

Scholarships and Loans

By regulation of the Board of Trustees, all financial aid must be approved by the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid.

The financial aid program comprises institutional, state, and federal scholarship, loan, and work funds. Aid applicants must be enrolled as undergraduates or accepted for admission. Full-time students are eligible to apply for institutional funds; other degree-seeking students are eligible to apply for federal funds. For institutional aid purposes, full-time enrollment is defined as twelve or more hours each semester. For federal aid purposes, the third and subsequent repetitions of previously-passed courses are excluded in the determination of enrollment level. A number of scholarships are based upon merit; need is a factor in the awarding of most aid. The annual calculation of need, and therefore the amount of an award, may vary from year to year.

Additional scholarship assistance not listed herein is offered to student athletes through the Department of Athletics and is governed by NCAA rules. The Committee may revoke institutional aid for unsatisfactory academic performance, for violation of University regulations including its honor code, or for violations of federal, state, or local laws. IRS Publication 970 describes the possible taxability of scholarship assistance.

Policy on Satisfactory Academic Progress for Financial Aid Eligibility

Evaluation of students' satisfactory academic progress for purposes of financial aid eligibility is made annually at the end of the second summer session to determine eligibility for the following academic year. Evaluation is also made upon students' readmittance or resumption of full or part-time status.

Institutional Financial Aid

The receipt of institutionally-controlled aid requires full-time enrollment (twelve or more semester hours) and a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.00 on work attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University. Institutional aid generally is not awarded for summer sessions. Institutional aid is not awarded beyond the eighth (fall or spring) semester; this limit is prorated for students admitted as transfer students. Students with the following transfer hours accepted for credit at Wake Forest University (for coursework completed prior to enrollment at Wake Forest University) have the corresponding remaining semesters of institutional aid eligibility: fewer than 12.5 hours: 8 semesters; at least 12.5 hours but fewer than 25 hours: 7 semesters; at least 25 hours but fewer than 40 hours: 6 semesters; at least 40 hours but fewer than 55 hours: 5 semesters; at least 55 hours but fewer than 71 hours: 4 semesters; at least 71 hours but fewer than 87 hours: 3 semesters; at least 87 hours but fewer than 103.5 hours: 2 semesters; at least 103.5 hours but fewer than 120 hours: 1 semester; 120 or more hours: 0 semesters. Certain institutional aid programs have higher academic and/or other requirements, which are communicated to recipients.

Federal Financial Aid

The Higher Education Act mandates that institutions of higher education establish minimum standards of satisfactory academic progress for students receiving federal aid. Wake Forest University makes these minimum standards applicable to all programs funded by the federal government. Certain federal aid programs have higher academic and/or other requirements, which are communicated to recipients. The minimum standards of satisfactory academic progress for federal aid also apply to certain state aid programs, including the Need Based Scholarship for North Carolina residents.

To maintain academic eligibility for federal financial aid, a student must:

Complete the requirements for a bachelor's degree within the maximum number of hours attempted of 180 (including transfer hours, but excluding advanced placement hours). During a semester in which a student drops courses, is granted continuous enrollment status or withdraws, the maximum number of hours attempted includes those hours attempted as of the earlier of (1) the withdrawal or granting of continuous enrollment status date, or (2) the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar).

Pass at least two-thirds of those hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University (including transfer hours, pass/fail courses, and hours attempted as a visiting or unclassified student). Incompletes count as hours attempted, unless from a non-credit course. Audited classes do not count as hours attempted. During a semester in which a student drops courses, is granted continuous enrollment status, or withdraws, hours attempted include those hours attempted as of the earlier of (1) the withdrawal or grant of continuous enrollment status date, or (2) the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar). For purposes of this policy, hours attempted also include all instances in which a course is repeated.

Maintain the following minimum cumulative Wake Forest University grade point average on all graded hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University (including incompletes from graded courses, but excluding pass/fail courses):

For graded hours attempted... a minimum cumulative GPA of fewer than 30	1.60

at least 30, fewer than 60	1.70
at least 60, fewer than 90	1.80
90 and above	1.90

The Wake Forest University grade point average calculation excludes pass/fail courses. In cases where a student repeats a course for which he or she has received a grade of C- or lower, the cumulative grade point average is calculated by considering the course as attempted only once, with the grade points assigned reflecting the highest grade received. However, this provision does not apply to any course for which the student has received the grade of F in consequence of an honor violation. During a semester in which a student drops courses, is granted continuous enrollment status, or withdraws, all graded hours attempted in the undergraduate schools of the University include those graded hours attempted as of the earlier of (1) the withdrawal or grant of continuous enrollment status start date, or (2) the last day to drop a course without penalty (as published in the academic calendar).

