands-on experience in a discipline of the health sciences related to the student’s career goals. This internship occurs outside the Wake Forest University community. Open only to majors. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

Courses in Basic Instruction

All the 100-level courses listed below are for 1 hour each, and they can only be taken once for credit except HES 183 which may be repeated once.

100. Lifestyle and Health. Lecture course that deals with the effect of lifestyle behaviors on various health outcomes, including cardiovascular disease, cancer, and sexually-transmitted diseases.

101. Exercise for Health. Laboratory course on physical fitness that covers weight control, cardiovascular endurance, muscular strength, and flexibility.

112. Sports Proficiency.

116. Weight Training.

150. Beginning Tennis.

151. Intermediate Tennis.

160. Beginning Golf.

163. Bowling.

170. Volleyball.

182. Beginning Ice Figure Skating.

183. Intermediate/Advanced Ice Figure Skating. May be repeated once for credit.

194. T’ai Chi.
Health Policy and Administration (HPA)

Director Professor of Health and Exercise Science Patricia A. Nixon

The health policy and administration minor is designed to give students a concentration in the area of public health policy and the study of health care delivery. It is open to all majors and places an emphasis on providing students with the analytical methods and knowledge of institutional complexity necessary to an understanding of the rapidly evolving medical industry. Students interested in either public health policy or administrative roles in health care could benefit from the minor. The coursework requires the following five courses (3 hours each), for a total of 15 hours, plus some notable prerequisites (see individual course descriptions for details):

HPA 150. Introduction to Public Health. (3h) Survey of the basic structure of the health care system in the U.S. Includes discussion of current issues of public policy toward health, organization of health care delivery, and health system reform. Serves as the introduction to the interdisciplinary minor in health policy and administration.

HPA 250. Internship in Health Policy and Administration. (3h) A semester experience in a health care policy or health care administration organization, usually taken in the spring semester of an HPA students’ senior year. Students work in conjunction with a mentor who is a researcher on a public health science research project or with an administrator in health care delivery. Students gain relevant practical experience that builds on prior coursework and provides insight into public health policy issues. Open only to senior health policy and administration students. Arranged through the HPA director the semester prior to the internship. P—HPA 150 and POI. Offered every spring.

ECN 240. Economics of Health and Medicine. (3h) Applications of the methods of economic analysis to the study of health and the health care industry. P—ECN 150, P—or C—an applied statistics course such as MTH 109 or similar course, including ANT 380, BIO 380, BEM 201, HES 262, MTH 358, or SOC 271. Offered fall semester only.

HES 360. Epidemiology. (3h) Introduction to basic epidemiologic principles and methods used to assess disease occurrence and associations between risk factors and health outcomes in human populations. Emphasis is placed on modifiable exposures (e.g. diet and physical activity) and chronic disease outcomes. National health databases are utilized to study prevalence and trends in the U.S. population, and empirical evidence for public health recommendations is critically reviewed. P—An applied statistical methods course, such as ANT 380, BIO 380, BEM 201, HES 262, MTH 109, PSY 311, or SOC 371; or POI. Offered every spring and fall semester. (QR)

Elective in Health Policy and Administration. (3h) Various cross-listed, health-related courses. Some examples of pre-approved electives are given below. Other courses that might satisfy this requirement must be approved by the HPA director.

Elective Courses for Health Policy and Administration

May choose one course from the following electives. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program director maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department’s listings in this publication.
ANT 362. Medical Anthropology. (3h)

HES 312. Exercise and Health Psychology. (3h)

HST 311. Special Topics in History. (3h) (when topic is Controversies in American Medical History)

339. Sickness and Health in American Society. (3h)

POL 216. U.S. Social Welfare Policy. (3h)

PSY 322. Psychopharmacology. (3h)

SOC 335. Sociology of Health and Illness. (3h)

WGS 321. Research Seminar. (3h) (when topic is appropriate)

Since many of the required courses involve prerequisites, students should plan ahead to ensure they can meet all of the requirements in four years. The following schedule suggestions may be helpful:

The major in history consists of a minimum of 27 hours and must include HST 390 or 392, one pre-modern history course (206, 207, 209, 217, 219, 222, 223, 230, 242, 244, 246, 253, 254, 258, 260, 268, 284, 304, 305, 307, 308, 312, 315, 316, 328, 330, 341, 344, 353 or 387) and 3 hours in each of the following three fields: European history; Latin-American, Asian, or African history; and U.S. history. History courses 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 390, 391, 392, and 395 count toward the major but cannot be used to meet the distributional or pre-modern requirements in the major. Majors may only count two 100-level courses toward the required 27 hours.

Majors may include within the required 27 hours up to 6 hours of advanced placement or comparable work and up to 6 hours of any combination of HST 395 Internship, HST 398 Individual Study, and HST 399 Directed Reading, other than the hours earned in HST 397. The student must take at least 15 hours of class work in history at Wake Forest University and have a GPA of 2.0 in history to graduate with the major.
A minor in history requires 18 hours. Minors may only count two 100-level courses toward the required 18 hours. Courses that the student elects to take pass/fail do not meet the requirements for the major or minor. The student must take at least 9 hours of class work in history at Wake Forest University.

Honors. Highly qualified majors should apply for admission to the honors program in history. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in History,” the student must complete HST 391, present an honors-quality research paper, successfully defend the paper in an oral examination, and earn an overall grade point average of 3.3 with an average of 3.5 on work in history. For additional information, students should consult members of the department.

Students contemplating graduate study should acquire a reading knowledge of one modern foreign language for the master of arts degree and two for the PhD.

101. Western Civilization to 1700. (3h) Survey of ancient, medieval, and early modern history to 1700. Focus varies with instructor. Credit cannot be received for both 101 and 103, or 101 and 106, or 101 and 111. (CD, D)

Interdisciplinary Humanities (HMN)

Director Sally Barbour
University Professor Thomas Frank
Professors Sally Barbour, Linda Nielsen
Associate Professor David P. Phillips
Assistant Professors Jose Luis Venegas, Ron Von Burg
Assistant Teaching Professor Brian Warren
Part-time Associate Teaching Professor and Coordinator of Interdisciplinary Humanities
Pathway to Medicine Thomas O. Phillips

The minor in Interdisciplinary Humanities offers students a forum in which to pursue concepts and values across the disciplines of history, philosophy, literature, classics, religion and the arts. Interdisciplinary Humanities courses focus on the study of humanist principles and on fostering interdisciplinary perspectives. Studies include the intellectual roots of both Western and non-Western civilizations, the emergence of philosophies and guiding principles that shape public discourse, and the analysis and cross-cultural study of the roles of the liberal arts in interpreting beliefs, values and individual narratives. Candidates for the minor are required to take one of the following two courses HMN 280 or 281 and one of the following three courses HMN 290, 291 or 292, in addition to 12 hours of approved courses listed below, for a total of 18 hours. When these courses are in progress, the student is assigned a minor adviser who assists in planning the remainder of the student's curriculum. Students selected for participation in the Interdisciplinary Humanities Pathway to Medicine will complete the six course minor including HMN 389 (1.5h) and 390 (1.5h).
Core courses in the minor

200. Introduction to Humanities: Themes in Literature, Culture, and Film. (3h) An introduction through literature and film to the history, principles, and concepts of the Humanities. This course will use as its framework the examination of such topics as dystopia and utopia, the influence of Classical principles on contemporary Western cultures, social justice and human rights in literature and film, and other topics central to the humanities. Literary and film analysis will explore how cultural values and beliefs are expressed in media and writing, as well as how these beliefs are manifested in popular culture. The course will include creative writing exercises that explore various literary tropes and humanistic themes. (D)

280. Comparative Studies in Classical & Biblical Traditions: Ancient. (3h) Investigates the ancient foundations of European intellectual history. Readings from the ancient Greek, Roman, Jewish, and early Christian traditions include works by authors such as Sophocles, Plato, Cicero, and Ovid, as well as selections from the Hebrew Scriptures and New Testament.

281. Comparative Studies in Classical & Biblical Traditions: Medieval & Modern. (3h) Explores the complex role of the ancient Greek, Roman, and Biblical worldviews in the formation and development of European intellectual traditions in the medieval and modern periods. Readings include works by authors such as Augustine, Aquinas, Machiavelli, Montaigne, Shakespeare, Kant, Dostoevsky, and Freud.

290. The Humanities through Film, Literature and Media. (3h) Using film, literature and media genres as tropes for analysis, this course explores new and innovative approaches to the humanities in the late 20th and early 21st century including public humanities, digital humanities, and environmental humanities. Parallel to these approaches, it examines cultural studies, interdisciplinary studies, and gender and sexuality studies as approaches for investigating social justice, environmental justice, and social action. (CD)

291. The Humanities and History: Intersections of Public History and the Public Humanities. (3h) This course explores approaches to public engagement developed in humanities disciplines including public history and public humanities. The course examines contributions of disciplines in the humanities and the liberal arts to civic discourse and to public engagement. More specifically, it focuses on public history and public humanities projects that contribute to deepened understanding of communities and their histories, cultures, and narratives. The course will culminate in the design and implementation of a local public humanities project.

292. The Environmentalist Paradigm, Eco-Feminism and Global Environmental Narratives. (3h) This course is a survey of the global spread of environmentalism, with an emphasis on its evolution as a disciplinary field that includes eco-feminism and feminist perspectives on the environment. Case studies and investigations of the roles of American women and their international counterparts in environmental history will be examined in the construction of global environmental narratives.

295. Social Entrepreneurship and the Humanities: Innovation, Public Engagement, and Social Change. (3h) Introduction to the role played by the humanities in social entrepreneurship, exploring the premise that norms can be developed for the application of the humanities, and that the knowledge derived in this process can empower and be a tool in community-based engagement and social change. Course includes a social entrepreneurial project in the local community. Also listed as ESE 321.
385. Special Topics. (1.5, 3h) Selected themes and approaches to the study of human culture that bridge disciplinary and/or national boundaries.

386. Special Topics in Literature in Translation. (1.5, 3h) Selected themes and approaches to the cross-cultural study of narrative.

International Studies (INS)

Coordinator Professor of Sociology and International Studies Ian Taplin

The minor in international studies consists of a total of 18 hours which must include INS 250 and 15 additional hours from approved international courses. Of the 15 additional hours, students must take three courses from the Global Thematic Studies category and two courses from the Regional Studies category. No more than six of the 18 hours for the minor may be taken from a single discipline. INS 250 must be taken in either the fall or spring semester of the senior year, and it must follow completion of the other aforementioned requirements. Each student is also required to have completed an approved study abroad program in which a minimum of 3 credits are earned. International students residing in the U.S. in a non-immigrant visa status are exempt from the study abroad requirement.

1. Global Thematic Studies: Three courses preferably selected from two categories.
   a. cultural studies
   b. socio-economic studies
   c. geopolitical studies
2. Regional Studies: Two courses, preferably selected from a single region.
   a. Africa  d. Latin America
   b. Asia  e. Middle East
   c. Europe

The international studies minor is designed to prepare students to operate in an increasingly globalized world whose defining traits are a myriad of transnational challenges and opportunities. The minor exposes students to a variety of transregional themes and subjects on one hand and particular knowledge of specific regions on the other. Study of a foreign language beyond the basic requirements is strongly recommended, as is study abroad. For more information contact the Center for Global Programs and Studies.

The current list of approved courses is available in the Center for Global Programs and Studies and on its website. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program coordinator maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department's listings in this publication.

140. United Nations/Model United Nations. (1.5h) Explores the history, structure, and functions of the United Nations including current economic, social, and political issues. In-depth analysis of one country in the UN and attendance at the Model UN Conference. May be taken twice for credit. Pass/Fail only.

150. Preparing for Cross-Cultural Engagement Abroad. (1h) Introduces students to theoretically-based issues and skills needed for understanding and interacting with people in other cultures. Taken in the semester before the student studies abroad. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

151. Cross-cultural Engagement Abroad. (1h) Gives students the opportunity to apply knowledge and skills gained in INS 150 to develop a better understanding of cultural variables such as value orientations, communication styles, and nonverbal communication. Taken while the student is abroad. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

152. Cross-Cultural Engagement and Re-entry. (1h) Students reflect on their experience abroad and the cultural learning that occurred there. They also develop strategies for dealing with re-entry and applying the lessons learned now and in the future. Taken in the semester after the student has studied abroad. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

153. Introduction to U.S. and University Culture. (1h-3h) This course provides students with a better understanding of the framework and cultural milieu of life in the U.S. and at U.S. universities in order to help them make sense of the cultural differences they (will) encounter in academics, customs, politics, media, and sports, among others. Taken by international students prior to or during their first semester at Wake Forest. Pass/Fail only.

154. Global Service Engagement. (3h) This interdisciplinary course focuses on understanding service engagement in a global context. Students explore the history of service, charity, and philanthropy around the world and examine the role of educational institutions, nonprofits, and governmental agencies in facilitating global service engagement. Using case studies, students consider the role of volunteers as effective global change agents, causes of and barriers to success for global service providers, and the structure and operation of international nonprofit organizations. The course also reviews various philosophical approaches to alleviating world problems and creating sustainable social change, with specific emphasis on the role of education as a tool to combat poverty and injustice. Offered in fall.
228. Individual Study. (1h-3h) Intensive research leading to the completion of an individual project conducted under the supervision of a faculty member. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing permission of an appropriate faculty member. P—POI.

229. Internship in International Studies. (1h-3h) Field work directly related to international issues in a public or private setting under the supervision of a faculty member. Related readings and an analytical paper are minimum requirements. Students are responsible for initiating the project and securing the permission of an appropriate instructor. P—POI.

250. Seminar in International Studies. (3h) Applies theoretical assumptions and methods to the analysis of international issues of contemporary relevance. Taken in senior year after fulfilment of minor requirements. P—POI. (CD)

260. Seminar in Global Trade and Commerce Studies. (3h) Provides foundational knowledge in global trade and commerce. Focuses on understanding the global environment and the variety of issues associated with global trade and commerce. P—POI.

349. Japanese and American Culture: Cross-Cultural Communication. (3h) Explores communication differences between the Japanese and the Americans. Japanese and American values, behavior, and beliefs are compared in determining effective methods for cross-cultural communication. Emphasizes factors leading to miscommunication and the development of techniques for overcoming cultural barriers. Credit not given for both INS 349 and COM 351A. Also listed as COM 351A. (CD)

363. Global Capitalism. (3h) Analysis of changing patterns of industrial organization, market, and labor relations, and institutional frameworks that have resulted from the growth of an integrated global capitalist economy. Also listed as SOC 363.

365. Technology, Culture, and Change. (3h) Examines the interrelated forces that shape change in organizations and societies; from the emergence of capitalist markets to the systems, controls, and information revolution of the 21st century. Also listed as SOC 365.

The following course does not count for the minor but is designed to provide students who have an international-related academic experience with appropriate credit.

101. Overseas Study. (1h-3h) Directed reading and/or field work as part of an approved overseas program under the supervision of the program coordinator or the Center for Global Programs and Studies. The keeping of a journal and submission of an end of program evaluation are required. P—POI.

Jewish Studies

(Minor)

Director Professor Dean Franco

The Jewish Studies Minor emphasizes Jewish history, thought, texts, literature, the arts, and traditions, and the ways that they have evolved in the context of various civilizations from antiquity to the present.

Since Jewish civilization developed as a result of its interaction with other religions and cultures, the Minor is trans-regional/national and thereby serves to link disparate fields of study that are usually examined separately. Jews and Judaism are studied within the broader context of world civilizations and the spectrum of the arts, humanities, and social sciences. In this regard, the Minor complements already existing areas of interest in a number of majors and disciplines, (such as American Ethnic Studies, History, International Studies, Medieval Studies, Politics and International Affairs, and Religious Studies to name but a few).
The interdisciplinary approach of the Minor exposes students to a wide range of disciplines and, like other established interdisciplinary minors, gives students the opportunity for synthesizing and critically reflecting on their course of study. The Jewish Studies Minor provides interested students a grounding for graduate study in the humanities, religion, and social sciences.

Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program coordinator maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department's listing in this bulletin.

Requirements. A minimum of fifteen credit hours is required to graduate with a minor in Jewish Studies. Courses for the Minor are approved by the Advisory Committee of the Jewish Studies Program. The courses must be from at least two departments, at least three must be upper level courses (200 level or above). No more than six credit hours of Hebrew or some other Jewish language can be counted toward the minimum number of courses required for the minor as determined by the program director.

Journalism (JOU)

(Minor)

Director Justin Catanoso, Associate Professor of the Practice
Associate Professors of the Practice Mary Martin Niepold, Phoebe Zerwick
Adjunct Lecturers Peter Mitchell, Beth Hunt
Part-time Lecturer Maria Henson

The minor in journalism consists of 18 hours. JOU 270 and 278 are required of all minors. JOU 270 is a pre-requisite for advanced writing courses; JOU 278 can be taken at any time. Students can complete the minor by taking four additional journalism course electives. Those completing the minor are encouraged to consider their specific interests and how best to prepare for opportunities in specialized journalism or writing. In that regard, two electives could come from upper-level, non-journalism interdisciplinary courses that would enable further specialized expertise (explanation below under electives). Pre-approval of such elective credits must be made by the director of journalism.

Journalism Courses

270. Introduction to Journalism. (3h) Fundamentals of news reporting, news writing, and news judgment. Digital skills introduced and practiced. Intensive in-class writing.

272. Editing. (3h) Fundamentals in copy editing and headline writing as it applies to print and online journalism. Applying grammar, adherence to Associated Press style, and use of photos, lay-out and news judgment to improve news and feature stories. Intensive in-class editing. P—JOU 270 or POI.

276. Niche Reporting. (3h) Special topics in specialized reporting and writing in areas such as business, health care, science, sports, environment, and public affairs. Traditional and digital skills emphasized. May be repeated twice for credit. P—JOU 270 or POI.

278. News Literacy. (3h) Exploring the difference between news and propaganda, news and opinion, bias and fairness, citizen reporting and professional journalism with a goal of training more discriminating and thoughtful producers and consumers of news. Included: historical context of the news industry.

282. Beat Reporting. (3h) Fundamentals in identifying and developing news and feature beats. Emphasis on interviewing skills, source development, story identification and writing for print and online. Digital skills such as blogging, photography, video production, and social media practiced. Highly interactive. P—JOU 270.

283. Writing for a Social Purpose. (3h) Combines writing, service learning, and entrepreneurship approaches in communication by partnering students with a local nonprofit organization to provide a range of writing solutions in print and online. Also listed as ESE 203. P—JOU 270 or POI.

284. Magazine Writing. (3h) Analysis of magazines and their audiences through tone, design, and content. Practice story pitches and writing articles of various lengths aimed at a stated magazine which students research and select. Digital skills practiced; class magazine produced. Also listed as ENG 392. P—JOU 270 or POI.
285. Niche Feature Writing. (3h) Analyzing and practicing the craft of specialized feature writing for print and online. Areas of focus: arts (theatre, film, and music), travel, food, fashion, people, lifestyle, and technology. Emphasis is on digital skills and social media. P—JOU 270.

286. Writing for Public Relations and Advertising. (1.5h, 3h) Principles and techniques of public relations and applied advertising and marketing. Students use case studies to develop public relations and advertising strategies. Also listed as COM 117.

287. Interactive Digital Media. (3h) Provides concepts and applied skills related to digital content production, digital research, use of search engine optimization and analytics, social media as a reporting and branding tool, navigating content management systems, visual storytelling and Web publishing. P—JOU 270 or POI.

289. Special Topics in Journalism. (1.5h, 3h) Study and practice of new trends and innovations in journalism or communications that allow for specialization in a particular field, such as travel writing abroad. May be repeated once for credit. P—JOU 270 or POI.

298. Internship. (1.5h) Practical experience in professional media: print, online, publishing, advertising/PR. Students work with a faculty adviser. Cannot be repeated.

299. Individual Study. (1.5h-3h) Independent study with faculty guidance. By prearrangement.

Electives for Journalism

Advanced interdisciplinary courses that enable students who are serious about a career in journalism to sharpen skills in a specific area such as, but not limited to, business reporting, broadcast journalism, science writing, health care writing, or arts writing. For example, COM 215 Broadcast Journalism and COM 309 Visual Storytelling can count as Journalism electives. Up to 6 hours (two courses) can apply to the minor. Divisionals will not apply. Pre-approval by journalism program director required in all cases.

Languages Across the Curriculum (LAC)

Coordinator Charles E. Taylor
Professor of Romance Languages Candelas Gala

Languages Across the Curriculum (LAC) is a strategy to integrate foreign language use throughout the curriculum. It facilitates the collaboration of faculty by bridging disciplinary boundaries, and it promotes the internationalization of course offerings. LAC encourages multicultural understanding and an appreciation of the place of different disciplines in a global context. It recognizes the importance of multilingualism in today’s society. Faculty and students learn how a discipline they have first studied in their native English is approached by different cultures and different linguistic codes.

Faculty members determine the most appropriate LAC model and level for their courses. For more information about the various models for LAC implementation, visit www.wfu.edu/academics/romancelanguages/related/lac.htm.
Latin-American and Latino Studies (LAS)

Director Professor of Politics and International Affairs Peter Siavelis
Reynolds Professor Luis Roniger

The minor in Latin-American and Latino studies provides an opportunity for students to undertake a multidisciplinary study of the history, culture, economics, and politics of Latin America, the Caribbean, and of the Latino population in the U.S. It consists of a total of 15 hours; 3 of these (but no more) may also count toward the student’s major. Courses applied toward other minors may also be applied toward the Latin-American and Latino Studies minor. Candidates for the minor are required to take LAS 210. Introduction to Latin-American and Latino Studies. LAS 310 if taken in Chile as part of the honors in Latin-American and Latino Studies program can also fulfill the LAS 210 requirement. In addition, candidates take 12 hours of coursework related to Latin America or to Latinos in the U.S. No more than 6 of these 12 hours may be in a single discipline.

Candidates should demonstrate proficiency in Spanish or Portuguese either by completing at least one Spanish or Portuguese course at the 200 level or by undergoing an oral proficiency interview with a member of the faculty of the Department of Romance Languages.

Five-Year BA/MA Degree Program Option. Students who choose to minor in Latin-American and Latino Studies have the opportunity to pursue a joint BA/MA program in conjunction with the Center for Latin-American Studies at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. This program allows outstanding students interested in Latin America to begin work toward an interdisciplinary master’s degree in Latin-American studies while still undergraduates at Wake Forest, and to complete both degrees within a five-year period. The bachelor of arts degree is awarded by Wake Forest, while the master’s degree is awarded by Georgetown. Interested students should contact the director of Latin-American studies or the five-year degree program coordinator.