The policy of satisfactory academic progress applies only to the general eligibility for financial aid consideration. There are other federally-mandated requirements a student must meet to receive federal financial aid. For instance, certain federal loan programs also require either the passage of a period of time or the advancing of a grade level between annual maximum borrowing, regardless of general eligibility for aid. Other general student eligibility requirements for a student to receive federal financial aid are listed in Funding Your Education: The Guide to Federal Student Aid, a publication of the U.S. Department of Education.

Denial of aid under this policy may be appealed in writing to the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid and mailed to PO Box 7246, Winston-Salem, NC 27109-7246, or delivered to the Office of Student Financial Aid, Reynolda Hall Room 4. A student's request must include information regarding why the student failed to maintain satisfactory academic progress, and what factors have changed that would allow him/her to demonstrate satisfactory academic progress at the next evaluation. The Committee may grant a probationary reinstatement of one semester to any student, upon demonstration of extenuating circumstances documented in writing to the satisfaction of the Committee.

Examples of extenuating circumstances and appropriate documentation include, but are not necessarily limited to the following: injury or illness of the student or immediate family members—statement from physician that injury or illness interfered with opportunity for satisfactory progress; death in family—statement from student or minister; temporary or permanent disability—statement from physician.

During a probationary period, students are considered to be making satisfactory academic progress under this policy and may continue to receive aid. A determination of satisfactory academic progress for any period of enrollment after the probationary period is made, upon the student's written request, at the end of the probationary period. Reinstatement after probation can be made only after the student has received credit for the appropriate percentage of work attempted with the required grade point average. Any student determined ineligible for any academic year may request a special review at the end of one semester or summer term and may thereby be reinstated for part of the academic year. The student must request any such mid-year review in writing; otherwise only one determination of satisfactory academic progress will be made each academic year. Reinstatement cannot be made retroactive.

Federal Financial Aid Programs

The federal government, through the Department of Education, sponsors a number of aid programs for education. Among these programs are Federal Pell Grants; Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants; Teacher Education Assistance for College & Higher Education Grants; Federal Work-Study; Federal Perkins Loans; and William D. Ford Federal Direct Loans (including Federal Stafford Loans, both subsidized and unsubsidized, and PLUS Loans).

To receive assistance through these programs, a student must complete the necessary applications, meet basic eligibility requirements, and maintain satisfactory academic progress.

Federal aid programs are described more fully in the Wake Forest University brochure "Undergraduate Need-Based Aid Information," and in the federal publication Funding Your Education: The Guide to Federal Student Aid, available upon request from the student financial aid office.

Loans

The James W. Denmark Loan, established in 1875, assists qualified students.

The Friends of Wake Forest Loan assists needy students.

The Hutchins Student Loan assists needy students.

The Grover & Addy Raby Loan gives preference to applicants from the First Baptist Church of Tarboro, NC.

The Sidney G. Wallace Loan gives preference to students studying at a Wake Forest-sponsored or approved overseas program.

Other Aid Programs

Church Volunteer Scholarships of $200 per semester assist students wishing to mentor with a church near the Wake Forest campus. Application is made through the associate University chaplain.

Student employment is possible for part-time, on-campus and off-campus work, for a recommended maximum of twenty hours per week for full-time students. Summer employment may also be available. Interested students should contact the student financial aid office. Federal funding assists Wake Forest in its job location and development activities for students.

Veterans' education benefits are administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs in the Federal Building at 251 North Main Street in Winston-Salem. Records of progress are kept by Wake Forest University on veteran and non-veteran students alike. Progress records are furnished to the students, veterans, and non-veterans alike, at the end of each scheduled school term.