Semester in Argentina/Chile

The Latin-American and Latino Studies minor offers a spring semester program based in Santiago, Chile with a three week study component in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Students go as a group, accompanied by a professor from the College. No particular major or minor is required for eligibility. Interested students should contact Peter Siavelis in the Politics and International Affairs Department, or visit the Center for Global Programs and Studies website at http://global.wfu.edu.

Honors in Latin-American and Latino Studies

The honors designation in Latin-American and Latino Studies is a recognition of outstanding scholarship in the area, as evidenced by academic achievement, critical thinking, intellectual initiative and deep familiarity with the culture and peoples of Latin America. To receive honors in Latin-American and Latino Studies highly qualified students must apply and be selected to complete the Chile Honors Semester which will normally be offered in the fall in Santiago, Chile. Students will undertake focused individual research in the country by participating in LAS 380, the Latin-American and Latino Studies Honors Colloquium, and pursue other related coursework. Students are required to present the research findings from their honors colloquium independent project upon return to campus. To receive honors in Latin-American and Latino Studies students must also at the time of graduation have a 3.4 GPA or higher in courses pursued for the minor and an overall GPA of 3.2 or higher. Interested students should contact Professor Peter Siavelis in the Politics and International Affairs department, or visit the Center for International Studies website at http://cis.wfu.edu.
210. Introduction to Latin-American and Latino Studies. (3h) Introduces the historical, economic, cultural, and social issues that shape Latin America. (CD)

220C. Afro-Cuban Cultural Expressions. (3h) Also listed as SPN 371 or SPA 368. Offered in Havana. (CD)

281. Contemporary Chile in Latin-American Perspective. (3h) Introduces the nature and content of contemporary Chilean politics by placing them in a wider analysis of Latin-American politics, history, society, and international relations. Normally offered in Chile unless otherwise noted.

310. Special Topics in Latin-American and Latino Studies. (3h) Selected topics in Latin-American and Latino studies; topics vary from year to year. (CD)

380. Latin-American and Latino Studies Honors Colloquium. (4h) Honors capstone colloquium consisting of varied readings and an individual research project. Normally offered in Chile unless otherwise noted.

388. Internship in Latin-American and Latino Studies. (1h, 2h, 3h) Internship course designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a faculty member in the Latin-American and Latino Studies minor. P—POI.

398. Individual Study. (1h, 2h, 3h) Reading or research course designed to meet the needs and interests of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a faculty member in the Latin-American and Latino Studies minor. P—POI.

Students may choose from the following list of electives when designing their minor. See the relevant department listings for course descriptions. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program director maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. Visit http://college.wfu.edu/las for current offerings.

Electives for Latin-American and Latino Studies

313. Tradition, Continuity and Struggle: Mexico and Central America. (3h)

342. Development Wars: Applying Anthropology. (3h)

383, 384. Field Research in Cultural Anthropology. (3h, 3h)

BIO 349. Tropical Biodiversity. (4h)

ECN 251. International Trade. (3h)

252. International Finance. (3h) (if related to Latin America)

258. Economic Growth and Development. (3h)

ENG 357. Studies in Chicano/a Fiction. (3h)

HST 104. World Civilizations since 1500. (3h) (if related to Latin America)

The interdisciplinary minor in linguistics requires LIN 150/ANT 150 Introduction to Linguistics, and 12 additional hours. Students minoring in linguistics are strongly encouraged to study foreign languages, achieving proficiency in at least one, and social and behavioral sciences. The minor may be usefully combined with a major in a foreign language, English, anthropology (or other social science), philosophy, or communication.

The 12 hours in addition to LIN 150/ANT 150 may be chosen from the following three groups: linguistics courses, historical linguistics, and related topics. It is strongly recommended that at least one course be from historical linguistics.

Students intending to minor in linguistics should consult the director, preferably during their sophomore year. Students may choose from the approved list of electives when designing their minor. For course descriptions, see the relevant department's listings in this publication. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The director maintains a complete list of all elective courses that fulfill the minor.

Linguistics Courses

150. Introduction to Linguistics. (3h) The social phenomenon of language: how it originated and developed, how it is learned and used, its relationship to other kinds of behavior; types of language (oral, written, signed) and language families; analysis of linguistic data; and social issues of language use. Also listed as ANT 150. (CD)

301. Semantics and Language in Communication. (3h) Study of how meaning is created by sign processes. Topics studied include language theory, semiotics, speech act theory, and pragmatics.

310. Sociolinguistics and Dialectology. (3h) Study of variation in language: effects of regional background, social class, ethnic group, gender, and setting; social attitudes toward language; outcomes of linguistic conflicts in the community; evolution of research methods for investigating language differences and the diffusion of change. Also listed as SOC 300. P—LIN 150/ANT 150 or POI.

330. Introduction to Psycholinguistics and Language Acquisition. (3h) Psychological and linguistic study of the mental processes underlying the acquisition and use of language; how children acquire the structure of language and how adults make use of linguistic systems.

333. Language and Gender. (3h) Uses an anthropological perspective to examine relationships between language structure, language use, persons, and social categories. Also listed as ANT 333.

337. TESOL Linguistics. (3h) Introduces the theoretical and practical linguistics resources and skills for teaching English to speakers of other languages (TESOL) within the U.S. or abroad. Also listed as EDU 337. P—LIN 150/ANT 150 or ENG 304 or POI; knowledge of a second language is recommended.

340. Topics in Linguistics. (3h) Interdisciplinary study of selected topics, such as morphology, phonology/phonetics, syntax, historical linguistics, history of linguistic theory, semiotics, and ethnolinguistics, issues in Asian linguistics, language and gender. May be repeated for credit if topic varies. P—LIN 150/ANT 150 or POI.
350. Language, Indigeneity and Globalization. (3h) Taking a global case-study approach, this seminar explores the role language plays in contemporary identity formation and expression, from indigenous to transnational contexts. Addresses relationships among language and: colonialism, postcolonialism, nationalism, cultural revitalization, standardization, social and economic inequality, boundary-formation, and processes of cultural inclusion and exclusion. Also listed as ANT 350. (CD)

351. Comparative Communication. (1.5h, 3h) Comparison of communicative and linguistic processes in one or more national cultures with those of the U.S. Also listed as COM 351. (CD)

351A Japan (CD)       351D Multiple Countries (CD)
351B Russia (CD)      351E China (CD)
351C Great Britain (CD)

352. Linguistics of Cross-Cultural Communication. (3h) Introduction to the nature of language, communicative practices, nonverbal communication, and their cross-cultural variability. Teaches awareness of and respect for a range of culturally-specific communicative practices and provides analytic skills (linguistic, semiotic, and ethnographic) with which to recognize and assess such practices. This course differs from COM 350 (Intercultural Communication) in its greater emphasis on approaches from linguistics and anthropology. (CD)

354. Field Methods in Linguistic Anthropology. (4h) Trains students in basic skills of collecting and analyzing linguistic data at the levels of phonetics-phonology, grammar, lexico-semantics, discourse, and sociocultural context. Students will learn about the research questions that drive linguistic fieldwork as well as the relevant methods, tools, and practical and ethical concerns. Also listed as ANT 354. P—ANT/LIN 150 or POI.

375. Philosophy of Language. (3h) Study of such philosophical issues about language as truth and meaning, reference and description, proper names, indexicals, modality, tense, the semantic paradoxes, and the differences between languages and other sorts of sign systems. Also listed as PHI 375. P—POI.

380. Language Use and Technology. (3h) Introduction to the fundamental concepts of creating and accessing large linguistic corpora (electronic collections of “real world” text) for linguistic inquiry. Course surveys a variety of cross-discipline efforts that employ corpus data for research and explores current applications. P—POI.

383. Language Engineering: Localization and Terminology. (3h) Introduction to the process of making a product linguistically and culturally appropriate to the target locale, and to computer-assisted terminology management. Surveys applications in translation technology. P—POI.

398, 399. Individual Study. (1h-3h, 1h-3h) Designed to meet the needs of selected students, to be carried out under the supervision of a faculty member in the linguistics minor program. P—LIN 150/ANT 150 and POI.

A major in mathematics or in mathematical statistics can be achieved by satisfying the requirements listed for either the bachelor of arts or bachelor of science. Lower division students are urged to consult a member of the departmental faculty before enrolling in courses other than those satisfying Division V requirements.

The bachelor of arts in mathematics requires MTH 112, 113, 117, 121, 321, one of 214,311 or 317, and at least four additional 3-hour courses numbered higher than 109 (excluding 205, 306, and 381), at least two of which must be numbered above 300.
The bachelor of arts in mathematical statistics requires MTH 112, 113, 117, 121, 256, 357, 358, 367, one of 214, 311, 317, 321, 324, 326, 334, or 355, and two additional 3-hour courses numbered 200 or above (excluding 205, 306, and 381) of which at least one must be numbered above 300.

The bachelor of science in mathematics requires MTH 112, 113, 117, 121, 311, 321, 391, and 392 with at least six additional 3-hour courses numbered higher than 109 (excluding 205, 306, and 381), at least three of which must be numbered above 300.

The bachelor of science in mathematical statistics requires MTH 112, 113, 117, 121, 256, 311, 357, 358, 367, 391, 392; with at least three additional 3-hour courses numbered 200 or above (excluding 205, 306, and 381) of which at least one must be numbered above 300. Additionally, the research and paper prepared for 391 and 392 must be on a topic related to statistics.

The bachelor of science in interdisciplinary mathematics requires MTH 112, 113, 117, 121, 311 or 321, 391 and 392, as well as seven additional 3 to 4-hour classroom courses (not individual studies). These seven courses must be in math or the focused collateral area and must consist of at least three math courses above 116 with at least one being at the 300 level or above; also, the seven courses must consist of at least three focused collateral courses at the 200 level or above. These collateral courses require approval by an advisory committee, and they cannot be double counted for any other major at the University. Finally, the 391/392 senior project should have some ties to the collateral area.

A minor in mathematics requires MTH 112, either 113 or 121, and four other courses of at least 3 hours each numbered higher than MTH 105, two of which must be numbered above 200. Credit is allowed for either MTH 107 or 109, but not both.

A minor in statistics requires
a. MTH 256;
b. MTH 357 or 362 or 367;
c. One additional course taken from MTH 257, 269, 353, 357, 358, 362, 364, 367, 369, or other approved course;
d. Three additional courses chosen from MTH 109, 112, 113, 117, 121, 257, 269, 353, 357, 358, 362, 364, 367, 369; ANT 380; BIO 380; BEM 201, 202, 324; COM 220, ECN 209, 215; FIN 203; HES 262, 360; POL 280, PSY 310, 311, 312; SOC 271.

A minimum grade point average of 2.0 in courses which comprise a major or minor in the department is required for graduation with any major or minor which the department offers. Students may major in the department and minor in statistics but no electives may be counted for both. Students may not major in the department and minor in mathematics or double-major within the department.

The department regularly schedules activities in mathematics for students that enhance the course offerings. Examples are participation in the annual Putnam examination and the COMAP contest in mathematical modeling; meetings of the mathematics club; seminars and courses which build upon the regularly scheduled course offerings; and student research with faculty.

The Bachelor of Science Degree in Mathematical Economics. The Department of Mathematics and the Department of Economics offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical economics. This interdisciplinary program offers the student an opportunity to apply mathematical methods to the development of economic theory, models, and quantitative analysis. The major has the following course requirements: MTH 112, 113, 121, 254, 255; ECN 150, 205, 207, 210, 211, 215, 218; and three additional (3h) courses chosen with the approval of the program advisers. Students selecting the joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Mathematics and the Department of Economics.
The Bachelor of Science Degree in Mathematical Business. The Department of Mathematics and the School of Business offer a joint major leading to a bachelor of science degree in mathematical business. This interdisciplinary program, consisting of no more than 48 hours, prepares students for careers in business with a strong background in mathematics. The major has the following course requirements: MTH 205 or both 113 and 206, or both 113 and 121; 253, 256, and 353; ACC 221; BEM 211, 221, 241, 251, 261, 388, 392; FIN 231 and a minimum of two additional (3h) courses chosen from among mathematics and business, not both courses chosen from business, with the mathematics courses being chosen from 3-hour courses at the 300 level or higher, excluding 381. The following courses are prerequisites for admission into this major: MTH 112, ACC 111, and ECN 150. CSC 111, 112, and MTH 251 are strongly recommended electives. Students electing this joint major must receive permission from both the Department of Mathematics and the School of Business. To graduate from Wake Forest University with a major in mathematical business, the student must satisfy the requirements for graduation of both the Department of Mathematics and the School of Business. Refer to the description in this bulletin for the admission, continuation, and graduation requirements of the School of Business.

Honors in Mathematics, Mathematical Statistics, and Mathematical Business. To be graduated with the designation "Honors in Mathematics," "Honors in Mathematical Statistics," or "Honors in Mathematical Business," students must satisfactorily complete a senior research paper, and they must have a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the major and 3.0 in all college coursework. For additional information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Honors in Mathematical Economics. Students who have a GPA of at least 3.0 overall and 3.3 in courses in the mathematical economics major and who complete the research course ECN 298 or MTH 391 and 392 with a minimum grade of B- will be considered by the faculty for the graduation distinction, “Honors in Mathematical Economics.”

Students who are enrolled at Wake Forest may not take courses in mathematics at other institutions to satisfy divisional requirements.

105. Fundamentals of Algebra and Trigonometry. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Review of the essentials of algebra and trigonometry. Admission by permission only (generally, a student must have taken fewer than three years of high school mathematics to be eligible for admission). Not to be counted towards any major or minor offered by the department.

105L. Fundamentals of Algebra and Trigonometry Lab. (1h or 2h) A review of the essentials of algebra and trigonometry in a guided laboratory setting. Admission by permission only. Not to be counted towards any major or minor offered by the department. Pass/Fail only.

107. Explorations in Mathematics. (4h) Introduction to mathematical reasoning and problem solving. Topics vary by instructor and may include one or more of the following: knot theory, Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometry, set theory, cryptography, discrete models, number theory, discrete mathematics, chaos theory, probability, and MAPLE programming. Lab. (D, QR)

111. Calculus with Analytic Geometry I. (4h) Functions, trigonometric functions, limits, continuity, differentiation, applications of derivatives, introduction to integration, and the fundamental theorem of calculus. Lab. (D, QR)

112. Calculus with Analytic Geometry II. (4h) Techniques of integration, indeterminate forms, improper integrals, transcendental functions, sequences, Taylor's formula, and infinite series, including power series. Lab. (D, QR)
113. Multivariable Calculus. (4h) The calculus of vector functions, including geometry of Euclidean space, differentiation, extrema, line integrals, multiple integrals, and Green's, Stokes', and divergence theorems. Credit not allowed for both 113 and 205. Lab. (D, QR)

117. Discrete Mathematics. (4h) Introduction to various topics in discrete mathematics applicable to computer science including sets, relations, Boolean algebra, propositional logic, functions, computability, proof techniques, graph theory, and elementary combinatorics. Lab. (D, QR)

121. Linear Algebra I. (4h) Vectors and vector spaces, linear transformations and matrices, determinants, eigenvalues, and eigenvectors. Credit not allowed for both 121 and 205. Lab. (D, QR)

165. Problem-Solving Seminar. (1h) Weekly seminar designed for students who wish to participate in mathematical competition such as the annual Putnam examination. Not to be counted toward any major or minor offered by the department. May be repeated for credit. Pass/Fail only.

205. Applied Multivariable Mathematics. (4h) Introduction to several topics in applied mathematics including complex numbers, probability, matrix algebra, multivariable calculus, and ordinary differential equations. Warning: Not to be counted toward any major or minor offered by the department except for the major in mathematical business. Credit not allowed for both 205 and 121, or for both 205 and 113. Lab. P—MTH 112 or POI.

206. Applied Matrix Algebra and Topics. (2h) Matrices, determinants, solutions of linear equations, special matrices, eigenvalues and eigenvectors of matrices. Additional topics will be covered as time permits. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department except for the major in mathematical business. Credit not allowed for both MTH 206 and 121. Credit not allowed for both MTH 206 and 205. P—MTH 111 or POI.

214. Multivariable Analysis. (3h) Functions between Euclidean spaces, multivariable limits, differentiation, change of variables, line and surface integrals, vector fields, integration theorems for vector fields, Implicit & Inverse Function Theorems, Contraction Mapping Theorem, applications, other selected topics from analysis in multiple dimensions. P—MTH 113 and MTH 121, or Math 205.

243. Codes and Cryptography. (3h) Essential concepts in coding theory and cryptography. Congruences, cryptosystems, public key, Huffman codes, information theory, and other coding methods. P—MTH 117 or POI. (D)

251. Ordinary Differential Equations. (3h) Linear equations with constant coefficients, linear equations with variable coefficients, and existence and uniqueness theorems for first order equations. P—MTH 112 or POI. (D, QR)

253. Operations Research. (3h) Mathematical models and optimization techniques. Studies in allocation, simulation, queuing, scheduling, and network analysis. P—MTH 111 and MTH 121, 205 or 206 or POI. (D, QR)

254. Optimization Theory. (1.5h) Unconstrained and constrained optimization problems, Lagrange multiplier methods, sufficient conditions involving bordered Hessians, inequality constraints, Kuhn-Tucker conditions, and applications primarily to problems in economics. P—MTH 113 and 121 or POI.

255. Dynamical Systems. (1.5h) Introduction to optimal control, including the Pontryagin maximum principle, and systems of nonlinear differential equations, particularly phase space methods. Applications to problems in economics, including optimal management of renewable resources. P—MTH 113 and 121 or POI.
256. Statistical Models. (3h) A project-oriented course emphasizing data analysis, with introductions to nonparametric methods, multiple and logistic regression, model selection, design, categorical data or Bayesian methods. P—MTH 109, ANT 380, BIO 380, BEM 201 or 202, HES 262, PSY 311
or 312, SOC 271, or POI. (D, QR)

257. Design and Sampling. (3h) Experimental designs, sample size and power determination, survey design, and estimation with stratified, cluster, and other sampling schemes. P—MTH 109 or 256 or POI. (D)

269. Topics in Statistics. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Topics in statistics not considered in regular courses or which continue study begun in regular courses. Content varies.

283. Topics in Mathematics. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Topics in mathematics not considered in regular courses or which continue study begun in regular courses. Content varies.

306. Advanced Mathematics for the Physical Sciences. (3h) Advanced topics in linear algebra, special functions, integral transforms, and partial differential equations. Not to be counted toward any major offered by the department except for the major in mathematical business. P—MTH 205 or POI.

311, 312. Introductory Real Analysis I, II. (3h, 3h) Limits and continuity in metric spaces, sequences and series, differentiation and Riemann-Stieltjes integration, uniform convergence, power series and Fourier series, differentiation of vector functions, implicit and inverse function theorems.
P—MTH 117 or POI. (D)

317. Complex Analysis I. (3h) Analytic functions, Cauchy’s theorem and its consequences, power series, and residue calculus. Credit not allowed for both 303 and 317. P—MTH 113 or POI. (D)

321. Modern Algebra I. (3h) Introduction to modern abstract algebra through the study of groups, rings, integral domains, and fields. P—MTH 121 or POI. (D)

322. Modern Algebra II. (3h) Continuation of modern abstract algebra through the study of additional properties of groups, rings, and fields. P—MTH 117 and 321, or POI. (D)

324. Linear Algebra II. (3h) Thorough treatment of vector spaces and linear transformations over an arbitrary field, canonical forms, inner product spaces, and linear groups. P—MTH 121 and 321 or
POI. (D)

326. Numerical Linear Algebra. (3h) Numerical methods for solving matrix and related problems in science and engineering using a high-level matrix-oriented language such as MATLAB. Topics include systems of linear equations, least squares methods, and eigenvalue computations. Special emphasis given to applications. Also listed as CSC 352. P—MTH 112 and MTH 205 or 206 or POI. (D)

331. Geometry. (3h) Introduction to axiomatic geometry including a comparison of Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometries. P—MTH 117 or POI. (D)

334. Differential Geometry. (3h) Introduction to the theory of curves and surfaces in two and three dimensional space, including such topics as curvature, geodesics, and minimal surfaces.
P—MTH 113 or POI. (D)

345. Elementary Number Theory. (3h) Properties of integers, congruences, and prime numbers, with additional topics chosen from arithmetic functions, primitive roots, quadratic residues, Pythagorean triples, and sums of squares. P—MTH 117 (D)
346. Modern Number Theory. (3h) A selection of number-theory topics of recent interest. Some examples include elliptic curves, partitions, modular forms, the Riemann zeta function, and algebraic number theory. P—MTH 117 (D)

348, 349. Combinatorial Analysis I, II. (3h, 3h) Enumeration techniques, generating functions, recurrence formulas, the principle of inclusion and exclusion, Polya theory, graph theory, combinatorial algorithms, partially ordered sets, designs, Ramsey theory, symmetric functions, and Schur functions. P—MTH 117 or POI. (D)

352. Partial Differential Equations. (3h) Detailed study of partial differential equations, including the heat, wave, and Laplace equations, using methods such as separation of variables, characteristics, Green's functions, and the maximum principle. P—MTH 113 and 251 or POI. (D)

353. Probability Models. (3h) Introduction to probability models, Markov chains, Poisson processes and Markov decision processes. Applications will emphasize problems in business and management science. P—Math 111, and Math 121 or 205 or 206, or POI. (D)

354. Discrete Dynamical Systems. (3h) Introduction to the theory of discrete dynamical systems as applied to disciplines such as biology and economics. Includes methods for finding explicit solutions, equilibrium and stability analysis, phase plane analysis, analysis of Markov chains, and bifurcation theory. P—MTH 112 and 121 or POI. (D)

355. Introduction to Numerical Methods. (3h) Numerical computations on modern computer architectures; floating point arithmetic and round-off error. Programming in a scientific/engineering language such as MATLAB, C, or FORTRAN. Algorithms and computer techniques for the solution of problems such as roots of functions, approximation, integration, systems of linear equations and least squares methods. Also listed as CSC 355. P—MTH 112 and MTH 121, 205 or 206 or POI. (D)

357. Probability. (3h) Probability distributions, mathematical expectation, and sampling distributions. MTH 357 covers much of the material on the syllabus for the first actuarial exam. P—MTH 113 or 205 or POI. (D)

358. Mathematical Statistics. (3h) Derivation of point estimators, hypothesis testing, and confidence intervals, using both maximum likelihood and Bayesian approaches. P—MTH 357 or POI. (D)

362. Multivariate Statistics. (3h) Multivariate and generalized linear methods for classification, modeling, discrimination, and analysis. P—MTH 121 or 205 or 206, and MTH 256 or POI. (D)

364. Computational and Nonparametric Statistics. (3h) Computationally intensive methods to fit statistical models to data. Topics include simulation, Monte Carlo integration and Markov Chain Monte Carlo, sub-sampling, and non-parametric estimation and regression. Students will make extensive use of statistical software throughout the course. P—MTH 109 or 256, and MTH 357, or POI. (D)

367. Linear Models. (3h) Theory of estimation and testing in linear models. Topics include least squares and the normal equations, the Gauss-Markov Theorem, testing general linear hypotheses, and generalized linear models. P—MTH 121 or 205 or 206, and MTH 256 or 357. (D)

369. Advanced Topics in Statistics. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Topics in statistics not considered in regular courses or which continue study begun in regular courses. Content varies.
381. Individual Study. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Independent study directed by a faculty adviser. By prearrangement.