Outside Assistance

Wake Forest encourages students to apply for outside assistance for which they may be eligible. Students must advise the financial aid office if they receive any assistance from outside organizations, including any local, state, and national scholarship and loan programs. Outside scholarships count as student resources, becoming part of the package of financial aid, and do not replace or reduce the expected family contribution. When need calculated under the federal methodology (FM need) is greater than the offered aid package, outside scholarships are allowed to meet that difference. Once the offered aid package equals FM need, any portion of outside scholarship exceeding FM need generally results in an adjustment of need-based grant and self-help funds in equal portions. In no case may aid exceed the estimated cost of attendance.

Outside scholarship donors should include on the check the recipient's name and the term(s) for which the scholarship is intended. Checks should be payable to Wake Forest University (or co-payable to Wake Forest University and the student) and sent to the Office of Student Financial Aid, P.O. Box 7246, Winston-Salem, NC 27109-7246. Checks delivered by donors to the student should be forwarded to the aid office. By submitting, or allowing donors to submit, checks to Wake Forest, a student gives permission for Wake Forest to write the Wake Forest University student identification number on the face of the check.

Special Programs

Students in the college are encouraged to apply to special programs, both on and off campus, which complement their abilities and interests. These include the programs described below and the special degrees, minors, and concentrations described in the courses of instruction.

Honors Study

For highly qualified students, a series of interdisciplinary honors courses is described under the Courses of Instruction section of this bulletin.

For students especially talented in individual areas of study, most departments in the College offer special studies leading to graduation with honors in a particular discipline. The minimum requirement is a grade point average of 3.0 in all work and 3.3 (or higher in some areas) in the major. Other course, seminar, and research requirements are determined by each department.

Open Curriculum

For students with high motivation and strong academic preparation, the Open Curriculum provides the opportunity to follow a course of study planned within the framework of a liberal arts education but not necessarily fulfilling all core requirements for the degree. The Committee on Open Curriculum selects a limited number of students based on their previous record of achievement, high aspirations, ability in one or more areas of study, strength of self-expression, and other special talents. The course of study for the core requirements is designed by the student and his or her Open Curriculum adviser.

Study at Salem College

For full-time students in the fall and spring semesters, Wake Forest and Salem College share a program of exchange credits for courses taken at one institution because they are not offered in the curriculum of the other. An application for the Salem/Wake Forest Exchange Credit program must be approved by the academic adviser and the Office of Academic Advising or the dean of the Schools of Business. Except in courses of private instruction, there is no additional cost to the student. Grades and grade points earned at Salem College under the Exchange Credit program are evaluated as if they were earned at Wake Forest.

Courses that are in the Wake Forest curriculum generally cannot be taken at Salem through this program. In very unusual circumstances, a student may wish to seek assistance in appealing to the Committee on Academic Affairs.

International

Center for International Studies

The Center for International Studies (CIS) provides information on study abroad programs, international student and scholar services, the cross-cultural engagement program, and the international studies and global trade and commerce minors. A complete list of services offered by the CIS can be found at <http://cis.wfu.edu>

Study Abroad

Students interested in studying abroad should visit the CIS for assistance and program information. All students planning to study abroad on a Wake Forest or an Affiliate program (approved non-Wake Forest program) are required first to attend an information session and then to schedule an appointment with a study abroad advisor. All students must submit an online study abroad application. For more information visit <http://studyabroad.wfu.edu> and see the eligibility section of this Undergraduate Bulletin on page 32.

International Students and Scholars

International students and scholars can obtain information, support and assistance in the Center for International Studies.

Study Abroad in Wake Forest Programs

Austria (Vienna)

Students have the opportunity to study and live at the Flow House in the 19th District of Vienna (northwest section of the city). Each semester or summer session, a resident professor leads a group of up to sixteen students and offers two courses in his or her respective disciplines. Resident professors are chosen from a wide variety of academic departments. In addition, Viennese professors offer courses in the study of German language or literature, Austrian art and architecture, business, music, or history of Austria and Central Europe. Group excursions to Central Europe enhance the learning experience as well as numerous integrative experiences within the city itself. Prior study of German language is recommended but not required. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor David Levy, in the Department of Music.