383. Advanced Topics in Mathematics. (1h, 2h, or 3h) Topics in mathematics not considered in regular courses or which continue study begun in regular courses. Content varies.

391. Senior Seminar Preparation. (1h) Independent study or research directed by a faculty adviser by prearrangement with the adviser.

392. Senior Seminar Presentation. (1h) Preparation of a paper, followed by a 1-hour oral presentation based upon work in MTH 391.

Medieval Studies

Coordinator, Reynolds Professor of English Herman Rapaport

The interdisciplinary minor in medieval studies requires 18 hours, chosen from at least three different departments. Courses from the student’s major may count in the minor. Students are encouraged, but not required, to attend the six-week Summer Medieval Program at Oxford University in England, for which they receive 4.5 hours (two courses) which count toward the minor. (For details about application to the Oxford program, and possible financial aid, consult Gale Sigal in the English department.)

Courses may be chosen from the following list. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program coordinators maintain a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department’s listings in this publication.

Students intending to minor in medieval studies should consult one of the coordinators, preferably during the sophomore year.

(Interdisciplinary Minor)

Co-directors
Professor of Politics and International Affairs Charles H. Kennedy
Associate Professor of Politics and International Affairs Michelle Browers

The Middle East and South Asia studies minor provides students with an opportunity to engage in a multidisciplinary study of the history, politics, literature, peoples, and cultures of the Middle East and South Asia. To fulfill the minor, students must complete 18 hours from an approved list of courses. Students may count no more than 10 hours from any of the foreign language offerings toward the minor.

Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program’s co-directors maintain a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department’s listings in this publication. Some courses relevant to the minor are not taught on a regular basis; others are offered by visiting or temporary faculty.

Military Science (MIL)

ARMY

Professor Major Joseph Ljubicic (Interim)

Assistant Professors Jason Pardue, Captain John Topper, Master Sergeant Dwayne Cordier, Mr. R. Taylor Irwin

Executive Officer Captain Fredrick Teeter

Completion of Army Reserve Officers’ Training Corps (AROTC) requirements and recommendation for appointment by the Professor of military science may result in commissioning as a second lieutenant in the active or reserve force components of the Army of the United States, as determined by the Secretary of the Army.

The AROTC program is composed of the basic course and the advanced course. The basic course consists of four classes. No military obligation is incurred by enrollment in the basic course, except by Army ROTC Scholarship cadets. The basic course may be completed, partially or fully, by three alternative methods: previous attendance of military initial entry training, a six-week long Cadet Initial Entry Training (CIET), or constructive credit for other military service determined appropriate by the professor of military science. Leadership Laboratory (117, 118) is encouraged but not required as a co-requisite for cadets not on scholarship.
The advanced course consists of four classes (225, 226, 227, and 228). Advanced Leadership Laboratory (119, 120) is required for all advanced courses. Enrollment in the advanced AROTC courses is only for students having signed a service obligation which they will fulfill after graduation with the United States Army, Army Reserve, or Army National Guard, and a five-week Leader Development and Assessment Course, usually attended during the summer between the junior and senior years. Army ROTC scholarships are available to qualified applicants (both those already enrolled in the AROTC program and those not yet enrolled) through annual competition.

114. Leadership. (1.5h) Examination of the fundamentals contributing to the development of a personal style of leadership with emphasis on the dimensions of junior executive management; specifically in the areas of business, politics, sports, and the military.

117, 118. Basic Leadership Laboratory. (0h) Basic military skills instruction designed to technically and tactically qualify the student for assumption of an officer leadership position at the small-unit level. Students learn skills necessary to operate in a military environment and how to accomplish tasks outside of the classroom setting. Focus is on teamwork, communication skills, and application of basic military principles. Either MIL 117 (fall) or 118 (spring) is required each semester for contracted AROTC cadets (including those conditionally contracted), and advance designee scholarship winners.

119,120. Advanced Leadership Laboratory. (1h) Focuses on practical application of time management, small unit organization, communication, and the use of concepts learned in class to accomplish assigned missions. Laboratory sessions can be tactical (conducting a small unit mission) or managerial (solving an organizational problem). Grading is based on performance in leadership positions, teamwork, and application of principles from class instruction. MIL 227 and 228 cadets will be required to plan training scenarios conducted in lab, supervise sessions, and build teams and future leaders through assessment and feedback. MIL 225 and 226 cadets will conduct training and be evaluated on their application of tactical and managerial skills learned in military science classes to solve problems or complete tactical missions. MIL 119 and 120 may be repeated once for credit.

121. Leadership and Personal Development. (1.5h) Introduction to the personal challenges and competencies critical for effective leadership. Cadets learn how the personal development of life skills such as critical thinking, goal setting, time management, physical fitness, and stress management relate to leadership, officership, and the Army profession.

122. Introduction to Tactical Leadership. (3h) Introduction to Army terms, philosophies, and basic leadership concepts. Builds individual skills and knowledge applicable to Army operations, both tactical and organizational, in order to develop students into exceptional leaders.

123. Innovative Team Leadership. (3h) Explores the dimensions of creative and innovative tactical leadership strategies and styles by examining team dynamics and two historical leadership theories that form the basis of the Army leadership framework (trait and behavior theories). Cadets practice aspects of personal motivation and team building in the context of planning, executing, and assessing team exercises and participating in leadership labs.

124. Foundations of Tactical Leadership. (3h) Examines the challenges of leading tactical teams in the complex contemporary operating environment. Highlights dimensions of terrain analysis, patrolling, operation orders, cultural considerations, unit dynamics, interaction with the media and care for subordinate’s physical and mental well-being. Places lessons learned from MIL 124 on the Army leadership framework and the dynamics of adaptive leadership in the context of military operations to prepare cadets for leadership roles as they enter the advanced courses.
225. Adaptive Team Leadership. (3h) Challenges cadets to study, practice, and evaluate adaptive leadership skills as they are presented with challenging scenarios related to squad tactical operations. Cadets receive systematic and specific feedback on their leadership attributes and actions. Based on such feedback, as well as their own self evaluations, cadets continue to develop their leadership and critical thinking abilities. The focus is developing cadets’ tactical and managerial leadership abilities to enable them to succeed at ROTC’s summer Cadet Leadership Course (CLC). P—MIL 121 through 124 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science).

226. Leadership in Changing Environments. (3h) Uses increasingly challenging leadership opportunities to build cadet confidence and skills when leading tactical and garrison operations up to platoon level. Cadets review aspects of combat, stability, support, and humanitarian operations. They also conduct military briefings and develop proficiency in garrison operation orders. Focus is on exploring, evaluating, and developing skills in decision-making, persuading, and motivating team members in the contemporary operating environment. Cadets are evaluated on what they know and do as leaders as they prepare to attend the ROTC summer Cadet Leadership Course (CLC). P—MIL 121 through 225 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science).

227. Adaptive Leadership. (3h) Transitions the focus from being trained, mentored and evaluated as a cadet to learning how to train, mentor and evaluate underclass cadets. Cadets will learn the duties and responsibilities of an Army staff officer and apply the Military Decision Making Process, Army writing style and the Army’s principles of training and training management. Cadets will learn about the special trust proposed by the U.S. Constitution to Army Officers—a trust above and beyond other professions. Cadets will learn Army values and ethics and how to apply them to everyday life as well as in the Contemporary Operating Environment. The cadets will learn about the officer’s role in the Uniform Code of Military Justice, counseling subordinates, administrative actions and methods on how to best manage their career as an Army officer. P—MIL 121 through 226 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science).

228. Leadership in a Complex World. (3h) Continuation of MIL 227 with emphasis on the transition from cadet to officer. Explores the dynamics of leading military operations in the complex environment facing military officers. Cadets examine differences in customs and courtesies, military law, principles of war, and Rules of Engagement in the face of international terrorism. They also explore aspects of interacting with non-government organizations, civilians on the battlefield, and host nation support. Cadets will gain a hands-on working foundation of knowledge regarding government and military policy based on hands-on case study scenarios involving current and past actors (military officers, government officials, etc.). P—MIL 121 through 227 (or equivalent credit as determined by the professor of military science).

229. American Military History. (3h) The American military experience with emphasis on the ideas and activities contributing to the development of the United States’ unique military establishment. Particular emphasis on civilian control of the military. Credit not allowed for both MIL 229 and HST 369. P—POI.

AIRFORCE

In addition to AROTC, students may participate in the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) Program through North Carolina A&T State University in Greensboro in order to receive a commission as an active duty second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force (USAF). The department offers a four-year program where students enroll at the beginning of their freshman year and continue through award of a bachelor’s degree. The four-year program can be modified for students up until the beginning of the spring semester of a student’s sophomore year.
Freshmen or sophomore students attend a 1-hour class and a 2-hour leadership laboratory each week in addition to two 1-hour physical training sessions. Students who compete favorably for the award of an Enrollment Allocation will attend a four-week summer field training program at Maxwell Air Force Base, AL. During the junior and senior years, students attend 3 hours of class, a 2-hour leadership laboratory, and two 1-hour physical training sessions.

For more information on the AFROTC Program, contact any instructor or the Unit Admissions Officer in the Department of Aerospace Studies, Campbell Hall, North Carolina A&T State University, telephone (336.334.7707). For course offerings visit www.ncat.edu/~afrotc.

Lecturer Ulrike Anton (Vienna)

The Department of Music offers two majors, one in music performance, requiring 38 hours, and a second in music in liberal arts, requiring 41 hours. Students who choose one of these majors may not choose the other as a second major. Both majors include a basic curriculum of music theory (16 hours of MUS 171, 172, 173, 174) and music history (9 hours of MUS 181, 182, 183), and four semesters of MUS 100. Students in both majors are encouraged to consider PHY 115 (The Physics of Music) for one of their Division V requirements.

Major in Music in Liberal Arts. In addition to the basic curriculum, the major in music in liberal arts requires 3 hours of individual instruction (MUS 161 or 162), 3 hours of ensembles (excluding MUS 128 and 129), taken in three semesters; 7 hours of elective courses in music—including ensembles and MUS 101, 104, 109, 131, 161-162, 165-168, 175, 177, 262—and a performance proficiency examination. The major in music in liberal arts must complete a senior project (MUS 397 or 398). To undertake the senior project, a student must have a grade point average of 2.0 in courses in the major.

Major in Music Performance. To be admitted to the major in music performance, a student must first successfully complete MUS 171 and then pass an audition before the entire music faculty. The audition should be completed during the sophomore year in order to fulfill during the third and fourth years the number of hours above the 100 level required of the performance major. Students who audition are required to (1) demonstrate technical skill when appropriate to the instrument, (2) perform standard repertoire, and (3) sight-read. All of the required areas must be deemed strong enough by a majority vote of the faculty for the student to be accepted as a major in music performance. In addition to the basic curriculum, the major in music performance requires 6 hours of individual instruction above the 100 level (MUS 262 and either 362 or 363), which require as a prerequisite the successful completion of an audition; 4 hours of ensembles (excluding MUS 119, 128, and 129), taken in four semesters; and 3 hours of elective courses in music, excluding ensembles and MUS 101, 104, 109, 131, 161-162, 165-168, 175, 177, 262. The major in music performance must present a senior recital. To undertake the senior recital, a student must have a grade point average of 2.0 in courses in the major.

Students considering a major in music performance or music in liberal arts are urged to begin their musical studies during the first year and should consult the chair of the department as soon as possible after entering the University. Highly motivated students who would like to further expand or apply their study beyond the normal course offerings may undertake internships or independent study, if they fulfill the minimum overall GPA of 2.75.

Honors. Highly qualified majors in music performance or music in liberal arts may be invited by the music faculty to apply for admission to honors in music. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Music,” a candidate must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.0, and a grade point average of at least 3.5 in courses in the major, be selected for this honor by the music faculty, and successfully complete either MUS 363 or 398. More information is available from the music department.

A minor in music requires 19 hours: MUS 171, 172; one course from MUS 181, 182, 183; 2 hours of ensemble (excluding MUS 128, 129), taken in two semesters; 2 hours of individual instruction; three semesters of MUS 100; and 4 hours of elective courses in music, three of which must be in music in liberal arts, excluding MUS 100, 101, 104, and 109. Each minor is assigned an adviser in the music department and is encouraged to begin individual lessons, MUS 171, and MUS 100 as early as possible.

Regarding ensemble requirements for the majors and minor in music, students who are singers must fulfill the ensemble requirement by enrolling in MUS 114, 115 and/or 116. Students who play a band or orchestral instrument must fulfill the ensemble requirement by performing on their primary instrument in MUS 112, 113, 118, and/or 121. Performers on keyboard instruments are strongly encouraged to enroll in one of the above ensembles, but may also fulfill the ensemble requirement through participation in chamber music (MUS 120).

General Music

128. Athletic Band I. Performs at most football games and men’s and women’s home basketball games. Meets twice weekly. Regular performances on and off campus. Offered in fall.
129. Athletic Band II. (0.5h) Performs at men's and women's home basketball games, and at the spring football game. Class held once weekly. Meets from the beginning of the semester to spring break. P—MUS 128 or POI.

Performance Study

Courses in individual instruction are open to students with the permission of the instructor on a space available-basis. (See the fee section of this bulletin for specific information regarding cost.) Students in individual instruction who do not have basic knowledge of notation and rhythm are advised to enroll in MUS 104 either prior to or in conjunction with individual instruction. All classes in this section may be repeated for credit unless noted.

108. Alexander Technique for Musical Performers. (0.5h) Educational process that uses verbal and tactile feedback to teach improved use of the student's body by identifying and changing poor and inefficient habits that cause stress, fatigue, and pain in the musical performer. Designed to teach the performer to minimize physical effort and maximize expression. Meets 2 hours per week. Pass/Fail only.

122. Music Theatre Practicum. (1h) For musicians who perform in a departmentally-sponsored theatrical production (when their performance is not as a member of a departmental ensemble). May not be counted toward the majors or minor in music. Credit may be earned in a given semester for either MUS 122 or THE 283, but not both. Course may be repeated for no more than 4 hours. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

123. Woodwind Doubling. (1h) Practical skills for woodwind instrumentalists who participate in musical theatre productions for which expertise on more than one instrument is required.

126. Afro-Cuban Drumming. (1h) Exploration of the music and history of West African drumming through hands-on experience. Students learn to play jembe, dunun, shekere, iron bell, and their New World descendants, the conga drum, bongo, claves, maracas, and agogo bells.

161. Individual Instruction. (0.5h) Technical studies and repertoire of progressive difficulty selected to meet the needs and abilities of the student. One half-hour lesson per week. (See the fee section of this bulletin for specific information regarding additional costs.) Does not fulfill the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. May be repeated for credit. P—POI.

162. Individual Instruction. (1h) One 1-hour lesson per week. (See the fee section of this bulletin for specific information regarding additional costs.) Does not fulfill the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. May be repeated for credit. P—POI.

165j. Brass Rudiments. (0.5h) Introduction to the fundamentals of playing brass instruments. Designed for students with musical experience as well as beginners with no prior musical training. Offered in spring. P—POI.
165q. Class Percussion. (0.5h) Introduction to the fundamentals of playing percussion instruments. Includes an introduction to reading music as well as basic techniques on instruments of the percussion family. P—POI.

166v. Class Voice II. (0.5h) Continuation of fundamental vocal techniques. P—MUS 165v or POI.

168v. Theatrical Singing II: Class Voice. (0.5h) Continuation of theatrical singing techniques with increased study and performance of musical theatre repertoire. One hour per week. P—MUS 167v or POI.

177v. Advanced Theatrical Singing. (1h) Development of advanced theatrical singing technique and performance of musical theatre repertoire. Limited to eight students. Two hours per week; may be repeated. P—MUS 168v or POI.

178. Class Piano I. (1h) Class piano for beginners. Pentascales in all keys, all major and minor chords, arpeggios, improvisation, technique, introduction to music notation through playing pieces in various styles appropriate to the beginning level.

179. Class Piano II. (1h) Continuation of foundational principles. Early intermediate repertoire, scales hands together, principles of fingering, musical approach to learning, chords, arpeggios, and ensemble duets. P—MUS 178 or POI.

190. Diction for Singers. (1.5h) Study of articulation in singing, with emphasis on modification of English; pronunciation of Italian, German, and French. Development of articulatory and aural skills with use of the international phonetic alphabet. Individual performance and coaching in class. Two hours per week. May not be repeated for credit.

262. Individual Instruction. (1.5h) One 1-hour lesson per week. (See the fee section of this bulletin for specific information regarding additional costs.) Fulfills the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. May be repeated for credit. P—2 hours of MUS 161 and/or 162, plus successful completion of the audition for the major in musical performance, and POI.

362. Senior Recital. (3h) Preparation and public performance of a recital. (See the fee section of this bulletin for specific information regarding additional costs.) Fulfills the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. To be taken only during the senior year. A student may not receive credit for both MUS 362 and 363. A student may not enroll in MUS 262 and 362 in the same semester. May not be repeated for credit. P—Two semesters of MUS 262 and POI.
363. Senior Honors Recital. (3h) Preparation and public performance of a recital at the honors level. (See the fee section of this bulletin for specific information regarding additional costs.) Fulfills the individual instruction requirements for the major in music performance. To be taken only during the senior year. A student may not receive credit for both MUS 362 and 363. A student may not enroll in MUS 262 and 363 in the same semester. May not be repeated for credit. P—Faculty selection for honors in music.

Neuroscience (NEU)

Coordinator Professor of Biology Wayne L. Silver

The neuroscience minor provides an interdisciplinary approach to the study of the nervous system. Neuroscientists study how we learn, process and remember information from the molecular to the philosophical level, and examine subjects ranging from the molecular pharmacology of brain function to the mind-body problem.

The minor requires a minimum of 17 hours, nine of which must include NEU 200, 201, 300, and 391. At least one semester of research in neuroscience is required for the minor (NEU 391). The research can be conducted on the Reynolda Campus or with investigators at the Wake Forest University School of Medicine. The research project must be approved by a member of the neuroscience minor faculty. Eight hours must come from the elective courses listed. One of the elective courses must come from outside the student's major department.

Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program coordinator maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department's listings in this publication.

200. Introduction to Neuroscience. (3h) Interdisciplinary course taught by faculty representing several fields. Topics include neurophysiology, sensory biology, motor mechanisms, neuropharmacology, cognitive neuroscience, perception, developmental neuroscience, and the philosophy of mind.

201. Neuroscience Laboratory. (1h) Examines principles of neuroscience ranging from the molecular and cellular to the behavioral and cognitive. Lab—3 hours. C—NEU 200.

300. Neuroscience Seminars. (3h) Consideration of current neuroscience topics. Presentations of current research by faculty on the Reynolda Campus or the Wake Forest University School of Medicine. Readings from the primary literature accompany the presentations. P—NEU 200.

391. Research in Neuroscience. (2h) Supervised independent laboratory investigation in neuroscience.

Philosophy (PHI)

Chair Win-chiat Lee
A.C. Reid Distinguished Teaching Fellow and Professor Charles M. Lewis
Kenan Professor of the Humanities and Professor of Philosophy Julian Young Professor Ralph Kennedy, Win-chiat Lee, Christian Miller
Associate Professors Adrian Bardon, Stavroula Glezakos, Ana S. Iltis, Patrick Toner
Assistant Professor Emily Austin
Associate Teaching Professor Clark Thompson
Part-time Associate Teaching Professor Hannah M. Hardgrave
Assistant Teaching Professor Adam J. Kadlac
Visiting Assistant Professor Tyron Goldschmidt
Part-time Instructor Nicholas R. Smith

Philosophy examines such topics as consciousness, knowledge, justice, free will, good and evil, and the nature of religious experience and belief. Engagement with the central questions of philosophy is valuable in itself; it is also valuable as a means of developing analytical, critical, and imaginative skills useful in the study of most other subjects, in the pursuit of careers as varied as law, business, medicine, science, education, and the arts, and in effective participation in civic life. A liberal arts education should introduce students to rigorous thinking and writing about philosophical issues and to the reading of great philosophical texts. We help to realize this goal through the courses we offer, through one-on-one discussion with students, and by presenting lectures, colloquia, and debates open to the University and the public.
The major in philosophy requires 27 hours. These must include one course in Ancient Greek Philosophy (Group I), one course in Modern Philosophy (Group II); and one 300-level course from each of the following groups: Value Theory (Group III), Metaphysics and Epistemology (Group IV), and Electives (Group V). Only one of 220 and 221 (Logic and Symbolic Logic) may be counted towards the major. No more than 6 hours of 100-level courses may be counted towards the major. No senior philosophy major may take a 100-level philosophy course. No more than 3 hours of independent study may be counted towards satisfaction of the major requirements, and at least 21 hours of the major must be completed at Wake Forest; exceptions require approval by the department chair. A minimum GPA of 2.0 in all courses completed in philosophy at Wake Forest is required for graduation with the major.

Students who plan to major in philosophy are strongly encouraged to complete their courses in ancient Greek philosophy and modern philosophy prior to their senior year.

Majors intending to do graduate study in philosophy are strongly advised to take the following courses: Ethics (360), Symbolic Logic (221), and at least one of Epistemology (376) or Metaphysics (377). Such majors should work closely with their major adviser as they consider their additional course choices.

The minor in philosophy requires 15 hours. At least 9 of these hours must be earned in courses taken at Wake Forest at the 200-level or higher. Only one of 220 and 221 (Logic and Symbolic Logic) may be counted towards the minor. Students interested in minoring in philosophy should consult with the department about choosing an appropriate sequence of courses.

Honors. Majors with a GPA of at least 3.3 overall and at least 3.5 in philosophy are eligible to apply for entrance into the honors program in philosophy. Majors interested in applying should consult with the department chair in the second semester of their junior year. The departmental honors committee will consider all applications and notify successful candidates during the summer prior to their senior year. Completion of 15 hours in philosophy courses is prerequisite to beginning work in the honors program. Graduation with “Honors in Philosophy” requires successful completion of Honors I and II (391 and 392), a GPA at the time of graduation of at least 3.5 in philosophy and 3.3 overall, and completion and successful defense of an honors thesis in an oral examination conducted by at least two members of the department. The hours earned in 391 and 392 do not count towards the 27 hours required of all majors.

Any 3-hour philosophy course numbered 221 or lower counts towards satisfying the Division I requirement. Courses taken elsewhere after a student has enrolled at Wake Forest University will not count towards satisfying the Division I requirement in philosophy.

Divisional Courses

111. Basic Problems of Philosophy. (3h) Examines the basic concepts of several representative philosophers, including their accounts of the nature of knowledge, persons, God, mind, and matter. (D)

112. Introduction to Philosophical Ideas. (3h) How and why does philosophy engage religious belief and common sense? Why is the purposive world of pre-modern life abandoned by modern naturalism, skepticism, and existentialism? How are our contemporary ideas of self and world expressions of these opposing conceptions of life, love, and meaning? (D)

113. Knowledge and Reality. (3h) Examines three interconnected philosophic problems: the nature of existence; the distinction between truth and falsity; and the question of what it means to know. (D)

114. Philosophy of Human Nature. (3h) Study of selected topics bearing on human nature, such as free will and determinism, the relation of mind and body, personal identity and personhood, and immortality. (D)
115. Introduction to Philosophy of Religion. (3h) Study of some central issues in the philosophy of religion, such as arguments for and against the existence of God; faith and reason; the divine attributes; the nature and existence of the soul; the possibility of immortality; and religious diversity. (D)

116. Meaning and Happiness. (3h) Beginning with Plato (c. 400 BCE) and ending with Foucault (died 1984) the course will look at the views of Western philosophers who have discussed how to live a happy, meaningful life, with particular attention paid to ‘post-death-of-God’ philosophers (e.g. Schopenhauer, Nietzsche, Marx, Sartre, Camus, Heidegger). (D)

160. Introduction to Political Philosophy. (3h) Examines basic concepts and problems in political thought, including social and economic issues, individual rights, equality, justice, and the common good. (D)

161. Introduction to Bioethics. (3h) A study of ethical issues that arise in health care and the life sciences such as informed consent, experimentation on human subjects, truth-telling, confidentiality, abortion, and the allocation of scarce medical resources. (D)

163. Environmental Ethics. (3h) Examines ethical issues concerning the environment as they arise in individual lives and public policy. (D)

164. Contemporary Moral Problems. (3h) Study of pressing ethical issues in contemporary life, such as abortion, euthanasia, animal rights, affirmative action, marriage, cloning, pornography, and capital punishment. (D)

165. Introduction to Philosophy of Law. (3h) An examination of prominent legal cases and their underlying principles, with an emphasis on philosophical analysis and moral evaluation. Topics include the rule of law, constitutional interpretation, judicial review, legal enforcement of morality, punishment, and freedom of speech and of religion. (D)

220. Logic. (3h) Elementary study of the laws of valid inference, recognition of fallacies, and logical analysis. (D)

221. Symbolic Logic. (3h) Introduces propositional and predicate logic, including identity and functions. Construction of proofs. Use of models to demonstrate consistency and invalidity. Application of these techniques to the assessment of arguments expressed in ordinary language. (D)

Group I – Ancient Greek Philosophy

232. Ancient Greek Philosophy. (3h) Study of the central figures in early Greek philosophy, beginning with the Presocratics, focusing primarily on Plato and Aristotle, and concluding with a brief survey of some Hellenistic philosophers. P—One PHI course or POI.

331. Plato. (3h) Detailed analysis of selected dialogues, covering Plato’s most important contributions to moral and political philosophy, theory of knowledge, metaphysics, and theology. P—One PHI course or POI.

332. Aristotle. (3h) Study of the major texts, with emphasis on metaphysics, ethics, and theory of knowledge. P—One PHI course (232 or 331 strongly recommended) or POI.

Group II – Modern Philosophy

241. Modern Philosophy. (3h) Study of the works of influential 17th- and 18th-century European philosophers such as Descartes, Locke, Leibniz, Berkeley, and Hume, with a concentration on theories of knowledge and metaphysics. P—One PHI course or POI.
341. Kant. (3h) Study of Kant’s principal contributions to metaphysics and the theory of knowledge. P—One PHI course (241 strongly recommended) or POI.

342. Topics in Modern Philosophy. (3h) Treatment of selected figures and/or themes in 17th- and 18th-century European philosophy. P—One PHI course (241 strongly recommended) or POI.

Group III – Value Theory

360. Ethics. (3h) Systematic examination of central ethical theories in the Western philosophical tradition. Such theories include Kantian deontology, utilitarianism, Aristotelian virtue ethics, and divine command theory. P—One PHI course or POI.

361. Topics in Ethics. (3h) P—One PHI course or POI.

362. Social and Political Philosophy. (3h) A systematic examination of the work of selected contemporary and traditional philosophers on topics such as the state, the family, distributive justice, property, liberty, and the common good. P—One PHI course or POI.

364. Freedom, Action, and Responsibility. (3h) Study of the nature of human freedom and related matters in the philosophy of action, metaphysics, and moral philosophy. P—One PHI course or POI.

366. Global Justice. (3h) Does justice transcend national boundaries? Topics include citizenship, national sovereignty, war, human rights, humanitarian concerns, distribution of resources and burdens, and international law. P—One PHI course or POI.

367. Philosophical Theories in Bioethics. (3h) A study of the main philosophical approaches to contemporary bioethics. Each approach is examined critically and students explore how each approach informs analysis of contemporary issues in bioethics. P—One PHI course or POI.

Group IV – Metaphysics and Epistemology

373. Philosophy of Science. (3h) Systematic and critical examination of major views concerning the methods of scientific inquiry, and the bases, goals, and implications of the scientific conclusions which result from such inquiry. P—One PHI course or POI.

374. Philosophy of Mind. (3h) Selection from the following topics: the mind-body problem; personal identity; the unity of consciousness; minds and machines; the nature of experience; action, intention, and the will. P—One PHI course or POI.

375. Philosophy of Language. (3h) Study of such philosophical issues about language as truth and meaning, reference and description, proper names, indexicals, modality, tense, the semantical paradoxes, and the differences between languages and other sorts of sign systems. Also listed as LIN 375. P—One PHI course (221 strongly recommended) or POI.

376. Epistemology. (3h) The sources, scope and structure of human knowledge. Topics include: skepticism; perception, memory, and reason; the definition of knowledge; the nature of justification; and theories of truth. P—One PHI course or POI.

377. Metaphysics. (3h) Survey of such issues as the nature and existence of properties, possibility and necessity, time and persistence, causation, freedom and determinism, and dualism versus materialism about the human person. P—One PHI course or POI.
378. Philosophy of Space and Time. (3h) Philosophical thought about space and time, from the Presocratics to the present. Topics may include the reality of the passage of time, paradoxes of change and motion, puzzles about the awareness of time, spacetime and relativity, and the possibility of time-travel. P—One PHI course or POI.

Group V – Electives

237. Medieval Philosophy. (3h) Survey of some major philosophers from Augustine to Suarez, including Anselm, Averroes, Maimonides, Avicenna, Aquinas, Scotus and Ockham. P—One PHI course or POI.

337. Thomas Aquinas. (3h) Study of some major texts, with a focus on metaphysics and philosophical theology. P—One PHI course (232 strongly recommended) or POI.

352. 19th-Century European Philosophy: Hegel, Kierkegaard, Nietzsche. (3h) Is there a way to think about the natural world that also makes sense of human life and history? Is anything gained, or lost, by thinking holistically about the world as a whole? Is a life dedicated to thinking about the world (and living accordingly) a way of avoiding an authentic human life? What does it mean to live authentically? Does nihilism provide the answer or is it a form of avoidance? P—One PHI course or POI.

353. Heidegger. (3h) Heidegger early and late. Early Heidegger: the contrast between conformism and authenticity achieved through ‘being-towards-death’; meaning through communal tradition. Late Heidegger: critique of modernity’s reduction of everything to ‘resource’; the ethics of ‘dwelling’ as our proper way of being in the world. P—One PHI course or POI.

354. Wittgenstein. (3h) Study of the work of Ludwig Wittgenstein on such topics as the picture theory of meaning, truth, skepticism, private languages, thinking, feeling, the mystical, and the ethical. P—One PHI course (221 strongly recommended) or POI.

355. Contemporary Philosophy. (3h) Study of the principal works of several representative 20th-century philosophers. P—One PHI course (221 strongly recommended) or POI.

356. 20th-Century European Philosophy. (3h) Representative issues: the ‘disenchantment’ and ‘rationalization’ of modernity, the character of modern technology, the possibility of mutual understanding in a multicultural world, the nature of ‘dwelling’. Representative figures: Weber, Husserl, Horkheimer, Adorno, Marcuse, Heidegger, Gadamer, Arendt, Habermas. P—One PHI course or POI.

363. Philosophy of Law. (3h) Inquiry into the nature of law and its relation to morality. Classroom discussions of readings from the works of classical and modern authors focus on issues of contemporary concern involving questions of legal principle, personal liberty, human rights, responsibility, justice, and punishment. P—One PHI course or POI.

368. Concepts of Health and Disease. (3h) Concepts of health, disease, and disability shape discussions in bioethics and health policy. This course examines and critically evaluates competing conceptions of health and disease. The implications of adopting different understandings of health and disease for bioethics and health policy are explored. P—One PHI course or POI.

370. Philosophy and Christianity. (3h) Examines the philosophical foundations of Christian thought and belief. Christian concepts of God and life everlasting, trinity, incarnation, atonement, prayer, sin, evil and obligation. P—One PHI course or POI.
371. Aesthetics and the Philosophy of Art. (3h) Covers such questions as: What is beauty? What is taste? What is art? Must art be beautiful? Can immoral art be good art? Readings may cover historical figures such as Plato or Kant, or may focus on contemporary writers. P—One PHI course or POI.

372. Philosophy of Religion. (3h) What is religion? Are the gods dead? Is God dead? Is religious belief a symptom of an underlying human weakness or biological process, or could it be a response to the sacred? Must believers rely on something less than knowledge? Are philosophical proofs the way to knowledge of God? What sort of problem is the “problem of evil” and what is its significance? How are religious beliefs like and unlike metaphysical, moral, and modern scientific beliefs? P—One PHI course or POI.

379. Feminist Philosophy. (3h) Examines feminist approaches to philosophical theorizing. Topics may include feminist critiques of the scope and methods of mainstream philosophy, feminist approaches to ethics, epistemology and philosophy of language, and feminist conceptions of the self, sexuality, and moral agency. Also listed as WGS 240. P—One PHI course or POI.

Honors, Seminars and Independent Study

280. Topics in Philosophy. (1h-3h) Seminar and/or lecture course in selected topics. May be repeated if course title differs. P—One PHI course or POI.

385. Seminar. (3h) Offered by members of the faculty on specialized topics of their choice. With permission, may be repeated for credit. P—POI.

391. Honors I. (1.5h) Directed study and research in preparation for writing an honors thesis. P—Admission to the honors program in philosophy.

392. Honors II. (1.5h) Completion of the honors thesis begun in PHI 391. Graduation with honors in philosophy requires successful defense of the honors thesis in an oral examination conducted by at least two members of the department. P—PHI 391.

395. Independent Study. (1h-3h)

The program for each student majoring in physics is developed through consultation with the student's major adviser and may lead to either a bachelor of arts or a bachelor of science degree. The bachelor of arts degree requires a minimum of basic physics courses and allows a wide selection of electives related to the student's interests in other disciplines, such as medicine, law, and business. The bachelor of science degree is designed for students planning careers in physics.

The bachelor of arts degree in physics requires 25 hours in physics and must include the following courses: 111 or 113, 114, 215, 230, 262, 265, and 266. The remaining 6 hours may be satisfied with any other 300-level courses in the department except 381. MTH 205 also is required, although students may substitute MTH 113 and 121 in place of MTH 205. Students may substitute CHM 341 for PHY 341.

The bachelor of science degree in physics requires 38 hours in physics and must include the following courses: 111 or 113, 114, 215, 230, 262, 265, 266, 301 (at least twice), 337, 339, 340, 341, 343, and 344. The remaining hours may be satisfied with any other 300-level course in the department. In addition, MTH 205, 306, and one other 3-hour course at the 200 level or above in mathematics or computer science other than independent study courses are required. Students may substitute MTH 113 and 121 in place of MTH 205, and MTH 251 and 352 in place of MTH 306. Students may substitute CHM 341 for PHY 341.

The bachelor of science degree in biophysics requires 27.5 hours in physics and must include the following courses: 111 or 113, 114, 215, 230, 262, 265, 266, and two of the following: 307/325, 320/323, 341. A student must take PHY 381 or 382 for a minimum of 1.5 hours. Also required are MTH 205; CHM 111/111L, 122/122L, 280; two of the three courses BIO 114, 213, 214; and either BIO 370 or CHM 370. Students may substitute MTH 113 and 121 for MTH 205, and they may substitute CHM 341 for PHY 341.

While the physics major can be started in the sophomore year, students are encouraged to take PHY 113 and 114 and MTH 111 and 112 in the first year. If this sequence is followed, the physics major may be completed with considerable flexibility in exercising various options, such as the five-year BS/MS program. If physics is not taken in the first year, the degree requirements in physics may still be completed by the end of the senior year if a beginning course is taken in the sophomore year. A candidate for the 3-2 engineering program would also complete three years of the bachelor of science physics major program prior to transfer. (Consult the chair of the department for additional information on these five-year programs.)

No student may be a candidate for a degree with a major in physics with a grade less than C in General Physics without special permission of the department. Students must achieve a minimum GPA of 2.0 in physics courses for graduation. In addition, all major students, except BS Engineering, must take the ETS Major Field Test in Physics during their senior year, or as determined by the department and communicated by the major advisor(s).

Honors. Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in physics through the major adviser. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Physics,” students must pass PHY 381, write a paper on the results of the research in that course, pass an oral exam on the research and related topics given by a committee of three physics faculty members, and obtain a GPA of at least 3.3 in physics and 3.0 overall.
A minor in physics requires 17 hours, which must include the courses 111 or 113, 114, 215, and 262. Students interested in the minor should contact the faculty member responsible for advising physics majors. (Inquire in Olin Physical Laboratory, Room 100.)

Physics courses satisfying Division V requirements must be taken at Wake Forest. Satisfactory completion of the laboratory work is required for a passing grade in all courses with a laboratory.

105. Descriptive Astronomy. (3h) Introductory study of the universe, from the solar system to the galaxies. No lab.

109. Astronomy. (4h) Introductory study of the universe consisting of descriptive astronomy, the historical development of astronomical theories, and astrophysics. Knowledge of basic algebra and trigonometry is required. Lab—2 hours. (D)

110. Introductory Physics. (4h) Conceptual, non-calculus one-semester survey of the essentials of physics, including mechanics, wave motion, heat, sound, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics. Not recommended for premedical, mathematics, or science students. A student who has credit for PHY 111, 113 or 114, or who is currently taking PHY 113 or 114 is not allowed to register for PHY 110. Lab—2 hours. (D, QR)

111. Mechanics, Waves, and Heat. (4h) Introduction to mechanics, wave motion, thermodynamics, and sound. Extensive use of algebra and trigonometry. Credit allowed for either 111 or 113, but not both. Lab—2 hours. Available for transfer, AP, IB, or A-levels credit only; not approved for summer school elsewhere. (QR)

113. General Physics I. (4h) Essentials of mechanics, wave motion, heat, and sound treated with some use of calculus. Recommended for science, mathematics, and premedical students. Credit allowed for either 111 or 113, but not both. Lab—2 hours. C—MTH 111 or 112 or equivalent. (D, QR)

114. General Physics II. (4h) Essentials of electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics treated with some calculus. Recommended for science, mathematics, and premedical students. Lab—2 hours. P—MTH 111 or 112 or equivalent and PHY 111 or 113. (D, QR)

115. The Physics of Music. (4h) Introduction to the physics of music, using algebra and trigonometry. Basic physical concepts associated with motion, force, and energy are applied to ideal vibrating systems, resonant systems, strings, and sound waves. Uses of these concepts are explored in relation to musical instruments, the human voice, signal processing, and room acoustics (D, QR)

120. Physics and Chemistry of the Environment. (4h) Covers the basic physical and chemical processes in the earth’s atmosphere, biosphere, and the oceans. Consists of two parts: 1) chemical processes in the environment such as element cycles and the chemistry of pollutants in air and water and, 2) physical aspects of the environment such as solar energy and the atmosphere, and the physics of weather and climate. Lab—3 hours. Also listed as CHM 120. (D, QR)

215. Elementary Modern Physics. (3h) Development of 20th-century physics and an introduction to quantum ideas. P—PHY 114 and MTH 111. The department recommends that PHY 215 be taken concurrently with PHY 265. (D, QR)

230. Electronics. (3h) Introduction to the theory and application of transistors and electronic circuits. Lab—3 hours. P—PHY 114. (D, QR)

262. Mechanics. (3h) Study of the equations of motion describing several kinds of physical systems: velocity-dependent forces, damped and forced simple harmonic motion, orbital motion, and inertial and non-inertial reference frames. Includes extensive use of computers. P—PHY 113 and MTH 205. (D, QR)

266. Intermediate Laboratory II. (1h) Experiments on mechanics, electronics, and computer simulations. P or C—PHY 262.

301. Physics Seminar. (0.5h) Discussion of contemporary research, usually with visiting scientists. Attendance required of junior and senior physics majors. Does not count toward the 6h of electives required for the BA major. Pass/Fail only.

307. Biophysics. (3h) Introduces the structure, dynamic behavior, and function of DNA and proteins, and surveys membrane biophysics. The physical principles of structure determination by X-ray, NMR, and optical methods are emphasized. Also listed as BIO 307. P—PHY 113, 114 as well as BIO 114 or 214 or POI. (D)

310. Extragalactic Astronomy and Cosmology. (3h) Topics include galactic structure, models for galaxies and galaxy formation, the large scale structure of the universe, the big bang model of the universe, physical processes such as nucleosynthesis in the early universe, and observational cosmology. P—PHY 262. C—MTH 205. (D)

320. The Physics of Biological Macromolecules. (3h) Physics of large biologically important molecules, especially proteins and nucleic acids. Topics include the physical basis of biomolecular structure, the energetics and statistical mechanics of biomolecular dynamics, and the electrostatics and solvation of biomolecules. For students with biochemistry, chemistry, or physics backgrounds. P—PHY 113, 114. (D)

323. Computational Biophysics Laboratory. (1h) Application of techniques in molecular modeling, including energy minimization, molecular dynamics simulation, and conformational analysis. C—PHY 320 or POI.

325. Biophysical Methods Laboratory. (1h) Experiments using various biophysical techniques such as electron paramagnetic resonance, atomic force microscopy, stopped-flow absorption spectroscopy, X-ray diffraction, and gel electrophoresis. C—PHY 307.

335. Computational Physics. (3h) An introduction to finding numerical solutions to scientific problems. Topics include understanding computational errors, differentiation, integration, interpolation, root finding, random numbers, linear systems, Fourier methods, and the solution of ODEs and PDEs. There is no computer programming prerequisite. P—MTH 205 or MTH 113, 121 and 251, or POI. Credit will not be given for both PHY 335 and CSC/MTH 355.

337. Analytical Mechanics. (1.5h) The Lagrangian and Hamiltonian formulations of mechanics with applications. Taught in the first half of the fall semester. P—PHY 262, and MTH 205.

339, 340. Electricity and Magnetism. (1.5h, 3h) Electrostatics, magnetostatics, dielectric and magnetic materials, Maxwell's equations and applications to radiation, relativistic formulation. PHY 339 is taught in the second half of the fall semester, following PHY 337. PHY 340 is taught in the spring semester. These should be taken in sequence. P for PHY 339—PHY 114 and MTH 205. P for PHY 340—PHY 339. (D)

341. Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics. (3h) Introduces classical and statistical thermodynamics and distribution functions. Also offered in Salamanca. P—PHY 215 and MTH 113 or 205. (D)

343, 344. Quantum Physics. (3h, 3h) Basic quantum theory and applications including the time-independent Schrödinger equation, formalism and Dirac notation, the hydrogen atom, spin, identical particles, and approximation methods. P for PHY 343—PHY 215 and MTH 205. P for PHY 344—PHY 343. (D)
347. Intellectual Property in Science and Engineering. (1h) Introduces the process of creating and protecting intellectual property, with discussion of the economic impact of IP rulings and the concept of a non-disclosure agreement. Working with representative examples from physics, engineering, and biotechnology, the students, working in small teams, will analyze and create invention disclosures, patent applications, and issued patents. Recommended background: three courses from the major tracks in physics, chemistry, biology, or computer science.

352. Physical Optics and Optical Design. (4h) Interaction of light with materials, diffraction and coherent optics, and ray trace methods of optical design. Lab—3 hours. P—PHY 114, 215. (D)

354. Introduction to Solid State Physics. (3h) Survey of the structure, composition, physical properties, and technological applications of condensed matter. P—PHY 343. (D)

361. Biophysics Seminar. (1h) Seminal and current publications in biophysics are studied. Each week a member of the class makes an oral presentation on a chosen publication and leads the ensuing discussion.

363. Condensed Matter Seminar. (1h) Seminal and current publications in condensed matter physics are studied. Each week a member of the class makes an oral presentation on a chosen publication and leads the ensuing discussion.

381. Research. (1.5h/3h) Library, conference, computation, and laboratory work performed on an individual basis. May be repeated for credit.

385. Bioinformatics. (3h) Introduces bioinformatics and computing techniques essential to current biomedical research. Topics may include genome and protein sequence and protein structure databases, algorithms for sequence and structure analysis, and computer architecture and environment considerations. Emphasizes interdisciplinary interaction and communication and includes a project that requires using software engineering protocols and working as part of an interdisciplinary team. Also listed as CSC 385. P—CSC 221 or POI. (D)

391, 392. Special Topics in Physics. (1h-4h) Courses in selected topics in physics. May be repeated if course content differs.