Chile (Santiago)

Students have the opportunity to study and live in South America on the Southern Cone Program, which is offered during spring semester. Students begin the semester in Buenos Aires for three weeks taking a cultural immersion course at Universidad Torcuato di Tella and living in a homestay. Then they travel to Santiago, Chile, to spend the rest of the semester taking courses at Universidad Diego Portales. Each spring semester, a resident professor leads a group of students and offers two courses in his or her respective discipline. Resident professors are chosen from a variety of academic departments. Students experience the Chilean culture through homestays and excursions to locations such as Easter Island and San Pedro de Atacam. This program offers courses in English and Spanish. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Peter Siavelis, in the Department of Political Science.

England (Cambridge)

Wake Forest offers a semester program in Cambridge, England, in partnership with the Institute of Economic and Political Studies (INSTEP). The program emphasizes a close student to faculty teaching relationship with most classes taught in the seminar format with five to twelve students. In addition, intensive courses are offered for qualified students in the supervision format with one to four students (who meet course pre-requisites). Courses are taught by Cambridge University professors and provide a contemporary perspective on economics, business, politics, and international relations. Further information may be obtained from Jessica Francis in the Center for International Studies.

England (London)

Students have the opportunity to study and live at the Worrell House in the Hampstead District of London. Each semester or summer session, a resident professor leads a group of up to fourteen students and offers two courses in his or her respective discipline. Resident professors are chosen from a wide variety of academic departments. In addition, British professors offer courses in the study of art, history, and theatre of London and Great Britain. Group excursions to museums and theatre performances as well as surrounding cities enhance the learning experience as well as numerous integrative experiences within the city itself. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Kathy Smith, in the Department of Political Science.

Europe (multiple cities visited)

EuroTour is a guided tour of Europe offered over the first term of summer session. Students study the European community's physical, economic, social, and cultural environments. Cities typically visited include Amsterdam, Paris, Interlaken, Florence, Rome, Venice, Budapest, Prague, Krakow, Berlin, Copenhagen, and London. Generally three courses are offered with students choosing to enroll in one. All courses are divisional courses and require permission of instructor. Further information may be obtained from professor William Turkett in the Department of Computer Science.

France (Dijon)

Students have the opportunity to study and live in France. Each fall semester a resident professor leads a group of students and offers a course in French. In addition, students take courses at the University of Burgundy. Students experience the French culture through homestays and excursions to locations throughout France such as Paris, Provence, and Strasbourg. A major in French is not required, but FRH 319 or its equivalent or any French course above the intermediate level is required. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Sally Barbour, in the Department of Romance Languages.

India (Delhi)

This summer abroad program focuses on the ways in which Indian cultural practices have developed into a hybridized format with elements that sustain some of the traditional components of Indian culture that have been synthesized with global cultural trends. This course examines the issues of sustainability of the cultural ecology of a specific ancient cultural system. The program is based in Delhi, however there are excursions, including a trip to Ladakh in the Himalayan region of India, and to the "Golden Triangle" of India including the Taj Mahal. Further information may be obtained from professor Ananda Mitra in the Department of Communication.

Italy (Venice)

Students have the opportunity to study and live at Casa Artom situated along the Grand Canal in Venice. Each semester or summer session, a resident professor leads a group of twenty students and offers two courses in his or her respective discipline. Resident professors are chosen from a wide variety of academic departments. In addition, Venetian professors offer courses in the study of Italian language or literature, Italian art and architecture, and another course to help students integrate into the local culture. Group excursions throughout Venice and in surrounding cities enhance the learning experience as well as numerous integrative experiences within the city itself. Prior study of Italian language is required but permission of instructor is available. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Peter Kairoff, in the Department of Music.

Japan (Hirakata)

For students wishing to study in Japan, Wake Forest offers a fall and/or spring semester at Kansai Gaidai University. Located in Hirakata, Japan, Kansai Gaidai is located near three of Japan's most interesting cities—Kyoto, the capital of Japan for 1,200 years; Osaka, the largest commercial city; and Nara, the ancient capital of Japan during the 6th century. Courses in a variety of disciplines including business, economics, political science, religion, history, art, and communication are offered in English. Japanese language is offered at all levels. No prior knowledge of Japanese is required. Further information may be obtained from Jessica Francis in the Center for International Studies.