Politics and International Affairs (POL)

Interim Chair Professor, Director of Latin-American and Latino Studies Peter M. Siavelis
Presidential Endowed Chair and Professor Melissa Harris-Perry
Reynolds Professor of Latin-American Studies Luis Roniger
Worrell Professor of Anglo-American Studies David Coates
Professors John Dinan, Katy J. Harriger, Charles H. Kennedy, Wei-chin Lee, Kathy B. Smith, Helga A. Welsh
Provost and Professor Rogan Kersh
Associate Professors Michaelle L. Browsers, Neil DeVotta, Sarah Lischer, Will Waldorf
Assistant Professors Sara Dahill-Brown, Michael Callaghan Pisapia, Betina Cutaia Wilkinson
Associate Teaching Professors Tom Brister, Yomi Durotoye
Teacher-Scholar Post-doctoral Fellow Jack Amoureux
Visiting Assistant Professors John Polga-Hecimovich, Kathleen Tipler
Visiting Professor Colin Tyler
In its broadest conception, the aim of the study of politics is to understand the way in which policy for a society is formulated and executed and to understand the moral standards by which policy is or ought to be set. This center of interest is often described alternatively as the study of power, of government, of the state, or of human relations in their political context. For teaching purposes, the study of politics has been divided by the department into the following fields: (1) American politics, (2) comparative politics, (3) political theory, and (4) international politics. Introductory courses in these fields provide broad and flexible approaches to studying political life.

The major in politics and international affairs consists of 31 hours, of which, in all but exceptional cases, at least 21 hours must be completed at Wake Forest. Where students take politics courses abroad, they have to be in Wake Forest approved programs and/or must have been certified by the department chair. The required courses for the major include the following: (a) at least one non-seminar course in each of the four fields of politics listed above; (b) a course in methods (POL 280); and (c) one seminar course (POL 300) normally taken in the senior year. The method course is a prerequisite for the senior seminar and students are expected to take the methods course prior to the end of their junior year and, in any case, prior to the senior seminar. In addition, majors are required to take Math 109, which must be completed prior to or in concurrence with POL 280.

No more than 6 hours may be taken toward the major from introductory courses (100-level courses). Majors may not take the introductory courses during their senior year. Highly motivated students who would like to further expand or apply their study beyond the normal course of offerings can undertake internships, individual studies, or directed readings if they fulfill the minimum overall GPA requirements of 3.0. No more than 3 hours for any one or any combination of the following courses may be counted toward the major: POL 287, 288, or 289. No course taken on a pass/fail basis can count towards the major. Transfer hours toward the major are awarded on an individual case-by-case basis at the discretion of the department chair. A minimum GPA of 2.0 in all courses completed in politics and international affairs at Wake Forest is required for graduation with the major.

The senior seminar provides an opportunity for majors to experience something comparable to a graduate seminar. As such, it is conducted more by discussion than by lecture and enables students to read and reflect upon advanced scholarly material. The seminar also offers students the opportunity in their final year to create a research paper of greater length and sophistication than is customary and to develop the research and writing skills appropriate to the task.

Honors. Students who are interested in the requirements for honors in the major should consult the honors guidelines, which are available at www.wfu.edu/politics. Students who meet these requirements will graduate with “Honors in Politics and International Affairs.”

Five-Year BA/MA Degree. Politics and international affairs majors who minor in Latin-American studies also have the opportunity to pursue a five-year cooperative BA/MA degree program at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C.

The minor in politics and international affairs consists of 18 hours. Fifteen of the hours must be taken at Wake Forest. No more than 6 hours may be taken toward the minor from introductory courses (100-level courses). Minors are not allowed to take 100-level courses in their senior year. Highly motivated students who would like to further expand or apply their study beyond the normal course of offerings can undertake internships, individual studies, or directed readings if they fulfill the minimum GPA requirements of 3.0. No more than 3 hours for any one or any combination of the following courses may be counted toward the minor: POL 287, 288, or 289. No course taken on a pass/fail basis can count towards the minor. Transfer hours toward the minor are awarded on an individual
A minimum GPA of 2.0 in all courses completed in politics and international affairs at Wake Forest is required for graduation with the minor. A student who selects politics and international affairs to fulfill the Division IV requirement must take one of the following courses: POL 113, 114, 115, or 116. Students who are not majors may take upper-level courses as electives without having had lower-level courses, unless a prerequisite is specified.

American Politics

113. American Government and Politics. (3h) The nature of politics, political principles, and political institutions, with emphasis on their application to the U.S. (D)

210. Topics in U.S. Politics and Policy. (3h) Intensive study of one or more major problems in contemporary U.S. politics and policy. Course may be retaken for credit if topic varies.

211. Political Parties, Voters, and Elections. (3h) Examines party competition, party organizations, the electorate and electoral activities of parties, and the responsibilities of parties for governing.

212. U.S. Policymaking in the 21st Century. (3h) Examines the contemporary U.S. policymaking process. Special attention to ways issues become important and contributions of different political actors, institutions, and ideologies in the passage or rejection of policy proposals. Considers a range of social, economic, and regulatory policies.

214. Latino/a Political Behavior. (3h) Examines the contemporary role of Latinos/as as a minority group in the U.S., with emphasis on the history of Latino/a immigration to the U.S. and to North Carolina, immigration attitudes, Latino/a representation, political identity, political participation, and interracial coalition formations. Service-learning course.

215. Citizen and Community. (3h) Examines the role and responsibilities of citizens in democratic policymaking. Includes discussion of democratic theory, emphasis on a policy issue of national importance (e.g., poverty, crime, environment), and involvement of students in projects that examine the dimension of the issue in their community. Service-learning course.

216. U.S. Social Welfare Policy. (3h) Analysis of U.S. social policymaking and policy outcomes on issues such as welfare, education, health care, and Social Security, with emphasis on historical development and cross-national comparison.

217. Politics and the Mass Media. (3h) Explores the relationship between the political system and the mass media. Two broad concerns are the regulation of the mass media and the impact of media on political processes and events. Also listed as JOU 277.

218. Congress and Policymaking. (3h) Examines the composition, authority structures, external influences, and procedures of Congress with emphasis on their implications for policymaking in the U.S.

219. Political Participation. (3h) Examines political participation in the U.S., with emphasis on electoral and non-electoral avenues through which individuals and groups wield influence in politics and government, including voting, interest groups, and social movements. Service-learning course.

272. Democratic Theory. (3h) Examines the theoretical underpinnings of democracy and some of the critiques of those foundations. Focuses on understanding some of the major theories of democracy and on how key democratic concepts are defined differently within these various traditions.

273. Marx, Marxism and the Aftermath of Marxism. (3h) Examines Marx’s indebtedness to Hegel, his early humanistic writings, and the vicissitudes of 20th-century vulgar Marxism and neo-Marxism in the works of Lenin, Lukacs, Korsch, Horkeimer, Marcuse, and Sartre.

274. Arab and Islamic Political Thought. (3h) Examines the history, basic concepts, central questions and preoccupations of political thought in the Arab region, while critically analyzing what it means to engage political theory comparatively. (CD)
275. American Political Thought. (3h) Examines texts from the founding to the present that consider debates over the Constitution and the power of government; liberal and republican theories of citizenship; race, class and gender inequality; tensions between diversity and national identity; theories of justice; and the development of progressive, conservative, and libertarian political ideologies in the United States.

276. Modern Political Thought. (3h) Political thought from Machiavelli to the present, including such topics as moral and natural rights, positive and negative freedom, social contract theory, alienation and citizenship. Selected writings from Machiavelli, Locke, Rousseau, Mill, Marx, and Rawls.

277. Feminist Political Thought. (3h) Introduces feminist thought and its implications for the study and practice of political theory. Topics include feminist critiques of the Western political tradition and schools of feminist political theory. (CD)

278. Politics and Identity. (3h) Investigation of the ways in which concepts of identity have informed political norms, structures, and practices; the myriad forms identity takes (particularly gender, sexual orientation, class, race, religion, nationality and ethnicity) drawing on examples from across the globe; and theoretical approaches proposed for engaging differences.

279. Varieties of Philosophical Liberalism. (3h) Study of 20th-century philosophical liberalism such as libertarianism, utilitarianism, liberal utilitarianism, Kantian liberalism and communitarianism with special focus on rival conceptions of freedom and on utilitarianism and its critics.

Seminars and Additional Courses

280. Research Methods. (3h) Overview of the qualitative and quantitative methods prominent in studying political science. Attention is given to the relationships between theory, method, and findings by focusing on the need to make systematic empirical observations. P—MTH 109 must be taken before or concurrently with this course.

282. Gandhi. (3h) Explores the life, political philosophy, and the method of nonviolent coercion (satyagraha) of Gandhi. Students define and implement group projects designed to promote change within the context of Gandhian methodology. Service-learning course.

286. Topics in Political Science. (1, 2, 3h) Intensive study of one or more topics in the discipline. May not be used to meet one of the four area requirements. May be repeated for credit. Up to 3 hours may be counted toward the major.

287. Individual Study. (2h or 3h) Intensive research leading to the completion of an analytical paper conducted under the direction of a faculty member. Students initiate the project and secure the permission of an appropriate instructor. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 hours, only three of which may count toward the major. P—POI.

288. Directed Reading. (2h or 3h) Concentrated reading in an area of study not otherwise available. Students initiate the project and secure the permission of an appropriate instructor. P—POI.

289. Internship in Politics. (2h or 3h) Field work in a public or private setting with related readings and an analytical paper under the direction of a faculty member. Students initiate the project and secure the permission of an appropriate instructor. Normally one course in an appropriate subfield is taken prior to the internship. P—POI.

300. Senior Seminar in Political Science. (4h) Readings and research on selected topics. P—POL 280 and Math 109.

Psychology 151 is a prerequisite to all courses of a higher number. Courses numbered below 151 do not count toward Division IV requirements or toward the major in psychology. Psychology 151 and all higher numbered courses except for PSY 270, 275, 280, and 392 count toward Division IV requirements. Psychology 310, 311, 312, or special permission of the instructor is prerequisite for some 300-level courses. See individual course descriptions for specific information. A minimum GPA of 2.0 or higher in psychology courses is required to graduate with a major or minor in psychology.

The major in psychology: It is recommended that students who are considering psychology as a major take PSY 151 in their first year and PSY 311 no later than their junior year. Furthermore, it is recommended that students take at least one course in addition to PSY 151 before taking PSY 311. At the time the major is elected, students must have completed at least one psychology course (includes AP or IB credit for PSY 151, but excludes PSY 100), and must have a minimum GPA of 2.0 or higher in all graded psychology courses. The major in psychology requires the completion of a minimum of 32 hours in psychology, including 151, 311, 312, and 392. In addition, the major student must complete at least one course from each of the two following groups: Group A: 320, 326, 329, 331, 333, 338; Group B: 341, 351, 355, 362, and 374. No more than 50 hours in psychology may be counted toward the graduation requirements of 120 hours. No more than 3 hours of directed study (PSY 280) may be counted toward the 32 hours required for the major, and a maximum of 5 hours of directed study (PSY 280) may be counted toward the graduation requirement of 120 hours. A maximum of 3 hours of internship credit can be taken.

No more than 6 hours will be accepted for courses taken at other schools, and a maximum of 3 of those 6 hours may come from online courses. Cross-listed courses taught by another department at Wake Forest will be counted toward the 32 hours required for the major. The cross-listed courses are: EDU 311, HES 312, LIN 330, REL 350, and SS08-4763 in the Washington, D.C. program. A maximum of 9 hours of transfer credit and cross-listed courses taught by another department can be counted towards the major if 35 or more hours in the major are taken. AP or IB credit may be accepted for PSY 151, but other courses taken at community colleges or college courses taught on high school campuses taken after enrollment at Wake Forest are not accepted for transfer credit. With the exception of PSY 151, specific courses required for the major, including A and B group courses, must be taken at Wake Forest. The guidelines regarding transfer and credit approval may be modified in rare and special circumstances at the discretion of the psychology department chair.
The minor in psychology requires 15 hours in psychology including: 151; either 310 or 311. A student must also take three other courses; at least two of which must be from the following courses—241, 243, 245, 248, 255, 260, 268, 320, 323, 326, 329, 331, 333, 338, 362 and 374. The 310 or 311 requirement may be waived if the student takes one set of the following methods courses: BIO 380, BEM 201 and 202, BEM 201 and FIN 203, ECN 209, HES 262, SOC 271 and SOC 272. If the psychology statistics course requirement is waived, a student will then be required to take four additional courses, two of which must come from the list above. No more than 6 hours will be accepted for courses taken at other schools and cross-listed courses taught by another Wake Forest department to be counted toward the 15 hours required for the minor. A maximum of 3 of those 6 hours may come from online courses. The cross-listed courses that may be accepted are: EDU 311, HES 312, LIN 330, REL 350.

Honors. Highly qualified majors are invited by the department to participate in the honors program in psychology. Students must take PSY 311 no later than fall of the junior year in order to be considered for the honors program. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Psychology,” the student must complete satisfactorily a special sequence of courses (381, 383), pass an oral or written examination, and earn an overall GPA of 3.2 with an average of 3.5 on work in psychology. In addition, the honors student normally has a non-credit research apprenticeship with a faculty member. For more detailed information, members of the departmental faculty should be consulted. (Students satisfactorily completing PSY 383 are not required to complete PSY 392.)

100. Learning to Learn. (3h) Designed for first and second year students who wish to improve their academic performance through the application of learning, study, memory, and time management strategies. By permission of the instructor only. Pass/Fail only.

151. Introductory Psychology. (3h) Systematic survey of psychology as the scientific study of behavior. Prerequisite to all courses of a higher number. (D)

239. Altered States of Consciousness. (3h) Examines altered states of consciousness with special reference to sleep and dreams, meditation, hypnosis, and drugs. P—PSY 151. (D)

241. Developmental Psychology. (3h) Surveys physical, emotional, cognitive, and social development in humans from conception to death. P—PSY 151. (D)

255. Personality. (3h) Surveys theory and research on the structure and function of human personality, with attention to the relationship to cognition, emotion, motivation, and behavior. P—PSY 151. (D)

260. Social Psychology. (3h) Surveys the field, including theories of social behavior, interpersonal attraction, attitudes and attitude change, and group behavior. P—PSY 151. (D)
265. Human Sexuality. (3h) Explores the psychological and physiological aspects of human sexuality, with attention to sexual mores, sexual deviances, sexual dysfunction, and sex-related roles. P—PSY 151. (D)

268. Industrial/Organization Psychology. (3h) Psychological principles and methods applied to problems commonly encountered in business and industry. P—PSY 151. (D)

270. Topics in Psychology. (1.5h) Focused, in-depth review of current theory and research on a selected topic in the field. P—PSY 151.

275. Internship in Psychology. (0-3h) Field work in pre-approved settings under the supervision of qualified professionals. Related readings and a term paper required. Students must apply and secure permission from designated Psychology Department faculty member who will assign final grade. Students desiring to propose an internship that has not been pre-approved must do so at least 1 month before the proposed start of the internship, following standard department procedures. Internships will not be approved for credit after the internship has already begun. Credits cannot count toward minimum required for major or minor. Pass/Fail only. Open only to declared psychology majors or minors with a minimum GPA of 2.75. Maximum 3 hours. P—PSY 310 or 311, POD.

310. Methods in Psychological Research. (3h) Introduces statistics and research design for students minoring in psychology. P—PSY 151 (D, QR)

311. Research Methods I. (4h) Design and statistical analysis of correlational methods. Lab twice weekly. P—At least one course in addition to PSY 151. (D, QR)

313. History and Systems of Psychology. (3h) The development of psychological thought and research from ancient Greece to the present. Normally offered only fall semester. Senior major standing only. P—Two PSY courses beyond 151 or POI. (D)

314. Special Topics in Social Psychology. (3h) Theoretical and empirical examination of specialized areas within social psychology. May be repeated for credit if topic varies. P—PSY 151. (D)

315. Special Topics in Personality Psychology. (3h) Theoretical and empirical examination of specialized areas within personality psychology. May be repeated for credit if topic varies. P—PSY 151. (D)

316. Special Topics in Developmental Psychology. (3h) Theoretical and empirical examination of specialized areas within developmental psychology. May be repeated for credit if topic varies. P—PSY 151. (D)

317. Special Topics in Experimental Psychology. (3h) Theoretical and empirical examination of specialized areas within experimental psychology. May be repeated for credit if topic varies. P—PSY 151. (D)

320. Physiological Psychology. (3h) Provides an in-depth examination of the nervous system and the physiological processes that underlie sensation, motor control, thinking, and emotion. P—PSY 310 or 311 or POI.

322. Psychopharmacology. (3h) Surveys the influences of a wide range of psychoactive drugs, both legal and illegal, on human physiology, cognition, and behavior. P—PSY 151. (D)
323. Animal Behavior. (3h) Surveys laboratory and field research on animal behavior. P—PSY 310 or 311 or POI.

326. Learning Theory and Research. (3h) Theory and current research in learning, with emphasis on applications of learning principles for behavior modification and comparisons across species. P—PSY 310 or 311. P or C—PSY 312.

329. Perception. (3h) Surveys theory and research findings on various sensory systems (vision, hearing, touch, taste). P—PSY 310 or 311.

331. Research in Cognitive Psychology. (3h) In-depth examination of research in a selected area of cognitive psychology such as memory, attention, or executive function. Research projects required. P—PSY 310 or 311. P or C—PSY 312.

333. Motivation of Behavior. (3h) Surveys basic motivational concepts and related evidence. P—PSY 310 or 311. P or C—PSY 312.

Religions, Study of (REL)

Chair James L. Ford
Albritton Professor of the Bible Kenneth G. Hoglund
Easley Professor of Religion Stephen B. Boyd
Wingate Professor of Religion Simeon O. Ilesanmi
Wake Forest Kahle Professor of Religion Mary Foskett
Professors Nelly van Doorn-Harder, Ulrike Wiethaus

Assistant Teaching Professor Tanisha Ramachandran

The study of religion is a way of organizing academic inquiry into how human beings and human cultures express and experience their religious needs, beliefs, and values. It involves the study of both specific religious traditions and the general nature of religion as a phenomenon of human life. Using cross-cultural and interdisciplinary approaches, religious studies investigates and interprets systems of religious belief, the history of religious traditions, the function of religion in society, and forms of religious expression such as ritual, symbols, sacred narrative, scripture, practices, and theological and philosophical reflection. Students of religious studies, whether adherents of a religion or of no religion, gain tools to understand, compare, and engage the phenomenon of religion and its role in human life and culture.

A major in religious studies requires a minimum of 27 hours, of which 18 must be in courses above the 100-level. Students must take REL 200 (Approaches to the Study of Religion) and one course from each of three groups as designated below (I: Biblical Studies; II: Religion, History and Society; III: World Religions). A minimum GPA of 2.0 in all courses completed in religion at Wake Forest is required for graduation with the major. Up to 9 hours of coursework completed outside the department may be counted toward the major and no more than 6 hours of directed reading may be counted toward major.
A minor in religious studies requires 15 hours, 9 of which must be above the 100-level and one upper-level course from Group III: World Religions. The department provides advisers for students pursuing a minor. Up to 3 hours of coursework completed outside the department may be counted toward the minor and no more than 3 hours of directed reading may be counted toward minor.

Honors. Highly qualified majors are encouraged to apply for admission to the honors program. Students who wish to pursue this option should refer to the honors guidelines, available by selecting the undergraduate tab at www.wfu.edu/religion, for an overview of requirements and procedures. Upon completion of all requirements, a recommendation of honors at graduation will be made by the department based upon the student’s overall academic record and the quality of the final project.

A concentration in religion and public engagement requires 15 hours and provides an opportunity for students to undertake a community-based study of educational, economic, cultural and political development strategies, and action. Students must take the core course (REL 332), a course in either theory or method (REL 200, 305, 336, 338), an internship REL 288 (3h), and two elective courses related to the community partner’s context, history, and values. Elective courses may be chosen from other departments and programs with approval from the RPE committee.

The department offers programs leading to majors in French and Spanish, minors in Arabic, French, Italian, and Spanish, and certificates in Spanish and French for business, and in Spanish translation. and Spanish interpreting. The requirements for completion of each degree program are those in effect in the bulletin year when the declaration of the major, minor, and certificate occurs.

The major in French Studies requires a minimum of 27 hours of French courses numbered above 214. FRH 216, 315 or 350, 319, 370, one of the genre courses (363, 364, or 365), and four other courses are required. Students are advised and encouraged to take related courses in other areas of the University curriculum, such as HST 217, 218, and 317, and HMN 222. Students must achieve at least a C grade in 319 and a GPA of 2.0 in the major. 319 must be taken at Wake Forest. Credit towards the major cannot be received for both 320 and 351.

The minor in French Studies requires a minimum of 18 hours of French courses numbered above 214. FRH 216, 315 or 350, 319 and three other courses are required. Credit towards the minor cannot be received for both 320 and 351. Students must achieve at least a C grade in 319 and a GPA of 2.0 in the minor. 319 must be taken at Wake Forest. Some courses are not offered every semester; students should plan ahead in order to fulfill all requirements.

The major in Spanish requires a minimum of 28 hours in Spanish courses numbered 280 and above. It must include SPA 280, SPA 309 or 309L, one genre course (SPA 310-314), one regions course (SPA 315-319), 6 credit hours from SPA 330-395, and 9 additional hours of elective credit from Spanish classes numbered above 280. No more than 10 hours may be counted from courses numbered 280-309.

Students must achieve at least a C grade in 309 or 309L and a GPA of 2.0 in the major. 309 or 309L must be taken on the Reynolda or Salamanca campus.

The minor in Spanish requires a minimum of 19 hours in Spanish courses numbered 280 and above. It must include SPA 280, SPA 309 or 309L, one genre course (SPA 310-314), one regions course (SPA 315-319), 3 credit hours from SPA 330-395, and 3 additional hours of elective credit from Spanish classes numbered above 280. No more than 10 hours may be counted from courses numbered 280-309.

Students must achieve at least a C grade in 309 or 309L and a GPA of 2.0 in the minor. 309 or 309L must be taken on the Reynolda or Salamanca campus.

The minor in Arabic requires 15 hours above 153 and must include 201. Study abroad is highly recommended but not required. Students must achieve at least a GPA of 2.0 in the minor.

The minor in Italian language and culture requires 15 hours in Italian above ITA 153 to include one 200-level course, 319, 320, and two additional ITA courses. Students must achieve at least a C grade in 319 and GPA of 2.0 in the minor.

Certificates Offered

French for Business requires FRH 319, 321, 329, 330, and one additional course in French above 214.

Spanish for International Cooperation, Business, and Law (ICBL) teaches general concepts and skills necessary to perform effectively in professional international cooperation, business, and law in Spanish-speaking settings. Includes a real-world practicum. Requirements include SPA 381 or SPN 381; SPA 387 or SPN 387 or SPA 390 or SPN 386; SPA 388 or SPN 388 or SPA 390 or SPN 386; and SPA 389 or SPN 389 or SPA 391. Students must achieve a grade of minimum B- in each course in the certificate track.
Medical Spanish teaches medical and cultural concepts and prepares students to use Spanish in a healthcare setting. Requirements include SPA 382 or SPN 382; SPA 383 or SPA 371; and SPA 392 or SPN 385.

Spanish Translation/Localization (STL) teaches strategies of Spanish into English translation and introduces students to various software/website translation applications. Includes an internship in a professional translation environment. Requirements include SPA 371 or SPN 324; SPA 381 or SPN 381; LIN 383; SPA 384 or SPN 384; and SPA 382 or SPN 382, or SPA 387 or SPN 387, or SPA 388 or SPN 388. Students must achieve a grade of minimum B- in each course in the certificate track.

Spanish Interpreting (SI) teaches strategies for different types of Spanish/English interpreting. Includes an internship. Requirements include SPA 382 or SPN 382; SPA 384 or SPN 384; one course in the SPA 330-369 sequence; and any one of the following courses: SPA 381 or SPN 381, SPA 383, SPA 387 or SPN 387, SPA 388 or SPN 388, SPA 392 or SPN 385, SPA 371 or SPN 324, SPA 322 or SPN 322, or LIN 383. Students must achieve a grade of minimum B- in each course in this certification track.

All majors, minors, and certificate students are strongly urged to take advantage of the department’s study abroad programs.

Transfer credit. For students wishing to transfer credit from other schools towards their major, minor, or certificates in Spanish, the following general guidelines apply:

- Transfer credit from other institutions must be pre-approved before such courses are taken by students.

  Note: courses must be similar in content and coursework to those listed under Spanish in the Undergraduate Bulletin.

- Course instruction and coursework must be entirely in Spanish.

- No online courses will count towards the major or minor.

- Transfer credit from non-WFU study abroad programs will be approved as 500 or 520 credit.

- Transfer credit approved as 520 will not count towards the major or minor.

- Transfer credit approved as 500 will count as elective credit for the major or minor.

- No more than 3 hours of 500 transfer credit may be counted toward the major or minor.

Honors. The honors designation in Romance Languages is a recognition of outstanding scholarship in the field, as evidenced by academic achievement, critical thinking, and intellectual initiative. Highly qualified majors selected by the Romance Languages faculty are invited to participate in the honors program, which candidates undertake in addition to the requirements for the major.

The honors program requires completion of SPA 398 or SPN 398 or FRH 390 (Directed Reading, 1.5h) and SPA 399 or SPN 399 or FRH 391 (Directed Research, 3h). Directed Reading, normally taken during the fall semester of the student’s final year, includes reading and discussion of a number of texts on the selected topic, and a written exam covering these texts. At the end of fall semester, the student submits an annotated bibliography and an abstract of the honors thesis. Directed Research, taken during the student’s final semester, consists of writing the thesis following a schedule established by the director and the student. At the end of this course, the honors student defends the thesis orally before appropriate faculty who collectively may confer honors.

Intensive Summer Language Institute (ISLI)

Purpose: ISLI is a language immersion program. It offers a curriculum that enables students to achieve the necessary proficiencies in the Spanish language at the beginning-intermediate level and be better prepared to perform in subsequent courses in which they may enroll.
Intensive Summer Language Institute (ISLI) on the Wake Forest Campus: ISLI on campus offers SPA 153 [fmr. SPN 153S]. Intensive Beginning and Intermediate Spanish in an Immersion Setting. (8h) This is an accelerated 5-week course in an immersion setting that is offered in the first summer term. Class size is reduced for individualized instruction. Requirements include daily classes, 6 hours per day; 1-hour daily lunches with instructors in the target language; 2-hour extracurricular activities two evenings per week; two Saturday mornings; housing in the language designated residence hall (optional); and a pledge to speak the target language.

Intensive Summer Language Institute (ISLI) in Italy: Wake Forest conducts a 4-week immersion program in elementary or intermediate Italian at Casa Artom in Venice. Students must enroll in Italian 113 (4h) or Italian 153 (4h). INS101 (1.5h), a course on the food, art and culture of Italy in the Mediterranean, is also offered. Weekly excursions to cultural sites in and around Venice (including visits to a prosecco winery and a parmesan farm in the Emilia-Romagna region) and an opera concert.

Summer in Spain—Internships

The department offers the opportunity to work at an internship site and receive academic credit during both summer sessions. Internships are available in a wide range of fields (medical, business, teaching, translation, interpretation—see program information at the Office for International Studies and Romance Languages websites). An orientation trip to places of cultural and historical interest is optional. Students live with families. The program is offered in Salamanca, the site of a well-established Spanish university and home of the Wake Forest semester or year program in Spain.

No particular major is required for eligibility. However, students must have taken one course beyond 212 or 213 or have permission of instructor. Interested students should contact the program coordinator, Candelas Gala, (galacs@wfu.edu) in the Department of Romance Languages. Electronic applications are available at the Office for International Studies and Romance Languages websites.

To participate in this program, it is required to sign up for a 3-hour internship, because it affords full immersion and a hands-on experience that regular academic courses do not always provide. Also, it is strongly recommended to sign up for one of the following course options.

199. Internship in Spanish Language. (1.5, 3h) Under faculty direction, a student undertakes a language project in conjunction with an off-campus service commitment or internship. Includes, but is not limited to, vocabulary building, keeping a journal, and reading professional material. Pass/Fail only. P—SPA 309 or 309L; or SPN 319 or 319L; or POI.

303I. Language Study in the Context of an Internship. (1.5h, 3h) Development of oral proficiency and writing skills. Readings, discussions, and writing assignments based on texts relevant to internships being undertaken by students. Must be taken in conjunction with SPN 199. The combination of this course and SPN 199 may count as a maximum of 3 hours toward the major or minor. P—a 200-level course.

315. The Making of Spain: Interdisciplinary Approaches to the Cultures of Spain. (3h) Examination of Spain’s cultural pluralism through visual arts, architecture, film, music, and literature from the medieval period to the present. P—SPA 280 or 290; or SPN 216.

319. Literary and Cultural Studies of Spanish America. (3h) Study of selected major works of Spanish-American literature within their historical and cultural contexts. Emphasis on linguistic and political structures, intellectual currents, art, music, and film to promote understanding of Spanish America’s historical development. P—SPA 280 or 290; or SPN 216.
369. Special Topics in Literary and Cultural Studies. (1.5h or 3h) Selected special topics in Hispanic Spanish-American literature and culture. May be repeated for credit when topic changes. P—any course in SPA 310-319 sequence; or SPN 317 or 318; or POI.

391. Internship in Spanish for Business and the Professions. Russian and East European Studies (REE)

Coordinator Associate Professor of History Susan Z. Rupp

The minor in Russian and East European Studies provides students with an opportunity to undertake a multidisciplinary study of the culture, economics, history, and politics of Russia and East Europe. The minor requires a total of 18 hours; six of these may also count toward the student’s major. Candidates for the minor are required to take REE 200 during their sophomore or junior year, along with electives amounting to an additional 15 hours of coursework on Russia and East Europe. No more than 6 of these 15 hours may be in a single discipline.

Appropriate credit in various fields of Russian and East European Studies also may be obtained by study abroad in programs approved by the Office of International Studies and the coordinator. Students are strongly encouraged to study abroad as part of fulfilling the minor. Interested students are encouraged, preferably in their sophomore year, to consult with the coordinator or an affiliated faculty member to discuss their interests and structure a coherent course of study.

Courses may be chosen from among the list of approved courses provided. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program coordinator maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. Course descriptions may be found in the relevant departments’ listings in this bulletin.

REE 200. Introduction to Russian and East European Studies. (3h) An interdisciplinary survey of Russia and the Soviet Union, including an examination of society, polity, economy and culture over time. Also listed as HST 232. Students taking REE 200/HST 232 cannot receive credit for HST 230 or 231. (CD)
Electives for Russian and East European Studies

Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The program coordinator maintains a complete list of all approved elective courses. For course descriptions, see the relevant department’s listings in this publication.

- COM 351. Comparative Communication: Russia. (3h)
- ECN 252. International Finance. (3h)
- HST 230. Russia: Origins to 1865. (3h)

- HMN 215. Germanic and Slavic Literature. (3h)
  218. Eastern European Literature. (3h)
- POL 232. Politics in Russia and Eastern Europe. (3h)
- RUS Any courses at or above the 200-level.

Students may apply all relevant seminars, colloquia, or independent studies in any of the above departments to the minor.

Self-Instructional Languages (SIL)

Coordinator Assistant Professor Tina Boyer/Department of German and Russian

Self-Instructional Languages is a program for students who would like to study a language not offered by the University. Interested students are responsible for finding appropriate textbooks and an evaluator who (1) is fluent in the chosen language, (2) holds an advanced degree and (3) is a faculty member affiliated with an accredited college or university. SIL 101, 102 may count towards the minor in linguistics only with approval from the coordinator of linguistics. Any student interested in self-instructional language learning should submit an application to the SIL program coordinator by August 5 for the fall semester and by January 5 for the spring semester.

SIL 101, 102. Self Instructional Language. (3h, 3h) Students wishing to learn a language not offered at Wake Forest may arrange to study the language in consultation with a native speaker. Does not count toward the linguistics minor without approval from the coordinator. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

Sociology (SOC)

Chair Joseph Soares
Professors Catherine T. Harris, Robin Simon, Joseph Soares, Ian M. Taplin
Associate Professors H. Kenneth Bechtel, R. Saylor Breckenridge, Catherine Harnois, Ana M. Wahl, David Yamane
Assistant Professors Hana E. Brown, Amanda Gengler
Research Professor of Sociology and Gerontology Eleanor P. Stoller
Senior Lecturer Steven E. Gunkel

A major in sociology requires 31 hours. Students are required to complete four core courses: one 100-level SOC course, SOC 270, 271, and 272. Students should take one 100-level SOC course in the freshmen or sophomore year prior to declaring their major in sociology. Any one but no more than two 100-level SOC courses will count towards the major. No 100-level SOC course taken by seniors can count towards the major. Students are strongly encouraged to complete SOC 270 and 271 in the fall of their junior year, and 272 in the spring of their junior year. A minimum average of 2.0 in all sociology courses is required at the time the major is declared. Majors are required to earn at least a C- in each of the four required core courses. A minimum GPA of 2.0 in all sociology courses is required for graduation.

Concentrations within the major. Students pursuing a major in sociology may elect to specialize in one of two concentrations: (1) Crime and Criminal Justice, (2) Business and Society. For the concentration in Crime and Criminal Justice, the student must complete the requirements for the major in sociology including any four of the following SOC electives: 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 345, 352, 384. For the concentration in Business and Society, the student must complete the requirements for the major in sociology including any four of the following SOC electives: 303, 316, 351, 352, 362, 363, 365, 366, 385. A minimum of 31 hours is required for each program. Students who complete the requirements for a concentration will be awarded a certificate by the department and have the concentration included on their college transcript.

A minor in sociology requires 15 hours and must include at least one but no more than two 100-level SOC courses and at least one 200-level SOC course (270, 271, 272). No 100-level sociology course taken by seniors may count towards the minor. A minimum GPA of 2.0 in sociology courses is required at the time the minor is declared. Minors are required to earn at least a C- in each of the two required courses (introductory course and SOC 270). A minimum GPA of 2.0 in sociology courses is required for certification as a minor. Students who intend to pursue a sociology minor are encouraged to notify the department early in their junior year, and they are invited to participate in all departmental functions.

Study abroad and transfer credit that can be applied to the sociology major/minor is limited to 2 courses (6h). For both study abroad and transfer credit, there is a bias against approval of theory, methods, and statistics courses, but these courses will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis. Where students take sociology courses abroad, they must be in Wake Forest approved programs and/or must have been certified by the department. Courses to be considered for transfer credit must be taught at an accredited college/university that offers a 4-year degree, by a faculty member who has a PhD in sociology, and the syllabus for the course must be provided for inspection. In addition, no divisional credit is given for sociology courses taken abroad or at other institutions. The sociology courses of students who are transferring to Wake Forest from other institutions will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

A student who selects sociology to fulfill the Division IV requirement must take one of the following courses: SOC 151, 152, 153, 154, or 155. No introductory-level course is required for students taking a sociology course as an elective unless specified in the course description.

Honors. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Sociology,” highly qualified majors are invited to apply to the department for admission to the honors program. They must complete a senior research project, document their research, and satisfactorily defend their work in an oral examination. For additional information members of the departmental faculty should be consulted.

Theatre (THE)

A major in theatre consists of a minimum of 36 hours, including THE 110, 130, 140, 150, 250 or 251 or 252 or 253, 310, 311, 341, and a dramatic literature course. Four semesters of THE 100 or three semesters of THE 100 plus THE 110L also are required. Majors must choose their remaining courses from offerings at the 200 level or higher listed in theatre, or DCE 202, 203, or 223. A minimum GPA of 2.0 in all theatre courses attempted is required for graduation. Majors will participate in senior assessment, including submission of a portfolio. Majors should consult with their advisers about additional regulations. No more than 3 hours of THE 294 may be counted toward the 36 hours required for the major; up to a maximum of 9 hours or three courses of THE 294 may be counted beyond the 36 hours in the major. Those who plan to be theatre majors are urged to begin their studies during their first year.

Honors. Highly qualified majors (departmental GPA of 3.3, overall GPA of 3.0) are invited by the department to apply for admission to the honors program in theatre. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Theatre,” a student must successfully complete THE 399 (3h) with a grade of B or better. Honors projects may consist of a) a research paper of exceptional quality; b) a creative project in playwriting, design, directing, acting or dramaturgy; or c) other approved project. The theatre honors project must be presented and defended before a departmental Honors Committee. The department can furnish honors candidates with complete information on preparation and completion of projects.

A minor in theatre requires 20 hours: THE 110, 140, 150, 310 or 311, one THE elective at the 200 level or higher (or DCE 202 or DCE 203 or DCE 223), and two semesters of THE 100 or one semester of THE 100 plus THE 110L. Theatre minors are required to take one course in dramatic literature. Potential minors should contact the chair of the department soon after arrival on the campus.

100. Participation. (.5h) Attendance/participation in Mainstage and Studio performances and other events as established by the department. Specific attendance/participation requirements are established at the beginning of each semester. Assignments for technical production are made through consultation with the technical and design faculty. May be repeated for credit.

110. Introduction to the Theatre. (3h) Survey of the theory and practice of the major disciplines of theatre art: acting, directing, playwriting, and design. Optional lab—THE 110L. (D)

110L. Introduction to Theatre Lab. (1h) Participation in production team on Mainstage as assigned.

126. Stage Makeup. (1.5h) Study of the design and application of theatrical makeup in relationship to historical period and character development.

130. Dynamics of Voice and Movement. (3h) Builds awareness of the actor’s instrument through the development of basic vocal and physical skills, emphasizing relaxation, clarity, expressiveness, and commitment, along with spontaneity, centering, and basic technical skills.

140. Acting I. (3h) Fundamental acting theory and techniques including exercises, monologues, and scene work.

141. On-Camera Performance. (3h) Introduces the theory and practice of performing for the camera. May include basic method acting, newscasting, commercials, and film acting. Also listed as COM 116.

144. Mime. (2h) Introduces basic mime forms. The student gains skills and understanding of this theatrical form through practical exercises, readings, rehearsals, and performances.
150. Introduction to Design and Production. (4h) Introduction to the fundamentals of theatrical design and technology including script analysis, design development, and presentation methods. Through the lab, the student develops basic skills in theatre technology. Credit not allowed for both THE 150 and DCE 150. Lab—3 hours. (D)

155. Stagecraft. (3h) Focuses on contemporary materials, construction methods, and rigging practices employed in the planning, fabrication and installation of stage scenery. Emphasizes current technologies for problem solving.

181. Acting Workshop. (1h) Scene work with student directors. Pass/Fail only.

188. The Contemporary English Theatre. (1h) Explores the English theatre through theatre attendance in London and other English theatre centers. Readings, lectures. Participants submit reviews of the plays and complete a journal of informal reactions to the plays, the sites, and the variety of cultural differences observed. Two weeks. Offered in London before spring term. Pass/Fail only. P—POI.

230. Advanced Dynamics. (3h) Focuses on opening and strengthening the actor's instrument by building on work done in THE 130. P—THE 130.

240. Class Act. (3h) Interdisciplinary theatre class that moves dramatic literature from page to stage as students prepare and present scenes used in courses throughout the University. P—THE 140 or POI. (D)

242. Performance Art. (3h) This combined seminar and studio course examines the history, range, and context of performance art. Through discussion and exploration, students learn techniques and approaches for exploring new relationships to body, voice, space, and image, and to create original performance art works.

245. Acting II. (3h) Advanced study and practice of the skills introduced in Acting I. P—THE 130 and 140. (D)

246. Period and Style. (3h) Studies social customs, movement, dances, and theatrical styles relating to the performance of drama in historical settings as well as in period plays. Includes performances in class. P—THE 130 or 230, and 140. (D)

Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies (WGS)

Director Wanda Balzano
Professor Mary K. DeShazer
Associate Professor Shannon Gilreath
Core (Rotating) Faculty Sarah Barbour (Professor of Romance Languages), Bernadine Barnes (Professor of Art), Michaele Browsers (Associate Professor of Political Science), Mary Dalton (Professor of Communication), Catherine Harnois (Associate Professor of Sociology), David Phillips (Associate Professor of Humanities)
Assistant Professor Sandya Hewamanne
Assistant Teaching Professor Sherri Lawson Clark
Adjunct Professors Maureen Eggert, Teresa Smith, Angela Yarber
Affiliate in Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Angela Mazaris

The department of Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality (WGS) provides an opportunity for research and dialogue on a broad range of topics related to feminist contributions as well as to the fundamental fields of human knowledge and achievement and interdisciplinary studies of feminisms, masculinity, sex, gender and sexuality. A student intending to major or minor in Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies should consult the chair of the department, preferably during their first or early in their second year.

The interdisciplinary major in Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies requires a minimum of 27 hours and must include the following courses: WGS 221, 320 (or another approved theory course), and 321. The major must include 3 hours in public engagement: either WGS 397 (internship) or any WGS or WGS cross-listed course with a service-learning or public-engagement component. The remaining elective courses (15 hours) must consist of WGS courses and courses approved for WGS credit (Consult approved list on file with the director). No more than 9 hours may come from one department or program; no more than 6 hours from the 100-level may count toward the major; no more than 6 hours from the student’s minor(s) may count toward the major.

Students pursuing the major are encouraged to enroll in WGS 221 by the fall semester of the junior year, WGS 320 (or equivalent) by the spring semester of their junior year, and WGS 321, the capstone course, during their senior year.

The interdisciplinary minor in Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies requires WGS 221 and 321, and a minimum of 12 additional hours, for a total of 18 hours. If courses not designated WGS are taken, they must be from an approved list on file with the chair of the department; examples of these courses are listed. Students may count no more than 6 hours from their major(s) toward the minor.
Students pursuing the minor are encouraged to take WGS 221 in the first or second year, two or three courses in the second and third years, and complete the remaining hours, including the capstone research seminar (WGS 321), in their senior year.

Honors. Highly qualified majors, who have earned an overall GPA of 3.3, with an average of 3.5 on work in WGS, may apply for admission to the honors program in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. To be graduated with the designation “Honors in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies,” the student must present an honors-quality research paper and successfully defend the paper in an oral examination. For additional information, students should consult the department chair.

101. Window on Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. (1h) An opportunity to experience and reflect analytically in writing on the diverse cultural and intellectual life of Wake Forest, with an emphasis on women’s, gender, and sexuality studies events and topics. Pass/Fail only.

111. Writing and Women’s Issues. (3h) This writing-intensive seminar explores special topics that include women, such as: women and creativity; women, work, and family; womanist literature; reproductive rights; violence against women; women and the arts; the emergence of feminist thought. Emphasis is on expository writing, critical thinking, and exchange of ideas in a discussion and workshop setting; frequent essays based on readings. Satisfies the basic composition but not the minor requirement.

221. Introduction to Women’s and Gender Studies. (3h) Interdisciplinary course, taught by WGS faculty representing at least two fields, that integrates materials from the humanities and the sciences. Topics include critical methods and practical solutions, history and theory of women's, gender, and sexuality studies, women in culture and society, and cross-cultural issues of gender, ethnicity, social class, disability, and sexual orientation. (CD)

224. Readings in Queer Theology. (1.5 h) This seminar-style reading course surveys classic and new works in queer theology. Queer theology transgresses dominant constructions of gender identity and sexuality; and as such, it can be seen as an expression of the Christian gospel that subverts human understandings of life, community, and the divine. The course explores biblical and Christian theological perspectives on sexuality, social constructions of sexuality, and issues such as power, marriage equality, and sexual ethics.

240. Feminist Philosophy. (3h) Examines feminist approaches to philosophical theorizing. Topics may include feminist critiques of the scope and methods of mainstream philosophy, feminist approaches to ethics, epistemology and philosophy of language, and feminist conceptions of the self, sexuality, and moral agency. Also listed as PHI 379. P—One PHI course or POI.

251. Race and Ethnic Diversity in America. (3h) Different race and ethnic experiences are examined through an institutional approach that examines religion, work, gender, schooling, marriage patterns, and culture from a cross-cultural perspective. Grand theoretical schemes like the “melting pot” are critiqued for their relevance in an age of new cultural expectations among the many American ethnic groups. Also listed as AES 251. (CD)

310. Gender, Power, and Violence. (3h) Research-centered study of various issues related to violence, power, and gender in American society. Emphasizes sociological analysis of competing theoretical explanations of violence with respect to race, class, gender, religion, and sexual orientation. (CD)
319. Women Playwrights. (3h) Examination of selected plays and/or performance texts by women. Focus varies, for example, looking at works by contemporary American women or early women dramatists such as Hrosvitha, Sor Juana, and Aphra Behn. Also listed as THE 373 (CD)

320. Feminist Theory and Practice. (3h) Examines the major themes and terminology in feminist thought, with focus on its diverse and multicultural expressions through time. Themes to be explored include schools of feminism, interlocking systems of oppression and the connection between theory and practice. May be repeated for credit if topic differs.