Peru (Cuzco)

This summer program is an in-depth, hands-on field course exposing students to the rich and varied ecosystems of the tropics, from absolute deserts to glaciers to tropical rain forests. Students travel through the spectrum of tropical ecosystems and are exposed to some of the wildest and most pristine areas left on the planet. The course combines lectures on the history, generation, maintenance, and future of tropical biodiversity with field projects on a variety of plant and animal topics, from conservation to tree diversity to primate behavior. Permission of the instructor is required. Further information may be obtained from professor Miles Silman in the Department of Biology.

Portugal (Rio Maior)

Students have the opportunity to study European prehistory with hands-on training in the methods that archeologists use to learn about the past. This summer course introduces students to archeological survey methods, mapping techniques, excavation procedures, artifact analysis, and laboratory conservation. It combines lectures and demonstrations with participation in ongoing archeological fieldwork. The Portuguese National Archeological Museum and other institutions will host lectures on special topics. Students will expose and restore mosaic floors from a newly discovered Roman villa near the historic center of Rio Maior and conduct a pioneering study of Islamic period storage silos. The course is taught in English, and students from all disciplines are welcome to apply. Further information may be obtained from professor Paul Thacker in the Department of Anthropology

Spain (Salamanca)

Students have the opportunity to study and live in Spain. Each semester a resident professor leads a group of students and offers a course in Spanish. In addition, students take courses at the University of Salamanca. As part of the University of Salamanca's special integrated program, students may take courses with Spanish students in the following disciplines: education, psychology, business, economics, biology, and anthropology. Students experience the Spanish culture through homestays, or dorms at the University of Salamanca and excursions to locations throughout Spain such as Granada, Madrid, and Seville. A major in Spanish is not required, but one course beyond SPN 212 or 213 is required. Further information may be obtained from the program director, professor Candela Gala, in the Department of Romance Languages.

Spain (Salamanca)—Internships

Students interested in experiencing the Spanish work environment are encouraged to apply for the Salamanca Summer Internship program. Internships are available during both summer sessions in a wide range of fields (medical, business, teaching, translation/interpretation) and may carry 1.5 or 3 hour credits. Students enroll in an internship course and have the option of taking a grammar course or literature course while in Salamanca. An orientation trip to places of cultural and historical interest is optional. Students live with Spanish families or in dorms at the University of Salamanca. Further information may be obtained from professor Candelas Gala in the Department of Romance Languages.

Additional Summer Programs

Each summer, the University offers a variety of summer study abroad courses led by Wake Forest faculty. There are many types of summer programs including language immersion, field research, specialized academic topics and internships. Wake Forest summer programs are offered throughout Europe, Africa, and Latin America. Detailed information on summer programs is available on the Center for International Studies website <http://studyabroad.wfu.edu>.

Study Abroad in Affiliate Programs

Students wishing to study abroad on an Affiliate program must visit the Center for International Studies for assistance and procedures. Affiliate programs are approved study abroad programs offered through program providers or other universities. The CIS maintains an online database of approved Affiliate programs at <http://studyabroad.wfu.edu>. In addition, the CIS has a collection of printed materials of approved programs. All students planning to study abroad are required to attend an information session. The CIS staff advises students regarding their program options. Students will not receive credit for participation on any unapproved study abroad program.

Course Approval Process. Once a student is accepted to a study abroad program, he or she must start the course approval process by scheduling an appointment with a study abroad advisor. In no case may a student undertake study abroad elsewhere without completing this process in advance to the satisfaction of the CIS, registrar's office, and the academic departments which oversee course credit approval. Students may not register for fewer than twelve hours or more than seventeen hours on a semester study abroad program without the permission of a dean. Department chairs approve specific courses and the number of credit hours earned for those courses.

Grades for approved courses on Affiliate study abroad programs will appear on the Wake Forest University transcript, but will NOT be calculated into the Wake Forest grade point average. (See section on transfer credit in this Undergraduate Bulletin.) Students must follow the drop/add policies of the host institution. If the program does not have any relevant policies, then the Wake Forest policy is applied. If a student withdraws from a study abroad program, he or she must notify the CIS and the registrar's office; the rules for withdrawal, as stated in this Undergraduate Bulletin, also apply. For more information, consult the CIS.

Students may request to have scholarship and financial aid applied toward Affiliate programs. Scholarships for study abroad are also available. Additional information is available in the CIS and the Office of Student Financial Aid.