321. Research Seminar in Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. (3h) A capstone, research-centered study of questions raised by women’s, gender, and sexuality studies on an interdisciplinary topic, such as women’s health issues, international women’s issues, feminist theory, lesbian and gay culture and theory, the politics of women’s bodies, women and the arts, etc. May be repeated for credit if topic differs.

322. Feminist, Womanist, and Mujerista Theologies: Constructive Perspectives on Christian Thought. (3h) Examines major topics in Christian theology from African American (womanist), Latina/Hispanic (mujerista), and queer perspectives.

329. Politics of Gender and Sexuality: Cross-Cultural Perspectives. (3h) Examines cultural constructions of gender and sexuality from a cross-cultural perspective and the relationship between feminism and cultural rights activism through time. Emphasizes how varied forms of feminisms are constituted within diverse social, cultural, and economic systems. Students consider how feminists are negotiating positions at the intersection of cultural and human rights. Also listed as ANT 329.

331. Men’s Studies and Religion. (3h) Examination of the ways in which masculine sex-role expectations and male experiences have both shaped religious ideas, symbols, rituals, institutions, and forms of spirituality and have been shaped by them. Attention is given to the ways in which race, class, and sexual orientation affect those dynamics. Also listed as REL 340.

333. Gender and Religion. (3h) Examines the historical and contemporary interaction between religion and sex roles, sexism, and sexuality. Also listed as REL 366.

350. Biocultural Perspectives on Women and Aging. (3h) Examines biological, socio-psychological, and cultural issues affecting older women.

358. Mothers and Daughters. (3h) Examines literature, psychology, and feminist theories on motherhood and the mother-daughter relationship.

377. Special Topics. (1.5h, 2.5h, 3h) Includes such women’s, gender, and sexuality studies topics as gender issues in the 21st century, Jewish-American women writers, African-American women writers, women and leadership, critical approaches to women’s issues, and the emergence of feminist thought. May be repeated for credit if topic differs.

380. Sexuality, Law, and Power. (3h) Explores a wide variety of issues related to sexual identity and orientation by looking at the ways in which the law can constrict social development as well as act as a catalyst for change. Examines how religion and popular morality shape the law and are shaped by it.

396. Independent Study. (1h-3h) Independent projects in women’s, gender, and sexuality studies which either continue study begun in regular courses or develop new areas of interest. Course may be repeated, but a maximum of 3 hours may apply to the minor. By prearrangement.
397. Internships in Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. (1.5h-3h) Practicum opportunities for work and for research in conjunction with Wake Forest’s Policy Group on Rape Education, Prevention and Response (PREPARE), or a local women’s or justice organization, such as Family Services, Housing Authority of the City of Winston-Salem, Crisis Control Ministry, Community Care Center, Planned Parenthood, The Women’s Fund of Winston-Salem, and Wake Forest’s Office of Women in Medicine and Science, etc. A maximum of 3 hours may apply to the major or minor. Pass/Fail only.

In addition to the Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality studies courses, the following courses may be included in the major and the minor. (See course descriptions under appropriate listings.)

100. R.A.D.: Rape Aggression Defense. (1h) Develops and enhances the options of self-defense, including basic physical self-defense tactics and risk reduction and avoidance, so they may become viable considerations for any woman who is attacked. Required readings include social science research on violence against women. Pass/Fail only.

Electives for Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies

All courses are subject to approval for the major and the minor. Additional elective courses may have been approved since publication of this bulletin. The chair of the department maintains a complete list of all official elective courses. For the following course descriptions, see the relevant department’s listings in this publication.

Writing Minor (Interdisciplinary)

Students in the interdisciplinary Writing Minor will develop their academic, critical, and rhetorical writing skills in ways that enhance their major courses of study. By moving beyond the competencies introduced in the first-year writing seminar, the Writing Minor will provide students with opportunities to practice, refine, and extend their skills as academic, professional, and creative writers. The curriculum, composed of new and existing courses in rhetoric and writing, as well as writing-enhanced courses across the disciplines, prepares students to participate in various writing situations both inside and outside the academy.

At least 18 credits of coursework, including a 3-credit gateway and a 3-credit capstone course, are required for the minor. Students will take an additional 6 credits from upper level writing courses and 6 from elective or upper-level writing courses.

1. Gateway Courses: Introduction to the Minor: 3 credits from one of these two courses:
   WRI 210. Academic Research and Writing*
   WRI 212. The Art of the Essay*
   *The course not taken as the introduction to the minor may be taken in the second category.

2. Upper Level Writing Courses: minimum of 6 credits:
   WRI 210. Academic Research and Writing
   WRI 212. The Art of the Essay
   ENG 306. Special Topics in Rhetoric and Writing*
ENG 307. Contemporary Theory of Rhetoric and Writing
WRI 355. History and Theory in Rhetoric and Writing
WRI 399. Practice in Rhetoric and Writing*

*May be repeated once for credit towards the minor

3. Writing Electives: Any upper level writing course or writing-enriched courses across the disciplines that do not satisfy the gateway course or the 6 credits toward the minor may be used as electives. (A list of writing enhanced courses will be found on the Writing Program's webpage.)

4. WRI 350. Writing Minor Capstone. (3h) Seminar course focused on reading and portfolio requirements. For students wishing to graduate with the Interdisciplinary Minor in Writing. The Writing Minor is intended to complement a student's major, and “double dipping” is discouraged. No more than one course may count toward another program of study.

Other Courses

ACP 101. Preparing for Academic Quiz Competition. (1h) Prepares students for academic quiz competition (quiz bowl) via the study of academic material in history, science, literature, mythology, philosophy, religion, social sciences, fine arts, geography, current events and other fields; via writing questions for academic competition tournaments; and via on-campus competition. Pass/Fail only. May be taken three times for credit. P—POI.

FYS 100. First Year Seminar. (3h) First year seminars are a basic requirement for graduation and are designed to enhance each student's academic and social integration into Wake Forest. They foster intellectual interchange, both written and oral, and encourage examination of opposing viewpoints through reading, writing, and debate of issues in a small group setting. Seminars are offered in most academic departments and programs.

LIB 100. Accessing Information in the 21st Century. (1.5h) This seven and a half week course provides a basic understanding of concepts in the research process, enabling students to identify appropriate strategies for filling the information need. The course explores the broad array of information sources in various formats and disciplines, and emphasizes the organization, efficient retrieval, and critical evaluation of electronic and print information. No more than 3 hours from LIB classes can be counted toward graduation.

LIB 210. Social Science Research Sources and Strategies. (1.5h) This half-semester course provides students with an understanding of the sources and strategies necessary for doing research in the social sciences (anthropology, communication, economics, education, political science, psychology, sociology and Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies). Topics covered include strategies for developing research projects, resources available in each discipline, finding and evaluating sources and interpreting research results. No more than 3 hours from LIB classes can be counted toward graduation. Must be sophomore or above to enroll.

LIB 220. Science Research Sources and Strategies. (1.5h) This course provides students with an understanding of the sources and strategies necessary for doing research in the natural sciences (biology, chemistry, physics, and health and exercise science). Topics covered include organization of scientific information, advanced literature searching skills, citation searching, and more. This class is recommended for any science major or minor or pre-health student, especially any who may not have an extensive research background. No more than 3 hours from LIB classes can be counted toward graduation. P—Major or minor in science discipline or POI.
LIB 230. Business and Accounting Research Sources and Strategies. (1.5h) Provides students with an understanding of the sources and strategies necessary for doing research in business and accounting. Topics include strategies for developing research projects, resources available in each discipline, finding and evaluating sources and interpreting research result. No more than 3 hours from LIB classes can be counted toward graduation. P—Major in business or accounting or POI.

LIB 235. Research Methods for Entrepreneurs. (1.5h) This course is intended for students pursuing a minor in entrepreneurship or starting their own entrepreneurial project. It will introduce them to research methods and resources appropriate for business planning, including subscription-based resources available through WFU as well as reliable free resources available from governments, public libraries and elsewhere. The class will learn how to assess a potential market during the exploratory phase all the way through evaluating competitors and industry trends for more fully-formed business concepts. Trends in information gathering and information use by entrepreneurs will also be discussed.

LIB 240. History, Politics and Legal Research Sources and Strategies. (1.5h) Provides students with an understanding of the sources and strategies necessary for doing research in history, political science and law. Topics include strategies for developing research projects, resources available in each discipline, finding and evaluating sources, and interpreting research results. No more than 3 hours from LIB classes can be counted toward graduation. Must be sophomore or above to enroll.

LIB 250. Humanities Research Sources and Strategies. (1.5h) Provides students with an understanding of the sources and strategies necessary for doing research in the humanities (English, classics, humanities, religion, history, philosophy, foreign language, art, music, theatre, dance). Topics include strategies for developing research projects, resources available in each discipline, finding and evaluating sources and interpreting research results. No more than 3 hours from LIB classes can be counted toward graduation. Must be sophomore or above to enroll.

LIB 260 History of the Book 1500-2000. (1.5h) Introduces students to issues in the history of the book in the West, from early modern manuscript culture through the beginnings of the digital age. Using materials from ZSR Library’s Rare Books Collection, students examine printed texts as objects of study in three major ways: as material artifacts, as vehicles for text, and as social constructs. Class assignments include a descriptive bibliography/research paper, in addition to hands-on typesetting, printing, and bookbinding projects. No more than 3 hours from LIB classes can be counted toward graduation. For more information contact the Special Collections Librarian, ZSR Library.

LIB 290. Topics in Information. (1.5h) Intensive look at one or more current topics information. Course may be retaken for credit if topic varies. No more than 3 credits from LIB classes can be counted toward graduation.

SPM 201. Basic Athletic Training. (3h) A study of the basic knowledge and skills in the prevention, treatment, and care of common athletic injuries. For more information, contact Greg Collins, collinsg@wfu.edu.

SPM 302. Advanced Athletic Training. (4h) An in-depth analysis of preventative measures, therapeutic modalities, and rehabilitative procedures employed in sports medicine. For more information, contact Greg Collins, collinsg@wfu.edu.

WDC 100. Washington, DC, Internship. (5h or 6h) A one-semester (6h) or 10½ week summer (5h) internship in a business/government/non-government organization/nonprofit organization matching the individual student’s interests. Accreditation

The Wake Forest School of Business is accredited through AACSB International's management accreditation standards as well as its accounting accreditation standards. Accounting accreditation is an elective extension of management accreditation. AACSB International may be contacted at 813.769.6500, 777 South Harbour Island Boulevard, Suite 750, Tampa, Florida 33602 and at www.aacsb.edu. Inquiries should relate only to the accreditation status of the school and not to general admissions information.

AACSB International accreditation represents the highest standard of achievement for business schools and accounting programs, worldwide. Institutions that earn accreditation confirm their commitment to quality and continuous improvement through a rigorous and comprehensive peer review. AACSB International accreditation is the hallmark of excellence in business education.

Wake Forest University is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges to award baccalaureate, masters, and doctorate degrees. Contact the Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia 30033-4097 or call 404.679.4500 for questions about the accreditation of Wake Forest University.

Programs and Majors

The Wake Forest School of Business offers a four-year bachelor of science degree, with majors in accountancy, business and enterprise management, finance, and mathematical business (offered jointly with the Department of Mathematics); and three graduate degree programs, master of science in accountancy (MSA), master of arts in management (MA), and master of business administration (MBA).

When taken in conjunction with the School of Business's undergraduate degrees (accountancy or finance), the MSA degree requires only one additional year of study. The School does NOT offer an undergraduate degree in accountancy as a stand-alone degree. The undergraduate degree in accountancy is available ONLY if a student is accepted into the MSA program in his or her junior year of study.

Business and Enterprise Management. The business and enterprise management major in the School of Business combines a rigorous and high-quality curriculum with real-world applications. The degree program preserves a general business curriculum while simultaneously allowing students to gain greater depth in a number of specialty areas. The program emphasizes the development of strong leadership and critical thinking skills, enabling students to pursue careers in management in a wide range of fields.

Finance. The finance major in the School of Business prepares students to think analytically and critically by exposing them to theory and its real-world applications. Finance majors typically pursue careers in corporate finance and financial services, including portfolio management, investment and commercial banking, and financial consulting. The major emphasizes a strong concentration in finance and quantitative analysis and is supported by accounting concepts beyond the introductory level.

Mathematical Business. The mathematical business major, offered by the School of Business jointly with the Department of Mathematics, prepares students for careers in business and government that require model-based, advanced quantitative approaches to problem solving. The major responds to today’s complex global environment, where problems in business administration and public policy are becoming more intricate, requiring the use of such approaches.

Accountancy. The School of Business’ separate accounting accreditation through AACSB International requires that the School establish a separate statement of mission for its accountancy program complementary to the School’s basic mission statement provided. Accordingly, the mission and values of the School’s accountancy program are as follows:

The mission of the Wake Forest accountancy program is to enhance business, society, and the accountancy profession through our teaching and scholarship. We value: an environment that promotes thoughtful reflection and a high level of face-to-face interaction; intellectual curiosity, including a passion for the study of business; teaching excellence; challenging academic standards consistent with high-quality students; the creation and dissemination of knowledge; honor, integrity, and respect for the ethical and legal foundations of the accountancy profession; and strong relationships with alumni, recruiters, and other members of the accountancy profession.

The five-year accountancy program includes both the baccalaureate and master’s programs, and requires admittance during the student's junior year. Students admitted to the five-year accountancy program may major in either accountancy or finance (FIN-M) at the baccalaureate level. During the third and fourth years, students admitted to the program take the business and enterprise management, accounting, and finance courses required for a major in accountancy or finance. The curriculum also provides students with the opportunity to do a professional internship during the fourth year. The coursework, combined with the professional internship, provides students with a solid foundation in the concepts, principles, and practices of accountancy and business. Students need this foundation for success in the MSA program and the early years of their careers.

The curriculum for the fifth year of study adds both depth and breadth to students' undergraduate foundation in accountancy or finance and prepares them for a wide variety of careers in accountancy and financial services (for example, assurance, taxation, business advisory services, transaction services, forensic accounting, investment and commercial banking). The five-year program qualifies students to take the CPA examination in North Carolina and many other jurisdictions. Students are responsible for researching the CPA examination requirements for those locations.

Undergraduate Business Program Admission

Admission to the School of Business undergraduate program is by formal application, and applicants are screened by the School’s Committee on Admissions, Continuation, and Scholarships. Before being considered for admission to the School of Business, the applicant first must have been admitted to Wake Forest College. Minimum requirements for admission to the Wake Forest School of Business undergraduate program are completion of 49 hours with an overall WFU grade point average. of 2.7, completion of ECN 150, MTH 111 or 112 (MTH 112 for the mathematical business major), ACC 111 (with a minimum of C in each course) and one additional School of Business course from the following list: ACC 221, BEM 201, 221, 251, 261, or FIN 231. Students who have not met fully the above requirements may request a one-semester provisional acceptance.

The number of students who can be accommodated is limited. Meeting the minimum requirements is not a guarantee of admission. Therefore, the Committee on Admissions, Continuation and Scholarships reserves the right to grant or deny admission or readmission to any student even though he or she meets the minimum requirements. Readmission to the Wake Forest University School of Business undergraduate program first requires readmission to Wake Forest College, requirements for which are discussed in this bulletin.

MSA Program Admission

Admission to the MSA program requires undergraduate business school students who have completed ACC 211 to submit an application to the MSA program during their third year of study. The required application components include the online application, an interview with the Office of Enrollment Management, an official transcript, and either an official Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) or Graduate Record Examination (GRE) score. All application components are due by January 31 (of the third year of study).

Additional information may be found at www.business.wfu.edu/ms-accountancy/.

Transfer of Credit from Other Schools

It is expected that most work toward degrees offered by the Wake Forest University School of Business will be taken in the School of Business. For students wishing to transfer credit from other schools towards their major, the following general guidelines apply:

(a) All approvals for transfer credits from other institutions to the School of Business must be:

   (1) approved prior to admission into the School and will be limited to 6 hours for transfer students and
   (2) pre-approved before such courses are taken by non-transfer students.

(b) Courses taken at AACSB accredited schools will be considered for transfer credit per (a) above.
    Transfer credit for all courses taken at schools not accredited by the AACSB generally requires a validation exam in order to be considered for transfer credit.

(c) Study abroad transfer credit will be considered per (a) above for coursework taken through international programs sponsored by AACSB accredited schools or offered by select universities or programs approved by the School of Business faculty. Courses taken through international programs not meeting these qualifications will require a validation exam in order to be considered for transfer credit [per (a) above].

(d) Courses passed at another school with the minimum passing grade at that school may not be transferred.

(e) No work in courses from two-year schools will be accepted for major credit.

(f) Courses taken elsewhere in subjects not offered at the School of Business will not necessarily count toward the hours required in the School of Business.

(g) A maximum of two courses (6 hours) may be transferred after admission into the School of Business (including any approved economics course counting toward the major).

(h) Students earning 6 or more hours of School of Business credit through the Wake Forest Barcelona
    Program may not also transfer credit from programs offered by institutions other than the Wake Forest School of Business.

(i) Students entering the School of Business from Wake Forest College must take ACC 111 within the School of Business. Students transferring into the School of Business from another university must take a validation examination for ACC 111 to be eligible for transfer credit.
Students from Wake Forest College (non-School of Business majors) wishing to transfer business or accounting courses taken at other institutions towards credit as general electives in the College may do so upon review of that course's description in the school's catalog (and in some cases review of the syllabus for that course).

Requirements for Continuation

In addition to the requirements outlined in the Procedures section of this bulletin, a student must be academically responsible and must show satisfactory progress toward completing the requirements for the degree. The administration of the Wake Forest School of Business notifies the student if satisfactory progress is not being made and, after consultation with the Committee on Admission, Continuation, and Scholarships, decides if the student may continue as a major in the School of Business.

Requirements for Graduation

The Wake Forest School of Business confers the bachelor of science degree with a major in accountancy, business and enterprise management, finance, or mathematical business. The requirements for completion of the degrees are those in effect at the time the student enters the School of Business. No courses in the undergraduate School of Business can be taken pass/fail unless they are offered on that basis. In addition, the POI designation for any course does not override any program requirements for the major.

The accountancy major requires the following courses: ACC 111, 211, 212, 221, 237, 351, and 352; BEM 201, 211, 221, 241, 251, 261, 371 or 372, 388, and FIN 231 and 232; ECN 150; MTH 111 or 112.

The business and enterprise management major requires the following courses: ACC 111 and 221; BEM 201, 202 (or 3 hours of advanced quantitative methods chosen from a pre-approved list), 211, 221, 241, 251, 261, 287, 318, 365, 371 or 372, 388, 389; FIN 231; ECN 150; MTH 111 or 112; and 9 hours in a pre-approved concentration area. Concentration areas must include at least one BEM elective course or INS 260.

The finance major requires the following courses: ACC 111, 211, 212, and 221; BEM 201, 211, 221, 241, 251, 371 or 372, 388; FIN 203, 231, and 232; ECN 150; MTH 111 or 112; and a minimum of 9 hours from FIN 233, 234, 235, 237, 331, 332, 333, 335, 336, 338, and 381.

The mathematical business major requires the following courses: ACC 111 and 221; BEM 211, 221, 241, 251, 388, 392; FIN 231; ECN 150; MTH 112, 205 (or 113 and 121), 253, 256, 353; and a minimum of 6 additional hours—only three of which can be in the business school excluding BEM 201, BEM 202, and FIN 203. Mathematics electives must be at the 300 level or above, excluding 381.

In addition to the courses stipulated, the student in business and accountancy also must meet the following requirements for graduation:

- (a) a minimum of 120 hours, including the basic and divisional requirements established by Wake Forest College;
- (b) a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on all work attempted at Wake Forest;
- (c) a minimum grade point average of 2.0 on all work attempted at other institutions; and
- (d) an overall 2.0 grade point average in all business and accountancy courses.

Senior Honors Program

School of Business students (exclusive of mathematical business majors) with a grade point average of at least 3.0 on all college work and who are eligible for membership in Beta Gamma Sigma are invited to apply for admission to the honors program in business and accountancy. A project, paper, or readings, and an oral presentation or examination are required. Those who successfully complete the requirements specified by the School graduate with the designation “Honors in Accountancy,” “Honors in Business and Enterprise Management,” or “Honors in Finance.” For additional information, interested students should consult a member of the faculty of the Wake Forest School of Business.

Mathematical business majors with a grade point average of at least 3.0 on all college work and a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in the major are invited to apply for admission to the honors program in mathematical business. A project, paper, or readings, and an oral presentation or examination are required. Those who successfully complete the requirements specified by the School and the Mathematics Department graduate with the designation “Honors in Mathematical Business.” For additional information, interested students should consult a member of the faculty of the Mathematics Department or the Wake Forest School of Business.

Beta Gamma Sigma, National Honor Society

Membership in Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest national recognition a student can receive in an undergraduate program in accounting or business. To be eligible for membership, a student must rank in the top ten percent of the junior or senior class.

Courses of Instruction

Business (BUS)

101S. Introduction to Business Software. (1.5h) Provides students with basic skills in business software. Focuses on software for presentations, spreadsheets, and databases. In addition, students are familiarized with databases provided through the library and through the Internet that facilitate their ability to do research. Does not count towards a School of Business degree. Summer only.

111. Professional Life Skills. (1.5h) Provides students with the basics of managing their personal finances and employee benefits. Focuses on topics such as: personal banking and budgeting fundamentals, individual credit and tax issues, employee investment and insurance options, and home rental or purchase considerations. Open to School of Business and non-School of Business students. Does not count towards a School of Business degree. Pass/Fail only.

181. Field Study. (1h) Directed field study in specialized areas of business. Does not count towards a School of Business degree. Pass/Fail only. P—ACC 111, POI.

295. Summer Management Program. (8h) A study of the various functions of business including accounting, finance, managing information, entrepreneurship, management, marketing, and strategic planning. Special application and admission procedures. Does not count towards a School of Business degree. Pass/Fail only. Offered only in the summer and open only to junior and senior liberal arts majors.

Business and Enterprise Management (BEM)

105. Why Business? (3h) What is the role of business in a humane and just society? In this course, we look at both classic and contemporary discussions of the nature, benefits, and limits of a market economy; and we consider various objections, including moral objections, to commercial society. We also look at several functional areas of business and investigate the extent to which they can contribute to a humane and just society.

201. Quantitative Analysis I. (3h) Emphasizes the understanding and application of quantitative tools used in the business decision-making process. Issues covered include collection and presentation of data, sampling, and inferences. (QR)
202. Quantitative Analysis II. (3h) Emphasizes the understanding and application of quantitative tools for data analysis and managerial decision-making. Topics include statistical tools such as Chi-Square methods, analysis of variance, regression, and correlation analysis. Management science tools include statistical decision theory and some deterministic optimization models such as linear programming and its various extensions. Application of these methods to the analysis of decisions from various functional areas of business is an important component of the course. P—BEM 201.

211. Organizational Behavior. (3h) This survey course provides a broad overview of several evidence-based theories and frameworks of organizational behavior (OB) at the individual, group and organizational levels of analysis that can be applied to help identify, diagnose and provide solutions to important organizational challenges. In this way, students will gain the requisite knowledge and skills necessary to become more effective working professionals. P or C— (For BEM majors only) BEM 287.

221. Principles of Marketing. (3h) Investigates the means by which firms create, maintain, and improve relationships with customers through the development of strong brands and effective marketing programs. Emphasizes the application, rather than the acquisition, of marketing knowledge. Explores how the four Ps—product, price, place, and promotion—can be used to solve problems, exploit opportunities, and meet challenges in the global marketplace. Discussions, cases, objective tests, in-class exercises and a marketing campaign project are among the instructional methods used. P—ECN 150 and ACC 111; or POI.

241. Production and Operations Management. (3h) Introduces the basic concepts of operations strategy and operations planning in support of the business strategy of the firm. Topics include: operations strategy, quality management, project planning and control, capacity planning, location, layout, demand forecasting, supply chain management, aggregate planning, production scheduling, and inventory systems. P—BEM 201; MTH 256 for MBU majors.

251. Management Information Systems. (3h) Introduction to the business issues associated with information systems, designed to provide a broad perspective for utilizing and managing an organization’s information resources. Frameworks are presented for understanding the placement and relationship of different types of information systems within an organization. Includes an overview of computing technology currently used in business organizations, techniques for developing and implementing information systems, advanced applications of information technology, and the strategic implications of information systems and technology for business.

261. Legal Environment of Business. (3h) Study of the legal environment in which business decisions are made in profit and nonprofit organizations. Emphasis is on how the law develops and how economic, political, social, international, and ethical considerations influence this development. Includes an overview of private law topics (such as torts, contracts, and agency) and public regulation of the employment relationship, the competitive marketplace, and the environment. P or C—ACC 111.

287. Professional Development Workshop Series A. (1.5h) Enhances students’ career-building skills through a series of workshops designed to address specific dimensions of professional development and career management. Students select from a menu of opportunities available during their first year in the management program; content varies. Pass/Fail only. P—Admission to the School of Business and the BEM major.

312. Human Resource Management. (3h) Focuses on important human resource management (HRM) skills that are frequently used by general managers. Upon completion of the course, students should be literate in basic HRM concepts, knowledgeable of general managers’ HRM responsibilities, and skilled in HRM applications as prospective managers. P—BEM 211.
315. Seminar in Comparative Management. (3h) Focuses on the global issues in management. Emphasis is on different management philosophies and styles practiced in an international context. Conducted in a seminar format, the course examines the complexities involved in operating in different cultures and the implications which these cultural differences have on managing organizations and employee behavior. P—BEM 211 or POI.

316. Leading in the Nonprofit Sector. (3h) Explores the role of nonprofit organizations (churches, schools, civic organizations, health clinics, etc.) and examines how to effectively lead them. Basic knowledge areas of responsibility in nonprofit organizations (i.e., legal classifications and issues, recruiting and managing volunteers, community development, fundraising, board development, and ethical concerns) are covered. Pertinent leadership theories and issues are addressed. One-half of the available seats are open to non-School of Business majors. P—Junior or senior standing.

318. Calloway Leadership Experience. (3h) Explores the history, art, science, and practice of leadership in organizational settings. Focuses on theories and contemporary applications of such issues as change, vision, communication, coaching, followership, and motivation. The experience capitalizes on the liberal arts background, previous business courses, and students’ practicum experience to demonstrate practical leadership insights. Emphasis is on merging theory and practice using experiential learning to prepare students to excel in leadership positions in their organizations and communities. P—Senior standing and BEM 287.

322. Global Marketing Strategy. (3h) Builds on BEM 221 to explore strategic issues in the global marketplace in greater depth through intensive examination of cases from consumer and industrial markets, product and service businesses, and for-profit and nonprofit organizations. Analyzes social, cultural, economic, legal, and political factors present in the global marketplace and their impact on planning and implementing marketing strategy. Focuses on building analytical and decision-making skills. Objective is to ensure students understand the key role of marketing strategy in achieving and maintaining competitive advantage in an ever-changing, increasingly complex global business environment. P—BEM 221.

323. Selected Topics in Marketing. (3h) Identifies the most current marketing topics and practices in the dynamic global marketplace and covers them in detail. Focuses on the application of leading-edge concepts and ideas in the creation of superior marketing strategies. Seminar approach requires active student participation in the identification, elaboration, and discussion of course material. P—BEM 221.

324. Marketing Research. (3h) Introduction to fundamentals of research methodology and use of research information in marketing decision making. Topics include research design, data collection methods, scaling, sampling, and alternate methods of statistical data analysis. Students design and execute their own research projects. P—BEM 201 and 221.

325. Consumer Behavior. (3h) Focuses on understanding the customers/consumers/buyers/clients/patients/patrons without whom marketing and business cannot survive. Examines consumer motivations, influences, decision-making processes, and behaviors as they relate to the development of a competitive marketing strategy. Discussions, mini-cases, in-class exercises, and a project are among the instructional methods used. P—BEM 221 or POI.

326. Brand Management and New Product Development. (3h) Provides students with unique insight into the role of a brand manager charged with identifying and implementing strategies to measure, manage, and build brand equity over time. Special emphasis is placed on identifying new sources of profitable growth while enhancing brand equity through strategic new product development. A team-based approach is utilized and supported by lectures, case studies, guest speakers, and a semester-long brand equity assessment/new product development project. P—BEM 221.
327. Marketing Communications. (3h) Designed for students whose career plans involve making strategic marketing decisions. Emphasizes ways to foster relationships with consumers by establishing a dialogue through advertising, consumer and trade promotions, the Internet, direct mail, publicity, packaging, point of sale material, and event sponsorship. Discussions, cases, in-class exercises, oral presentations, and a marketing communications campaign project are among the instructional methods used. P—BEM 221.

328. Sports Marketing. (3h) Focuses on the application of the strategic marketing process to the rapidly growing sports industry. Varied elements of the industry are examined: understanding the sports consumer, marketing and media, advertising and communication, promotion and special events, licensing, and corporate sponsorships. Current research, including gender-specific marketing, using athletes as endorsers, segmenting the sports market, measuring value of sponsorship, and the impact of technology on sports are covered. P—ECN 150 or equivalent.

362. Business Law. (3h) In a seminar setting, the course explores emerging topics that have the capacity to affect the marketplace in significant ways. Flowing naturally from previous law-oriented classes, it provides the opportunity for students to delve more deeply and critically into the actual policies that give rise to legislation, case precedent, and regulation. As such, the course encourages strategic thinking about decision-making in a complex, ever-changing business environment. P—BEM 261.

365. Ethics and Business Leadership. (3h) An interdisciplinary exploration of ethics applied to business. Lectures, readings, and a case-based approach introduce the necessary background information. Examples of ethical and unethical situations are used to develop an understanding of how an efficient and effective business can also be ethical. P—Junior or senior standing.

371. Strategic Management. (3h) Focuses on the derivation of competitive advantage and sustainable, superior performance by organizations. Emphasizes the shape, character, and overall direction of the total enterprise, and the activities of managers who are responsible for achieving strategic coordination and coherence across functions and divisions. Course content includes analyzing the effects of industry and competitive environments on the firm, determining the basis upon which the firm should compete, formulating and implementing integrative action plans, and strategic leadership. Strategy analysis frameworks are applied to situations including for-profit and nonprofit organizations, diversification, global strategy, and strategic change. This is a discussion-oriented class in which principles of strategic management are applied to complex case studies. P— (all majors) BEM 211, 221 and FIN 231. P or C— (all majors) BEM 241. P— (BEM majors only) BEM 287, 389.

372. Strategic Management in Entrepreneurial Firms. (3h) Core foundational concepts in strategic management are critically examined in the context of entrepreneurial firm settings. Emphasis is on applying principles of competitive analysis and strategic planning using case studies of startups, fast-growth firms, young firms in rapidly-changing industries, and firms confronting early organizational life cycle problems. Unique strategy issues confronted by firms in electronic commerce, technology, and other fast-paced industries are considered. This is a discussion-oriented class in which principles of strategic management are applied to complex case studies. P— (all majors) BEM 211, 221 and FIN 231. P or C— (all majors) BEM 241. P— (BEM majors only) BEM 287, 389.
375. Contemporary Issues in Business and Foundations of Capitalism. (3h) Explores contemporary business issues such as corporate social responsibility, government regulation of business, health care and/or tax policy implications for business, stakeholders versus stockholders, and sources of economic development in less-developed nations. To do so we examine the foundations of capitalism, its moral and intellectual underpinnings, the principal arguments that challenge and support capitalism and free markets, and the obligations of free institutions in society. This will be accomplished by reading a combination of novels, the work of leading political economists who have shaped generations of thinking at the highest levels of government and academia about capitalism, economics, and free markets, and recently-published works by business and political leaders.

377. Entrepreneurship. (3h) Exposes students to multiple facets of entrepreneurship and teaches about creating new ventures in a hands-on fashion. A broad range of ideas, readings, and cases enable students to understand the ambiguous and highly-charged environment of entrepreneurship, the contribution of entrepreneurial endeavors to business and society, and the characteristics of successful new venture startups. Focuses on three areas that define successful entrepreneurial pursuit of new for-profit, nonprofit, and social enterprise initiatives: recognizing opportunity, management, and assembling resources. The completion of a team-based business plan for a new venture is usually required. Guest speakers present their views of entrepreneurial organizations based on real-world experiences—startup, financing, legal, transition, failure, etc. P—BEM 211, 221, and FIN 231; or POI.

381. Individualized Reading and Research. (1h, 1.5h, 2h, 3h) Directed study in specialized areas of business. P—POI.

382. Management in the Visual Arts. (3h) Taught by faculty from the School of Business and the Art Department. Provides both art and business students with the essential skills, pragmatic experiences, and a conceptual framework for understanding the role the visual arts plays within the national and international economies. Students receive preparation for involvement in art galleries, auction houses, museums, and publishing, as well as for contributions to various boards and organizations that commission or purchase works of art. The marketing, financial, legal, and strategic aspects of art management are explored. Emphasis is on dialogue between art majors and business majors enrolled in the course. Field study in at least one major metropolitan area for the purpose of gaining intensive exposure to professional arts management is required, but the majority of travel costs are covered by the University. One-half of enrollment spaces are available for students who have been accepted into the School of Business; the remaining half of the spaces are available to declared art majors with junior standing or higher. Also listed as ART 297. P—Junior or senior standing and POI.

383. Seminar in Negotiations. (3h) Focuses on the process of conducting successful negotiations in a business setting. Introduces concepts, theories, and analytical frameworks that underlie common negotiation techniques. Practical skills are emphasized through negotiation exercises and the analysis of contemporary business situations. Lectures, discussions, and role plays are among the instructional methods used. P—Senior standing or POI.

384. Design-Thinking and High-Performance Teams. (3h) In this experiential class, we study the evolution of high-performance teams in design-thinking environments. At its core, design thinking is an approach to innovative problem solving that balances art, science, and business perspectives in realistic and highly impactful ways. In this course we develop the ability to participate in and lead high-performance teams within a design-thinking environment. The course involves an action-learning project that applies the perspectives of anthropology, history, political science, communication, and psychology, among others, in solving a real-world problem. Also listed as ESE 384.
386. Selected Topics in Real Estate. (1.5h) Examines the most pertinent topics in real estate. Focuses on subjects such as ownership and interest, the legal aspects of real estate, real estate finance and real estate trends. P—Senior standing or POI.

388. Management Simulation. (1.5h) Designed to integrate the functional areas of business through the use of an experiential simulation exercise. The simulation that provides the foundation of this course requires students to draw on their learning from previous courses in operations, marketing, finance, human resource management, information systems, and strategic management. Students are organized into cross-functional management teams, and the teams are required to make plans for a business enterprise operating in a competitive environment, make critical managerial decisions in response to real-world situations that arise, and present their work to a faculty committee. P—Senior standing and BEM 211, 221, 241, 251 and FIN 231; P or C— BEM 371 or 372 (MBU majors are exempt from strategy requirement).

389. Management Internship. (3h) The internship is a supervised learning experience that applies business coursework to an actual work environment for academic credit. The internship is subject to approval and consists of both academic and on-the-job learning components. P—Acceptance as a BEM major and completion of 15 hours of School of Business credit, which must include BEM 211 and 287.

392. Seminar in Mathematical Business Analysis. (3h) Provides mathematical business majors with a forum where they can actually see how the mathematical, statistical and computer techniques can be brought to bear on many business problems in a variety of business functions. Emphasis is more on studying the process of modeling and implementation issues of the solutions and less on the algorithmic details. Critical and reflective thinking about models and the translation of results into management action is a major objective. Another objective of the seminar is to foster group work and the sharpening of presentation skills. P—BEM 211, 221, 241, FIN 231, and MTH 253, 256, 353.

393. Principles of Risk Management. (1.5h) Intended to assist students in identifying and analyzing risk and in managing it through a variety of mechanisms. Techniques such as loss control, risk retention, and risk transfer are discussed. C—BEM 394 P—Junior or senior standing and POI.

394. Applied Risk Management. (1.5h) Professional risk management field work, under the direction of a faculty member. Students gain relevant practical experience that is integrated with casework and risk management theory. Emphasis is on analysis, decision-making in a global environment, teamwork, written and verbal skills, presentation skills, and using technology to solve problems. C—BEM 393. P—Junior or senior standing and POI.

Accountancy (ACC)

111. Introductory Financial Accounting. (3h) Introduction to financial accounting and reporting, including the role of financial information in business decisions, the basic financial statements, and the processes used to prepare these financial statements. Students are introduced to the accounting and reporting issues associated with an organization's financing, investing, and operating activities. P—Sophomore standing.

211. Financial Accounting Theory and Problems I. (4h) Study of the conceptual framework underlying financial accounting in the U.S. as well as the financial accounting standards setting process and the basic corporate financial statements. Financial accounting and reporting issues associated with receivables, inventories, property, plant, equipment, and intangible assets are also examined. P—Minimum of C in ACC 111.

221. Introductory Management Accounting. (3h) Study of the concepts fundamental to management accounting which aid in decision making, performance evaluation, and planning and control. Topics covered include product costing systems, budgeting, differential and breakeven analysis, responsibility accounting, cost allocation, and management accounting reports. P—Minimum of C in ACC 111.

237. Taxes and Their Role in Business and Personal Decisions. (3h) Review of legal and accounting concepts associated with the federal taxation of income. Topics examined include the regular and alternative minimum tax models as well as gross income, capital gains, property transactions, deductions, and credits. P or C—ACC 211 or POI.

290. International Accounting. (3h) Experiential learning course that provides students with an opportunity to learn about international and transnational accounting standards, policies, and practices. Students participate in a study tour of several selected countries and gain an international accounting and business perspective through meetings with individuals in government, professional accounting firms, financial institutions, and manufacturing companies. Background readings and assignments appropriate to accounting or finance majors are required. Taught overseas in the summer. P—ACC 211 and POI.

351. Accounting Information Systems. (3h) Study of the design and operation of accounting systems including the revenue, expenditure, and administrative transaction cycles. Emphasis is on the necessary controls for reliable data. P—Admission to and enrollment in the MSA program, BEM 251 and a minimum of C in ACC 212; or POI.

352. Introduction to Auditing. (4h) Examination of basic auditing concepts and practices, and the auditor's professional responsibilities. Emphasis is on auditing standards and the auditing procedures commonly used in public accounting. P—Admission to and enrollment in the MSA program, minimum of C in ACC 212; C—ACC 351; or POI.

378. Individualized Reading and Research. (1h, 2h, 3h) Directed study in specialized areas of accountancy. P—POI.

391. Professional Accounting Internship. (3h) Professional accounting field work, under the direction of a faculty member, in a public accounting firm, corporate enterprise, or not-for-profit organization. Students gain relevant practical experience which builds on prior coursework and provides an experiential knowledge base for coursework in the fifth year. Students are expected to provide weekly reports and write a reflective paper on their internship experience. Pass/Fail. P—Admission to MSA program and POI.

392. Accounting Internship Reflection (3h). Students are expected to attend required meetings, provide weekly reports during the internship, and write a reflective paper on their internship experience. P—Admission to MSA program and POI; P or C—ACC 391.

Finance (FIN)

203. Applied Quantitative Analysis for Finance. (3h) Provides students the basic mathematical and statistical tools needed for the study of applied finance. Topics include multiple regression, analysis of residuals and F-tests; analysis of time-series data; risk, preference, and utility theory; stochastic processes; and applied optimization. P—BEM 201 and FIN 231 with a C or better; C—FIN 232; or POI.
231. Principles of Finance. (3h) Survey course examining the fundamentals of financial decision-making and includes topics such as the time value of money, security valuation (corporate debt and equity pricing), risk and return, financial statement analysis, capital budgeting, and the cost of capital. Financial decision-making is developed within the context of domestic and international institutions and markets. P—ACC 111. P or C—ECN 150.

232. Intermediate Finance. (3h) Required of all finance majors and is intended as preparation for upper level electives. Provides an examination of financial decision-making under uncertainty stressing practical applications of technology. Topics include yield curves and interest rate risk; the uses and risks of derivative securities; capital structure and the impact of leverage; statistical estimation of the cost of capital for the firm and its projects; financial statement forecasting (pro forma); and discounted cash flow valuation of the firm. Incorporates electronic spreadsheet applications (Excel) in problem solving, statistics, and financial modeling. P—BEM 201 and FIN 231 with C or better; C—FIN 203; or POI.

233. Equity Investments. (3h) The Equity Investments course exposes students to equity research, portfolio formation and analysis, equity security valuation, and stock selection for portfolio construction. The course uses accounting, fundamental analysis and a discounted cash flow framework to value equity securities. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better. May be taken as a co-requisite with FIN 203 and/or FIN 232 with POI.

234. International Finance. (3h) Examines the impact of international financial economics on markets and the management of both domestic and multinational firms. Emphasis is on institutional and environmental factors influencing trade, foreign exchange, and capital acquisition and allocation. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better; or POI.

235. Selected Topics in Finance. (3h) Identifies the most current topics and practices in the dynamic global financial industry and covers them in detail; may also explore a more narrower finance topic in depth. Focuses on the application of leading-edge concepts and ideas in the financial services and/or banking industries. A seminar approach requires active student participation in the identification, elaboration and discussion of course materials. Oral and written skills are emphasized. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better. May be taken as a co-requisite with FIN 203 and/or FIN 232 with POI.

237. Financial Markets and Institutions. (3h) Provides students with an understanding of the structure and functioning of U.S. and international financial markets. Topics covered in the class: banking theory, the roles of traditional and non-traditional financial intermediaries, the impact of securitization, international financial competition, financial system stability, and financial regulation. Although primarily targeted toward finance majors, the course is suitable for business and economics majors wishing to understand our financial system. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better; or POI.

331. Corporate Finance. (3h) Explores the practical application of corporate financial theory. The strategic financial decisions of firms are analyzed with regard to capital budgeting, capital structure, dividend policy, seasoned equity offerings, rights issues, the application of option theory to corporate finance strategy, and real options. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better; or POI.
332. Banking and Investment Banking. (3h) Examines corporate restructuring and how commercial and investment banks facilitate the transactions. Investigates the impact of strategic financial alterations on the performance of the firm's assets. Examines IPOs, mergers and acquisitions, divestitures, spin-offs, and capital acquisition. Focuses on the application of financial modeling and the use of discounted cash flow valuation to analyze managerial decisions under uncertainty. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better; or POI.

333. Advanced Finance. (3h) Focuses on maximizing the firm's market value in a dynamic environment by exploring the interplay between (1) its operating and strategic decisions, (2) the evaluation of the firm and its strategies by the investment community, and (3) the functioning of capital markets and economies within which the firm operates. The course integrates results from relevant research with the effective practice of financial management by business professionals. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better; or POI.

335. Financial Derivatives. (3h) Explores the pricing and uses of derivatives, the role of market participants, how market structures and practices facilitate risk transfer, and the uses of derivatives for hedging. Covers futures/forwards, options, and swaps, the three most important types of financial derivatives. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better; or POI.

336. Fixed Income and Financial Engineering. (3h) Provides an introduction to interest rate risk management, the nature of fixed income markets, the structure and underlying economic rationale for various structured products including collateralized debt obligations, and the role of financial engineering in fixed income markets and risk management. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better; or POI.

338. Real Estate Finance. (3h) Focuses on concepts and techniques used to value and finance income-producing property investments. Provides a critical perspective for making financial decisions about real estate. The nature of real estate risk at both the level of the individual project and the investment portfolio is considered. Case discussions encourage students to evaluate how economic characteristics of the property and the local market, motives of different actors, and institutional arrangements interact to shape decision-making in real estate. P—FIN 203 and FIN 232 with a C or better; or POI.

381. Individualized Reading and Research. (1h, 2h, 3h) Directed study in specialized areas of finance. P—POI.

The Undergraduate Bulletin is published by the Office of the Dean of the College, David B. Levy, and Karen McCormick bulletin editors, levy@wfu.edu, mccormk@wfu.edu

The information in this Undergraduate Bulletin applies to the academic year 2015-2016 and is accurate and current, to the extent possible, as of June 1, 2015. The University reserves the right to change programs of study, academic requirements, teaching staff, the calendar, and other matters described herein without prior notice, in accordance with established procedures.

Wake Forest University is committed to diversity, inclusion and the spirit of Pro Humanitate. In adherence with applicable laws and as provided by University policies, the University prohibits discrimination in its employment practices and its educational programs and activities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, genetic information, disability, and veteran status. Additionally, the University promotes the full realization of equal employment opportunity for women, minorities, persons with disabilities, and veterans through its affirmative action program.

Persons designated to handle inquiries regarding the University's non-discrimination policies are listed on page 12 of this Undergraduate Bulletin.

Inquiries concerning the application of anti-discrimination laws may be referred to the individuals listed on page 12 of this Undergraduate Bulletin or to the Office for Civil Rights, United States Department of Education. For further information on notice of non-discrimination, visit http://wdcrobcollp01.ed.gov/CFAPPS/OCR/contactus.cfm for the address and phone number of the U.S. Department of Education office that serves your area, or call 1.800.421.3481.
